NEW LIFE COMING
Reprieve from the scraggy has been granted the S.S. Chaney in Baltimore where her owners had planned to dismantle the 61-year-old steamship. The ancient vessel established a reputation with passengers traveling her along the coast of Maine and up and down the Hudson River before she sprang a leak when transporting passengers from luxury liners to shore in Bermuda. Though thought too costly to repair, the Repley family of Baltimore has decided to salvage her much to the delight of sentimentalists.

High Temperatures Warm Fuel Report

WASHINGTON (AP) — As the bitter breath of deep winter nears, there is good news for residents of the nation's most populous areas who worry that unseasonable cold might deplete home heating supplies.

The National Weather Service forecasts a 60 per cent chance that temperatures on the East and West coasts will be above normal this year.

Only in the Great Plains and the Upper Mississippi Valley do the forecasters assign a 60 per cent chance that temperatures will be below normal.

Elsewhere, the weather experts are giving even odds — a 50-50 chance — that temperatures might be either higher or lower than normal.

At the Federal Energy Administration, where planners must ponder what long cold spells might do to energy reserves, there is more good news.

If the nation has a normal winter, there will be no shortages of petroleum distillates, those crude oil products that keep furnaces roaring, the energy administration says.

If temperatures drop below normal, what FEA analysts call their "high demand option," there might be a 2 per cent shortage of distillates. But slight increases in petroleum imports or minimal conservation could make up the difference.

For residual petroleum products, such as the oil burned by electrical generating plants, a normal winter might bring a one-half per cent shortage. But even with a severe winter only a 1 per cent shortage is expected.

These shortages also could be made up by adjustments in import or conservation measures.

For those who use natural gas to heat homes, there is little danger of shortages, even if temperatures are more severe than the National Weather Service predicts.

The first natural gas customers to lose service will be the utilities' large "interruptible" customers, such as industries that use gas in manufacturing processes.

Supplies to homes would be the last affected.

Gift Pets Big Headaches After Christmas Season

DENVER (AP) — The lovable puppies given as Christmas presents by thousands of Americans often turn into major headaches by New Year's Day, says the American Humane Association.

"Pets are frequently impulse gifts," said Mill Searle, director of the association's animal protective services. "But a gift pet cannot be quietly and politely disposed of later like a purple necktie."

Searle estimated that more than 250,000 pets will be given as gifts this Christmas and that 25,000 will be returned shortly after the first of the year. He said Christmas is the peak season for giving pets — puppies and kittens are the most popular — and business soars at pet shops and animal shelters.

But Searle said many gift-givers make hasty decisions without considering licenses, vaccinations or the care needed for a pet.

"The feeling is that Dad had a puppy when he was little. He wants his 3-year-old son to have one, even though the son isn't old enough yet to accept the responsibility," said Clifford Pike, director of the Colorado Humane Society.

"Then after the holidays, the children forget all about it and no one accepts the responsibility."

James P. Giomfriddo, assistant manager of the Denver Dumb Friends League animal shelter, said animal "adoption" have been running at a rate of about 50 a day this week. The average fee is about 15 adoptions per day.

"Every body wants to give his friend or his children a puppy for Christmas," Giomfriddo said. "The problem is that persons think it would be neat for the children to play with the puppy and learn responsibility. In many cases, it turns into a fiasco."

Public Water Supply Check Planned In Cancer Search

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — All public water supplies in Florida will be checked starting in January to determine if they contain any cancer-causing agents, state health officials say.

"There is no evidence of any such substance" in Florida drinking water, said Sidney A. Berkowitz, chief of the Sanitary Engineering Bureau. "And we don't expect to find any."

But Berkowitz added that early surveillance of all water supply systems in the state is necessary "because carcinogens may be present in Florida's water."

The checks were ordered as a result of Environmental Protection Agency tests that found cancer-causing agents in water supplies in New Orleans and Cincinnati, he said.

Nick Mastro, Berkowitz' assistant, explained that the state Health Department wanted to test Florida's 1,800 water supplies with the new technological equipment which allowed the EPA to find the impurities in New Orleans and Cincinnati.

The EPA also will check water in Jacksonville and Miami as it examines water supplies from various sources around the country, Mastro said.

New Orleans and Cincinnati both get their water from surface sources. Berkowitz said Florida cities with similar sources will be checked first.

B1 Bomber Takes Flight As Air Force Eyes Test

PALMDALE, Calif. (AP) — The B1 bomber has been flown for the first time, beginning a two-year period of tests which the Air Force will watch closely to determine if a fleet of test planes will be worth their soaring cost.

On its maiden flight Monday, the four-engine plane "reformed and responded exactly like we have seen in simulation," said test pilot Charles C. Bock Jr. "It is up to and equal to all the predictions made for it."

After taking off from Palmdale Airport, where the Rockwell International Assembly plant is located, the B1 stayed aloft for about an hour and 15 minutes. Then it landed at nearby Edwards Air Force Base, where it will be kept for further testing.

Bock, who was accompanied by a copilot and flight engineer, said there were no problems with the 1,400-mile-per-hour plane, "except for a few minor discrepancies that you would expect on any first flight."

The B1 reached only a purposefully low 210 m.p.h. during the flight. Its landing gear and flaps remained extended as the crew studied the plane's scheduled flying qualities.

The next test flight is scheduled for late January, and thereafter the plane will be taken up about three times a month.

'People Are Staying Home Sick'

Emergency Room Use Dips

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

While Seminole County's unemployment rate is skyrocketing — the latest figure available was 7.1 per cent, higher than the national average — the use of the two emergency room facilities in the county is decreasing.

"I think people are staying at home sick, trying to tough it out," Don Bradley, Florida Hospital North administrator, said today. "When persons are affluent the tendency is to take care of lesser ills faster."

Admitting emergency rooms bills are harder to collect than was the experience in the past, Bradley said the hospital in Altamonte Springs will continue to provide emergency care.

Seminole Memorial Hospital Administrator Robert Besserer

said use of the Sanford-based decrease to the lack of growth in the county during the past year, adding that persons who use the emergency room continue to do so.

Mrs. Abby Boyd, director of the Seminole County Welfare Department, and Mrs. Grace Richards, director of nurses for the Seminole County Health Department, say, however, they are directing the newly unemployed who turn up at their respective offices physically ill and in need of immediate medical care to the hospital emergency room.

"There is some money to take care of those who apply to us for service and if a person needs treatment we also have a fund for medicines. But this program is not as big as it used to be," she said.

Mrs. Boyd added that the county welfare cannot take care of anyone who needs hospitalization.

"We have no authority to place anyone in the hospital," she said.

Actually, at the Sanford office of the health department, where Dr. Barks holds a clinic on Thursdays, the doctor will handle some cases on a one-time basis. "But they cannot come back because the county unless approved by the county welfare," Mrs. Richards said.

Mrs. Boyd, who has worked in the county welfare office for 38 years, said today they'll miss his penny-pinching antics and fustled humor.

"I liked his Rochester," it was very, very good, and his talking about how he was 39 — I knew he was older than that," Mrs. Pearce McGill said. She was surprised to learn Benny, 50, died late last night.

"Benny's humor as a husband was built with a cast that included his wife and black comedian Eddie 'Rochester' Anderson, and piercing off-time squeaks from his violin became a radio and television fixture for the comedian.

New Source Of Money $50-Million School Fund Unused

By ED PRICKETT
Herald Staff Writer

A new source of money — a $50 million trust fund — for elementary and secondary education sits untapped in Tallahassee because officials haven't provided a way to dole out the money, an official said today.

The trust fund for education is expected to top $50 million this year, according to Marshall Harris, Gov. Reubin Askew's special assistant on education. Budget last year was $15.5 million.

The money is provided by a gross receipts tax on utilities — which has skyrocketed due to increasing costs of fuel.

The fund was established by the Legislature in 1971, earmarked for higher education in 1963 and extended by the voters to provide funds to elementary and secondary education this year.

Calling it a "real bonanza" for education, Seminole's

Assistant Superintendent in charge of finance, Roger Harris, said educators don't know how much money will be made available to county school boards.

"As of this moment, no guidelines have been established, and we don't know how much we qualify for," Harris said.

It will depend on the method the state chooses to dispense the funds. Funds generally are distributed on a percentage basis, or based on a county's need.

If the money is distributed on a percentage basis, Seminole would receive about three per cent of whatever amount is appropriated to elementary and secondary education.

Harris said Seminole ranks 11th or 12th in the state in the number of students attending school.

And if the county could show a "really crying need," Harris said perhaps even more money could be pried from Tallahassee.

But first officials must decide on a way to dole out the funds. "I think that's where the problem is, what they're concerned with in Tallahassee is how the money can be distributed in the most equitable way," Harris noted.

Harris said school boards may have to wait until the Legislature convenes next year before guidelines are drawn to distribute the money.

There is, also, a move afoot to change the law and establish a ceiling on the base to save utility companies and consumers from paying taxes on fuel costs.

Harris said the trust fund is the state's main source of construction money — of which state community colleges alone are seeking $187 million this year in capital outlay needs.

Harris agreed the only thing certain about the fund is that the law specifies it be used for capital outlay.

There's no place like home... and there's nobody in a better position to know that than Dr. and Mrs. James Zottnick.

This year alone they traveled 48,000 miles through 18 countries, mostly by Volkswagen camper.

It is the couple's third international jaunt (and longest) by camper and both conclude about America, "we've never had it so good."

"I always come home with a fresh appreciation of this country," says Dr. Zottnick, a former professor of education at Western College in LeMars, Iowa, and until last April, owner of Spring Hammock Mobile Home Park here.

"We complain as Americans," adds his wife Marjorie, "but we've never had it so good."

Both said they have vowed not to complain about inflation especially since their experience with prices abroad.

Gasoline is $1.50 to $2.00 a gallon in some countries, the rate of inflation as high as 25 per cent as in Japan, and a jar of instant coffee is 75 cents to $1 higher than here, according to the Zottnicks.

Their six-month sojourn abroad this year included traveling through the Far East via the historic "old spice route" traveled by Alexander the Great and Marco Polo that weaves through Turkey, Iran, Pakistan, Afghanistan and India. This facet of the trip took them over such scenes as the "desert of death" in Afghanistan, "much hotter and more desolate" than our own deserts, where the rocks "seemed melted" according to Dr. Zottnick and over borders where vehicles were often dismantled in drug searches, and travelers left to reassemble them.

On the one hand the Asians were amused that Americans were so disturbed over the Watergate events, Dr. Zottnick said, because they feel they are proud of the Americans.

Cancer Ends 'Miser' Benny's Life At '39'

By ED PRICKETT
Herald Staff Writer

Jack Benny, the make believe miser whose deadpan humor broke up three generations of American audiences, is dead of cancer, and Seminole County residents said today they'll miss his penny-pinching antics and fustled humor.

"I liked his Rochester," it was very, very good, and his talking about how he was 39 — I knew he was older than that," Mrs. Pearce McGill said. She was surprised to learn Benny, 50, died late last night.

"Benny's humor as a husband was built with a cast that included his wife and black comedian Eddie 'Rochester' Anderson, and piercing off-time squeaks from his violin became a radio and television fixture for the comedian.

Dr. Rex Kennamer, Benny's personal physician, said the cancer was inoperable. Feinstein said Benny died of cancer of the Pancreas.

Stomach pains troubled the comedian recently and discomfort forced him to cut short his last public appearance earlier this month. But tests failed to reveal the cancer until it showed up on X rays last Friday.

Benny's career began more than 60 years ago in vaudeville. Decades on radio, television and in motion pictures made him one of the nation's most beloved comics.

His tightwad image fostered a classic scenario — Benny befuddled by a bandit's demand for "Your money or your life."

"I'll be 64 next June — so you know I've been around," said his thinking: "I'm thinking!"

Polk Fines Deputy In Beating Probe

A Seminole County Sheriff's deputy was fined ten days pay and returned to road patrol duty today after accusations that he beat a prisoner were found to be unfounded, Sheriff John Polk said.

Polk said today that young Fisher was arrested by deputy Luke Stallworth, but that a "complete, thorough investigation and polygraph tests reveal conclusively that allegations as relates any beating by the officer are totally unfounded."

Polk said Stallworth, who was reassigned to jail duty during the probe, has been returned to patrol duty but penalized "with a loss of ten days pay" for an error in judgment.

When they need emergency help they should be able to get it," she said, adding her praise for Dr. Berkis who in her words "is as good as gold" and does everything he can for the people she tends to him.

Cover-Up 'Talkathon' Near End

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica wants the Watergate cover-up trial lawyers to complete their closing arguments so the jury can begin deliberating on a verdict Monday.

Sirica made that announcement on Thursday shortly after Jacob Stein, lawyer for Kenneth W. Parkinson, made his closing argument.

After Stein finishes today, Chief Prosecutor James F. Nease and Assistant Prosecutor Richard Ben-Veniste are to deliver the government rebuttal.

Lawyers for the other four defendants—former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, ex-White House aide H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman and former Assistant Atty. Gen. Robert C. Mariani—already have summed up their cases for the jury.

Sirica had been pushing the defense lawyers to finish on Thursday but then abruptly changed his mind and permitted Stein to finish his argument today.

Stein had protested earlier when Sirica said he wanted him to finish even if it meant going past 6 p.m. Trial sessions on most days have ended at 4:30 p.m. EST.

Under the new schedule, the jury will get the weekend off and hear Sirica's instructions on Monday.

The judge said he expects to devote about two hours to the instructions.

Then the nine women and three men who have listened to 11 weeks of testimony and argument will begin their deliberations in the historic case that drove Richard M. Nixon from the presidency.

The former president had been named an undisclosed conspirator in the case. But he was found to be innocent.

President Ford pardoned Nixon, making prosecution of the former president impossible. During the trial, the pardon was never mentioned in front of the jury until Thursday when William S. Frates, Ehrlichman's lawyer, made a veiled reference to it in his closing argument.

Frates mentioned a White House tape on Nixon saying that during his second term he would consider pardons for anyone convicted in Watergate prosecutions.

"Absolutely nothing illegal about that," said Frates. "Certain people do get pardoned in this country."

Thomas Green, Mariani's lawyer, said in his summation that Mariani's involvement in Watergate covered "35, maybe 40 days in his life in the summer of 1972."

Broken down by population, cities of more than 1 million showed the smallest increase, 8 per cent. Cities of less than 10,000 reported the largest overall increase, 24 per cent.

There was a slight decrease in the murder rate in the largest cities and in some medium sized cities.

By region, crime increased 20 per cent in the South, 15 per cent in North Central states, 14 per cent in Western states and 13 per cent in the Northeast.

Taken together, cities of more than 25,000 reported a 14 per cent increase. In suburbs, crime was up 21 per cent and in rural areas, 20 per cent.

Atty. Gen. William B. Saxe said the continuing crime increase "requires an intensification of our efforts to identify the causes, improve crime prevention and insure swift prosecution."

Crime rose only 1 per cent during the same period a year ago.

Then the spiral began, with the 16 per cent increase recorded for the last quarter of 1973 and a 15 per cent increase in the first quarter of 1974. The six-month figures for this year also showed a 16 per cent increase, as do the nine-month figures.

In keeping with the recent pattern, the new report showed that the largest increase for any of the seven crime categories measured by the FBI was 20 per cent.

Polk earlier said young Fisher was arrested late the night of Nov. 30 by Stallworth for disorderly conduct.

Fisher said his son was arrested on 13th Street in Sanford after a group of boys yuffed at a passing patrol car. All the boys fled, except Mitchell Fisher, who said he wasn't involved in the incident.

According to the youth, deputy Luke Stallworth admitted to him he was beaten.

Sanford police detectives were searching today for a safe containing important records and papers stolen from the First Methodist Church of Sanford.

Church officials discovered the safe was missing this morning from the church office at 419 S. Park Ave.

Officials said the 400-pound safe contained a small amount of money and a number of records and papers of value to the church.

Detective Tom Bernosky said preliminary investigation showed the church office was entered sometime between Tuesday night and this morning by smashing a window pane in a door.

Bernosky said officers believe the safe's weight required at least two persons to remove it.

Officers stated that John Lee Collins, 27, of 37 William Clark Court, Sanford, told officers that Williams shot at him Dec. 23 at Goldboro Bar on W. 13th Street after accusing him of taking $50. Collins wasn't injured, police said.

Robert L. Allen Jr., 35, of 1001 Esplanada Way, Casselberry, is in Seminole County Jail on a $5,000 bond after his arrest on a Michigan fugitive warrant charging the self-employed horse trainer with fraud.

Such assignments should be made in accordance with specific rules and regulations that should be enforced.

Casselberry In Red By $70,000

By ED PRICKETT
Herald Staff Writer

City budgets in Casselberry are running $70,000 in the red during the first three months of fiscal year 1974-75, City Manager Harry Hug said today.

Hug said deficits in the police and utility departments will be reviewed at a workshop meeting Jan. 20.

The budget for the utility department is off about $40,000 and red ink outweighs black ink by $30,000 according to Hug.

"What we're doing is modifying the budget to take care of any problem areas that we do have," Hug said.

"We have to eliminate approximately $40,000 worth of expenses in the utility department... we're still working on which ones."

"A proposed method of resolving the matter will be brought before council at the Jan. 20 work session," he added.

Utility Director John Lane said the deficit is a result of a sizable rate increase approved by council Oct. 1 which was budgeted for the entire year but fell short by two months.

"The rate increase was projected as of Oct. 1, but it didn't go into effect until a couple of months later. Naturally, our revenues will be short."

"I'd like to think we can find savings from capital expenditures rather than any place else," Lane said.

He said some items such as salaries, equipment and insurance, which money must be spent for, were not incorporated in the budget as expense items.

"Some shortages have been offset by not hiring personnel that were authorized in the budget. A sizable amount has been saved by not hiring," he said.

Hug did not have exact estimates of how much money had been trimmed to offset the error in accounting practices.

He said the county is required to designate a separate Land Planning Agency, and to come up with a comprehensive plan for their city by Oct. 1, 1977.

If the cities don't have a plan by then, the county commissioners can designate a special planning agency to provide one. If the cities don't accept the direction of that agency, then it will no longer be permitted to alter its municipal boundaries, until all terms of the act are completed.

Necessary data to be collected by the cities and the county include information on traffic zones, soil conditions, highways needs, local expenditures and revenues, and techniques of capital improvement programming.

The act, which became law Oct. 1 without the signature of Askew, provides for the implementation of comprehensive planning programs to guide and control future development. That development includes the control of land use.

Local Pollution Control officials feel that the delay of implementing federal air pollution standards governing indirect sources of pollution, will have little effect on county construction.

The new delayed federal rules will not apply, Adair said, if the state restrictions prove to be more strict.

There is no project presently planned in the county — major highway or shopping center, large sporting arena, etc. — that would be subject to the regulations anyway, Adair said.

Russell Train, federal Environmental Protection administrator earlier this week said he had postponed for six months the start of restrictions on indirect sources of air pollution.

Florida's complex air-control head Langley Adair said the delay would give congressional committees time to review the issue of indirect-source controls and other features of the 1970 Clean Air Act.

The EPA adopted the indirect-source regulation on Feb. 25. The adoption came under pressure of a federal court ruling that plans by states for achieving national clean-air standards must also make sure those standards, once attained, are not violated.

The regulations are aimed at preventing air-quality violations that might be caused by new facilities attracting large numbers of vehicles.

He said the delay would give congressional committees time to review the issue of indirect-source controls and other features of the 1970 Clean Air Act.

Polk Fines Deputy In Beating Probe

A Seminole County Sheriff's deputy was fined ten days pay and returned to road patrol duty today after accusations that he beat a prisoner were found to be unfounded, Sheriff John Polk said.

Polk said today that young Fisher was arrested by deputy Luke Stallworth, but that a "complete, thorough investigation and polygraph tests reveal conclusively that allegations as relates any beating by the officer are totally unfounded."

Polk said Stallworth, who was reassigned to jail duty during the probe, has been returned to patrol duty but penalized "with a loss of ten days pay" for an error in judgment.

Hospital Emergency Room Use Drops

When they need emergency help they should be able to get it," she said, adding her praise for Dr. Berkis who in her words "is as good as gold" and does everything he can for the people she tends to him.

Meanwhile, the numbers of persons applying for state welfare since August have increased some 34 per cent, according to Mrs. Virginia Hurt, of the state Division of Family Services, State Welfare Department.

Crime Rate Sets Record Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — New FBI figures show that the national crime rate rose 16 per cent in the first nine months of 1974, the largest increase for the period in six years.

The crime rate in smaller cities showed the largest increase.

The figures released today reflect an 8 per cent increase in the violent crimes of murder, rape, robbery and assault.

Broken down by population, cities of more than 1 million showed the smallest increase, 8 per cent. Cities of less than 10,000 reported the largest overall increase, 24 per cent.

There was a slight decrease in the murder rate in the largest cities and in some medium sized cities.

By region, crime increased 20 per cent in the South, 15 per cent in North Central states, 14 per cent in Western states and 13 per cent in the Northeast.

Taken together, cities of more than 25,000 reported a 14 per cent increase. In suburbs, crime was up 21 per cent and in rural areas, 20 per cent.

Atty. Gen. William B. Saxe said the continuing crime increase "requires an intensification of our efforts to identify the causes, improve crime prevention and insure swift prosecution."

Crime rose only 1 per cent during the same period a year ago.

Then the spiral began, with the 16 per cent increase recorded for the last quarter of 1973 and a 15 per cent increase in the first quarter of 1974. The six-month figures for this year also showed a 16 per cent increase, as do the nine-month figures.

In keeping with the recent pattern, the new report showed that the largest increase for any of the seven crime categories measured by the FBI was 20 per cent.

Polk earlier said young Fisher was arrested late the night of Nov. 30 by Stallworth for disorderly conduct.

Ford Plans CIA Charge Statement

VAIL, Colo. (AP)—President Ford says he probably will have something to say publicly today on an inch-thick official report on allegations that the Central Intelligence Agency engaged in domestic spying.

Ford made the comment Thursday night as he walked across a snowy backyard to a neighbor's house for dinner.

The report, prepared by CIA Director William E. Colby, was delivered to Ford earlier in the evening. He said he was studying the document.

The President on Monday ordered Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger to obtain a full report from Colby and relay it to him. Ford acted following publication of allegations that the CIA maintained files on 10,000 American citizens and had engaged in illegal domestic surveillance activities.

Before a government court arrived here with the Colby document, Ford told newsmen he might make it public. However, Press Secretary Ron Nessen later said he understood portions of it were classified.

On Ford's schedule for today was the first major business conference of his work and ski holiday that began Sunday. Members of the Energy Resources Council were summoned from Washington for a morning meeting that Nessen said would produce no final decisions.

The energy advisors are Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton, Treasury Secretary William E. Simon, Federal Energy Administrator Frank Zarb, chairman Alan Green, and Ford's assistant L. Williams Steidman.

Because of the energy meeting, Ford said he would be skipping today. He had been on the slopes five days in a row.

Burglars Take Safe From Church

By BOB LLOYD
Herald Staff Writer

Sanford police detectives were searching today for a safe containing important records and papers stolen from the First Methodist Church of Sanford.

Church officials discovered the safe was missing this morning from the church office at 419 S. Park Ave.

Officials said the 400-pound safe contained a small amount of money and a number of records and papers of value to the church.

Detective Tom Bernosky said preliminary investigation showed the church office was entered sometime between Tuesday night and this morning by smashing a window pane in a door.

Mills Reports No Memory Of Problems

WASHINGTON — From his hospital bed, Wilbur Mills has sent out word that he has experienced "blackouts" since his 1973 back operation, that he has "absolutely no memory" of his escapade on a Boston burlesque stage but that he is now beginning to feel like his old self.

Because he has been forbidden by his doctors from talking to newsmen, he asked a fellow patient at Bethesda Naval Hospital, Rep. Walter Jones, D-N.C., to deliver the message to us. Jones reported that Mills had been irrational when he entered the hospital. "Doctors have assured me that he was not responsible for some of his actions," said the North Carolina congressman.

This was confirmed by Speaker Carl Albert, who persuaded Mills to be hospitalized. Albert told us that Mills came to his office and babbled incoherently. "You're sick!" the Speaker interrupted him. Mills halted his rambling chatter. "I'm terribly sick," he agreed, in a sad, soft voice.

But the deposed House Ways and Means chairman is now recovering. "I am happy to report that he is rapidly coming out from the shadows into the sunshine."

Mills has discussed his fall from power, according to Jones, with no bitterness. He said he "relieved" to relinquish his powerful chair.

manship and may also give up his House seat. "He has not made a definite decision," said Jones.

Striptease dancer Annabel Battistella, the Argentine Firecracker who brought Mills front-page notoriety, has not been in touch with him at the hospital, reported Jones. But Mills' wife Polly spends several hours with him every day and takes his pajamas home for washing.

Mills used to tell his colleagues that his father always advised him: "You can't do a day's work if you stay out all night at parties."

For 35 years on Capitol Hill, Mills heeded his father's counsel. The congressman from Kentucky pieced together the story of Mills' fall from power. It began in July 1973, when a degenerative disc in his back began causing him excruciating pain. Surgery repaired the disc, but he never regained his health. Visitors in his Capitol office sometimes found him lying flat on his back, in pain.

He took painkilling drugs and began to drink. The mixture, apparently, was explosive. Sources close to Mills confided to us that he had a "Binge problem." When he started drinking, he said, he would lose control. This was one reason, they suggested, that he stayed away from cocktail parties.

Our sources say Mills' wife accompanied him to the striptease dive out of desperation, because she didn't know what else to do. Sometimes she intoxicated Mills would flirt with the performers in front of his wife.

It was clear to those who know Mills that he was not himself. His debased behavior was so uncharacteristic that they are convinced he was a very sick man. The doctors are now giving him tests to determine whether the back medication contributed to his breakdown.

Then, in the early hours of October 7, the Argentine Firecracker clawed Mills' face, bolted from the Mark IV Continental and splashed into the tidal basin. Washington has been buzzing ever since with the question: What has happened to Mills?

To find the answer, we have spoken to his closest associates, the doctors at the Washington striptease set. We have now carefully pieced together the story of Mills' fall from power. It began in July 1973, when a degenerative disc in his back began causing him excruciating pain. Surgery repaired the disc, but he never regained his health. Visitors in his Capitol office sometimes found him lying flat on his back, in pain.

Hersh Manages News Report

The hullabaloo over alleged "illegal" intelligence operations by the CIA within the United States offers commensurate political propaganda an almost matchless opportunity to watch our liberal media "manage" the news. To understand what is really going on, you must first learn the name of the game, and then the identity of some of the principal players.

Since at least the mid-1960s, leftist and liberal forces in the United States have, for a variety of sick reasons, been conducting a savage public attack on the nation's defensive institutions. One assault has been aimed at the Armed Forces through TV smear documentaries like "The Selling of the Pentagon," exaggerations of command responsibility for the My Lai massacre, etc. Another has been directed at the domestic police establishment (through attacks on the FBI and the National Guard), by caricaturing local cops as "pigs," and by condemning prison facilities).

A third front has recently been opened against the CIA, which is America's secret intelligence agency in the ongoing struggle against Communist aggression. At first it seemed that it might be possible to tie the CIA to Watergate, and destroy it along with Richard Nixon; but it soon became clear that the Agency had kept its skirts depressingly clean of involvement.

A second opportunity to wing the CIA came along, however, when the Chilean armed forces overthrew the Marxist regime of Salvador Allende last year. World-wide Communist propaganda promptly accused the CIA of being behind the coup. America's liberal media, stopping just short of that, charged the CIA instead with various supposedly nefarious efforts to "destabilize" the Allende regime.

Now we must get specific and name a few names. The chief journalistic point-man for the CIA hit is a "New York Times" reporter named Seymour Hersh. Hersh, a tall, bulky type with a personality to match, is exactly the kind of "reporter" conservatives are talking about when they object to liberal distortion of the news. Having cut his teeth on the war in Vietnam, Hersh was assigned to Washington and set about redesigning the U.S. government along lines more to his taste.

We are not permitted to know exactly how it happened, but certain secret testimony by CIA officials before a congressional committee, concerning CIA activities in Chile, found its way into the hands of ultra-liberal Democratic Congressman Michael Harrington of Massachusetts and thence to Hersh. Hersh splashed the story over the front page of the "Times" (which treated it as some sort of dreadful revelation), and various liberal echo-chambers took up the cry.

Now, it appears, newshound Hersh has found another tuffie. Some faceless liberal in the vast Washington bureaucracy has slipped him evidence that, during the later years of the Vietnam war, the CIA kept intelligence files on anti-war activists in the United States. Since the CIA is legally required to confine its activities to foreign countries and leave the U.S. to the FBI, Hersh calculates that Richard Helms, the CIA Director in those days who is now our Ambassador to Iran, can be accused of having conducted "illegal" activities.

RAY CROMLEY

Sen. Sam's Swan Song Bit Sloppy

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Whatever his past contributions, retiring Senator Sam J. Ervin, Jr., (D-N.C.) has done his country no service in the reform bill he has introduced as his last fling in Congress.

If Ervin were the constitutional authority his admirers proclaim, he would know that major sections of his "Watergate Reorganization and Reform Act of 1974" could not possibly stand up in a test before the Supreme Court.

For one, there's Ervin's cynical proposal that the president and vice president of the United States — and they only — be required to open their personal finances to public view. Ervin's colleagues in Congress recently turned thumbs down on a proposal that would have subjected senators, representatives and other officials to the same disclosure requirements. These include an annual statement of income and property taxes; the amount and source of each item of income; each item of expense; and the amount of each gift or aggregate of gifts totaling more than $100; fees or honorariums received for speeches, appearances or writing and the monetary value of subsistence, entertainment, travel and other facilities received in kind; a report on every asset and liability of $1,000 or more; any transaction in securities, commodities or other property greater than $1,000.

This obviously selective requirement could not possibly be regarded as equal treatment or protection under the law.

Ervin's omnibus proposal would create a public attorney appointed independently of the president, but confirmed by the Senate. This man or woman, subject to no White House control, would have authority over important resources of the executive branch and have apparent power to override the president himself in determining what he could investigate and what he could demand in men and services — subject only to challenge in the courts. This setup infringes on the separation of powers spelled out in the Constitution.

Aside from the constitutional difficulties, this is a bad provision. Bad, for one, because it would create a fourth branch of government with a power to meddle so great it could leave the presidency in a shambles. It would put such loose limits on the power of the public attorney and give him so much latitude in determining his own authority that he could virtually write his own rules.

Another provision of this strange bill would make it exceedingly difficult for a president to draw top men into the government. It would effectively bar presidential appointees, an important pool of party talent, from running for elective office for a year after leaving government. This is probably not what Ervin meant to accomplish. But the effect, nevertheless, is built into this sloppily-written measure.

This is not all. The Ervin bill states no person receiving grants, loans or subsidies totaling more than $5,000 in any year from funds appropriated by Congress may make a contribution that year to any person for "any political purpose." Each officer or director of a company receiving such payment is considered to have received the entire amount.

Press Views Are Changing

NEW YORK — "Nations are wading deeper and deeper into an ocean of boundless debt," observed Edmund Burke in 1793. "Public debts are likely in their excess to become the means of their subversion."

When Burke wrote those lines in his immortal "Reflections on the Revolution in France," the state of insolvency under the French monarchy had so subverted its rule that the Revolution of 1789 was the result. One factor that helped cripple France was its support of the American war for independence against England. We owe more to Louis XVI for the successful revolt from Britain than we do Lafayette.

Historians, however, cast the king of France in the role of villain and have played up Lafayette. As 1875 gets into gear the nation will actively begin celebrating Bicentennial dates that will climax in our national birthday in 1976. For example, April 19 will mark the 200th anniversary of the Battles of Lexington and Concord.

We will also mark in 1975 the 200th anniversary of the establishment of the first daily newspaper, The Pennsylvania Evening Post. Just as Louis XVI made possible a successful outcome of the war for independence, so were the newspapers in 1775 a major factor, largely controlled by advocates of American independence.

In an incident that tarnishes Sam Adams' reputation, his "Sons of Liberty" swept down in November, 1775, and smashed the New York Gazetteer published by pro-British printer Jimmy Rivington.

"The Gazetteer had been printing both sides of John Tebel." "It had carried patriot versions of events even when Rivington knew them to be untrue. . . . For them (the patriots) there was one truth, and that was their own."

In the past, the American press, broadcasting being a part, has rarely been an agent for the demolition of basic values of our society.

But in recent years influential segments of the press have assumed a role that is reminiscent of the part played by the press during the French Revolution that began in 1789 and by 1792 had degenerated into a bloodbath of terror and orgy at the guillotine. The French press of that period launched an all-out assault on existing values and institutions.

A couple columns back I had written of the plight of the women who try to get a job with the local post office. Little did I realize we already have a female in that department; a surprise shared by many as they go up to a window and find this woman ready and willing to serve their postal needs.

Christened Sue Davis I took down some notes on her half-foot over me; for which I thank her. "I am a regular reader of your column and the other evening you spoke of females working in the Post Office."

"My name is Sue Davis and I have worked in the Sanford Post Office two years as of March 12, 1974, having transferred here from Hialeah where I had worked six years with the Postal System. Sanford Post Office was a little reluctant to hire a woman clerk. However, I think I have convinced Mr. Bezwich and a few others that I am capable of handling any job."

"I am a little taller than average, six foot in fact, and weigh 185 — but, no parcel is too large for me; no job too big nor too small.

"Wasn't quite sure you knew we had a regular female clerk. I know by the surprise of the public when I work as a window clerk not too many are aware of it."

Thanks for setting me straight, Sue. And the next time I'm in there for some stamps (and you lowering a good half-foot over me) I'll remember to say "Thank you, Mam!" (Or whatever else you want me to call you. . .)

WORLD IN BRIEF

Egyptian State Funeral Held For Army Chief

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — The Egyptian government recalled the glory of the 1973 war today with a state funeral for the army commander-in-chief, Field Marshal Ahmed Ismail.

Crowds lined the streets as delegations from other Arab governments arrived for Egypt's first state funeral since the death of President Gamal Abdel Nasser in 1970. Television coverage was scheduled throughout the Arab world.

Ismail died of cancer Wednesday in London. He was 57 and was minister as well as commander of the army. His body was flown home to Cairo Wednesday night and was received with full military honors. President Anwar Sadat conferred the nation's highest decoration, the Collar of the Republic, on him posthumously.

Laos, Rebels In Talks

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — The Laotian coalition government said a delegation of Communists and rightists today to negotiate with rebel soldiers holding the border town of Ban Houei Sai, in northwest Laos. A spokesman for the Communist Pathet Lao denied a report that more than 300 Pathet Lao troops had moved into the town to support the rebels, but the Royal Lao Army intelligence chief insisted that Communist forces had moved into the town. About 100 Lao Theng tribesmen who were taken into the Royal Lao Army earlier this year seized the town on Tuesday.

Middle East: Vexing 1975 Problem

WASHINGTON (AP) — Around Christmas time many office doors at the State Department are decorated. The decoration on the office door of assistant secretary Alfred Atherton was unusual this year: it consisted of ten empty oil cans neatly strung on a silk ribbon.

Atherton is head of the bureau which handles U.S. affairs in the Middle East, and for the last two years the Middle East has meant two things: the Arab-Israeli dispute and oil.

There is little hope that it will be different in 1975. Oil might cease to be a political weapon if the Arab-Israeli dispute is solved peacefully. But the price of oil will remain an issue unless the industrialized world finds a substitute for it.

These are the melancholy conclusions of administration experts at year end. They all agree on the obvious: that the Middle East is a dangerous and volatile place. But, in line with Kissinger's wishes, they refuse to be pessimistic about the future.

The question boils down to this: will there be another war in the Middle East in 1975? If the answer is "yes," then there is a strong possibility of another oil embargo, possibly on a larger scale than in 1973.

Any future embargo could be larger because Iran might join the Arabs in withholding oil. This would be a heavy blow for Western Europe and Japan, which are dependent to a large extent on Iran's oil.

U.S. officials are reluctant to talk about the Middle East's future and they refer to Kissinger's statement at a Dec. 3 press conference that "this phase of Middle East diplomacy should be with a minimum of public declarations."

There is some suspicion that this plea for quiet diplomacy really means that there is nothing to be said because Kissinger's efforts have produced no dramatic long-term progress, though they may have prevented another war like that which occurred in 1973.

Scandals Upset Japanese Public

TOKYO (AP) — A Japan which once took financial hanky panky among its politicians somewhat for granted has suddenly become aroused over the cases of two men, unrelated, named Tanaka.

As a consequence, the Japanese public is being treated to the unusual spectacle of Cabinet ministers being grilled about the sources of their wealth and their ties to big business.

The more prominent of the Tanakas, Kakuei, 56, quit as prime minister early in December in a swirl of suspicion over how he accumulated his large private fortune.

A poor boy who clawed his way to the top, his vision of the future Japan encompassed the virtual renovation of its industrial and population structure.

His plans for moving people and factories from the teeming Pacific coast to more thinly settled inland areas won initial applause which quickly turned sour when they led to land speculation.

An advocate of expansion in an era of reduced growth ushered in by the Arab oil squeeze, Tanaka's once-high popularity swiftly plummeted. His response was to use money in extraordinary dollops in a vain effort to restore his image.

Though no major wrongdoing has been proven, public pressures forced him to step down in favor of Take Miki, 67.

As a reform-minded politician promising clean government, Miki has indicated he wishes to get at the truth of Tanaka's financial holdings. But the resignation placed some of Tanaka's critics and it is not all certain that anything further will emerge.

That time has come to push for a second-stage Israeli-Egyptian disengagement agreement. Kissinger is firmly convinced that there is no alternative to the step-by-step approach that deals separately with the many aspects of the Middle East headache. The Israelis agree, and so does President Anwar Sadat of Egypt, though the latter cannot afford to say so publicly.

BERRY'S WORLD

Maybe I was wrong — maybe sports does build character! I mean, I know it does — in fact, it builds GREAT character!

The Lord will fight for you, and you have only to be still. "The Lord said to Moses, 'Why do you cry to me? Tell the people of Israel to go forward.'" — Exodus 14:15.

"You can't sit on the lid of progress. If you do, you will be blown to pieces." — Henry Kaiser, American industrialist.

Around

A couple columns back I had written of the plight of the women who try to get a job with the local post office. Little did I realize we already have a female in that department; a surprise shared by many as they go up to a window and find this woman ready and willing to serve their postal needs.

Christened Sue Davis I took down some notes on her half-foot over me; for which I thank her. "I am a regular reader of your column and the other evening you spoke of females working in the Post Office."

"My name is Sue Davis and I have worked in the Sanford Post Office two years as of March 12, 1974, having transferred here from Hialeah where I had worked six years with the Postal System. Sanford Post Office was a little reluctant to hire a woman clerk. However, I think I have convinced Mr. Bezwich and a few others that I am capable of handling any job."

American Legion Post 53 Marks 50th Anniversary. ELEGANCE FOR NEW YEAR'S PARTY

Pastor's Corner

By REV. G. BLAIR McGARVEY Sanford Alliance Church

Where did Christmas go? Suddenly, the last present has been opened and all the anticipation and expectation is over. The examination of gayly wrapped Christmas packages and the speculation as to what they contain is no more. Now they are opened and their contents have been met with delight in some instances, disappointment in others.

Oh, yes, Christmas brings many disappointments. Perhaps this year more than any other recent year, there are quite a few disappointments. Jobless fathers and mothers cannot purchase the same amount of toys and other desired gifts that appeared under the Christmas tree in previous years.

Perhaps a young heart has been broken because a certain "someone" instead of a certain "somebody" is missing from the Christmas scene. All of these matters are revealed now that Christmas has passed. The Christmas spirit that is supposed to melt hard hearts and make the most spiteful of people loving and kind for a season, albeit a short season, is missing in some quarters already. Where did the Christmas Spirit go? Perhaps it gets thrown out with the trash with all the crumpled up wrappings and discarded ribbons. Perhaps the "Spirit of Christmas" disappears when a dried out, now unadorned, Christmas tree is cast into the fire. Or is it when the still green artificial tree is carefully disassembled and stored until next year?

It may even last until the last toy is broken or could it be that the Christmas spirit leaves quietly when the last battery runs down?

Already the signs of Christmas are fading as stores take down decorations and prepare for the new year, lawn sized nativity scenes are stored away and the grouchy neighbor returns to normal.

But though the Spirit of Christmas may fade, the Spirit of Christ remains. He brings lasting happiness and joy which remains when the season's activities have ceased. Season's greetings often possess no longer life than it takes to speak the words, but the Son's glory remains endlessly. If you have heard only "Christ Spirit" it surely fades when the season passes. But if you have been indwelt by the Spirit of Christ, the peace and joy that He brings need never pass away. Have you known the Spirit of Christmas, or the Spirit of Christ?

Churches To Pray In '75

Holy Cross

Holy Cross Episcopal Church will hold a New Year's Eve service beginning Tuesday at 11 p.m. with congregational singing followed by Holy Communion at 11:30 p.m.

Longwood Nazarene

The Longwood Church of the Nazarene will celebrate a Watch Night Service, on Tuesday, beginning at 8 p.m., until shortly after midnight. Singing, discussion, scripture reading, fellowship and refreshments will be enjoyed.

Ascension Lutheran

Rev. L. Lloyd Behken, president of the Florida-Georgia District, Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, will be guest speaker Sunday at the Ascension Lutheran Church on Overbrook Drive, Cassberry at the 8 and 10:30 a.m. services.

Littleford Assigned Church

The Rev. Osborne R. Littleford, M. Ed. D.D., is assigned Priest-in-Charge of the Church of the New Covenant (Episcopal), Winter Springs, effective Dec. 29. Fr. Littleford was ordained in St. Paul's Cathedral, London, Canada. He served two years in the Northern Canadian mission field before becoming rector of Christ Church, Albert Lea, Minn. He was appointed dean of the Cathedral of St. Mark, Minneapolis and served there five years. He served six years as rector of Christ Church, Wakegan, Ill., and seven years as rector of St. Luke's Cathedral, Orlando.

Methodists Plan Bishops' College

ORLANDO—Members of the United Methodist Church's College of Bishops in the nine-state Southeastern Jurisdiction will hold their winter meeting here Jan. 6-4. Plenary sessions will be held at the Hilton Inn South with resident Florida Bishop Joel D. McDavid, Lakeland, as host. He said the bishops and their wives also will attend a dinner meeting Jan. 7 at Orlando's First United Methodist Church, hosted by ministerial and lay officials of the denomination's Florida Conference.

More Aid To Poor And Fasting Urged

WASHINGTON (AP)—Roman Catholic bishops have called for major increases in United States aid to poor nations and for two days of fasting a week by this country's 48.5 million Catholics. "We also urge resistance to advertising and other forms of social pressure which promote affluent and wasteful eating habits," the bishops declared Thursday in a pastoral plan to help meet the world food crisis.

Fasting generally means eating only one full meal a day. "We urge the whole Catholic community—priests, religious and laity—to join with us in observing at least two days a week as days of fast," the bishops said.

The plan, drawn up by a committee headed by Terence C. and Anne C. Cooke of New York, asked the United States to act immediately to boost allocations of food to hungry areas.

New Year's Eve Event Benefits Camp Mohawk

A New Year's Eve show at Lyman High School auditorium from 8 p.m. to midnight will benefit a new project for youth being launched in Geneva—Camp Mohawk—a camp and home for homeless children. The event will feature music by the Calvary Choir of Winter Park, The Melody Three of Auburnville, The Pickering's of Orlando and Master of Ceremonies and soloist, Bill Long of Orlando. At 10:15 there will be a break for the food and fellowship with

Reconciliation Is Aim Of Holy Year

NEW YORK (AP)—A door is opened, a barrier breached. The intent was for antagonisms to be overcome and the separated to come together in friendship, with each other and with God.

That was the underlying theme and hope of a special 1975 Holy Year, launched by Roman Catholicism on Christmas Eve this week in Rome, with the opening in St. Peter's Basilica of a walk-up door. "I am the door," Jesus said, laying the basis for the ceremonial gesture. "If any one enters by me, he will be saved."

Opening of the special church door, kept sealed since the last observance of a Holy Year Jubilee a quarter-century ago, symbolizes full accessibility to humanity of Christ's pardon and grace.

Numerous Protestant and Catholic scholars have urged special efforts toward overcoming cleavages between denominations and rebuilding of unity.

To further that cause, the Rev. Avery Dulles, a noted Jesuit theologian of the Catholic University of America, suggests that the Church lift its condemnations of those who reject certain of its doctrines about the Virgin Mary.

Referring to Catholic dogmas of Mary's immaculate conception (birth without sin) and bodily assumption into heaven, he questioned whether these beliefs are so central that failure to assent to them was an adequate basis for excluding persons from the faith.

He says removing the anathemas about them would contribute to reconciliation with other Christians — one of the aims of the Holy Year. Protestants do not accept the two dogmas, defined by Catholicism in 1854 and 1950.

Pointing up links with Judaism, the Vatican has issued a booklet on the origins of the "holy year" in the ancient Jewish Year of Jubilee, prepared by Rabbi Marc H. Tanenbaum, of the American Jewish Committee.

In the ancient Jewish observance, set forth in the Book of Leviticus, debts were forgiven, land restored to its original owners and slaves freed. Pope Paul has appealed to governments to consider granting amnesty to prisoners, particularly political prisoners "who may have been caught up in political and social upheavals too immense for them to be held fully responsible."

LOS ANGELES, Ca. — The rains have come back to the Sahel countries of Africa, but the future still remains very much in doubt for some 10 million people. According to the president of an international relief agency, it will take a minimum of two or three years for these countries to recover.

"And that's only if the normal rainfall continues," stressed Dr. W. Stanley Mooneyham of World Vision International. "Meanwhile, millions of people are hanging on the edge of starvation and death."

Mooneyham has just returned home from a seven-week survey of famine areas in Asia, Africa and Latin America. No matter how far he travels, he said, one cannot become immune to the sight of thin-armed children with bloated stomachs suffering from severe malnutrition. He voiced some apprehension over the possible reaction in the U.S. to rain in Sahel.

"I'm concerned that some Americans may hear about these rains and think that the drought — and their responsibility to these people — is over," he said. "The conditions here were caused by five years of diminishing rains. It's going to take more than several weeks to restore the land."

Meanwhile, relief efforts must continue. In fact, he explained it is now time to provide the development funds which will help people in the Sahel nations become self-sufficient again.

"We have to help replace the livestock they lost by the thousands," he said. "They need seeds and equipment, and, of course, they still need food until a good crop can be harvested."

Seminole County Tournament Tonight

Evening Herald, Sanford, Fl. Friday, Dec. 27, 1974-18

SEMINOLE'S GRAY

OVIDEO'S GOLDEN

For the first time in the existence of the Seminole County Christmas Basketball Classic, all four entries this year are Seminole County teams.

With Lake Brantley now participating with a varsity schedule, the Patriots now become the fourth team in the county to participate in the annual tourney. The Patriots make their first appearance against host team Lyman in the second game, after at Lyman High School.

Although the Lyman Greyhounds are the host team, Rick Steinke's club is not one of the favorite teams in the tourney, the reason being, Lyman is currently 0-6 and has been struggling all season. But in a rival county tournament, upsets are possible and the Greyhounds second year coach stated, "this team will be there at the end."

The Lake Brantley Patriots under first coach Chris Butterworth, is making their first appearance in the annual tourney and although they have been victorious in but two games after four consecutive setbacks, the Patriots do present a problem to their opponents—they score a lot of points. Since Butterworth initiated the run and shoot tactics, the Patriots have hit the 70 or above figure in both winning and losing efforts.

Ray Bowling and Dan Gabriel lead the Patriots in scoring from their inside positions. The Oviedo Lions, under first year coach Dale Phillips have the stiffest test in the tournament as they must get by their favorite, Seminole in the first round. Being the third team in the four team field, which has a losing season, the Lions have managed two wins, but their recent loss to a good DeLand team in overtime has to be encouraging for Phillips.

The Lions have already taken the measure of Lyman earlier in the season. At this point in the season, Oviedo has been led in scoring by its 6-4 guard Glenn Patterson, who also leads in rebounding.

The favorite team in the two-day tourney has to be Seminole, with its experienced players as well as the tallest and naturally the best record at 5-1.

But one aspect on the liability side of the ledger, coach Joe Mills' club hasn't seen action in 10 days, since its Dec. 17 setback to Colonial.

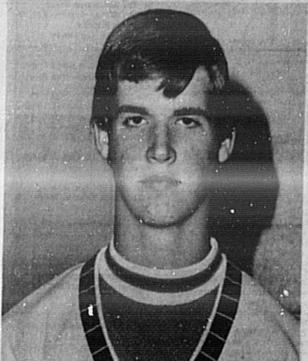

Although Seminole has played three Metro Conference games, it hasn't played against a Seminole County team and its meeting with Oviedo in the opener is the only scheduled between the two schools. It does play both Lyman and Lake Brantley later in the season.

Randy Brown, Fred Washington, and John Corso lead the Seminoles in the offensive departments, although substitute Mickey Pringle did lead the team in scoring with its loss to Colonial.

After the opening round tonight, the two losing teams play in the 7 p.m. consolation game Saturday, followed by the championship game at 8:45 p.m. Trophies will be awarded to the team champion, team runner-up, the Tourney Most Valuable Player as well as the five players picked as the All-Tourney team.

Mr. Bud Laver will toss the first ball for the Oviedo-Seminole Brantley game. Mr. Pat Telson will do the same in the Lyman-Lake Brantley game.

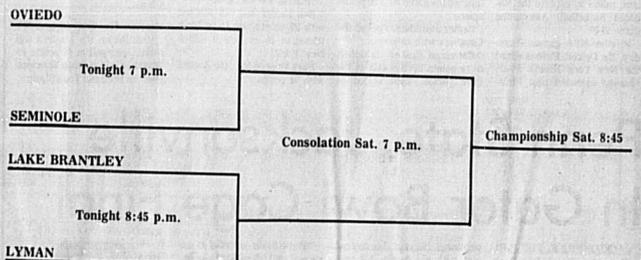

Officials assigned for the tournament are Powell, Pellittier, Stanef and Whalen.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Defending Champions

Cornell To Defend

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Defending champion Cornell and last year's runner-up Colgate meet in opening round tonight in the sixth annual Syracuse Invitational Hockey Tournament at the Onondaga County War Memorial Auditorium.

The Big Red defeated the Red Raiders 3-1 in last year's title game.

St. Lawrence, 1-5, squares off against Vermont, 4-7, in the tournament's opening game tonight at 6:30 p.m. Cornell, 4-11, and Colgate, 3-4, tangle at 9 p.m.

The winners meet for the championship at 9 p.m. Saturday. The opening-round losers meet in a consolation game at 6:30 p.m.

Rangers In Mexico

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP)—The Texas Rangers will play 30 spring exhibition games in 1975, none in their own American League park, the club says. Three of the games may be scheduled for Mexico City.

General Manager Dan O'Brien is negotiating to play games with the Mexico City Reds and the Mexico City Tigers in early March.

The Rangers will wrap up their exhibition season with three games against the Houston Astros in the Astrodome April 4, 5, and 6 before the season opener against Minnesota April 8 in Arlington Stadium.

Funer For Packer

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP)—A Saturday morning funeral mass was scheduled at St. Stephen Church for a 1922 Green Bay Packers' back, Arthur J. "Knocko" Gardella.

Gardella, 79, died Thursday on arrival at Worcester City Hospital.

A former Holy Cross football player, Gardella was also a retired ironworker. He leaves two sisters.

Coach Dies

NATCHITOCHEE, La. (AP)—Harry "Rags" Turpin, who compiled a 99-96-12 record in 23 seasons as head football coach at Northwestern State University, died Thursday night after a lengthy illness.

In 1939 his team posted an 11-0 mark and won the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association championship. Turpin, 71, was head coach at Northwestern from 1954 to 1965 and was a member of the Louisiana Sports Hall of Fame.

Who Will Win The Bowl Games?

Well, it's that time of year again when the local forecaster goes out on that shaky limb to pick the winners of the various major bowl games as well as the Super Bowl.

Since years truly came out on top in the 1974 Herald's Football Forecast, it's only fitting that we take a shot at the lineup of stellar games.

GATOR BOWL

Don't believe it but the University of Texas Longhorns are actually playing a football game outside of Texas, and what's more unbelievable, Darrell Royal's club is playing in a post season bowl game other than the Cotton Bowl, which has become a regular season game for the Longhorns in recent years.

Their opponent, the War Eagles of Auburn, the defense minded team until the Florida Gators unleashed their assortment of backs on them in November. After that loss, Auburn went on to down Mississippi St. and Georgia, then finished with its annual loss to Alabama.

The trip marks the second appearance for the War Eagles in the state and hopefully for Auburn's return trip back home will be a little more happy than the first.

We feel Auburn's defense will be able to stop Texas' non-throwing quarterback, as well as its bull like backs. Our pick AUBURN in a close one.

ORANGE BOWL

The last of the major bowl games on the tube pits Notre Dame against Alabama on New Year's night in Miami.

Unfortunately for Orange Bowl officials, this year's rematch of last year's so-called national championship in the Sugar Bowl doesn't quite generate last year's interest when both teams were undefeated and ranked one and two. As usual Alabama didn't disappoint the selectors, but the Irish from South Bend did, as it lost two games during the season, but its final loss to USC on national television took them off that ivory tower.

We're positive that most of the pre-game stories coming out of Miami will deal with the final game of Ara Parseghian and the human interest stuff will be hot and heavy of how Ara wants to bow out with a victory, but can he convince his charges. We don't think so, although the Crimson Tide is a recognized losing bowl team. Our pick — the good "ole boys" — ALABAMA.

Could be an interesting game with sentimental favorite Baylor, playing in its first Cotton Bowl, against that perennial Eastern power Penn. State. Sure glad the Nittany Lions have a good team every year so they can represent the "Yankees" in a bowl game.

It's a welcome change to see the Baylor Bears in a major bowl. At least the millions of TV viewers will now get the opportunity to see a different color uniform along with the old favorites this time of year, Alabama, Penn State, Nebraska, Ohio State, etc.

Joe Paterno's team had a bad year they're saying in the Northeast. They lost two games, but considering their schedule and since Penn State is probably the only team in the area which plays any semblance of big time football, two losses are bad.

Baylor has to be considered the comeback team not only in the Southwest Conference, but probably in the nation, as it finished from a 2-9 record in 1973, to the conference championship this year.

Since Penn State alternates in the three major bowls every year, it obviously possesses vast experience, therefore our pick is PENN STATE in spite of the enemy crowds.

ROSE BOWL
Maybe the two participants, Ohio State and USC, can begin scheduling each other during the year and bill it as the "mini" Rose Bowl, since the two teams face each other so often, with this year's meeting their third in four years. Could be the best game of the day as USC wants to settle last year's 42-21 thrashing by the Buckeyes, as Woody Hayes' team reversed a setback to the Trojans in 1973.

Both teams have lost once, but since its opening shocker to Arkansas, USC has been simply super, capping a successful season by humiliating Notre Dame in the season finale. Ohio State barely got by Michigan to win the trip to Pasadena and I bet broadcaster Curt Gowdy is elated also as he can now dwell for three hours on the comparison in running styles of Ohio State's Archie Griffin and USC's Anthony Davis.

Griffin was the recipient of this year's Heisman Trophy, and maybe Davis would like to prove the selectors wrong, it could be interesting. Our pick is USC, with its more potent offense.

SUGAR BOWL
The first of the major bowl games on the tube pits two non-league winners in Nebraska of the Big Eight and Florida of the SEC on New Year's Eve in New Orleans.

As we all know, the Cornhuskers don't belong in this game as mighty Oklahoma deserves the honor, by downing Nebraska during the year, but the Sooners are still on probation.

The Gators from Gainesville had the one big game against Auburn, and the Bows came knocking, as it turned out, too soon.

Florida proceeded to lose two consecutive games to Vanderbilt and Kentucky after its acceptance, but finished strong against Miami of Florida. But what the Sugar Bowl officials now have is a team with three losses and a stand-in for Oklahoma. Outside of loyal Gator and Cornhusker supporters, who really care about this one. Our pick is NEBRASKA.

SUPER BOWL
The Oakland Raiders against the Minnesota Vikings, with Oakland finally winning the big one, but don't ask why. Whatever happened to Pembroke Burrows III?

Both were upset victims in first-round tournament action Thursday night, 15th-ranked Purdue dropping a 69-66 decision to Florida State in the Holiday Classic at Louisville and 18th-rated Oklahoma suffering a 75-68 trouncing at the hands of Nebraska in the Big Eight tournament at Kansas City.

The only top ten team to play Thursday night was fourth-ranked Louisville, which had little trouble raising its record to 6-0, running away from Western Kentucky 107-81 in the other opening-round game of the Holiday Classic it is hosting.

Elsewhere, No. 11 South Carolina, No. 12 Providence, No. 16 Memphis State, No. 19 Oregon and No. 20 Rutgers all posted victories in first-round tournament action.

Clutch free throw shooting by Carlton Byrd and Wayne Smalls preserved Florida State's upset of 150-ranked Purdue in the opener of the second half, stretching a 49-43 halftime edge to as much as 30 points at one stage.

Kentucky stayed close to Louisville in the first half, but the strength of its fast break, which produced 10 layups. But Louisville asserted itself in the second half, stretching a 49-43 halftime edge to as much as 30 points at one stage.

Rollins, Stetson Set In T Bowl

ORLANDO—The Tangerine Bowl Basketball Tournament is counting down to the tip-off that will be the largest college basketball extravaganza in Central Florida this winter. Never before have four teams participated in the Holiday Tournament with a better combined record as this year's foursome. Rollins College, Stetson University, Central Michigan University and the University of Richmond have compiled an outstanding record of 17-4 in their first twenty-three games against no less than 11 powerhouse teams.

The Tournament will be held at Rollins College's Envyrd Field House in Winter Park tonight and tomorrow night. Friday's matchups will feature Stetson-CMU, 7:00 p.m., and Rollins-UR, 8:45 p.m. Saturday's consolation game starts at 7:00 p.m., and the Championship final at 8:45 p.m.

Central Michigan looks to be the strongest team in the two day affair having 87' 205 lb. senior Forward Dan Foundfield dominating both scoring and rebounding for the Chippewas. He was named to the MAC All-Star team last year and should be a sure candidate for the 1974 T-Bowl MVP award. Backing up Foundfield will be 6'3" senior Guard Mac McElroy who qualified with his 16.5 scoring average last year to be on the all-MAC second team. CMU's game is a running one and with their deep bench, they should keep the opposition on their toes. To date, CMU has knocked off Detroit and lost only one game, that to Michigan State.

The University of Richmond, runners-up to Furman in the Southern Conference last year lost their big man, Aron Stewart to a spring graduation. To take his place, Spider coach Carl Stone has moved Bob McCurdy, a 6'7" Forward to the Center position. He along with 6'7" Eric Gray at Forward will provide the scoring punch for UR. The spiders who play a controlled fast break type game have already met the likes of Maryland, Furman, Davidson and will bring a well-seasoned experienced squad to the T-Bowl Tourney.

Stetson University has been progressing steadily into the ranks of the top twenty teams in the nation on the heels of their upset of California-Berkeley, a squeaker loss to New Mexico, and dominating both scoring and rebounding for the Chippewas. The team was named to the MAC All-Star team last year and should be a sure candidate for the 1974 T-Bowl MVP award. Backing up Foundfield will be 6'3" senior Guard Mac McElroy who qualified with his 16.5 scoring average last year to be on the all-MAC second team. CMU's game is a running one and with their deep

Lakers Best, Cavaliers Worst

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer
Leave it to the Cleveland Coach Bill Fitch: he knows why his team lost — and without looking at the game films.

"We played a poor game of basketball for 12 minutes," Fitch said Thursday night. "At the same time, the Los Angeles Lakers were playing their best 12 minutes of basketball."

The Lakers jumped off to a 20-point advantage at halftime, then beat back several Cleveland rallies to capture the National Basketball Association game 99-80.

In other NBA games Thursday, the Detroit Pistons edged the New York Knicks 107-103; Chicago squeezed past Philadelphia 92-91.

LUCIUS ALLEN

Bulls 82, 76ers 91
A 25-foot jumper by Bob Love with 12 seconds showing on the clock gave Chicago its slim victory over the Philadelphia 76ers.

Billy Cunningham led the 76ers with 19 points while the Bulls scored 22 for Chicago. Love finished with 20.

Rockets 114, Hawks 85
The Houston Rockets, despite the apparent restraint of starting center Zaid Abdul-Aziz, used a 20-32 lead in the fourth period to run away from Atlanta.

Warriors 112, Trail Blazers 101
Rick Barry, the league's top scorer, pumped in 46 points to lead the Golden State Warriors over the Portland Trail Blazers.

Penn State, Jacksonville In Gator Bowl Cage Final

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Penn State Coach John Bach might use the ball control style he prefers when his Nittany Lions meet 16th-ranked Memphis State for the Gator Bowl basketball tournament championship tonight.

That's what Memphis State Coach Wayne Yates hopes won't happen after his heavily-favored Tigers (8-1) eked out a 71-65 victory over well-disciplined Temple Thursday night.

"Penn State worries us because we use the most trouble," Yates said. "And Meister is the biggest and quickest big man we've played."

Memphis State trailed eight but scrappy Temple by eighth point in the first half and never got full control, but managed to win when Bill Cook, who had 20 points, sank two free throws with eight seconds left. Tim Claxton had pulled Temple to within a point by scoring six points in the last minute. He paced the Owls with 19.

Lawyer Sues TV Network For Transmitting 'Idea'

By RICHARD K. SHULL
The Herald Staff Writer
Does a television network have a responsibility for the consequences of ideas it transmits on the public's air waves?

IT'S THAT TIME OF YEAR, FOLKS
Guy Lombardo will again be on the bandstand with his orchestra to ring in the new year when "New Year's Eve with Guy Lombardo" is presented Tuesday, Dec. 31 on CBS-TV.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, December 28, 1974
By CARROLL RICHTER
GENERAL TENDENCIES: Today's full moon finds the early part of the day good for handling routines. But in the afternoon problems could develop, leaving you general unfinished tasks.

Holiday Drinkers: Take Heed!

By MICK LOCHRIDGE
Herald Staff Writer
A new state law that goes into effect on New Year's Day will increase the chances that a person driving after celebrating with a few drinks will be arrested by officers of Seminole County's law enforcement agencies.

BASKETBALL BULLET
Paul Morris (30) of Stetson University appears to be doing a ballet on the basketball court in this recent action photo. The Hatters lost a heart-breaking 78-77 decision to Central Michigan on Friday night in the Tangerine Bowl Tournament at Rollins College. (Tournament details page 2B.)

Laugh-To-Laugh, There Was Only One Benny

By GLENN McCASLAND
Herald Staff Writer
The death of Jack Benny was a personal shock. Benny was like another member of the family to this reporter and the news that the master comic had died, a victim of cancer, left a pang of sorrow.

Cycles Could End Altamonte Springs Traffic Problems

By BILL BELLEVILLE
Herald Staff Writer
If the traffic congestion on SR 436 in Altamonte Springs is annoying to you, how do you think the police feel when they're trying to answer an emergency call during rush hour?

Inflation Driving People To Movies

By ED PRICKETT
Herald Staff Writer
Driven by inflation and other worries, Seminole County residents are packing movie theatres in record numbers for a chance to ogle their favorite movie star and get away from it all.

Many Challenges Face Area Governments

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer
Making time for creative government is viewed by new county Commissioner Harry Kwiatkowski as a major goal in county government in 1975.
