Knowles Proposal Excludes Seminole County Ousted In Sewer Vote

By MARK WEINBERG
Herald Staff Writer

With less than a quorum present, the Interim Regional Sewer Plant Committee Wednesday voted to remove Seminole County from proposed legislation to create a regional sewage treatment district, with a provision the county could join the district any time in the future.

Sanford City Manager W.E. Knowles, an interim committee member, made the motion to exclude the county. The motion was seconded by Nicholas Martucci, who represents Lake Mary on the Committee.

Seminole County Administrator Roger Neiswender was the only committee member present who voted against Knowles' motion. Voting in favor were Knowles, Martucci and chairman John Morris, a Sanford city commissioner.

If the committee passes the resolution at its next meeting, scheduled for 3 p.m. Monday at the Sanford City Hall, and if the meeting is attended by at least five of the committee's nine members, the sewer district would be composed only of Sanford and Lake Mary.

Neiswender said he did not know if the county commissioners want to withdraw from the planned district now. The commissioners might want to wait to see the final draft of state legislation to create the district, which will be prepared by the Seminole state legislative delegation, Neiswender said.

The county administrator said the county commissioners' main objections to the draft legislation were the provision for an elected board of directors for the district and provision allowing the district, during its first five years of existence, to levy general obligation bonds backed by an assessment of up to one mill subject to a referendum.

"The commissioners feel we should settle this now. Otherwise, we'll hit the wall in two or three years. We're kidding ourselves if we look at the one-mill assessment as a viable financing mechanism," Neiswender said.

The voters are sure to turn down an assessment, he said, and when the district's board would have to reconsider its financial plans, "a lack of coordination between the board and the governmental entities" would be certain to result.

Knowles said he had "very strong feelings about an elected board. They (board members) won't represent the governments. They will represent the people, to perform a function for them."

Knowles said the effect of his resolution would be that "we could proceed where the greatest need is, in the urbanized areas of Sanford and Lake Mary, delays in planning for a regional treatment facility would be eliminated and the county could join the district after the five-year deadline on initiating the one-mill assessment had passed "or any time the county wants."

Sanford City Attorney C. Vernon Mize Jr., who attended Wednesday's meeting, was instructed by the committee to prepare for Monday's meeting a draft of legislation establishing the regional district, but excluding the county.

At the March 23 meeting of the interim committee, the members representing Sanford and Lake Mary were able to reach agreement with county committee members on several issues:

The cost of electing district members would be paid by the district.

County members Neiswender and County Commissioner John Kimbrough relied on a provision in the legislation which would compel Seminole to join the "kin" system. "We won't insist on opposing this," Kimbrough said.

County citizens in the district's unincorporated areas would not be served by the regional system wouldn't be included in the one-mill assessment if the assessment were necessary.

Any costs of property appraisal required for the levy would be paid for by the district - not the county.

Commissioner French Passing Memo Sunday Booze Ban May End Soon

By ED PRICKEIT
Herald Staff Writer

A move to allow Sunday sales of alcohol in unincorporated areas of Seminole County is gaining momentum with the circulation of a memorandum among county commissioners recommending elimination of Sunday as a "dry day."

The memo was distributed Wednesday by Commissioner Bob French. French said the memo asks that Sunday sales of alcohol be permitted by ordinance.

Bistros and restaurants in unincorporated areas are allowed to sell booze Monday through Saturday, but county ordinance forbids the sale of alcohol on Sundays.

French said he does not expect the commission to act on his proposal for at least two weeks.

French wrote the memo after Asst. County Atty. Gary Siegel informed the commission the hours can legally be changed. It would require an amendment to the present ordinance, Siegel said.

Restaurant owners in the county have complained to the commission that it is unfair to force them to close on Sundays.

Customers, they say, are going over to nearby Orange County.

"The real issue is for fair distribution so they can sell products on the same basis as everybody else," French said.

"If beer and wine are going to be sold, everybody should have the opportunity," the Democratic commissioner added.

Commission Chairman Dick Williams said he "wouldn't be surprised" if the issue is brought before the commission "real soon."

Williams said he favors elimination of Sunday closings as long as the amended ordinance isn't written to benefit "honky tonks and juke joints."

Sunday sales of liquor during certain hours are legal in Casselberry and Altamonte Springs. Certain restrictions are placed on Sunday sales in Sanford, and in Longwood officials ban the sale of booze on Sunday.

In the county, stores aren't allowed to sell booze from 2 a.m. until 7 a.m. Monday through Saturday.

And, on Sunday, liquor sales halt at 2 a.m. until the following Monday at 7 a.m.

Casselberry's Mayor Claims Voter Support

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Casselberry Mayor Gerald Christensen, subject of the wrath of a majority of the citizens of the standing-room-only audience at a city council meeting Monday night, today claimed support of the voters of his community.

"Citizens dropped by my office Tuesday and Wednesday and all through the evening hours telling me to 'hang in there.' It has been very gratifying," Christensen said.

"It is nice to know that the people took their time to reassure me," the mayor said, adding that many who attended the Monday night meeting "were too afraid of the mob there to speak in my behalf."

Citizens, estimated to number 250 by Police Chief George Karcher Monday night, objected strenuously to the adoption by the majority of the referendum. But, it will be doing the city an injustice. Then Charlie (Glascok) and his crowd have always done an injustice to the city.

Glascok said today the appointment he had with Assistant State Attorney Joel Dick Wednesday was cancelled by the state attorney's office. He said he talked with a secretary in the office today and was told that the question of whether the majority of the city council has violated a city ordinance by taking no action to appoint a city manager is not "within the purview of the state attorney's office," according to Dick.

Glascok said he asked to talk to Dick personally and was told the assistant would call him later today.

"If he tells me that this matter is not within the jurisdiction of the state attorney's office, perhaps he will direct me to the proper state agency. If the state attorney refuses assistance or advice, where are the citizens to go?" Glascok asked.

Glascok said printed petitions, each carrying the full text of the proposed city ordinance repealing the full-time salaried mayor resolution and calling for the special election, were distributed to more than 40 workers shortly after noon Wednesday.

"I received an interim report this morning," Glascok said, adding that it appears that the required signatures of 10 per cent (about 500) of the city's registered voters may already be in hand.

"A few of the citizens that called me had the idea that the petitions were for recall. They are not," Glascok said. He said that petition circulators report that responses to the petitions has been very good and one circulator received 59 signatures within the first hour. "The citizens are taking this matter very seriously," he said.

Glascok said he has received no negative reports as yet.

He said the group will discuss later today whether to follow the original plan and turn in the petitions along with affidavits from circulators or to wait until Monday night's council meeting.

Whichever course is taken, Glascok said, additional signatures will be sought over the weekend. He said that printed petitions are sufficient in number for the signatures of 3,000 voters.

Glascok said in addition to those walking the streets of neighborhoods in the community with the petitions, volunteers on two-hour shifts are manning a table by the flagpole at the city hall parking lot for the convenience of those citizens who wish to sign the petition.

Sanford's immediate past city manager, Anthony Guiliano, resigned in mid-October, the city has received 76 applications for the city manager job.

Christensen said the applications were looked over by the council, but "we just don't need a city manager."

Christensen: 'Many afraid of the mob...'

Christensen: 'Where are the citizens to go?'

Glascok said he asked to talk to Dick personally and was told the assistant would call him later today.

Van Meter: 'Is our city to be ruled by mob action?'

Van Meter said today he has gotten some telephone calls and talked with citizens personally since the Monday night meeting and "most support the position I have taken."

He said those attending Monday night's meeting did not reflect the majority of Casselberry's citizens. He said the audience was composed mostly of "a few agitators, looters in past city elections and their followers who tried to intimidate the council with threats and cat-calls. "Is our City to be ruled by mob action?" Van Meter asked.

The chairman said many in the crowd were opposed to Christensen on a personality basis and many were the same people who actively campaigned against Christensen when he ran for office.

"They were the same old faces that pushed for the new city charter and are upset that they didn't get their way. In December they can try again," he said. "But, we have got to have a proper system of majority rather than mob rule."

Van Meter said if the group led by Glascok gets the required number of registered voters' signatures on petitions and Seminole Supervisor of Elections Camilla Bruce certifies the petitions, "we will have no choice but to put it on

Senate Improves On Hiring Plan

We hope the House of Representatives will accept the verdict of wiser heads in the Senate when it comes to providing tax incentives to stimulate employment. The Senate Finance Committee has undone some of the damage incurred when the House ventured into this complicated area of economic stimulus.

Rep. Al Ullman's Ways and Means Committee had scrapped the increase in the investment tax credit was the best way to encourage business and industry to make the commitments for expansion that create new jobs. Instead, it put the cart before the horse by devising a scheme that would amount to subsidizing the pay of new employees.

Mr. Ullman's conviction that this was a quicker, more direct way to stimulate hiring apparently blinded him to a host of catches in his bill. In an effort to favor small business, his bill would have left a majority of firms ineligible for the $1,680 tax credit it promised for each new worker hired. It would encourage substituting part-time for full-time workers, and work against the goal of increasing productivity.

Sen. Russell Long's Finance Committee has revised the bill to make this plan applicable to firms of any size and to scale back the tax credit to $1,050 per job, which would make it less costly to the government. More important, it has provided that employers can choose between the Ullman plan or an increased tax credit for investment in new plant and machinery.

7 'Filthy' Words

The Federal Communications Commission has been rebuffed in its effort to ban the use of seven "filthy words" on radio and television broadcasts.

A federal appeals court rejected the FCC ruling as a violation of the agency's duty to avoid censorship and emphasized — properly — that "we should continue to trust the broadcaster to exercise judgment, responsibility and sensitivity to the community's needs and tastes."

The language in question is indeed offensive, but preservation of the right of free speech makes it imperative that restraint be self-imposed by the industry, not the government. The seven words?

You won't find them listed here. This newspaper shares the responsibility that is the price of press freedom.

Tough On Tankers

A rash of oil tanker accidents this winter spurred the new tough policy proposed by President Carter to minimize oil pollution of U.S. waters.

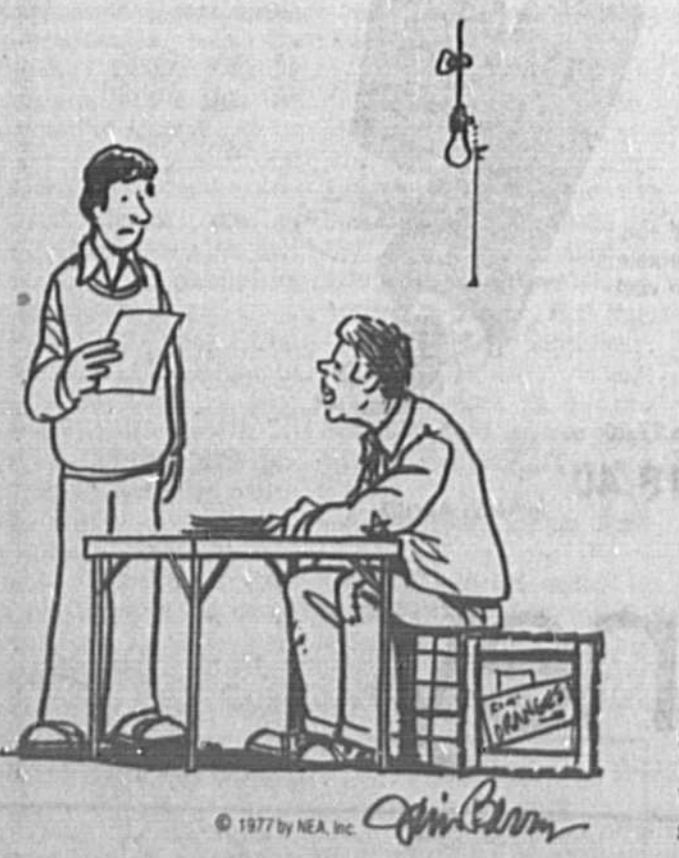

But such accidents have resulted in the discharge of only a half-billion gallons of oil worldwide since 1964. In the same period, more than two billion gallons have been spilled into seas and ports through sloppy operations.

So the ban on tankers with a history of accidents, while dramatizing American concern, may be of less importance in fighting oil pollution than U.S. ratification of international regulations conceived in a 1973 convention.

One requirement would be separate ballast tanks. Many ships take on water for ballast in the same tanks that have been emptied of oil. When the ballast is again discharged, it contaminates the surrounding seas.

Improved and stricter inspection of ships and crew practices could be the key to maintaining clean water standards. Congress should expedite the legislation essential to implementation of Mr. Carter's program and enforcement of the new rules should be swift and sure.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Here's a list of some things Cousin Hugh figures the White House can do without..."

Around

The Clock

By ED PRICKETT

Back up in the hills of Alabama, I once knew an old moonshiner by the name of Trick Sloan. I don't know why everybody called him Trick, but it's the only name he would answer to. Call him by any other name, and old Trick would ignore you.

Trick sold illegal liquor for a living. It was called moonshine, white lightning, panther sweat, rotgut and some other names editors always cut out when you write them into columns such as this one.

Trick lived in a "dry county." That means in St. Clair County, Ala., it was illegal to buy alcohol. There were no beer and liquor stores where you could knock his-her third. So St. Clair residents on weekends got in their cars and drove over to nearby Jefferson County. Or they went over to Trick's place and bought moonshine.

Here in unincorporated Seminole, it's dry on Sundays. So, people who want a beer, a glass of wine or some liquor drive over to one of the Seminole cities that is wet — that means you can buy booze on Sundays — and stock up. Well, that puts kind of a burden on restaurant owners, and others, in the unincorporated areas because they can't sell alcohol on Sundays.

In short, it hurts their business. And, since business is the business of America it only stands to reason that Seminole County should change its ordinance banning Sunday sales.

And, unless some real still opposition surfaces, that's what county commissioners plan to do. It's in the mill already. Commission Chairman Dick Williams favors some type of change as long as it doesn't favor "honky tonks." And Commissioner Bob French has sent a memorandum to fellow commissioners asking their opinion on an ordinance change to allow Sunday sales of alcohol in unincorporated areas.

That makes sense. I know that because I remember what Old Trick told me when I was barely old enough to toddle over to his backwoods cabin. Trick believed society has certain needs — needs that will be met — legally or illegally.

If a person wants a drink, he'll get one. If he can't get it in Seminole, he'll drive to Orange. That's just the way it is. Business is business.

No one hates the effect alcohol has on some people more than I do. My heart goes out to people who are trapped by strong drink and who believe they cannot live without it. Drunks have broken up more families than anything else. One of the saddest things in this world is to hear a young kid admit to his friends that his daddy is a "drunk."

But not selling it won't stop that. The U.S. tried that route during prohibition, which was without a doubt probably the dumbest era of our history. What prohibition did was drive liquor sales underground, and what that did was produce gangsters. Mobs made millions off prohibition by selling liquor in speakeasies. In essence, it was the birth of the mob regime, a regime, I might add, that is still very much with us today.

Trick was right. You can't legislate away a person's desire for alcohol. To try that is pure stupidity....

JOHN D. LOFTON, JR. Reversed Preference 'Immoral'

WASHINGTON — Forget about Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare Joe Callano's 63,000-year personal chef and his private bodyguard. These are flaps involving a lot of sound and fury but not signifying very much else really. I'm much more concerned about Mr. Callano's explicit endorsement of so-called "reverse discrimination."

In a recent appearance on the nationally televised news interview show, "Meet the Press," the HEW secretary declared: "I believe that, as a society, we have a constitutional, if you will, and moral obligation to encourage and give, if necessary, some preferential treatment to minorities. Otherwise, they will never be in the power leagues of doctors and scientists and nuclear physicists in this country, as they should be."

When moderator Bill Monroe asked the secretary about the rights of white people to be discriminated against because of their race or sex, he replied: "I don't think this involves the reverse discrimination, if you will, against the white male. I think he will have his full opportunity. I think that the white males who go to colleges, who are vast and overwhelming — the white males and females are the vast and overwhelming college population — will have a more enriched experience, and I think we have to recognize, as a society, that we have got to make up for a century of brutal discrimination."

Then you anticipate preference for some groups without discrimination to other groups. Moreover, looking up somewhat incredulously, Joe Callano said, that is correct. "I think we can have preferences, and I do not think it constitutes reverse discrimination in any constitutionally or legally offensive way."

But the HEW secretary speaks with a forked tongue, demonstrating, what George Orwell would have written in his "Politics and Language" that "if thought corrupts language, language can also corrupt thought."

Preferential treatment for minorities most certainly does constitute "reverse discrimination" and, as the old saying goes, two wrongs do not make a right. The idea of vesting the great-grandchildren on their descendants is neither moral nor is it constitutional, or even practical.

If racial discrimination is wrong — and it is — then it is wrong whether the race is being discriminated against or for.

As for Mr. Callano's assertion that "reverse discrimination" will give a white male or female seeking to enter college or her "full opportunity" to whites solely on the basis of their race or sex.

"Reverse discrimination" will in fact do the opposite. It will restrict and deny college education to whites solely on the basis of their race or sex.

Meanwhile, who wants doctors, or scientists, or nuclear physicists or anybody chosen because of their sex or race rather than their abilities, as they should be chosen? I sure don't.

"Reverse discrimination" is a concept that makes a mockery of the entire concept of equal justice under law.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Zaire: Reinforcements Called To Defend Mine

KINSHASA, Zaire (AP) — President Mobutu Sese Seko has rushed reinforcements to southern Zaire to defend the copper-mining center of Kolwezi while the Katangan invaders have paused, apparently consolidating their hold on about a third of Shaba province, informed sources say.

There was no government comment on the reports. Diplomats and other sources said the estimated 2,000 Katangans returning to their native Shaba province after 14 years exile in Angola had advanced to within 30 miles of Kolwezi, the center of the copper mines that earn 60 per cent of Zaire's export income.

Terrorists Face Israel Trial

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — The Israeli government has cracked open the door on its counter-terrorist operations abroad, then slammed it shut after a tantalizing glimpse. "Now it can be told... in part," said the headline in the Jerusalem Post Wednesday over the announcement that five suspected terrorists will be tried in Israel 15 months after they were captured while allegedly preparing to shoot down an Israeli airplane outside the country.

The authorities released only a few bits of information about the affair, but reporters learned that the attempt on the El Al plane was made at Nairobi, the capital of Kenya.

Spokesman Denies Story

OTTAWA, Canada (AP) — A television station's report that Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau and his wife, Margaret, have agreed to separate is "extremely unlikely," a spokesman for Trudeau's office said early today.

The prime minister's spokesman said if the report by Toronto station CFTO were true, "I'm sure I would know, and I don't know." He added that he was certain the office would have been advised if a separation was planned.

However, Trudeau's press secretary said he could not deny the report officially because he had not talked to the prime minister. Trudeau was reported at his official residence but unavailable for comment.

manager. It has been proven that that type of government doesn't work in Casselberry," he said.

Van Meter said he has gone through and reviewed the applications, but no interviews have been held with any of the applicants.

"I don't know whether other members of the council have gone through them," he said. "My personal feeling is that the voters by the citizens last December was that they didn't want a city manager form of government."

"If the council decided to hire a city manager and was able to find someone qualified and willing to take the job on a temporary basis, it would take three or four months for him to become acclimated to the city and more time would be lost," Van Meter said.

He said the city's other alternative was to hire the mayor as a full-time administrator. "Instead of a two-headed executive branch of government with no one in charge, we will now have one chief executive who is responsible. The employees know who's in charge and the council knows who to point the finger at," he said.

Glascow in making an appointment with assistant state attorney Dick Wednesday wished to discuss the possible violation of Charter 2, Article 2 of the city code which requires the appointment of a city manager. The code calls for a fine not exceeding $300 or 90 days imprisonment or both for violation."

Van Meter indicated that in any event the resolution is an interim measure until the December city election when a question will probably be included on the ballot of whether the people want a paid mayor or city manager form of government.

The resolution is to go into effect Friday.

Disaster Prober: Spanish Controllers Not At Fault

SANTA CRUZ DE TENERIFE, Canary Islands (AP) — The Spanish air controllers at the Santa Cruz airport followed proper procedure and gave instructions in correct English to the KLM and Pan American airlines that collided on the runway four days ago, one of the investigators seeking the cause of aviation's worst disaster reports.

The two controllers who were on duty Sunday were interviewed Wednesday by American and Dutch investigators. Authorities said the cockpit recorders from both of the Boeing 747 jumbo jets were being flown to Washington for analysis in the presence of KLM and Pan Am personnel who could identify the voices.

William R. Haley, the chief U.S. investigator, said the recorders should show all conversations among the flight crews and between the planes and the tower — the crucial minutes before the collision that killed 57 persons.

It was hoped that the tapes could answer two big questions about the crash — why the KLM pilot began his takeoff run without permission and whether he had been told about the crash — why the KLM pilot began his takeoff run.

The KLM pilot was Capt. Z.A. Vidulich van Zanten, 51, one of the airline's most experienced pilots, and KLM has said it was "completely illogical" to report he was taking off and about into his microphone.

But the chief Dutch investigator, Frans van Hejen, said the control tower's tape of its instructions showed Van Zanten did just that. Spanish officials said the tower's last instructions to the KLM pilot were: "Okay, stand by. I will call you for takeoff."

The Pan Am plane was still taxiing on the main runway to get into position for takeoff behind the KLM jet.

Van Hejen maintained that the Pan Am plane passed an exit called C3 at which it had been ordered to turn off onto a parallel taxiway and was proceeding in the presence of KLM and Pan Am personnel who could identify the voices.

Arizona Depicted As Drug Center

By The Associated Press
Published accounts of a series by a team of investigative reporters say that "Arizona is rapidly emerging as the single most concentrated corridor of narcotics smuggling from Mexico into the United States."

According to statistics provided by the Drug Enforcement Administration, 92 percent of the heroin imported into the United States in the first six months of 1976 was Mexican heroin.

Joseph "Joe Banana" Bonanno Sr., former head of the New York Mafia family that set up the original French Connection heroin smuggling route, has been seen recently meeting in Mexico with heroin suppliers.

Hazel Builds A Road

SEFFNER (AP) — Tired of shoveling out the mailman and calling low trucks, Hazel Orsley fought the county and state to get a road built. She has, so she's building it herself. The 59-year-old mother borrowed $600 and hired a contractor to haul donated fill to cover the 3 mile stretch of sandy access road on the edge of an orange grove. It serves five families who live across from the citrus field in this rural community outside Tampa. "It'll make it passable," Mrs. Orsley says. "Of course it won't be first class. But you've got to take things a step at a time."

(Don't) Color It Red!

POMPANO BEACH (AP) — To keep a $475,000 federal grant, this city is building a firehouse it doesn't need. And city officials are trying to decide what to do with it. One suggestion came from Vice Mayor William Alsdorf, who said the city could find a tenant to live in the firehouse — someone without children because "we don't want crayon marks on the walls." The problem began when the city applied for the federal grant while preparing to annex additional land. The annexation was postponed, but the city didn't want to give up the money. So officials decided to build the firehouse anyway. However, the city already has four station houses, and Fire Chief Eugene Hedges has warned the city commission that it would cost $250,000 to pay the 13 men needed to staff the building fulltime with one piece of equipment. "By the way, I don't have a piece of equipment for it, so we would have to scrape up another $50,000 for a fire truck," he added.

Plush Hotel Now In Receivership

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — The Fontainebleau, Miami Beach's landmark hotel, has been held in secret receivership since January. The Miami Herald reported today. The Herald said that Circuit Judge Dan Sartin named attorneys representing Fontainebleau owner Ben Novack and Roland International Corp. to operate the hotel. Sartin confirmed the report. Roland International had filed a foreclosure suit in January, claiming that Novack and two of his corporations owed $4.3 million in unpaid loans. The receivership action, taken later in January and formalized by court order March 14, marked the first time since 1954 that Novack has not been in direct control of the 1,200-room hotel — the resort city's largest. The Herald identified the temporary operators as Howard R. Scharlin, representing Roland, and Richard Marx, who represents Novack. "There was an effort by all parties in this case to avoid adverse publicity while seeking solutions to the hotel's financial problems," Sartin said. "I decided to make it formal March 14 because I wanted the arrangement to be directly under the court's control to solve some of the problems that arose," he said.

McFadden Bases-Loaded Triple Ignites Rally Cox, Poor Pace Altamonte Dodgers

Billy Cox and Johnny Poor combined for a two-hitter Wednesday night in the Altamonte Springs Little League, pacing the McDonalds Dodgers to a 15-4 victory over the Mason-Jardri Tigers.

Brian McFadden came up with the key hit for the Dodgers, a bases-loaded triple which helped drive home pitcher Johnny Carlson from the mound in the second inning.

The victory was significant for McDonalds in that it ran the team record to 5-2 and enabled it to remain in a tie with the Giants for first place.

The Glans, also with two losses, play the Royals in tonight's 5-5 game at the Altamonte Springs complex.

Steve Hutsell came up with the top performance for the week the day before as he hurled a no-hitter for Cobia Boats. In the no-hit performance, Hutsell fanned 18 consecutive batters.

Dekle Trips SCC

Eight was the magic number for Dekle's Golf in its Metro league game Wednesday night at Fort Mellon Park. Dekle's outclassed Seminole Community College Faculty 2-0, scoring eight runs in two innings of the four inning game.

Leading hitter for Dekle's was Joe Benton, who was 4-for-4, scoring three runs. Also helping out was Carl Lee and Donnie Anderson with three hits each.

Eldridge Standard continued winning ways, upsetting Seaboard Coastline, 18-4. Lay's Golf registered another win, defeating Auto Train, 17-8.

SCC Gals Win, 7-6

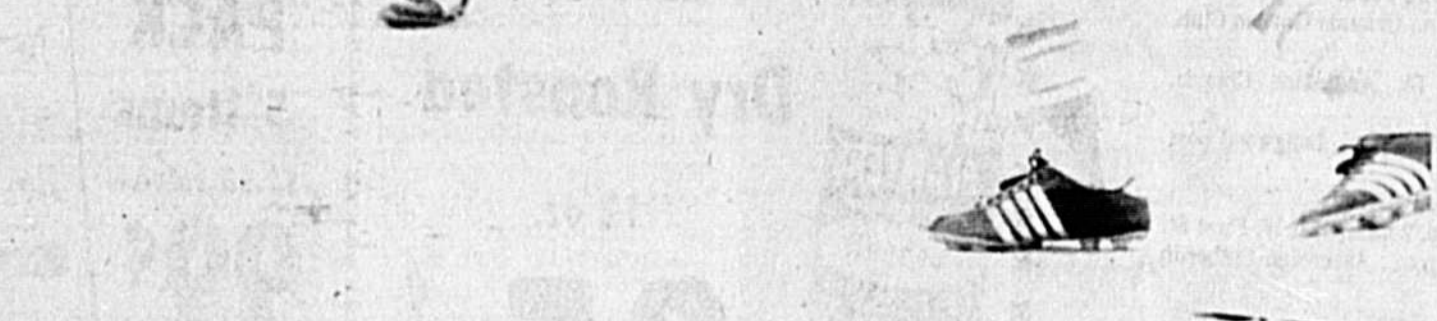

The Seminole Community College Lady Raiders softball team upset its winning streak to three games as it squeaked past Brevard, 7-6, in Ft. Lauderdale Wednesday afternoon.

Host Brevard led at the top of the fifth. Seminole had three up and three down on a fly ball to the BCC second baseman and a double play from pitcher Creedon to second base Martinez, to first base Schutte.

Then, the Raiders did their best. They had three runs from short stop Patty Pyle and third Mary McDonough, to first, Sandy Scherr.

Top of the seventh, first up teammate Bell, who walked. Pitcher Kathy Shannon also walked. A base hit by Equilla Shaw and a fumble by the short fielder brought Bell home and put the game in a tie.

COBIA'S STEVE HUTSELL READY TO RUN, ROBBIE SILBERSTEIN WAITS

'Nothing To Go Home To'

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — "There's nothing to go home to," Al Golberger said in discussing his decision to defend his title in the $235,000 Greater Greensboro Open Golf Tournament despite the death of his father in the crash of two jets in the Canary Islands.

"My mother passed away a couple of years ago," Golberger said. "There are no remains. We know she died. That's not the question. But his body hasn't been identified. So there's nothing at home, nothing to go home to."

"I discussed it with the minister at home, and other people who were close to my father approached me — Dave Stockton and Peter Oosterhuis. And I talked with my brothers (Ralph, in Washington, D.C., and Don, near San Jose, Calif.) and we talked about it."

"Once I faced the reality of the situation — there's nothing I can do right now — and I let it settle around in my mind, I was convinced this is the right thing to do. He was such an unselfish person, never making demands on anyone, and he loved golf so much. I think this would be the best tribute to my dad."

"I know how proud he was when I won this tournament last year. Every time I'd win a tournament, I'd take the hat I wore — we have the same hat size — I'd take that hat home to him. He wouldn't make a big deal out of it or anything, just walk around with that hat on and a funny little smile."

"There are so many things up in the air right now. All we can do is have a memorial service for him. And the minister and my brothers and everybody feel it would be better to wait a while until things settle down a little. They feel the best tribute I could make would be to continue playing. I'll probably play next week in the Masters, then go home and have a memorial service (in Santa Barbara, Calif.) the Tuesday after the Masters."

A single by Jackie Alexander deep into right field drove home Shannon for SCC's last run.

On BCC's last turn at bat, the fifth and out stepped Broadway Joe Namath — deeply tanned, sun glasses perched on top of his head, casual in blue jeans and a red sweater.

Joe reached over and gave her a damp check on the cheek. "Oh, Joe," the lady, her face beaming, gushed. "I never thought you would remember me."

The kid had on a sweatshirt with a big "33" on the front and back — the number worn by O.J. Simpson.

"You've got the wrong number, kid," Joe said. "What's your name?"

The boy told him, then asked for another autograph for his brother, Robbie, who was in school.

"Sure," said Namath, pleasantly, signing away.

The great man was 65 minutes late for the date to film a clothes commercial.

Secretaries had waited with anxious anticipation. The place was a beehive of activity — a score of people bustling around, setting up props, checking camera angles, focusing lights.

Joe, who had just flown into town from Miami where he had taped a cosmetics commercial the day before, was apologetic. Nobody was mad.

Namath moved professionally from makeup to the dressing room to the studio, pausing to talk to messengers, prop men and "guffers."

This was the other face of Joe Namath — perfectly at ease, brimming with charm, pleasant, accommodating, deferential. This was show business. Joe was in his element.

Then a news photographer and newsman came into view. There were pointed questions about his purported move to the Los Angeles Rams. Joe's jaw became a vice. His body stiffened. The door of communication slammed shut.

Another face of Joe Namath. Broadway Joe never has been comfortable around newsmen, even those he respects. He acts like a man who has been stung once and does not intend to be stung again. Suspicion is there, mistrust and, at times, flagrant dislike.

It is a mysterious contradiction in the makeup of a man whose quarterbacking genius is there for all to see but whose personal image, probably through his own fault, has been grossly distorted.

Everyone envisions him as a swinger — one of the Hollywood set, big on booze and broads, night crawler, frequenter of all the smart places with a gorgeous creature hanging on his arm.

It is an exaggerated picture. Namath is no little Lord Fauntleroy. As any 25-year-old bachelor, he is not immune to strong drink and pretty girls. But he is basically shy and inclined to be a loner. Friends say he is happiest when he has a fishing pole or a No. 3 wood in his hand.

He exuded an earthy kind of warmth which seems to project through the television screen — thus his success with that medium. He relates to kids and calls older men "Mr."

The Bulls won because Tom Henderson, acquired from Atlanta in a trade Jan. 20, scored 22 points, dealt out six assists and took up the slack after Robinson was ejected early in the second period.

The kid had on a sweatshirt with a big "33" on the front and back — the number worn by O.J. Simpson.

Boston Bruins defenseman Mike Milbury has scored two game-winning goals this season. One beat the powerful Montreal Canadiens, and the other beat the Buffalo Sabres.

Motta Can't Explain It, But Bulls Triumph Again

By The Associated Press
The Bulls won because Tom Henderson, acquired from Atlanta in a trade Jan. 20, scored 22 points, dealt out six assists and took up the slack after Robinson was ejected early in the second period.

Leonard Chenier, the player Washington swapped for Henderson, had a game-high 31 points and 12 rebounds for Atlanta.

Washington also pulled within 1 1/2 games of first-place Houston in the Central Division when the Rockets lost to the Seattle SuperSonics 111-103.

Elsewhere, the Philadelphia 76ers shaded the Detroit Pistons 115-112, the Boston Celtics cooled off Chicago 90-88 and the

Nothing To Go Home To

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — "There's nothing to go home to," Al Golberger said in discussing his decision to defend his title in the $235,000 Greater Greensboro Open Golf Tournament despite the death of his father in the crash of two jets in the Canary Islands.

"My mother passed away a couple of years ago," Golberger said. "There are no remains. We know she died. That's not the question. But his body hasn't been identified. So there's nothing at home, nothing to go home to."

"I discussed it with the minister at home, and other people who were close to my father approached me — Dave Stockton and Peter Oosterhuis. And I talked with my brothers (Ralph, in Washington, D.C., and Don, near San Jose, Calif.) and we talked about it."

"Once I faced the reality of the situation — there's nothing I can do right now — and I let it settle around in my mind, I was convinced this is the right thing to do. He was such an unselfish person, never making demands on anyone, and he loved golf so much. I think this would be the best tribute to my dad."

"I know how proud he was when I won this tournament last year. Every time I'd win a tournament, I'd take the hat I wore — we have the same hat size — I'd take that hat home to him. He wouldn't make a big deal out of it or anything, just walk around with that hat on and a funny little smile."

"There are so many things up in the air right now. All we can do is have a memorial service for him. And the minister and my brothers and everybody feel it would be better to wait a while until things settle down a little. They feel the best tribute I could make would be to continue playing. I'll probably play next week in the Masters, then go home and have a memorial service (in Santa Barbara, Calif.) the Tuesday after the Masters."

Two Faces Of Broadway Joe

Doris Dietrich Named Woman Of The Year WOMEN

By JEAN PATTESON
Women's Editor

Doris Dietrich is better known in Sanford circles as "Mrs. Ballet," according to Robert Deahn, Kiwanis Club program chairman who Wednesday presented Mrs. Dietrich with the 1977-78 Roberta Gatchel Woman of the Year award.

One of the original promoters of the Ballet Guild of Sanford-Seminole, Mrs. Dietrich estimates she devoted 1,200 volunteer hours last year to the performing arts in Seminole County, and to a variety of other club and civic activities.

A special triumph was the success of "River Gold," a dance drama created to commemorate the nation's bicentennial. Another was the enthusiastic reception given a play, "Petite Power," written and produced by Mrs. Dietrich for the Woman's Club of Sanford. As chairman of the club's Arts Department, she also initiated a signature quilt project in honor of Sanford's centennial this year.

A 20-year resident of Sanford, one of her first projects in the community was to help organize a Disabled American Veterans Auxiliary in 1960. Mrs. Dietrich has also been associated with the United Fund, Seminole Mutual Concert Association membership drives and Central Florida Zoo promotions.

role for women, he also gave her a free rein and every encouragement in her community involvements.

Mrs. Woodrow Clark, president of the Woman's Club of Sanford, made the winning nomination for the Woman of the Year award. Nominations were received from 10 other clubs.

The award has been made annually for eight years by the Kiwanis Club of Sanford in memory of Roberta Gatchel who for many years catered Kiwanis luncheons. She left an endowment to the club which is used in Kiwanis projects to help underprivileged children.

"To have known Mrs. Gatchel is to know how much this award means to all of us," said Deahn.

School Fights To Stay Open

'But What Is A Montessori?'

"But what is a Montessori?" has been the response to the announcement that the Montessori preschool in Sanford may be forced to close down after April 1 if more students are not registered for the 1977-78 school year.

The Montessori school was opened last June by Mrs. Gail Steele, owner and operator, in the Grace United Methodist Church building on Airport Boulevard. Enrollment averaged about 12 pupils, but that number has dropped in the past weeks as some parents have moved out of town, and others have lost jobs, according to Mrs. Steele.

In an effort to educate parents in the unique Montessori methods, Mrs. Steele invited interested persons to visit the school and observe the activities during the past two weeks. This has resulted in several new pupils for the school—but still not enough to keep it open next year. Mrs. Steele would also like to open a kindergarten class, if she can get the enrollment.

Her invitation to parents to visit the school between 9 a.m. and noon, weekdays, is still open. She may also be reached by phone after noon at 321-0773.

One of the parents who visited the school last week was Mrs. Sue White, a certified nursery through-sixth grade teacher. "I was impressed that the Montessori method gears the program to the child, rather than the child to the program. The child learns by doing," she observed, "instead of being told what to do. He learns through his own experiences and gets a sense of how to think and solve problems for himself. This is a necessary pre-requisite to language arts skills, creative thinking, math and writing."

Mrs. Mary Ellen Gardner, mother of a son at the school, explained that Montessori (named after the woman who developed the method) is based on a child's need for freedom within limits, and a carefully prepared environment which guarantees exposure to material and experience which develop intelligence as well as physical and psychological abilities.

The Montessori method is designed to take full advantage of the self-motivation and unique ability of young children to develop their own capabilities.

In a Montessori school, children are free to move about the classroom at will, to talk to other children, to work with any equipment whose purpose he understands, or to ask the teacher to introduce new materials to him. He is not free to disturb other children or to abuse the equipment.

For Personal Touch

Holiday Pretties Homemade For Easter Parade

The day after Herald columnist Doris Dietrich wrote about her trials and tribulations at the sewing machine, business all but ceased in at least one area fabric shop. But one had experience shouldn't discourage you for life, is the thinking of Martha Yancey, Sanford, who lists home sewing among her many hobbies.

To prove her point, Mrs. Yancey (right with window dresser's mannequin), put together a charming Easter ensemble for a four- or five-year-old girl. Total cost: less than $6. Total time: two hours.

"Just use a plain pattern and dress it up with pretty fabric and lacey trim," suggests the seamstress.

She estimates her garment would run $10 to $25 if bought off the rack. "Kids grow so fast, it's foolish to spend that kind of money on a dress."

Besides, says Mrs. Yancey, "making it yourself adds such a nice personal touch."

"And if Rosalynn Carter is sewing for Amy, I don't see why we can't do the same. It's the 'in' thing!"

Mrs. Yancey will be on hand every Monday at Milady's Fabrics, downtown Sanford, to offer handy tips to would-be sewers.

'Excessive Gratitude' Repays Fireman

DEAR ABBY: I'm 22 and John (not his real name) is 29. We've been dating steadily for two years.

John is a fireman paramedic, which brings me to my problem. About three months ago John's squad responded to a car accident in which a very pretty 26-year-old blonde was slightly injured. I'll call her Nancy.) Nancy wasn't seriously hurt, but she was hospitalized for 24 hours, and then released. John happened to be the paramedic who treated her at the scene of the accident, and since then Nancy can't do enough to repay him for "saving her life."

She found out his name and station and wrote him a thank you letter, which I thought was very nice. But she didn't stop there. She's been dropping in to visit him at the station, bringing little gifts. She even baked him a birthday cake!

I think she's carrying her gratitude a little too far, don't you?

DEAR ABBY: I have another one. "Or," "It's all for the best." Or, "It was a blessing."

In behalf of all of us who have lost children, I have this message:

We will never again see that child who was with us for such a brief time. He wasn't just "a baby." He was an individual—entirely different from any other child we may have in the future.

If my husband were to die, I doubt that anyone would say, "You'll have another one."

DEAR MOTHER: I do. And thanks for setting many of us straight.

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend who gave up cigarettes because his doctor said he had to. Now this friend smokes a pipe!

I hope you find this letter worthy of space in your column.

City's 'Superlatives' Aired At UDC Meet

The March meeting of the Norman de Vere Howard Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy (UDC) was held at the home of Mrs. M. R. Strickland with Mrs. W. B. Kirby as co-hostess. Mrs. Burch Cornelius, president, presided.

The meeting opened with the Pledge of Allegiance to the American Flag, Salute to the Confederate Flag and the Lord's Prayer, led by Mrs. Glenn Wimlish. Mrs. Judy Wimlish read a Southern poem entitled "The Master's Voice."

During business, the chapter agreed to continue subscriptions of the official magazine to four area schools.

Introduced by Mrs. Troy Ray Sr., program chairperson, Mrs. Robert J. Smith presented the program "Do You Know," and "Sanford's Superlatives," reflecting much research on her subjects.

She brought to the group many interesting facts, figures, "firsts," as well as photographs about Sanford which stimulated much talk and interest, many members having a particular person or historic place to talk about.

She revealed that Sanford was the largest inland city of the state in the 1870s and '80s, and that the first tourist house had 100 rooms, but only two baths!

In 1919, Sanford had the most cars per population in the state, and the Atlantic National Bank was named "skycraper of Lake Monroe" Sanford was the biggest citrus shipping center in the world at the turn of the century; in 1959 70 per cent of Sanford's population were railroad people. The city also has the only Swedish cemetery in the South.

Eighteen members and one visitor, Mrs. Charles C. Bray enjoyed a salad course served by the hostesses.

SHS Class Of '37 Schedules Reunion

The Seminole High School class of '37 will celebrate its 40th reunion May 28 at 6:30 p.m. at the Mayfair Country Club, Sanford. Graduates of the classes of '36 and '38 will also be invited to attend.

Cocktails with a cash bar will precede the steak dinner.

For more information, call Mrs. Charles C. Bray at 322-1173, or Nick Pfitz and his emcee will provide music for dancing.

Women Join Men Working In Mines

By JOHN KUGLIN

KELLOGG, Idaho (AP) — It takes Mary Miner an hour to get down to work.

She commutes on an underground railroad which she boards at the portal of the Bunker Hill Mine, one of the world's largest lead mines.

Once inside, she transfers to a "skip," a sled on steeply inclined rails, to reach her job more than half a mile under the surface.

"I'm just one of the boys," said Mrs. Miner, 35, the mother of eight children and one of six women who began toiling 18 months ago side by side with 200 men in the mine.

Because of tradition, superstition and perhaps a little male chauvinism, women haven't until now been allowed to work underground in North Idaho's Coeur d'Alene Mining District.

Despite superstition, there have been no cave-ins. The Bunker Hill Mine is still intact. "A few of the men don't like to work with women," said mine Supt. Harry Coughner. "But this isn't superstition. They probably wouldn't like to work with women on the surface, either. If there are any complaints, it is from the wives of some of the miners, and most of this is barroom talk."

Six women began their mining careers after they were transferred from jobs in the smelter near the mine, where they were exposed to high lead levels.

LEAVING HOME IS NO LAUGHING MATTER

But the Welcome Wagon hostess can make it easier to adjust to your new surroundings, and maybe put a smile on your face!

Mrs. Miner is the engineer on what salty miners call a "muzzor." It's a five-ton, battery-powered locomotive which hauls a string of 3½-ton ore cars. The other women operate motors and hoists used to transport ore, miners and equipment.

"There aren't that many women excited about working down there," said Coughner. "Sometimes the motor operators have to lift heavy timbers. A great deal of physical strength is required." Humidity in the big lead, silver and zinc mine is nearly 100 per cent.

Ann Scott, 36, a grandmother and mother of six children, was operating an underground hoist before she took a leave of absence.

"Some of the men figured a woman would run a hoist the way she drives a car," sighed Mrs. Scott. But the attitude didn't last.

Karla Rose, 22, the youngest woman miner, enjoys operating a motor, but doesn't like to get her face dirty. Miss Rose, whose hobby is barrel racing in rodeos, plans to continue working underground "until I retire or get married, whichever comes first."

She was recently given a raise — 200 feet up to a higher level in the mine.
