Foreign Policy Fight Rapped By President

NEW YORK (AP) — President Ford, sharply criticizing Congress for dangerous meddling in foreign policy, called for an end to partisan politics "that threaten to bring our successful progress to a standstill." Ford charged that Congress had jeopardized negotiations on Soviet trade, the Turkish-Cyprus negotiations and oil policy by its restrictive amendments. The President spoke Thursday night at a Republican fund-raising salute to Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Camper Suit To Jury

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — A U.S. District Court jury was to resume deliberations today on the fate of six law enforcement officers accused in a $2 million dollar lawsuit of violating the civil rights of several Florida youths. The case, which grew out of a raid in which a Florida youth was killed, went to the jury Thursday. But Judge Woodrow W. Jones allowed jurors to go home for the night after about two hours of deliberation without reaching a verdict.

Stanley W. Alland, 20, of Clearwater, Fla., was killed by a shotgun blast during the raid. The Florida youths said the blast was from the sheriff's weapon. The sheriff contended the youth was shot when his chief deputy's weapon accidentally discharged.

Judge Denies New Trials

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica today denied requests for new trials from the four men convicted in the Watergate burglary trial. Sentencing for the former high-ranking aides to former President Nixon was set for Feb. 21. Former City, Gen. John N. Mitchell, White House aides John D. Ehrlichman and H. R. Haldeman, and ex-Nixon reelection official Robert C. Marlow were convicted Nov. 17. A fifth man, Kenneth W. Parkinson, a lawyer for the 1972 Nixon reelection committee, was acquitted in the three-month long trial.

Hills Faces Struggle

WASHINGTON (AP) — Confirmation of Carla A. Hills as secretary of Housing and Urban Development appears to face the biggest struggle of any of President Ford's four cabinet nominees. "The real stumbling block remains her total lack of experience in housing," said Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis. Proxmire, spokesman for cities, mayors and homebuilders groups expressed the same criticism after President Ford nominated Mrs. Hills on Thursday. Proxmire, chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, said her confirmation would be easier to predict if she promises she would fight for government-assisted housing and that the administration would push the program.

Soviets Cut Jewish List

WASHINGTON (AP) — The number of Jews allowed out of the Soviet Union fell by more than 40 percent in 1974 and signs indicate Moscow will cut the flow even more this year. Only 1,250 Jews managed to leave Russia in January, the same month in which Moscow repudiated the trade agreement with the United States, citing congressional demands for easier emigration standards.

Jury Gets Abortion Case

BOSTON (AP) — The case of Dr. Kenneth C. Edelin, charged with manslaughter in the death of a fetus he aborted, was expected to go to the jury today after six weeks of testimony. Edelin, 36, a Boston City Hospital obstetrician, was charged in the death of a 20-to-24-week-old fetus in an abortion he performed on a 17-year-old girl at the hospital on Oct. 3, 1973.

Idaho Gets Seaport

LEWISTON, Idaho (AP) — Land-locked Idaho will get its first seaport Saturday when the gates are lowered on the Snake River's newest dam and the West's longest navigable inland waterway is created. The final link of the waterway opens with completion of the Lower Granite Dam and lock system at Wawawai, Wash., a project that has taken 10 years and $344 million.

Sheriff Finds No Room At 'Inn'

Sheriff John Polk today said he faces an overcrowding crisis this weekend at the county jail which there are a number of arrests by law enforcement agencies. Polk said that he is presently housing 96 inmates in a space designed for a capacity of 77. Five female prisoners are being held in the Orange county jail. Seminole County Commissioners, stimulated by a plea to them from Polk this week, said they will attempt to review the proposed contract for the use of the "130" building at the Sanford Airport, in order to house minimum security overflow prisoners.

The contract, still in the works, would allow the county to use the three-story brick former Navy barracks for jail overflow, and for various county offices. Commissioners in the past have discussed leasing various county offices in the 310 building once the contract is finalized, but so far, no commitments to individual departments in the overcrowded courthouse have been made. Talk has also centered around relocating the county Utility Control Offices and the Department of Pollution Control (DPC) in the old Food Stamp building. But, DPC officials have indicated a need for a lab facility, which could be located in the 310 structure. Tentative discussion would have jail overflow prisoners — weekenders, work release,

Though Laver staunchly defends his proposal to turn Rosenwald into a center for handicapped children, the school superintendent disagrees with the board's decision to shift the students to Casselberry. He had proposed they be moved to Lake Orienta Elementary, a new school presently under construction. But a concerted effort by parents in the Lake Orienta area headed off Laver's proposal and substituted their own plan which ultimately was adopted. During the tense meeting, School Board Chairman R. # Utilities Reduce Monthly Output

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's factories, mines and utilities reduced their output by 3.6 per cent last month, the worst such showing since the Depression era, government figures show. Industrial-output statistics released Thursday by the Federal Reserve Board showed that the downturn extended as far as the economy, with declines posted in autos, consumer goods, business equipment and industrial materials. It was the sharpest one-month drop since December 1957, when the output index plunged by 8.9 per cent, and followed a 3.1 per cent decline in December 1974. The index now has declined by 9.3 per cent since last September and stands at 113.7 per cent of the 1967 base level.

In other economic and energy developments Thursday — Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton said in a Miami interview that President Ford's energy program will increase the price of gasoline by as much as 30 cents a gallon at the pump, compared to the administration's previous estimates of 10 cents a gallon. He predicted the price will start rising in April and reach 70 to 75 cents a gallon by July, going higher still if Ford's planned tariff on imported oil reaches $3 a barrel. — A New York speech to securities analysts, Ford said the $2 billion budget deficit he has projected for the next fiscal year can be financed. But he said he couldn't make the same promise if Congress adds to the deficit, and he criticized the House and Senate for inaction on his programs. — The Labor Department reported that unemployment rates continued to edge up a late in January as nearly 750,000 more Americans applied for jobless benefits in the week ended Feb. 1. The figure was 8,000 higher than had signed up the previous week. — Despite sales for certain models promoted in a price-rebate program, overall car sales for the first 10 days of February dipped to a 15-year low, the four major U.S. auto makers said. They said 138,108 deliveries were 5.1 per cent below the same period of 1974, when the gasoline shortage was at its peak. — Alan Greenspan, chairman of the Federal Reserve, told the Senate Appropriations Committee today that he was "definitely and quite hopefully" expecting a decline in the inflation rate. He said the cooling was detected in both farm and industrial prices. — The President disclosed that he will allow to become law a major role in the administration. But his precise assignment was not made official until Thursday night.

As president, Ford is chairman of the Domestic Council, but Rockefeller was assigned by Ford "to oversee the work of the council" on a day-to-day basis. White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said in a statement that Ford "considers the Domestic Council an integral part of the White House staff." Ford has said earlier he respects Rockefeller's staff as a member of the White House, and Cannon has been participating in the almost daily conferences of top presidential assistants. In a memo distributed to reporters as Ford spoke to 1,700 diners who had paid $15 a plate to salute Rockefeller, the President defined the Domestic Council's duties in a way that suggested the council would continue the work of the Commission on Critical Choices that Rockefeller criticized after resigning as governor of New York. The commission studied various possible national policies. Many observers had viewed the commission as a potential launching pad for a possible new Rockefeller presidential campaign — until Nixon resigned and Ford took his place.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

State Survey Shows Blacks Better Paid

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Black males in the state Community Affairs Department have higher salaries than their white counterparts, the state Human Relations Commission says. In a survey of its parent agency, the commission said that on Oct. 31 the 21 minority group male employees had a mean monthly salary of $1,095, compared to the mean monthly salary of $1,013 of 136 white males. The blacks' mean salary was pulled up considerably by the $1,958 a month paid to William Ravanel, deputy secretary who will become secretary on March 1. "The fact that minority males as a class rank highest in their race and sex analysis speaks well of the department's practices in employing minority males in well-paying, professionally responsible positions," said the report, released Wednesday. However, the commission criticized the disparity of pay between men and women.

Statewide Bargaining Eyed

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — State employees should be organized into statewide collective bargaining units according to job classification, state labor-management officials say. The officials planned to ask the Public Employees Relations Commission (PERC) at its meeting today to adopt rules which establish procedures for state rather than regional units. Theodore Clark, state management-consultant on labor, said it "would be more expeditious, more orderly and more conducive to a rational determination of appropriate bargaining units to do it in one overall proceeding."

Late Taxes Brings Jail

MIAMI (AP) — A high-priced prostitute convicted of not paying federal income taxes on her earnings has been sent to jail for 60 days and given two years probation. Carol Ann Citrin, 27, blonde, tearful and $128,000 poorer since she belatedly paid four years worth of taxes, was sentenced Thursday by U.S. District Court Judge Peter Fay. "If I had to jail I just won't live," she told the judge. "I have to sleep 15 hours because I am a weak person." Miss Citrin's mother, Edna Citrin, stood by her side. "It's not as if she killed somebody," Mrs. Citrin said.

Two Children Drown

BRANDON, Fla. (AP) — Two toddlers who wandered from the backyard of their suburban home apparently fell into a neighbor's swimming pool and drowned, police say. The children, both 2, were identified as Jeanette Walli, daughter of Laura Wabel, and Joel Townsend, son of Diana Roberts. Hillsborough Sheriff's Maj. Walter Heinrich said the mothers, both divers, were sharing their home.

Businessman Says It's Illegal

By BILL BELLEVILLE
Herald Staff Writer

A representative from a private firm that sells and operates buses took strong umbrage at a proposal by government officials to utilize school buses for a community transit program, at a county work session yesterday. Dan Zaffran, of the Orlando firm of Superior Coach, informed work session members that "what you're doing here is illegal" in discussing the use of school buses for community transportation. The informal work session centered around a possible use of 125 county school buses during the 99 per cent of the year when they aren't used for school transportation. School Superintendent Bud Laver Jr., and Commissioner Dick Williams, indicated that they would like to see the buses used for some kind of transportation program involving senior citizens, or for a program of "special activities." But, they generally agreed that the buses would be infeasible for use as mass transportation, mainly because their peak hours of use coincided with mass transit peak hours in the morning and evening. Zaffran, who was not invited to attend the session, tape-recorded the morning's activities. County officials readily agreed that "there is presently no known law to let the vehicles be used for anything but school buses," but allowed how the discussion of such use was not illegal. Zaffran urged the officials to consider government subsidies of private enterprise before they went to subsidizing public transportation. "There might be a private company interested" in carrying out a mass transit program, Zaffran declared. In terms of using the buses for a senior citizen's program, Retired Senior Volunteer Service (RSVP) Director Gwen Edelman said that her program "can't expand any further" due to lack of transportation. RSVP uses over 100 senior citizen volunteers who donate their time and energy to various community projects. According to Mrs. Edelman, the program has one mini-bus to carry the volunteers to and from their projects, but it cannot be used for any other purpose — such as transportation for groceries and drugs. "A lot of senior citizens with no form of transportation have a real need for groceries and drug store trips," she declared. Mrs. Edelman said she had varied a RSVP set-up in a northern state in which the buses were effectively used for all needs of transportation last summer. Lyle Saffield, of Project Oasis, said he has already met twice with Department of Transportation officials in an effort to obtain a fleet of mini-buses. Saffield, whose project serves senior citizens, said that school buses are too uncomfortable and too large to transport large groups of elders, but added that "they could be used to transport" "small numbers."

Housing Authority Nixes Electrical System Sale

By MICKEY LOCHRIDGE

The Sanford Housing Authority (SHA) last night refused action in lieu of further discussion on a resolution to sell the electrical systems in the Castle Brever Court and William Clerk Court housing projects. Refusal to act came after Wilson explained the resolution to the board and several members of the audience asked the board to re-examine the resolution. The sale of the systems to FPL would require tenants in order to receive electrical service, to pay a $20 hook-up fee and be charged directly by FPL for monthly bills.

By the board's hand may be forced by the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) which funds the SHA and has already negotiated with FPL for the sale of the two systems. "HUD can play tricks on you," she said. SHA Executive Director Thomas Wilson said the SHA is "getting out of the utility business" because it can no longer afford the costs because of decreased federal funding.

Refusal to act came after Wilson explained the resolution to the board and several members of the audience asked the board to re-examine the resolution. The sale of the systems to FPL would require tenants in order to receive electrical service, to pay a $20 hook-up fee and be charged directly by FPL for monthly bills.

SHA has been paying the utility bills and offering tenants an $8 utility allowance per month. "We are going to have to deal with this sooner or later," Commission Chairman Dick Evans said. "When all of the particulars are down maybe we can be free to deal with the matter."

He said FPL will "upgrade" the service and that street lights will be installed.

Enrollment Drop Expected At SJC

By ED PRICKETT
Herald Staff Writer

A proposal hammered out in Orlando yesterday by presidents of the state's 28 community colleges would decrease enrollment next year at Seminole Junior College (SJC), according to SJC President Earl Weldon. The presidents also called for an abandonment of open admission policies in addition to limiting next year's enrollments and increased tuition. The decision alters the community college concept of accepting any high school graduate over 18 years and came in response to Gov. Reubin Askew's order to reduce next year's budget because of a five per cent decline in anticipated state revenues. "We would have a declining enrollment for the first time in the history of the college," Weldon said. The final decision on admission policies at SJC will be left to the board of trustees. The administrators also decided to raise tuition charges from the current $8 to $11 per hour for all students to a maximum $12 an hour for Florida residents and $27 per hour for non-residents. The "open door" policy has been a popular concept at community colleges. And Weldon wasn't sure just what its demise would mean. "What it might mean, he said, is that some students with high school diplomas could conceivably be turned away from the school. "That would be in opposition to Weldon's philosophy. He said the school's "never turned away a student who's qualified." The decisions must first be approved by the State Department of Education before they can be put into effect.

Third Party Set To Fight Rocky If He Runs For Top Spot In '76

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some conservative voters, discontented with what they say are the liberal policies of the Ford-Rockefeller administration, are gearing up for a new national political party. The talk of a new political party and criticism of both Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller and President Ford dominated a conference Thursday sponsored by the Young Americans for Freedom (YAF) and the American Conservative Union (ACU). YAF claims to have a membership of 55,000 nationally. The ACU is based in Washington and lobbies on major legislation. The four-day conference, attended by 500 persons, is entitled "1976 — What Direction for Conservatives?" and is focusing on what some conservatives consider to be the President's "leftward drift" as indicated by his support for détente and conditional amnesty for Vietnam-era draft evaders and deserters. Rep. Robert E. Bauman, R-Md., opening the conference, received a cheering standing ovation when he called upon Rockefeller to make perfectly clear that Mr. Rockefeller will not control our domestic policies and is not acceptable for nomination as vice president in 1976. portant role in the administration. "Another conservative leader, who asked not to be identified, said there is fear that if Ford doesn't seek reelection, Rockefeller may be the party's nominee for the White House in 1976. Ford has said publicly he plans to run again. ACU Chairman M. Stanton Evans said there should be a "new party" with former California Gov. Ronald Reagan at the top of the ticket and Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace as the vice presidential nominee. "The two major parties have become indistinguishable," Evans said on WETA-TV's "Evening Edition." Evans said he was "disenchanted" with the Ford-Rockefeller administration. Reagan has indicated he does not want to become involved in a new party. Sen. Jesse Helms, R-S.C., who opposed Rockefeller's vice presidential confirmation, is in the forefront of the movement to head off Rockefeller's political rise in the GOP. "We will not convince them (the American people) that our conservative party, by what-

Wife Gives Husband Mother For Valentine's

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — "Mom," Navy Radioman 1 C. James R. Sebring said, his voice shaking and his hands trembling. It was the first time the 33-year-old sailor had spoken to his mother. Mother and son cried. Sebring returned on Thursday from a three-week training cruise aboard the aircraft carrier Forrestal. To his surprise, the sailor's mother was waiting at Norfolk Naval Station's Pier 12. Sebring hadn't seen her since his father took him away from home when he was only one year old. Later, Sebring's efforts to trace his mother were unsuccessful. Nor could Alberta Sebring find her long-lost son. But the sailor's wife, Terry Sebring, sliced through the years. For an anniversary present and Valentine's Day gift, she gave her husband his mother. Terry said she started with her husband's birth certificate and called countless Sebring in the Syracuse, N.Y., area before she found Mrs. Sebring, 63, in a Cortland, N.Y., hotel. "I used to ask my father where my mother was, but he never would say," said Sebring, who now lives in Walled Lake, Mich. At the bottom of the Forrestal's windshield gangway, Sebring and his mother exchanged hugs, kisses and handclaps. "It's like being in heaven," the sailor said. "I've been searching for my mother for a long time. She's been by herself long enough. I think God that He's answered our prayers." He said he hoped his mother would come live with him and Terry and their nine children. "The mother said, 'I love him. I always did.'"

Doychak Hired For SCIDA

Seminole County Commissioners this week approved the hiring of Steven Doychak as head of the Seminole County Industrial Development Authority (SCIDA). The 55-year-old Doychak, they drew to their attention out of a number of applicants because of his strong experience in industry and community development. Doychak must be officially approved by SCIDA when the board meets Monday. The administrative post at SCIDA has been empty since the resignation of Frank Daley last summer. According to county officials, Doychak has accepted the offer and is waiting approval by SCIDA before taking the $16,000 position. Doychak, finance coordinator for Jack Eckerd's ill-fated Senate campaign last year, is past executive vice-president of the Clearwater Chamber of Commerce and a graduate of the University of Ottawa (Canada). He has also graduated from the Institute for Organization Management at the University of Georgia, and the Institute for Advanced Management at Syracuse.

Television Sets: Fun But Dangerous

Early Monday morning of this week, Maxine Thompson, 57, perished in a fire that engulfed her home at 215 Vinewood Drive, Sanford.

The following day, the news was that Mrs. Thompson's death had been ruled accidental and traced to an electrical short near a television in a sitting room of the house.

Mrs. Thompson's death was attributed to asphyxiation as dense smoke filled her bedroom. Her body was found lying on the floor near a window and all efforts to revive her failed.

We have no doubts as to what killed Mrs. Thompson. Nor do we doubt that she made a valiant effort to get out of the inferno and we have no reason to doubt that firemen did all within their power to save her.

But, what chance did she have? What really killed her? Was it the asphyxiation that's to blame or was it an electrical short 'near' the television? Or was it the television itself?

It's a proven fact that television sets retain thousands of volts of electricity long after they've been turned off. Too, it's a known fact that color sets retain twice as much electricity as do black and white sets.

More fires are started in this country than can be imagined by television — long after they've been turned off and long after the people in the house have retired for the night.

As a matter of fact, it hasn't been too long past that a major television manufacturer publicly acknowledged that its sets could cause a fire as many as 24 hours after they've been shut off.

Consider: Dust collects easily in the back of a television because the electricity that it generates acts like a giant magnet, attracting dust and dirt. And, with all that current stored in the set, it can easily ignite.

Why do you think you're warned not to put your hand in the back of a television? Or warned not to remove the back of same?

Primarily because that set retains so much electricity you can be electrocuted long after it is assumed safe.

No, there doesn't have to be a short in the set. Ask a fireman or a fire inspector and you'll get the same response.

A television can be a deadly thing. Yet, we like you, would probably be lost without the idiot box. So, how do you prevent the boob tube from being the cause of a major fire in your home?

There are a few simple steps that can help, though it is in no way a guarantee against having a fire.

1 — Don't just turn the set off at night when retiring — unplug it. 2 — Keep the set as free from dirt and dust as is possible. 3 — Never, never have the set surrounded by drapes or other combustible materials.

Around The Clock

Left-over notes from the recent school board meeting at the Seminole County Courthouse. . . It's absurd to tolerate unkind comments directed to board members by those in the audience. Some which were said obviously were uttered in the "heat of emotion."

It was the biggest crowd I had ever seen crowded into the regular County Commission chambers. The meeting was to start at 7 p.m. Fifteen minutes before it began, there were so many people wanting to enter the room, they were obliged to stand outside and listen from the hallways.

WILLIAM A. RUSHER The Monkey On Back Of Public

President Ford's proposed budget, with its $52 billion estimated deficit, is even more alarming for what it implies than for what it will do — and heaven knows the latter is alarming enough.

There is simply no chance at all that this gigantic deficit (which itself is probably underestimated by some tens of billions of dollars) will ever, on some happy future day, be absorbed or even reduced by tax revenues.

It is financed in part by public borrowing and in part by more inflation — the rampant inflation that in 1974 was double-digit and in 1977 or 1978, will make 1974's double-digit caper look like the Good Old Days.

Meanwhile we have learned something about the behavior of the modern American public and its political leaders, when confronted with economic adversity, that bodes very ill indeed for the survival of a free society.

From the Mailbag:

Concerning your editorial page this week of Lincoln's Birthday, this question has been asked by a reader: "What about rich men like Nelson Hunt who own multimillion dollar mansions and a half-billionaire H. I. Hunt — (according to Jack Anderson's column) — as to avoiding federal income tax?"

Answer by the old hermit of rhyme and reason at DeBarry — entitled TAX DESERTERS: "Your Congressmen have been so busy protecting the rich men of taxation, who hired lawyers who know how to cheat. This time that people working for a living, shall put a stop to richman's tax forgiving."

RALPH NOVAK The Best Limited Involvements

"Look at this, Zeldi: another rerun and the new year has barely started." "That's not another rerun, Ziggy. That's President Ford giving one of his press conferences."

"No, no, He can't fool me. That's the same old stuff about South Vietnam and how they're in trouble and they need just a little more help from us, just a few hundred more measly million dollars."

"It sure sounds like a rerun. But maybe it's just one of those old classics, like 'The Virginian,' or 'Sands of Iwo Jima' or 'A Day at the Races' that they're always showing as part of some festival or other. You know, 'Best of Our Limited Involvements' or something like that."

"You could be right. Or maybe it's one of those remakes. The way they did with 'Stagecoach' or 'The Front Page.' They keep the story the same but they change the actors."

"What bothers me about this show, Zeldi, is that they never seem to get to the part where the good guy comes riding in on his white horse, guns blazing and wipes out all the villains in the black outfit. It gets kind of boring to hear him just keep talking about how he's going to do it pretty soon. He can have a little more money. John Wayne never asks for more money."

"I'm not sure, Zig. There seems to be an audience there. Why don't they boo if it's so terrible?" "Do you think they liked the first version so much they're hoping to see it all again? Nobody abandoning an animal, make a note of the money in Southeast Asia."

"Maybe the money is a kind of a rebate because they're buying jeeps or tanks or something."

"That could be, Zel. They didn't explain that in the show, though. Come to think of it, they haven't explained anything in the show, and nobody in the audience seems to be interested in asking them any questions about that."

"That's for sure, Zig. Maybe you should check the TV program to see if there isn't something better on, like reruns of 'My Little Margie' or wrestling or a good aspirin commercial. I'm getting tired of this."

"Have they shown any pictures of tunnels? Usually you can tell when it's going to be over better on, like reruns of 'My Little Margie' or wrestling or a good aspirin commercial. I'm getting tired of this."

WORLD IN BRIEF

Jordan Next Stop For Kissinger Visit

JERUSALEM (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger moves on to Jordan today after talks with Israeli leaders that he said were "fruitful and positive."

A senior U.S. official in the secretary's party said there still was good reason to believe that a negotiated settlement was possible. Kissinger told newsmen Thursday night his four days of talks with Premier Yitzhak Rabin of Israel and President Anwar Sadat of Egypt had not produced "concrete proposals, plans or (new cease-fire) lines, but rather a continuation of the considerations that were part of my exploratory mission."

The secretary of state and his aides said all along that the purpose of the trip was to clarify the demands of the two governments and determine if another Jerusalem-Cairo mediation shuttle might produce an agreement.

Kissinger apparently thinks now that it might since he has announced that he is returning to the area around March 10.

U.N. Meeting Sought

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — The Greek Cypriot government called for an urgent meeting of the United Nations Security Council to debate the proclamation of a Turkish Cypriot state in the occupied northern sector of Cyprus.

U.N. sources in New York said the council was expected to meet in the next few days. They said it would probably focus on a resolution, adopted after the Turkish invasion of Cyprus last year, calling for talks between the Greek and Turkish Cypriots "with a view to reaching freely a mutually acceptable political settlement."

The U.S. government expressed regret at the Turkish move and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said the United States remains committed to the "constitutional" government in Nicosia, meaning the Greek Cypriot government headed by President Makarios.

Brezhnev Makes Return

MOSCOW (AP) — Leonid I. Brezhnev is back in the limelight, apparently as vigorous and ebullient as ever despite rumors of illness during his seven weeks out of the spotlight.

The Communist party chief did most of the talking during a 2 1/2-hour meeting Thursday with British Prime Minister Harold Wilson, showed no fatigue and appeared in smiling good health, British sources reported.

Brezhnev strode into a Kremlin reception hall to greet Wilson, laughed and exchanged quips with his guest and allowed photographers seven minutes of picture-taking, an unusually long session.

"It is very good to see you," Wilson said. "Were you resting?" "I'll tell you later," Brezhnev replied with a smile and a wave of his hand.

Tribune-Times Editor Dies Of Apparent Heart Attack

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Robert L. Hudson, executive editor of the Tampa Tribune and Times, is dead at 49 of an apparent heart attack.

Hudson, who had no history of heart trouble, was stricken late Thursday while playing the part of a pirate in a traditional Gasparilla parade.

The festival commemorates the days of Jose Gasparilla, a pirate who roamed the Caribbean from a point near the present Gulf Coast city of Naples.

Earlier in the week, Hudson was among pirates who sailed into Tampa Bay and stormed the town, abducting old play boys and lurching shells and candy to children.

Hudson, a native of St. Petersburg, began his newspaper career as a sports writer with the St. Petersburg Times in 1948.

Survivors include his widow, Martha Russ Hudson, and a son, Robert Cleveland Hudson of Tampa.

Services are pending.

Society Editor Dies

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Memorial services will be held Saturday for Kathryn Rogers "Kitty" Magruder, long-time society editor of the Orlando Sentinel and Evening Star.

Magruder died Thursday at the age of 67.

She served as society editor of the newspaper for about 25 years before her retirement in 1968.

She was a personable, well-liked woman who, in spite of his pressurized job, had time to talk with secretaries and copy boys. He made a point of complimenting staffers when they put a little extra effort in their work.

"Bob had a hell of a desire to be fair to the people he worked with," said Doyle Harvill, former managing editor and general editor of Media General, Richmond, Va.

Investors Set Mark With Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — With its booming rally since the start of the year, the stock market has once again demonstrated a seemingly illogical ability to ignore the world around it.

Unemployment is at its highest level since World War II. Inflationary forces have slackened a bit, but it's still a painful force. The effects of the recession are spreading from industry to industry.

And the outlook for corporate profits — traditionally the most tangible factor to which stock prices relate — is cloudy at best for at least the first half of this year.

But investors who shunned stocks during the comparatively rosy days of 1973 and early 1974, when many companies were reporting huge profit gains, now are suddenly buying them at a record-breaking pace.

On Tuesday, the rally touched a new peak as volume reached $3.16 billion, over three million more than had ever been traded in a single session.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial closed up 11.89 at 78.92 — nearly 150 points above its December low.

The standard explanation of the divergence of the stock market and the current state of the economy is actually very simple.

As the late Gerald M. Loeb, a longtime market expert and investment writer, put it in an observation quoted in the Wall Street Journal's "Stock Trader's Almanac": "Stocks are bought on expectations, not facts."

"The market is quite frequently a very logical thing," says Raymond F. DeVoie Jr. of Wall Street's Spencer, Trask & Co. "It's just that it looks three to six months ahead rather than an immediate prospect."

"The current recession, which is the worst since 1937-38, was reflected in the market's drop to a 12-year low last fall."

Airways Eyes Sanford Pullout

Page Airways is trying to pull out of the Sanford airport for "economic reasons," and is awaiting approval by the Sanford Airport Authority.

Assurances that the Aero firm can provide the necessary airport service have to be made before the Authority can officially approve the reassignment.

Aero Services was recently granted permission to locate at the Airport as a fixed base operator. At the time of Aero's approval, the Aero Services members cited the need for another operator in order to avoid the exclusive use of the Page franchise there.

Although final arrangements between the two firms apparently have not been made, Page representative Don Rathel asked for early approval of the transfer in order to avoid a gap in operations between the two firms.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, February 15, 1975 ARIES (March 21-April 19) This is one of those days when you'll have too many irons in the fire. None will be ready to your satisfaction.

TAUROS (April 20-May 20) You're very easily angered today, not so much by the immediate event but by rebuffs you recall from the past.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21) Don't be too hasty about telling friends you can't afford to do certain things if it's true. Forget about keeping up with the Joneses.

CANCER (June 22-July 22) Make an extra effort today to appreciate the other guy's point of view, or you're going to find yourself without allies.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 23) Your attitude is such today that you tend to make things much harder for yourself than they really are. This will show up in your work.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 23) Unfortunately you cannot depend upon others today to bail you out of your problems. Don't embarrass yourself by asking.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) It will seem like the only two choices available to you are bad and worse. That's why you're likely to be nothing productive at all.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 23) Further details of the dedication are being completed by a committee and will be announced as they are completed.

YOUR BIRTHDAY Feb. 15, 1975 You will be fortunate this year. Others will look out for your interests and help you achieve important goals. You can assist by not taking risks you shouldn't.

"I don't know — maybe they're all VERY intelligent — or maybe they're LOOKING for information."

Nurse Wheels Dad Away

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Our whole family is in a turmoil because, after 52 years of marriage, our father has left our mother...

Now that this had come out, everybody is saying they knew about Dad and this nurse all along...

DEAR DISGRACED: Stay out of it. As you read, I feel disgraced. A person can disgrace only himself.

DEAR ABBY: I never miss your column. It's a kick to read about some of those stupid problems some of those fools who write to you come up with...

DEAR NOT WORRIED: DEAR NOT: If that's the way you feel about your husband, why don't you just turn him loose...

DEAR ABBY: About the woman who always mentions the fact that one of her three children was adopted...

DEAR JUST: Thanks for thinking of an angle I didn't think of.

Players, in response to public demand, are again presenting the special Lenten drama, "Take This Cup," at the First Methodist Church on Park Avenue, March 12-14 at 8 p.m.

Since the group was first formed in December 1973, in an effort to revive the church's dwindling Youth Group, membership has increased to more than 40...

Anna Lea, who, like her husband, is a drama major, believes if a play is worth doing, it's worth doing well...

Take This Cup was first performed last Easter season and met with great success. "It's based on Black Hills Passion Play," Anna Lea explained...

The part of Jesus is played by Tom McDonald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McDonald of Sanford. A student at American University in Washington, D.C., he was named as the "Christ" in the play...

Though we've continued to celebrate this special day with expressions of affection, no one is quite certain just who this St. Valentine person was or, more appropriately, who these Valentines were...

What do you think of this man? How can we get Dad to stop his series and go back to Mother? It's the talk of the town.

Requiem For Violet

By JEAN PATTESON Women's Editor

Violet was probably the only guinea pig in the world who knew her name and came hopping when you called. Or so it seemed to Violet's young mistress.

The day Violet died, a miserable cloud of gloom settled over the house in Pennsylvania where the little animal had brought so much joy and entertainment to her human protectors. And Carrie, 11-year-old owner of the guinea pig was heartbroken.

She purchased a plank in Violet's name, to be used in the construction of the boardwalk through the cypress swamp in the new Central Florida Zoo.

she and her mother sat down and cried together when they first read it, but how it made them feel so much better afterwards.

I know how happy it will make Violet to be remembered that way," Carrie told her aunt.

Carrie is not alone in being delighted that she and her pet are contributing to the development of the Central Florida Zoo.

Zoo Director Jack Hanna reports more than 1,400 planks for the boardwalk have been sold already. It's a lot, but not nearly enough to build a walk right through the swamp.

Most planks donated so far are family planks, according to Hanna. These boards carry the family name, and in many instances, adjacent planks carry the names of the family's children and grandchildren.

The boardwalk will eventually wind through virgin Florida jungle, a sanctuary for indigenous wildlife such as the raccoon, skunk, deer, many birds and even a 'gator or two.

Businesses and civic organizations are also contributing boardwalk planks, and so far several have been bought in the names of family pets - like Violet's.

St. Valentine's Day - How Sweet It Is.

People who think St. Valentine's Day is for the birds would be surprised to learn that there's a thread of truth to their theory...

A look back through the history of the middle ages shows that Europeans believed that birds chose their mates each year on February 14. Not to be outdone by these "cosmo twosomes," people soon adapted the occasion to their own purposes.

Through the years confessions have come to be the "sweet way" to express affection on St. Valentine's Day. The famous 17th century diarist Samuel Pepys recorded that lovers exchanged moments of jewelry and sweetmeats, while Shakespeare suggested giving "Sweets to the Sweet" in his "Hamlet."

In America, the early settlers sent her a letter signed, "From Your Valentine." Another legend cites an imprisoned Valentine who restored the sight of his captor's blind daughter, and for this feat he was named St. Valentine.

especially with youngsters. In the old days, great value was placed on gifts of confessions and sweetmeats, primarily because they were highly elaborate and made use of what was then a rare commodity - sugar.

Nowadays, the fancy box of chocolates has come to be the most popular gift of confessions on St. Valentine's Day, especially when they come in heart-shaped boxes with red frills and lace.

Don Merrick Seminole JC's World-Class Sprinter

By TOM KEYSER Herald Sports Editor

Sitting in Terry Long's office that afternoon, it was difficult to imagine Don Merrick running 70 yards in 6.8 seconds.

Merrick was so laid back, so thoughtful, so gentle. He did not say anything that was not a feeling - that basic quality of sensitivity often traded in for what a man can frame and show to dinner guests.

There were the letters in Long's wire basket from places like UCLA, wanting a snippet of information on this 19-year-old sprinter.

And there was last weekend, the plateau of accomplishment that left no doubt.

"There's more to it than being great," Merrick said slowly, thoughtfully, stretching the fingers of his hands precisely to make his point.

Merrick is a sophomore at Seminole Junior College. He majors in business administration. There are many local people who do not know who he is.

Farland, Long said. "And it simply was not that way. There was not an eyelash between the two."

"But they gave me 6.8," Don said in finality. Merrick came to Seminole Junior College from DeLand High School. He was the second baseman on DeLand's baseball team when friends convinced him he could do well running track.

He competed in his first 100-yard dash midway through his senior year and ran a 9.9. "That kind of inspired me," he said.

He probably is better known in Louisville, Ky. Last weekend at the prestigious Mason-Dixie Games in Louisville, Merrick ran the 70-yard dash in 6.8 seconds to tie the world record.

"Placing Sanford into the very elite of track competition is like taking one tiny world and placing it into another larger one. It's like it is so many million miles to the sun. We accept that fact but it's difficult to comprehend."

Mike McFarland of Indiana ran 70 yards in 6.7 seconds 35 minutes later. In setting the new record, McFarland edged Merrick at the tape.

It took the judges 10 minutes to determine if McFarland or Merrick was the winner. The two sprinters left behind the other three competitors in the finals of the 70-yard dash and apparently crossed the finish line simultaneously.

Finally, the judges announced McFarland was the winner.

"I came down to a lean at the tape," Long said. "There were no cameras. We were not upset that Don was picked second."

But the judges announced McFarland's time was 6.7 - a world record - and Merrick's 6.8.

"If Don was a tenth of a second slower in that race he would have had to finish one yard and a foot behind Mc-Farland," Long said. "And it simply was not that way. There was not an eyelash between the two."

"But they gave me 6.8," Don said in finality. Merrick came to Seminole Junior College from DeLand High School. He was the second baseman on DeLand's baseball team when friends convinced him he could do well running track.

He competed in his first 100-yard dash midway through his senior year and ran a 9.9. "That kind of inspired me," he said.

He went on to win the conference and county meets, and to finish second in the state and third in the Florida Relays, primarily running the 100 and 200.

"I was signed with the University of Florida. I had my mind set on going there," he said. "But it was one real big hassle."

So he chose Seminole Junior College.

"I figured I could learn more here," he said. "And I have."

Last year Merrick was the first athlete voted most valuable in both the indoor and outdoor national junior college track championships.

He won the indoor 80 and 200 with clockings of 6.3 and 30.6 and the outdoor 100 and 200 with times of 8.4 and 30.2.

Since that 6.3 60-yard dash, Merrick has competed against the greatest sprinters in the world in some of the world's greatest track meets. And his time steadily has improved.

On Dec. 14 at Monroe, La., Merrick ran a 5.2 60-yard dash. On Jan. 10 at Washington, D.C., he ran 6.1. On Jan. 18 at Jackson, Miss., he ran 6.1 and 6.0. On Jan. 31 at Montgomery, Ala., he ran 2.6 60. And last weekend at Louisville he ran a 6.8 70-yard dash, which is equivalent to a 5.9 60.

"People ask how can an athlete improve from 6.3 to 5.9 in one season," Long said. "There are two answers, desire and proper training."

Merrick has trained with the controversial Nautlius program - a series of specific exercise that fatigue certain muscle groups to make specific physiological changes in the body.

"The old conceptions of sprint training are wrong," Long said. "And we are proving it. To be superior in a foot race depends on the amount of proper preparation and mental concentration. If the athlete is prepared, and the competition is there, the performance will come."

"Most people think that to be fast you have to be rugged and rough," Merrick said. "But if you watch the great body." Long said. "And we are proving it. To be superior in a foot race depends on the amount of proper preparation and mental concentration. If the athlete is prepared, and the competition is there, the performance will come."

Pearson, Allison Head Daytona 500 Qualifying Races

By CARL VANZURA Herald Correspondent

DAYTONA BEACH - It was a day for two familiar faces to visit victory lane Thursday as Bobby Allison and David Pearson turned the 2.5 mile oval at Daytona International Speedway to win the twin 125-mile Daytona 500 qualifying races.

Allison, Bobby Baker and Richard Brooks staged a torrid battle throughout the race. Brooks was only 1.6 seconds behind at the finish for his best showing at Daytona.

The race started with Donnie Allison bursting into the lead. After 10 laps Baker forged ahead with an average speed of 176.37 mph.

On lap 12 Donnie Allison pitted with an oil leak. The first caution came out when Bruce Jacoby spun coming into the tri-oval on the 16th lap. No other cars were involved as Jacoby kept out of traffic. As the cars were pitting under the caution, Allison over-shot his pits and had to take another lap.

On the 49th lap, Baker attempted to regain the lead but blew a tire, which threw him into a wild slide down the back-straight at the 10th and finish sixth.

On the last re-start, Allison took a 10-car lead over Brooks. Lennie Pond and A. J. Foy also got by Brooks but fell behind when Brooks applied a slingshot going into the fourth turn.

Richard Petty and Pearson were glued to each other's bumper until the last lap. Pearson used the Daytona slinger shot - made famous by the late Fireball Roberts - to take Petty going into the fourth turn. Frank Warren was in Petty's way coming back around to complete the slingshot.

Local racer Richie Panch placed fifth and country singing star Marty Robbins also made the Daytona 500 field in his Dodge with a 14th place finish. Pearson's average speed was 156.568 mph.

Basketball Action Fills Weekend

A full slate of regular season games, tournament games and a crucial Seminole Junior College game are scheduled this weekend in area basketball action.

The Seminole Junior College Raiders travel to Lake City Community College tonight for a 7:30 battle with the District III champs.

The game is a must for SJC. The Raiders are 6-4 in the night (against Osceola), district and battling for second place which is worth a berth in the Region VIII tourney at Sletton Feb. 27, 28 and March 1.

Lake City has clinched the district title and a region berth with an undefeated district record.

Lake City stopped Seminole Junior College 65-53 two weeks ago at the SJC gym.

At the Sanford Naval Academy gym, the Lake & Hills Conference tournament continues.

Miller Strokes 73

SAN DIEGO (AP) - Johnny Miller declined to take refuge in the handy excuse of ill health and thrashed off a one-over-par 73.

"Just one of those days. One of those even me, believe it or not."

But Miller, who went over par for only the third time this season, still had his sights set on his fourth victory in five starts in the Andy Williams-San Diego Open Golf Tournament.

"I'm not out of it by any means," said the young man who has been the sensation of the pro golf tour for the past 18 months. "Tomorrow will be a big round for me. I'm looking forward to it. A good round and I'm right back in it."

Miller, fighting what he called a mild case of flu, was seven strokes out of the lead after Thursday's first round. The lead belonged to 6-foot-6 Peter Oosterhuis, an English import who is playing his first full season on the American tour. Oosterhuis, playing in cloudy, cold and windy weather reminiscent of his hometown, had a six-under-par 66.

The 26-year-old Oosterhuis, who for the last four years Europe's leading player, held a one-stroke advantage over John Schroeder. Art McNickle and Mark Hayes, tied at 67.

Two other British Commonwealth players - Bruce Crampton of Australia and John Lister of New Zealand - were in a group at 68 that also included Lou Graham, Phil Rodgers, Ray Floyd and Bobby Wadkins.

Jack Nicklaus, Lee Trevino, Arnold Palmer and Gary Player are not competing.

While Miller admittedly was disappointed over his round, Oosterhuis was not disappointed with his season.

The ruddy-cheeked Englishman has led Britain's Order of Merit for the past four years. He's the current French and Italian Open titleholder. He's finished as high as third in the Masters. He lost to Lee Elder in

Race Cars On Display

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS - Various race cars will be on display this weekend at the Interstate Mall in conjunction with the opening of "One By One" a documentary of grand prix racing at the Interstate Mall 6 theaters.

Race-prepared sports cars, the Greenwood Brothers Corvettes and Camaro that raced in the 24 Hours of Daytona will be among the cars on display.

Top local drivers also will be present.

Stetson, FSU Triumph

Stetson, ranked tops in the nation in rebounding, controlled the boards 50-28 in an 84-47 conquest of Northern Illinois Thursday night. The losing Huskies are ranked fourth in rebounding.

Billy Seitz scored 26 points and grabbed 12 rebounds to lead Stetson, which is unbeaten in 11 home games and has an overall record of 16-3. Otis Johnson added 12 points and nine rebounds.

Hank Mann and Zach Perkins came off the bench to spark listless Florida State to a 61-72 victory over Georgia State, raising the Seminoles' record to 15-5.

Mann scored eight of his 14 points in three minutes of the second half when the Seminoles were struggling. Perkins, who had 16 points along with Greg Grady, scored a basket to put FSU ahead for good at 65-64.

Navy Opens Tourney Play Tonight

By SCOTT ABRAHAM
 Herald Correspondent

The Montverde Academy Eagles and the Hovey Hawks advanced Thursday night in the opening games of the Lakes & Hills Conference basketball tournament at the Sanford Naval Academy gym.

The Eagles downed the Hovey Hawks 69-42 and will play Mt. Dora Bible in semifinal action tonight at 8:30. Hovey's JV team defeated Florida Central's JV's 50-46. The junior Hawks will meet Mt. Dora's Bulldogs today at 4:30.

Two other games are on tap today. The varsity teams of Sanford Naval Academy and Florida Central pair off at 7 p.m., while Navy's JV's take on Montverde's JV's at 3 p.m.

The tournament concludes Saturday night with the varsity and junior varsity championship games.

Montverde's 6-3 center Gary Bogue led a balanced scoring attack for the eagles with 18 points. Sophomores Lee Beville and Kirby Rogers added 12 apiece.

Montverde quickly took control of the game, leading after the first quarter 19-7 and 35-17 at halftime. Hovey could not get a field goal in the third period as the Eagles racked up 20 consecutive points before David Campbell finally dropped the Hawks' only basket of the quarter with 1:30 remaining.

Montverde starters Ken Eckler and Bogue fouled out in the fourth period as reserve Kevin Weiler entered the fray to score his seven points in an otherwise unproductive Montverde final quarter.

Hovey dominated the fourth period 23-14. High man Glenn Menzel came alive to drop seven free throws and three field goals for 13 of his final 18 points. David Campbell, Hovey's lone scorer in the third, fouled out in the fourth but was the Hawks second high scorer, with 10.

Hovey's junior varsity team saved face for its school in defeating Florida Central earlier in the evening.

Don Merrick: Arbitration Hurting A's?

runners you'll notice they almost float. The greatest one is Merrick said coming to SJC instead of going to a large university is a major factor in his rapid success.

"I am learning the mechanics and the position to run in," he said. "And I'm learning how to improve that position. To be a pitcher, I don't think I would have learned that yet at a four-year school."

"Don is on a planned, controlled training program," Long said. "He is not one of those athletes who will be burned out in two years."

"Last year, maybe Don didn't get the exposure here that he very much has gotten at the University of Florida. We are on a very tight budget, very small even when compared to other major colleges in the country. This may turn out to be the reason for his success. The school may not have the resources to send him to all the meetings he is invited to."

Merrick is competing today in the Toronto Maple Leaf Games, another Olympic-class meet.

"One of the biggest thrills to happen to me so far," Merrick said, "was at the Mason-Dixon Games when Meriwether (Dr. Deane Meriwether, former national AAU 100-meter champion who in his late 20s turned track star for the challenge) came up to me and said, 'You're Merrick, aren't you?'"

"When Don was 15 or 16 he was walking the streets of DeLand," Long said. "Now he can step in front of 12,000 starting blocks," and the biggest names in track recognize him.

"I think I'm drawn to track because it's me against the other people," Merrick said. "It's you, nobody else. And when you work hard, you know, and you get results from it, that's enjoyable."

"It's man against man," Long said. "It's nobody else's fault for not giving you the assist, or for not making the block, or for not sharpening your skates. It comes down to man against man, and that's the truest form of competition."

After graduating from SJC this year, Merrick will have his choice of universities.

Florida, Florida State, Tennessee and Southern Illinois were the first to show interest. Now Long and Merrick are getting inquiries from such schools as UCLA, USC, Washington State, Kansas and Indiana.

"But I'm not thinking much about that," Merrick said. "I'm just thinking from meet to meet, stride to stride.

"I'll be quite an experience. It's been something new. I'm happy that in four or five years I'll be able to look back and remember what's happening now. But I figure this is just a beginning."

Don Merrick: Arbitration Hurting A's?

fielders Cesar Geronimo and George Foster of the Cincinnati Reds and pitcher Don Carriera of the Montreal Expos reached similar compromise, signing contracts rather than going to arbitration as planned.

Holtzman was one of the A's five winning players in arbitration last year and sought a $19,000 raise to $112,000 this time. But the arbitrator went with Finley, who argued that Holtzman's 18-17 record in 1974, after a 2-13 mark the previous season, did not entitle the left-hander to a raise.

"One of the minuses about arbitration - I'm sure there must be some pluses - is that I have to sit there and tell a player, in front of a lot of other people, why he shouldn't get a raise, all his shortcomings," Finley said.

"Do you think Ken Holtzman and his darling wife left that room thinking I was a nice guy?"

Joe Rudi and Gene Tenace signed contracts Wednesday night and relief pitcher Paul Lindblad agreed to terms earlier in the week.

No contract terms were announced, but Rudi and Tenace are believed to be in the $75,000 range, with Tenace and Lindblad on a lower scale after getting slight raises.

Elsewhere in major league baseball, pitcher Pat Dobson of the New York Yankees, out-

"I'll be quite an experience. It's been something new. I'm happy that in four or five years I'll be able to look back and remember what's happening now. But I figure this is just a beginning."

Conner Goes For Two

MIAMI (AP) - Dennis Conner of San Diego set sail today to keep his lead in the Southern Ocean Racing Conference at about 90 yards gap under way for the annual 132-mile Ocean Triangle race in his 35-foot One Ton aluminum sloop Slinger after placing 14th in the St. Petersburg-Anclote Key roundtrip of 103 miles a week earlier.

"But I'm not thinking much about that," Merrick said. "I'm just thinking from meet to meet, stride to stride.

"I'll be quite an experience. It's been something new. I'm happy that in four or five years I'll be able to look back and remember what's happening now. But I figure this is just a beginning."

Stones Heads Meet

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) - Outspoken high jumper Dwight Stones and powerful shotputter George Woods are among four world record holders entered in the U.S. Track and Field Federation's national indoor championships today and Saturday.

The high jump and shotput competition are expected to highlight the two-day meet, which kicks off today with college division and junior college events.

Washington Testifies

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) - Wide receiver Gene Washington testified Thursday he decided to become a free agent in the National Football League when the Minnesota Vikings offered what he considered a $16,250 pay cut.

That, added Washington, came after he had proved himself in the pro ranks for four years and was named to the Pro Bowl teams of 1969 and 1970.

In that overbidder's heaven they would have bid a grand slam, the queen of clubs would move quietly from the East to the West hand and the grand slam would make.

Now to settle the North-South argument. South's opening bid was correct in any normal bidding system. Furthermore, North's bidding was sound indeed and the little slam was a good bid.

All good bids don't make. This one went down because a spade was opened and the club finesse lost.

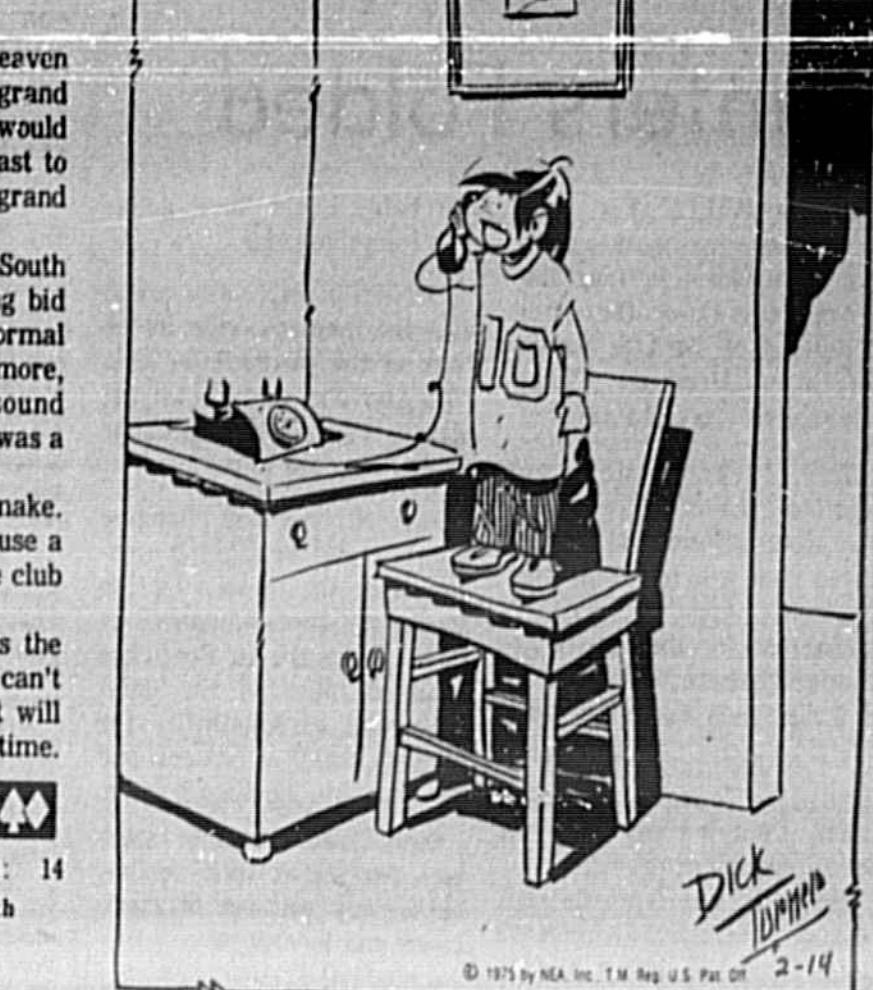

In other words this was the sort of slam that you can't afford not to bid, since it will make well over half the time.

Terrible Thoughts Frighten Reader

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB - I have been bothered with what I think is a very unusual problem for about five years. It sounds so foolish, but it is very frightening to me, and I desperately hope you will print this with some kind of an answer for me.

Whenever I get around people or children, which of course is every day, terrible thoughts flash through my mind. I mean of hurting someone. They just come and go and I have a lot of pressure in the head which could be from these scary feelings.

I have always been considered well adjusted, have a lovely family, and have always been a happy person. I don't understand these thoughts. Also a year ago I went to the doctor with these headaches and he found my blood pressure was 190 over 110. He put me on a blood pressure pill, Hydros. Strangely the terrible thoughts seem to go away - a tremendous relief. But around the time of my period they come back, headache and all. I'm 36 years old. Please, do I need psychiatric help or medical help? Could I have hypertension? I will do anything you say. Life is too precious to be miserable.

DEAR READER: You could probably benefit from some professional counseling with a psychiatrist. It is not unusual for people to have momentary frightening thoughts, but if they occur regularly, as yours seem to, then you should try to get at the root of their cause. They are entirely out of your conscious control, and you will need some help to evaluate their importance and what to do about them.

Your blood pressure level is in the range that should be treated, if the pressure levels you mention are persistent. But reason is often swayed by the event, and in time blacks will realize the decision to bus their children to Casseberry Elementary, a 15-year-old school, came not from Laver, but was mandated by the county school board which is elected by the people and as such is held responsible to their needs.

Rosenwald: Old Tune With Harsh Tones For Seminole

By ED PRICKETT
Herald Staff Writer

ANALYSIS

Like the proverbial fog which rises over early morning London, the clouds of America's deep-seated racial unrest have cast their shadow over Seminole County, Anger, boycotts, the threat of further countywide boycotts and pending lawsuits symbolize the black reaction to a school board decision to phase out their 48-year-old school in Altamonte Springs.

Each of their anger, blacks say, about the phasing out of Rosenwald Elementary School is directed toward School Superintendent William Laver, the top administrator in this county's school system. Blacks say Laver is the root of their frustration - unbending, inflexible and unresponsive to their needs.

But then the game had changed and the emphasis had shifted to the "Lake Oriana Plan," proposed by a group of concerned whites who wanted a walk-in school and proposed the plan to bus blacks to Casseberry.

The proposal struck a responsive chord in School Board Chairman R.G. "Bud" Feather, who passed the law to Board Member Davis Sims, did a quick bypass of Laver's proposal and opted for the proposal offered up by Lake Oriana parents.

The tempo increased, and Feather quickly called for

County Requests Measure To Cut Duties Of Clerk

By BILL BELLEVILLE
Herald Staff Writer

County commissioners met with representatives from Public Research and Management in Altamonte Friday in an effort to review recommendations from county department heads concerning re-organization.

The Atlanta firm had recommended the re-organization of the 22 departments in a detailed efficiency study presented to the Board of Commissioners this fall. Board members have been meeting in work sessions to discuss details of the report.

In an effort to avoid duplication of efforts, to speed up county government operation, the county commission segment of government will be organized into eight, and eventually reduced to five departments. Past discussion has already touched on the report's recommendation for a county executive type of government, but commissioners have indicated no firm stands publicly on the recommendations.

In the first step towards significant re-organization of the county clerk's office, the Board this week unanimously agreed to direct county attorney Tom Freeman to draw up a bill that would divide the clerk's office between actual court duties and fiscal duties.

Under the new proposal, County Clerk Arthur Beck's office would be limited to circuit and county court activities, while a professional controller would be appointed to function as clerk to the Board, auditor, and clerk of all county funds.

Although some courthouse observers see this as a threat to Beck's authority as elected clerk, commissioners say that they need a professional controller who would handle fiscal activities.

Sanford businessman, Harold Kastner has been appointed director general of the Shriners Convention coming to Central Florida Aug. 11-12. It is expected to attract more than 20,000 Shriners making it the largest convention ever held in Central Florida.

highest at $158,941, while the crime report revealed November as recording the highest number of offenses with 481.

Property taken in burglaries totaled $172,111 with vehicle thefts totaling $135,682 and larceny, except vehicle, hitting the $106,725 mark.

Most police officials feel the burglary figures will continue to increase as the economy remains unstable or depressed.

Break-ins of county residences from November, 1974, through January, 1975, show a steady rise in daylight robberies. A total of 135 homes have been targets of intruders during the three month span, Sheriff John Polk's records division reports show, for 32.3 per cent of the total number of break-ins logged in that period.

483 Total

Breaking and enterings for the three months total 483 - both nonresidence and residence pacing crime figures that show a steady increase in the unincorporated county sections.

Burglars still prefer night hours, however, for business raids with 67 recorded after dark as compared with 18 confirmed daylight jobs.

While the burglary rate climbed, a total of $40,874 in property of all types was stolen in 1,246 actual offenses. January's property loss was the

County Thieves Work '9 To 5'

Burglars in Seminole County seem to prefer daylight hours to do their work.

Or so the figures from the Seminole County Sheriff's Department would indicate.

A total of 135 homes have been targets of intruders during the three month span, Sheriff John Polk's records division reports show, for 32.3 per cent of the total number of break-ins logged in that period.

483 Total

Breaking and enterings for the three months total 483 - both nonresidence and residence pacing crime figures that show a steady increase in the unincorporated county sections.

Burglars still prefer night hours, however, for business raids with 67 recorded after dark as compared with 18 confirmed daylight jobs.

While the burglary rate climbed, a total of $40,874 in property of all types was stolen in 1,246 actual offenses. January's property loss was the

Students Sought For European Visit

Craig Keogh, Social Studies teacher at Milwee Middle School, has high hopes of visiting either England or France next summer, with a group of Middle School youngsters.

"Last Spring we had been studying about Europe, and some of the students thought it would be a great idea to actually visit the area," said Keogh. "We looked into all the possibilities and came up with a pretty good package tour. The group would leave Orlando; fly on a chartered jet, with everything included in the price of $725, per student. Any middle school age youngster could go, either from Seminole County or Orange. We would ramp near small towns and get to know the real people of the areas. It would be a cross-cultural contact, with everyone benefiting from the experience."

Keogh explained that 150 students are needed to get the package price, and ninth graders are also eligible. The tour would include the first two weeks in August, but students wishing to go should make a $100 deposit by Feb. 20, to Bertie Loftin, Sun Travel, Altamonte.

"March 1 is the last day we have in deciding if we will or won't go," said Keogh. "This trip would be activity oriented. There would be plenty of learning by osmosis. The actual amount of educational benefits derived would be hard to measure, and any youngster could broaden his scope of understanding by taking the tour."

Doctor Appeals Lawsuit

Doctor Appeals Lawsuit

A South Seminole chiropractor has filed suit in circuit court at Sanford seeking to block the suspension of his license for 90 days by the State Board of Chiropractic Examiners.

The action, filed by attorney Seymour Benson for Fred Seltzer, registered chiropractor, alleges Seltzer wasn't given adequate notice by the state board of charges against him before a Jan. 9 hearing at Orlando.

Robert S. Hender, president of the state board, according to the lawsuit, signed an order Jan. 25 suspending Seltzer's state license for 90 days, effective March 2.

The civil action alleges there also were a number of errors in the hearing including "errors committed in the inception of the complaint and notice to show cause as based upon improper affidavits."

Seltzer is seeking a temporarily restraining order against the state board pending a hearing on his petition for a preliminary injunction until a judicial review of the matter is completed.

No date has been set for a hearing in the action which has been assigned to Circuit Court Judge Robert B. McGrege.
