WASHINGTON (UPI) — Judge John Sirica was prepared today to hear arguments on whether to order the CIA to produce its secret documents relating to the assassination of John F. Kennedy.

Hughes Will Trial Underway

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Two hundred prospective jurors today prepared to answer lengthy questionnaires in the first stage of the long-awaited trial to determine if the so-called "Mormon Will" of Howard Hughes is authentic.

Ultimately, a six-member panel will decide the validity of the three-page, hand-written document. Jury selection is expected to take several weeks.

Beef May Provide Coloring

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (UPI) — The beef may provide the food industry with the red coloring it needs if the federal government decides to ban the only remaining artificial dye left on the market.

A University of Maryland scientist is developing a process to extract red colors from beets as an alternative to the artificial dye, which may be a cancer-causing agent.

student. "The noise was unbelievable. Trees were snapping like twigs."

Tom Stacy, 24, was awakened by his mother, a college employee.

"I just stood there and watched the trailers being washed away," he said. "They were banging into each other and being crushed. You could hear people trapped inside screaming."

Therman Kemp, 40, a student, said he rushed to his boys' bedroom, an addition to his trailer home, when the water started rocking the trailer.

"It just started disintegrating. I grabbed my oldest boy's hand and we held onto some wood or something. Then we were out in the open. I lost track of my wife, mother and youngest son, Chris."

"The water was 30 feet high. It was enormous. We were just riding it."

Kemp finally crawled to safety on the bank, taking his 9-year-old son, Morgan, with him. His wife, Dixie Ann, 29, and mother, Ruby Kemp, 71, also survived the ordeal, but 4-year-old Chris drowned.

Later, sitting in a wheelchair, his hands clasped loosely, Kemp said he had lost everything he owned in the flood.

"We were studying to serve the Lord, to be a preacher and a teacher," he said. "If he so desires, we'll continue whenever we get settled down."

Sanford Man Takes Ride; Gets Robbed

Manuel Ortiz has learned to choose his friends a little more carefully. Ortiz, 42, of 2077 Summerlin Ave., Sanford, was shopping in a local grocery Saturday evening when two men offered him a ride.

The trio visited two local bars for beer and a restaurant for something to eat before one of the men pulled an automatic pistol and robbed Ortiz and the second man, identified only as "Flaco."

The robber got $500 from Ortiz and $50 from "Flaco" before fleeing in a 1967 Chevrolet.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Girl, 7, Killed By 36-lb. Cement Block; It Breaks

LAKELAND (UPI) — Police today sought the killer who struck a 7-year-old girl on the head with a 36-pound concrete block so savagely it shattered the block.

"Right now we don't have a lead or suspect," said police Lt. Eugene Nipper. "The motive appears sexual."

The body of Tonie Annette Wright, one of five children of a tile firm worker, was found Sunday morning by horrified children arriving on a bus for Sunday school. The body of the second grader, dressed in night clothes, was lying behind a bush at the rear of the New Jerusalem Baptist Church. Investigators found blood-spattered pieces of the concrete block at the scene.

About the same time, the girl's father, Lewis Wright, 39, was a block away filing a missing persons report with police.

Victim Payments: Only 2 Of 100?

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Because of time and bureaucratic delays, only about two of every 100 violent crime victims in Florida may receive financial assistance under a new victim compensation law, William Doerner, a Florida State University criminology professor says.

Doerner, who has researched and written about crime victim compensation laws in other states, also warns that it may take three or four months for a claim to be awarded. Doerner feels to efficiently help crime victims recover, claims processing should take only 30 days.

Doerner said Florida is expected to soon announce his appointments to the three-member Florida Crime Compensation Commission. The panel was created through a 1977 law which allows victim crime victims to file for up to $10,000 to help pay for medical bills, lost wages and other expenses. Money for the awards will come from special surcharges paid by people convicted of felonies and misdemeanors. The law, which takes effect in January, says judges will order the surcharges on the basis of the crime and ability of the offender to pay.

The Department of Administration is currently reviewing requests for an 11-member staff to work for the commission, which will decide the amount of the financial compensation. Doerner, as part of his academic work, has researched and written about crime victim compensation commissions in California, Hawaii, Maryland, Massachusetts and New York.

Based on his research, Doerner says the problems Florida's crime commission could face — Refusals of law enforcement agencies to notify victims of the compensation fund.

— Inabilities of victims to understand and read the compensation law. Some victims, he says, are illiterate.

— Huge backlog of claims, with some states recording eight to 18 month delays.

— Lack of financial assistance from the federal government.

"It would take billions and billions of dollars to finance a national crime victims compensation program," said Doerner. "That's why the feds won't touch this with a 10-foot pole."

Doerner said Florida will need more than 11 staff members to meet the one month claims processing requirement. Some crime victims, he said, are poor and can't financially afford more than a month to wait for claims. Doerner said 1.7 crime victims out of 100 in New York were compensated in 1973-74. The figure for the same year in Maryland was 1.65 out of 100 victims.

In other states, state attorneys and law of-ficers have fought about who should notify crime victims of compensation funds.

"All victims should be advised of possible compensation benefits by investigating police officers at the scene of the crime," Doerner says.

"It is a brief simple process which shouldn't be time consuming at all. There should be cards given to crime victims about the compensation fund and signs about the new law posted in prominent public places."

Woman's Scream Routs Armed Boy

A Winter Springs woman said today she convinced a 15-year-old boy who broke into her home while she was watching television Sunday after.

to follow through on pressing charges against the youth to "alert people that this happens and that authorities are letting too many of these kids go."

"She said she heard a noise in the kitchen, got up and went to investigate and saw someone wearing a haloween mask. She screamed and turned, running out the front door and the assailant fled through the back door," according to Winter Springs police officer Ed Taylor.

And, the woman, Mrs. Priscilla Rynd, 38, of 150 Cortez St., said she intends

Mrs. Rynd said when she saw the youth in the kitchen, "I saw a shiny object in his hand. I understand that object was later identified as a knife. Police also found a rope on the floor in the house after the incident," she said.

"I'm convinced he wasn't in there to steal anything; I'm convinced he was in my home after me," Mrs. Rynd asserted. "She was alone in the house."

Preventing Terrorism

The recent wave of terrorism is concentrating minds everywhere on the question of how to prevent it, and though not all the answers are new, a fair anti-terrorism science is suggesting itself.

West Germany prudently has sent border guards to 13 foreign airports to take over security checks for Germany-bound planes. A key assumption, besides the one that the airports in question have poor security, is involved here: that skyjacking can be reduced, if not eliminated, by simply tightening security at major airports.

In the last five years the United States has proved the truth of this assumption. In 1972, the last year before the installation of tighter security procedures, there were 10 successful skyjackings; in the years 1973-1976 there were an average of 2.5 per year.

So tighter airport security — even if that means sending one's own personnel to other countries — is one imperative in the fight against terrorism. Another approach is Sen. Abraham Ribicoff's anti-terrorism bill introduced recently in the Senate. Unfortunately, though, Mr. Ribicoff's bill has good and bad parts, with the bad outweighing the good. Yet it is worth looking at, if only to salvage the good.

The bill would require the president to identify those countries that "aid and abet" air terrorists. Sen. Ribicoff would cut off commercial aviation between the United States and such countries and also declare each of those countries as "dangerous" for Americans to travel or live in.

Here the Ribicoff bill starts to run into other foreign policy objectives, like limiting the production of strategic arms and furthering détente. Sen. Ribicoff has named, among the countries the president should "identify," the Soviet Union and China. Clearly, in the larger scheme of things, it obviously will not do to force an American president to cut off flights to, say, Moscow, or to the Soviet Union or limits for traveling Americans.

Still, the senator does propose some sensible things. Passengers from the identified countries would be prohibited from entering the United States until they have visas from countries that do not aid or abet terrorists.

He proposes that export licenses for the sale of munitions to any of the identified countries be banned. He also asks that the sale or transfer of nuclear material or technology to the listed countries be prohibited.

The Ribicoff bill has some good ideas, which, by themselves, are worthy of support. It is the development of more such ideas that is necessary to establish a comprehensive strategy against terrorism.

BERRY'S WORLD

WASHINGTON — With a great show of disapproval, the United States cut off foreign aid in 1975 to Uganda's brutal dictator Idi Amin. Yet a dozen of his crack airborne police are now receiving helicopter training in Texas.

We learned about the Ugandan training mission from an intercepted cable sent by the chief of the police airwing, G.M. Semantaba, to the Ugandan U.N. ambassador, K.Y. Kintana.

The cable was sent from Entebbe, site of the famed Israeli commando raid that freed hostages held by hijackers. It confides that the police pilots will get "advanced flight training and pilot ground school at Bell Helicopter Company, Fort Worth, Texas."

"Their training should run approximately five weeks," reports the cable. Thereafter, "They will proceed for further training at Oak Grove Flight School (also in Fort Worth) for approximately six weeks."

We reached one of the Ugandan pilots, Cyril Isaacs, who told us the trainees arrived in Fort Worth Oct. 25. All are police pilots, he said; none is military.

They could never have been admitted into this country without quiet State Department assistance. Because the U.S. embassy in Uganda has been closed down, the pilots had to get their entry visas through the U.S. embassy in neighboring Kenya.

The biggest laugh at the Florida League of Cities convention last week came when a city official, who described himself as an attorney, told of a recent convention of the "honest lawyers of Florida."

The convention of honest lawyers, he said, was not held at the Hyatt House convention center, but rather in a telephone booth.

But, then, lawyers did not fare well as a whole during several of the workshop sessions. During one held by Insurance Commissioner Bill Gunter, who has been declared the foe of many attorneys since his proposed constitutional amendment to limit "soft tissue type" liability, city officials described some attorneys as "ambulance chasers" and others as incompetent.

Specifically discussed was the city of Tamarac case where Gunter said a man after three drinks ran his car into a decorative boulder located in a highway median and received in court a judgment of $4.7 million.

Secretary of State Bruce Smathers in another workshop attempted to explain a recent U.S.

Supreme Court decision which says that no limits can be placed on the amount a candidate may spend in an election, but does limit the amount that a single person may contribute.

On the other hand, the decision says, according to Smathers a third party, unconnected to the candidate, cannot be limited in ability to oppose or support a particular issue or person.

The Florida Supreme Court, meanwhile, has said that restricting the amount a candidate may spend prior to qualifying for office is an infringement on freedom of speech.

The League adopted resolutions: — Supporting Orlando Mayor Carl Langford in his quest for a seat on the board of directors of the National League of Cities. The NLC Congress of Cities Exposition is to be held Dec. 5 through Dec. 7 in San Francisco.

— Calling on the Florida Congressional delegation to strongly support a law which would make interstate smuggling of cigarettes to avoid state taxation a federal crime.

— Opposing actions of the U.S. Congress mandating social security coverage of all local government employees.

— Calling on the state to permit public identification of minors who are second offenders in the commission of felonies.

— Recommending that the Florida Supreme Court require that violations of municipal codes be enforced in the county courts.

— Urging Congress to preserve Florida as the space center of the free world.

— Protecting to the public Service Commission inverted rate structure established regarding Florida Power and Light Co. rates.

— Supporting re-establishment of the Municipal Court system.

GOP Cashes In On Canal Row

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Although party moderates remain deeply uneasy over the role of the Republican National Committee in condemning the new Panama Canal treaties, GOP leaders have wasted no time cashing in on the action.

On the strength of the resolution adopted by the national committee in New Orleans, Ronald Reagan has lent his name and his considerable drawing power to a GOP fund-raising letter pegged to the canal issue.

The appeal, which was mailed Oct. 21 to some 450,000 potential contributors, represents the GOP's first attempt to capitalize on the anti-treaty sentiment which is proving such a gold mine for right-wing groups outside the party structure.

With the aid of direct mail wizard Richard Viguiera, a plethora of conservative organizations have been raking in hundreds of thousands of dollars by playing on the Panama Canal issue.

Now the Republican National Committee hopes to do likewise with the help of Reagan, who virtually created the issue last year during his hard-fought primary battle against former President Gerald Ford.

In his letter, Reagan is asking for $3 million in contributions to "defeat those Democrats who vote time and time again to support actions that weaken our national security."

Ironically, GOP Chairman Bill Brock had done his best in New Orleans to head off an official party denunciation of the Canal treaties. But conservatives on the national committee prevailed.

Both the New Orleans vote and the Reagan letter create awkward problems for Ford, who staunchly supports the treaties, and for Senate Minority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr., who will be bucking the official party line if he ultimately votes for ratification.

Yet neither man objected to the Reagan fund-raising appeal, apparently believing the GOP's need for money outweighed any personal embarrassment.

And indeed, the Republicans have been hunting financially. As of Oct. 3, the national committee had raised only $1.8 million of its targeted $18.5 million budget for 1977.

Some of the party's fund-raising difficulties have been caused by the success of independent conservative groups, including Reagan's own Citizens for the Republic, in grabbing off donations that might otherwise have gone to GOP organizations and candidates.

But Reagan is being careful to stay within the GOP fold. He is holding off on a Panama Canal fund-raising pitch for his own Citizens for the Republic until after the appeal for the Republican party is well under way.

Furthermore, Reagan has steadfastly refused to step outside the party structure in order to lead a conservative pitch for the canal issue, annoying some of his erstwhile supporters by his caution.

Amin Pilots Train In Florida, Texas

WASHINGTON — With a great show of disapproval, the United States cut off foreign aid in 1975 to Uganda's brutal dictator Idi Amin. Yet a dozen of his crack airborne police are now receiving helicopter training in Texas.

We learned about the Ugandan training mission from an intercepted cable sent by the chief of the police airwing, G.M. Semantaba, to the Ugandan U.N. ambassador, K.Y. Kintana.

The cable was sent from Entebbe, site of the famed Israeli commando raid that freed hostages held by hijackers. It confides that the police pilots will get "advanced flight training and pilot ground school at Bell Helicopter Company, Fort Worth, Texas."

"Their training should run approximately five weeks," reports the cable. Thereafter, "They will proceed for further training at Oak Grove Flight School (also in Fort Worth) for approximately six weeks."

We reached one of the Ugandan pilots, Cyril Isaacs, who told us the trainees arrived in Fort Worth Oct. 25. All are police pilots, he said; none is military.

They could never have been admitted into this country without quiet State Department assistance. Because the U.S. embassy in Uganda has been closed down, the pilots had to get their entry visas through the U.S. embassy in neighboring Kenya.

WINDOW ON EUROPE SALT And Belgrade

MOSCOW (UPI) — Senior western analysts are not worried that increasingly bitter Soviet-American clashes over human rights at the Belgrade conference will affect Strategic Arms Limitation Talks.

"Only 10 years ago, moviemakers flocked to Spain because costs were so low that they practically ruled out any other country," he said. "Now the costs are prohibitive. Moreover, you're never quite sure what's going to happen next in Spain."

PARIS (UPI) — Relations between the French Communist party and Moscow are reported to have taken a new turn for the worse following French party leader George Marchais' decision not to attend Moscow festivities marking the 60th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution.

Marchais' decision to stay home and send central committee member Paul Laurent instead indicates a further cooling of relations between Moscow and the French party, once considered the most pro-Soviet party in the West.

Marchais was reported still smarting over being snubbed by Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev who, during a visit to Paris last spring, ignored a French Communist delegation.

The French party has criticized political repression in Soviet bloc countries. It also has expressed concern that Moscow wants the present center-right government in France to remain in power so as not to upset the balance of power in Europe.

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — Once the western world's favorite movie location, Spain is rapidly losing that status because of sharply increased costs.

In a country where the making of films ranging from the classic "Doctor Zhivago" to Italian spaghetti westerns once was a business involving hundreds of millions of dollars, no victims to death with sledge hammers. The hammers have been wielded usually by its security men in the special "State Research" and "Public Safety" units, not by the police.

Yet official sources say the police have participated in Amin's repression. They operate at least nine Bell helicopters, which were sent unarmed to Uganda. But they could easily have been converted into para-military aircraft, which could be used for chasing down dissidents in the bush and whisking kidnap victims from one torture site to another.

Once the 12 Ugandans complete their helicopter training, another U.S. agency, the Federal Aviation Administration, is expected to lend and license them. At the FAA, a spokesman said there are no FAA regulations to block such a license.

In addition to the police helicopter pilots, three commercial pilots from Uganda are in training at Daytona Beach, Fla. One is sponsored under a personal contract with Idi Amin himself.

A confidential investigation by Rep. Don Pease, D-Ohio, has also uncovered a $4 million contract to provide Amin with a satellite communication system. The contract is held by the Harris Corporation, a Cleveland firm, which has a branch in Florida training about a dozen Ugandan technicians.

Big Amin received his biggest U.S. bonanza from coffee dealers who paid the dictator $12.8 million for his coffee during the first five months of this year.

The outraged Pease fired off a private letter to the State Department, charging that the coffee payments provided "the lion's share of revenue for Amin." The madcap ruler then used the money, complained Pease, "to bankroll his armed forces."

Our sources say that Amin uses his U.S. dollars to pay U.S. technicians in Uganda, to purchase communication equipment from U.S. firms and to pamper himself and friends with whiskey, perfumes and other luxuries.

Footnote: A State Department visa official said there is no restriction against issuing visas to the Ugandans. The Ugandan ambassador to the United Nations didn't return our calls. A spokesman at the Uganda mission said the training was a "private matter."

MEDICAL GROUPS: Rep. Robert Bauman, R-Md., bolstered by $9,000 in campaign contributions last year, from doctors and medical groups, is leading the charge against national health insurance.

VIEWPOINT

Saluting Women In Uniform

By DON OAKLEY

You can put a woman into uniform, but you can't make everybody salute her.

Or so suggests a survey of more than 600 upperclassmen and incoming male cadets conducted by the U.S. Air Force Academy.

Researchers tested the cadets' attitudes toward women both before and after exposure to new female cadets. As reported by Science Service, not only were their attitudes found to be more "traditional" than the attitudes of non-military male colleges students to begin with, but they became ever more chauvinistic after their first contact with women in basic training.

The investigators offer a number of explanations, including the fact that the men's choice of a traditionally male-dominated career like the military indicates they would be less receptive to changing female roles than their civilian counterparts.

In addition, the integration of women into the service academies was mandated by Congress and has thus placed male cadets in a "forced compliance situation."

All of which leads us to predict that the nation's first female cadets and midshippersons should make pretty good officers. They're having to fight quite a battle just to win their commissions.

And still on the subject of the changing sexual relationship, feminist leaders have long pointed out that men stand to benefit as much as women from equality of rights under the law, irrespective of sex.

It's happening. A recent case in point is the striking down of a state law in Maryland under which a man could be sent to prison for failing to support his wife or ex-wife.

Because the law prescribed obligations and penalties for men but not for women, the law was discriminatory and thus a violation of the 1972 equal rights amendment to the Maryland constitution, the Court of Special Appeals in Annapolis ruled.

What effect the decision will have on domestic relations in Maryland can't be predicted, but officials who deal with welfare and nonsupport cases expect it to be especially "disruptive" in their fields.

Theoretically, men under court orders to make payments to their spouses or former spouses and their families could now refuse to do so, although in a subsequent court review they probably would be ordered to pay up again.

This wouldn't make much difference to divorced or abandoned women on welfare, since state support payments would continue in any case. But it could be tough on women who are not on welfare and can't afford to hire a lawyer.

Well, the feminists never promised anyone a rose garden.

He never known Muhammad to run from anyone," King said. "I met with Herbert. His preference was Young."

"But I have whispered to Muhammad and reminded him of his own greatness. He has taken the ball. He went into the ring and said he would fight the winners of the Norton-Young fight."

Meanwhile, Young's manager, Jack Levin, said he would take his fighter to another promoter to line up a bout with Ali before Norton.

"I'm going to try to sign with Ali first, before Norton," said Jack Levin, Young's manager.

"I think Ali might want to fight more than he wants Norton," said the WBC has given Ali 60 days to sign for a fight with ex-Marine Norton. King has a 30-day option with Norton and Manager Bob Birn for negotiations for a match with Ali.

"I'm talking about a total of $12 million in purses," King said. "All would get $3 million."

King said he also is trying to do line up a fight for Young, who is to lose a close decision Saturday. But he said he doesn't have anyone in mind yet.

Bauman claimed that, under Kennedy's bill, "the federal government will decide what the doctor would continue to make all medical decisions for their patients."

Bauman alleged that "your confidential medical records can be read by any bureaucratic snop in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare." Kennedy responded that the bill has the same strict privacy safeguards that are now in effect.

Bauman claimed that "welfare chieftains" would get "free abortions," "free VD clinics" and "free medical care even when they don't need it." Kennedy noted the bill protects patients from unnecessary surgery.

Bauman warned that health insurance would precipitate "tax increases" over $40 billion, unless Mr. Kennedy is willing to plunge the country into debt. Kennedy said it would cost only half that much, with general revenues covering the rest of the cost.

The recipients of Bauman's letter can stop this nightmare, he explained, by sending contributions, preferably in $100 bills, to his organization. The mailing is being financed by the Congress of County Medical Societies, which represents 80,000 doctors who oppose any federal interference in the sacred affairs of physicians.

John Carroll - Not Saints - Beat Saints, 21-0

By DAN RUTLEDGE Herald Correspondent

The Trinity Prep Saints did not "drop" or "blow" the 21-0 victory over John Carroll in Fort Pierce Saturday — they were soundly beaten.

And, strange as it may seem, that's the part that made Joe Kelley feel better.

"I wasn't discouraged at all," the Saints' head coach smiled.

"Except for two mistakes, we played a good game against a good team in higher classification."

John Carroll is leading its district in AA; and is the best

The Saints tried to come back after the kickoff, driving from their 26 to the Carroll 25 — where an interception of a Mike Butcher pass at the 15-yard line stopped the Trinity move.

The home team then went 90 yards in a long, twice interrupted drive that put them on two TDs, and took up most of the rest of the first half.

Carroll moved, steadily on the ground, to the Saints' 48 — where a fumble apparently stopped the drive.

But on first down, at the 48, Butcher fumbled the ball back to the Rams and Carroll's drive resumed.

Gators' Turning Point Came In Tuesday Drills

JACKSONVILLE (UPI) — The turning point in Florida's 22-17 victory over Georgia Saturday did not come during the game itself but four days before, Gator Coach Doug Dickey said Sunday.

"It was Tuesday on the practice field when Wes Chandler took the ball on a sweep and ripped it around left end for 35 yards," Dickey said. "It was the first play of the practice and set a tempo."

"When the best player on your team does that, it demonstrates a lot to the rest of the team. It was the turning point in the football game Saturday."

Dickey called Chandler, who caught one pass for a touch-down and ran for two others, "simply a great college football player and truly an All-American."

A 6-foot-1, 188-pound senior from New Smyrna Beach, who alternated between the split end and fullback positions, blocked, caught scores and post-pattern passes and ran inside and outside.

"It was the most total contribution as a football player that Wes has made to our team," said Dickey who noted that Chandler had caught as many as eight and nine passes in previous games.

Assistant Georgia Coach Vince Dooley, he described Chandler as "a super player and a game breaker."

"They went to him when they needed him and he has certainly done a great job of adjusting to a new position in the wideback offense," Dooley said.

The Bulldogs' coach had little to say about his own team, which lost to Georgia Saturday and 23 in the SEC. "We made entirely too many mistakes on offense. Florida's ability to make the big play when they had to was one of the big differences in the two teams," he summed up.

The Gator victory and Chandler's heroics overshadowed a sterling performance by Georgia running back Willie McClendon, who ran 1 time for 162 yards, including two touchdowns. His final score was a 74-yard touchdown run through the Florida secondary in the second period.

Dickey said Florida would have to play perfect football, meaning no fumbles or interceptions, against Kentucky next Saturday if the Gators hope to upset the Wildcats. The Gators beat Georgia despite losing two pass interceptions and 3 fumbles.

Georgia, which fumbled eight times and lost five, goes against Auburn next week.

A Gator home victory string of 19 games will be on the line against the Kentucky Wildcats.

Returning to the significance of the victory over Georgia, Dickey said, "If we're going to have a great one — we're going to win that ball game."

Ali Wants $12 Million Vs. Norton

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Sooner or later, Muhammad Ali knows he's going to be in the ring again with Ken Norton and the 35-year-old champion is not overjoyed at that prospect.

Norton's split decision triumph in the 15-round encounter is a painful surprise to Ali, who claims he'll stick to his demand of a $12 million purse to sue the pain.

Promoter Don King says he can get Ali $6 million, maybe $9 million. Will that satisfy the champ?

"No," said Ali, attired in a black three-piece business suit. "I got to have $12 million. Government officials say he got $4 million. I'm my last fight and I got to have it to retire."

A King said he thinks Herbert Muhammad, Ali's manager, would accept a bus with the top contender for May or June. Ali is already scheduled for a title defense at Las Vegas Hilton Feb. 19 against the winner of the Nov. 18 match between 4th-ranked Alvin Rightst of Italy and former Olympic champion Leon Spinks.

"I've never known Muhammad to run from anyone," King said. "I met with Herbert. His preference was Young."

Florida-Georgia Sights Not Just On The Field

JACKSONVILLE — What's all this talk about, Doug Dickey's job as head football coach at the University of Florida being in danger?

This response to critics was 22-17 in this town Saturday, which also happened to be the score the Gators edged Georgia by in a game as unique as Times Square on New Year's Eve.

For those 62,000-plus fans at the Gator Bowl. The party began Friday night when motels were crammed past capacity and Duval County nightspots provided the setting for kickoff of the world's greatest outdoor party, rivalled only perhaps by Daytona's Firecracker 400 and Daytona 500.

Specifically, the football game itself is the prime rib of the weekend meal. Ah, but those entrees... and deserts!

It's easy to fall in love at this game. I did it thirteen times — before halftime! I couldn't help but wonder if a husband has ever gone for refreshments at halftime and never returned to his wife.

Peaches are in bloom at this game, and Florida's Sunshine Girls never looked finer.

No wonder my wife goes with me to this game. Jacksonville itself is something of a border town. Located only 35 miles from the Georgia line, there are a liberal number of transplants here. When the

NFL Underdogs Have Their Day Sunday

By United Press International The Cincinnati Bengals, Houston Oilers, San Francisco 49ers and Detroit Lions entered their Sunday games as underdogs, but all four won and took advantage of losses by other teams to move into playoff contention.

The two AFC clubs, the Bengals and Oilers, put themselves in the thick of the Central Division chase. Cincinnati helped itself and the Oilers with a 16-7 decision over the division-leading Cleveland Browns, while Houston, a twopoint underdog, humiliated Cleveland, 47-7.

Her Forte Today Is Broadway Musicals

By MARYLIN SHEDDAN Herald Staff Writer Pat Thomas recalls, "I did not like the constant need for security. I am not that neat a person. We were not supposed to leave a scrap of paper on our desks. If you made three security mistakes you were out."

So Pat Thomas quit her job as an editorial writer with that most infamous of agencies, the CIA (Central Intelligence Agency). She was there for only two years, and that was 20 years ago.

"I graduated from Simmons College in Boston, Mass., in 1946 with a degree in Journalism and English," recalls Mrs. Thomas, who now teaches courses including journalism at Seminole Community College (SCC).

"I had worked with WOPC, a Boston radio station, for two weeks during the time I was in college. My mother wanted me to get that job — and she had to do it during final examinations and asked me to work for her full time."

As much a pioneer then as she is now, Mrs. Thomas accepted the WOPC offer and became one of the first women ever to be heard on the air with a regular news program. She had a weekly special events show.

"There were women doing women's news, but no women at all doing hard news," Mrs. Thomas remembers. "She not only kept her job there for six years, but was approached by the CIA, who wanted to know if she was interested in writing for them."

"They offered me a job in Washington, D.C. and I filed out the application," Mrs. Thomas says, although she still can't talk about the details and information which went into the application.

Two years later the CIA called and offered her a job. "She just answered the phone one day and a voice on the other end said, 'This is the CIA. We wondered if you would like to work with us.'"

Again Pat Thomas accepted a challenge — and took the job. After that two years, another opportunity to pioneer came along — Pat Thomas got a job with Voice of America. She had to have security clearance to get that job — and she had to do it during final examinations and asked me to work for her full time."

"The CIA does not share any of its security information," she explains. "I was there for only two years, and that was 20 years ago. But Mrs. Thomas still can't talk about the details and information which went into the application."

MRS. WALTER RALPH BENTON

Deborah Long, Walter R. Benton Exchange Vows

Deborah Ann Long and Walter Ralph Benton were married Friday at the Central Baptist Church of Sanford. Rev. William Coffman performed the 7:30 p.m. candlelight and double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Long of Palm Beach, formerly of Sanford. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Benton, 1807 Adams Ave., Sanford.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows a formal gown of white tulle fashioned along the empire silhouette. Net inserts traced the high neckline which was accented with bands of Venice lace.

The softly flared skirt terminated in a chapel train edged in lace. Appliqued lace motifs enhanced her tangle lace veil of silk tulle. She carried a nosegay of roses and baby's breath.

Deborah Long attended her sister's maid of honor. She wore a yellow gown designed with a queen neckline, accented with Venice lace. She carried a bouquet of yellow daisies centered with an orchid carnation and showered with baby's breath and lavender ribbons.

Bridesmaids were Jacque Thompson and Debra Yates. Their orchid gown and flowers were similar to those of the honor attendant.

Jack Benton served his son as best man. Usher-groomsman were Ralph Osowski and Kelly Gregory. Kelly Noel was the flower girl and Jay Kridler, the ring bearer.

Immediately following the ceremony, the parents of the bride entertained at a wedding reception in the social hall of the church. The newlyweds will make their home at Yokosuka, Japan, where the bridegroom is based with the U.S. Navy. The bride is a certified dental assistant.

Fatty Foods And Heart Attacks

DEAR DR. LAMB - I have had two heart attacks, both mild, and am on a low cholesterol diet. What are vegetable fats? Are they polyunsaturated or not? Can I have peanut butter sandwiches without too much damage to my system?

DEAR READER - Judging from the enormous number of letters I get about fats that is one of the most difficult concepts for the public to understand about foods. The term vegetable fat includes all fats that don't come from animals or animal products. Hence it includes safflower oil which is low in saturated fat and high in polyunsaturated fat, and coconut oil, which is just the opposite, high in saturated fat and low in polyunsaturated fat.

DEAR READER - From a public point of view, you could develop cancer of the vagina, but of course your days of worrying about cervical cancer are over. The risk of cancer is indeed small in anyone who has had both the cervix and body of the uterus removed.

MATE CHECKED

Lake Mary's John Ulmer ponders his move in checker competition. But he didn't ponder enough, evidently, as he finished fourth — losing the consolation match to his wife, Eunice. "We haven't played each other in checkers for five years, or more," said John. "Mostly we play pinocle at home." Does Eunice beat him in cards? "Sometimes," he said. Mrs. Ulmer was the lone representative of the fairer sex in the contest.

Arabs, Israelis Swap Rockets, Cannon Fire

Arabs, Israelis swap rockets, cannon fire. The increased action by guerrillas in southern Lebanon came despite a five-week-old ceasefire in the fighting between Israeli-backed Christian rightists and Syrian-backed Palestinians and leftists. Chief of Staff Mordcha Gur visited the northern border village and said the rocket attacks were a violation of the U.S.-mediated truce in Lebanon. Under the agreement Israel pulled its tanks and troops out of Lebanon in exchange for a promise that the guerrillas would withdraw from the border region and be replaced by units of the Lebanese regular army. After Sunday's rocket attack in which two men were killed in a carpentry shop, Defense Minister Ezer Weizman said the army may send ground troops back across the border. "The return fire may not be enough," Defense Minister Ezer Weizman said Sunday.

Madden: A Checker Gold And Champion Grandson

By DAN RUTLEDGE Herald Correspondent
It was quite a day for long-time Sanford resident A.L. Madden, and the twinkle in his eyes said he was enjoying it. Monday afternoon at the Sanford Chamber of Commerce Building Madden, 77, of 701 Magnolia Ave., won the gold medal in checker competition at the third annual Golden Age Olympics. But the checker championship was only one source of Madden's elation. "Yes, I'm happy — but not just over checkers. Winning wasn't that tough. There's no competition here. I didn't lose a game. "What I'm really excited about," he continued, "is that I'm going to go see my grandson win a championship." "And, of course, I'm excited that it's my 57th wedding anniversary." Madden is married to the See CHECKER, Page 3A

2 Seminole Men Held, 3rd Hunted In Bank Robberies

The FBI today continued its search for a 29-year-old Casselberry man in connection with two bank robberies for which two other Seminole Counties already have been charged. Being sought on a federal fugitive warrant is Joseph Michael Cusack, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Cusack, 665 Wren Drive, Casselberry. In federal custody is John Thomas Govorukh, 21, of 250 Acorn Drive, Longwood, son of the Winter Springs police chief, held in lieu of $20,000 bond in Orange County Jail. The third suspect in the case is Peter Jeffrey Pinnock, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Pinnock, 301 Fox Squirrel Lane, Longwood, according to the FBI's Atlanta, Ga., office already in service two years for bank robbery at the Federal Correctional Institution, Tallahassee. He's been there since Oct. 7, FBI said. The three were indicted by federal grand juries Nov. 1 and 3 in connection with bank robberies in Atlanta and Allandale, Fla. An estimated $18,000 was taken in the Allandale Bank robbery, July 23, 1976, and an estimated $7,000 in the robbery of the Tucker Federal Savings and Loan Association, Atlanta, Jan. 28, 1977. According to an FBI spokesman, the robbery at the Tucker Federal Savings and Loan Association occurred shortly after it opened at 9 a.m. One man, wearing facial makeup and a wig, entered the financial institution armed with a revolver and ordered everyone to lie on the ground except one teller, who was told to remain standing so the business would appear from the outside to be running normally. The spokesman said, "Two more men entered, at least one armed, and began emptying the cash drawers and vault, the FBI spokesman said. There were no injuries and the trio escaped in a stolen car, the spokesman said. The Allandale robbery occurred in much the same manner, with three armed men entering the bank soon after opening and ordering everyone to lie on the ground, according to local authorities. The trio emptied a teller's cash drawer and the safe and were out of the bank in three minutes, according to witnesses. There were no discharges used during the Allandale robbery, according to witnesses, and no one was hurt. Roadblocks set up immediately after the crime failed to produce any suspects — TOMAS GIORDANO & DENNIS FEOLA.

The Scientists Vs. The Laymen

By DICK WEST WASHINGTON (UPI)
Scientists almost always have trouble making their work understandable to laymen. The problem is that most research nowadays is so esoteric it can't be reduced to terms a layman can fully comprehend. Therefore, whenever there is an important scientific development, we laymen tend to relate it to something in our own experience, and usually the analogy self-destructs. At the breakfast table the other morning I came across a piece in the paper about the team of University of Illinois researchers who reported the discovery of a new form of life on earth. It was the third life form to be identified thus far, if you do not count sex change operations. I found the story so fascinating I read part of it aloud. I quoted one of the scientists as saying the organism came out of the primordial ooze, produces methane gas and thrives on simple, inorganic chemicals. "That's not new," my teenage son commented. "It sounds like Uncle Albert to me." I acknowledged the similarity but pointed out that "this organism is so small you need a microscope to see it." My son was not convinced. "Maybe Uncle Albert is an overweight version of it," he suggested. My son had never before exhibited much interest in science, or any other academic subject for that matter, so I was reluctant to dampen his newly awakened intellectual curiosity. "Let's leave your Uncle Albert out of this," I said. "However, scientists say there may be still other forms of life that haven't been found yet. Perhaps one of them will turn out to be a relative — on your mother's side, of course." Later on, I was talking with a colleague, a political reporter, about the discovery. He said he was wondering if the third life form might have been the nucleus of one of the third party movements that had sprung up from time to time. "Some of those third party movements never developed beyond the microscopic stage," he said. "It could be that nobody noticed this one at all."
