About

Death

A student at a large State University dashed up to a campus pastor one evening and blurted it out. He said "I can't eat, I can't sleep. I just realized that one day I have to

For most of us, the fear of death doesn't strike us this severly and openly. But we will have to admit that the fear of death dogs us under the surface of our everyday, workaday lives. Sooner or later we all realize that death is not something we must face only at age 70. We have to face it at every moment because the possibility of dealth is around every corner. The moment we are born into this world we are already old enough to die.

People have devised all kinds of ways to get around death. Here are several ways our society commonly tries to do this. First, we try to pretend that death never really happens. The subject of death is taboo in polite conversation. We play death down. In our language people don't die, they "pass away." And they pass away to "unknown shores." We try to get rid of the reality of death by camouflaging the one certain fact of life under a blanket of silence and disquise. A second way we try to get rid of death is by believing in the socalled natural immortality of the soul. Notice the emphasis on the word "natural." American religion-in-general has commonly accepted this idea of what happens at death. This differs from the Christian belief in that this is immortality without God: the soul is believed to be naturally immortal as if it has immortality built into it.

The Bible on the other hand, teaches that eternal life is a brand-new, risen, freshly-created life-through the power of the resurrected Christ, For the Christian, death is not just a door which automatically swings open when the soul crosses an electric-eye. Death is a grim and powerful enemey, a tragic emeny who needs to be conquered with nothing less than the power and life of God Himself.

The Word of God gives us a lesson how to die. Scripture says that we can learn how to die-we can practice deathby learning how to live right now with God as He comes to us in Christ. By facing up to death calmly and confidently we can learn to live triumphantly. But looking forward to the hope of the resurrection and everlasting life, everything we do now is given new luster and new zest.

In some ways the Bible is like a "Pocket Handbook on How to Die", much like the Travel Guides we can buy for trips to Europe. And these are Scriptures' two themes: Die Now, Live Now. We can die now, we can practice death, by loosening our hold on the things which don't last for eternity. The cares, petty worries, selfishness, the fascination with our mortgaged home, the near-idolatry of our children, the drive for money and success. These we can't take with us. And it is good to practice dying by realizing it now. It's good to lighten our grip on things which do not really matter at the hour of our death. Scripture calls it "dying to self," looking at life from the viewpoint of eternity.

Vocational Education In Seminole

June is "busting out all over!" The noise, however, is somewhat muted when the ones concerned are those who are looking for summer jobs. Especially is this true of the college graduate who has finished his campus education and is looking for a pay envelope.

While it may be merely a calendar coincidence yet it is worth noting that at the same time that the responsible U.S. News & World Report was circulating its findings on summer jobs - with a discouraging tone - there was taking place in Tallahassee a conference on vocational education which has one answer to this problem.

True, vocational education has had a new lease on life as PHDs find employment more than an academic hurdle and a demand for craftsmen offering jobs for which they are not qualified.

Here in Seminole county the record on the approach to improved and broadened vocational training in our public high schools and especially in our Junior College is something to be proud

 No one would be bold enough to say that this change in the approach to education is something of which the nation as a while is not keenly aware.

The change in our basic way of life, with technological improvements making even the simpler demands for household upkeep involving training which the craftsmen of old did not need to possess, has made the opportunities for vocational education to prove its worth

Thus the goal for continually expanding and improving such training which motivates the policy at Seminole Junior College with president Earl Weldon and vocational-technical director Russ Moncrief calling the shots is very timely and increasingly effective.

Indeed it stands as a very bright exhibit when projected against such a national background as was pointed by Dr. Lee Hardwick, assistant U.S. education commissioner.

Driving home the point of the need for vocational training, the federal official stated: "Nationally, the junior colleges have failed to provide the type of occupational education programs that are needed to fit their students for a place in industry."

Not so in Seminole. For this institution provides not only splended vocational training courses for their students - the goal is to have the entire student body equally divided between vocational students and others - but has prepared courses to remedy the lack of such training for the general public.

Education Faces A Major Break

Copley News Service

College students are earning degrees in less than four years and receiving credits without attending classes as higher education breaks with tradition. These changes could make it easier on parents paying the bills, colleges hard-pressed for space and funds and students who want to get on with their lives more quickly than is possible under the traditional four-year residency requirement for a bachelor's degree. High education also could become available to many more students at lower cost and with fewer difficulties. College administrators and faculty will have to examine closely courses required for degrees to insure that someone receiving a sheepskin in three years will be as well prepared for life as he should have been under the four-year system. New York state has announced a three-year on campus degree program at State University of New York (SUNY) tacilities and an off-campus program leading to associate and bachelor's degrees by taking examinations, consideration of previous college credits, personal experience and work. This new program is open to anyone in the nation, although a trip to New York to take tests may be required. An associate degree could be earned for as little as $250 in test fees under the new program. Both programs shorten the customary eight years of education in high school through college to seven years. While the college curriculum is being compressed some universities and school systems are working to reduce the length of high school programs.

The Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, one of the nation's most selective private institutions, said in March that academically outstanding people who have completed 11th grade or less and who do not have a high school diploma will be considered for admission. Hopkins has accepted students without high school diplomas in the past as special students, but did not encourage the practice.

"Now," explains Hopkins President Steven Muller, "we are saying that anyone whose academic qualifications are above the average of successful Johns Hopkins undergraduates . . . will be considered for the regular program.

without the necessity of completing high school. No special treatment or programs are planned for such students who, according to Hopkins experience and research, do well in their studies. Receipt of a high school diploma comes after successful completion of the first year's college

High school-age youngsters have been attending higher education institutions in the Atlanta area for several years. New Jersey recently established Edison College across the Hudson River from New York City to award external degrees through proficiency examinations and other methods in cooperation with New York education officials for people who

In December, 1970, the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education concluded that a college education could be shortened 25 per cent without sacrificing quality. Efforts to develop off-campus programs and to shorten four-year programs intensified thereafter. SUNY Chancellor Ernest L. Boyer explains, "The blunt reality is that the average 18-year-old at present has had as many hours of formal schooling and has reached about the same level of academic achievement as the junior college student graduate of two decades ago."

One Man's Opinion Depolluting Fuel

Additive Tested

As things stand now, by the 1975 model year, automobile manufacturers must produce cars which emit 90 per cent less hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide than 1970 They have to continue doing it for at least 50,000 miles

Yet even if this goal is reached-and the industry i still trying to convince the government that it won't be reached so soon—there will still be millions of pre-1975 cars on the road for years to come.

What this country needs is some genius who can come up with an additive or something that you could dump in gasoline to cut pollution right now. Something that would work in diesel fuel, too. And as long as we're dreaming, something that would increase gas mileage and boos engine power while it worked.

Farfetched? A recently completed two-year study by the Air Pollution Test Facility at the University of California, Los Angeles (UCLA), indicates that a new fuel additive-CV-100-may be in the nature of just such a

The study was conducted by Albert F. Bush, professor of engineering at UCLA, with his associates John P. Burke and Richard R. Carlson. They claim that when used with conventional leaded gasoline, the additive reduced both carbon monoxide in the exhaust and hydrocarbon emissions by as much as 50 per cent. At the same time, fuel economy was increased by 10 to 15 per cent. Not only was mileage improved, states the report, but "lower-octane rated fuels will perform even better than the high octane fuels without CV-100. In both cases, the cost of the additive is offset by the lower cost of the fuel.

The additive, not to be confused with the widely advertised detergent-type additives used in many gasolines today, can be added to all liquid hydrocarbon fuels, from gasoline to diesel fuels and even heavy bunker grades

After playing second fiddle for three years, Dave McCoy finally gave up that role and became club champion of the Mayfair Men's Golf Association. Dave left little doubt in the minds of most that the long-sought-after title was not going to elude him again. Going into the final round last Sunday, he took a seven stroke lead with him over his nearest rival and past club champion, Larry Sherwood, Playing, conservatively on the final day. McCoy fired an even par round of 72. He could just as easily have turned in his third straight sub-par round, but he bogied the final hole. His three round total was a brilliant five under par 211 and, unless one of the old timers can come up with some better figures, this has to be the assocation record.

Larry Sherwood, who has not been able to play as much golf for the past year, wound up in second place after a three round total of 223, which included rounds of 72-74-77. Third place ended in a tie between four players. After regulation play. Lou Lucchitti, Frank Mebane Jr., Carmer Davis and Bubba Park all finished at 229 and all teed it up at the first tee for sudden death.

Lucchitti, Davis and Park all bogied the first hole, while Frank Mebane Jr. found himself in trouble and double bogied the hole. On the par five second hole, Bubba Park knocked in a 40-foot birdie putt enabling him to pick up the third place

In first flight "A" Division, Ralph Simas took a four stroke lead into the final 18 holes. Ralph turned the front side in 39 and was still in good shape. The incoming nine holes was a much different story as my good friend found nothing but troubles and bogies. He posted a 39-44, 83 which put him in third spot at the finish. In the clubhouse was Bill Jefferies with a three round total of 230, four shots better than Simas. My Sunday partner, Fletcher Cockrell, fired a fine 74 for his final round, giving him a total of 232 and second place.

Harold Ring recorded the only sub-80 round in first flight, "B" division. His final round of 75 gave him a total of 235 and the first place trophy. Bill Sommerville took second place with a 239, while Bill Means captured third spot with 241.

In second flight, "A" division, my good neighbor, Bond Walker, carded a third round 81 for a total of 238, winning the first place trophy by three shots over second place finisher, Earl Higginbotham, who ended up with a final tally of 241. Third place went to Tom Botts with a 246.

The first place trophy in second flight, "B" division, went to my partner for the three rounds, Harold Brooks. Harold finished at 253. Clyde Anderson took second with a 255, while Al Antar finished third with 256.

In third flight, "A" division, R. C. Whitmire carted off the number one trophy after recording the winning score of 244. Five shots back was Berle Hensen, who took second with 249. Fred Koening was still another two shots off the pace, but managed third place with a 251.

Third flight, "B" division saw our number one "BUG", Bill Baker, capture first place with an overall total of 258. the runner-up trophy with a final tally of 263 was Ernest Horrell. He did it though in the only match of cards situation in the whole tournament over J. C. Spencer, who was awarded third place prize.

The only real walk-a-way within all of the divisions was in fourth flight, "A" division, where Bud Richards was never even seriously challenged. Bud finished with a three round total of 256, 13 shots ahead of his nearest competition and second place winner, Carl VonHerbulis. Ray Herron won third place with a total of 273.

In fourth flight, "B" division, Larry Topper won the big trophy by just one shot over Charles Butterworth. Topper ended play at 276, while Butterworth was at 277. Lester Perry won third prize with a 278. In fifth flight, which was played on a net basis, Larry Albrecht played some of his best golf, particularly in the first round, and won top honors in the "A" division with an adjusted score of 206. The number two spot was captured by Dinty Moore with a 209, Roy Whitaker won third with 213. Fifth flight, "B" division, saw Henry Tamm edge out George Parks for the top trophy. Henry finished at 222, while

George Parks wound up at 223. Torn Banks was awarded third place prize with a 229. It's been the practice in the past to award gift certificates, along with trophies, to the winners. This year we decided to put all of the prize money into trophies alone, and

Robinson and Davidson are both in with 4-0 records while Johnson has a 4-1 report card.

It's expected Johnson will get the starting assignment in the opening garae tomorrow night with either Robinson or Davidson taking the nightcap. In a change from her usual oitching manuvering manager Ricker has resorted to lifting her pitchers after four or five frames. Earlier in the season Johnson was working on a nohitter against the West Coast Saints and was pulled in favor of Davidson who preserved the nohitter. Then in the second game of that same twinbill Robinson started and she was working on a one-hitter when Davidson was again brought on in relief and saved the shutout and did not give up a hit for the second straight appearance.

Other usual starters for the Rebels are Judy Hall at first base, Mary Lou Cushing at shortstop, Toni Swartout at third, Diane Davidson catching and Kathy Staley, Snookie Mulder and either Hall or Hayes in the outfield.

Let me tell you about a friend of mine. He wears a dummy hearing aid, which looks exactly like a real one, but isn't. His explanation: "I have a partial hearing loss, but I can hear all right if cople will speak up. But for some strange reason they resent being told to speak up. I used to wear a real hearing aid, which as soon as it was discovered, caused everyone to talk so loudly to me they practically shattered my eardrum. So now I wear a dummy hearing aid, which causes people to speak up as soon as they see it." MRS. H.: ROSWELL, N. MEX.

DEAR MRS. H.: Hear, hear!

DEAR ABBY: I was pleased with your handling of the everend Problem in Meadville, Pa. I am a 76-year-old retired Lutheran pastor and I do not resent it when someone says, "Good morning, Reverend." Some people do not always remember my last name.

Doctors are called "Doctor," and Catholic priests are called "Father," and rabbis are called "Rabbi," so why is bur friend in Meadville so sensitive? JUST AN OLD REVEREND

DEAR ABBY: I liked your answer to the person who wanted to know if she should acknowledge the birth of a Mongoloid child or out of kindness ignore the "tragedy." I will always be grateful to friends who sent cards and gave us the feeling of "normalcy" when our Mongoloid son was born. He is now a happy 6-year-old and a great source of joy to us. He goes everywhere with us and is so full of love, we wouldn't trade him for any other child in the world. Not all Mongoloid children are severely retarded. No one knows at the time of his birth what his potential will be if given a chance. He deserves better than to be written off as a "tragedy." An investment of love and care and a little work can be returned tenfold.

There are organizations all over the country to guide and counsel parents who share this experience. Anyone interested may write to The Mongoloid Development Council, 1810 S. 31st St., Kansas City, Kas. 66106. RUSTY'S MOTHER

Two Methods to Rid Refrigerator of Odor

DEAR POLLY-Jean should set a dish of vanilla in her refrigerator that has the dead mouse smell. Change the anilla daily and the odor should be gone in two or three days. I did not believe this would work until my mother defrosted her refrigerator and freezer and then forgot to turn them on before she left on a week's trip. She returned to find a lot of spoiled meat and chickens. We tried all the usual things and nothing worked until an uncle who works for a large food chain suggested vanilla as that is what

DEAR POLLY-I am answering Jean who has the odor from a dead mouse in her refrigerator. An odor in ours seemed impossible to eliminate so we first soaked newspaper sections in water and placed them in the box. When they were permeated with the odor they were removed and the process repeated and repeated. This helped some. Next we filled foil trays with charcoal briquettes and allowed them to remain for several days. This was re-

You know, there are still parts of our country that are as wild and unspoiled as they were 300 years ago. All you have to do is find them.

With a 4-wheel drive Jeep Wagoneer you can do just that ... strike out on your own and discover new ordinary vehicles simply can't handle. And with high ground clearance, a wide stable track and multi-leaf springs all around, the Wagoneer is designed with safety and durability in mind

It's also built for comfort. With its smooth highway ride, foam padded bench seats and a wide variety of options, the Jeep Wagoneer is the most luxurious 4-wheel drive wagon in the world. Stop in and see us today. We can show you how easy it is to turn ordinary driving into a family adventure. . . in a Jeep Wagoneer Toughest 4-letter word on wheels.

a Charleston West Virginia address, was charged with breaking and entering with intent to committ grand larceny. He is being held without bond in the county jail.

Davis told local authorities that he is an escapee from the Moundsville, West Virginia Prison where he was supposedly serving a 30 year term for armed robbery. Deputy Scott Grant was headed north on SR 427 and stopped for the traffic light at SR 434

when he thought he noticed a movement inside

Grant switched off the lights on his patrol car pulled into a nearby service station and drove around the corner of the building. He walked in front of the building and seeing no one inside, started around the side as though he were going to the back. But then Grant suddenly cut back around to the front and found Davis trying to get out, through a hole in the roof. Grant tapped on place and were found in the middle of the floor in the window and the burglar found himself broken cardboard boxes.

Grant called for help over the radio and Lt. Bill Ropoins, Sgt. Ronnie Miller and deputy Steve with a shotgun, helped Grant guard the suspect while they waited for someone to open the door. Longwood Police Chief Eddie Sweat was also on Detective Sgt. George Abogy was called to the scene to handle the investigation. A store official could not be contacted immediately and the officers broke the padlock on the door.

Investigations showed that the suspect had apparently entered through the roof of the building. He had pried loose a section of a fan in the back of the building and was throwing articles through a hole landing onto the ground;

Cigars, cigarettes, sun glasses and several food items were found on the ground outside the
