Accident fatality reported

LONGWOOD - An 18-year-old Longwood man died Saturday following an accident at Hunt Club Boulevard Friday night.

Shamus McCrackin, 311 Radaraugh Drive, died of head injuries at 9 p.m. Saturday at Orlando Regional Medical Center, said a hospital spokesman. McCrackin was rushed to ORMC after the driver of a Volvo he was riding in drove into the path of a 1987 Porsche driven by a 21-year-old Longwood man, according to a Florida Highway Patrol dispatcher. The Volvo overturned and came to rest on its top, the spokesman said.

The accident injured the Porsche driver, Chad Christopher Carter, 216 Pheasant Run Court, Longwood, and a passenger. Todd Gignac. 17, 106 Stag Ridge Court. Longwood. Both were taken to area hospitals. The driver of the Volvo. 17-year-old Kristin Courtney Prince, 17, 176 Crown Point Circle, Longwood, and another passenger, Sean McCrackin, 15, were also injured and taken to area hospitals. An investigation is continuing.

SANFORD - Caryl Hogsett says the risk of going to jail is worth conducting Bingo for charity as planned at the American Legion tonight.

Bingo is illegal today in Florida. The House and Senate were unable to agree Monday on how to re-authorize the laws that allow bingo, meaning it has become another form of illegal gambling. As American Legion Auxiliary Bingo chairman. Hogsett said repercussion from the Bingo law could touch poor children, veterans, handicapped, struggling students and the elderly. The auxiliary last year donated almost $30,000 raised from Bingo games to charity. Hogaett said the Legion and auxiliary probably raises more money from Bingo for charity than any other local organization, including scholarships for teen moms at Crooms School of Choice, food and financial assistance to the Rescue Mission in Sanford, and necessities to hospitalized veterans.

Tonight's game is to benefit Seminole Work Opportunity Program, by which physcially and mentally handicapped people are trained for the game is on." Hogsett said. Things reached this point because the Legislature set June 1 as the "sunset" date for the laws that authorize bingo. The purpose was to create a deadline that would force action on bills to enact tough new regulations on the games, particularly commercial for-profit operators.

The Senate, angry at being dictated to by the House, refused to go along with a compromise bill (SB 150H) that would have extended current law until July 1, 1993. The Senate wanted no end date.

Neither chamber planned a session until Thursday, meaning bingo will likely be a second-degree misdemeanor punishable by up to

"I don't believe anyone from our area will ever get elected." and Sanford Mayor Bettye Smith. "I think our area minorities would be better served by a Seminole County district." "I think we're going to have two Democrats in Seminole County." and Bill Gilmartin, chairman of the Seminole County Democratic Executive Com-mittee. "I think the local residents will be heard because they will demand it."

A Sederal court approved a redistricting plan for Florida last week after the Legislature failed to agree in their own plan. The maps split Seminate County native districts.

The new District 3 places portions of Sector north Seminole County, along with se

Police said the limousine crashed when, according to the driver, its accelerator became stuck.

Thirteen people were injured and three remained hospitalized, including a 75-year-old man in critical condition.

Ex-wife cannot use embryos

KNOXVILLE. Tenn. - Seven frozen embryos are in legal limbo after Tennessee's Supreme Court ruled that a divorced woman cannot use them to make her ex-husband a father against his will.

The five-member court ruled unanimously Monday that Mary Sue Davis Stowe cannot implant or donate the test-tube embryos she and Junior Lewis Davis conceived three years ago before their breakup.

It was left unclear what might happen next to the 4- to 8-cell embryos frozen in liquid nitrogen at a Knoxville fertility clinic.

The court said the clinic "is free to follow its normal procedure in dealing with unused pre-embryos, as long as that procedure is not in conflict with this opinion."

Charles Clifford, Davis' lawyer, said the embryos probably will be destroyed.

"You can't give them to us, can't give them to her, can't donate them if anybody objects. So what does that leave? ... Turn up the heat," he said.

"I guess they are just going to sit there," said Mrs. Stowe's lawyer. Kurt Erlenbach. "That's what we will explore over the next few days."

HISTORIC dig nears end

By J. MARK BARFIELD Herald Staff Writer

ENTERPRISE - An archaeological crew comprised largely of Seminole County volunteers will complete the final week of their 'dig'' in the muddy banks of Lake Monroe.

Barbara Purdy, a University of Florida anthropologist, along with her team of two graduate students and about 40 volunteers, are digging down and 6,000 years into the past at some of the earliest central Florida residents, the Timucuan indians or their ancestors.

Edie Hall Smith, local project coordinator, said the site has already yielded what Purdy called an "artifact city" of food remains and implements used by the ancient lakeshore residents. The oxygen-free muck of Lake Monroe has preserved fragile pieces of wood and seeds to offer a snapshot of the ancient residents.

Shell tools, stone arrow points and axes and what Purdy believes may be clay boiling balls have been discovered in the small hole. Smith said boiling balls were heated in fires, then dropped in a liquid to heat it. An exploratory dig in 1989 revealed the diet of the site's earliest inhabitants consisted largely of a wild Bee Dig. Page 5A

City debating trash collection

By MICK PPEIFAUF Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD - Disagreement was heard on a solid waste franchise in Longwood last night. City Comissioners expressed concern over the pickup schedules.

The matter was brought up during discussion of an ordinance amending the City's Solid Waste Franchise. It called for a $2.42 increase in monthly costs, and the inclusion of a separate pickup day for yard trash.

Charles Wilson, general manager of Industrial Waste Services was on hand to discuss the proposal with the Commissioners. He suggested Thursday as the day for the yard trash pickup.

"Most people do their yardwork on the weekends," said Commissioner Paul Lovestrand. "does that mean the trash has to lie around until

Chiles says his tax hike is 'straight talk'

By CURT ANDERSO Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE - A $1.35 billion tax hike may be unpleasant, but Gov. Lawton Chiles told legislators and a statewide TV audience it's the bitter pill needed to keep Florida healthy.

"Will it be easy? No. Will it be risky? Yes. But those are the wrong questions." Chiles said Monday night. "The right question is, is it the right thing to do?"

Chiles urged lawmakers meeting in a special session to set aside election-year politics and face what he calls reality: that Florida's outdated tax system cannot continue to support the fast-growing. fourthlargest state.

"It's time that we get real." he said in his speech. "People are tired of being patronized, lied to, and misled. They want straight talk. commitment and follow through." The governor's plan would

"This madness for taxes has got to stop. Because if it doesn't, our taxes will balloon to $93 billion by the turn of the century. It's time to pop that balloon once and for all." Crenshaw said in his prepared remarks. "As we all know, taxes, like a lot of unwanted pounds, never come off."

In fact. 21/2 minutes of Chiles' remarks were cut off because of an agreement with Florida Public Television, which provided the feed to stations around the state. That written agreement called for the GOP response to begin promptly at 7:20 p.m., and Chiles exceeded his allotted time. Chiles said the money he wants to raise would be spent on preventative programs that attempt to head off problems before they occur. such as the "Healthy Start" initiative that provides poor mothers with medical care for their infants.

Tax protesters and tax backers turned the Capitol into a carnival of conflicting views Monday as the Legislature convened its fourth special session of the year.

"Ax the tax!" chanted 90 tea-bag toting protesters in a demonstration organized by the state Republican Party against what Chiles calls his "fair share" tax plan. "Fair Share? Raw Deal!" read one sign.

The "Florida Tea Party" protesters carried several cartons of mailed-in tea bags to Chiles' office.

The Coalition for Florida's Future, made up of school, social services and environmental groups backing Chiles, responded with releases saying the event was more like the Mad Hatter's tea party than the Boston Tea Party. Disce Tax, Page 5A

Laws may help fight discrimination

ORLANDO - AIDS sufferers expect job discrimination to subside beginning next month, when new federal laws go into effect. Meanwhile, some are going to court over the problem. fect. Meanwhile, some are going to court over the problem. Florida law prohibits discrimination against someone who has, or appears to have, the virus that leads to acquired immune deficiency syndrome. But few complaints or lawsuits have been filed because of the difficulty of proving discrimination, lawyers say.

The federal regulations are part of the Americana with Disabilities Act and similar to Florida's statutes. They provide another legal avenue, but advocates for those with the disease say discrimination takes many forms.

'I think there's discrimination in spite of the law because the fear of AIDS is so overwheiming." says Joe Egan. an Orlando labor lawyer who has handled AIDS-related discrimination Cases.

Lawyers say some AIDS victims shun legal battles because of their deteriorating health or because it may sabotage their efforts to get other employment.

Those who do charge discrimination usually settle out of court, lawyers say, avoiding years of legal hassies, fees and publicity.

GAINESVILLE - A Bradenton man was being held without bond in the death of his girlfriend, who police say was "pushed. thrown or carried" over the railing of a seventh-floor balcony.

Ron Hummel appeared before a judge Monday in the Sunday ath of Johnna Munro, 23, also of Bradenton, and was ordered held without bond at the Alachua County Jail, said Lt. Sadie Darnell, a police spokeswoman. She said detectives were filing murder charges and that the case would be taken before a grand jury.

Ms. Munro fell from a seventh-floor balcony onto the second floor ruof of the University Centre Hotel, Darnell said.

Hummel was arrested after officers noticed what they said were inconsistencies between his statements, those made by his friend and statements of several hotel guests, Darnell said.

Ms. Munro and Hummel were involved in a loud argument just before she fell at 4:57 a.m., Ms. Darnell said. Ms. Munro died about six hours later at Shands Hospital, which is across the street from the motel.

WEST PALM BEACH - An 11-year-old who gave his life jacket to a friend taking part in a cance race later slipped off an inner tube and drowned, his family and school officials said.

Danny McClusky, who had just finished fifth grade, was one of several children who drowned around Florida over the weekend.

Danny, of Clewiston, was camping in a church group with his father near Boynton Beach on Sunday.

He gave his life preserver to another boy so the cance team wouldn't lose time running for another preserver, said Danny's father, David McClusky.

Danny then apparently fell off the inner tube he used to float on the manmade lake, said church group leader Michael Trudeau.

The boys, all 12 to 14, had been taught water safety, but "the kids were just having so much fun they didn't notice he was missing." Trudeau said.

LAKELAND - For decades, Florida has bragged that its orange juice exceeded federal standards, but now the federal government says the state can't hold processors to its own rules.

The decision by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration could allow the use of pulp wash. a watery byproduct of the orange Juice concentrate process.

"This is a real can of worms," John Attaway, scientific research director of the Florida Department of Citrus in Lakeland, told the Orlando Sentinel on Monday.

Florida has invested years and thousands of dollars in tests to detect pulp wash in juice packed in the state or elsewhere by ompanies that wanted to advertise that they met Sunshine State standards. "Now all that seems to be down the drain." Attaway said.

Average consumers should not be able to taste the difference in their OJ if there's a little pulp wash - say two percent of volume - in the product, Attaway said. But some processors may be tempted to use more

U.S. standards for orange juice color and taste prevent the unlimited use of the stuff, because too much would make the product pale and bitter.

However, Atlaway said unscrupulous companies may be tempted to add alightly more pulp wash to gain an economic advantage. Violators may find that easier to do now, he said, because determining percentages of pulp wash in juice is impossible

While it is unclear how many processors will begin using pulp wash in their juice, economics probably will force most or all processors to use at least some, said Bob Tate, an orange juice futures broker at Dean Witter Reynolds Inc. in Orlando.

"if you didn't use it, it would be equivalent to leaving boxes of oranges on your floor," Tate said.

Citrus Associates Inc., which oversees orange juice futures trading for the New York Cotton Exchange, late last week changed its rules to allow pulp wash in orange juice delivered in the market.

Lakeview band teacher disciplined for conduct

By MICK PPEIFAUF Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - Stephen A. Paterson, a Lakeview Middle School instructor, has been reprimanded for a conduct among students and is continuing his teaching under state restrictions. According to the Education Practices Commission in Tallahassee, allegations were filed against Paterson, a Lakeview Middle School band teacher, for events that occurred during the 1990-91 school year. He was accused of "inappropri-ate conduct with students." The accusations charged him of having made, "...comments about sexual activities in the classrooms, and discussing sexual subjects with male students outside the classroom."

The allegation also cited Paterson's showing of a Cheech and Chong video which it listed as having "inappropriate language". Following the initial accusations, the Seminole County School board suspended him wihout pay for five days, on Feb. 12, 1991. The suspension report was forwarded to Tallahassee. and the matter has been under consideration by state authorities since that time.

Paterson's attorney. Ron Meyer, of Tallahassee com-mented, "This wasn't a severe problem and the punishment wasn't serious either. He added, "I wouldn't call it any morals issue, rather it was probably a case of poor judgement on the part of Mr. Paterson." He added, "One of the big problems in this case was the problems in this case was the amount of money it was costing Mr. Paterson. Had he contested the allegations, it would have been held up for a considerable length of time, with a high cost." He added, "I have no doubt some of the allegations could have been disproven, and he denied any wrong doing, but some things were factual such as the showing of the Cheech and Chong video tape during a lunch break.

In January of this year. Paterson's attorney presented a settlement agreement to the Commission, which was approved during the meeting in Taliahassee this past week. Officials at Lakeview Middle Karen Wilde, executive director of the Commission explained, "Mr. Paterson, the Commission, and their legal representatives met last Thursday, and were able to reach agreement on a settlement in the case." She added, "Paterson has elected not to contest the allegations.

Wilde reported, "He has been insued a written reprimend, and placed in a probationary period for four years, with the stipula-tion that he follows the terms of the agreement."

Dog Track Road widening plans to be unveiled soon

J. MARK BARFIELD Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD - Seminole County road planners will unveil their recommendation for the widening of Dog Track Road to the public June 8 at Milwee Middle School.

Road planners are considering three options for the project, a decision that could affect two or more businesses at the intersection of Dog Track Road at County Road 427.

The public hearing will be held from 2. p.m. to 9 p.m. in the school auditorium, 1725 C.R. 427 South.

County project engineer Frank

VanPelt said the main aim of the project is to widen Dog Trach Road from two to four lance. Road designers are also con-sidering aligning Dog Track Road with Charlotte Street, west of C.R. 427.

VanPeit said computer traffic demonstrations have suggested much of the congestion on the road is caused by traffic crossing C.R. 427 between the two streets. If the two streets are aligned, much of the congestion will be relieved, VanPeit said. But aligning the two strests by curving either one or both to meet the other at C.R. 427 will result in damages to two or three businesses incased at the corner.

FORT MYERS - A skull stored at the Smithsonian Institution may belong to an Geneva-area man hanged for his involvement in the plot to assassinate Abraham Lincoln, experts say.

The man, Lewis Powell, has descendants in the Fort Myers area who are trying to decide if they will bring the skull back to Florida for burial.

Powell was 21 when he was convicted and hanged as a major conspirator and lieutenant of John Wilkes Booth in the assassination of President Abraham Lincoln April 14. 1865.

Tom Harney, public information officer for the Smithsonian's Museum of Natural History in Washington, said the museum is attempting, through forensic pathology, to conclusively identify the skull as Powell's.

"And that will probably take several weeks," he said.

Stencilled with the numbers 2422, the skull was recently discovered along with some Indian remains. The museum contacted Fort Myers substitute teacher and Civil War buff Walter Burke to help identify ill.

Burke has a photostatic copy of a receipt that shows the skull given to the Smithsonian was Powell's, identified by same numbers, he said.

said the family has not made a decision about whether they will attempt to claim it.

"I've heard rumors for years about Powell and his tie to our family." he said. "Obviously we're talking about it a lot more now than before."

Powell did not participate directly in Lincoln's assassination, but was part of the wider conspiracy to attack other members of the government.

In the evening as Booth shot Lincoln while the president watched a performance of "Our American Cousin" at the Ford Theater. Powell attempted to assassinate Secretary of State William H. Seward.

He stabbed Seward several times but Seward, who was recovering from a buggy accident with his broken bones bound by leather, survived and later identified Powell as his attacker.

Powell, who went by other names but was known to many as Lewis Payne, was raised in the Orlando area. He joined the Confederate Army and met Booth, whom Burke describes as "the Tom Cruise of his era." while attending a play in Richmond. On Jund 29, 1865, Powell, David Herold, George Atserodt and Mary E. Surratt, owner of a boarding house where authorities said conspirators plotted Lincoln's death, were convicted of murder and sentenced to hang.

On July 7, two months later, the four were led to the gallows. The court had recom-mended that Surratt's sentence be commuted to life but President Johnson took no action on the recommendation.

Everyone but Powell spent their last hours with relatives. No one came to see Powell.

Burke said that when Powell reached his seat on the scaffold, he thanked his guards and then told them Surratt was an innocent victim and didn't deserve to die.

In the final seconds, hoods were placed over the prisoners' heads and then nooses put around their necks.

Christian Rath, the executioner, told Powell "I want you to die quick."

"You know best, captain." were, accord-ing to historical accounts, Lewis Powell's last words before the trap doors dropped simultaneously and the four were hanged.

Their bodies were placed in gun boxes with notes in jars identifying them and buried at the base of the gallows. In March 1869, President Johnson ordered the bodies released to the families.

Surratt, Herold and Atzerodt were claimed by relatives and reburied. It is not known what happened to Powell, although Hart said the family had long thought his body was eventually retrieved and buried some-where between Washington and Florida.

"Unfortunately, there are just some blanks that will probably never be filled in." said Burke.

EDITORIALS Fair trade?

Taiwan, America's fourth-largest trading partner, has been placed on the U.S. trade representative's priority list, which is reserved for nations that are the most egregious violators of U.S. intellectual property rights.

Taiwan is "a center for copyright piracy and trademark counterfeiting of U.S. products," according to a statement from the Office of the U.S. Trade Representative. The Pacific Rim nation's failure to protect U.S. intellectual property costs American businesses billions of dollars each year.

Taiwan joins India and Thailand on the, priority list of pirate nations. Under the so-called Special 301 provisions of U.S trade law, once a nation is added to the list an investigation is conducted within 30 days to determine whether the practices are actionable and, if so, what punitive measures should be taken.

India, for instance, has been cited for inadequate protection of U.S. pharmaceutical patents. In retaliation, President Bush recently suspended India's privilege to ship certain medications and chemicals to the United States duty-free. This will cost India an estimated $60 million a year in export revenue.

Thailand has been identified by the U.S. trade representative as a haven for pirates of American films, computer software and music. U.S. pharmaceutical companies, in particular, protest the brasen reproduction of their patented prescription medications by Thai drug makers, who sell the knockoff drugs at below-market prices and fail to compensate U.S. patent holders in any way.

Mr, Bush so far has refrained from imposing sanctions against Bangkok while the new government of Prime Minister Suchinda Krapraycon settles in. If the Thai government proves unwilling to crack down on piracy, it is almost certain that Bangkok also will be punished by the United States for unfair trade practices.

WILLIAM A. RUSHER

Americans have lost faith in politics

It is a commonplace nowadays that communism, socialism, and the more aggressively statist aspects of modern American liberalism are all thoroughly discredited. What is not so well recognized is what this implies for the whole realm of politics.

We have been no immersed in politics for the past 200 years that many people simply don't realise there are other ways of coping with human problems. Thus in the May 25 issue of The New Republic Ronald Steel complains that "The effect of four successive presidents running against government in general and Washington in particular has been to discredit not only politicians, but the elemental belief that the vehicle for addressing political problems lies in politics."

Mr. Steel ought to consider the possibility that where there's so much smoke there may be a fire. One of the central insights of conservatiom, now slowly working its way into the national consciousness, is that politics is not by a long shot the only solution for human problems -even communal ones. On the contrary it can, and often does, just make them worse.

Yet anyone who suggests, as both President Bush and Vice President Quayle have done, that the Los Angeles riots were caused by a breakdown of social standards that is fundamentally moral in nature, and susceptible of solution primarily at that level, is still accused in

The notion that politics is the only, or at least the best, way of attacking social problems is an 18th-century heresy derived from that copious fount of good a n d e vil, the Enlightenment. One can see how it developed, out of the new enthusiasm for democracy as a form of government. Gradually, as democracy grew into a sort of civil religion, replacing older faiths, politica eliminated all rivals as the presumed best means of addressing and resolving major public problems.

Lemocracy has become our secular and resolving major public problems. Today, for all practical purposes, it is the only means left. Democracy has become our secular god: the politicians are its priests, and the

The remaining nominal exponents of older faiths -- the clergy of the main-line religions and the professors in their groves of academe -merely underscore the dominance of politics by their obscene eagerness to subordinate to it the great truths entrusted to them. Every trendy, liberal bishop will find, in this year's Democratic platform. God's true and lively word, while politically correct scientists solemnly bid us vote accordingly or face (as one of them is forever threatening) "The extinction of the human species."

I suspect that a profound, instinctive distrust of politics-as-the-solution lies at the bottom of this country's spectacularly low voter turnouts. No doubt certain socially marginal individuals fail to vote for elemental reasons that can be summed up in the word "alienation." But they certainly don't constitute the one-half of all eligible voters who refuse to exercise their franchise. It is drummed into us from childhood that participation in public affairs (i.e. politics). or at the very least voting, is our civic duty, as well as a high privilege.

JOSEPH SPEAR

Time to wake up and smell coffee

Sorry about that rude wake-up call, but you have been somnolent for 20 years and absolutely comatose for the past 12. While visions of sugarplums danced in your head, the country has been going to hell in a handbasket and is currently facing its most profound crisis since World War II.

We are talking fundamental survival here. Washington.

Our nation is 84 trillion in debt and going deeper at the rate of $45,662,100 an hour, $1.1 billion a day, $400 billion a year. This is not pseudo petf, people. It is real money that is coming from investors, a third of them foreign, who thus far have been willing to buy our bonds to keep us afloat. What happens if they lose faith in our ability to make good on our com-mitments? What if bond prices subse-quently collapse and interest rates soar? What would happen

The reluctance of nations like Taiwan, India and Thailand to enforce U.S. intellectual property rights provides ammunition for lawmakers on Capitol Hill who favor protectionist trade policies. By demonstrating his willingness to impose sanctions against these pirate nations. President Bush can show that it is possible to deal firmly with isolated cases of unfair trade while also promoting free trade. And that is a lesson which Taiwan should not ignore.

HODDING CARTER Dollars for defense off target

Government. like each of us individually, is a creature of habit, and habits are hard to break. That is a partial explanation of the failure of Congress and the White House to make the obvious connection between rhetoric and action when it comes to matters military in the post-Cold War world. While virtually everyone in public office tries to take credit for the collapse of the Soviet Union, few seem willing or able to support a new defense budget and defense priorities that take it into full account. It is a troubling collective failure.

There is more involved than old habits, of course. There is also money. Left and right. Capitol Hill and president, politicians vie to see which favored program can be preserved or which weapons system can be protected. The ultimate clincher is a familiar one: The economy cannot take the loss of defenserelated purchases and jobs.

Once upon a time, redundancy and waste in defense were justified by reference to national security. The ultimate argument always went something like this: "We cannot afford to take chances with our very survival." And so we maintained three different manned bomber programs in the day of ICBMs, two different ICBM programs in the name of nuclear deterrence and a vigorous nuclear testing and production program in the name of readiness.

Then came the late 1980s and the crash of communiam. For a brief moment, there was talk of a peace dividend. No one thought that all swords could be bent into plowshares, but few argued that there had to be as many swords, or as wide a variety. The Bush administration made halting, but real, steps toward reducing defense expenditures. A window of opportunity was briefly open.

As it turns out, that was in part an illusion.

The budget agreement of 1990 erected a "firewall" between defense and domestic budget categories. Money saved in one category could not be transferred to another, except by explicit revocation of the agreement. As the recession of 1991 became the recession of 1992, some congressional Democrats tried, and failed, to breach the wall, hoping to apply defense dollars for the cities and education. That failure, along with the recession, made hawks of doves and led to some ludicrous votes - ludicrous, that is, if you believe in even a modicum of ideological consistency.

There is, for instance, the Seawolf nuclear submarine. The Pentagon decided the new world order did not require its continuation. It was overruled by a majority in both houses, which demanded that two more be constructed, at an additional cost of some $3 billion over a five-year period. Teddy Kennedy, Bob Kerrey and Pat Moynihan, to name but three liberals much given to speeches about defense waste, voted for the multi-billion dollar boondoggle.

The administration fought against extending the Seawolf, which is to its credit. But the president and his men have been strangely insistent on several other programs that make no sense at all in the 1990s. They continue to claim that underground nuclear testing is essential. They support the reopening of fissile materials plants that were closed because of radiation and other environmental scandals. And they actively promote and financially underwrite the sale of American weapons abroad.

All three are detrimental to America's long-term interests and national security. The world is already buried in weaponry; selling more stimulates demand and encourages continued conflict in areas like the Middle East, where today's valued customer can, as with Iraq two years ago, become tomorrow's blood enemy. Arms sales also fuel tragedy in places as far distant as the former Yugoslavia and Cambodia.

There is more

involved than old habits, of

As for our nuclear testing and production, it is self-defeating lunacy. There is enough weapons-grade material available in the world today to take care of all legitimate, and illegitimate, needs for years to come.

And the longer that we continue to test our own weapons, the stronger our message to the non-nuclear world. Don't watch what we say, watch what we do. As Congressman Les Aspin, chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, pointed out in an excellent paper last February called "From Deterrence to Denuking," nuclear proliferation is the overriding threat to U.S. security in the 1990s. It is in our own interest to convince other nations that nuclear weaponry is unnecessary. It is no less in our interest to persuade those who are already in the nuclear club to restrain or end their weapons programs. That is why even this administration, usually an apologist for anything Beijing does, protested its recent massive underground test.

Hypocrisy is the word that comes to mind.

Down the tubes, people. Gurgle, gurgle.

to social programs and health plans and student loans and highways and defense and welfare and government pensions?

Down the tubes, people. Gurgle, gurgle.

The House Budget Committee report that jarred you awake says the books will never be balanced unless numerous programs are curtailed or suspended. It would require an undertaking of unprecedented dimensions. Big projects -- "Star Wars" and space stations and superconducting super colliders -- would have to be eliminated. Entitlement programs -- those automatically funded things like Medicaid, veterans' benefits and farm aubsidies that devour 65 percent of the budget -would have to be cut back.

In a way, it's downright farcical. The Budget Committee report was actually prepared to persuade you not to balance the books. It was designed to scare you into voting against a constitutional amendment that would mandate balanced budgets. But it got your eyes open; indeed, you woke up squealing. House Speaker Tom Foley, D-Wash., groaned that mandated balanced budgets would "complicate our facel policy budgets would "complicate our fiscal policy ... force U.S. government securities to scream upwards and cost the American people billions of dollars."

There are a few things about this whole exercise that confuse us Common Folk:

1) Does it not occur to the Foleys of this world that being so deeply in debt is already costing us over $300 billion a year? That's just the interest on the national debt. Money down the tubes, gurgle, gurgle.

down the tubes, gurgle, gurgle. 2) Why can our leaders not understand that slicing a little pork here and mopping up a little waste there won't even dent the deficit? This year's shortfall - $400 billion -- amounts to a quarter of the total budget. If you eliminated the entire domestic discretionary portion -- that's every single non-defense, non-entitlement penny -- you would still be $188 billion in the hole. If you wiped out the entire Pentagon -- every tank and plane and designer tollet seat -- you would still have a battom line of $100 billion, written in florid red.

3) How could you be so damned dumb? Did you really think we could go on forever, just piling debt on top of debt? Did the thought not flicker somewhere in the recesses of your gelatinous cerebra that there would have to be an accounting someday? That if we didn't clean up our own meas, it would be left to our children to do it?

What can Washington do?

Cut. Defense spending, domestic spending, entitlements. Yes, Medicare, Medicaid, Social Security, government pensions.

Legislature's failure to create the districts a "travesty" and has recommended an amendment to the state Constitution to have an independent body draw the new boundaries every 10 years.

The District 7 creation forced McCollum of Longwood into a decision of remaining loyal to his fellow Seminole County residents or choosing a more politi-cally-prominant Orange County district. Monday, McCollum chose District 8, which includes most of Orange County and a small portion of Osceola County.

"This was a very tough decision." said McCollum. "My family has lived in Seminole County for a long time, longer than my political career. But I think it was the right decision. based on my experience. The Naval Training Center, now the V.A. hospital, and other federal institutions will need my experience in Washington."

McCollum, who has served 12 years, said his support for the NTC location for the new Veteran's Hospital played no role in his decision to run for District 8. He said he supported a hospital site split between Seminole and Orange County as his second choice.

"I want to make it clear my interest in the V.A. hospital had no foundation in my decision." McCollum. "At the time, I had no idea what the districts would be.

McCollum said if he is elected to District 7. his family will remain in Longwood until his son Justin completes his senior year at Lake Brantley High School this year. McCollum said federal law does not require federal lawmakers to live within their district, but does require them to live in the same state.

Earth Summit Hopes for real gains sink on eve of meeting

Accolated Press Writer

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil - The atmosphere is stive in Rio on the eve of a world summit devoted to the planet's well-being.

Thousands of diplomats, ecologists and native leaders have packed the city's bars, restaurants and taxis, easing the pain of a protracted recession. Residents are reveling in the world's attention and dozens of special events and attention and dozens of special events and concerts are planned. But beneath the busile, many activists fear little progress will be made in addressing serious environmental issues. And some Brazilians say the same delegates trying to protect trees and animals have shown little interest in human beings – especially Brazil's poor. The Earth Summit, formally known as the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development, opens Wednesday at the Riggentry d events were scheduled for today.

Tweive-thousand environmentalists from 164 Twerve-thousand environmentalists from 164 countries were to open The Global Forum, a parallel, non-governmental conference. Groups ranging from an Esperanto Association to Friends of the Earth were to meet in 36 green-and-white striped tents at Flamengo Park. At the Earth Summit, delegates from 185 countries will debate and negotiate until June 11. An estimated 100 presidents, premiers and kings will meet for the final days.

will moet for the final days. Not all delegates have titles. Former soccer great Pele, named special Earth Summit am-basedor, is bringing 17 Kenyan street kids to the conference.

In deference to his soccer-loving citizens, President Fernando Collor de Mello has called the summit the "World Cup of Ecology." Others disagree.

"The conference is just a circle of leaders looking for electoral re-treading." said Alfredo Sirkis, president of Brazil's Green Party.

Much of the criticism has been directed at President Bush. Bush pressured European leaders to remove goals and timetables from an agreement to reduce carbon dioxide emissions. The United States produces about one-fourth of the world's carbon dioxide, which scientists believe contributes to global warming.

Last week. Bush also said he would not sign a "biodiversity" agreement to protect the world's plants, animals and resources. Officials have since hinted that he may change his mind.

"The Bush administration has recklessly un-dermined the Earth Summit." Josh Karliner. Greenpeace's summit coordinator, said Monday."The summit would be better off if he didn't come Officials admit that little real progress may be made.

"The conference is not a finish line or a definitive ecological pact," said Paulo Nogueira Neto, advisor to U.N. summit coordinator Maurice Strong. "It is, above all, a second step that will make possible new and bigger steps." Brazilian criticism of the conference has taken a different tack.

Some critics say it is a plot to strip the country's control of the Amazon region. The Workers Central Union, Brazil's largest labor federation, has unveiled billboards urging visitors not to ignore the country's poverty while attempting to protect its forests. On Monday, dozens of pensioners marched near Flamengo Park, urging the same comion for humans as the delegates have for nature.

Brazilian retirees - many of whom receive less than $50 per month - have for more than a year unsuccessfully lobbled the government to raise pensions.

Environmentalists slam Bush's tree plan

By MARRY P. RECENTIN Associated Press Writer THAL

WASHINGTON - George Bush claims the United States is ng to the Earth Summit as the world's environmental leader. But his critics claim he's become "the hypocrisy preal-dent" when it comes to the environment.

As soon as Bush announced Monday that the United States would put an extra $150 million in the pot to help save the world's forests, environmental groups loosed a barrage of criti-ciam at the man who has said he wanted to be known as the environmental president. The president's attempt to bein the There World fight de-forestation "is the Car Yugoslave sending a peace-keeping force to the Middle East." and Nathaniel Lawrence, a benior project at-torney with the Natural Resources Defense Council in San Francisco.

Bush traveled to the Goddard Space Flight Center in Greenbelt, Md., to make his announcement in front of a huge photograph of Earth taken by astronauts returning from the moon. He applauded workers for their role in managing satellites that monitor the environment.

The president, trying to polish his environmental record for the 100-nation summit opening this week in Rio de Janeiro, offered the added $150 million and challenged other countries to double their conservation budgets and to double the amount available to poorer countries for forestation efforts to $2.7 billion

Bush said the U.S. will go to Rio "proudly as the world's leader not just in environmental research, but in environmental action."

He said he invited comparison of the record that the nation and his administration have built.

It was not long in coming. "Bush has broken his promises on practically every environmental issue that concerns every man, woman and child," the Sierra Club said.

Bill Clinton, appearing at a political raily in Oakland, Calif., offered a scathing critique of Bush's dealings on the Earth Summit. The presumed Democratic presidential nominee said Bush went along with a gutted global warming treaty "because the people who control the Bush administration's policies did not want to reinvest in our environment.'

The criticism comes on the horis of Bush's insistence on a watered down summit pact on global warming and his stated refusal to sign a summit biodiversity treaty

' Mice' win 13th

CABBELBERRY - The Paddy McGee "Mice" from Oviedo continued to run roughshod over the competition in the Women's Class C League at Red Bug Park with a 6-2 triumph over Aqua Turf.

Connie Thomas allowed only five hits over the first five innings while tossing a shutout, before finishing with a nine-hitter. Outfielder Jackie Suggs, from Lake Mary, helped preserve the victory with a couple of outstanding catches and two assists.

offensively Mindy Kracht, Thomas, Karen

Kohs and April Stoner had two hits each. Terri Mann contributed two RBI while Kracht, Stoner, Phylis Baynes and Lori Lingo added one RBI

The "Mice" will be in action at 8:30 p.m. next Monday against the Step Sisters.

SSC sets travel team tryouts

LAKE MARY - The Seminole Soccer Club will be conducting tryouts its boys' and girls' travel/premier teams beginning today at its 14-field complex located at the north end of Markham Woods Road.

"Pub" rally ends league leaders run

From Staff Reports

SANFORD - Jeff Futrell's sacrifice fly capped a four-run, seventh inning rally as Lake Mary Pub handed Ken Rummel Chevrolet its first loss of the season in Sanford Recreation Department Men's Monday Night Super C Spring Softball League action at Chase Park.

Trailing 4-1. Denny Clayton led off the bottom of the seventh inning with a single and Vince Howard doubled. Brian Howard lofted a sacrfice fly and Bobby Rowe doubled for another run. Anton Grooms then singled in the tying Grooms to third from where he scored on Putsell's fly. In the other game, Cale Serrento OVIEDO - After struggling through most of the 1990-91 school year, Oviedo High School's athletic program sought to recapture some of its past success during the 1991-92 campaign. And did it ever.

The Lions not only brought home the school's first baskeball title in almost 30 years, but they made a dramatic run at the state baseball championship, failing short in a 2-1. 15-inning loss to eventual champion Sarasota Riverview in the state semifinals

"We're really tickled." said Oviedo athletic director Dale Phillips. "And a lot of the kids are young. The baseball and basketball team have a lot of athletes back. It's been a banner year of Oviedo and Seminole County."

And as a result of their efforts, 11 Oviedo athletes received scholarships to compete in college next year.

From the basketball team, which defeated three-time defending champion Miami Senior High in the state title contest. Bernard Green will knock down jumpshots for Kilgore College in Texas next year while center Simon Harper will play for Polk Community College.

While the baseball team came up shy of a state title. Rick Werner and Mark Bellhorn signed with steady programs, continuing their journey toward the majors. Werner, who was 9-2 with an 0.45 ERA this season, signed with Valencia Com-munity College and former Oviedo coach Howard Mabie. Bellhorn, a shortstop, will try to help Auburn capture the Southeaster Conference title.

Penguins complete sweep

CHICAGO - The Pittsburgh Penguins didn't need to be perfect to win their second straight Stanley Cup title.

Despite a sub-par goaltending performance by Tom Barrasso and a sub-par job by their defense, the Penguins managed to beat the Chicago Blackhawks 6-5 to complete a fourgame sweep Monday night.

The Blackhawks gave it a valiant effort. however, before becoming the 16th team to be swept in finals history.

Chicago played catchup all game, trailing 1-0. 2-1, 3-2 and 4-3 before the Penguins finally broke a 4-all tie on a goal by defenseman Larry Murphy at 4:51 of the third period.

Then Ron Francis made it 6-4 with a shot from the left circle at 7:59 as the defending champions became the first team to post consecutive championships since the Edmonton Oilers did it in 1987 and 1988.

Spring Tournament on tap for Church League

By DEAN SONTH Herald Sports Writer

SANFORD - The Sanford Church Softball League will hold its annual Spring Tournament over the next two Saturdays, June 6th and 13th.

The tournament will use both Chase and Lee P. Moore Parks and the field will feature 15 of the 18 teams that took part in the recently completed Spring season and will be a double-elimination affair.

Included in the field will be the two-time defending Spring Tournament Champion Sanford First United Methodist and the defending Fall Tournament Cham-pion and Spring Regular Season Competitive Champion Sanford Church of God of Prophecy.

Prophecy has been the most dominant team in the league over the past three seasons winning 27 of its last 34 games, including 23 of its last 28 regular season games. The big hitters for Prophecy have been Dave LaFlamme, Kevin Welch, Kevin Clickner, Carl Platt, Dale Yales, Wes Till and Will Gainey.

First Methodiat came alive late in the season to finish 5-5 and tie for second place in the Competitive Division. But if the Methodists are to defend their tournament title they are going to need to play much better. Among the leaders for First Methodist are Tom, Bill and W.L. Gracey, Robert Smith, Chris Dapore, Chris Byrnes, Al Campbell. Robert Jones. Arthur Jackson and Jack Eltonhead.

Also given a real chance at the title are Holy Cross Lutheran of Lake Mary, the Fun Division winner, Sanford First Nazarene, the Fellowship Division winner. Markham Woods Baptist, who finished second last year, Sanford Church of God, Sanford Central Baptist, Sanford Christian "Blue" and the Lake Mary Nativity "Discipics".

There will be a pair of 8:30 a.m. games this Saturday to open the tournament. At Chase Park, Sanford First Nazarene (8-3 regular season) will take on Markham Woods Baptist (5-5) and at Lee P. Moore Park. Sanford Christian "Red" (6-5) will host Sanford Christian "Blue" (7-3).

At 9:30 a.m., Sanford Church of God (5-5) will play St. Stephen Catholic of Winter Springs (4-6) at Chase Park and the Lake Mary Nativity "Disciples" will welcome Lake Mary Grace United Methodiat (4-6) at Lee P. Moore Park.

At 10:30 a.m., the winners of the 8:30 a.m. games will play at Chase Park, while the losers of the 8:30 a.m. games will meet at Lee P. Moore Park in an elimination game.

At 11:30 a.m., the winners of the 9:30 a.m. games will play at Chase Park, with the losers of the 9:30 a.m. game playing an elimination contest at Lee P. Moore Park.

The first round will pick up again at 12:30 p.m. with Sanford First Bee Church, Page 3B

Melanie Schrupp received a softball scholarship from St. Petersburg Junior College.

Phillips said coaches played a key role this year in Oviedo's SUCCESS.

"We've always had good athletes," Phillips said. "If you look at the various programs that are really successful, it's because of coaching stability. You've got to have a feeder system and work with the kids all the time."

Retirement adventure for carrier

By LACY DOMINI Herald People Editor

SANFORD - For 30 years, under an incement sun, a pelt-ing rain, or in the dark of night, Wylene Griner loaded her car and delivered the latest local

Now the newly retired Sanford Herald carrier is being delivered, by airplane, to her daughter, Deborah Robinson's home in Honolulu. Her neice, Brenda Marklin, bought her the plane ticket for the well-deserved four month vacation. The visit is a

"I haven't seen my daughter in a year. She thinks my neice is on the plane, but it will be me. I packed my grass shirt. I haven't been anywhere in 33 years and it's my first airplane ride," Griner, who will be 73 in September, said.

Looking forward to a retire-ment full of adventure. Griner also said she would miss her paper route on which she has thrown the news to as many as 800 customers each day.

"My arm is wore out now," she quipped.

During her tenure, Griner has missed only seven weeks following a surgery and three days due to illness.

"I traveled even when I was aick or my kida were aick." she said

Griner's four children, the voungest of whom is now 35. were raised traveling on the route that spanned from 13th Street to 17-92 and from Park Avenue to Pinecrest and around Seminole High School.

Wylene Griner, left, says goodbye to Stacy, Schneider after being presented with a plaque and "If they were ever sick, I'd just pack them in the station wagon with a pillow and blanket and thermometer. It worked out just fine," she said.

Sometimes Griner's work was pertious. In 1982 she waded through waist-deep water in a hallstorm to deliver the news. "You had to go. The paper had to get through. I delivered every one but one paper." she proudly naid.

Despite her excitement about her new adventure, Griner said she will certainly miss the people she has come to know.

"I love all the people. I'll be back. I have ink in my blood." she said.

Presented with a wristwatch and a plaque by Tracy Schneider, assistant circulation manager of the Herald, Griner quickly strapped on the watch.

"I needed this. I don't like to be late for anything. I especially don't intend to be late for my plane," she giggled.

DEAR ABBY: Everybody in the country - and even in some foreign countries - is still talking about the Rodney King incident that turned the city of Los Angeles into a war zone. What are your thoughts on this? ST. LOUIS READER

DEAR READER: I would like the answers to two questions:

(1) What was in the minds of unanimous verdict of "not guilty" after having seen the videotape of Rodney King being of four uniformed Los Angeles police officers? (2) While the looters were stealing and actting fires, why did it take so long for those in authority to arrive on the scene and stop them?

The Sanford Herald is searching for an area dad deserving of our annual 'Dad of the Year' title.

We need our readers to help by writing letters of nomination, to be reviewed by our panel of judges.

Judging will be based on sincerity and clarity, with specific examples or anecdotes about why your nominee is a special dad a plus. Your nominee need not be your own dad.

Only residents of Seminole County are eligible to be nominated but their nominators need not live in Seminole County.

Here's how to enter: Write us a letter about a special dad, telling us why he's so special.

١ł.

Lettern should be typed or printed legibly. Include the nominee's name, street address, city, and daytime phone number at the top of your letter.

At the end of your letter include your name address. daytine phone number and age, if under 18.

Deliver or mail to "Dad of the Year," Sanford Herald, 300 N. French Ave., Sanford, Fla., 32771.

There is no maximum length limit on letters.

Entries are due at the Herald office by 1 p.m., Friday, June 12.

The top winners will be featured in the Father's Day edition of the Heraid, Sunday, June 21.

DEAR ADDY: We invited "Andy." our 12-year-old grandson, to visit us for 10 days during baseball spring training. We sent a round-trip airline ticket and looked forward to having him with us.

During Andy's visit, we observed that he did not take criticism (concerning table manners, etc.) very well, but we just let it pass. Now the problem: After Andy left. we discovered that the portable TV that he had been allowed to use during his visit here was missing.

My husband, "George," called Andy's mother, preferring not to portable TV immediately. It has been about a month now, and we have not received the portable TV set. George and I are wondering if we should just let it go, or make an issue of it. CONCERNED GRANDPARENTS DEAR CONCERNED: Write or telephone Andy's mother and ask her why you haven't received the portable TV set. You would be doing Andy a favor.

Stealing is no small matter; if Andy thinks he can get off scot-free, he will be encouraged to steal more costly items.

Also, I think you are doing Andy's father a grave disservice to withhold this information from him.

DEAR ABBY: I can no longer remain silent. I must at least try to educate those ignorant females who keep wanting to castrate rapists so they can't rape again.

Wehn I was 30 years old, I lost my testicies to encer. Castration does not always cause impotence - it causes sterility. I am now 63 and still sexually active. So much for castration. Sign me...

SAN ANTONIO DEAR SAN ANTONIO: Thanks for an illuminating letter. Many people are not aware that castration does to males what tubal ligation does to females.

DEAR ABEY: My 37-year-old daughter, Norma, sent me this beautiful testimonial for Mother's Day. I was so touched that I wanted to share it with you.

DORA BOYD, EDGEWATER, FLA. DEAR MRS. BOYD: Your

daughter's letter is so touching that I want to share it with my readers:

Dear Mother: As I grew up: You fostered my independence. You allowed me to decide what to wear, what friends to choose, what boys to date, what foods to eat - and how much. You trusted my judgment, even when it differed from yours. Although our views differ on

You admitted that you were not perfect, enabling me to Sanford Heruld, Sanford, Florida - Tuesday, June 2, 1992 - 88 Smart cards: Convenient for whom?

Associated Press Writer

It looks and acts like your average bank card, but it knows a lot more about you than you may think.

The smart card — a piece of plastic with a computer chip on its face — is slipping into the United States with uses from defense and health

United States with uses from defense and health care to retailing and transportation. The cards have replaced food stamps for some Ohio shoppers and meal tickets for students in college. Marines and peanut farmers are whipping them out for boot polish and crop reports. Someday they may also pay highway tolls, or unscramble satellite TV signals, as they're used in Europe today. Sorry - no card in the cable box, no Evander Holyfield fight on the tube. But even though the number of smart cards has more than doubled since 1988, this country still isn't wise to the cards. Only about 1 million are in use here compared to 114 million in Europe. "The average American who has a dosen pieces of plastic in their pocket probably doesn't even know what a smart card is," asid Nicoles Samaras, a technology analyst at Dataquest Inc. in San Jose, Calif. in San Joec. Calif.

in San Jose, Calif. So first, an introduction to these data dynamos: — Unlike today's financial cards, the smart card doesn't need a magnetic stripe on the back. — Instead, it's equipped with a wiry silicon chip, often displayed at left center but sometimes hidden in the plastic. (Smart cards may also have emboased account numbers, holograms, graphics and abates on the front or back.) and photos on the front or back.)

- Like a bank card, the smart card is slipped into a computer. Then the owner enters a four- or five-digit ID number and uses the card to make purchases, convey information, or both. — The card can hold three pages worth of typewritten data, compared to one line of type for a magnetic-stripe card. That means several accounts could be loaded onto one smart card, said Diane R. Wetherington, president of smart card systems at American Telephone & Telegraph Co.

For example, the same card that checks out library books and buys clothes on credit could give an emergency-room clerk a patient's blood type, insurance data and doctor's name. Each account would have a separate ID number, so the librarian couldn't see your blood type. For businesses, the card is a shortcut to valuable market research. With your card in its computer, a company could learn your ZIP code, shoe size or the date of your sporty sedan's last oil change, and respond accordingly. Already, the Vision marketing system for supermarkets is tailoring coupons to U.S. shop-pers who use smart cards. Customers insert their Vision cards into computers at the checkout line. Then the card tracks purchases and supplies the customer with product coupons, allowing the store to collect marketing data and pitch its store to collect marketing data and pitch its products more effectively. About 30 supermarkets nationwide are testing Vision, and 200 stores in the Minneagolis-based Super Valu Stores Inc. chain will begin using the system next year, said Vision's creator, Advanced Promotion Technologies of Deerfield Beach, Fin. Smart cards are replacing food stamps for 12,000 households in Dayton, Ohio, said R. John Bianco, vice president of National Proceeding Co.

Bianco, vice president of National Processing Co. The Louisville, Ky., company runs the experimental PayEase program for the Ohio government.

Ohio Gov. George Voinovich said PayEase, which began Feb. 25, could be expanded throughout the state if successful, especially in reducing fraud. Welfare advocates also like the cards because they reduce the stigma of pulling out food stamps at the checkout counter.

in Parris Island, S.C., Marine Corps recruits use smart cards instead of paychecks to obtain supplies. And an engineering division at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base in Dayton reduced paper work by giving members smart cards instead of paper orders for personnel moves.

The cards recorded soldiers' personnel relocations, from recall to the base to deployment overseas. Seven other units at the base will get the system this year or next, said the contractor, Applied Systems Institute Inc. of Washington, D.C.

The Army had considered using smart cards as dog tags, but found the metal tags now in use would hold up better under fire for identifying remains.

in the office, smart cards can be keys to computers. Personal Computer Card Corp. (PC3) of Lakeland, Fis., attaches security systems to computers, requiring a smart card for access and limiting which programs an employee can run.

PC3 President John S. Cain said the cards keep out taboo software like games, which consume computer time and could be bugged with viruses.

"It's also an excellent tool for letting you know which departments are actually using their machines," said Kippert R. Wheeler, PC3's technology vice president.

Samaras, the Dataquest analyst, said the smart card application with the most potential may be one that verifies signatures on checks or credit slips - a way to reduce millions of dollars in fraud and forgery. Information like signing speed or unusual letters could be loaded onto a smart card for comparison at the point of sale.

Yet for all their uses, smart cards are still relatively uncommon here. They're largely limited to experiments in contained environments like campuses or hospitals. And sales have been disappointing. Samaras said.

To increase use, card makers are forming alliances with companies that are closer to consumers. Micro Card Technologies Inc. supplies cards to Copicard Inc., which recently worked with the University of Calgary to convert student and staff IDs to smart cards. The company is negotiating to do the same at several U.S. colleges.

Micro Card Vice President John Taskett said a few U.S. airlines briefly tested to smart cards for frequent flyers. He wouldn't identify the carriers.

Meanwhile, AT&T and Lockheed Corp. will jointly seek contracts for public highways where drivers would pay tolls with dashboard-mounted smart cards. A transmitter at the tollbooth would read the card as the car goes by.

One concern about the smart card is privacy.

Women and blacks expect breakthrough in primaries today

By MITCHELL LANDER Associated Press Writer

Women and blacks were poised for breakthroughs today in some of the nine states holding primaries, in-cluding California, where Dianne Feinstein and Barbara Boser stood a good chance of winning both Demo-cratic nominations for U.S. Senate.

cratic nominations for U.S. Benate. Alabama and North Carolina were assured of nominating black can-didates for Congress and sending blacks to Washington next year for the first time this century. Other races included challenges to House bad-check writers, a strong underdog bid to unseat Sen. Richard Shelby of Alabama and several riot-related contests in Los Angeles. A new generation of familier names was hoping to launch congressional

l

A new generation of minister names was hoping to launch congressional careers, including Maureen Rangen, daughter of the former president, and Alabama state Treasurer George Wallace Jr., son of the former governor.

Ms. Reagan, a Republican, was running in Los Angeles County with the support of her father, despite her strong stands in favor of abortion rights and against offshore oil drilling.

The big bonanza in California is in the competition for U.S. Senate. where both seats are open for the first time in state history. That's because Sen. Alan Cranston is retiring and Pete Wilson left the Senate to become governor.

Wilson's appointee to the seat, John Seymour, is favored to win the GOP nomination. He is likely to face a fall race against Feinstein, the former San Francisco mayor, who was favored over state Controller Gray Davis.

Boxer, a congresswoman, was favored over Lt. Gov. Leo McCarthy for the other Senate seat despite McCarthy's ads showing her "boing-ing" around the TV screen to remind voters she wrote 143 bad checks on the House bank.

On the GOP side. moderate Rep. Tom Campbell had an edge in the polla over former TV commentator Bruce Herschensohn, a conservative who has accused Campbell of "hiding a Democrat's agenda under the cloak of the Republican Party."

The most vicious race has been Davis versus Feinstein. A Davis ad showed side-by-side pictures of Feinstein and hotel queen Leona Helmsley: Mrs. Helmsley, it said, Feinstein and hotel queen Leona Heinstey. Mrs. Heinstey, it mid, blamed employees for her tax pro-blems, while Feinstein cited an ac-countant's error in improperly re-porting 56 million in donations from Bare seeking the somination to challenge Republican Rep. Steve the condidate, the ads blamed either the rioters or the political system. Several races in Los Angeles hinged more directly on voter reac-tions to the Rodney King verdict and tions to the money in Reiner, whose presecution of the four officers who best King failed to produce a convic-tion, has three opponents in his quest tion, has three opponents in his quest for re-election. Bagerier Court Judge Joyce A. Kartin, who granted probation to a forcess grocer in the sheeting death of a black teen-ager - a case that heightened black-forcess tenatons be-fore the rists - faces three opponents in her bid for a full term. An initiative opposed by outgoing Police Chief Daryl Gates would strengthen civilian control over the department and limit the tenure of future chiefs. Mack condidates are sure to win at best three congressional races in North Caroline and Alabama. North Caroline has runoffs in two newly drawn, black-majority dis-tres. Barches the 13th District, the in the fall. In the lat District, Democrat Walter Jonse Jr., son of the retiring con-greasman, will face county commis-atoner Eva Chryton, who is black. Jones is white. The winner faces Republican Ted Tyler, who is white. Alabame has six black Democrate and three black Republicans running in its reapportioned 7th District.

In other voting: -IOWA: State Sen. Jean Lloyd-Jones is favored to win the Democratic nomination to challenge Re-publican Sen. Charles Grassley. She said she entered the race after watching him during the Hill-Thomas hearings.

-MONTANA: Republican Gov. Stan Stephens is stepping down because of poor health. State Rep. Dorothy Bradley is the apparent front-runner among etx Democrats: Attorney General Marc Racicot leads state Auditor Andrea Bennett on the GOP side.

-NEW JERSEY: Democratic Rep. Frank Pallone, seeking a third term. faces a strong challenge from Assemblyman Bob Smith in a newly drawn dietrict.
