Memorial Day Is Marked By Peace Prayers

Halsey Tells Nation To Guard Against Pinning Defense On Unproved Weapons

WASHINGTON, May 30 (AP)—Fleet Admiral William F. Halsey today cautioned the nation against pinning its defense on "unproved weapons" and declared the aircraft carrier is "the most potential preserver of peace in our bag of tricks."

In an address at a Memorial Day program, Halsey did not mention directly the Defense Department's recent order halting work on the Navy's proposed super-carrier.

But the retired "bull" of the Pacific sea war roared into the controversy over the Air Force's high-flying B-36 long range bomber. Halsey declared he has seen Navy jet fighters zoom from a carrier deck in "a matter of minutes" to the 40,000-foot altitude at which the B-36 operates. He said he was "amazed" at claims the bomber is "invulnerable to fighter interception."

"There is no cheap and easy way to win wars, and we cannot place too much reliance upon unproved weapons," he told the fleet reserve association.

"Your Navy, your Army, and your Air Force will all be necessary. x x x"

"We must protect our time-tested weapons against the so-called 'experts.'"

Halsey held he was "anxiously awaiting" a suggested test between the B-36 and the Navy's carrier-based jets proposed by the House Armed Services Committee. Aim of the mock battle is to settle the big bomber makes in less time necessary to support a strong force of fighters.

Halsey described the carrier as "the spearhead of the cutting edge of modern naval power, particularly as it was developed by the United States Navy."

"The Air Force has acquired a 'super-bomber' which is required."

Sara Katherine "Bally" King four and a half year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. King, 405 Myrtle Avenue, polled 794 votes to make her runner-up in the fourth week nomination poll conducted by The Herald in order to secure five children from whom to choose "The Most Promising Citizen of Tomorrow."

Second among the candidates during the past week was Susan "Bobby" King, 121 Park Avenue, who received 660 votes. Little Bally King is much interested in sports of any kind and in art. She likes to have her hair cut.

City Manager McKibbin Discusses City Finances At Rotary Luncheon

The cost of city government in Sanford has increased from $292,500 just before the war to over $496,000 last year, City Manager Clifford McKibbin told the Rotary Club at its regular luncheon today, but he added "this increase is small in comparison with State and federal increases which have risen from $74,000,000 and $9,400,000,000 respectively in 1940 to $217,000,000 and $39,300,000,000 in 1948.

Just how much this increase in State and federal expenditures has meant to Sanford taxpayers was shown by Mr. McKibbin who pointed out that Sanford citizens last year paid $2,184,725 to the federal treasury, $768,922 to the State treasury, and only $406,743 in their own City government.

Mr. McKibbin was introduced by Holland team as former city manager of Winter Park, and a graduate of Michigan State University with a degree in mechanical engineering. During the war he served three years in the Navy and was stationed at Guam in the Pacific theater.

"Up to the current fiscal year the picture in Sanford in recent years has been good," Mr. McKibbin declared. "We have enjoyed through April 30 65.4% tax collection in 1948 and 94.3% to same date in 1948. War years and boom following has increased revenues in all fields of municipal income. Excluding interdepartmental charges shown for budget purposes, expected expenditures for this year are $424,400.

"Of this $424,400 or 34% is for Debt Service, Public Service, including maintenance of streets, sewers, garbage and trash collection and disposal accounts for 25% Safety, including inspection service, police and fire protection accounts for 17%. General administration, consisting of 9%. Public Welfare accounts for 9%. Upkeep of parks is 4%. Capital expenditures, purchase of new equipment accounts for 3% and a contingent fund or emergency fund of 3% is set up. This indicates that payments on our old debts are taking the lion's share of our municipal revenues.

"Let's look at the debt picture. Bond issues totaling more than $7,000,000 were issued in 1947. This has been reduced to $4,500,000 by September, 1948, the end of the last fiscal year. However, several City funds are on the Public Project and the Water Meter Deposit fund are made up of municipal bonds, which brings our net indebtedness, including taxes payable and outstanding bonds with sinking fund money, to $4,500,000.

House Defeats Move To Clip Appropriations 10 Per Cent; State Labor Group Rapped

Senator Says Irregularities Exist In Unemployment Compensation Pay

TALLAHASSEE, May 30 (AP)—A Senator today charged the State Industrial Commission with "irregularities" in administration of Florida Unemployment Compensation laws and asked for a complete investigation of the agency.

Senator Walker of Daytona Beach, made the accusations in a resolution introduced in the Senate. It immediately was tabled by Senator Matthews of Jacksonville, loyal administration supporter, as a "sneak campaign."

The resolution was referred to the Senate Committee on Labor and Industry.

Walker told the Senate he was "reliably informed" that "certain irregularities are being practiced" in connection with the administration of the Unemployment Compensation Law.

He added that a recent volume of the chairman of the commission "permits back dating of unemployment compensation claims in certain instances and the double use of the same wage credits."

"I am further informed," Walker continued, "that this new policy established by the administration has caused considerable future within the commission. In fact, it two days ago one of the top officials tendered his resignation to the chairman because he believed such handling of claims to be illegal and improper and he did not wish to be a party to such improper transactions."

Walker said the resignation of the chairman was "a serious field who resigned."

He said the specific cause for this resignation was "alleged payment of a substantial number of claims that had been held up because they were back dated and which claims were based upon the (Continued on Page Eight)

Speculation Runs Rife On Location Of Leader, Chiang

SHANGHAI, May 30 (AP)—Speculation on the whereabouts of retired President Chiang Kai-shek is rife in parts of China still in Nationalist hands. But it still has little interest here.

Some feel that if he continues to intervene in the Chinese civil war he may eventually be captured.

When Chiang came to Shanghai and when he left is not known publicly. But that he was in Shanghai well into the recent days is well known. Reports that he directed the defenses up to the last days are merely efforts of his friends to add a little drama to speculation about his whereabouts.

People who usually know his movements say that he left Shanghai before the threat to the Whangpoo an (Whangpoo) fortress developed. They say he went out on a Chinese warship that seems to have been at his disposal. Those sources say he left a few days after he was reported to the people to continue to resist the Communists.

Seminole County Homes Menaced By Woods Fires

Woods fires raced through thousands of acres of dry woods and grass in Seminole County last week and only heroic efforts by almost the entire population of Geneva, aided by Sanford and Orlando firemen, saved a number of homes near Lake Geneva Friday. A few wood sheds or small buildings were burned out but no homes were reported lost.

Repeated calls were received Friday afternoon from Geneva by the Sanford Fire Department, but due to frequent calls to put out local grass fires, Chief Cleveland could not spare any men on duty. Firemen Claude Whitten and J. S. Lee volunteered, however, and were allowed to take the small booster truck to Geneva.

Mr. Whitten today described the blaze as the worst grass and woods fire he had ever seen, and said that he and Mr. Lee were kept busy from 3:00 P. M. to 8:30 P. M.

Not only did the firemen face the menace of fire but also of large rattlesnakes, driven from the woods by the blaze, said Mr. Whitten, who warned against stepping on a huge rattler which was near his feet. With children and people queuing around it was doubly dangerous, he declared.

Most of the worst battle raged on the fire on Friday was around Lake Geneva where back of homes on the east, the dense woods which had not burned for many years, were aflame. Grasses near these were menaced. Fires were burned (Continued on Page Eight)

21 Senators Introduce Bill Looking Toward State Income Tax Levy

TALLAHASSEE, May 30 (AP)—A frantic Florida House, at grips with its financial problem at last, defeated by a vote of 47-40 a move to the 10 percent of every item in its $211,000,000 general appropriations bill.

Rep. Felix of Lake, sponsor of a broad sales tax that has attracted little support in a tightening revenue hunt, introduced the amendment cutting a tenth from every item as the House began consideration of its big spending bill.

He said he didn't actually expect or want to trim every single item. "My point in this is to make people mad," he declared. "You don't think the taxpayers will get mad, but he will."

He said such a slash would affect everyone in the state through relatives who might be cut from the salary and benefit rolls and customers who might not have as much money to spend in the future.

With the Legislature's adjournment only five days away and still no adequate tax bill on the calendar of either branch, the bill amendment attracted immediate support from a few members and stern opposition from others.

Advocates said the flat cut would go a long way toward balancing the State's financial budget and let the people know the House was in favor of economy.

Opponents said it would cripple the programs of such services as education, health and welfare while letting others get by with comparative ease.

The Legislature may have a good idea by tonight how much money it will have to raise and where to get it. (Continued on Page Eight)

Funeral Services For W. A. Julian Are Set Wednesday

WASHINGTON, May 30 (AP)—William A. Julian, aged Treasurer of the United States, was killed yesterday morning in an automobile accident as he drove to a country club to play a round of golf.

Funeral services were set for 1:30 P. M. EST Wednesday at a Washington funeral home. The burial will be private.

Julian had served in his treasury post for 16 years and during that time had issued $87,000,000 worth of currency. His signature appears on U. S. paper money, opposite that of the Secretary of the Treasury.

A quiet man, he was seen in the last few days. Various records gave his age at 78 to 87; friends said the latter was probably most nearly correct. Julian himself never discussed his age.

Death came in a head-on collision with another car on a country road in nearby Bethesda, Md. The two men in the other car (Continued on Page Eight)

1,700 Predatory Fish Taken From St. Johns River

More than 1,700 predatory fish, including cats, mud fish and shad were removed Sunday from sloughs on the St. Johns River west of Ponce Lake by a group of 25 sportsmen who worked all day under the direction of L. De Long, fish biologist and Bill Buford, wildlife officer.

The sportsmen included members of the Seminole County Sportsmen Association, Volusia Wildlife Association and Hook Point Ranch. A number of game fish, trapped in the shallow waters, were returned to the river, said G. A. Speer, president of the local sportsmen's group.

Mr. Speer declared this morning that he is convinced that during the present dry period, when water in the river is so extremely low, that a crew of about six men could kill about 5,000 predatory fish daily.

Early this morning a load of 2,000 fingerling bass arrived here from the Game and Fresh Water Fish Hatcheries for placing in local lakes.

Sportsmen who are interested in helping to remove predatory fish from the river are advised by Mr. Speer to get in touch with the Sportsmen Association.

MIND TEASERS

IT'S surprising how many folks slip up on these queries, each of which you're expected to answer within one minute and without using pencil and paper.
1. Dr. White left five pills with a patient, telling him to take one pill every half hour. If the patient obeys the instructions, how long will the supply of pills last?
2. A window-cleaner charges 10 cents per square yard for cleaning windows. Brown's store has a window six feet by twelve feet. How much will the window-cleaner get for cleaning Brown's store window?

Figure Fun

WANT to know a friend's age without coming right out and asking him (or her) to tell you? Try this method. Tell your subject you're going to demonstrate a trick. Provide pencil and paper and tell him to write down his age, double it, and add five. This total is to be multiplied by fifty. Now have the friend add to this the day of the month on which he was born, and subtract the number of days in the current year (365). Finally, have him add 115 and tell you the resultant total. You will then immediately tell him his age and the day of the month on which he was born. The first two figures in the total will be the friend's age, the last two the day of the month on which he was born.

WHAT'S THE ANSWER?

AT a fair, a merchant placed some eggs in a glass case and offered a prize to the person guessing the correct number in the lot. The six competitors nearest the total guessed: 350; 337; 330; 353; 340; 347. Of these competitors, one was 9 out of the way, another misled by 4, another by 11, a fourth person was wrong by 12, a fifth by 6 and the other only 1 off. What was the correct number of eggs in the lot?

REBUS TOUR AMONG THE ZOO'S WHO

CAN YOU MATCH THE PATTERN?

HERE'S a test of attention to detail. The best way to work is to fill in one row at a time, starting from the outside and moving in progressively. Be sure that in the beginning you fill in only the squares containing dots. Then duplicate the design in reverse on the other side. If you do this correctly, the two sides will balance perfectly, and you'll have a design which a needlecraft worker may wish to duplicate in embroidery, quilting or lace.

Rebus Tour Among the Zoo's Who

THE names of eleven well-known members of the "Zoo's Who" can be found in this all-pictorial rebus. To proceed, spell out the name of each object so that the combined letters spell the name of a well-known animal. In some cases it will be necessary to rearrange all the letters, in others it will be sufficient to insert a letter. For example, the first object pictured is a monkey. Insert the letter "K" to get monkey. One of the objects pictured is an animal; you must add a letter to form another animal's name.

SEAT THEM

WHEN the five members of the Thanatopsis Poker Club sat down to play on the round dining-table at Charlie's house, Bob was next but one to Charlie, Dave dealt after Rupert and two players sat between Charlie and Rupert. Jeff was the other player not named above. Just how were the five seated?

MAN TO MAN

If you've ever heard of one of the smallest of the British Isles, the scene of novels written by Hall Caine, you should have no difficulty solving this old-time riddle: I saw a man behind a man, I saw a man before, Between the two these were in view. Exactly half a score. Yet I can say, and this is true, Though strange it seems to be, That only one, and he alone, Was all mine eyes did see: "Flat contradiction," you will say, It looks so, I'll confess, But you will see it, plain as day, When rightly you shall guess.

WHAT is the minimum number of weights, and of what denominations, with which you can weigh any number of pounds from 1 to 127 inclusive, on an old-fashioned balance scale?

MAN TO MAN

THIS may appear easy, but just try it. The problem is to cut out the six triangles above and then to fit them together to form a perfect square. After you've solved it, mount the pieces on stiff paper, or reproduce them in wood, as a party pastime to try on your friends. (A solution appears elsewhere in the page.)

Three Decades In Medicine

"More life-saving science has been found and made available to more people in the past thirty years than in the preceding thirty centuries," declares Paul deKruif in The Reader's Digest for June.

Reviewing medical discoveries since 1917, deKruif says science "has pulled the fangs of plagues from which hundreds of millions have had to die."

The author recalls that his father died of diabetes at 60, after "half living" for ten years. His mother had the disease, too, but it developed after the discovery of insulin. She died at 82, "keen, active and living up to her last moments."

In 1917 there was no toxic preventive for diphtheria or lockjaw, no sulfa to cure blood poisoning, meningitis and bubonic plague, no atabrin or DDT to combat malaria. X-rays and radium had not been utilized in the fight against cancer. Surgeons hadn't dared the operations now effective against tuberculosis, cerebral hemorrhages, heart failure and kidney disease. Deaths from cholera, pneumonia totaled 85,000 in 1917; by 1947, thanks to the "one-two punch" of penicillin plus sulfadiazine, the total was down to 20,000.

Thirty years ago, 94 of every 1,000 babies died within a year. Today, new knowledge of obstetrics and pasteurization of milk have reduced the infant death rate by two-thirds. 2,000,000 children have died who in earlier times would have died. In Chicago, last year, not a single child died of this disease. A similar inoculation is taking the sting out of whooping cough. The child killers of the past—scarlet fever and pneumonia—have lost much of their terror since the discovery of the sulfa drugs and penicillin. Vitamin D has removed rickets from the list of serious diseases. The chief cause of death among children of pre-school age is no longer any disease, deKruif points out, but accidents.

Still to be conquered are cancer and heart diseases; and tuberculosis' annual toll of 50,000 Americans is "no cause for smug self-congratulation." But the author sees medical science as having achieved "only a beginning." Hundreds of thousands of molds remain to be tested. Already the new antibiotic, streptomycin, has permitted lifesaving operations in tuberculosis; another, neomycin, promises further headway against this disease. Chloromycetin cures typhoid, deKruif states, and aureomycin is effective against viruses "hitherto invulnerable," such as virus pneumonia.

Workers And Communism

Founding sessions of a proposed new international labor movement are scheduled in Geneva, Switzerland, in June. It is to be an organization of anti-Communist labor groups, in deliberate opposition to the World Federation of Trade Unions, now generally regarded as a Communist organization.

It is indicated that both the American Federation of Labor and the C.I.O. will be represented at the Geneva meeting. Most Americans will be glad of that.

It is a basic tenet of Communism that a capitalistic society and government cannot possibly be interested in the welfare of the workers, and that therefore all workers should support Communist doctrine and seek the destruction of capitalism. There should be a pronounced effect on the world competition of Communism and Democracy if the workers of the United States, where capitalism is the rule, join hands with the workers of other capitalist democracies and of such nations as Great Britain, where a mixture of capitalism and socialism prevails, in united opposition to Communism. Support of capitalism by workers strikes at one of the fundamental concepts of Communism.

Science Knows What Makes You Lucky

What is "luck"? Science knows the answer, for leading psychologists and psychiatrists have put "luck" under the clinical microscope and have found out what it is and precisely what makes it "tick." They know what makes you lucky. And they know what causes bad luck too.

Psychological studies have shown that chance actually plays a small part in determining how lucky or unlucky you are. Far from being a fickle and flighty goddess, who scatters her favors indiscriminately, luck is actually self-generated to a large extent by a kind of sixth sense which all of us possess. This sense combines both intuition and extra-sensory perception. It is highly active in some people and completely dormant in others.

How well it functions depends entirely on our conscious and unconscious attitudes. Mental states which produce tension—worry, fear, anxiety, and self-doubt—have a paralyzing effect on intuitive perception. On the other hand, the attitudes of complete serenity, pulse, and self-confidence permit the delicate sixth sense to function at peak efficiency. If you want to be lucky—if you want that extra "edge" that your intuitive faculties can give you—you've got to give them a break. You've got to relax. Scientific evidence all up and down the line supports the fact that this sixth sense can serve you like an all-seeing eye—if you give it a chance to function properly.—John E. Gibson in Your Life.

THE WORLD TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

The very considerable Socialist losses to conservatives in recent county council elections in Britain have given rise to widespread debate as to the reasons for these setbacks to the nation's ruling party.

This far no explanation which is widely satisfactory has been evolved, even in England. In general it seems to be agreed that such elections often are governed by purely local conditions and sentiment, and don't necessarily reflect the views of the voters on national matters. That is, the same districts might give an entirely different vote in a national election such as is due next year.

However, there is an observant school which feels the conservative (Tory) vote does in considerable degree reflect the attitude of those classes of society which are against the Socialist program of nationalization. Many conservatives feel (rightly or wrongly) that this program is aimed at the destruction of private initiative and the leveling off of individual incomes.

Be that as may, it's true that incomes in Britain are fast being leveled off, though in a fair way it must be recorded that the leveling off process was going on under conservative rule long before the Socialists took over. As his column previously has pointed out, the so-called landed gentry is disappearing rapidly under the very heavy taxation.

Death duties are so terrific that frequently an heir has to sell much of his property in order to meet taxes. When it happens, as I have seen in England, that property changes hands twice within a year or so because of death, then the estate may be virtually wiped out, both ready money and real estate.

British Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir Stafford Cripps recently stated during a speech in Commons that the number of incomes over 5,000 pounds sterling ($20,000), after taxation, had dropped from a prewar figure of 15,000 to 250 now. It really is amazing to find that British can produce only 250 people with net incomes over $20,000.

Appropos of this situation, the editor of Burke's magazine, which lists royalty and folk with titles, recently reported that he had lost track of thirteen baronets. These are knights who have hereditary titles. Since this announcement a couple of the "missing" men have turned up, as follows:

Mr. Norman Hamilton Pringle is serving drinks at a hotel in London. He is a former Lord Mayor of London. He found a job as a manager of a country hotel, and took his present job to get experience. Sir John Henry Mounthatten, a former Lord Mayor of London, found a job as a coal trucker as they came from a coal pit near Bradford.

A striking example of class mobility is being witnessed in the case of the famous Earl Mounthatten and his wife, Mounthatten, great-grandson of Queen Victoria and thirteenth vicar of India, is one of the most notable figures in the British empire.

Recently the Countess Mounthatten asked the House of Lords to let her do what she wishes with the inheritance of 1,000,000 pounds ($5,000,000) which she and her father, Sir Ernest Cassel, left her. Under his will she can draw only the income from this sum and the House of Lords can alter the terms of the bequest.

Lady Mounthatten's lawyers explained that because of increased taxation the income of Lord and Lady Mounthatten had been reduced to one-ninth what it was when they were married. The lawyers added:

"This reduction has coincided with an ever increasing range of public duties which have resulted in heavy personal expenditures."

What has happened to the aristocracy has happened to a host of others whose names are recorded in the hall of fame. England is leveling off.

Children's Home Society Seeks Assistance For Building Program

GAINESVILLE, May 20 (Special)—So you're going to buy a new home? Fine—but first stop and consider the problems home ownership implies.

This step constitutes the largest single expenditure in the life of most home owners, says Alfred A. Ring, the Associate Professor of Real Estate at the University of Florida.

The University Professor has written "A Guide to Home Ownership" in "Economic Leaflets," monthly publication of the University's College of Business Administration. A two-part article, the first on "Principles of Home Ownership" appears in the current issue of Leaflets and is sent free to residents of Florida on request.

There are many advantages to being a home owner, Dr. Ring says, but "some people have been socially nor economically prepared to undertake the duties and responsibilities which home ownership necessitates."

He illustrates by saying a young man seeking employment opportunities should be free to consider the responsibilities and obligations of home ownership. They are: (1) Don't buy during periods of active housing or building demand; (2) Do not realize the responsibilities and obligations of home ownership until you are ready to live in the selected spot for many years to come; (3) Buy only after consideration of permanency of employment and stability of income; and (4) Buy only after further consideration has been given to the purchaser's willingness to live in the selected spot for many years to come, for the results of the property may prove expensive.

Quoting a prominent real estate broker, he says, location is a primary objective in building a home, since real estate is immobile. Here, likes and dislikes of the prospective buyer, plus economic factors play the important roles.

In a forthcoming article (the June issue), Dr. Ring will write on "The Steps and Problems of Home Ownership." This and other articles may be received free by writing the Bureau of Economics and Business Research, College of Business Administration, University of Florida, Gainesville.

Concerned About That Operation?

By W. V. Blittig, Touchton Drug Co.

Been advised to have an operation? Just a little concerned? Then perhaps these facts about modern methods of treatment before and after operation will be reassuring.

Today a doctor, before operating, puts his patient in the best possible condition by building him up, giving additional nourishment, and injecting extra fighting strength, when needed.

Then the doctor can select from a wide variety of modern anesthetics (of the type known as "balanced anesthesia") the patient's condition and the type of operation.

After the operation, blood if needed, nourishment, by vein or skin feedings, and medicine to relieve pain, are given to insure that the patient will be able to get up and walk in a few days.

"For some time we have heard and read speeches about automobile inspection. If members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce will take the time to visit wrecking yards over the state they will find that 9 out of 10 cars that were involved in accidents would have passed the most rigid inspection."

"Most of them are of the newer class. The man who owns and drives the more obsolete car knows that it is worn, and drives accordingly, knowing full well that he will have to thumb his way if he gets careless, and that he cannot afford a better car."

"I have lived many years in a state where inspection every 90 days was compulsory, and accidents were no lower there than in states that did not have such. It is only a market and auto dealers and parts men are making the most of it."

"If there were a better way to check the heads of numerous drivers, many accidents would be eliminated. So long as men can stop in any grocery store and legally purchase what it takes to make them unfit to operate a car on the highways, we will find no real condition of the car at fault, but its operator."

"A high automobile insurance is not the answer, for people who know that their car is protected, regardless, will be all the more careless of the other fellow's rights."

"Our automobile division in the state capital should move to close the liquor joints if they care to make the highways more safe. Any sane, thinking person knows that no automobile will go faster or more reckless than its driver wants it to. Fours for a more temperate state."

Williams And Lee Write Article On Disposal Plants

GAINESVILLE, May 26.—(Special.) Clifford D. Williams and David B. Lee, respectively, head professor of Civil Engineering at the University of Florida, and Chief Sanitary Engineer of the Florida State Board of Health, are co-authors of an article in the April issue of Civil Engineering, published by the American Society of Civil Engineers.

In the article, Williams and Lee discuss, with the aid of pictures and drawings, the role of the sewage treatment plants at the University of Florida, and how experimental plants are being used for research which is to be applied to sewage problems all over the state.

The authors explain, "Tremendous economic impetus attaches to the problem of a sewage treatment and disposal in Florida because of the interrelation between sewage disposal and water supply. Since much of the surface drainage passes into the underground system and much of the water supply is drawn from underground sources, complete treatment is necessary.

Recognizing the importance of sewage treatment to the health of the State, the State Board of Health and the University of Florida have inaugurated the program of research to determine the best procedures and installations to meet Florida conditions.

Two installations at the University of Florida are being used in this program—a small, research plant and the new treatment plant for the University as a whole, incorporating special design features to increase its value as a research medium while at the same time serving the practical purpose of treating the sewage from the university community.

The research at the University is particularly well adapted to problems that may be found throughout Florida, the authors point out, since there is a definite similarity between the university commu-

Unions Must Be Notified Of Wage Increases Made During Contract Talks

WASHINGTON, May 31 (AP)—The Supreme Court held today that a union must be notified before a wage boost can be granted during contract talks unless the increase has been rejected by the union.

Specifically the tribunal held that a Georgia textile mill committed an unfair labor practice because it raised wages 12 days after contract talks with the CIO Textile Workers union had become deadlocked.

The firm, Crompton-Highland Mills, Inc., of Griffin, Ga., contended the increase was necessary to keep a working force in a highly competitive labor market.

Sub-Committee Tones Down Broader Bill; Senate Is Working On Similar Plan

TALLAHASSEE, May 31 (AP)—The 3 percent limited sales tax bill sponsored by the House Finance Committee today, but its supporters aren't very hopeful it can win a floor fight.
