IN BRIEF

1976 Unemployment Rate To Reach About 7.75%

WASHINGTON (AP) - The U.S. unemployment rate will average between 7.5 per cent and 7.75 per cent this year, compared with 8.5 per cent last year, the Commerce Department predicts.

The department also estimated that prices are expected to rise by 6.5 per cent this year, compared with 7 per cent The department, in a report issued Sunday, also predicted that the volume of total economic output this year will rise by 6 per cent or 7 per cent on the basis of continued growth in U.S. industrial production. By comparison, the total output, or Gross National Product. was virtually flat last year.

The report said the projection on economic output "will represent an average to above-average economic expansion in comparison to equivalent periods of the preceding four recoveries."

Military Draft May Get Axe

WASHINGTON (AP) - With the military draft inactive for almost three years, the Selective Service System may emerge as a target of federal budget trimmers looking for places to cut costs.

The draft ended in 1973. Since last March 29, 18-yearolds have not been required to register on their birthday and the machinery was being developed for a mass registration on one or two days a year for all men who turn 18 that year. However, this plan probably will be called off this year because of the budget crunch, according to informed sources.

In past years, the date of the annual lottery which decides the order that men would be called up if necessary, has been announced by early January. But there are no signs of it happening this year.

20 Killed In Explosion

FREMONT, Neb. (AP) - The manager of the Pathfinder Hotel says he "smelled gas all over the place" and tried to call the gas company several times in the hour preceding the weekend explosion that blew the hotel off its foundations and left as many as 20 persons dead.

Manager Jim Rhodus said that after getting a recorded message, he called the local emergency number to get help. Some time after three crew members of the gas company arrived Saturday, a blast ripped through the basement of the six-story building, collapsing the first floor into the basement.

Twelve bodies had been recovered by late Sunday, but the death toll was expected to reach about 20 when all the missing were found.

Stevens Joins Supreme Court

WASHINGTON (AP) - Justice John Paul Stevens faces legal issues ranging from the rights of aliens to the protection of wildlife as he joins his colleagues for the first working session on the Supreme Court bench.

As the court returns today from a four-week recess, it confronts a calendar that illustrates Stevens' own words at his confirmation hearings last month about the nature of the matters that the justices must rule on.

100 Killed, 173 Wounded In Fighting In Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - At least 100 persons were killed and 173 were wounded in 24 hours as Palestinian guerrillas battled Christian militiamen blockading two Palestinian refugee camps on the northeast side of Beirut, the police reported. "This is one of the highest casualty tolls for a day during the war," a police spokesman said today, Police reported Moslem and Christian gunmen also were battling with mortars and machine guns in the downtown banking and business center.

"Both sides also poured reinforcements into the hotel area. They are evidently preparing for another major eruption in this district," a spokesman said.

Angola Summit Ends Today

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) - The African summit meeting on Angola ends today, but the leaders were evenly divided over whether to support the Soviet-backed Popular Movement (MPLA) in the civil war or to call for a coalition government of the three warring factions.

The African leaders agreed that South Africa and other foreign powers should cease their intervention in the fighting. But supporters of the MPLA said Soviet aid to the Marxist faction, which began more than 10 years ago when it was fighting Portuguese rule, could not be compared with the recent help given by South Africa and the United States to the National Front (FNLA) and the National Union (UNITA).

Gen. Murtala Muhammed of Nigeria charged that South Africa and the United States sought to restore white supremacy in Angola because of its oil and mineral wealth.

Common Front Sought

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Arab delegates and representatives of the Palestine Liberation Organization sought in last-minute consultations to forge a common front for the Security Council debate on the Arab-Israeli dispute starting this afternoon. The Palestinians' chief goal was to cap a series of diplomatic successes over the past two years with a council resolution recognizing Palestinian rights as one of the subjects that must be dealt with in Arab-Israeli peace negotiations'

The PLO has rejected the two council resolutions that form the basis of all peace efforts because they speak of a "refugee problem" without mentioning the Palestinian cause. A new resolution citing Palestinian rights would put heavy pressure on the Israelis to soften their refusal to negotiate with any Palestinian organization.

For Trial Of Dickinson TALLAHASSEE (AP) - A federal judge has called reporters and attorneys to a conference today before opening the trial of former Comptroller Fred O. Dickinson on charges of evading $30,009 in income taxes for 1970-72. U.S. District Judge William Brevard Hand of Mobile, Ala., said he called the conference to set guidelines for news coverage.

Dickinson, acquitted in April of federal extortion conspiracy charges, is one of three former Cabinet officers to face federal income-tax charges in the past year.

Fights To Save Tree House

CORAL GABLES (AP) - A Coral Gables mother is fighting city hall to save a treehouse she says serves as a memorial to her 17-year-old son. "Ephraim always dreamed of having a tree house," Eunice Sala says. "But when we first came here from Cuba, we couldn't build it. He had the plans, though. They were blueprints from an American magazine, and he kept them for years until finally he was able to build it. It is a gift my older son was able to leave his younger brother." Ephraim was killed in an automobile accident more than a year ago, but just last month Coral Gables officials ordered Mrs. Ephraim to tear down the treehouse.

Ford, Reagan Expected Here ORLANDO (AP) - President Ford and his challenger, Ronald Reagan, are expected to attend a conference of Florida conservatives Feb. 6 and 7 in Orlando, says Republican Jerry Thomas. "Ford and Reagan can't afford to stay away from our conference," said Thomas, chairman of the non-partisan Florida Conservative Political Action Conference. "This is just two weeks before the New Hampshire primary. The conference endorsements we will make could have an effect on the race."

Early in 1974, former President Nixon signed the Congressional Budget Act, a bill designed to establish a legislative relationship between federal revenues and federal spending and make Congress a partner in the budget-making process. The system is working.

A Landmark

Congress has begun to make the difficult decision on funding priorities, according to basic needs and the availability of funds. Both houses have developed a keen interest in searching for economies in programs without sacrifice of purpose. The demonstrated commitment of the House and Senate Budget Committees to weeding out projects with little merit cannot help but increase taxpayer confidence in government.

But the new safeguards on the treasury door have effected no miraculous cure of the malady the nation's economic stability - recurring budget deficits.

Rigid spending limits set by the Senate approving the Second Concurrent Resolution on the fiscal 1976 budget nudge the $375 billion mark. The $301 billion floor on revenues seals a $74 billion variety of competing demands, calling for a ner- digest and analyze the data necessary to make vous budget approach between the threats of refueled inflation and the doldrums of recession. Sen, Edmund S. Muskie, chairman of the Senate Budget Committee, calls the budget measure "a landmark" in the congressional fiscal processes. The new system in its first year of implementation shows promise of affording workable controls over runaway federal spending.

Nevertheless, the Senate action, which will be reconciled with a similar House resolution, is a positive congressional step taken under extraordinary difficult conditions.

The American public may not agree with Muskie's claim that the process has "succeeded beyond our most optimistic expectations," but the taxpayers will not begrudge the lawmakers their pride in creating machinery that works - and in making it work.

Congress has indicated that it will perform well in its role as equal partner in budgetmaking.

Energy Bill

The energy bill was flawed but President Ford was wise to sign it into law. A veto would have meant only a continuing stalemate, and the possibility of instant decontrol of oil prices. leading to another inflationary increase in the cost of energy.

The bill provides for phased decontrol of crude oil prices starting in 1977. But it will force an immediate price reduction, which is a flaw in the bui. Cutting the price of oil produced in this country will only encourage wasteful consumption. The immediate effect is likely to increase our dependence on foreign

In the long run, a gradual deregulation of oil prices will be healthy for the economy and will promote domestic oil production. The bill provides for such decontrol, and perhaps the oil companies can now make longrange plans based on the bill's provisions.

Continued delay would only have caused more uncertainty. There has already been two years of debate and delay with little accomplished toward the goal of energy independence since the Arab oil embargo.

The bill is far short of what the President wanted. But he faces a hostile Congress controlled by the opposition party, which is looking forward to the national elections in 1976. He has been unable effectively to mobilize public support for his position.

In the circumstances, the President had no good choice. He ran a political risk in signing the bill. Ronald Reagan said he would veto the bill, which was opposed by the oil industry and many conservatives whose support Ford needs in the primary elections.

Now at least we have an energy bill The Congress and the President can move on to other matters.

intelligent decisions on the thousands of measures presented each session. The average senator, belongs to 16 committees and subcommittees. It is not unusual to see these committees meet with two, three or four legislators present. The Senate and House floors are largely empty most of the time as most bills are being debated. Some measures pass, or are radically amended with a handful of members present.

Congress is thus, in a very real sense, run by its staff assistants. And here is the rub. The public doesn't know who these men are. We don't know their conflicts of interest, their personal biases, their connections, their abilities or weaknesses. They remain largely hidden behind their committee chairman or the individual senator or representative they serve. We don't regularly see them on television and we get no chance to vote on them.

Though the committee staffers write some very influential reports, these are not normally researched for accuracy by the lawmakers under whose name they appear. Neither the members of Congress nor the public usually

Howard Treadwell, Herb Rumble, Doug Lyons, Steve Martinson. Names you're not likely to see in print every day of the week and maybe not even once a year, but these fellows share a common bond that makes them unique in every sense of the word. The aforementioned quartet are all parapelegics, confined to wheelchairs - and all are members of the Wheelchair Pilots Association. We heard of this association of 'handicapped' individuals only last week and decided to see for ourselves just what these jockeys of the airways About 40 showed up at Air Sanlando, Sanford Central Florida Airport, yesterday for what is hoped to be an annual get-together here. Bob Birks of Air Sanlando hosted the conclave and filled us in on a lot of background material regarding the

Naturally, we, like a lot of others, wondered just how these fellows, confined as they are to wheelchairs and unable to control any part of their lower extremities, could possibly "hack it" when it came time to hoisting themselves into the cockpit of a Piper Cherokee or a Cessna Skyhawk or any other

Too, we wondered just how they'd manage those rudders, which are normally controlled by foot themselves, into the cockpit by holding on to strategically located handles with powerful hands and arms and finally manipulated their way into the pilot's seat.

Once adjusted and seated as comfortably as possible, each knew better than most experienced private pilots how to go through all the maneuvers of getting the craft into the air. And all had hand controls that operated the rudders.

Some of these hand controls were on the pilot's right, some on the left and some in the middle of the aircraft. But all worked efficiently and were situated to best suit the particular desires of the respective pilots.

As Treadwell explained it to us, once we were airborne over Sanford, "You'll notice that once I had taxied into position on the runway for my takeoff, I never had to use the rudder's hand controls. About the only time we (wheelchair pilots need to use it is when we're taxing out to the runway.

"Most of us fly in airplanes that practically fly themselves," he said. "And furthermore, the way they manufacture planes these days they'll all do the same things. Rarely does a pilot have to use those rudder controls. He was right!

As we flew far to the west, well past the In terstate 4 SR-46 interchange, Treadwell banked his plane to the north in a smooth arc that carried us back to the east for our approach back into the Sanford-Central Florida Airport.

And not once did he use the hand-controlled rudder pedals. He set the Cherokee down as smooth, o smoother, than any commercial flight we've ever been on (and we've flown many thousands of miles) and taxied gently back to Air Sanlando. To say we were impressed would be a gross understatement

None of these fellows feel handicapped in any sense of the word. As Treadwell, president of the fledging Wheelchair Pilots Association, says "I don't know of many things that we can't do as well or better than a normal person. And the reason I personally, do so much is because I know the day's going to come when I'm slowed considerably hopefully by old age. So while I possibly can, I'm going to do all I can to enjoy life - and I really enjoy

For a fellow who's been flying since he was 15 years of age and who has been confined to a wheelchair since he was 21 (he's now 48), Treadwell is a good example of what man can overcome in the way of a handicap.

We sincerely hope Treadwell's organization continues to grow and that more and more people. who feel they've been dealt a cruel blow in life by being confined to a wheelchair, will realize that the handicap is only as severe as you want to make it. Howard Treadwell, Herb Rumble, Steve-Martinson and Doug Lyons can tell you it doesn't have to be a handicap at all-just an in--Bill Currie

Government Harassment Expensive

WASHINGTON - When composing the Declaration of Independence, the founders listed 26 specific charges against King George III, one of which was that he had "erected a multitude of new Offices and sent hither Swarms of Officers to harass our people, and eat out their Sub-

George was not the first American ruler with his predilection, however, and not the last Every monarch before and since 1776 has sent his officers to harass the people - especially since, the meddling having grown apace with the Republic.

The harassment has perhaps been largely well meaning. God save us from the government's good heart. In an effort to protect the people who buy automobiles, for example, official meddlers have cost them at least $15 billion over the past decade (the price of federally mandated industrial regulation) and some observers believe the pocket picking in the next & decade may be as much as $150 billion.

But harassment in the automobile business is a small part of the whole. The federal regulatory system has become so enormous that estimates are it takes $4 billion a year just for its administration. The Office of Management and Budget guesses there are 100,000 employes in the federal structure - the Swarms of Officers the founders mentioned - whose job it is to create and issue some 6,000 regulatory harassments a year. According to the present administration. these harassments add about $130 billion a year to the cost of living.

In fairness, the harassments are often necessary. The government does have a heavy responsibility in so far as regulation can be identified with reform. But excess is what the become in large part a menace, especially to commerce and thereby to the U.S. compact which this year has its 200th birthday.

One small illustration of the regulatory durability that remains valuable even today in at relatively neglected is the planners' decision to low center of gravity for stability, and with snug mobile home for uncounted generations.

Cataract Surgery Often Effective

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D. DEAR DR. LAMB - My mother, age 60, has a cataract stumble and fall, cannot read in one eye. She is beginning to much and cannot continue her hobby of sewing. This is making her life miserable and she is very nervous.

The doctor said it's too eary for surgery and to check back in a year. When she asked about surgery earlier, he said it could be done but he wasn't at all encouraging. What are the disadvantages of having this surgery done earlier? Is it a more difficult operation for the doctor? Are the chances of success less? Why does he say to wait so long when I've read that in these modern times it's not necessary for a cataract to be 'ripe" before surgery.

DEAR READER - A cataract is simply the clouding of the small, normally clear lens in the eye. We see by light images being transmitted through the lens. When it clouds from internal changes we can't see because it is opaque.

One of the prime indications for removal of a cataract is when the vision is affected to the point that it induces disability in the patient. I personally think this is very important in older people. Some of their most important pleasures are dependent upon seeing. In fact, I think many older people become prematurely senile because they can't see to read and stay n touch with the world, and hey can't hear very well either. With such sensory deprivation it is little wonder that they withdraw, get nervous or even lose touch with about cholesterol these days, I eality. You do not have to wait until not too many eggs. He said the cataract is "ripe" to remove. A "ripe" cataract is one that is completely opaque. The hard round lens must then one's cholesterol level. Is this be removed before it causes complications. Such a lens can lead to glaucoma, the buildup solutely not! rather well and are happy with their sight. In other cases, the patient may have other visual problems totally unrelated to the formation of cataracts. These additional defects may be more important, and the patient may not greatly benefit from surgery. So it is not all black or white. In cases where the cataract is the only important visual problem cataract surgery is remarkably effective. It will restore vision in over 95 per cent of cases. The operation is simple and there are now even choices in types of operations. I would suggest asking your doctor again about your mother's status in view of what you state are her visual problems. If she does have this much trouble because of the cataract formation alone. then perhaps he will consider earlier surgery. If you are not satisfied with his opinion you are always entitled to obtain a second opinion from a qualified ophthalmologist.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am on a hypoglycemia diet. Among other foods the diet indicates I may have one or two eggs for breakfast and again for lunch.

With all the discussion asked my doctor if this was studies have shown that as long as the eggs are softboiled they would not increase true?

At a conference Monday attended by top officials of both the school board and the county. Commissioner Chairman Michael Hattaway and Commissioner Richard Williams agreed to present the concept to the full board.

Mrs. Bettie Palmer, coordinator of science and education, told the group she envisioned a nature center which can be used by all principals of county schools. School Supt. W. P. Layer said the school system will provide SILMOUETTES instructional personnel. The county will supply the land, and some sort of structure to get the promotion for Orange, Osceola and Seminole Counties. "I'm very much in favor of this," Hattaway told Craig Linton, the president of the Central Florida Development Committee. Hattaway, like Williams, agreed that Seminole County needs to "get its house in order" and provide better coordination between agencies which are seeking to entice industry to this area. Linton is spearheading ef-agency on behalf of the Central Florida Development Committee, an agency made up of 150 business leaders. At a meeting in Hattaway's office Monday Linton said three Osceola officials have agreed to serve on the 60-day study committee. Orange County officials, however, have not agreed to participate, Linton

Linton said Interstate 4 from Sanford to Kissimmee is the 'economic entity'' that ties the three counties together. The study will concern itself with problems envisioned in creation of a tri-county agency, plus committee members will delve into any problems an individual county feels it has at the local level. In Seminole County, officials say the plethora of industryseeking agencies creates a situation in which the left hand doesn't know what the right hand is doing. Hattaway said he was not in favor of abolishing any of the county's agencies, but he said he would like to see better coordination between the Seminole County Industrial Development Authority (SCIDA), the Seminole Port Authority, the Airport Authority and the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce. # Law Change Sought In Juvenile Cases

By BOB LLOYD Herald Staff Writer

Seminole-Brevard State Attorney Abbott Herring wants state laws changed so that once a juvenile is sent to circuit court for trial as an adult then any subsequent offenses by the juvenile will also be charged as an adult.

He also wants the escape statute revised so as to include juveniles. Florida laws provide for special handling of juveniles accused of violating the law. Sometimes, Herring says, state attorneys aren't able to successfully prosecute, juveniles because of "loopholes" in the state escape statute. In a series of letters to
