MOND EXHIBITS IN JUDG SLAYING SHOWN TO JURY

Receptacles In Which Bodies Were Packed Displayed In Court

PHOENIX, Jan. 22.—(A.P.)—Winnifred Ruth Judd's counsel started a court battle today when the state offered its exhibits of receptacles in which the bodies of Agnes LeRoi and Hedvig Samuelson were sent from Phoenix to Los Angeles. The receptacles were the first of the state's major physical evidence and included a suitcase which contained parts of the body of Miss Samuelson when it was found in the Los Angeles station, Oct. 19. The state contends both the women were slain by Mrs. Judd, Oct. 18.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 22.—(A.P.)—With flashing eyes, Winnifred Ruth Judd, confessed slayer, drove a prosecuting psychiatrist from the courtroom under a burning tirade yesterday as testimony was started in her trial for the slaying of Agnes Anne LeRoi. "I won't have him near me," she shouted, leaping to her feet to confront Dr. Joseph Catton of San Francisco, who approached her chair during a court recess. "He's talked about me! He's acted like a little boy. Get out of here!"

She clenched her hands. Dr. Catton, who before leaving San Francisco to appear as a witness expressed his opinion Mrs. Judd was sane, left the courtroom. The defense has indicated it will attempt to establish insanity. Mrs. Judd also is under indictment for the slaying of Hedvig Samuelson. Both women, the state charges, were killed on or about Oct. 18, in Phoenix, and their bodies sent to Los Angeles in trunks.

Would-be spectators mobbed the courthouse corridors in futile efforts to get into Judge Speakman's little courtroom to hear first state testimony against the slender, blue-eyed defendant. The crowd remained massed outside the courtroom door throughout the day. Only a few more than 100 could get into the room.

The state plunged rapidly into its case, producing witnesses who heard shots at 10:30 P. M., Oct. 18, who were associated with Mrs. Judd at Grunow Memorial clinic, where the defendant was employed, and who aided in moving the trunks in which the bodies of Mrs. LeRoi and Miss Samuelson were sent to Los Angeles.

In his opening address, County Attorney Andrews said the state would produce evidence to show: That between the hours of 9 and 11 P. M., that Mrs. Ruth Judd was seen in the vicinity of the house at 2020 North Second street in which resided Mrs. Agnes Anne LeRoi and Miss Hedvig Samuelson.

That Mrs. LeRoi did not return to her employment at the Grunow clinic on Oct. 17 but that on the morning of that day a clinic employee received word by a telephone call saying Mrs. LeRoi would be late to work that morning. The evidence will further show that Mrs. Judd did the telephoning.

He said he would also introduce evidence that Mrs. Judd sent the bodies of the two women in trunks to Los Angeles from Phoenix, the trunks first being picked up at 2020 North Second Street.

Andrews said he also expected to show that the relationship between Mrs. Judd, and Mrs. LeRoi and Miss Samuelson was strained for at least five weeks prior to the crime.

W. J. Howey Starts His Campaign With Wauchula Speech

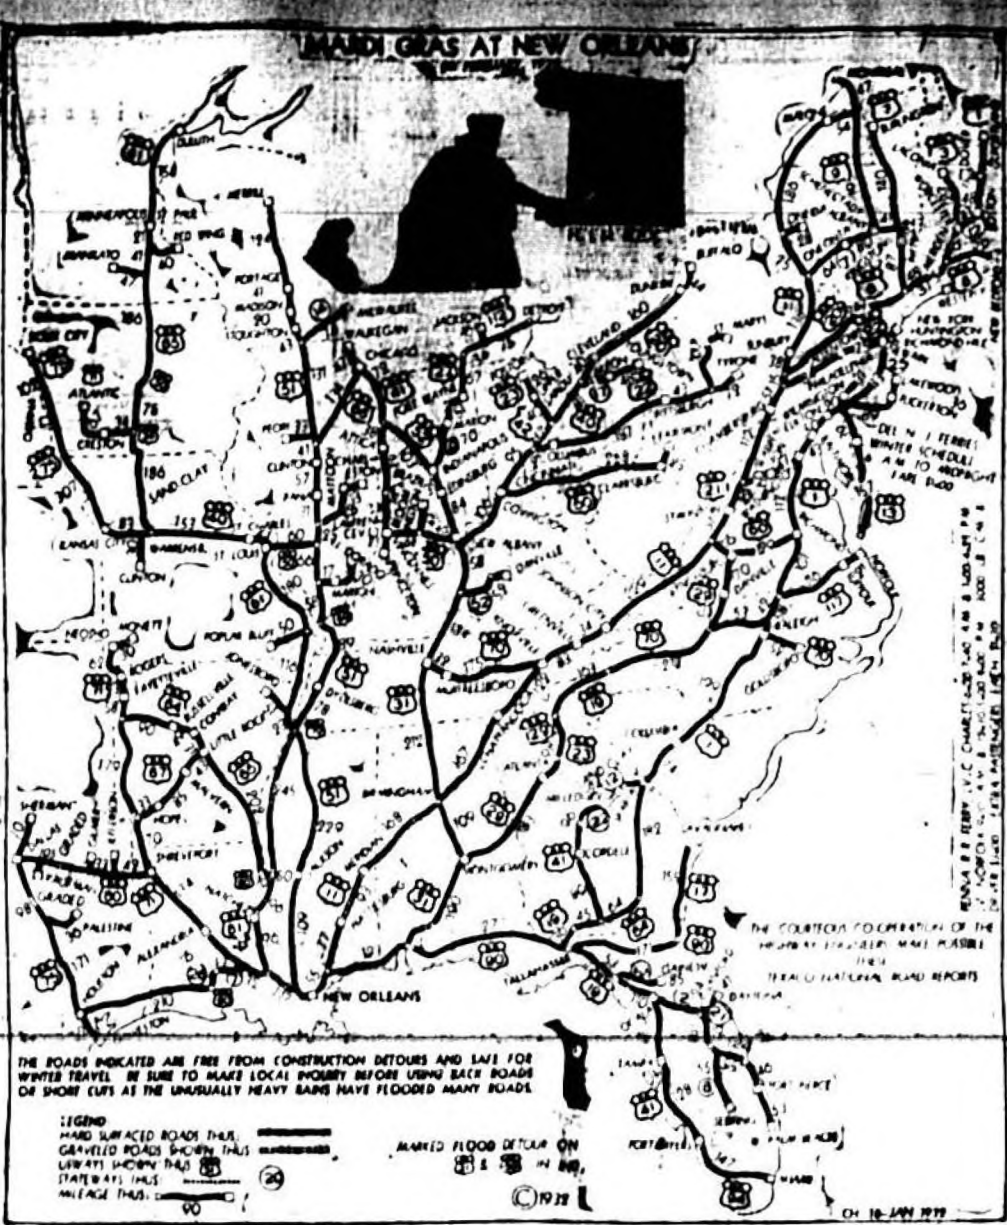

WAUCHULA, Jan. 22.—(A.P.)—Speaking before the Hardee county strawberry festival yesterday, William J. Howey, Republican candidate for governor, opened his campaign, asserting that "No Democrat can go to Tallahassee to govern until he has made a deal with the ring."

Howey charged the present administration could have reduced taxation $500,000 the first week he failed to do it. He claimed he was rebuffed by the Democratic "ring" in 1928, and said if his opponent "wanted to change things in this state" to send him to Tallahassee as governor.

He was introduced by R. E. L. Perry, chairman of the State Central Committee, Judge Allen A. Rice of Winter Haven, a Republican leader, also spoke.

The speaker last night was J. W. Watson, Tampa, a Democratic gubernatorial candidate. To attract Caldwell, Jackson, and J. Hardin Peterson, and will speak at Wauchula in a private candidate for governor, and Peterson seeks to succeed Congressman Herbert J.

High light today will be the name of the festival queen.

HOOVER ASKS FUNDS FOR BIG CREDIT POOL

(Continued from Page One) ration will have authority to issue bonds to the extent of $1,500,000,000 underwritten by the treasury.

While the technicalities of legislative procedure prevented final congressional action yesterday, President Hoover studied the completed bill and found it much to his liking. He went over its provisions with Senator Walcott of Connecticut, co-author of the measure. The senator quoted the President as saying he was "very much pleased."

The report of the conferees of both chambers of Congress, embodying the measure in its final form, was submitted to the House yesterday. Under the rules of that branch no action could be taken until today.

After the House has approved it, the report will go to the Senate and may receive immediate action there, although the objection of one member could delay final approval until Saturday.

Although the reconstruction bill was inactive yesterday, another important item of the President's program for investigating business jumped its final congressional hurdle and was sent to the White House for Hoover's signature.

This was the measure providing $25,000,000 of additional capitalization for the federal land banks and thus increasing the credit of the farmer. Of the total carried by the bill, $25,000,000 was specifically earmarked to enable the banks to postpone the mortgage installment payments of needy farmer-borrowers.

A third of the President's measures, proposing the creation of a system of home loan discount banks to encourage home building, received both praise and abuse from witnesses before a Senate banking sub-committee.

Robert Oakman of the Michigan tax commission said the measure would not help "the working man who is trying to pay for his home." He criticized a clause providing for mortgage loans as high as $15,000 and said the maximum should be reduced to $8000 or $7000.

On the other hand, I. Friedlander of Houston, Tex., described the bill as "excellent," and said the $15,000 limit was all right, although he preferred to set it at $10,000.

Meanwhile, the House Ways and Means Committee continued its study of increasing taxes, closely related to the President's economic program as part of a series of moves intended to balance the budget. The committee yesterday heard representatives of the theatrical world oppose a tax on admissions.

They testified that such a levy could not be absorbed by theaters and if passed on to the patrons would result in disaster for many moving picture houses and other places of entertainment. Late in the day, the treasury department made a ruling clearing the way for the appointment of Bernard M. Baruch to the board of directors of the reconstruction corporation.

Abandonment Of Debt Parley Is Not Sure, State British

LONDON, Jan. 22.—(A.P.)—The British government's announcement that the Lausanne reparations conference will be postponed does not mean the conference has been abandoned, it was said yesterday in official circles.

Preliminary work for the meeting is being continued, a spokesman said, and the government hopes the conference ultimately will be held and will prove successful.

It was announced that Prime Minister MacDonald had been forced by pressure of domestic affairs to decline an invitation from Premier Laval of France for a discussion of mutual problems over the week-end.

The Times declared that, because Germany still is anxious for the Lausanne to be held, "courtesy alone seems to suggest that the invitation should not be cancelled, and that Germany should be given an opportunity of saying what it has to say, and that creditors and debtors, in common deliberations, should consider what can be done at once."

A permanent solution of the reparations problem is impossible at present, the Times said.

The News-Chronicle warned that "unless some method is speedily devised to wind up definitely and finally the reparations liabilities, Europe will drift from its present position to absolute catastrophe."
