State weighs dropping greenbelt from its land-purchase program

By J. MARK BARFIELD Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - Spring Hammock may be dropped from a state land purchase program while Seminole County directs its attention to other land purchase programs to complete the acquisition of the 1,300-acre nature preserve near Spring Hammock and 32 other projects around the state should be dropped.

Seminole County doesn't plan to send anyone to the meeting to argue to remain on the list.

At one time, Spring Hammock was seventh on the list and the state eventually purchased about 700 acres and the county owns about

LICKING, Mo. - He's 91 years old. His son is 24

Those numbers would be surprising to most people, but not Jimmie Jones, a great-great grandfather, who's proud of his latest offspring.

"I wasn't shocked," said Jones, who lives in the rural community of Licking, about 120 miles southwest of St. Louis. "I knew I was a hell of a man.

"I did, too," she said. "When the doctor told us I was pregnant, we didn't know whether to be tickled pink or shocked pink." Jimmie Jones, who's first wife died in 1975, has 17 grandchildren, 26 great-grandchildren and one great-great grandchild. He was born in Osceola, Ark., and credits his longevity and virility to a diet of home-grown, home-cooked food — especially wild "poke leaf" salads.

He and his first wife had four children.

His father died when he was 6 and his eyes moisten when the subject of how much of his son's life he'll get to see. "That's why it's so important that they know each other now," said Mrs. Jones, who has albums for later use.

The couple met when he was 64 and she was 16, but didn't see each other again until two decades had passed. They met by chance five years ago and at first didn't recognize each other.

"I'd gotten a lot uglier," Jones said.

"I was never attracted to men my own age," said Mrs. Jones, who accepted a marriage proposal that soon followed. "We marriage the same reason younger people do - compa-nionship and love."

After the wedding, they moved to a 10-acre farm near Licking in south-central Missouri, where he raised hogs until a stroke two years ago left him partly paralyzed.

"I love my family," said Mrs. Jones, who cultivates a vegetable garden and raises chickens and rabbits. "I feel I can make this home."

Even though the naval base has long been closed and retirements or tours of duty ended. Sanford has remained a navy town. Many former naval officers as well as enlisted personnel found Central Florida to be a fine place in which to live, and are still here, living in Sanford, Lake Mary, Deltona. and other areas of Seminole and Volusia Counties.

The three day event begins Friday morning with a gulf tournament beginning at 8:30, at the Mayfair Country Club, Registration is $30 which includes a lunch. The Fleet Reserve club will open at 10 a.m., with a chicken buffet dinner available for $5.50. A dance follows at the club in the evening.

There is also a river cruise Friday on the Grand Romance, beginning at 11 a.m. The cost is $32, which includes lunch.

While no large scale activities are planned for Saturday, it is the part of the reunion that draws the most interest from the greatest number of former Sanford navy personnel. With the club opening at 9 .a.m. service personnel will be gathering there all day. They will be renewing old friendships. seeking those they have not seen in many years, sharing old sea-stories, and enjoying reliving the old times.

Fading sound during gripe session roiles Lake Mary political factions

LAKE MARY - The audio died during part of a televised presentation of a Lake Mary City Commission meeting last week. People are demanding to know why it went out at that particular time.

The loss of sound actually started just prior to the beginning of the citizen participation portion of the commission meeting, according to the cable television broadcaster.

As the discussion started, Lake Mary resident Earl Fox addressed the commissioners. questioning the reasons behind an Easter egg hunt, held at the home of Mayor Randy Morris earlier this year, and for the past several years

Although Morris had not been on the commission for the entire time during which the children's Easter Egg hunts were held. Fox accused him of using his power as a member of the city commission and mayor to obtain prizes and donations to the event.

He also accused Commissioner Tom Mahoney of attending and being involved in the most recent event. Although Fox demanded that Morris publicly explain the matter, the mayor said he would not explain it until Fox had finished. Fox however, said he was not finished, and Local man sought by Crimeline

By MICK PPEIFAUF Herald Staff Writer

The Central Florida Crimeline Program is seeking the whereabouts of a man wanted in Seminole County. Up to $1,000 reward is being offered for information leading to the apprehension of 37-yearold Mark McCulloch.

In April, 1990, Mc-Culloch was charged with sexual battery and kidnapping in Seminole County. During a subsequent court appearance, he entered a guilty plea and was to return at a later date for sentencing.

Later, the 5th district court of appeals overturned the sentence and issued a bench warrant for Mc-Culloch, so he could be re-sentenced. McCulloch however, has since disappeared.

McCulloch is described as a white male, born Oct. 18 1953. He is 6'2" tall, weighs 175 pounds, has blue eyes and red hair. He has a tatoo of a devil on his left forearm.

final decision Sunday, top Defense Department officials have written to the panel urging them to spare MacDill Air Force Base in Tampa, Fla.; the Long Beach (Calif.) Naval Shipyard, the Marine Corps Recruit Depot in San Diego and Plattsburgh Air Force Base in New York.

Defense Secretary Dick Cheney has recommended that MacDill be scaled back, but the commission added it to its list of possible closures.

The seven-member cominfssion, appointed by President Bush and confirmed by the Senate, plans to hold deliberations on its final list today and Friday. It will vote on Sunday.

In a June 20 memorandum. Gen. Colin Powell, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, urged Cheney to express the Pentagon's misgivings about closing be a "costly mistake."

Copies of the memo and letters were obtained from congressional sources on Wednesday.

Cheney in April recommended closing 43 domestic military bases and scaling back 28 others. The Defense Base Closure and Realignment Commission later added 36 installations to the Pentagon's list but subsequently pared it.

The final list will be sent to Bush for his approval or rejection of the package in its entirety by July 15. If approved, the list will be forwarded to Congress which has 45 days to adopt or turn down the package without change. In a letter to Courter on June 17. Air Force Secretary Donald Rice urged the commission to close Loring Air Force Base in Limestone, Maine, and keep Plattsburgh open. Rice said that changing the

for abortion counseling

Key senator predicts OK

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - A Housepassed bill that would permit abortion counseling at taxpayer-financed clinics is on its way to the Senate, where a key subcommittee chairman predicts approval.

"And I expect a presidential veto, and I'm prepared to light the president on this." Sen. Tom-Harkin, D-lowa, chairman of the Senate Appropriations subcommittee that will receive the measure.

Whether the House or the Senate could find enough votes to override a veto promised by President Bush is not clear.

"We'll just have to wait and see where people want to be counted on this one," Harkin said in an interview Wednesday. "But I can say that women's groups all over this country are going to be watching this one."

Staunch abortion focs, however, are confident they can sustain a velo.

The House on Wednesday overwhelmingly approved a $203 billion spending bill that included an amendment that would block enforcement of the government's abortion counseling ban, upheld recently by the Supreme Court.

The bill, appropriating money for the Labor. Health and Human Services and Education departments, was approved 353-74 after abortion opponents decided to pin their hopes on a presidential veto rather than fight the amendment that would effectively lift the "gag rule" on counseling.

Bush has said he would veto the bill, as well as other abortion-related measures that have advanced in the House this year.

EDITORIALS Sheriff Polk: The man and his monument

When all is said and done in this world, what a lot of us want when the end comes is to be remembered. Some would be remem-bered for the kind of person they were, others for what they accomplished for what they accomplished. In the grand scheme of things, few among us leave an impression that is very deep. Rare is the person whose imprint is indelible. John Polk is of the rare breed.

Not only has he left a remarkably distinct impression, it is one that is based as much on the kind of person he was as it is on what he has done. He was a physically-big, tough-talking law man who didn't abive coddling criminals. But just as surely, he had compassion for his fellow man and showed it in the kind of small but authenticating ways that mark the measure of a sensitive and wise man

In distinguished career, he emerged as a tough and respected leader with a big heart and a gentle hand who helped prepare Seminole County law enforcement for the 21st Century.

He was a big man in more ways than one. That is his monument and it will endure.

Gender separateness at new level

In one of those rare creative coincidences that only we in the news business seem to pull off. two major news magazines simultaneously published cover stories on two opposite sides of the male-female symbiosis.

When I saw last week's covers of Time and Newsweek, I immediately thought of the main conclusion of the 1968 Kerner Commission on the state of U.S. race relations: "America is in danger of becoming two societies, one black, one white, separate and unequal." Twenty-three years later, a different inequality

- gender separateness - has begun radiating a renewed vigor. Portraying the two female stars of an emo-tionally explosive movie. Time's cover headline pondered "Why "Theima & Louise' strikes a nerve.

The Newsweek cover depicted a bare-chested man holding a baby in one arm and a drum in the other, above the headline "What do men really want?" A subhead declared: "Now they have a movement of their own." The "they" may mislead the reader by lumping all men into one undifferentiated. united mass. American Indian men have had "a movement of their own" for decades. Black men have long had their civil rights movement. Gay men continue to expand their own rights movement.

But "Theims & Louise" (which I now with my wife) must have struck the wrong nerve in this particular man if there is any merit to the summary of the reaction of all men and women by the Time writer, a woman: "Along partian lines, men attack the movie as a male-bashing feminist screed, in which they are portrayed as leering, overbearing, violent swine who deserve what they get. ... Women cheer the movie because it finally turns the tables on Hollywood, which has been too busy making movies about bimbos, prostitutes, vipers (etc.)

But no work of art can claim to encapsule the total human experience. To fault "Theima & Louise," as so many critics are doing, because the two women owe more to Clint Eastwood than they do to Katharine Hepburn is to deny the happy diversity of the female gestalt.

If critics want their women defined only by King Lour's ideal. "ever soft, gentle and low, an excellent thing in woman." let them feast on the movie "Strangers in Good Company." This film chronicles womanhood's binding umbilical chord when eight women are marconed in the countryside after their bus breaks down. Conceivably, eight men also would have survived under similar circumstances, but more likely it would only have been after an intense clash of a few macho egos. Men who are seeking to protect that macho ego inspired the Newsweek story.

As a male, I can empathize with my fellow men. I just happen to also sympathize with the sudaciousness and independence of "Theima & Louise."

JACK ANDERSON Indians fear ruin of land by mines

WASHINGTON - Indiana at the Fort Belknap Reservation in remote northern iontana are celebrating the renewal of life on earth this week with an annual Sun Dance while miners next door sprinkle the earth with cyanide and rend the air with blasts of dynamite.

Mining operations have existed next door to the reservation ever since gold was discovered in the Little Rocky Mountains about a century ago. But the Indians' rejuctant acceptance of their mining neighborn has turned to suspicion in recent years. They now fear the expanding mine for taking time out of your leisure time Saturday evening, June 1.

When I experienced car trouble, you so graciously came to my aid, purchasing the car part, repairing my car, and sending me home with a grateful heart...no charge. It is heartwarming and comforting to know that we still have caring young men.

Again, I thank you. What could have been a nightmare turned into a pleasant experience. Mrs. Lois M. Butcher

Thanks for Herald coverage

Thanks to Doris Dietrich and Herald staff, the recent Celery Fed dance was a tremendous success. The sock hop was planned at the last moment - long after the advance mass mailout to Seminole High alumni re the feativities at Sanford Middle School earlier that day. Word of mouth and your coverage resulted in a large turnout for a memorable evening. Also a special thanks to Harriett Hayman Boyd (class of '42) who was inadvertently omitted from previously published list of the planning commit-tee. Hattle was on hand at 5 p.m. to hang decorations and assisted in the cleanup at the close of the evening.

ROBERT WAGMAN He took on special elections

WASHINGTON - Because one political neophyte became angry after being left out of the process of filling a vacated U.S. Senate seat, the way America holds special elections may be changed.

When the late Sen. John Heinz, R-Pa., died in April, Gov. Robert Casey of Pennsylvania, in accordance with state law, appointed fellow Democrat Harris Wolford to serve until a special election could be held in November.

Meanwhile, again according to state law, the two political parties geared up to appoint candidates for that election. The Democrats chose Wofford. The GOP was poised to select Attorney General Richard Thornburgh, former sovernor of Pennsylvania: This infuriated Philadelphia developer John Trinsey Jr.

Something of a political gadfly. Trinney had planned to run for Pennsylvania's other Senate nent, now held by Arlen Spector. But with the opening created by Heinz's death. Trinsey decided to jump into that race.

The only problem: There was to be no race. The Republican Party was appointing Thornburgh. This wasn't fair, thought Trinsey, ao he decided to do something about it. He got out his copy of the U.S. Constitution, and found, in the 17th Amendment, ratified in 1913, some interesting language regarding the popular ejection of senators. It says, to paraphrase, that in the case of a vacancy. Whe state legislature may empower the state's chief executive to make an interim appointment until "the people" fill the vacancy.

So Trinsey sat down and wrote a brief lawsuit, protesting that the 17th Amendment required open primaries for the special election.

The case was heard by District Judge Edward Cahn Jr. It was opposed by an assistant state attorney general in an almost offhand way. No one thought much about it, in fact, until Judge Cahn ruled in favor of Trinsey. In a 21-page opinion. Cahn said he believed the 17th Amendment requires open primaries. The judge even supplied a previous appeals court ruling in support of his view.

Now things are rather confused in Pennsylvania. The Republican Party is appealing Cahn's ruling. Thornburgh is staying at the Justice Department for the time being. and he has given some indication he might rethink his decision if he must face primary opposition.

Twenty-two other states, and both national political parties, are watching what happens very carefully, because these states all have the same process for holding special elections - the parties choose the candidates.

Congress' favorite junket has been grounded, and some annoyed members are taking it out on AIDS researchers.

Every year Congress loads up several planes with members, wives and staff, and takes off for a week at the Paris Air Show in June. So many members make the trip that the U.S. Embassy in Paris spends months planning for their care and feeding.

Last year almost 100 members went preity much every senator and representative with enough seniority on any committee that has anything to do with aviation, the military or foreign relations. But that was before the adverse publicity surrounding White House Chief of Staff John Sununu's airplane excursions.

Suddenly. Con-gress got cold feet. The planes were cancelled, and the embassy was notified that Paris in June was out of the question.

This left a lot of very unhappy cam-pers on the Hill. Then a number of these members noticed that the Department of Health and Human Services was planning to send, at a cost of $1.3 million, a delegation of 400 officials, scientists and rescarchers to the annual international AIDS conference, to be held this summer in Italy. HHS explained that it had already cut the number going from 700 to 400, and everyone going was either a hands-on scientist or official dealing with the AIDS crisis.

Although the Paris Air Show was not mentioned, it was in the background as HHS was threatened with a cut of $1.3 million from its AIDS research budget if the delegation of 400 went.

HHS agreed to cut the delegation back to 300. If fewer went, HHS argued, then all all those presenting papers could not go.

The number had to be 100, said Congress. The matter is still unresolved.

In case you missed the announcement, Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., has announced that he will seek a seventh term in November 1994.

Such an announcement by a senator this far in advance of the election is unusual.

Despite his myriad personal problems. Kennedy easily won re-election in 1988 with 65 percent of the vote. Recent post-Palm Beach polls have shown some slip in his popularity in the Bay State, but not enough for any Democrat to consider a primary challenge.

exploration. The clash between man, nature and wilderness in this isolated slab of Montana is playing out at sites throughout the West. In this modern-day gold rush, more than twice as much gold was mined last year in the United States than was mined during the peak of the original California rush in 1852.

Miners are not only cutting a swatch through acenic wilderness, but are often acquiring the land for pocket change. Despite heightened public awareness about wilderness preservation, hard-rock miners face no stiffer regulations or oversight than they did a century ago. The powerful mining lobby has preserved laws that allow miners to purchase mineral rights on federal lands for as little as $2.50 an acre. The U.S. government fails to charge even royalties for exploitation of land that is the heritage of all Americans. Foreign miners are flocking to this firesale.

One of those firms is Pegasus Gold, the Canadian parent firm of Zortman Mining Co. In recent years the mine has ranked in the top 20 most productive gold mines in the country. Last year it harvested 109,700 ounces of gold and 652,000 ounces of allver.

Like many gold mines, the Zortman mine uses a cyanide solution to leach gold from heaps of ore. The earth is stacked on a pad and sprinkled with cyanide, which settles to the bottom of the heap and pulls the gold with it. Environmental hazards arise when the cyanide seeps off the pad and into the earth. The company, however, asserts that the solution is safe and carefully handled. The Bureau of Land Management nods its head in agreement.

Scott Haight, a geologist for the BLM, told us the Zortman mine had a fine environmen-tal track record. "There's never been a serious (cyanide) leak that I'm aware of." We reminded him of the 55,000 gallons of evanide that leaked out of the mining site in 1982. Height said that was "before my time."

Pegasus spokesman John Fitzpatrick told us that he questioned just how many Indians were opposed to the mining, and he claimed that the loudest noise the Indians will hear from the mine is the sound of trucks backing

Our associate Jim Lynch examined state and federal files on the Zortman mine, as well as the company's own reports. The record includes unauthorized clearing of the land, stacking ore too high on the leach pads. failing to fence off toxic ponds and pads, and "persistent problems" with the amount of cyanide draining into a nearby gulch.

JACKSONVILLE - A prep honor student and light end who served three weeks in an Oklahoma jail for cocaine possession is expected to attend the University of Florida this summer and play football for the Gators, coach Steve Spurrier said.

Jeremy Kennedy, 18, was sentenced to 45 days in the Cleveland County Jail in Norman. Okla., after pleading guilty June 6 to cocaine possession. He was released Wednesday after serving about three weeks. His term was shortened because of good behavior.

"From what I've heard, we're going to take him with some stipulations," Spurrier told the Florida Times-Union. "If the school decides to take him, we're going to take him on the football team as well."

Rain keeps soaking Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England - Heavy rain tormented Wimbledon for the third straight day, wiping out most matches and magnifying the tournament's grass-court gridlock.

But the wet weather cleared in the early evening and Gabriela Sabatini and Jennifer Capriali scored straight-set victories. Secondseeded Sabatini defeated Monique Javer 6-4, 6-0 and ninth-seeded Capriati beat Shaun Stafford 6-0, 7-5 in a clash of Floridians.

The tournament also lost its first seeded players as dusk approached. Richey Reneberg defeated 12th-seeded Andrei Cherkasov 6-4, 6-3, 6-4 and Gigi Fernandez eliminated 10th-seeded Helena Sukova 4-6, 6-1, 6-4.

The long rain delay further complicated an already messy schedule as 77 of the day's scheduled 100 matches were washed out. Some players originally set to play Monday still have been unable to get on court.

Only 46 first-round matches have been completed so far. At this point, about 180 firstand second-round matches should have been finished ALTAMONTE SPRINGS - This past year. Lake Brantley High School proved sports an academics can mix as 15 graduating senior athletes finished the year with a 3.25 grade-point average or better.

And those 15 and others were honored at an awards ceremony held last month before the graduation of those athletes.

Topping the list of achievers was Tina Wong, who ran for the cross country and track teams and ended up as valedictorian of the Class of 1991. Andrew Stanko, a member of the ever-improving boy's soccer squad, had the highest GPA of any male athlete.

Joe DeLeon and Carrie Larson each picked up the Gary Hays Memorial Award, named after a 1980 basketball graduate. The award goes to those players who have a spiritual and enthusiastic influence on their peers. Larson will play for the girl's soccer squad at Elon College beginning next year.

Thirteen athletes received Burger King Coaches Awards during the presentation for their outstanding dedication and cooperation within their sport.

Joyce Tullis, who helped the girls' soccer capture the 1989-1990 state title, and Craig Streetman each carned the Guy Garrett Outstanding Student/Athlete Award. Tullis will attend the University of Central Florida on an academic scholarship in the fall.

Miami welcomes Smith, Ackles, Loughery to fold

By STEVEN WINE AP Sports Writer

MIAMI - The Miami Heat's new coach likes the team's new players.

Coach Kevin Loughery was not involved in the Heat's draft decisions Wednesday night but said he approved of first-round pick Steve Smith, a 6-7 guard from Michigan State, and second-round selection George Ackles, a 6-9 center from Nevada-Las Vegas.

"I don't think you could have made a better choice than Steve Smith," Loughery said. "He has a chance to be a big-time. big-time player.

Ackles is a very good athlete who can block shots, and he can run the floor for his size."

Loughery said.

The Heat hired the Atlanta Hawks assistant coach last week. But to the dismay of Miami officials, the Hawks required him to remain with them through the draft to help with the team's See Heat. Page 2B

Orlando adds needed size in Williams and Roberts

By FRED GOODALL AP Sports Writer

ORLANDO - Pat Williams had two good reasons to be ecstatic about the NBA draft. The Orlando Magic got the player it really wanted - and Stanley Roberts, too.

The second-year franchise bolstered one of the smallest front lines in the league Wednesday night by taking 6-foot-10 power forward Brian Williams with the 10th pick and selecting the seven-foot Roberts No. 23 to fill a need at center.

"This was a very nice draft." beamed Pat Williams, the Orlando general manager. "Drafts are oftenevaluated by the number of players. you get. Having an extra (firstround) pick, and getting who we got, was a big bonus.

In Miami, Loughery will inherit a backlog at guard. Barring a trade, Smith is likely to find himself behind Willie Burton. Glen Rice and point guard Sherman Douglas.

"Playing off the bench won't be a problem for me." Smith said.

And he will play. Smith averaged 25.1 points per game last season, and Miami - which has just 57 victories in its first three years - needs that kind of scoring.

"I think he's a player who will jump in from day one and play 20 to 25 minutes a game, at least," said Stu Inman, Heat director of player personnel. "The game of basketball is easy for Steve Smith - at the offenaive end of the court."

Inman and others in the front office like Smith's ballhandling and poise in the clutch. They don't like his defense.

"That's going to be an ad-justment for him," Inman said. Smith said his weaknesses also include stamina and strength. He weighs 200 pounds and would like to bulk up to 210.

Heat officials say Smith can play point guard, shooting guard or small forward, but they expect him to settle in at the point.

BOGRAN ALERSON

Karen was always a happy, outgoing girl, but now she's secretive and quiet. She used to confide in me. She doesn't go places with her girffrends like ahe used to; they don't even call her anymore. Her grades have plunged this year, so she has to go to summer school to make up me credita.

I have tried to reason with her. We have restricted her to seeing Mark only once a week becau they were getting too thick. (She says she "loves" him.) We have talked until we are blue in the face about doing something besides waiting for Mark to call, but she can't — or won't — see the light. What can we do? DEAR PARENTS: Your daughter has a bad case of lovesickness. She needs someone she can talk to honestly about her feelings. Unfortu-nately, there is now little communication between you and Karen. So, family counseling might bring you closer together.

Karen needs to see you as loving parents, which is what you are, instead of "the enemy" - using your parental power to keep her from seeing the boy she loves. (Don't ridicule her: although she is only 16, her love is genuine.)

Ask your family doctor to recommend a family therapist. If money is tight. your YWCA may be the answer. And hats off to you for seeking help.

DEAR ABOT: I need your opinion. Two weeks ago, 1 gave my girlfriend an engagement ring. We have been going together for nearly two years, and it's understood that we will get married in about a year, so ahe wasn't exactly surprised. (I am 24 and ahe is 21.)

Now, the problem: The ring I gave her is a three-carat zircon - set in white gold. It looks exactly like a diamond, but it is not nearly as expensive. I never did tell her it wasn't a diamond. and she has been showing it off at work and to her relatives. Now I'm too embarrassed to tell her the truth.

I keep thinking that one day, when I can afford it. I will replace it with a real diamond. but now I don't have the nerve to tell her the truth. What should I do?

NO GUTS

DEAR NO GUTS: Please get the guts to tell her the truth, and the sooner, the better. If she should decide to insure the ring, she would be told immediately that it is not a diamond. Your engagement would be less "rocky" if she heard it first from you.

DEAR ABET: My stepdaugh-ter "Susie" and her husband, who live out of state and rarely communicate with us, came to visit us last year. Their visit was complicated by the fact that they invited another couple (whom
