"LET'S TALK DRY CLEANING"

Every one is familiar with the cliche "they don't make things like they did years am sure this applies to the manu One new fabric used in the clothing dustry today is bonded fabric, which made by permanently bonding an outer o face to a knitted tricot lining fabric so the two are inseparably one unit. For satisfactory performance, bonded fabrics should withstand drycleaning and wetcleaning, and maintain drapability and original hang.

Many fabrics bonded to fabric dryclean satisfactorily. Some do not. Problems that may occur are: Stiffening in drycleaning and finishing, due to adhesive used.

Performance in wear and cleaning depends on the bonding formula and the procedure for joining the fabrics. Critical factors are the type of Adhesive, the amount of it, and the pat-

In much of the U.S. today, I marine ferries have all but disappeared, their function taken over by bridges.

But not in the salty inland seas of northwestern Washington and adjacent Canadian waters, the complex of waterways usually lumped under the name of Puget Sound.

Here ferries are indispensable parts of the highway system. Some cross unbridgeable waters; some provide shortcuts; all provide nostalgia.

Twenty six ferries run on 13 all-year routes which connect major highways with 13 islands, the Kitsap and Olympic peninsulas and Vancouver Island in Canada. Another run is added during the summer months through the San Juan Islands which is of special interest to campers.

The boats range in capacity from six to 100 automobiles and include a 52year-oldformersidewheeler, several truly tiny vessels and ten former San Francisco ferries. Most have been given Northwest Indian

The ferries, a popular tourist attraction during the summer months, offer delightful and inexpensive cruises with or without a car. Many people take round trips to enjoy the cool sea breezes on a hot day, the scenic beauty of a sunset on the sound or to tour the rug-
