18-Hour Swim Saves Eight In Pacific Sinking

Sub Sailors Live On Cocoanuts, Are Rescued by Guerrillas

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6. (AP)—The story of eight survivors of the American submarine Flier—swimming 18 hours in Japanese-controlled waters to a barren island and living for days on a pair of coconuts—was related recently.

The story of two weeks' flight for survival and of rescue by Philippine guerrillas came from the skipper, Commander John D. Crowley, of Concordia, Kan.

Commander Crowley told how the little band, thrown into the sea by an explosion, made its way to a "paradise" on the Philippine Islands after days of vainly hunting food on one deserted spot after another.

Raw sugar cane they found after reaching the Philippines was "the most delicious thing I ever tasted," Commander Crowley said. Loss of the Flier in action against the enemy was announced by the Navy on Sept. 19.

"We were cruising on the surface at night in Japanese-controlled waters," Commander Crowley related, "when there was a terrific explosion. I was on the bridge, and in twenty to thirty seconds the ship went down. The night was completely dark and we couldn't orient ourselves. The survivors were gathered together and, though you couldn't see beyond three feet, we counted fifteen men in the water.

"The nearest land was 3 1/2 miles away, an isolated island probably occupied by Japs, and in another direction, farther away, were more islands, probably unoccupied. We decided to head for the larger group with the greater chance of making land.

"We had no life jackets and didn't know the distance, it turned out, to be twelve miles to the island we reached. In the early morning we were able to see the silhouette of the island we made though we suspected we had swum in circles part of the night.

Eighteen hours after the explosion, about 3 P.M., we sighted the island. The fifteen counted originally reached the coral beach after abandoning all clothing and gear except underclothes. While they swam in the afternoon, a Japanese plane passed overhead but did not see them.

About a mile from land five of the eight reached a floating palm tree and floated in, while the other three continued to swim.

The island yielded no wood, food or water. The men were subsisted from exposure in the water, and their feet were bled by anti-jagged coral. Nights were cold and they slept covered with sand and hugging each other for body warmth.

Search of hundreds of floating coconuts revealed only one fit to eat.

The raft, which they made of bamboo and grass, permitted two men to ride and paddle while the other six swam alongside. In that fashion they traveled from island to island, all uninhabited and yielding no food or water.

During the trip they found one other drifting coconut.

Several days later they reached a large island and sighted a group of buildings surrounded by an excellent coconut grove which they found deserted, looted and damaged.

The next morning two native guerrilla fighters, one of whom could speak a little English, appeared and agreed to lead them to food and water. They learned then that the guerrilla watchers had seen them come ashore, and came prepared to deal with them as friend or enemy.

Suffering from coral cuts and sunburn, aggravated by infection and flies, they were taken overland in carabao carts to a point where they boarded small native boats for a trip to a guerrilla headquarters. Their military section ended the story.

The men were returned to the United States.

In addition to Commander Crowley, the survivors included

Arthur G. Howell, chief radio technician of East Moriches, L.I.

AN AMERICAN WAR PRODUCTION RECORD THAT DESERVES TELLING . . .

On December 14, at 3:00 o'clock in the afternoon, the men and women of Humble Oil & Refining Company will pause in their work to commemorate, in appropriate ceremony, a feat unparalleled in the petroleum industry: The production of ONE BILLION GALLONS of finished 100-octane aviation gasoline at the Baytown refinery.

This accomplishment merits special commendation, because it climaxes 25 years of development, planning, and teamwork of a great organization. The cooperative effort of Humble employees has brought about a uniform progress in all phases of the Company's operations which has enabled them to establish remarkable records in finding, producing, transporting and refining petroleum during a critical period in the history of our nation.

Humble research and development, in progress for many years before Pearl Harbor, made possible these accomplishments and contributed greatly to the total production of toluene, and the tremendous quantities of finished 100-octane aviation gasoline required by our Armed Forces.

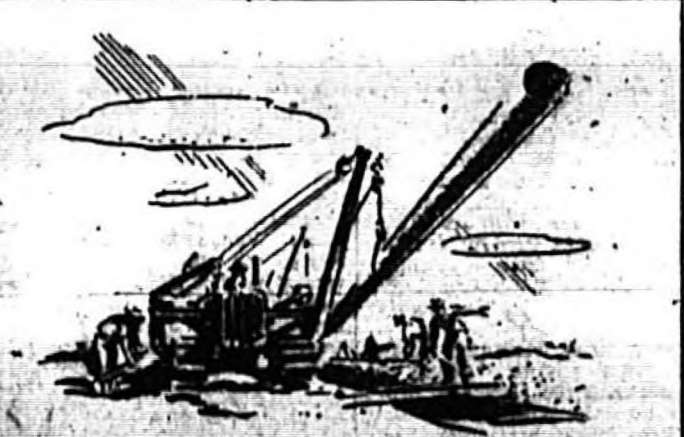

Baytown Ordnance Works, first synthetic toluene plant in the world, has supplied toluene for at least one out of every two bombs used by the United Nations since Pearl Harbor. For this production feat, Baytown Ordnance Works has five times been awarded the Army-Navy "E".

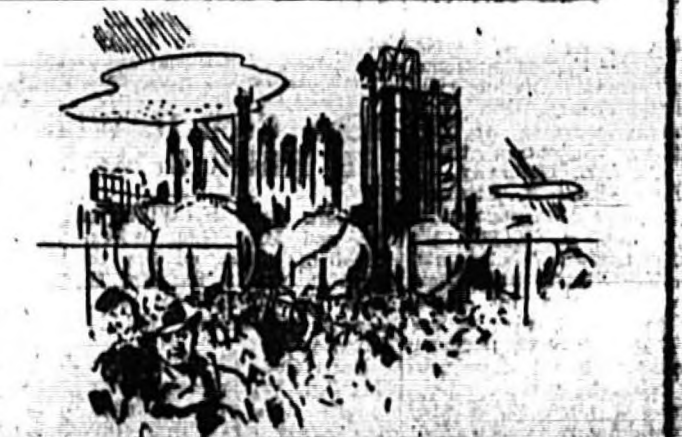

Baytown Refinery has made one billion gallons of finished 100-octane aviation gasoline—more than has been produced by any other plant in the world. The world's first commercial alkylation plant was built at Baytown in 1938. The alkylation process is the very backbone of 100-octane aviation gasoline production by the entire petroleum industry.

Humble Oil & Refining Company is the nation's largest producer of crude oil, and is currently supplying about one-fourth of the increased production required for war, as measured by the gain since 1941.

Through the facilities of Humble Pipe Line Company, there is being transported more oil than is being carried by any other system in the country. Nearly 700,000 barrels move daily through Humble pipe lines—one-seventh of all the oil production in the United States.

United in a great singleness of purpose, 14,000 Humble men and women are devoting themselves to the task of providing vital petroleum products for war, looking to the day when their 3,000 fellow employees and all their comrades in arms will return.

OPEN HOUSE AT BAYTOWN REFINERY—DECEMBER 14-17

So that one of America's great war plants may be seen in action, Baytown Refinery is holding open house from Thursday, December 14, through Sunday, December 17. The story of the refinery at war will be told by dramatic exhibits of petroleum war products and a great Army and Navy show of war machines and materials. Specially conducted tours will take Humble's friends and neighbors into the heart of the refinery, itself.

 Japan has expended nearly 4,000 warplanes in the last three months in defending the Philippines and its water approaches. A tabulation today of official reports showed:
 Of these, 1153 were destroyed by American aircraft in November—571 in aerial combat and 582 on the ground. In addition, 44 were probably destroyed.
 The costliest month for the enemy was October, when 1190 planes were lost in the air over the Archipelago and 523 on the ground. September losses were 387 in the air and 627 on ground. American losses in this period exceeded 200. The total is not available as some announcements were in general terms, such as "light losses."

Mr. Lee offered to the County a large strip of land along the highway at the intersection of the highway to Titusville and the St. Johns River and land along the bluff for use as a public park. This offer was accepted by the Board.
 Bonds for various public officials were approved including those of Tax Collector, $20,000; County Clerk, $5,000 and Sheriff at $5,000.
 The County took over for maintenance the road from Ocala to the Auxiliary Airport. Approval was given to plats of Round Lake Terrace, an Estes-colored subdivision at Oviedo. The Board decided to advertise for several dump trucks, Mr. Herndon said.

Capt. Bill Fleming Follows War I Path

WITH U.S. SERVICE FORCES IN ETO Dec. 6. (Special) History repeated itself for Capt. William G. Fleming, commanding officer of the 1st Airborne Division in the European Theater of Operations. He says it may be just a coincidence but he has followed the almost identical route to the United States to England of Douglas MacArthur that he followed in World War I.
 Capt. Fleming, who comes from Sanford, Fla., came overseas with the Rainbow Division in World War I.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

BUT MAYBE YOU DID NOT HEAR YOUR CALL? WERE YOU LISTENING? GOD CERTAINLY HAS BEEN CALLING YOU EVERY DAY OF YOUR LIFE: Lay hold on life eternal, whereunto thou wast called—1 Tim. 6:12.

Another way of beating the cigarette shortage is to roll your own.

Sanford has got a long way to go if it meets its quota this time in the War Bond drive.

In Tracy, Calif., a carpenter named Hardy Sparrow was injured when he fell out of a tree.—Miami Post. Why didn't he fly away?

President Roosevelt is getting so many millionaires in the State Department, the first thing you know someone is going to accuse him of being a Republican.

Many local graduates of the Florida State College for Women will regret to learn of the recent death of venerable Dr. Edward Conradi, former president of the institution for 32 years.

The fellow who sits on the bench and settles the fate of the world has too many listeners these days—Cocoa Tribune. Yeah, too many listeners for too many fellows sitting on benches.

See where the Rollins coeds are having a grand time—best they ever had?—some of them say—since there are practically no boy students. What you bet a fairly good specimen of a boy couldn't drop in for a week and get seven different dates.—Leesburg Commercial. And a wife too, as several have discovered.

Governor-Elect Caldwell's recent attack on high freight rates sets the stage for an administration fight which will undoubtedly be conducted during the next four years and possibly for more years to come. From previous speeches of the new Governor, we gather that he considers improvement of Florida schools and reduction of freight rates the most important subjects on his agenda. If he can accomplish these two worthy projects, the people of Florida will be eternally indebted to him.

To the astonishment of the patient and long-suffering citizens of Miami who deplore "wide-open" conditions there, a grand jury has brought in a scathing condemnation of lax enforcement of the laws against gambling and racketeering. If this had happened in the springtime, Miami would not have been amazed. They're used to seeing a fine plurge of righteousness when the "season" is over.—Melbourne Times. Oh, they can afford to take chances this year, the transportation problem being what it is.

That American fighting men can win the war on the battle front is a foregone conclusion with almost everyone. But that the Allies can lose the war by petty bickering at home is not so well known. If civil strife breaks out in Greece, if rioting between draftees and regular army men continues as in Canada, if "continuous union meetings" prevent publication of the world's news as in Atlanta, if strikes keep on tying up production and curtailing the flow of armaments, if in short, the people at home don't realize the importance of winning the war, we can still lose it in spite of everything our soldiers can do.

If lent the scarcity of commodities in these wartime days that sets our coat. We can understand that war needs come first and the fighting fronts have a justifiable priority on shirts, shoes, trucks, tires, cigarettes and everything else they need. But nothing that can be said with respect to scarcities can justify the inferior quality of the merchandise with which we are confronted these days. Shirts with buttons that pull off the first time they're worn, beef steak that sells for beefsteak but turns out to be shoeleather, records that won't play, and water without the soda and candy that's wormy, are simply inexcusable. The workmanship on some of the things that are being sold the American public are a disgrace to our civilization.

Pearl Harbor Day

Tomorrow is Pearl Harbor day. It was just three years ago on Dec. 7 that American radio listeners were shocked almost out of their complacency by the announcement that Pearl Harbor had been bombed. On that quiet peaceful Sunday afternoon when the war in Europe seemed so far away and the Japanese Navy so pitifully weak and inferior to our own, it seemed almost incredible, almost as if Orson Welles were describing another invasion from Mars, to hear that enemy planes had sneaked in and taken the American fleet by surprise.

We have come a long way since that fateful day. Millions of American men whose last thoughts were of war, of drilling and marching and shooting, have gone into the Army or Navy, have had their training and have been sent to the front in far away Burma, New Guinea, and France. Millions of others have left the comforts of their homes and the security of their regular jobs to work in armament plants and airplane factories where the sinews of war are being turned out on a hitherto undreamed of scale.

Five previous War Bond campaigns have been conducted to raise the money to pay for these planes, guns and tanks and most of the other costs of this war. Billions upon billions of dollars have been lent by the American people to finance the most colossal military operations in all history. Each succeeding drive has gone over the top as successfully as American troops advanced from Guadalcanal to Leyte, or from Casablanca through Tunisia and Sicily to the Po.

But now we read that Sixth War Loan is lagging. It is lagging in Sanford where sales must be stepped up $55,000 a day to meet the quota, and it is lagging in many other sections of the country where there seems to be a return to the complacency that brought on the disaster at Pearl Harbor. Just as many people seemed to think then that America was immune to attack, they seem to believe now that the war is in the bag and can't be lost, no matter how foolish we behave here at home, or how much we fail to support the war effort.

It takes money to fight a modern war, money from every Tom, Dick and Harry in town. The big purchases made by the banks, insurance companies and big corporations are fine, but they do not help to conserve supplies, or to prevent the inflation that is sure to come if the people continue to bid against each other for scarcer and scarcer goods. There are only 15 more shopping days until Christmas. You can help in the war effort by giving a bond for a Christmas present.

Record-Breaking

Only seven cabinet officers have served for more than ten years, four of them under F. D. R. Besides Secretary Hull, Secretaries Ickes and Perkins have served since 1933, and Secretary Morgenthau since 1934. The other three are Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury from 1921 to 1932; Albert Gallatin, also secretary of the treasury, and Gideon Granger, postmaster-general, both of whom held office from 1801 to 1814.

The postmaster-generalship did not then rank as a cabinet position. The all-time champion for long service, however, was James Wilson of Iowa, who headed the agricultural department under McKinley, Theodore Roosevelt and Taft for 16 years. Only the coming of the Democrats to power in 1913 may have kept him from serving even longer.

Even if Ickes and Mrs. Perkins were both to continue throughout the balance of President Roosevelt's term, they would fall short of Wilson's record. His term ran from March 4, 1897, to March 4, 1913. Although the Ickes and Perkins service began on March 4, 1933, now, because of the 20th amendment to the Constitution, this presidential term will terminate on Jan. 20, 1945.

Faithfulness

The dog in general needs no eulogy. It is well known that he is man's closest and best friend among animals. But occasionally something occurs that makes a man more poignantly aware of how fine a dog can be.

Such an example occurred the other day in New Orleans. A handsome little dog, its name and breed not given, somehow lost its master at a busy street intersection. Either the dog had been well trained, or else it naturally possessed the intelligence of a mature human being, plus perfect loyalty. It stood by the changing lights, and with every change it rose on its hind feet and peered into the passing cars, so far as it could, to see if its master was there. Evidently it was used to cars. For two days and nights it kept up that vigil. Then the SPCA came to help, and persuaded the dog to eat a little food.

Thousands of people, perhaps millions, would like to know the end of that story.

STORY OF THE BEES

HAMPERING THE WAR EFFORT

By JOHN S. KNIGHT
IN MIAMI HERALD

I wish I could understand the underlying thoughts that sweep past through a man's mind when he tells his co-workers to go to hell in the midst of a desperate war.

I refer to an auto worker who goes on strike against his government, just as about his union because of a petty or fancied grievance which could be settled in five minutes if the desire existed to get it settled.

Within the last two weeks personal appeals for increased war production have come from General Eisenhower, J. A. King of the War Production Board, General Marshall and our military leaders in the Pacific.

The situation is especially critical in Europe. Our assault against the German fortress has been stalled for lack of supplies, arms and equipment.

The weapons that are so essential to bring the European war to an early and victorious close are just not reaching our fighting men on time or in the quantities they need in the Pacific theater there is no way at present to bomb and cripple Japanese war plants, except through the use of our long range Superfortresses. They are vital to our success.

But our casualty lists continue to mount. 536,950 Americans are now listed as dead, wounded, missing or prisoners, and home front saboteurs are condemning additional thousands of our boys to death by "walking out" on the war.

If this strikes you as an overstatement, let's look at the record for the week just ended. Here are a few samples:

A strike of nearly 10,000 CIO United Automobile Workers in Chicago and Detroit plants is threatening a complete tie-up of Superfortress production.

Workers in the Dodge plant, which manufactures the 2,200 horsepower engines used in the B-29s, are out on strike because they didn't approve the transfer of a foreman from the machine department. Fifty-one employees in the same plant deserted their tool grinding because one man was discharged for loafing. In Detroit, 4,000 Briggs war workers laid down their tools when several production foremen were demoted. At Graham-Paige, makers of amphibious tanks and parts for aircraft engines, had a seniority row which resulted in dismissal of 22 welders and threw this vital war plant into idleness. In Chicago, a five-day strike of 14 cransmen in the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Co. resulted in the loss of steel sufficient to manufacture 1,500,000 battle helmets.

More than 100 employees of the American Blake Edey Co. manufacturers of Army truck supplies, walked out in protest at refusal of the War Labor Board to approve a five and one-half cent an hour increase. The list given above is by no means complete. Many other examples of conscienceless backstabbing and homefront desertion could be listed, including partial work stoppages, refusal to make partial tie-ups of precious tire production.

pounds canning sugar, until February 28, 1945. Apply to local boards for supplemental rations.
SHOES Airplane stamps No. 1, No. 2 and No. 3 (Book 3) valid indefinitely.
Shoes containing small quantities of leather to reinforce fabric uppers, manufactured or imported before November 6, have been made ration-free by the Office of Price Administration.
The action, affecting mostly men's and boy's type shoes such as rubber-soled gymnasium shoes, was taken to enable shoe dealers to move current stocks, OPA said.
GASOLINE
A 13 coupons valid through December 21. Rationing rules now require that every car owner write his license number and state on each gasoline coupon in his possession as soon as they are issued by the rationing board.
FUEL OIL
Period 4 and 5 coupons from last year and Period 1 coupons for this season now valid. (Alabama, Tennessee, Mississippi not affected.)
Period 4 and 5 fuel oil coupons, scheduled to expire September 30,
and all definite value coupons left over from the past year's ration, may be used in exchange for fuel oil throughout the coming heating year.
FIREWOOD
The Board has established prices as follows on all firewood:
16 inch or less $21 a cord
24 inch $18.50 a cord
48 inch $16.50 a cord.
AMMUNITION
In revoking the 25 per cent premium previously allowed for "single" sales of civilian ammunition, OPA said prices now must be computed in proportion to the full box price. When the premium on less than box lot sales was allowed, OPA said, such sales constituted only a small portion of total sales in the nation. However, many retailers last year used the provision to evade ceiling prices, making all buyers purchase their ammunition in broken box lots.
CIGARETTES
Initial complaints of alleged illicit sales of cigarettes prompted District OPA Director Chauncey W. Butler to caution smokers today that they alone hold the key to whether a full-fledged black market develops from the present acute shortage.

"The shortage," he said, "is obviously aggravated by smokers buying in advance of normal needs to build up personal supplies. Some are apparently willing to pay more than legal prices and are thereby sowing the seed for a black market which will eventually only deprive them further of the cigarettes they cherish."
Under existing regulations, all cigarette retailers are required to post ceiling prices in plain view and are prohibited from exceeding the legal prices by such evasive methods as "tie-in" sales. Individuals are urged to report any suspected violations to their local War Price and Rationing Board.

December tire quotas, announced by the District OPA Office in Jacksonville, are expected to bring little relief from present shortage, particularly of commercial tires. Small increases in over-all quotas of passenger car and heavy duty truck and bus tires are expected to be offset by applications from motorists of the district during the month and by the "backlog" of applications which has accumulated in recent months.
In the Fiji Islands, the human head is held to be sacred, and it is an insult to reach above the head of another person.

T.B. Chairman Asks Citizens To Aid War Bond Drive

Tribute to the medical branches of the armed forces was paid today by A. B. Peterson, president of the Seminole County Tuberculosis Association, who urged support of the Sixth War Loan Drive.

"In order that our boys may be granted every safeguard against the ravages of war,"

"On the third anniversary of Pearl Harbor, each one of us, I am sure, has resolved that 'it shall not happen again,'" he said in a statement issued for publication today. "We have resolved, too, to embark with renewed effort upon the task which we,

and medical services before have our nation's health and safety. "Due to the excellence of our medical services, the incidence of disease in the armed forces has been drastically reduced, and mortalities among the wounded in Army hospitals are not more than three per cent, as compared with eight per cent in the last war.

"Mothers, fathers, and wives of our fighting men owe a deep debt of gratitude to the scientists, physicians, surgeons and nurses who, with the aid of the best supplies and equipment available today, are waging a winning medical battle for the lives of our boys.

"Let us not forget that the purchase of War Bonds is an investment that will pay financial dividends, yes, but more important, it is an easy way for each of us to get behind our fighting men - to see that there is no break in their supply lines, which are life lines.

Patton's Third Army Puts Bridge-Heads Across Saar

Russian armored columns plunged within 40 miles of Austria past the lower end of Lake Balaton in western Hungary. The Reds sliced deeply into the confused Nazi flank behind Nagykanizsa, a rail junction 10 miles from the northern Yugoslav border.

Herlin said the Russians had established a new bridgehead west of the Danube River below Budapest.

In Italy, British and Polish troops smashed across the Lamoine River southwest of Faenza and established a bridgehead. The British cleared out isolated German pockets in captured Ravenna.

"Battlefront dispatches said the Ninety-Fifth Division of Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton's Third Army sent troops across the Saar south of Saarlautern and into the outposts of the Siegfried Line. Other units of the same division stabbed beyond Saarlautern and expanded their original bridgehead, which now is at least 2 1/2 miles wide at its base. Special details continued mopping up operations in Saarlautern itself.

The wheeling operation all along the Third Army front south of Saarlautern continued. Associated Press Correspondent Lewis Hawkins said the doughboys made advance of up to three miles, pressing within six miles of the great industrial city of Saarbrucken and within three miles of Sarreguemines.

Tenight Patton's first and foremost thrust inside Germany on a solid 40-mile front extending from a point east of Luxembourg so southwest of the blackened industrial city of Saarbrucken. Those factories and rail yards are being pounded incessantly by heavy American artillery from a distance of only six miles.

An American troops plunged through Saarlautern and into the enemy's concrete defense belt beyond the city in the new focal assault of the Winter offensive, it appeared probable that the road toll now was surpassing almost anything in the long and arduous war history of western Europe.

Casualties Mounting

Drawing back just a little the cost of the great operation. Allied headquarters disclosed that the previously estimated figure of 4,000 German casualties had risen considerably. It seemed probable that American armies now bearing the brunt of the assault, might be suffering at least as heavily.

To the north the American First Army battled into the village of Bergstein at the extreme right end of the almost-deadlocked Aachen front, with German troops clinging stubbornly only to the eastern outskirts of the shattered Duren. Other First Army units beat back two tank-led Nazi counter-attacks and retained their hold on Lutzerath, between Duren and Julich.

Otherwise the First Army front, which had blazed with almost continuous action for 19 days, was described in a field dispatch as "generally quiet."

A similar lull hung over the J. S. Ninth Army's front along the Roer River north and south of Julich, though waves of American fighter-bombers lashed German fortified villages east of the Roer.

(The German High Command announcing that the American attack east of Aachen had subsided, declared "the enemy had in his vain attempts to squash our front suffered such severe losses that he was forced to regroup his forces in a major extent.")

The Germans breached dikes of the Waal Rhine River in the Arnhem-Nijmegen sector of Holland and flooded a large area northwest of Nijmegen to a depth of foot by more, effectively blocking any immediate advance of British forces in that sector.

In eastern Holland the British were raising the last few pockets of enemy resistance on the west bank of the Maas River near Venlo.

Even as the Third Army advanced elements hammered beyond Saarlautern's eastern limits, other elements fought to secure the east bank section of the city against German regulars manning Siegfried Line emplacements and "Peoples Army" forces firing from houses and street barricades.

Higgins Reports Definite Progress On Conservation

Definite progress toward overall State participation in a plan of water conservation was today reported by Mayor Higgins after attending, as secretary of Central Florida Inc., the meeting Monday in Tampa of the Florida State Chamber of Commerce.

A special committee meeting was called of the different organizations sponsoring water conservation, he said. Governor-elect Holland and Governor-elect Millard Caldwell attended the meeting.

The case of water conservation was presented very effectively by spokesmen from the various organizations and the urgent necessity of starting a conservation program was stressed. Mayor Higgins declared.

"It was the consensus of opinion of this gathering that there should be an over-all state control to advise and collect scientific data on the various sections of the State of Florida where water conservation and control is necessary," he added. "After discussing the proposition pro and con, this delegation was unanimous on a motion made by R. D. Keene of Orlando and seconded by Mayor Wm. Beardsall of Orlando that the Governor and the Governor-elect select and appoint a committee composed of informed members from the various sections of the state to compile data and work out a workable legislative plan to be presented to the next legislature."

"Governor Spessard Holland and Governor-elect Millard Caldwell agreed to this program. This did not mean, he continued, "that there would be no further usefulness for such organizations as Central Florida Inc., the Farm Bureau Committee and other similar organizations throughout the State, as they will continue to represent their respective areas as before; however, it does mean that there will be an over-all control by the State of the entire problem that will have authority to formulate plans to the best interest of the entire state, even though it may not be able to do any particular district requires or expects."

Mr. Higgins expressed himself as well pleased with the fact that work of Central Florida Inc. and other organizations advocating water conservation had developed their case to the point that the Governor and Governor-elect appreciated the importance of the work and indicated their views by agreeing to appoint this committee.

Prime Minister Churchill in a figurehead most defended Britain's intervention in Greece and Italy and won a 279-20 vote of confidence from the House of Commons. Churchill received his ninth vote of confidence after declaring that Britain acted in Greece only to prevent gangster rule.

He stood by Britain's opposition to Count Sforza who is supported by American in Washington, British Ambassador, had said the United States and Britain have a common interest in Greece.

Battle For Budapest Rises In Intensity As Russians Reach Within 15 Miles

American artillery hammered Saarbrucken ceaselessly today as the United States Third Army pushed a steel arc against the Saarland capital, driving 11 1/2 miles into the Siegfried line. It also hit into Forbach, a French town 1/2 mile southwest of the city. On the southern sector of the western front the American Seventh Army drove north on a 15 mile front south of the Rhine, reaching Eschweiler seven miles before the Saar border.

Other Seventh Army units surged south through the Rhine valley to within four miles of Coblenz, the last Alsatian city in German hands. The gap between the Seventh and the French First Army was narrowed to 42 miles. The Nazis reported withdrawing from the Rhine.
