Crackpots And SLA

LOS ANGELES (AP) - A rash of letters claiming to be from the Symbionese Liberation Army has been sent by "crackpots and mental cases" and should not be given wide publicity, a top FBI official says. "All the crackpots and mental cases between Canada and Mexico who can hold a pen are drawing seven-headed cobras (the SLA symbol) and writing 'kill the pigs' and 'death to the fascist insect," the official said in an interview Monday. He said he would speak frankly only if his name were withheld. "There has been nothing, with the exception of tape recordings in which Miss Hearst's voice has been identified, that we consider to be genuine in this case," he said. In a letter delivered Monday to a local radio station, "Colonel De" and "Captain Cha" claimed fugitive newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst had been killed by police. The letter, sent last Friday, was postmarked Victorville, a small Southern California desert town.

History Of Seminoles

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) - James Billie says he plans to record on tape an oral history of the Seminole Indians, who once were the rulers of the vast Florida Everglades. The Seminoles traditionally preserved the history of their culture by passing the information on verbally from from generation to generation. Now Billie, a Vietnam veteran and manager of the Okalee Indian Village, says he wants to collect an oral history of what life was like for the Seminoles when they fished and hunted in the Everglades.

Winter Wheat Fails

WASHINGTON (AP) - Drought and disease has reduced the nation's expected harvest of winter wheat, a crop which normally provides threefourths of the nation's consumer bread grain.

The Agriculture Department said Monday that winter wheat prospects declined 5 per cent last month. As of June 1, production for 1974 was estimated at 1.53 billion bushels, the Crop Reporting Board said.

Although it would still be a record crop, the new estimate was down 81 million bushels from the government's forecast one month earlier. It means less wheat will be on tap for U.S. consumers and foreign customers than thought previously.

Jack Anderson Did Shah Give To Nixon In 1972?

WASHINGTON -- For six months, we have been in vestigating the strange relationship between President Nixon and judges, handicapped persons, the shah of Iran. There have been whispers, all vehemently school and transportation denied, that the shah funneled money into the Nixon campaign by information, therefore, must be regarded with skepticism. The Iranian embassy flatly denied the story; Bill Rogers denied it. And we certainly can't prove it. But we have uncovered some curious circumstances that are worth relating. First, we contacted another prominent Iranian who, quite independently, told us the same story. The money had been routed, he said, through Mexico. But he, too, admitted he was opposed to the shah.

Then we learned from Swiss banking sources that the shah transportation bonds, prodiving had transferred more than $1 million from his personal, numbered accounts in the Schweizerische Bank Geselshaft to the Banco de Londres y Mexico in Mexico City.

It also struck us as an interesting coincidence that other Commission amendment Nixon campaign money had been laundered through a Mexican bank. When the FBI began to check into this, it seemed to upset the White House more than any other phase of the Watergate The President's two most trusted aides, H. R. Haldeman and John Ehrlichman, tried to use the Central Intelligence Agency to head off the FBI. CIA director Richard Helms and his deputy, Lt. to whether the commission has Gen. sources close to him told us he was "greatly amazed" and "griefstricken" at being removed. He not only felt it might be mininterpreted as a biot on his career but he was beginning to enjoy the new assignment. His departure was so "emotional," said our sources, that he was moved to tears.

If Helms' appointment amazed Farland, it also took the State Department by surprise. The handling of the move, say State Department sources, suggest that the President had some compelling reason to send Helms to Iran. Why was the White House so concerned about the FBI investigation of cash laundering in Mexico City? In light of the other Watergate revelations, this would seem to be a fairly insignificant detail. And why did Helms agree to tell the FBI that the Mexican investigation could jeopardize a CIA operation? We checked with Watergate investigators who said they had detected no trace of Iranian money in their probe of the Mexican connection. But they had picked up hints that something is still lurking in the background which has yet to be revealed. "It is all very mysterious," said one Senate investigator. None of this proves, of course, that the shah's money ever reached the Nixon campaign. But the intriguing relationship between the President and the shah deserves closer examination.

Footnote: As another piece of the puzzle, the shah announced ast July 25 after conferring with the President at the White House that Iran had struck an oil deal with Ashland Oil. Ashland's president, Orin Atkins, has confessed that his firm illegally contributed $100,000 in corporate funds to the Nixon campaign. The donation, all in $100 bills, was routed through an African Spokesmen for both the White House and the oil company deny reports that the President personally put Atkins and the shah together at the Blair House, where visiting dignitaries are quartered. The Ashland spokesman told my associate Joe Spear only that Atkins was in Washington during the shaah's visit.

NEW YORK - (NEA) - "The U.S. Open is the only championship that degrades its champions," said Ken Venturi, "It's the only tournament in the world that doesn't honor its old champions."

Ventur: is one of those champions. As of this writing he is not scheduled to be in the Open field that tees off June 13 at the Wingfoot Golf Club in Mamaroneck, N.Y.

"I don't want to be sour grapes," he said recently, "but when I was they gave me a lifetime exemption to the tourqualify for the Open with guys nament, just as all tournaments who have never won a tourdo for their winners. nament in their lives.

Venturi won the title at Congressional Hills Country Club, the U.S.G.A. executive committee decided to cut the exemptions to 10 years, and

In 1970, the committee reduced the exemption to five years. Now it is one year. "I don't want to use myself as an example," says Venturi. "But it rankles me that someone like a Ben Hogan, a four-time Open winner, is not exempt and would have to

"I think that tradition in golf is important, especially so when it concerns the U.S. Open which I regard as the greatest title in the world. That's because our Open has the best greatest set of records.

"It's frustrating now, that I don't perform the way I used to," said Venturi. "My hands are only at about 75 per cent of the strength they were before my operations.
