WEDNESDAY, DEC. 1, 1937

We gather from the recent pictures of Senator Pepper and President Roosevelt arm in arm, that the Senator also came to Florida to fish.

We are glad to see the federal government making some effort to balance its budget, but we are sure they'd gotten Celeray Avenue paved before the shut-down on highway contributions.

Sanford is setting a splendid example for the rest of the state. It seems, "Let us Close our Gables" in Miami. A recent headline in Sunday's Miami Herald, "This is the first time as far as we can remember when the lid has been closed at the very beginning of the season."

It is interesting to note that as the cross-Florida ship canal recedes into the shadows of budget uncertainty, the case for the smaller but many times more practical canal is argued with increasing vigor. It is a good portent—Miami News. The St. Johns-River canal would cost little, and would be quick.

After a Seminole County has been to the "have nots" and the courts to the "have nots" of a number of criminals and sending them to Sanford, the Florida Board has begun its annual consideration of their pleas for clemency. And no doubt some of those who were convicted for murder within a year or two, and sentenced to many years in prison, will be released again upon the public's sole opinion, some of us suspect, members of the Pardon Board have as soft a spot in their heads as in their hearts.

The trouble with the world today, we are told is that it is divided into two groups: the "have" and the "have nots" will not be satisfied until they have some of the country which the "have" now have. And yet in the United States, the greatest of all the "have" nations, no one is satisfied, everyone wants more, while strikes, riots, and hard times demonstrate general discontent. It might be well to try a turn about for a change. Let the Japs try our country for a while, and let us see how we like it in Japan.

The Japs are now charged with seizing an American launch, and not only with seizing the launch, but with seizing the American flag and dumping it overboard. We can remember when such an insult to the flag would have been followed by instant action on the part of the navy and navy departments, and it is not with an ultimatum of war, at least with the shelling of ports from naval gunboats and the chasing of the culprits all over the enemy territory. Witness: Tampico, Vera Cruz and Perahing's expedition into Mexico. All because of an insult to the American flag.

We have just read in an exposure of the arrest of an old friend of ours on a charge of smuggling guns. This is not his first brush with the law for he has previously served time for run running and similar lawlessness. We have not seen him in years but we need to know him well when we were for eight years classmates in grammar school. Apparently now he is a confirmed criminal, but as we know him, a little magnanimity, age-headed compassion, he did not seem so different from the rest of us, most of whom are still somewhat inactively inconspicuous, a few being prominent in their chosen professions.

The New Housing Act

President Roosevelt's plan to spur the housing industries should mean a great deal in the life of Sanford. Evidently this city was not alone in failing to secure any material benefits from the previously enacted Federal Housing Act, and Administration leaders now see the wisdom of inserting certain modifications in some of its more stringent provisions as well as liberalizing its financing features so as to make more effective its encouragement to home builders.

As proposed by the President, the new act cuts the amount of cash which the builder has to provide from 20 to 10 percent of the cost of the completed house and lot. A man thus would be able to construct exactly the same house though himself putting up only half as much money. The rest would be borrowed from some private lending agency and guaranteed by the government. Formerly a $6,000 house required a cash payment on the part of the builder of $1,200; in the new act it would require only $600.

Furthermore, the interest rate is to be cut from 5 1/2 percent to 5 percent and there is at least a possibility that it may be reduced to 4 or 4 1/2 percent. There is a strong bloc in Congress which believes that since the government is now able to borrow money for 3 percent, and even lower on short term obligations, there is no reason why private citizens should have to pay more than 4 percent on government guaranteed loans.

This reduction in interest rates, plus a proposed cut in the monthly insurance premiums and service charges, would so reduce the monthly payments necessary on a house built under the FHA that but little more would be required with the smaller cash payment than with the larger one over the same period of years. The way it figures out on a $6,000 house is that under the old act the cash payment is $1,200, and the monthly payments $34.84; while under the new act, the cash payment will be $600, and the monthly payments, $36.30, over a period of 20 years.

This clearly should prove a strong incentive to family heads to build their own homes. Money paid out in rent is money gone forever; but money spent to meet monthly payments on your own home is money saved just the same as if you put it in the bank. When you can build, and eventually own, your own home without its costing you any more than paying rent, it is foolish not to build.

The Present World War

While some of us are still wondering whether there will be another World War, there are those who say that it has already begun.

It was only a couple of years ago that a book was published called "The First World War" with the deadly inference that there might be a second World War, and everyone was shocked by it. Now comes Quincy Howe, famous international correspondent in the December Cosmopolitan, who says that the Second World War actually began on Sept. 18, 1931 when Japanese troops marched into Manchuria.

"In October, 1935, after four years of steady fighting in Asia," he continues, "the Second World War spread to Africa. Encouraged by the failure of the League of Nations to check the Japanese, Mussolini marched an army of 250,000 men into Ethiopia."

"At the end of 1936, there were 82,500 foreigners fighting on Spanish soil in the Spanish Civil War. Finally, during the summer of 1937, Japan followed up its invasion of Manchuria with a frontal attack on Shanghai and other key Chinese cities. The Chinese government at Nanking—which offered no resistance during the Manchurian affair—fought back."

"And still many Americans are wondering when the Second World War is going to begin!

"For the moment, the best that most of us can hope to do is to understand what will be—what is—at stake in the Second World War. Not until we have gained that understanding can an informed public opinion take the part that it should in shaping the foreign policy of our democracy."

SINCE 1933, Selfridge & Co., London department store, has had a standing offer of $50 for every mistake the public found in its advertising. Even minor errors have been recognized in the $8550 in claims paid out: a cake-stand advertised as china was really earthenware; a dress did not have as many plants as the artist's sketch showed in the advertisement; and tea heralded as "the summit of perfection" was not the best brand. When a claim has been paid, details are circulated throughout Selfridge's. This has made employees alert to errors, so that the number of claims has steadily declined. Also, the plan attracted other London merchants, and a code of advertising standards was published. The result has been enhanced goodwill and a better grade of publicity among all London stores.—Readers Digest.

JAPAN'S CONQUEST IN CHINA

By MORGAN M. BEATTY

WASHINGTON—The far eastern military terms and Chinese labels galloping through the newspapers these days can be translated into simple English sentences.

Japan has hands on about all of China she wants or can hold, for the time being. Now let's see what that means to China, Japan, and the map of Asia.

We will have to go back to 1931 when Japan took over Manchuria and renamed it Manchukuo. That brought a half million square miles under Japanese influence.

The recent focus into the five provinces of North China has given the island empire another half million square miles.

It's easy enough to add these two chunks of territory. They total a million square miles of Mother Earth in United States mileage, that would be the eastern half of the country, from the Atlantic ocean to the Mississippi, with Louisiana and Arkansas thrown in.

There's a reason why Japan probably will stay where she is. Most competent authorities will tell you a million square miles is all any modern nation can digest in a couple of gulps. That would mean you could charge off all the blood and thunder around Shanghai and Nanking as so much mopping up.

That leaves Japan with the problem of keeping her wings over Manchukuo and the five North China provinces—Chahar, Hopei, Shansi, Suiyuan, and Shantung.

What has she gained? I asked that question the other day of a man who has spent his life in important posts in the Orient and in Washington. Here's what he said:

"Japan does not know what she has gained because all her newly won ground is relatively undeveloped. But of course, there are yardsticks to indicate what the future holds."

First, the political yardstick. Japan will be responsible for the welfare of 110,000,000 or more people, who for many years have been bled white by war lords.

Frequently the countryside has been overrun by soldiers. Business has been stifled, mines have been shut down, transportation tied up.

Japan already is beginning to bring order out of chaos in Manchukuo. The point is, can she duplicate the job and do the same thing for North China in the near future? Nobody knows. But it's pretty plain that she can give North China a stable government, and a stable government is the key stone of development and progress.

Next, the military yardstick. Japan has driven a broad wedge into Asia between China and powerful Russia. By taking Manchukuo, Japan cut off Russia from year-round rail and port connections with the Pacific, leaving her only V ladvozok, a port that clogs with ice in winter.

With the conquest of North China, Japan separated Russia from the caravan routes into Asia. These routes all merge at North China's Kalgan—the cross roads of China and Mongolia. Caravan goods strike the railroad at Kalgan and move south to Peiping.

Thus Japan has created a huge buffer against Russia, and in addition has effectively separated communist Russia and the communist elements of China.

Finally, and most important, the economic yardstick. In Manchukuo, Japan acquired a rich piece of topsoil—some 28,000,000 tillable acres—and with it a large underpinning of coal reserves running close to three and a half billion tons.

Then there's the port of Dairen at the tip of the Manchukuo peninsula. Dairen handled $240,000,000 worth of goods in 1935, most of which came from Japan.

As for North China, Japan really has something there. The coal deposits in Shanai province are too vast to estimate. One authority says there's enough coal in Shanai to supply the world for thousands of years.

In the port of Tientsin, Japan has a potential money-maker like Shanghai. Undeveloped as it is, Tientsin is the second most important port in China, "bowling to Shanghai" glass. Goods worth between $100,000,000 and $150,000,000 pass through the port each year, one-third bound for the United States.

Chances are the last hot dog you ate was wrapped in sausage casings imported from Tientsin, and it's a 10-to-1 bet you brushed your hair this morning with brushes from North China. Then there's cotton, fur, and wool.

Moreover, North China produces the most cotton there is in the Orient to fine-quality American-type cotton Japan has her eye on that cotton. In the last year she has acquired five of the seven cotton mills in Tientsin.

But Japan will have no easy path in North China. In politics she will meet the same bland opposition she has always known in China; in a military sense, she will have to keep big armies on hand to cope with guerrillas, and the constant threat of Soviet Russia; and economically, she's got to find the money to develop her virgin territory.

Out of a potential electric power of 16,000,000 kilowatts in the Mississippi river and its tributaries, only 2,000,000 have been utilized.

House dust, flour and cornstarch are dangerous explosives.

Mrs. Garner Tells Kiwanians Of Trip To New York City

The publicity than Mrs. Garner and her book "Ezekiel".
In concluding her brief address Mrs. Garner read the script from a still unpublished story of Ezekiel's exploits on a trip to Silver Springs.

Dr. E. D. Brownlee, pastor of the Presbyterian Church also appeared before the Kiwanians in behalf of the drive of the National Tuberculosis Association for the sale of Christmas Seals.

He outlined the history of the sale of seals for securing funds used to educate persons in the prevention of tuberculosis and also to assist in combating the dreaded disease.

He outlined the use of funds derived from the sale of the seals and urged Kiwanians to cooperate to make the annual sale an outstanding success.

Karl Nordgren, chairman of the Dance Committee, also made a report at the meeting, which was presided over by Dr. B. D. Caswell, vice-president in the absence of the president, Howard Long, that the tentative date for the annual dance was set for Jan. 6 and that as in previous years the Rotarians and the Lions Club would be invited and each guest couple will be allowed one.

The conservation committee reported that arrangements were being made by the Committee for the feeding of birds on the Lake front and through the efforts of the Kiwanians Ward's and Seybold bakery of Orlando and Routh's Bakery of Sanford have agreed to furnish state bread for the feeding of ducks, and other wild birds.

The visitors at the meeting today included, William Flamm of North Emporia, Va., J. V. Butler of Daytona Beach, Hayward Walker and Mrs. Elvira Garner.

SANTA AND THE WHITE FOX

By RIGRID ARNE

THE STORY SO FAR: Santa has told Helga, the doll of the North, to make up a new game for the toyshop because she has addened the toys with a rone she sang.

Chapter Three
The Strange Little Man
Helga didn't sleep very well that night. "Game," she thought to herself "What is a game?"

You remember, Santa had told her at bedtime that she must think up a game for the toyshop to play the next day.

She rose and went to the window. Like magic it all opened just high enough for her to step outside. Suddenly from above her a bright flash of light fell from the sky and stopped right in front of her. There stood a slender little man who gleamed as bright as a thousand candles.

"How do you do?" he asked. "This is strange," said Helga. "Who are you?"

"I'm the North Star," said the man. "Santa made you from materials I gathered."

"Then maybe you can tell me why I feel so strange in the toyshop. The other dolls are so giddy."

"That I can," said the little man. "You have something of the homesome spirit of the North. From our people came all the men who sailed the Seven Seas. They were alone so much they grew to like it, and so did their children's children."

A New Game
"Sant!" said Helga, her eyes flashing. "What are they like?"

"Just blue water and sky," said the Star. "I see them every night when I cross the heavens."

"Oh, take me with you," "That I can't! You belong to Toyland, and you will be a Christmas gift and play games with some little girl."

"Gamel!" said Helga. "That's what's worrying me. Santa said I must teach the boys a game."

The North Star broke into loud laughter. "I'm sure you don't know what a game is."

"I do!" "Just what I thought. People of the North are usually serious. Well, a game is something that's fun."

"Like going to sea?" asked Helga.

"No. But like sailing."

"What is sailing?" asked the doll.

"Big Surprises!" "Wait, I'll show you," said the Star. He flashed off across the top of a nearby hill, and then suddenly returned, half flying and half walking. He was sliding on two long, slender bars of silver. He turned swiftly in front of Helga and came to a stop in a flurry of snow.

"So. Lady. That's sailing. Here's a pair for you," he said. Helga stepped onto tiny skis like his, and he tied them on her feet. Then the Star led her to the top of a hill and they started down the other side fast as the wind.

"Let's not stop," cried Helga. So they skied all night until the red sun colored the horizon. When they returned to the toyshop there was a big surprise for Helga. Stacked against the door were enough tiny skis for the whole toyshop, and two large pairs for Santa and Mrs. Santa.

"Oh, thank you," said Helga. "Come back tomorrow night so I can tell you what happened." Tomorrow: The White Fox.

Japanese Announce "Victory Parade" Thru Settlement

Prospects Of Hostile Incident Foreseen As Jap Troops Prepare Demonstration

1,000 Civilians Killed In Airstrike

Chinese Are Said To Be Concentrating Huge New Air Force

SHANGHAI, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Municipal authorities received notice today that six battalions of Japanese troops will march through the Shanghai International Settlement tomorrow in a victory parade.

Police planned to guard the line of march of the conquering invaders. Foreign observers feared a possible "hostile incident" and in London British authorities regarded the march as a "possible violation" of international agreements.

Chinese dispatches from Hangchow today said that more than 1,000 civilians were killed and wounded in a Japanese air raid on Hsiao-shan about 12 miles southeast of Hangchow.

Five hundred dead and wounded non-combatants were reported found in ruins of buildings destroyed by Japanese incendiary bombs. Those buried in the wreckage were not immediately extricated.

Scorers were made homeless by the destruction of 1,100 houses in Hsiao-shan.

Two Chinese airplanes raised Japanese positions as they attacked today in the Hsiao-shan air raid.

China was said to be massing a fleet of 300 Russian-built war planes for a renewal of the aerial attacks on Japan's advancing armies.

Foreign naval officers said Chinese bombers had raided the Japanese airfield at Woosung, down the Whang-poo river from Shanghai.

Twenty new twin-engine bombers arrived at Hankow 300 miles up Yangtze from Nanking and were being tested up by Chinese pilots, well-informed and reliable foreigners reported.

The remainder of the fleet of 300 Soviet-built craft were said to be either at Siam 400 miles north and west of Hankow or on

Jinkins Reports Good Collection On Auto Licenses

More Than $1300 Is Realized 1st Day Tags Are On Sale

"The people of Sanford and Seminole County are exhibiting a fine spirit of co-operation with the State Board of Education in purchasing their auto licenses for 1938 early," Seminole County Tax Collector Jno. D. Jinkins, from whose office the new tags are sold, announced today.

On the opening day of the sales 66 tags were sold and a sum of $1,325.75 was collected, Mr. Jinkins reported.

This unusual opening sale, Mr. Jinkins said he believed was the result of the pleas of the local school officials, Governor Conn and State Superintendent Colin English urging prompt payment which is expected to produce enough money by mid-December to take care of the deficit in State School Fund.

The school treasury was shy by one-third of the $1,235,287 needed to pay the Dec. 1 allotment of State money to the counties for payment of teachers salaries.

Unless the Governor changes his mind, all autos in operation in Florida will have to be equipped with the 1938 plates not later than Jan. 15 and after this date drivers will be liable to arrest and penalties.

The prices this year are identical to those of last year. It was pointed out that passenger vehicles under $5000 will be charged a license fee of $5, between $5000 and $10,000, $10, $10,000 to $20,000, $15, and over $20,000, $20.

Trucks fall in a classification by themselves. Fifty cents per hundred is charged for vehicles up to 2,000 pounds; from 2,000 to 5,000 the price is 75 cents per hundred and all over 5,000 the assessment is $1 per hundred.

Mr. Jinkins particularly emphasized the fact that all individuals purchasing licenses must bring their title certificate and registration cards.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—(AP)—A man whom prosecuting counsel styled the phantom "flannel foot" burglar who eluded Scotland Yard for 25 years, was sentenced today to five years penal servitude on wholesale charges of burglary.

R. J. P. Cusack, counsel for the prisoner, Henry Williams, protested against the destruction, however, "It would be dangerous to assume on what we heard in this court that the person made known to the public as 'flannel foot' is appearing here today," he said.

Blackcats Ready For Leesburg Go On Sanford Field To Fight Disease

A team determined to win in order to offset their loss to George Miller's All-Stars in recent tilt in Leesburg will again face the All-Stars in a return engagement at the local high school field tonight, at 8:15 o'clock.

One of the largest crowds of the season is expected to witness the Sanford Blackcats in action on the local gridiron, which is probably the first semi-pro game ever played in Sanford.

Coach S. A. B. Wilkinson stated today that his proteges were in considerably better condition for this game than for the previous encounter. They have scrimmaged every night for two weeks and have shown considerable progress with the pigskin.

The Blackcats' offensive, which was their weak point in the previous tilt, has shown great improvement and it is believed that the expert blocking and interference the Blackcats have shown

Tax Structure Needs Revision, Roper Declares

Commerce Secretary Outlines Views In Address To Council

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper cited the "need of a general revision of our entire tax structure" in a message to the Nation's business men last night.

He expressed confidence the "difficult dilemma" would be solved, advised equal responsibility between labor organizations and management, stressed the importance of reducing the national debt as well as balancing the budget, espoused "immediate and constructive" treatment of the railroads financial problems and lauded the projected building construction program.

Capt. A. W. Knox Given Promotion To Rank Of Major

The promotion of Captain Arthur W. Knox, commanding officer of the local Medical Detachment of the 124th Infantry, has been promoted to the rank of major, it was announced here today.

Major Knox's promotion was the result of 10 years of active service in the Florida National Guard. It was stated. He was first commissioned a Captain in the Medical Corps in 1927 and was assigned to the 124th Medical Detachment where he has served continuously since that time.

Major Knox served with distinction for three years in the Canadian Army Medical Corps, in France and England during the World War, and was retired with the rank of Major.

First Lieutenant Douglas G. Scott is second in command of the 124th Medical Detachment.

The members of the Sanford Kiwanis Club sent the following letter to their president, Howard Long, whose brother, Charles Long, died recently as a result of injuries sustained when he slipped on the ice on the sidewalk in front of his drug store.

"The members of the Sanford Kiwanis Club deeply sympathize with you in the death of your only brother, Mr. Charles Long, of Lineville, Pa.

"We want you to feel the warmth of our abiding love and esteem; to know that we agree with you, and offer every comfort we can command in your bereavement.

"Feeble and inadequate are our words, but the thoughts and sentiments that move us you may grasp as brother to brother, and we trust that our spirits may commune in console you, in strength, then you in your sadness."

Committees Are Named For Soil Benefit Program

County Agent Dawson Reveals 98 Percent Of Farmers Eligible

The three community committees of the Seminole County Soil Conservation Association have been elected. County Agent C. R. Dawson stated this morning.

Mr. Dawson announced that the following farmers have been named to serve: Sanford district—Roy F. Hymes, chairman, E. J. Meyer, vice-chairman, and Leo Dutner, member; Oviedo district—George W. Morgan, chairman, Andrew Duda, vice-chairman, and H. F. King, member; Longwood district—C. N. North, chairman, W. H. Stum, vice-chairman, and John McNaughton, member.

The chairman of these three committees are the officers of the Seminole County Soil Conservation Association whose duty it is to oversee the administration of the soil conservation program in Seminole County.

The chairman will be called together for a special meeting soon after which they will elect a president for the coming year, Mr. Dawson stated.

In discussing the soil conservation program for the past year, Mr. Dawson pointed out that approximately 98 percent of the farmers in Seminole County representing over 90 percent of the total acreage of farm land had filed soil sheets and was eligible for benefits under the 1937 soil conservation program.

The Seminole County agent revealed that a total of 1001 farm acres in this county had filed work sheets in his office as compared with 743 last year.

Farmers participating in the program, the County Agent pointed out, receive two-fold benefits. The cover crops required under the program are mainly to increase the fertility of the soil but also prevent erosion of the land in the driving rains during the summer months.

In addition to this, the federal government offers cash benefits as high as $2 per acre for compliance with the requirements of the program.

Mr. Dawson predicted that in 1938 there would be still another increase in the number of farmers operating under this program in Seminole County.

"The program will be broadened and per acre payments will be considerably higher," the County Agent said.

Texas Democrat Rolls Up In Wheelchair To Be Final Signer To Petition

Political Trades Bring Bill Out Wallace Criticizes Form Of Present Agricultural Bill

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(AP)—The House leadership broke a prolonged deadlock over the wages and hours legislation today when the 218th member signed a petition to force a vote on the measure by mid-December.

Representative Mansfield, Texas Democrat, was rolled up on his wheel chair to be the final signer amid a roar of cheers. Just before Mansfield put down his name, Rep. Smith of West Virginia, a Democrat, had jotted down his signature.

Before the 218th signature, the House heard a Republican demand for an investigation of statements that backers of the bill "swapped everything but the Capitol" to insure a vote at

Julius Dingfelder At Kiwanis School

Julius Dingfelder of Sanford was in attendance at the school for recently-elected Kiwanis district held in Gainesville yesterday.

The Kiwanis was held in the school building in Gainesville. The meeting was presided over by Simon Doyle of Tallahassee, governor-elect of the Florida District.

Several officers of the Kiwanis International were present at the school including Julius Dingfelder, chairman of the Committee for the Support of Churches in Their Spiritual Aims, Harold Hippler of Exult, International vice-president, and Karl Lehman, member of the International committee on publicity.

Herman Kurz, Tallahassee, was elected district secretary for 1938. The officers voted to hold the Florida mid-Winter Kiwanis conference in New Smyrna Beach January 9 and 10.

The six lieutenant governors-elect who attended the school were Frank S. Wright, Gainesville; Sam Morgan, Panama City; Ed Baker, Umatilla; Anoa Way, Arcadia; Ed Nobles, Fort Pierce, and Worth Hanson, Bradenton.

Others present included Ken Williamson, West Palm Beach, retiring district governor, and Ed Rice, Bradenton, and Dr. J. W. Norman, Gainesville, both past district governors.
