Eleanor Anderson, Seminole County's director of management and budget at her County Services Building office with a new degree and wide experience, she looks toward a county administrator's post.

'I Can Do The Job'

Budget Director Counts On Success

By Donna Estes Herald Staff Writer

Mother, student, career public employee and department head. Eleanor Anderson, Seminole's director of management and budget, delicately juggles her multifaceted life while looking ahead to the future.

In the summer of 1985 she expects to graduate from Rollins College with a bachelor's degree in the double major of business administration and business management.

Mrs. Anderson said she has carefully planned her life in recent years as her graduation date neared and her goal is to become a county administrator. "If not in Seminole County then somewhere else in Florida.

"I can do the job," she says. Going to school nights, guiding the lives of her son, Gary Wayne, 17, a freahman at Seminole Community Coilege. and her daughter, Becky, 14, a sophomore at Seminole High School, and keeping track of a county budget which this year totals $87 million has become her way of life.

And recently, she has also been performing the functions, without the title, of assistant county administrator.

Despite pursuing job advancement, her children have played a major role in her life.

Since 1962 when she went to work for the county, the only times she has left her career even temporarily was when the children were born. In both cases, she took time off from work to be a full time mother during their babyhood.

"I can't imagine what my life would be without my children." she says.

And she is flercely proud of

Gary was on the 'Brain Bowl' at Seminole High School and is looking toward a future career in the sciences. Becky is a cheerleader.

During her nearly 20 years with the county, Mrs. Anderson has worked her way through the ranks. She began in October, 1962 in a $60 per week job in the public works department overseeing the operation of the county's sanitary landfill and county facilities' maintenance.

She took a year off when her son was born, and then returned to the county, working for Clerk of the Circuit Court Arthur H. Beckwith Jr., handling with two others the county's finances. At that time the county budget totaled about $6 million.

In 1969 she took off two years when Becky was born, returning to Beckwith's office in 1971 as

Delta Rocket Launch End Of An Era

By William Harwood UPI Belence Writer

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) The space agency's trusty Delta rocket, a NASA workhorse since 1960, chalked up the program's 42nd successful launch in a row by flawlessly carrying a commercial communications satellite into orbit.

Blastoff at 6:18 p.m. EDT Friday marked the end of an era for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, which no longer plans to use Deltas to launch commercial payloads.

The 24-year-old expendable rocket program is being phased out in layor of the reusable space shuttle. Only three government

... And Baby Makes Six

'Unexpecting' Sanford Woman Delivers Neighbors' Child

> By Susan Loden Herald Staff Writer

McLora LaFleur knew that her Apopka neighbor planned to give birth to her fourth baby at home, but she never expected to be called on to deliver the child.

But she was, and she did, and after a few shaky moments it all worked out.

Panacea Chaleigh Lohm popped into the waiting hands of Ms. LaFleur about one hour after her mother, who had been in labor about 24 hours, showed up on Ms. LaFleur's doorstep

Nadine Lohm. 23, and her husband Lance, 33, had, Ms. LaFleur said, apparently decided they might need a little help with their planned, non-hospital delivery.

Ms. LaFletir. 33, works as a licensed practical nurse in Sanford. The expectant parents appeared at her house at about 2:30 m. It was just a coincidence that Ms. LaFleur had taken a break from her duties as manager of a Sanford weight control center to check on her 2-year-old son Jaime. Ms. LaFleur's sister. Pam Hoyt, had come along with the Lohms and Ms. LaFleur said she didn't hesitate to help with the delivery of Panacea, because "I figured if I didn't help. she'd probably go home and try to have it by

U.S., Lebanese Leaders To Confer On Bombing

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) - U.S. Assistant Secretary of State Richard Murphy arranged to meet Lebanese leaders Saturday discuss ways of preventing attacks similar to the suicide truck bombing of the U.S. Embassy.

Murphy was to hold talks with President Amin Gemayel and Prime Minister Rashid Karami, official Beirut radio said Friday. It did not disclose the location of the meeting.

"We will discuss with the Lebanese government necessary ways that would stop any recurrence of such terrorist acts." Murphy was quoted as saying.

Murphy arrived in Beirut Friday with Richard Oakley of the counterterrorism office in Washington and seven investigators who will try to determine how two pro-Iranian suicide commandos in a truck penetrated security at the U.S. Embassy Thursday.

Driving through a hail of gunfire, the two detonated 330 pounds of explosives about 20 yards from the building's entrance, shattering its

Court: Agent Orange Victims Can Go Ahead With Lawsuit

NEW YORK (UPI) - A federal appeals court has refused to block a suit by families of Vietnam veterans exposed to the herbicide Agent Orange, despite government claims that a trial could damage national security.

It was the second time the U.S. 2nd Circuit Court of Appeals in Manhattan denied the government's appeal to bar a suit involving the families of thousands of Vietnam

The government contends that a trial could damage national security and lead to second-guessing of military orders in combat.

"Although there are some policy considerations militating in favor of the government, they do not present a sufficiently grave threat of irreparable harm" to justify excusing the government from trial, the appeals court judges said.

The families of the veterans contend the herbicide, sprayed in Vietnam to destroy enemy cover, caused illnesses ranging from cancer and skin rashes among U.S. servicemen to birth defects in their children.

Mondale On Embassy Bombing

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Walter Mondale has made the terrorist bombing of the U.S. Embassy in Lebanon a campaign issue, blaming a "serious failure in security" and saying "the American people are entitled to some answers.

At a news conference in Birmingham, Ala., during a one-day Alabama campaign swing, Mondale stopped short of blaming Reagan personally.

But he said Reagan should have anticipated the danger in light of the three previous terrorist bombings of U.S. installations in the Middle East in the last 17 months and the recent "public threat" from an Islamic terrorist group.

"Yesterday's tragedy indicates a serious failure of security and it suggests that few lessons have been learned and applied from the massacre of our Marines and the earlier attack on our embassy in west Betrut and also upon our embassy in Kuwait." he said.

House Speaker Thomas O'Neill also said the administration must take the blame for the bombing.

O'Neill, D-Mass., said that contrary to what most officials say, terrorism "is something you can protect against." He said security measures at the embassy were incomplete and that "to move people into that embassy before the security was completed was wrong."

Volunteers Sought As Tax Counselors

The Sanford, Deltona, Deland not general tax return preparaarea, of the nationwide Tax- tion. Aide/T.C.E. Program, has begun recruiting volunteers to serve as tax counselors to older persons counselors, such as those infor the 1985 tax season.

Tax-Aide is a community service of the American Association of Retired Persons, working in cooperation with the I.R.S. It provides free income tax help to older taxpayers in preparing their returns. According to Dorothy Stokes, Coordinator for District 4B. Stokes said that "Persons volunteering to serve as counselors should have a sincere interest in tax matters."

They should also be willing to participate in an Internal Revenue Service training course and agree to devote at least four hours a week to provide tax counseling. Volunteer counselors do not have to be members of AARP. Stokes pointed out that volunteers should be older persons since a tax aide feature is emphasis on peer group assistances, however, persons of any age are welcome. "Some of our best counselors are retired professionals. Stokes said. The training course emphasizes, the tax benefits for older adults. And

Stokes explained: The I.R.S. does not consider volunteer volved in tax aide as "Professional Return Prepares" "Since our consciors don't charge a fee for their service," she said, the I.R.S. does not require them to sign returns or hold them responsible for underpayment of taxes on the returns they assist with.

The IRS training course for volunteers will be held in January. The local Tax-Aide/T.C.E. will offer assistance to older residents at convenient locations from Feb. 1 to April 14, 1985, "We've found that our counsclors enjoy their activities so much that most come back year after year." Stokes said. But we can always use additional volunteers - especially this year, since we're trying to open more counseling sites to reach more area residents." Persons interested in finding out more about Tax-Aide or in serving as a counselor should call Dorothy Stokes 904-789-5781 or write to Dorothy Stokes, 2024 Kingswood Ave. Deltona, FL

Disneyland Labor Talks Break Off

between Disneyland management and union leaders for more than 1,800 workers broke off Friday with labor's rejection of a second contract proposal in a week, a park

Disneyland spokesman Bob Roth said negotiations ended at 3:30 a.m. after union leaders rejected a management package, which he said was "substantially modified" from the one rejected by union employees on Monday

"We asked that they take it back to our employees. They (union negotiators) in-formed us we were at an impasse and left."

Negotiators had returned to the bargaining table Thursday with a federal negotiator.

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI) - Contract talks They worked behind closed doors in an Anaheim hotel until they reached the > Spokesmen for five unions representing more than the third of Disneyland's 5,000 employees were not immediately available for comment.

No pickets had appeared by early morning at the world famous park and employees reported to work as usual, Roth said

When workers voted overwhelmingly Monday to reject the three-year management service contract, they also agreed to strike if a new round of negotiations did not result in an acceptable contract.

Union leaders said employee dissatisfaction in four specific areas had prompted rejection of the first contract. Those included a three-year wage freeze, an erosion of job security, a cut in health and welfare benefits and management's failure to grant concessions on working conditions.

In the event of a strike. Roth said a contingency plan to keep the park open would be put into effect immediately.

'We' don't like to think about it, but we are ready to call in our people immediately to stay open," he said. A Disney official said the park's contingency plan includes retraining of secretaries and clerks to operate park attractions and the possible use of personnel from Disneyworld in Florida "in the event of a long term strike.

Roth said some personnel were trained for other Jobs after the park's closing hours during the past week.

Army Paid $84 Million Overcharge For Gun: Audit

tagon auditors believe the Army paid about $84 million too much for the first series of a controversial anti-aircraft gun. In part because buying procedures were not followed, a House member revealed Friday.

Rep. Denny Smith, R-Ore., made available to reporters a Defense Department Inspector General's Office audit of the Sergeant York Division Air Defense Gun, made by Ford million more than necessary" for Aerospace and Communications Co. of Newport Beach, Calif.

The audit also cited huge increases in spare parts prices for the gun, as much as 1.804 percent - from $7,805 to $151,500 - in one instance. It said, however, that officials 'took prompt and vigorous action to correct spare parts pricing deficiencies."

A Ford Aerospace spokesman declined comment on the report but termed the contract "very favorable to the government."

A Smith aide said Ford was able to a egotiate price cuts with subcontractors after the contract a factor which should have reduced the price of the gun but that Army bargainers were not aware of the cost reduction.

The audit said the Army could have paid "as much as $84

1001 E. 25th ST. SANFORD, FLA.

the new anti-aircraft gun.

Army officials, however, told auditors they believe the overpayment for which they are entitled to a refund totals only about $15 million.

The audit said Ford Aerospace has "a long-standing estimating system problem and had demonstrated an inability to obtain valid subcontractor cost and pricing data. Government negotlators were either unaware of or did not fully consider these problems and did not make full use of field pricing reviews during negotiations."

Smith, in a letter to Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger, said, "It is imperative that we demand this money back from the contractor. ... If we do not. we can expect to repeat this procurement nightmare in this again and again."

The audit covered the period between May 1980 and May 1981, when Ford got a $1.5 billion contract for 278 guns. The Army Intends to buy 618 of the guns for $4.5 billion.

The report said the Army could get the money back in negotiating the next phase of the contract.

The weapon itself, designed to protect ground troops by downing helicopters and attacking planes, is controversial. It performed poorly in initial tests. The Defense Department ordered more tests and is reviewing them before deciding whether to buy another 117 of the guns.

Sakharovs May Be Together MOSCOW [UPI] - A brief telegram said to be sent by Yelena Bonner, the wife of Soviet dissident Andrei Sakharov, implied the couple have been reunited, but a family member questioned the message's authenticity.

"We greet you and kiss you," was the entire text of the telegram, sent Wednesday to the Sakharovs' friend, Sophia Kalestratova, and read by reliable sources in Moscow.

In Newton, Mass., Bonner's daughter, Tatiana Yankelevich, said the telegram is the first indication she has had that the Sakharova were together.

"If this is true and they are in fact together, I think this will be of tremendous moral suport," she said in a telephone interview with United Press International Friday. 'A telegram is not proof of anything so far. I would certainly react cautiously in that I would not take this as placing them together."

Former Enemies Meet At Verdun

VERDUN, France (UPI) - The leaders of France and Germany were to meet Saturday on the World War 1 battlefield of Verdun to remember their 800,000 men killed in modern history's bloodiest and longest battle and to hail the peace now binding their nations.

West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl was to arrive for the historic ceremony and walk with French President Francois Millerrand among the bomb craters and stunted trees left as reminders of almost 500 days of carnage that began Feb. 16, 1916.

An estimated 800,000 French and German soldiers were killed during the battle involving more than 2 million men. including British troops.

Mitterrand and Kohl will stand in remembrance at the German cemetery at Consenvoye and the French cemetery at Douaumont. About 5,000 French and German schoolchildren and 5,000 veterans of the countries' two world wars will watch the two leaders plant a tree of reconciliation near a crypt holding the remains of unknown French soldiers.

The ceremony further binds France and Germany, which in 1515 began four centuries of wars, the last two bloodying the entire world.

Kohl, in a French television interview Friday, said the post-war reconciliation showed "not only peace but frienship between the French and the Germans. We are committed to working closely together towards the building of Europe.

Riot Police Break-Up Prayer Vigil

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) - Riot police swinging clubs and lobbing tear gas canisters clashed with 1,000 demonstrators praying arm-in-arm outside President Ferdinand Marcos' residence Saturday, injuring 23 people.

The protesters fought back briefly, hurling rocks and homemade bombs but retreated as about 1,000 marines and police charged into their ranks behind five SWAT teams to end the standoff near the presidential palace.

The 1,000 protesters had been locked arm-in-arm in a dawn prayer, many of them holding candles, when water cannon jets blasted them and police moved in.

Mobsters Get Competition

Cubans, Colombians Muscle In On 'Traditional' Criminals

By William Cotterell

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) - An organized crime investigator said Friday 17 "traditional" mob families in Florida are getting violent, drug-financed competition from Colombian and Cuban crime syndicates.

Jim Nursey, head of the Criminal Investigations Division of the Florida Department of Law Enforcement, also said some French Canadian gangs are "laundering" mob profits through south Florida businesses. He said some Rastafarian groups, which came from Jamaica via New York, are dealing in illegal firearms and that organized motorcycle gangs have muscled in on drug distribution, prostitution and violent enforcement.

In a briefing for a special commission preparing a constitutional amendment to create a statewide prosecutor's office Nursey emphasized he was not calling any race a criminal class. He said, however, that Colombians have taken over much of Florida's cocaine business and that about 10 percent of the 125,000 Cubans who came to the state in the 1980 Martel "boatlift" have

'We've identified 17 traditional organized crime families, consisting of about 500 members and all kinds of associates. operating in Florida," said Nursey. "Among the non-traditional ones. Colombian organized crime groups are probably one of the largest problems. They are the chief cocaine merchants to the United States, and probably to the world."

He said "seasonal residents" from French-speaking provinces of Canada come south during winter months to "launder" mob money through legitimate Florida banks and businesses. Nursey said the 1980 Cuban refugee influx brought a particularly violent type of criminal to south Florida.

"Of the 125,000 Mariels, maybe 10 to 12 percent are criminals but they are probably among the most violent criminals that we have to deal with," said Nursey. "Mariels seem to be a good group to go to if you want a contract hit done, if you want somebody's legs broken. They seem to like that kind of

currently, and about half of them are drug-related. Of that half, he said, 80 percent are cocaine cases.

Despite what you hear about the president and vice president's efforts - and I appland those efforts - they have not reduced the flow of cocaine into this country," he said. Nursey said the drug is so plentiful in South America that the price has fallen from $64,000 for kilogram delivered in Miami three years ago to $20,000.

Nursey also said gambling, prostitution and pornography "are not harmless, victimless crimes." He said proceeds from those criminal operations - historically the domain of "traditional" crime families - go to finance drug deals, loansharking and other potentially violent crimes.

He told the panel motorcycle gangs have been active in prostitution and drug distribution, but not much smuggling. Nursey said the cycle gangs are also considered

"They're probably just as bad as the movies of the 1960s and early 70s painted them up to be," sald Nursey.

State Losing Money Over Land Rights

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The that the department was re- which it is entitled, state "very likely" is getting ceiving oil and gas royalities on shortchanged in gas and oil royalties because of confusion over what land and mineral rights it owns, Auditor General Ernest Ellison reported Friday.

In an audit of the Department of Natural Resources. Ellison said the extent of the suspected underpayments is not known because "we were considerably hampered in our review by the inaccuracy and incompleteness of public records relating to state-owned lands and mineral

One oil company told Ellison's auditors that it was holding more than $1 million waiting for the state or the affected county to make a claim.

DNR is charged by state law with overseeing oil and gas leases on state land and with identifying state parcels that fall within productive gas and oil fields for which royalties can be claimed.

Ellison said the state received $1.7 million in royalties during fiscal year 1982-83, the audit period.

"The department did not have records or procedures for veri-fying that toyalfies reported by the companies were correctly calculated and for determining all lands to which it was entitled," Ellison wrote.

Because of the inadequate records, he said, "the state cannot protect its interests and

In response to the audit, Natural Resources Director Elton Gissendanner said, "The department. In conjunction with other affected state agencies, has very likely has not collected all taken action to evaluate the moneys from its holdings to adequacy of existing records and procedures in effect to properly identify land and mineral interests found by the state to ensure that all moneys due the state are collected.'

Gissendanner said he will report his findings by the end of

Osceola Trio Convicted Of Pill- Making

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) - Three Osceola County residents, including a former Miami police detective, face prison sentences and fines for their roles in the manufacturing of illegal Quaalude

The two men and one woman were found guffty by a federal Jury on Thursday of conspiring to manufacture the pills.

Robert Edward Pitts, 49, an 18-year veteran of the Miami Police Department, and his wife Susic. 45, both of Kissimmee, also were convicted on two additional counts of manufacturing and possession with intent to distribute the depressant tablets.

The Pittaca each face 15 years in prison and $45,000 In fines.

The other man, Vincent Rizzo, 36, of St. Cloud. faces up to five years in prison and $5,000 in U.S. District Judge G. Kendall Sharp scheduled aentencing for Nov. 19.

All were being held in the Seminole County

The three were arrested July 18 after deputy sheriffs and U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration agents seized 25 barrels of chemicals, 40,000 pills and a pill press at the home of Ronald and Linda Meador of St. Cloud.

The Meadors agreed to plead guilty to lesser charges in exchange for testimony implicating the Pittses and Rizzo.

Robert Pitts, who worked as a police detective until moving to Kissimmee to operate his own realty business, was the only defendant to take the stand in his own defense. He testified that he and his wife were not involved in the laboratory

Pitts, owner of Robert Pitts Realty in Kissimmee, said he had helped find a home for the Meadors to rent but was not involved in the drug manufacturing.

Defense attorney James Russ suggested that the Pittses were being used as scapegoats by the Meadors to avoid Jiff prison terms.

Balloonist Scheduled For Hero's Welcome

Orlando adventurer Jo. Kittinger, who made the first solo trans-Atlantic balloon crossing this week, is scheduled to return to the United States Sunday and plans are being made for a celebration to honor the hometown hero next Thursday in Orlando, including a parade and street party at Church Street Station.

Kittinger has already been invited to appear on several television shows.

Still basking in the honors belitting a hero, he is already looking for a sponsor to help him conquer the Pacific in even less time.

'I'm thrilled to death," Kittinger said Thursday of his record-breaking four-day flight from Maine to northern Italy. "The next one will be from Japan to Canada or the United States."

Kittinger, after receiving a hero's welcome in Italy, was in France Friday for more honors bestowed on him by the Federation Aeronautique internationale, an international aeronautical organization based in Paris. The organization will honor him for setting the world distance record for the type of balloon he used for the crossing.

His flight is being compared to the accomplishment of another "Lone Eagle," Charles Lindbergh, and Kittinger has even been invited to sleep in the same room at the American Embassy used by the first man to solo accross the Atlantic in an airplane.

A former experimental pilot with the Air Force at the beginning of the space age, Kittinger was congratulated in a message by President Reagan and personally by Italian President Sandro Pertini at a hastily arranged reception at the U.S. ambassador's residence in Rome.

He said he hoped to make a solo crossing of the Pacific as soon as he finds a sponsor to help pay

With favorable winds, he predicted he could make the flight in less than the four days it took him to cross the Atlantic.

Why does a 56-year-old man decide to cross the ocean alone in a balloon?

"Because of the adventure," Kittinger said. "A pure honest-to-God adventure appeals to people."

Kittinger, who said he slept about one hour during the four-day trip, carried along tapes of country and western singers Dolly Parton and Willie Nelson to keep him company.

"But I never played them," he said. "I was too

Pertini, saying Kittinger's voyage reminded him of Lindbergh's pioneer plane flight across Atlantic, awarded the Florida native one of Italy's highest honors - the insignia of the Commander of the Italian Republic.

Joe Kittinger

But Kittinger said he wasn't a hero. "I'm just a professional aviator," he said. "I fly every day. I've been flying balloons for 29 years."

Reagan conveyed his congratulations through U.S. Ambassador to Italy Maxwell Rabb, praising Kittinger as a symbol of American spunk.

Reagan also wished him a speedy recovery from the broken foot he suffered when he landed Tuesday on a wooded mountainside just north of the Italian Riviera town of Savona.

"Your crossing is a symbol of the best in the American spirit." Reagan's message said. "I understand that you may have had one experience too many in breaking your foot just as you landed. But I am sure a veteran of air travel and combat like yourself recognizes that such an incident is trifling compared to your overall achievement."

Even American Nobel Prize-winning author Saul Bellow got into the act. Bellow, who happened to be visiting Italy, attended the reception for Kittinger and told him. "I'm a great admirer of what Tom Wolfe calls 'The Right

Artist's rendering of Rosle O'Grady's Bailoon of Peace used by Kittinger used to become the first man to cross the Atlantic in a balloon alone.

Politics

Inappropriate: Bush

PORTLAND, Maine (UPI) — Vice President George Bush said Friday he does not condone efforts by any political campaign, including the Reagan-Bush campaign, "to go out to try to disrupt" the appearances of rival candidates.

Winding up a two-day swing through northern New England, Bush also suggested heckling and booing that greeted him in Vermont may have been an organized effort to disrupt his speech.

He was booed and heckled Thursday when he tried to tout President Reagan's arms control policies in Vermont - a state that has voted Republican in every presidential election except 1964 but is a hotbed of support for a nuclear weapons freeze.

"I don't suppose they all (the protesters) just materialized out of the beautiful sunshine there in Vermont to suddenly appear," he said Friday. "I haven't been that kind of magnet in the

But he said he had no knowledge of reports the Reagan-Bush committee organized college students who carried pro-Reagan signs to campaign railies by Democratic nominee Walter Mondale in California. Mondale has complained of being harassed by the Reagan forces on the

"Do you think a campaign ought to go out and disrupt another campaign? The answer is clearly no. I don't think so," he said.

The Vermont episode - his most direct encounter with political opposition since the start of the fall campaign - dogged Bush during a round of campaigning in Maine, where he and his wife, Barbara, maintain their home.

The Bush campaign was not happy with news accounts of the Vermont appearance

Faced with the bolatrous protesters and an inadequate public address system, he cut short the Vermont speech on arms control.

A headline in The Budington Free Press said "Bush Booed Into Changing Speech."

And a reporter Thrusday inquired why Bush tends to drop references to Reagan from his campaign speeches. That prompted press secretary Peter Teeley to announce that reporters should no longer expect advance copies of the speeches.

"It's not a matter of retaliatory action." Teeley asserted.

But Bush stressed he was not upset by the

"It didn't bother me. It really didn't," he told reporters. "This is what you're in in politics. Do I like it? No. I like to be heard. I like to get my message out. And I think I did."

Japanese Foreign Minister: Yen Revaluation Necessary

He said neither steel nor auto exports was raised during the meeting.

Takeshita declined to comment on the U.S. election campaign except to say he appreciated Reagan's taking time out from his re-election effort to meet with him.

The United States and Japan announced agreement May 29 on a series of steps to increase the use of the yen as an international currency in an effort to provide a stronger yen.

. The three main provisions of the agreement were to expand the market for international bond issues in yen denominations, deregulate Japanese domestic capital markets and give foreign companies greater access to Japanese financial markets.

Takeshita said he would see the president gain when Reagan addresses the International Monetary Fund in Washington next Tuesday.

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Japanese Finance Minister Noboru Takeshita said Friday his country's agreement with the United States to revalue the yen was "necessary and appropriate."

Takeshita met with President Reagan for several minutes in the Oval Office and said the main discussion was on the yen-dollar agreement of earlier this year.

"The president noted that the yen-dollar agreement between Secretary (of the Treasury Donald) Regan and myself is a very useful product and that he would like to see further progress in that field." Takeshila told reporters through a translator.

"I told the president these measures were in response to U.S. requests, but, perhaps more important, because we consider them necessary and appropriate."

Heckling And Booing Mondale Says Deficits Spoil American Dream

SEATTLE (UPI) - Walter Mondale, claiming federal deficits are "undermining the American dream," charged Thursday that President Reagan's policies have plunged the nation into a "full international economic rout."

Contending that the nation had a commercial trade surplus in 1980, Mondale said then "these deficits went into effect, and everything produced by an American worker or farmer became more expensive than it should and everything produced in competition with us was cheaper than it should be.

"Since that time we have been in full international economic rout," he said. "It is defeating America internationally. It is defeating the future of our children ... It is undermining the American dream.'

Mondale blamed Reagan economic policies for "killing basic industry (and) ... high technology because it is saying to Americans Take your jobe overseas, and 3 million of them are now

Speaking to 1,800 delegates at a convention of the international Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers. Mondale won the union's endorsement by acclamation, with a fire siren blaring in the hall. After the speech he wrapped up a three-day West Coast campaign swing and departed for Washington where he addressed the black-tie Congressional Hispanic Caucus annual dinner.

He told the 1,000 people in the audience the Reagan administration is offering Hispanic Americans "an empty pinata, four months of crepe paper and four years of hollow promises.

Recounting his work for civil rights legislation that benefited Hispanics, Mondale said, "Today, all we did was under challenge."

"Today they throw you parties, they throw you campaign money like there's no tomorrow. But when it comes to substance, they throw you bones. They think they can make Hispanic Americans forget four years of neglect and keep them happy with a few flestas. They think they're flattering you. It won't work," Mondale

In Seattle, a few hecklers were present outside the hall where he spoke, but inside the audience was solidly on his side.

Asked if he believes the persistent heckling he and his running mate Geraldine Ferraro have received recently is being done on Reagan's behalf, he said, "I do not know, but I do know that every place we go we are receiving this

State Agency Probing Zaccaro Real Estate Work

ALHANY, N.Y. (UPI) - The New York state agency that regulates business said Friday it is conducting a routine investigation into the real estate activities of John Zaccaro, husband of Geraldine Perraro.

Richard McCarthy, a spokesman for the New York Department of State, said the investigation was prompted by Zaccaro's recent removal as trustee of an elderly woman's estate, from which he granted himself a $175,000 loan.

McCarthy said that hundreds of such investigations are conducted each year in New York and he called the case routine.

William Brown, another department spokesman, said that Zaccaro's attorneys would meet with a representative of the department's licensing division.

The Department of State regulates businesses and issues real esate broker licenses. It also is empowered to revoke or suspend licenses for Improper conduct.

Last month, a state judge in New York City removed Zaccaro as trustee of the estate of an 84-year-old nursing home patient, saying it was not proper for him to borrow money from it Zaccaro borrowed $175,000 from the estate toinvest in his own business dealings and later repaid the loan with interest. He denied any impropriety.

The judge agreed Zaccaro's intent was not improper, but canceled his trusteeship neverthe-!

Brown said the state's investigation was to determine whether a formal hearing should be held into Zaccaro's activities as a real estate

Spouse-Rape

Laws Gaining Acceptance; Convictions Scarce

PORTLAND Orc. (UPI) - Six years after Greta Rideout became a "sacrificial lamb" and charged her husband with raping her in their bedroom, more and more states are making it illegal for men to force their wives into sex.

Experts disagree, though, over the effectiveness of the laws and whether the nationally publicized Rideout trial helped or hurt efforts to pass marital-rape legislation.

A Miami man was found guilty last month of raping his wife, but convictions have been relatively scarce nationwide.

Supporters of marital-rape laws complain police and prosecutors are not taking advantage of the new penalties. Opponents argue other legal remedies are sufficient. and that juries are reluctant to send a husband to prison for 20 years and brand him forever as a rapist.

Greta Rideout was the first woman to charge a husband with rape while they were married and living together. John Ridcout was acquitted in Salem, Ore., but the couple later divorced and Rideout pleaded guilty to subsequently forcing his way into his ex-wife's apartment.

"Those were the dark ages before Greta became a sacrificial lamb," said Laura X. who founded the National Clearinghouse on Marital Rape in Berkeley, Calif., and took her last name to signify the "anonymity" of women throughout history

Oregon was the third state to allow prosecution of husbands for raping their wives. Husbands now can be prosecuted in 20 states and the District of Columbia. according to the clearinghouse.

In another 26 states, including Pennsylvania, New York, Ohio and Michigan, prosecution is possible only if the man and woman are living apart or have filed for separation or divorce. Four states, Alabama, South Dakota, Vermont and West

'I don't want to say that a husband has a right to rape his wife. That's reprenensible, criminal. But it should not be rape... Rape is a stranger assaulting a woman and forcing sex. It's more serious than a husband who has had sex for years forcing sex. I think jurors think that way.

Virginia, do not recognize marital rape as a

Pennsylvania's Legislature is considering a measure to toughen its law to apply when husbands and wives live together. The bill, which has twice failed to gain approval, has passed the state House and is awaiting action in the Senate, although it will die unless it comes up for a vote soon.

Carol Coady, a lobbyist pushing for passage of the bill, said part of the battle has been getting across the idea that rape does not have to be by a stranger.

"The act of rape is never sex; it's always an act of violence," she said. "It doesn't matter that the man has the title of husband - rape is rape. That's hard to convince some legislators."

Marital rape carries a special mental trauma for women, she said.

"When you are raped by a stranger, you have to live with the memory," she said. "When you are raped by your husband, you have to live with the rapist.

David Finkelhor, associate director of the Family Violence Research Program at the University of New Hampshire, said the mental damage can be profound.

'It stems in part from betrayal: a woman thought this man she married was going to love and protect her and have her best interests at heart," he said. "She trusted him in a very intimate way, and he violated

'The act of rape is never sex; it's always an act of violence... It doesn't matter that the man has the title of husband-rape is rape. That's hard to convince some legislators.

Finkelhor estimates as many as 10 percent to 14 percent of all married women are victims of marital rape, based on studies in Boston and San Francisco. And he says that of 50 women he studied who had been raped by their husbands, almost half suffered battering rapes.

"One of the misconceptions about marital rape is that people imagine it's a marital tiff: he wants to have sex, she doesn't, he wins," Finkelhor said. "In fact, in a lot of marital rapes, it's heavy duty stuff - knives and guns and blackjacks and brutses and injuries and terror.

One victim said her husband started to assault her a year after they were married and the beatings continued for years, culminating in a rape in front of their 2-year-old son.

"He beat me up for a half hour for burning the eggs," she said. "He ripped off my pajamas in one pull, beat me up and told me if I didn't do what he said, he was going to kill me and kill my son."

She said he raped her 12 more times in the six weeks before she moved out. They eventually divorced, and "It took me a long time to get over it. I had a hard time for a while trusting guys.'

Finkelhor said the brutality makes it possible to obtain convictions in many cases, despite opponents' claims that juries are reluctant to take one side's word over

Finkelhor studied 39 cases in California over a two-year period, and while about one-fourth of the cases were dropped, the conviction rate was 87 percent for the ones that were prosecuted, higher than for other rape charges.

Coady said many times the husband will admit he assaulted his wife, "but his defense is, 'She is my wife."

Finkelhor said the "modest" number of cases in California during the two-year period he studied negates another argument of opponents: that the courts would be flooded by vindictive wives out to gain leverage in divorce proceedings.

In tact, California and Oregon have had relatively few prosecutions.

Steve White, former executive director of the California District Attorneys Association, said he advised legislators that many cases would be rejected by prosecutors because they would be hard to prove.

"Overall, I think it's a positive statute, good to have on the books," said White, who is now the state's chief assistant attorney

"I think people should not expect too much from it, though. Most of these cases are never reported. Of those that are reported. It's difficult to prosecute, and relatively few prosecutions successfully resuit."

He estimated no more than 100 to 200 cases are prosecuted annually in the state and fewer than half probably go to trial.

Nevertheless, the law acts as a deterrent. White said. By passing it, the state was saying, "We find this behavior absolutely intolerable and criminal," he said. "Incredibly, some people felt there was nothing criminally wrong with it."

In Oregon, only four cases have been prosecuted, including Rideout. One resulted in a rape conviction, with two others endiconvictions on other charges, said Peter Sandrock, a prosecutor in Benton County. Ore., who speaks on behalf of marital-rape laws to legislatures around the country.

"Probably the moral statement is the most important part of it, that we're now willing to say the marriage license is not a license to do with your spouse as you wish." he salu.

Marion Rider of Miami, whose husband was found guilty last month of raping her. said afterward that she wishes other raped women would file charges against their husbands

"I hope they have the courage to do what is right," she said.

Oregon lawyer Charles Burt, who defended John Ridcout six years ago, thinks the law should be changed so the crime is not called rape and the penalty is not so severe. That could lead to more successful prosecutions, he said.

"I don't want to say that a husband has a right to rape his wife. That's reprehensible, criminal. But it should not be rape,"aid. "Rape is a stranger assaulting a woman and forcing sex. It's more serious than a husband who has had sex for years forcing sex. I think jurors think that way.

Pennsylvania State Rep. Lots Hagarty of Philadelphia, a former assistant district attorney, said she voted against her state's bill because "I don't feel that in a married situation, where there once has been consent to intercourse, that the nature of the crime is the same as rape."

What (married) women are really objecting to in forced sexual intercourse is the physical violence that accompanies it." she said. "Our assault laws cover that."

Not only are more legislatures passing law, but the quality of their debate has Improved over the years, supporters say. In Oregon, the debate was "reasonably crude" at times, said Oregon prosecutor Sandrock.

"I see a greater willingness to debate on the merit, he said, "as opposed to the traditional and Neanderthal attitudes about phony complaints and vindictive, bitchy women and, 'What's the state doing in the bedroom, anyway?"

Passing laws is just the start, though, said

"I see a greater willingness to debate on the merit... as opposed to the tradditional and Neanderthal attitudes about phony complaints and vindictive bitchy women and, 'What's the state doing in the bedroom, anyway?"

researcher Finkelhor. Doctors and counselors need to be more aware of the problem. he said, and prosecutors should apply the laws more.

"Passage of the law is fine, but it's out of the news in a week," he said. "Prosecutions serve a very important consciousnessraising function.

Yet even some supporters believe the Rideout prosecution still is impeding marital-rape legislation in many states by raising fears of another media circus like the one created in that case.

"As I have gone to these various other states, the Rideout case is a question that comes up," said Sandrock. "They all want to avoid the speciacle of Rideout." Many, though, believe the case brought

The Rideouts have disappeared from public view. Greta Rideout has moved from the Northwest and works on a newspaper and goes to school, but she "has not gotten over it." said lobbyist Coady, who spoke to her recently. "She refuses to talk publicly about it. It's just too horrible to her.'

John Rideout has worked as a cook in restaurants in the Salem area, but it is hard to find jobs, said defense attorney Burt.

How About Those Pep Rallies, Coach?

9. Do the new state laws on intructional time in high schools mean that pep railies cannot be held during regular school hours?

A. No. Some districts have opted, in conforming to laws passed in 1983 and 1984 by the Legislature, to hold pep rallies outside the regular school day so students won't have to miss classes. Other school districts have extended the school day occasionally to permit rallies and still preserve class time. Either way pep rallies can be held, without taking away from valuable - and legislatively designated class time.

Clearly, the total experience for Florida students encompasses a great many activities which might be deemed "non-instructional." These have their place and current rules allow some flexibility allowing them to occur. However, the Legislature - and I heartily concur - has placed a priority on increasing the amount of instructional time that takes place in our schools. In the past, many teachers. principals, parents, and even some students have pointed out the increasing trend of non-instructional intrusion into classroom time and the resulting negative effects on a student's education. Currently, we are seeking to slow that trend, believing that instructional time should be the priority in our schools.

Laws enacted in 1983 and 1984 defined a high school credit for graduation as a minimum of 150 hours of instruction in a course of study containing student performance standards. No student can receive credit for a course unless he or she has attended a minimum of 135 instructional hours, unless they can demonstrate mastery of the performance standards for that course on a written examination. The school day has been defined as not having less than 5 net hours of instructional time. excluding all non-instructional activities. A third factor to consider is that, with the graduating class of 1987 - this year's sophomore class, a minimum number of 24 credits must be carned for high school grad-

This year, to provide educational programs which conform to these laws, districts have the option of providing either a school day of 5 periods of 60 minutes, a school day of 6 periods of 60 minutes, or a school day of 7 periods of 50 minutes. All three options are funded by the state, with additional encouragement and funding provided to districts choosing the latter two options.

SCHOOL TALK

Commissioner of Education Ralph D. Turlington

The first option, 5 periods of 60 minutes only meets the minimum school day requirements and may present difficulties for students to earn the 24 credits which will be required for graduation. Obviously a district using this plan would not have much flexibility in scheduling a non-instructional activity during the school day, Currently only three school districts have exercised this option.

The second option, 6 periods of 60 minutes exceeds the 5 net hours requirement by 60 minutes. Here there is "clock time" available for a noninstructional activity, but the 6 credit per year, 24 credit graduation requirement would need to be taken into

The third option, the school day consisting of 7 periods of 50 minutes exceeds the 5 net hours requirement by 50 minutes. Here there is leeway for some non-instructional activities during the school day, and unless a student is attempting to earn 7 credits in one year towards the graduation requirement, that requirement need not be restrictive.

In summary, the increased requirements that have been made the law in Florida, and I might add in many other states, are intended to emphasize what is and has always been the primary purpose of our schools instruction, I have been heartened, as many educators have, by the recent polls which indicate increased public support of education.

As we proceed to implement the 1983 and 1984 educational initiatives that we hope will move Florida's educational system into the upper quartile of the nation. we know there will be many areas where review and ad-Justments will need to be made at both the state and district levels. The movement toward academie excellence will require the skills and creativity of all Floridians not just students. I am confident that we are on our way and moving in the right direction. Our schools are places where many activities. Instructional and non-Instructional, do and should take place. But, we cheat our students, ourselves and the future if our priority is not instruction.

Poll: Parents, Money Education Crisis Cause

By Thomas Perraro

WASHINGTON (UPI) -Teachers blame declining financial support and parental indifference for the crisis in America's schools while the public lays it to students' lack of discipline and drug use, a Gallup poll showed Saturday.

The first annual Gallup poil of teacher attitudes also found that teachers think more of themselves and their schools than the public does.

813 teachers surveyed nationwide last May gave their fellow educators an "A" or "B" grade in performance and 64 'A" or "B" ratings.

A Gallup survey of public opinion on schools, also conducted last spring but released Aug. 5, found only 50 percent of Americans gave teachers an "A" or "B" and Just 42 percent rating their schools "A" or "B."

Still, the earlier poll of 1,515 people, reflecting the mounting campaign the past few years to upgrade schools, registered the highest public ratings of teachers and schools in nearly a decade. The two polls showed, however, that teachers and the public differ on how well they think things are going in the classroom and how good thingare going at home. They also disagree on what the major problems are in school. In the Gallup Poll of Teachers' Attitudes Toward the Public Schools, just 21 percent gave parents an "A" or "B" in the job of child rearing, compared to 33 percent of the public assigning parents these marks. Asked "What do you think are the biggest problems with which the public schools in this com-munity must deal?" teachers ranked a lack of parental interest No. 1, selected by 31 percent of the respondents. This was followed in the teacher survey by a lack of sufficient financial support, 21 percent, lack of student interest. The poll found 78 percent of 20 percent, and lack of discipitne, 19 percent.

The public selected lack of discipline No. 1, with 27 percent. followed by drug use, 18 perpercent gave their local schools cent, poor curriculum, 15 percent, and lack of financial support, 14 percent.

While the public is divided over whether teachers are paid enough, about nine out of 10 teachers said they believe salaries are too low and cited pay as the major reason educators are leaving the classroom for other work. Teachers are now among the nation's lowest paid professionals with an average salary of about $22,000 - a factor cited in efforts the past few years to reform schools. As part of this campaign, the Reagan administration has backed merit pay for top educa-

. Teacher unions oppose the concept, saying it would benefit just a few and be ripe for abuse. Instead, they favor across-theboard pay hikes.

The Gallup polls found that the public favors merit pay by a 4-to-1 margin.

Confusion Over Age Of Victim Draws Acquittal In Rape Case

CLEARWATER, Fla. (UPI) - A man who admitted sexually assaulting his two daughters and a son, has been requitted of sexual battery charges by a jury because of uncertainty of the age of one victim at the time of the rape.

The validity of the charges hinged on whether the girl, now an 18-year-old high school senior, was 11 or 12 at the time of the assault.

If she was 11 or under, the charges were valid. But if she was 12 or older, the statute of limitations prohibited his being charged.

In the case of the two other victims, a daughter now 26 was 14 and the son, who is 24, was 12.

The incidents were said to have occurred between June 1975, and April 1976, but were not brought to the attention of authorities until last year. The three victims said they had remained silent because the father had threatened to kill them if they told anyone.

The victims testified their father salahed his actions the way children were supposed to learn about sex.

Deputies Find Another Pot Farm

APOPKA, Fla. (UPI) - The largest home-grown mari-juana crop ever found in Orange County - worth more than $1 million - was uprooted and seized from a hog farm by authorities who were tipped to the scene.

More than 1,200 marijuana plants ranging in size from 7 to 18 feet tall and weighing more than 2,800 pounds were seized Tirursday during the raid by Orange County deputy sheriffs and officers with the Metropolitan Bureau of Investigation.

Investigators said they believe the plants had been growing for several years. The plants carried a street value of about $1.1 million, agents said.

The plants were uprooted, chopped and confiscated by the sheriff's department. All but a third of the plants will be burned. The rest will be saved as evidence, said sheriff's Capt. John Guemple.

Guemple said Thursday's discovery was twice as large as any prévious marijuana crop find in the county.

It was the second martfuana crop found in Orange County this week,

'Raven' Flies Home To Kansas

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI) - David Peters, the smooth-talking salesman who collected state aid by pretending to be 16-year-old orphan Raven Darkholme, is returning home to Kansas to serve his probation term.

In July 1983, Peters told police he was a 16-year-old orphan named Raven Darkholme who had been abandoned at the Fort Lauderdale bus station by a vagabond woman who had cared for him since he was a baby.

Juvenile officials placed him in a shelter for troubled teens, enrolled him in high school, then moved him to a foster home run by the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services.

After learning "Raven Darkholme" was the name of a blue-akinned villianess in "The X-Men" comic book series, HRS officials put Peters in a psychiatric ward at Broward General Hospital.

Prosecutors said he bliked the state of $3,800 in services intended for juveniles. He pleaded guilty in December to grand theft charges, was sentenced to live years probation and was placed in a Dade County halfway house.

"We have a team currently looking into how they got so near the embassy," an embassy official who declined to be named said Friday.

A jeep blocked the driveway to the embassy Friday and 12 guards - some Lebanese, some U.S. Marines — were posted at waist-high concrete barriers that were supposed to have stopped terrorists.

According to Red Cross, hospital and police reports, 24 people dled in the blast, many of them Lebanese standing in from of the embassy's visa section. Lebanese police confirmed they had identified the bodies of 15 victims. State-run Belrut radio said 24 were killed.

Rescuers late Friday recovered the 24th body — that of a Lebanese woman — from under chunks of stone that fell from the front of the six-story building in the Christian east Beirut suburb

Petty Officer 1st Class Michael Ray Wagner, 30, of Zebulon, N.C.

In Washington, a U.S. State Department spokesman said he could confirm eight deaths - the two Americans and six Lebanese employees of the embassy.

Seventy-one people were injured, including 16 Americans wounded badly enough to require hospitalization and four others who were treated and released.

Murphy met Friday with U.S. Ambassador Reginald Bartholemew, 48, who was released from a hospital Friday morning after treatment for minor injuries suffered when he was pinned under rubble in his fourth-floor embassy office.

The Islamic Jihad, a profrantan terrorist group that has vowed to drive Americans out of Lebanon, claimed responsibility. One of the suicide bombers was believed shot to death before the truck exploded; the other died in the blast.

The same group took responsibility for the April 1983 suicide truck-bomb that blew up the former U.S. Embassy in Moslem west Beirut and killed 63 people and the suicide bombing of the Marine barracks last October that took the lives of 241 U.S. servicemen.

Rams Outslug Lake Brantley

Hartsfield Dashes For Key Touchdown In 4th Quarter

By Sam Cook

Herald Sports Editor With Lake Mary's Rams facing a third-and-goal at the Lake Brantley nine-yard line, coach Harry Nelson knew what he wanted - a little filet mignon.

Fullback Scott Underwood, the Rams' bread-and-butter runner, and Charlie Lucarelli, Lake Mary's prime rib of a halfback. had set the offensive table most of the way with pops up the middle or traps between the Nelson, though, knew it was time to go wide with the quickest and littlest weapon of his arsenal. The middle had become clogged with Patriot linebackers. It was now or never for the Rams, so Nelson Inserted diminutive Ray Hartsfield for Mike Schmit at quarterback.

One play later, Lake Mary had its TD. Hartsfield, a junior from Sanford, rolled right, menacingly waving ball as if he was going to pass. As Brantley backed off, he turned up the field and raced toward the right end-zone marker.

Three Patriots converged as Hartsfield went head-to-head at the goal line. "I thought I'd made it, but then I wasn't sure," he said. "But I looked up at the touchdown. It was a sweet feeling."

That It was for Lake Mary. Hartsfield's mad dash handed the Rams a 20-13 Five Star Conference victory over the Patriots in a classic helmet-tohelmet duel at the Lake Mary

DeBerg's Relief Job Patches Up McKay's Vision

(UPI) - If the Tampa Bay Buccaneers upset the New York Giants Sunday, it might trigger some bizarre behavior among NFL coaches, who have been known to imitate successful nuances.

They might start missing several days of practice in midweek, then show up on the sidelines with a patch over their right eye. That's what Tampa Ray coach John McKay is doing this week - although not by choice.

McKay had cataract surgery this week and did not rejoin the team until Thursday. He'll show up Sunday looking like a movie character.

"I may look like True Grit, but I intend to be there on Sunday," McKay said.

Defensive coordinator Wayne Fontes ran the show until McKay returned. Buccaneers quarterback Steve DeBerg said McKay's absence hasn't hurt.

"We barely see him anyway," DeBerg said. "He really doesn't coach much, he more or less observes us. His philosophy is to coach the coaches and let the coaches coach the players."

If not for DeBerg, McKay might want to watch his team with patches on both eyes.

DeBerg, replacing ineffective startek Thompson, completed 18-of-27 passes for 195 yards to lift the Bucs from a 14-0 deficit to a 21-17 win over Detroit last week. It was Tampa Bay's first victory of the year, and it earned DeBerg NFC Offensive Player of the Week honors and the starting Job.

That doesn't surprise Giants coach Bill Parcells, who solved his own quarterback problems by naming Phil Simms his starter at the beginning of the

"I think DeBerg's a better quarterback." Parcells said. "I don't mean that as negative against Thompson. DeBerg just has a better record. He's an intermediate passer, one of those guys who gets it done. He was in close games with the Broncos last year and he did a good job for them."

DeBerg's major weapon is running back James Wilder. who leads the team in both rushing and receiving. Wilder has gained 237 yards on the ground and caught 12 passes for 129 vards.

Simms' effectiveness is the major reason the Giants are off to a 2-1 start. Healthy for the first time in nearly three years. the blond quarterback leads the NFC in passing. He has completed 55-of-95 attempts for 941 yards and eight touchdowns.

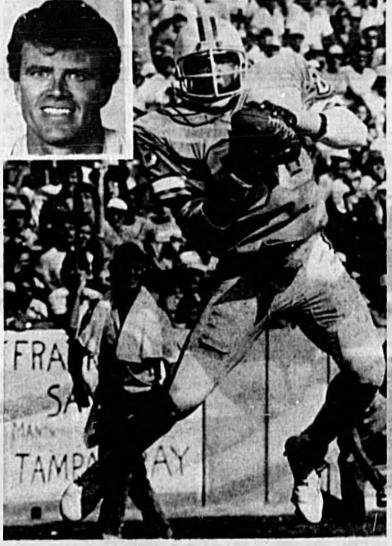

Youngsters Bobby Johnson and Byron Williams have emerged as Simms' favorite targets. Johnson has 15 catches for 281 yards and three TDs while Williams has caught 12 passes for 303 yards and two touchdowns. Overall, the Giants average 17.1 yards per comple-

Their running game has staggered, however, especially at halfback. New York has gained 276 yards on 99 carries (2.8 average) and fullback Rob Carpenter has 153 of the yards. Halfbacks Joe Morris and Butch Woolfolk have combined for just 79 yards on 34 carries.

A lack of running game, along with five turnovers, contributed the the Giants' 30-14 loss to Washington last week that knocked them from the unbeaten ranks All three of Simms' interceptions this year came against the Redskins and the Giants lost two costly fumbles.

New York remains convinced. however, that they can bounce back to the form they showed two weeks ago with a 28-7 victory over Dallas.

"I know everyone's going to think we're the same old Giants.

Since Steve DeBerg, inset, has taken over at quarterback, Tampa Bay tightend Jimmle Glies has regained his catching ability. DeBerg railled the Bucs past Detriot last week to earn Sunday's starting assignment over Jack Thompson.

but we're not." linebacker the Bears. Both should surpass Lawrence Taylor said. "People are asking if the Giants are for real, and I'd say, 'Yes, we're for real.' I think we'll work hard this week to overcome our mistakes and get it going again."

In other games Sunday. Chicago is at Scattle, Kansas City at Denver, the Los Angeles Rams at Cincinnati, Washington at New England, Green Bay at Dallas, Pittsburgh at Cleveland, Minnesota at Detroit, St. Louis at New Orleans, Houston at Atlanta, San Francisco at Philadelphia, Indianapolis at Miami and the New York Jets at Buffalo. San Diego is at the Los Angeles Raiders Monday night.

The Chicago-Seattle game features the No. 2 and No. 3 ranked running backs in NFL history, Franco Harris of the Seahawks and Walter Payton of Jim Brown's career record of 12,312 yards this season.

More importantly for the Bears, they are trying to push their record to 4-0 for their best start since a 5-0 opening in 1963, the year they won their last NFL title. Seattle is coming off an exasperating 38-23 loss to New England in which the. Seahawks blew a 23-0 lead.

Kansas City and Denver, both 2-1, are looking to keep pace with the unbeaten Raiders in the AFC West. Denver rallied to beat Cleveland last week and is unbeaten in its last seven home

The Rams lost Vince Ferragamo with a broken finger last week and take on winless Cincinnati with young Kemp at quarterback.

Catching For Bears

While baseball's Chicago Cubs have been marching relentlessly toward the National League Eastern Division title, another long-time doormat, the Chicago Bears, suddenly are acting like title contenders in the National Football League. The Bears have reeled off three straight victories to open the season and shoot for a fourth today at Scattle against the Seahawks. A victory by Chicago would mark the Bears' best start since they went 5-0 to open the 1963 season — the last time they won an NFL championship.

The game features the No. 2 and No. 3 ranked running backs in NFL history. Franco Harris of the Scahawks and Walter Payton of the Bears. Both should surpass Jim Brown's career record of 12.312 yards this season. Harris needs 314 yards to top the mark and Payton needs 338.

But while the matchup of record-setting runners is interesting, the game itself is more important. The Bears own a two-game edge over the rest of their NFC Central rivals, all of whom are 1-2. Seattle, which blew a 23-0 lead last week and fell 38-23 to New England, is in a four-way tie for second behind the unbeaten Los Angeles Raiders in the AFC West at 2-1.

"They both have been fantastic runners," said Seattle Coach Chuck Knox, "but this is not going to be a Walter Payton-Franco Harris game. It's going to be the Bears and Scahawks. It's going to be a tough physical game."

The Scahawks went to the playoffs for the first time in club history last year in Knox's first season in Scattle. Today they'll be going against a Chicago team that ranks first in defense in the NFL and they'll be doing it without star running back Curt Warner, who was knocked out for the season in the opening game with a knee injury.

Warner's injury prompted the Scahawks to pick up Harris, who was waived by Pittsburgh after failing to reach agreement on a new contract.

'The Bears are a very physical team." said Knox. "They are playing like the old 'Monsters of Midway'. They're trying to live up to that reputation."

Chicago has some outstanding talent on its defensive unit, with linebackers Mike Singletary, Al Harris and Otis Wilson, defensive linemen Dan Hampton and Mike Hartenstine and safety Gary Fencik leading the way. The Bears lead the NFL in seven of 11 defensive categories and have allowed a total of only 21 points in three games.

Harris has just 59 yards on 24 carries in his two games with Seattle but Warner, who like Harris attended Penn State, feels his productivity will increase.

"Because Franco hasn't been in our offense too much, he really isn't playing up to par," said Warner. 'Some people are probably saying he isn't as good as they (club officials) think he is or as good as he should be. But I would look for Franco to play very well this week."

In an oddity in the NFL schedule, only three of the 14 games this weekend match clubs with winning records. In the only other one today, Kansas City is at Denver. Both clubs are 2-1. In Monday night's game, San Diego (2-1) is at the Raiders (3-0).

Kansas City lost for the time time, a bitter 22-20 struggle to the Raiders, last week and now go to Denver to face the Broncos. who have won seven in a row at home. Second-year quarterback Todd Blackledge has managed to hold his own for the Chiefs after they lost Pro Bowler Bill Kenney with an injury in pre-scason.

Denver quarterback John Elway continues to be erratic but he did manage two TD passes to rally the Broncos from a 14-0 deficit past Cleveland last Sunday night.

Rookie wide receiver Louis Lipps has been outstanding for the Steelers, with 15 catches for 337 yards and four touchdowns Pittsburgh ranks first in the AFC

Miami 'Strangers' Return To Battle FSU

The University of Miami has played the most games in the nation this year. they're ranked ninth nationally after a brief period as No. 1 and have already beaten Auburn, Florida and Purdue.

Yet, the Hurricanes are still strangers to their home fans.

That will change Saturday, when defending national champion Miami plays its first home game of the season in the Orange Bowl against No. 13 Florida State.

It was Miami's last-second 17-16 win over the Seminoles in its final regular season game last year that sent the Hurricanes to the Orange Bowl, where they knocked off Nebraska 31-30 to claim their first national title

Miami was ranked No. 1 for one week this year, but dropped after losing a 22-14 decision at Michigan. The Hurricanes rebounded with a 28-17 win at Purdue last week, with sophomore quarterback Bernie Kosar

Florida State is 2-0 with lopsided wins over East Carolina and Kansas State behind them. The Seminoles are led by All-America running back Greg Allen, who has gained 246 yards on 33 carries this year.

"To be able to go home to a sellout, to go to Miami instead of the airport, to have people cheering you instead of throwing ice at you ... that is something to look forward to," Hurricanes offensive tackle Dave Heffernan said.

Florida State can hardly be considered a break in the schedule, however, especially for the Miami defense. The Seminoles average 4h points a game and quarterback Eric Thomas is second in the nation in passing efficiency. The junior first-year starter has hit 23 of 45 attempts for 344 yards, three touchdowns and no increeptions.

The Seminoles are the fourth ranked team on Miami's schedule already.

"This is no time to stop and think about the first four games, not when you have a team like Florida State coming in town," first-year Hurricanes coach Jimmy Johnson said. "It has been a demanding start for us, and I believe the fact that we have been able to play so many different people has been a plus for us."

Kosar has already thrown for 1,051 yards by completing 77 of 133 attempts for five touchdowns. His statistics are marred by nine interceptions — six coming against Michigan.

Ohio State's Keith Byars has rushed for 327 yards in two games, and has added seven receptions. Mike Tomczak also returned at quarterback for the Buckeyes last week after being sidelined by a leg injury suffered in the spring.

The Florida Gators are open this week.

I-back Jeff Smith has replaced Heisman Trophy winner Mike Rozier and gained 353 yards in two games and ranks third in the nation in rushing.

UCLA was unimpressive in close wins against San Diego State and Long Beach State but Nebraska coach Tom Osborne expects a struggle.

Gators Wash 22 Violations

GAINESVILLE (UPI) - At least 22 of 107 alleged violations have been dropped from an NCAA investigation into the University of Florida football program and several others have been reduced, president Marshall M. Criser said Thursday.

In a statement that accompanied the release of some UF football records in question, Criser said many of the violations cited by the NCAA have been "washed" in talks between the association and university staffs.

'A number of others are significantly reduced in scope or seriousness by the agreed response," Criser said in a two-page statement. "Especially gratifying is the fact that the substantive allegations against coaches Rich Tuten and Phil Maggio, and equipment manager Bud Fernandez have been washed.

The three were named repeatedly in the charges, but are expected to remain with the team through the season.

NCAA charges against Florida include spying on opposing teams, giving money and gifts to players and maintaining a slush fund to cover up the infractions.

Criser said meetings between college and NCAA officials had led to several allegations being reduced concerning New York Yankees owner George Steinbrenner, a strong Florida Gators

"There remains one occurrence relating to two students in which there may have been a technical violation," he said.

The NCAA investigation led to the resignation of Coach Charley Pell, who resigned with a request to remain through the 1984 season.

Reggie's Bunt Helps Angels Trim Rangers

United Press International If the West is to be won, the generals must make sacrifices.

John McNamara, manager of the California Angels, called upon one of his generals. Reggie Jackson, to make the supreme sacrifice Friday night - lay down a bunt instead of swing for a home run - and the Angels' slugger pulled it off perfectly to help pave the way for a 5-4 victory over the Texas Rangers.

Jackson, who made history last week with his 500th career home run, laid down his first sacrifice bunt in 12 years to move Brian Downing to second base and Bobby Grich followed with his second run-producing single to spark the victory.

The Angels' third straight victory kept them a half-game behind first-place Kansas City and a half-game ahead of thirdplace Minnesota in the American League West race. It was the Rangers' sixth straight loss.

Downing opened the eighth with a walk off loser Rickey Wright, 0-2, who replaced starter Danny Darwin. After moving to second on Jackson's sacrifice, he was replaced by pinch runner Gary Pettis, who scored the game-winner easily on Grich's line single to left.

"That's the complete ballplayer right there," Jackson sald. "I was just fortunate to get a ball I could handle. I think I have more grand slams than I have sacrifice bunts, but I'm just glad to chip in."

Curt Kaufman, who pitched 4 2.3 innings of shutout relief, gained the victory to even his record at 2-2.

Kansas City maintained its lead by downing Oakland 7-4 and Minnesota kept pace by beating Cleveland, 7-3.

At Kansas City, George Brett's grand slam capped a five-run seventh inning that sparked the Royals to victory. Brett's 12th homer, which came off Lary Sorensen, 5-13, was his first since Aug. 11 and helped reliever Frank Wills improve his record to 2-3. Dan Quisenberry hurled the final two innings for his 42nd save. Steve Balboni also homered for Kansas City.

"George is just a good hitter," Kansas City manager Dick Howser said. "If you get him enough at-bats, he's going to produce some runs. That's his track record. George has had an outstanding year RHI-wise per at bat (64 RBI to 356 at-bats) — but he's missed 50 games. We haven't been able to keep him in the lineup.

Twins 7, Indians 3

tiph - Carl Pohlad, the shrewd businessman that he is, bought the Minnesota Twins at just the right time.

American League president Bobby Brown presented the Minneapolis entrepreneur with the official franchise certificate in pre-game ceremonies Friday night and the Twins celebrated with a 7-3 win over the Cleveland Indians.

Kirby Puckett sparked a sixrun first inning with a leadoff bunt single and two-run double while John Butcher, 13-9, scattered eight hits in the victory.

Brewers 5, Blue Jays 1

At Toronto, Don Sutton scattered four hits over seven innings for his 280th career victory and Dion James and Cecil Cooper each drove in two runs to lead the Brewers. The triumph snapped a five-game Brewers' losing streak. Milwaukee has won seven of its eight games this season against the Blue Jays. Cooper's two RBI came on his 10th homer of the season.

Yankees 5, Tigers 3

At Detroit, Butch Wynegar and Mike Pagliarulo drew bases loaded walks in the sixth inning to break a 3-3 tie and give the Yankees their victory. John Montefusco allowed only one of his six hits after the first inning to raise his record to 4-3. Dave Righetti, the third New York relief pitcher, went the final two innings for his 28th save. Alan Trammell homered for Detroit. Red Box 8, Origies O

At Baltimore, Tony Armas knocked in three runs with a double and his 40th homer and Bill Buckner went 5-for-5 with

Mariners 5, White Soz 1

At Chicago, Jim Beattle scattered six hits and Danny Tartabull drove in a pair of runs to help the Mariners to victory. Beattle, 12-15, won his third straight decision by striking out 10 and walking one. The 30-year-old right hander hurled his 11th complete game in 31 starts. At the rate the Chicago Cubs are going, their champagne may go flat before they get a chance

The Cubs have all but been handed the National League Eastern Division title - they lead by 6 1/2 games with only nine to go. The problem is that they've forgotten how to win.

Chicago went down for the fifth consecutive game Friday night, falling 8-0 to rookie Kurt Kepshire and the St. Louis Cardinals. Kepshire pitched his first major-league shutout and Andy Van Slyke drove in three runs to lead St. Louis.

The Cubs' "magic number" for clinching the division title remained at three, but despite the cold streak. Cubs manager Jim Frey say he's not concerned over the five straight losses.

"No, not at all," said Frey, "We're just in a period where things haven't gone our way. Things will turn around. I think we've been playing pretty good baseball. Tonight we just couldn't get any outs. They stole a bunch of bases, they kept hitting the ball and we didn't score. It was one of those nights when you get beat."

Kepshire, 5-5, gave up seven hits, struck out four and walked one while allowing only one runner as far as third base. Scott Sanderson, 8-5, went 4-1-3 innings, giving up three runs on seven hits in suffering the loss.

Kepshire said playing the first-place Cubs gave him added incentive.

"I would say, this year, this was my best game," Kepshire said. "We're playing the Cubs and they're in first place and that kind of picked me up a little. I just stayed ahead of the batters, tried to throw strikes and make them hit the ball. This (Busch Stadium) is a big park and I had to take advantage of that."

Mets 8, Expos 2

NEW YORK (UPI) - The New York Mets have a new slogan: "Remember the '64 Phillies." The Philadelphia Phillies of 20 years ago had a seemingly insurmountable lead with two weeks left, but dropped 10 straight games and lost the National League pennant to St. Louis.

A similar collapse by the Chicago Cubs is the Mets' only hope to win the NL East this year. Chicago lost for the fifth straight time, 8-0 to St.

The Cubs' magic number to clinch remains frozen at three.

"It could happen," said Mets left field George Foster, after belting his 23rd homer and driving In three runs Friday night. "If they (Cubs) become flat and we get some momentum ... if they look up at the board and we win nine in a row. How about a one-game playoff? It's getting down to the wire. We have to not watch the scoreboard and just win."

Rain postponed the inevitable for two days but Martina Navratilova now owns the longest winning streak in tennis

history at 57 matches - and counting.

FORT LAUDERDALE (UPI) -

Navratilova broke Chris Evert Lloyd's 10-year-old record of 55 straight victories Friday with a 6-1, 6-2 victory over 16-year-old Melissa Brown in a $150,000 tournament.

The world's No. 1 woman player then came back hours later to run her string to 57 with a 6-1, 6-2 decision over Rosalyn Fairbank in just 53 minutes.

"I'm not really sure what impact this has on sports records in general," Navratilova said. "I know Joe DiMaggio also had a 56 game streak, but I don't know if this could compare to that or not."

The match between Navratilova and Brown, who turned pro three weeks ago, had been delayed three times over 2 14 days by rain.

The tournament is known as the Lynda Carter-Maybelline Tennis Classic.

A downpour Wednesday caused the cancellation of the first match. Thursday, Navratilova moved to a 4-1 lead in the first set before the rain came again. Tournament officials postponed the match after nearly five hours of waiting.

The match was rescheduled for late morning Friday but was delayed until late afternoon by scattered showers. When the weather cleared. Navratilova quickly won two games to take the first set 6-1 and went on to capture the match easily by taking the second set 6-2.

Tournament officials gave Navratilova a bouquet of 56 roses and a cake embossed with 56. They also handed her a check for $5,600 for the Martina Youth Tennis Foundation and a congratulatory telegram from President Reagan.

"This has to rank as one of my all-time tennis achievements. Navratilova said. "I really haven't had time to put it into perspective, but I am just as proud of this as any of my other tennis achievements.

"Now I just want to keep the streak going as long as I can. My next goal is 60 straight and 1 hope to keep it consistent and continue to add to it."

Navratilova's last loss came in January to Hana Manditkova in a final at Oakland, Calif. Before that loss she came close to Evert Lloyd's record with a winning streak of 54. She lost to Kathy Horvath in the 1983 French Open, her only loss last year. Navratilova has now won 111 of her last 112 matches.

She started her latest victory skein Feb. 19 by beating Nancy Yeagin in the U.S. Indoor Championships.

TELTSCHER FACES MAC

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) - Ellot Teltscher has more on his mind than playing U.S. Open champion John McEnroe in Saturday's semifinals of a $200,000 men's tournament.

The No. 3 seed Teltscher slightly tore a stomach muscle during his 3.6, 6-3, 6-4 win over sixth seed Kevin Curren of South

"I'm going to fee and hope it starts to loosen up," Teltscher said. "I was too nervous to serve. I kind of picked up pretty well with my ground strokes."

Teltscher gained a break at 1-1 in the third set before serving a love game. He took control of the set with strong passing shots and backhand service returns.

'I don't know whether he was Injured or playing non-chalantly," Curren said. "I kept slicing the ball and probably played too tentatively. I felt I wasn't in position to do what I wanted to do."

Today's other semifinal match will see Terry Moor, the only unseeded player left, go against No. 8 Brad Gilbert.

Moor eliminated Thomas Hogstedt of Sweden 8-3, 6-2 and Gilbert edged Bill Scanton of Dallas 7-6 (7-4), 7-5.

ORLANDO — Lyman's defense turned in a strong performance Friday night, but its offense never got closer than the opponent's 25-yard line. The Greyhounds' inability to move the ball on offense enabled Colonial's Grenadiers to claim a 10-0 victory at Colonial High.

Lyman fell to 0-3 with the loss and has another lough task next week against Five Star Conference leader Lake Mary. Colonial improved to 2-1 with the win.

St. Cloud Shackles Bowers, Oviedo

By Lou Stefano Herald Sports Writer

OVIEDO - Ovledo's talented running back Charles 'Pop' Bowers had rolled up 361 yards in just 38 carries in the Lion's first two games this season. Both Oviedo wins.

Friday night, however, the Bowers' offensive machine was ground to a halt as the St. Cloud Bulldogs shut out the Lions, 14-0, and in the process held the senior fullback to just 41 yards in 15 carries.

But St. Cloud head coach Joe Smith said his strategy wasn't to key on Bowers. "I don't know how anybody else feels but I feel that there are very few people good enough to beat a team." he said. We just wanted everybody to be in their position because if we key on him (Bowers) and everybody runs to him and he cuts back, there's nobody there. Oviedo football coach Jack Blanton was less scientific than his counterpart. "We just didn't play well. St. Cloud just wanted to win more than we did," said the flery Blanton. "They were a better football team tonight than we were. Defense was the key to the Lions opening wins as much as Bowers' running. Even though Bowers rolled up the yards, Oviedo scored only 17 total points in the two wins. Friday night, the defense was pushed up and down the field but made the big play to keep Ovicoo in the game. On the second play of the game, St. Cloud quarterback Steve Edwards hit flanker Brad Hendren with a three-yard pass two defenders. Emmons then but the Lion defense gang tackled Hendren, causing and recovering a fumble in Bulldog territory. But four plays netted just five yards and the scoring threat ended on the Bulldog 26. After trading punts, the St. Cloud offense, which up to Friday's game was the number two passing offense in Central Florida, got untracked. Edwards hit Ed Tredway for six yards and fullback Tom Herring busted up the middle for 10 more to put the Bulldogs deep in Oviedo territory. Facing a fourth and one on the 26, Edwards ran a keeper for the first down to keep the drive alive. On a second and 10 from the 10, Edwards rolled out to the right side and threw back across the middle into the waiting arms of Lion linebacker Kevin Clifford to kill the drive. The Lions, though, were still without offense as three Bowers' carries could net only four yards and a short punt put the defense back on the field, defending from its own 45. From there, the Bulldog offense, which was supposed to fill the air with passes, scored on seven plays. six of them rushing plays, to put the Dogs up 7-0 with 7:43 left in

The key to the drive was a first and goal play on the two Fullback Dave Rinehart bulled the ball up the middle and was hit hard, causing the ball to fly into the endzone where the Lion defense recovered, but the ball was ruled dead at the two. St-Cloud scored on the next play.

quarter. Underwood's PAT gave Lake Mary a 7-0 lead with 9:40 left in the quarter.

"Caughell knocked the end crushing block as Lucarelli out and I saw a little gap," said Lucarelli about his cutback. "When I see that, I usually cut out. I got a lucky cut and there was an awful lot of real estate left, Nelson switched Hartsfield to QB and the 5-7, 155-pounder

A little over a quarter later, the Rams added number two. This time tackle Marty Hopkins and end Walt White harrassed Delflacco into throwing the ball into a crowd.

Byron Washington tipped the ball into the air and Hartsfield corralled it at the Lake Brantley 35. The next strike was deadly. Schmit faked into the line and dropped five steps back. He only had eyes for one - widcout Grayson - who was running a down and out on the left side. "The line gave me great time to throw and as soon as he (Grayson) got a step on the defender. I laid it up toward the left corner," said Schmit.

Grayson took the pass in full stride and dashed into the end zone with 6:10 left in the half. Underwood's kick was wide but Lake Mary was securely ahead with a 13-0 bulge.

When Lake Brantley couldn't get anything going on the next series, it looked as if the Rams would take a 13-0 bulge into the locker room. At their 35, however. Jeff Morris and Larry Froemming sandwiched Patt Murray, who coughed up the pigskin as Sean O'Brian recovered with just 36 ticks to play.

Lake Brantley needed just 27. On the first play. Delfiacco lofted a pass into the end zone. Byron Washington went up for the ball but it ticked off his hands. John Mondo was standing behind him and the Patriot wide receiver pulled in the pass at the six-inch Everybody knew what was coming next, but Delfiacco just followed the 6-6, 275-pound Mull Into the end zone for the TD with nine seconds to play. The PAT was wide, but Hrantley was back in the game, 13-6.

The Patriots pulled even on the first drive of the second half. Using the strong running of Emmons and Marn, the Pats used a 16-play, 72-yard march for the tying score.

The drive, however, wasn't without its theatries. Facing a fourth down at the Lake Mary eight. Tullis called for the fake field goal. "I knew it was comsald Ram linebacker Caughell. "And when he (Emmons) ran right. I thought we had him stopped."

They did, temporarily, Emmons, however, reversed his field and picked up a great block by Scott Salmon who wiped out circled left to the other sideline and found Rich Pearce in the

He flipped the ball and Pearce made a diving catch. "Just a great play by Emmons," said Tullis. "And Pearce made a super catch." Groseclose added the PAT and Brantley was even until Nelson called for the filet mignon and Hartsfield delivered the deciding score.

"That should have been a nice, easy 20-7 win." laughed Nelson while reclining in his mausoleum of a coaching room. "But they made all those big play. It was a helluva game until the final minute."

Over 9,000 screaming fans will attest to that.

stopped well short of the first down. Seminole mounted its one yard in the next three plays first scoring drive after Wasson's 30-yard punt.

Seminole took over on its own 20 and, after four carries by Cliff Campbell, the 'Noles were at their own 40. The first quarter ended two plays later with Seminole still holding a 2-0 lead.

Seminole continued its drive into the second quarter and the big play was a 22-yard run by Deron Thompson that gave the Tribe a first down on the Lake Howell 21. Three plays later, Seminole had a first and goal at the eight. But the drive ended, temporarily, when Daryl Edgemon fumbled and Jim Chalmers recovered for Lake Howell.

But the Hawks returned the favor on the very next play as Innanen fumbled and Seminole recovered at the seven-yard line. Lake Howell's defense then rose to the occasion and forced Edgemon, Seminole's place kicker, to attempt a 22-yard field goal. Edgemon's effort was wide left, though. Lake Howell got its first first down of the game, and only of the first half, after the missed field goal as Jack hit Wasson with a 14-yard pass. But one first down was all the stingy Seminole defense would allow as Lake Howell was held to minus and was forced to punt.

This time Seminole gave the ball right back to the Hawks as Whelchel's first down pass was intercepted by Terry Gammons at the Lake Howell 34.

After an incomplete pass on first down, Jack was sacked by the DeBose brothers on second down for a five-yard loss. Jack's third down pass was also in-complete and Wasson came in and unloaded a 42-yard punt. The Seminole return man misjudged the punt and fumbled it. A pair of Lake Howell players had a chance at the loose pigskin but it squirted away and Seminole recovered it at its own 17-yard line with 2:03 left in the first half.

Seminole could only get out to the 21 and had to punt with 35 seconds left in the half. Brooks received Hal Posey's punt on the Lake Howell 40-yard line and the senior speedster broke loose for a 39-yard return to the Seminole 11. With no time outs left, Lake Howell chose to go for the field goal with 25 seconds left and Jeff Philips' try from 29 yards as Jack hit Wasson for a 13-yard out was no good.

Thompson returned the second half kickoff 45 yards to the 50-yard line and, after Campbell rambled for 10 yards on first down, it looked as if the Seminoles had something going. But, after two incomplete passes and a sack of Mike Whelchel by Greg Buckley, Seminole had to punt the ball away.

After a 44-yard punt by Wasson. Seminole again drove the ball deep into Lake Howell territory. The running of Campbell and JoJo McCloud gave Seminole a first down at the Hawks' 12 with 2:10 left in the third quarter. But, on second down at the nine, a procedure penalty cost the 'Noles five yards and, on the next play. Whelchel fumbled and Dave Williams recovered for the Hawks. Lake Howell then got its second first down of the game on the last play of the third quarter gain. The drive ended three out. Edgemon missed the con-Seminole defense once again rose to the occasion.

A short punt by Wasson gave the Tribe good field position but Seminole had to punt after three plays. After a pass completion for no gain on first down and a incompletion on second, Jack was sacked for the fourth time of the game, this time by Brinson and Lowry for a 13-yard loss.

Seminole then took over with 5:20 left in the game and the 2-0 lead, the smallest possible margin of victory for a shutout. looked insurmountable. So much so that a number of Lake Howell faithful filed out of the stadium.

Seminole whittled the clock down to 2:02 before it was forced to punt on fourth down at the Lake Howell 43-yard line. Posey' lifted a high punt that only went about 10 yards in the air, but it took a good bounce and Seminole downed it at the one-yard line.

With 1:45 remaining, Jack was forced to throw from his own end zone. His first two passes were incomplete. Jack then looked for Evans on third down, but threw right into the waiting hands of Bryan DeBose who hauled it in and builed into the end zone from seven yards.

plays later, though, as the version kick but Seminole had a 8-0 lead with 1:28 left to play.

'It happened so quick I couldn't believe it." Bryan De-Bose said of his interception. "It was like it was time for Christmas or something. I took five steps back and it was right in my hands."

Lake Howell picked up a pair of first downs on its next possession and got to midfield with 50 seconds left to play. On first down at the 50, Jack was almost intercepted and, on second down, he was sacked again by Brinson. Two more incomplete passes gave Seminole the ball on downs and the defense came off the field having just won a football game.

Sometimes, Whelchel looks like a million dollars. But other times...

Other times, well, he looks like he did against Astronaut. Despite the tackluster showing (5-for-20) against Astronaut, Posey maintains the air attack has not been grounded. "I don't think Astronaut was a fair assessment," said Posey, "We didn't havereal good protection, but Mike still has to learn he's got to stay in there and handle the pressure. He's going to get hit anyway.

But what about Cushing? "As far as Mike's hands go, he's as close to being a standout end as anyone we've had. said Posey about his 5-11, 161-pound senior. "If you get the ball near him, he'll make the effort to catch it."

Which is exactly what happened against Astronaut, When Whelchel did get the time, and did get his feet planted, and did avoid the rush, and did get the pass airborne. Cushing was there to snag it.

On the first play of the second quarter against Astronaut, Cushing made a nice diving grab for nine yards. Then, in the third quarter, Whelchel found him again and the sure-fingered senior hauled in the pass for 15 yards.

"I had six passes that were supposed to go to me," said Cushing. "But three times the line fell apart and the other time it was batted down."

Which makes for a frustrating evening for any wideout. "It becomes very frustrating," said Cushing. "You practice and practice and practice. Sometimes, you want to quit because it doesn't seem like you're accomplishing anything."

He was determined to come back though, and six weeks later he did. Unbelieveably, he was running the same patterns, took the same dive and fractured his collarbone in the same place.

Did it cross his mind to consider another position? "No, not at all. Now my collarbone's nice and hard," laughed the dark-haired senior, "Wide receiver is the only position I've ever wanted to play.

The only bad thing about it is that you have to rely on other people a lot. The line has to block and the quarterback has to get it near you. I've thought about playing DB (defensive back) where it would be just me and the ball carrier, but I decided against WASHINGTON (UPI) - The State Department warned its embassies around the world two weeks ago that it feared another terrorist attack on a U.S. installation was being plotted.

The attack occurred. Two suicide bombers killed 23 people Thursday at the U.S. Embassy in Beirut, Lebanon.

In light of the bombing, the State Department again is sending messages to all embassies and missions in the world, with emphasis on the Middle East, warning them to tighten security even further.

Spokesman John Hughes told reporters the Islamic Jihad - a group that has claimed responsibility for two targets in Lebanon reportedly called the Beirut office of the Agence France Press news agency Sept. 8 to threaten, in Hughes' words, "to strike very shortly at key American interests in the Middle East."

'That threat was taken seriously," he said. "U.S. missions in the area were alerted."

A State Department spokesman said, "If we had built the building. we would have built it

The hearing is to determine if Milliken's arrest on the sexual battery charge violated his probation earlier this year for four lewd and lascivious assaults on a girl in 1980.

Milliken was sen-tenced to 100 years in 1980 on the charges of sexual battery to the girl but had the sentence reduced to 15 years in 1982 on a technicality to lewd and lascivious assaults. The sentence was further reduced later in 1982 to 71/2 years so Milliken could receive treatment as a mentally disordered sex offender. Milliken, however, refused treatment and since the state cannot force a prisoner to participate in such a program and the judge no longer had jurisdiction in the case, he was released in February after approximately 31/2 years in prison.

With the consent of both the prosecuting attorney. Kurt Erlenbach, and Milliken's defense attorney,

Expense Accounts Bloated, Survey Says

By Frank Thorsberg UPI Business Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) - American Express, the international charge card company, thinks most U.S. businesses could do a lot better job of managing their travel and entertainment costs

While some executives realize improvements are needed in corporate travel management, many more still are in the dark when it comes to getting a handle on a part of their business that may be squandering millions of dollars each year.

"Expenses run from soup to nuts, but it is a $90 billion area for United States companies," said Judith Dettinger, editor of the just-released 1984-1985 American Express Survey of Business Travel.

"Most companies are not controlling it: some not at all and some not as well as they could," she said in an interview.

Dettinger said there is room in many corporate budgets for a 10 percent to 40 percent savings on expenses such as air travel, car rental, hotel accommodations and entertainment costs.

The easiest way to discourage abuse of frequent flyer programs is to require air travelers to request flights according to approximate arrival and departure times rather than by specific carrier or flight number. A record-keeping system that shows which travelers reject the lowest logical airfare is one of the most effective ways to turn up possible abuses, Dettinger

Every business, she said, should have a travel policy that sets guidelines for everything from finding the lowest priced plane ticket to staying in chain hotels that offer corporate rates.

Travel policies should include a concise statement of purpose, instructions for use, explicit guidelines for both in-town and out-of-town expenses, detailed instructions on how to handle expense reports, clear Instructions on expense documentation and guidelines for obtaining prior approval for

It is suggested a company work with a qualified travel agency that has the ability to obtain those low air fares and special

But Only Lone Incumbent Favored

Record 10 Women Vying For U.S. Senate Seats

United Press International

More women than ever are running for the Senate this year, but despite increased party support only the lone incumbent among the 10 female candidates is favored to win.

All said the biggest problem they face is the one that confronts any challenger, male or female lack of money.

Most of the women are in races that betterknown candidates declined to make against popular incumbents. But with an eye on the growing importance of the women's vote, the Democratic and Republican parties broke with tradition and pledged early money and technical assistance for them this year.

"We are so outrageously outspent," said Nancy Dick, the lieutenant governor of Colorado making a bid to unseat Republican Sen. William Armstrong.

"All of us face the vast power of the incumbency," she said. "Incumbents can raise money.

Judy Pratt, running against popular Republican Sen. Pete Domenici in New Mexico, said she is one of the women who "historically have taken on the so-called hopeless races, those that none of the men want." "You come in as an underdog and try to take them by surprise. And on a shoe-string budget," she said.

Of the 33 Senate races this year, six Democratic and three Republican women are facing long odds in their bids to unseat incumbents. Although both parties are hoping for upsets, only Republican Sen. Nancy Kassebaum of Kansas appears to be a likely winner.

Kassebaum and Republican Sen. Paula Hawkins of Florida are the only women in the 100-member Senate.

Democrats have female challengers for the Senate in Colorado, Minnesota, Maine, Oregon, New Mexico and Virginia: Republican women are running in Nebraska, New Jersey and Rhode Island.

In interviews, each woman candidate told United Press International she knew it wouldn't be easy. But with the Nov. 6 election just six weeks away, all were optimistic despite being under-financed and generally lagging in the polls. In each case, optimism sprang from belief that voters will listen to their stands on the issues, and from faith demonstrated by hundreds of dedicated, often unpaid, campaign workers.

The total of 10 women Senate candidates is the most ever. In 1982, three women ran for the Senate. None won. To date. 15 women have served in the Senate.

Dick, who is about $200,000 behind Armstrong in raising funds, said, "Women just don't have the kinds of financial resources that are required for a federal race. It just adds one more barrier to the process."

Even before Geraldine Ferraro's Democratic vice presidential candidacy sparked the interest of women nationwide, both parties had started aggressive programs to bring more women into Senate races.

On the GOP side, the task was partly an attempt to counter Democratic stress of the 'gender gap" - President Reagan's lack of support among women, who comprise more than half the electorate.

"From day one, women candidates have been our top priority," said Ceci Cole, communications director of the National Republican Senatorial Committee.

The GOP Senate committee chairman, Sen. Richard Lugar of Indiana, "decided that the time had come to do more than pay lip service" to women running for the Senate. Cole said, "and throw in some money."

Under a directive issued in August 1983, the party broke precedent by giving female Senate candidates $17,500 each to use in their primary races. It pledged, for the first time, that

"regardless of how tough the state is, any woman will receive the maximum funding from the Senate committee.

All four Republican women have received the maximum amount of financing allowed by the Federal Elections Commission in each state, Cole said, for a combined total of $840,185. The committee has distributed $8 million to date.

Kathy Smith, a spokeswoman for the Demo-cratic Senstorial Campaign Committee, said of the total $2.2 million contributed to Democratic Senate candidates so far, $250,000 went to the six women.

She said that although the committee "did a lot of work to recuit women candidates in the initial stages," money is now distributed based on the prospects of winning the race, and secondly on the need of the candidate.

'We don't have the luxury of the Republicans that can 'max out' on all campaigns," she said.

Of the 33 Senate seats at stake this year. Democrats have 12 incumbents running. 17 candidates challenging incumbents, and four candidates for open seats.

Smith said the DSCC expects the women's races to narrow in the coming weeks.

"Polls now don't necessarily reflect how the races will come out," she said. "They are just now getting cranked up and though they may look far apart at the moment, they will tighten

High among Democratic hopes is Joan Growe. the three-term secretary of state in Minnesota, running with Walter Mondale at the top of the

Growe is considered the "best shot to pick up a seat" in November, said Beth Founy of the Women's Campaign Fund in Washington, D.C., an independent bipartisan political committee that raises money for women candidates na-

Growe said that despite facing "an uphill battle" to unseat GOP Sen. Rudy Boschwitz, the Democratic Senate committee has listed her race among the top eight in the country a Democrat

Margie Hendriksen, a founder of the Oregon Women's Political Caucus, a bipartisan group working for equal representation for women, said national Democrate have given her "some support," but that her race against Republican Sen. Mark Hatfield isn't given top priority because it will be a tough one to win.

Hatfield is favored to win re-election, despite a federal criminal investigation of his reported ties to Greek financier Basil Tsakos.

"Most women are not in the first priority list funding because they face tough races." Henriksen said. "We feel the party, which has indicated that it has a commitment to women, needs to have more than rhetoric."

Fouhy said women have the most trouble raising money because they are new to the political scene and as a result generally face incumbents, who have the advantage.

"Since women are at least 95 percent of the time challengers, they have a harder time. ... Challengers traditionally have a harder time raising money than incumbents," she said.

The campaign fund expects to contribute more than $500,000 in cash and services to candidates

'By and large (women candidates) are going to be underdogs. The incumbents have the name recognition, the ability to raise money. But if women were put off by that, they'd never run,"

Dick, who has mortgaged her house to help pay for her race, agreed. "Women are still working their way up through the political hierarchy," she said.

Like waves on a shore, you sort of just pound and pound and pound away and ultimately have an impact. It's a very slow process," ahe said.

"But it really has to be done." In addition to Kasacbaum, Republican women

...women have the most trouble raising money because they are new to the political scene and as a result generally face incumbents who have the advantage.

running for the Senate are:

 Nancy Hoch, a University of Nebraska regent. She is trying to defeat Sen. J. James Exon, "a very partisan Democrat" in a very Republican state.

With President Reagan virtually assured of keeping Nebraska in his pocket Nov. 6, Hoch is confident she can win.

"He's not really representative of Nebraska, though," she said. "He has worked against the president, and the president is very popular

Hoch defeated five male opponents in the GOP primary to earn a general election clash with Exon.

"It's a very important edge to have a strong organization of people. I was outspent 4-to-1 in the primary, and up against that, you have to do everything well."

She is strongly supported by her lawyer husband of 24 years, Richard, and daughters, Sarah and Hannah, and son, Richard.

 Mary Mochary, pitted against popular Sen. Bill Bradley in New Jersey. She is hoping Ronald Reagan's coattails will carry her to victory. But Bradley, said by pollsters to be the most popular politician in the state, is expected to win handily.

Mochary, the mayor of Montelair the last four years, said that "almost all incumbents everywhere are popular."

Polla that put me head to head with Bradley show he is way ahead. But in polls where its Mary Mochary and Ronald Reagan against Bill Bradley and Walter Mondale, we come out way ahead." Mochary has raised more than $1 million, but Bradley claims $4.5 million. She is married and has a daughter, 17 and son.

· Barbara Leonard, campaigning on the theme of "one tough lady" in a difficult Senate race in Rhode Island. She says anyone who takes on a 24-year incumbent is either "tough or crazy."

Leonard faces Democratic Sen. Claiborne Pell Nov. 6. "When you face an incumbent who has spent a quarter of a century in Congress and one who if I could raise a half a million dollars, he could write a personal check for $2 million - it's going to be hard."

A political neophyte who took over her husband's metal fabricating business - "a very male profession" - when he died seven years ago. Leonard views her lack of political experience as an asset.

"I can say it as I see it," she said. "I'm in no one's pocket and no one's in mine."

Leonard is a Brown University graduate, a former school teacher, mother of six, and grandmother of one. The six Democratic women running for Senate

Dick, who narrowly won nomination over a tough primary foe last week. She now faces an uphill battle to defeat Armstrong.

State Republicans think Armstrong is an odds-on favorite to win re-election this year, but the historical voting pattern in the state over the past two decades cautions against overconfidence.

Dick says in every race but one, nine total, she has been the underdog.

"It is a role that is very familiar to me. You must work very, very hard," she said. Married to pediatrician Stephen Barnett, Dick lives in Aspen and has been in politics about 12 years. She has a daughter and two sons. Elizabeth Mitchell, a Maine House Democratic leader who has never before run for statewide office. She faces long odds in her race against GOP Sen. William Cohen, who has wide support among Republicans, Democrats and Independents alike, and is a heavy favorite to win.

"In 1974 I was also the underdog ... but because I believe in my issues and believed that people would listen to them, I went ahead and ran

"And that's the same kind of faith I'm going on In this one," she said.

She is running against the nuclear buildup and refuses to accept money from political action committees. She is married and has four young Growe, who emerged from a crowded field of challengers, including Rep. James Oberstar, and won the Democratic primary last week.

Citing Boschwitz' "staunch support for President Reagan." Growe feels he can be beaten in the state that voted for the Carter-Mondale ticket "We've been getting a lot of people who have

Artist Draws On Ingenuity For Unique Mixed-Media Creations

By Susan Loden Herald Staff Writer

Award-winning artist Grady Kimsey dares to be innovative with his mixed-media creations. And his bravery comes from arriving at a point where he can take any sort of criticism knowing he will still eat even if his works don't

Because of this sense of freedom, which in part is derived from the security of his position as an instructor in painting, drawing and ceramics at Seminole Community College, he can produce works that please himself. In pleasing himself he also finds others admire and want to acquire his work.

His latest creations, carefully designed to draw the eye and the imagination into a fantasy, are very theatrical, sculpted, character figures constructed of painted clay and adorned with scraps of feathers, fur, fabric, beads and bangles - the salvaged contents of a couple of old trunks that held treasures of his mother and grandmother. "Hopefully everyone who sees them will have a different reaction. Then I will have created as many pieces as I have viewers," Kimsey said. He has produced 30 of these figures that are about two feet tall and 100 similar 10-inch figures. They will be worked into an environmental setting to complete the work, which will extend to another 50 to 80 years the life of the fragments from his mother's past, he said. "I got interested in figurative pieces, but figurative pieces alone are duli and uninteresting. I thought the old fabrics and beads might add content, so I tried to work some of that in. Today I am very pleased," he said.

He denies having favorites among his creations. "I think the most exciting work is that that is still wet, or is still being done. I suppose I could look back and pick pieces that I like better than others, but I really don't have a sentimental attachment to anything I've ever

'It really does amaze me when someone buys a piece of my art work. It really does to this day amaze me that people would pay money for what I did. I don't say that modestly either, it's just a strange thing to me.

"The value of art work is a very strang thing. The intrinsic value, I suppose you can't put a dollar value on that. But what happens is as you grow and people buy your work and as you become better known the prices edge up."

The factors that figure into the price tag of art work, he said, include the time and materials taken to produce it. "For some strange reason scale influences price. A big piece costs more than a small one. And just the feeling I have about a piece will figure into the

"I think my early work was probably contrived, because I was afraid people would criticize it. Then I got to that wonderful place, I could take any sort of criticism. So my work really became more me and I think improved.

"It's alway important what other people think about my work. I think what I have learned to say is they have a right to say whether they like it or don't like it, but no one has the right to say it's good or bad. I don't believe there are such things as good or bad art." Kimsey said.

Kimsey, whose artistic ability was first noticed by his sister, who complimented him on his skill with crayons when he was eight years old, said, he looks back on just about all of his work and says, "How could I have done that?" But the awards he has garnered in Florida art shows and the attention his work receives in both gallery and public showings is an indication that Kimsey perhaps isn't always the best judge of his own creations.

He earned a bachelor of art's degree in fine arts from the University of Tennessee and has received his master's degree in education from Rollins College. Kimsey moved to Winter Park in 1962, following a 10-year, high-pressure stint as art director for a television station in Tennessee. Within two weeks of arriving he was teaching art in an Orange County high

During their 30 years of marriage, Kimsey's wife, Sue, has kept a couple of examples of Kimseys work from each year. He said he wasn't pleased with that idea at frist, because he would have prefered to have sold the work. but he now likes to look back to see where he has been and how he has grown as an artist.

But among the art work he treasures most is the drawing he receives each Father's Day from his 29-year-old son, Grant, who is a carpenter.

During the last 10 years, Kimsey, said he has had no lack of ideas for his creative expression which have resulted in the production of three dimensional pictures featuring paper cuttings; pottery accented with lace, ivory and juteweaving; and assemblages.

The 56-year-old artist said he's at the age where he aleeps soundly when he first goes to bed, but then awakens in the early morning hours in an alpha sleep where ideas float into his mind. He keeps a sketchbook handy and has illied two or three with creative idea for works. "I would have to live to be 500 to complete what I would like to do. I will never again be at a loss for ideas."

"I just like to take found objects, fabricate some new ones of my own and then combine them. In some cases the objects command what will happen," he said. And his Winter Park home-studio is filled with hundreds of found objects, which may one day find their way into one of his works.

Kimsey feels no pressure or apprehension in producing his art. "It seems now that almost ng moment I'm involved with art." he said.

A part of that involvment for the past 14 years has centered around his classes at SCC. 'I'm really one of those lucky people whose vocation and advocation really meah into one thing. I would be doing what I'm doing no matter what."

But what if he weren't an artist? "I'm very interested in archaeology and anthropology and in growing vegetables," this soft-soken native of Knoxville, Tenn., said.

"I think my work is probably influenced by primitive artists, pre-Columbian artists and African artists. I feel an affinity for those artifacts." And as for the gardening. "I have a amail garden." He acknowledged that probably comes from his Tennessee roots and said, 'We're country people."

Kimsey said that his craft is a learned skill and through working with his students he has come to realize that everyone has some artistic ability which can be developed through

The rumor mill has been grinding for several weeks now as to who will be the successor to Sanford Attorney Mack Cleveland's title, "Seminole's most eligible bachelor."

But, according to Mack, there has come a time to change the "legendary existence." He is relinquishing the title in the name of matrimony to a pretty Seminole County school teacher. Mary Anne Boothe who teaches at Wekiva Elementary School.

No date has been set for the wedding, but Mack says it will training and stimulation.

We kind of grow together," he said. "We all grow from wherever we are. It's a dynamic atmosphere." he said of his classrooms. "We have lots of interaction and students from 16 up to 80 years old. That type of existence is really invigorating to

"I prefer students who've had no training. I say without hesitation that everyone does have ability. What holds a lot of people back is they feel they shold draw, or paint or do art work like someone else does and they never can. They'll only be second best working like someone else. What I really try to do is to bring out their own unique way of working. That's what it's all about.

"I'm moving around constantly during class, working with individuals, trying to get them to understand and develop that unique way of working which can be abstract, photo-realistic or like for most people somewhere in between. Once they realize when they are sincere their work is as good as anyone elses, then they start to produce work that's not only pleasing to others, but to themselves."

He works to help his students develop their artistic vision. "Artists see and most people just look. Artists do see things in a different way, but it's only through training. not an inhorn sift

But he added that there is careful planning behind his creations. He refered to his sculpted characters, adorned with the finds from his mother's trunk, and said, "They may look as if I had just slapped the things on there, but it's not true. An awfully lot of thought has gone into the way these things are draped.' Although a lot of thought goes into his art. Kimsey said he really believes that too many people really believe art is really precious. "I think we need to get away from that. The artist needs to, so he doesn't think that everything he does deserves to be framed, or in a museum or on a mantel.

That type of work has a contrived look to it. I try to get my students to stay loose and to enjoy their work."

But he said, "Some artists are competi-tive, not in the sense of personality or work even, but we're at the point with all of these shows and all the prizes that are offered that competition does enter into it.

"I think competition forces some people to do things they wouldn't ordinarily do. I believe in competition." Kimsey said.

And to the artist who tries to support himself with his creation the competition becomes more serious. "Very few can survive on art work alone," he said. "I'm glad I'm not in the position of having to try.

"I'm one of those people who needs to know ahead of time what I'm going to have to work with. I think my work would really be different if I had to depend on it for a living. I don't think I could be this innovative, because some people like this and some don't," he said of his work. "I would be doing things to try to please too many people. This way I can afford to take

DEAR ABBY: Regarding bedroom eyes: I haven't heard that expression for a long time. but when I was young, that was my problem. It must be an inherited trait, because my daughter had the same problem.

I used to enjoy a little innocent flirtation, but if I looked at a man a little too long, he took it wrong and I had to practically fight for my honor.

I never seriously considered having an affair in my life, but my bedroom eyes gave a lot of men the wrong impression.

BEDROOM EYES IN ROSEBURG, ORE.

DEAR ABBY: Please relay this to "Pennsylvania Dutchman," who had never heard of a man fathering a child in his 80s.

My great-grandfather lived in Ireland. His first wife died and he subsequently married a much younger woman who bore him seven children, the youngest of whom was my grandfather.

When my grandfather was born, his father was 84 years old. (He lived to celebrate his 107th birthday.) At the time of his death his wife became ill and died two days later. They had a double funeral.

Your Own Library

What kind of books do you read? Mysteries, poetry, short stories, love stories? Your home and public library can provide you with many of your favorite books. But do you know, your own book shelf also has a collection of the above subjects which you should consider reading? Whatever type of literature you like, you can find a portion of it in the 66 books of the Bible. Although written centuries ago, it still provides inspiration and information. If you find it hard to understand — find one of the many good translations and commentaries to help interpret the meanings for you.

Don't neglect your daily reading! Attend the church or synagogue of your choice this week.

Graham Discovers

Soviet People Desire Peace

By Barry James UPI Senior Editor

MOSCOW (UPI) - Evangelist Billy Graham says he will seek out Reagan administration officials on his return to the United States to tell them of the desire for peace he has encountered in the Soviet

Graham flew back to Moscow from Novosibirsk in central Siberia late Wednesday to attend celebrations marking the 100th anniversary of the Baptist church in

The Russian Orthodox archbishop of Novosibirsk urged Graham in an emotional appeal to use his influence as a friend of President Reagan to stop what he said were threats of war against the Soviet Union.

We do not understand how the president can be a Christian and a believer, and how he can at the same time threaten our people and surround us with missiles of various sizes," said Archbishop Gideon.

Introducing Graham to his congregation in the small, wooden Orthodox cathedral in Novosibirsk, the archbishop asked him to tell Americans that the Soviet people truly want peace.

"You are respected. You are a man whose words are heard by millions of people," he

"I ask you. Dr. Billy Graham, to comfort our people and tell them that not all Americans have such ill will against them.

Many in the congregation, mostly elderly women, wept silently as Graham told them. "I am for peace too and I believe the American people are for peace. I believe the American president is for peace."

Worshippers said Graham's words came as a welcome surprise because they read in their newspapers only that the United States is preparing for war. They pressed bunches of red and white gladioli into the arms of Graham and his followers and thanked them for the visit. "Peace be with you." they

On the flight back to Moscow, Graham said he probably would inform Vice President George Bush, a personal friend, about his 12-day visit to the Soviet Union.

He said he had discovered "a deep desire for peace and that everyone is desperately afraid of another war."

Taking part in services with Orthodox and Baptist Christians, he said, had been "a really moving experience.

Graham said he hoped news and television shows about his visit would show people in America that "there are churches open here and that people do go to them. Russia is a very religious country.

Graham said he hoped to see senior Soviet government officials before his departure Friday about specific aspects of peace and religious freedom. But he added he wanted to guard confidentiality on this aspect of his

Making Reverend Out Of Rover While Making Monkey Out Of IRS

Watch your language in front of the neighbor's dog. He could be an ordained minister. If you look closely, he may be weating a clerical collar, not a dog collar.

There are hundreds of dogs - also cats and monkeys and other animals - who have a D.D. (Doctor of Divinity) after their Ordaining animals was the brain(?)child of the very Rev. Dr. Kirby Hensley, the self-ordained bishop of the Universal Life Church in Modesto, Calif. "The Bible's full of animals," he says by way of explanation. "You ain't suggestin' we keep 'em out of heaven, are you?"

But the real reason Hensley ordains animals is not out of love and concern for the four-footed creatures, but to make a mockery of organized religion, which he despises.

"Preachers don't know from nothin'," he says. "So I'm goin' to make everyone a minister — men, women, children, dogs. cats, monkeys. I'm goin' to cut the heart out of this whole

He has made a good start. It's impossible to know how many people (and animals) Hensley's church has ordained. But they include many celebrities. Whether they actually requested ordination or just found the certificates in their mailboxes courtesy of Hensley — is anybody's guess.

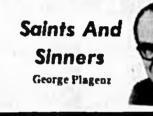

But the largest group of people ordained by Hensley may not be those who did it for a gag, but those who did it to avoid paying taxes. To get tax-exempt status, all you had to do after being ordained was organize a church (that takes just a pastor, a secretary and a treasurer) and conduct religious services. A religious service, in Henley's definition, is "anything that brings happiness to people without hurting anyone." If you used your house for services, it was exempt from property taxes in many states. As a pastor, you could claim a tax-free living allowance. All the money your church took in from contributions was exempt from federal income taxes.

That's how it is. Last month, however, the Internal Revenue Service stripped the Universal Life Church of its exemptions, charging that Henaley has been using contributions for his private benefit. He la appealing the IRS ruling in federal court.

Hensley hates organized religion and the IRS equally. Before he dies he wants to put the IRS out of business by making income tax illegal. When he was the Universal Party candidate for president of the United States in 1968, one of the two platform planks was "abolish the income tax." (The other: "To assure civil treatment and protection for people from other

Hensley, who is 73, was born in a log cabin in Low Cap, N.C. He started as a carpenter, but gave it up when he fell off a house he was building. He moved to Modesto, bought property with a garage on it, put a sign on the garage saying "church" and ordained himself. Thus was born the Universal Life Church in

While he can't read, Hensley claims to be an expert on the Bible. In his early days as a carpenter he hired people to read the Bible to him.

After "60 Minutes," the CBS-TV show, referred to him as a 'con man," as much as $10,000 a day arrived in the mail at his Modesto headquarters from viewers seeking ordinations and

Timothy Tregarthen

I took my neighbor Ben, age 4, on a scouting expedition the other day. He wanted to see some of the Special Interests he'd been hearing about.

The best place to watch for Special Interests is in Public Interest Meadow, which is nearby. We arrived there early, armed with field glasses, cameras, and a light lunch.

Ben and I selected Fiscal Responsibility Rock as our vantage point. It affords an excellent view of the meadow, and we figured that none of the Special Interests would spot us there.

It wasn't long before we had our first sighting. A very long. very black limousine roared recklessly across the meadow.

"Hey, that's Mr. Wilson, the auto executive." Ben said. 'What's so special about him?"

"He and his cronies managed to get a tight limit imposed on the number of foreign cars that can be imported into the U.S. With competitors stifled by the government, he's been able to gouge consumers with high prices, make huge profits for his company, and pay himself a fat

"Boy!" exclaimed Ben. "I wonder what we'll see next." A young woman carrying a basket started across the meadow. I told Ben to mark down our second sighting. That's not a Special Interest.

That's Mrs. Mallory, the school leacher," Ben objected. "Mrs. Mallory is a card-milk. He got $67,000 for not grounds of incompetence, and is leading the battle against a voucher system which would open up the schools to a healthy dose of competition. But, look over there!" A middle-age man wearing overalls frolicked across the carrying member of the National Education Association," I replied. "That organization has fought successfully to make her virtually immune to dismissal on meadow, brandishing a large wad of cash in his hand. 'Golly! That's Mr. Morton, the dairy farmer. What's he up to?" Ben wondered. "He's up to not producing producing milk last year alone." You know," Ben said, "with all these Special Interests trampling on Public Interest Meadow, the grass is getting pretty beat up.

At that moment Eleanor Priss, the famous consumer protection advocate, marched carefully across the field. She was assisted by H. Homer Hornswoggle, the noted industrial magnate.

"I see that those two are special interests," Ben said. "But why is a captain of industry helping a consumer advocate across Public Interest Meadow?"

"Regulations aimed at 'consumer protection' typically work to protect established firms from competition," I explained, "Mr. Hornswoggle has been accompanying Ms. Priss to this meadow for a long time."

Look over there," Ben whispered. "It's Mr. Bennett. But, he's retired. He surely isn't a Special Interest.

"Guess again," I replied, "He's done better than most of the Interests here in the meadow. He gets Social Security, and Social Security recipients have than almost anyone else in the country in the last 20 years."

"I guess that's pretty special." Ben agreed. "Now I see Mrs. Pinkney, the button factory worker, and Dr. Steiner. Are they Special Interests?"

They certainly are. Mrs. Pinkney's wages at the factory are kept artificially high by a federal rule against people making buttons at home, as well as a host of trade restrictions. Physicians like Dr. Steiner benefit from restrictive licensing to limit competition, not to mention the billions of dollars that come their way through federal health care programs and special tax breaks."

"Golly! Don't any of these Special Interests ever worry about wrecking the meadow? Ben asked.

"Well, no one Special Interest does enough damage to Public Interest Meadow to make much managed bigger gains in income difference. Each one figures that as long as everyone else is enjoying the meadow, he or she might as well have fun also. No one pays much attention to the total impact."

> After awhile, just about everyone we knew was out on the meadow. Ben asked a dis> turbing question. "Tim, are you and I Special Interests too?"

'Well, you have a free education ahead of you, and my salary for a tenured job is paid by the state," ladmitted.

"So, we've found two more Special Interests, and they are us," Ben concluded. "Let's go play in the meadow."

It's Not Been Easy, But She Wouldn't Have It Any Other Way

By Susan Loden Herald Staff Writer

The sun shines on Sanford's Janice Springfield who has met the challege and successfully combined her roles as a top banker, wife and mother. It hasn't been easy, but she says she wouldn't have things any other way. Mrs. Springfield, 49, said she built her career in banking on 'hard work, reasonable intelligence and a high energy level." She added that "It helps to be reasonably nice looking too. That helps to get you noticed. If you're reasonably nice looking someone might notice you, but once they give you the responsibility, you had better be able to do the Job, or you're going to be out the door." Her career door opened when she was 17 and started operating a bookkeeping machine at the Ford dealership in Sanford. She also learned to collect outstanding debts. In 1956 when she visited a friend of hers working at a bank, Mrs. Springfield was noticed and was ready to accept the job she was offered by the vice president of that Sanford banking career. She started out making $75 every two weeks and her climb through the ranks of the banking system has increased her pay to "somewhere between $75 every two weeks and 100 times that," she

Her laugh and her sense of humor has, she said, helped her among the three of them for her reach her current position of Group President of Sur Bank. She manages the Orange estate and Insurance business, Bank, Orlando, and oversees the at Seminole High School. operation of seven other Sun branches in Central Florida. Her ninth branch office is scheduled to open in June.

"The managers of those offices report to me," she said. "I help managers and customers with their problems. That's why they developed my position, to have someone accessible to customers. My primary responsibility is to make sure we meet the company's goals and objectives that are set every year.

That means a lot of things. We've got to stay staffed and we've got to keep the customers happy. We can't let the lines get too long. Basically, it's just managing."

She may refer to her job as just managing." but Mrs. Springfield is one of the top bankers in the Sun Bank system, and she is the only woman at her level in that company. "There are five people that run Sun Bank N.A. (National Association) and I report to one of those five. Sun Bank N.A. serves Seminole, Orange. Osceola, Lake and Brevard counties," she said.

Although her job takes her That was the beginning of her daily on a more than 60-mile round trip from her hometown of Sanford, Mrs. Springfield said she probably now has more quality time to spend with her husband Wendell and their 15-year-old aon, Wen, than ever before. That, she said, is a most important consideration in her life, but it takes teamwork to maintain her career, while her husband takes care of his real Throughout her 25-year marriage Mrs. Springfield said. "My husband has always helped me. We've always fifty-fiftied and he's always said that it's probably 90-10 and I got the 90, but we get along real well.

"Our child has always been the number one priority. If I couldn't be there my husband was. That's just something that you've got to work out and It's very important.

More and more men are facing this, now that they are single parents. It's tough. We try to spend the weekends together because our son won't be with us long. We're very lucky to have a healthy one for 17 to 18 years and that flys by." Mrs. Springfield said.

Her biggest burden in combining her career with her family life has, she said, been her concern over her son's wellbeing. "I couldn't do my job and let everybody here know I'm worrying about my son walking home from the school bus. Now. even the men worry about that. I can't tell you I didn't worry many times. That's just something I had to settle within myself. Either I'd call him or he'd call me. "Women have their priorities and have had them for many years. Women have probably had to cope with many other things and still have the same responsibility as a man. I'm not saying they're any, better. They've just had to cope with so many things."

In considering the effects of women's liberation, Mrs. Blossom Trail branch of Sun and Wen completes his studies lost is the genteel woman who Springfield said, "What we've kind, considerate and loving. And certanily we all have some of that. But she stayed home and let's say. That type of woman. successful. We've lost that type of man that took care of that type of woman. Now who can afford that luxury? working, especially if you want a house, and most all of us want a house to raise our children in.

That's not the woman's fault: it's not the man's fault. Is it society? Is it the economy? What is it? It's not a bank's fault. which has to charge a high rate of interest on a loan because it's paying a high rate of interest on deposits. It's just an evolutionary thing.

'Whether it's good or bad. I don't know. My son has come up under those conditions and he's a very warm, loving young man. I can't say it's harmed him, but we have lost the woman who used to stay home and take care of the family. That's a luxury nobody can afford if they want to have any quality of life shelter," Mrs. Springfield said.

The women who are out of the house and in the work force, Mrs. Springfield said, "probably have a slight advantage over men now, because managers are looking for bright women who don't mind working and who have a high energy level, just like we did for the men. It's the same qualifications, but now they need the women because the government and everyone else says let the women have a

"The thing that concerns me has for the last 20 years been was in her 60s or 70s, who was is there are more young women studying nights to complete her are young men. What's happened to the men? That's a took care of the husband and the concern. I hope the women aren't intimidating them. "We've lost our grandmothers, because we need both to be

"I think it all falls back on your willingness to work. Women want to work now. They Today's market takes two want to earn money and they want to be able to take care of themselves."

In evaluating workers, Mrs. Springfield said, "I think every man or woman, black or white, or whatever, should be judged on their performance. Their qualifications should be looked at, but you've got to have some guidelines, because everybody may be equally qualified. So you've got to look at performance, who's out-performing the other quality-wise. If you're doing a better job, producing at a higher quality level, you should reasonably expect to be paid more. There have to be fair ways to measure performance or it's all going to be judgment decisions and that might not be Women are working harder now. Every man in Sun Bank will be mad at me, but most women I see in my field are working harder than the men. They are very professional and very interested in their job. There are very bright women in banking and I've had a chance to meet women in other professional areas who are also very bright. I'm very impressed."

Mrs. Springfield, a graduate of Seminole High School and Seminole Community College.

coming into my field than there education. Next year she expects to receive her B.A. from Rollins College at Winter Park in business and economics.

She will go on for her master's degree and says she hopes to teach at the college level one day, but may not find time for that until after she retires in about 10 years. Mrs. Springfield puts education ahead of experience when evaluating the possibility of job advancement.

"I would say you need to have an education, because you could have the experience and not have the tools to manage and you need to be a manager. Some people are born with that. I've seen some very good managers who have never been to college, but for the technical aspects of banking you need a good educational background." she said.

It is almost essential today to speak a foreign language, Mrs. Springsteld said, and she added that no matter what one's career choice is, one cannot expect to start at the top.

If one wants to break into banking it will be awhile before a college degree pays off, she said. because those who do will probably have to start as a courier ... spot as they make their rounds a branch bank where they'd like to work as a teller and make their first move up. If their efforts aren't noticed and rewarded in one department, she advises them they might have to move to another department to find a manager with whom they work well and who will recognize their contribution to the company. Along the way, success will

Public Safety Is 'Paramount'

The Oviedo police department has a communications problem. Not that they can't communicate. It's just that they can't do it as professionally as they'd like: with genuine portable radios, just like the big boys do in the big cities. Seems the equipment the OPD has been using is falling apart. What patrolmen are doing to continue safeguarding the Oviedo public is using citizens band

The problem: No money in the proposed 1984-1985 ($787,175) budget for new radios.

The solution: Thanks to a determined Mayor Bob Whittier, the city council has left the matter open to discussion and will continue to seek ways to fund the radios. They'll have to come up with between $22,000 and $25,000, according to Carol Andrews, OPD head of communications.

And as far as Whittier is concerned, he says If the city council is unable to find the money, he will propose borrowing it and repaying it with anticipated impact fees - revenues the city gets from new construction added to the tax base - "because public safety is paramount. We (the city council) have the matter under advisement and intend to find a way to finance the needed new equipment."

Even though, according to Whittier, including $25,000 in this coming year's budget for new radios for the OPD would only mean a mere half-cent per $1,000 assessed valuation added to the tax rate, the city is strapped and can't put it in. That's because the $2.55 tax rate called for in the city's proposed budget carries a 16-percent increase over this fiscal year's tax rate — the maximum allowed by the state without putting it to referendum. according to Whittier. And, the mayor says, nothing in the proposed budget can be eliminated and replaced with the needed $25,000 for the new radios.

The radio edquipment the OPD has been using is old and worn and beyond repair. according to Police Chief Robert W. Hancock. So officers are making do with the citizens band radios. And, while officers thus far have been able to respond to all calls with the same dispatch as in the past, there is a danger to public safety if they must continue to use CBs where calls can be interfered with by the hundreds of CBers who use them, rather than new radios with their own limited-use frequencies, says Andrews.

"Public safety is paramount." Has a nice ring to it, mayor. We agree with Whittier and trust his city council colleagues will be as determined as he to find a hasty solution to OPD's "communications" problem.

New Approach

Opponents of President Reagan have blamed his economic policies for the slight rise in the national poverty level in the past two years, a period in which joblessness fell

In reality, the poverty level rose faster during the Carter adminstration than it has under President Reagan. The reason - high inflation levels under Carter. However, lack of progress against poverty appears to be principally due to flawed concepts originated in the early 1960s.

Since 1968 the "safety net" for the disadvantaged and unemployed — Aid to Families with Dependent Children, food stamps, rent subsidies, Medicare, etc. - has been increased sevenfold, to $403 billion.

Patently, the present approach to fighting poverty should be totally revamped. Much more stress needs to be placed on removing tax and welfare disincentives that now stifle the poor when they increase their meager income, and on requiring real work for government aid. More emphasis should be placed on job training and retraining, and a special effort should be made to help children of poverty families get into the mainstream of the job market. The idea of offering continuous handouts without work hasn't made a dent in the poverty cycle.

BERRY'S WORLD

"The good news is: Now you can take time to smell the roses. The bad news is: You're fired!"

Being a woman has its advantages. but when it comes to repairs, most women are at the mercy of the repairman. I shudder at how many times I have been taken to the cleaners

When the April, 1982, devastating storm struck Central Florida and literally ripped the roof off Sanford. nearly everyone in the community was left with costly repairs. And some were real rip offs.

We had three different roof estimates with repair variations of about $1,000. Three estimates on my pock-marked car from a downpour of hallstones varied up to $600.

Previously, I trusted the people I knew and had dealt with for years to do the job with no haggle about prices. I always felt I was getting the best price.

But not anymore. The incidents involving the storm opened my eyes. Everybody should get a second opinion - and maybe a third.

Last week, my wrist watch stopped. Previously, I took it to the same watchmaker I have patronized for years and had the battery replaced for $5. But this time I was informed that not only was the battery bad, but that the watch was terribly rusted and needed a complete cleaning job.

We did discuss cost but the watchmaker was not available to give me an estimate. "Don't touch it until you call with an estimate," I instructed the clerk.

Later that afternoon, she called informing me the price to clean the watch was in excess of $40. I refused to pay that amount for an inexpensive, ordinary wrist watch.

That same afternoon I took the watch to another watchmaker. He gianced at it, and with the expertise of a real pro, removed a small bit of corrosion from the winding stem, said the battery was still operating, cut the band to fit and quoted a repair price of $1.

I could not believe my ears when he said. "But I didn't do anything."

The incident bothered me. Why are people so greedy? Somewhere along the line, I have always been willing to pay a dime more and expect class first class.

Like the old cat, my curiosity got the best of me. The next day I took the watch to a third watchmaker and told him I was having a little trouble. He said I needed a new battery and the watch needed cleaning.

How much? He quoted a $22

I guess you know where my jewelry business will go from here on out. The competent, pleasant middle man has gained a new customer and an overwhelming vote of confidence.

On top of that, he was one pleasant person to deal with.

On The Jackson Factor

By Doris Dietrich

Ever since the Democratic convention ended, political seers have been searching election results nationwide to determine if there is a "Jesse Jackson factor" that will influence future races.

It seemed reasonable to assume that the thousands of new voters who registered because of Jackson's presidential campaign would tip the balance in other contests as well: that the generation of activists brought into politics by Jackson would provide new candidates in elections across the country.

So far, the analyses reveal no lingering "Jackson effect." In no election — including several held at the same time as the presidential primaries - has any black candidate received the kind of support given to the popular leader of the Rainbow Coalition.

But the crucial test of Jackson's coattails may not lie in conventional measures, but rather in whether or not he can summon back to the polls in November the huge majorities he won in primaries from March through June.

Jackson won 50 percent of the black vote in Georgia and 61 percent in Alabama in the "Super Tuesday" primaries March 13. Seven days later, he received 79 percent of the black vote in his adopted state, Illinois, and never fell below 76 percent of the black vote in any primary thereafter.

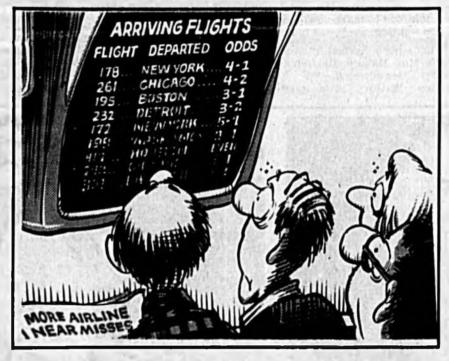

More impressive than the percentage of votes won, however, was Drawing on data collected by CBS News, the Joint Center for Political Studies reports that turnout in 'black areas' - precincts where blacks represent 80 percent or more of the population - Increased in 1984's primaries and caucuses over 1980's figures by a low of 14 percent in Georgia to a high of 127 percent in New York.

Turnout increased 87 percent in black areas of Alabama, 38 percent in Florida, 19 percent in Illinois, 32 percent in Pennsylvania, 58 percent in Tennessee, 29 percent in Indiana. 33 percent in Maryland, 53 percent in North Carolina, 36 percent in Ohio and 82 percent in New Jersey.

That increase in turnout follows a general pattern that shows black voting increasing from 1978 through 1982. But it is also due to the excitement and challenge of the Jackson campaign.

White House Equality

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Women's libbers are fond of ruefully pointing out that no member of the female sex has ever served as U.S. president or vice president.

True enough. And unless Geraldine Ferraro, the Democratic vice presidential candidate, is elected this fall, that complaint likely will be historially accurate for at least another four years.

For whatever consolation it might provide, however, it also is historically accurate to point out that no member of the male sex has ever served as the country's first lady.

These thoughts - if such lofty terminology can be applied to puerile cerebration — were inspired by a visit I made to "Eleanor Roosevelt: First Person Singular," a new exhibit assembled by the Smithsonian Institution.

The exhibit, which will be open to the public until next Jan. 7, commemorates the centennial of her birth on Oct. 11, 1884.

Say what you will about Bess Truman, Mamie Eisenhower, Jackie Kennedy, Ladybird Johnson, Pat Nixon, Betty Ford, Rosalynn Carter and Nancy Reagan, Eleanor Roosevelt probably was the most issues-oriented first lady of modern

She was also among the most peripatetic, having traveled more than 40,000 miles during her first year as first lady.

Toni Morrison, or some such author, has opined that the two most destructive concepts yet devised by humankind are physical beauty and romantic love. In Eleanor Roosevelt's case, that may well have been true.

I still remember one of the jokes told about her notorious lack of physical beauty. The exchange supposedly took place at an evening reception where the first lady was accosted by a male voter in an advanced stage of inebriation.

"Mrs. Roosevelt, you are the ugliest woman l ever saw."

'And you, sir, are the drunkest man lever saw. "He wober in the morning."

The Smithsonian, for reasons that may be evident, did not include that punch line in its exhibit. Nor was there any intimation that the first lady may have formed a highly personal relationship with a writer who was lurking about the Capital during the New Deal days.

These omissions possibly illustrate part of the difficulty we Americans have in investing our idols with human traits. How unfortunate that they don't spring from Mount Olympus, or something. rather than mingle with us mere

The Eleanor Roosevelt exhibit is nothing if not circumspect, limiting its scope to photographs, such as snapshots of the Roosevelt kiddles: documents, such as her Christmas gift lists; and such artifacts as her baby dresses, her grandmother's silver bowl and an ancient L.C. Smith typewriter.

No U.S. president I am aware of would have fitted into any of these gowns. Which may explain why there has never been a male first WASHINGTON WORLD

You Can Call 'em, Or You ...

By Helen Thomas

UPI White House Reporter WASHINGTON (UPI) - Traditional political protocol prescribes that you never call your opponent by name.

The rationale is that the other candidate should not be given any extra publicity, not even the courtesy of a name.

But politicians can and do devise other catchy ways of name calling on the campaign trail.

There also can be the element of They know who they are,"

White House spokesman Larry Speakes will say when reporters want to pin him down. In the politician's book of protocol, however, there apparently is nothing that requires some civility by a president toward the opposition candidate seeking his job. Walter Mondale is "Mr. What's his name" to President Or more often he is the anonymous "they" who are the doomsayers; "they" who tell a "fairy tale" about the deficit: "they" are the ones who "knock opportuni-

Sometimes, Reagan will refer to the "other candidate" or more often to just plain "he"

Asked why he did not call Mondale by name, Reagan flippantly replied:

Why should I?"

On the other hand, Democratic vice presidential candidate Geraldine Ferraro has lived to regret saying that the president is not "a good Christian" because of his policies toward the poor. Mondale does not exactly kid glove his attacks on Reagan in trying to smoke him out, but he does occasionally refer to him as "the president" or "Mr. Reagan." In this democracy, respect for the president is required even if agreement is not.

On Capitol Hill, lawmakers speak of "worthy opponents" and the "distinguished senator" even when they smite them down with scathing rhetoric.

Another name-tag that Reagan and his running mate. Vice President George Bush, have decided is a good vote-getter for their side is to call their opponent a "liberal," which is supposed to be the political kiss of death these days.

Occupation Foes Suffer Tortures

decade ago the American public was shocked by reports of the brutal treatment of political prisoners confined in "tiger cages" by the South Vietnamese government. But it is no secret that under the victorious Vietnamese communist regime, political prisoners are even worse off than their hapless predecessors behind bars ever were.

While the recent U.S. decision to accept several thousand political prisoners from Vietnam gives hope to those lucky ones, there is no indication that the agreement will cover prisoners in Vietnamese-occupied Cambodia. Since those imprisoned by the Vietnamese occupation forces are mainly former communist officials, they would presumably not be welcome in this

It may be hard to work up much sympathy for ex-members of the murderous Pol Pot regime that was responsible for the deaths of perhaps 2 million Cambodians in five years, or for officials of the new government who have fallen from grace. But the reports I've heard of the barbaric Vietnamese treatment of political dissidents in Cambodia are worth relating, if only to demonstrate the unspeakable horror of life in communist Indochina.

The puppet Cambodian regime of Heng Samrin will slap an Individual in prison for any of four principal reasons: suspected sympathy or support for the old communist regime's Khmer Sereika or Khmer Seret militias, still fighting in the hinterlands; refusal to put pro-fessional or other skills at the service of the Vietnamese-backed government; kinship to someone believed to have gone to the Thai border, where the resistance forces are: or the simple fact of having returned home from a refugee camp in Thailand.

A confidential 14-page State Department report shown to my associate Dale Van Atta gives some ugly details of individual treatment of political enemies by the Vietnamesc occupation force.

- One prisoner was a soldier who tried to save a group of native girls from being raped by a troop of Vietnamese. He and the Vietnamese were in a Phnom Penh supply base when "a group of young girls sneaked in and tried to steal whatever they believed useful," the report stated, adding: "The Victnamese soldiers caught them and ordered them to undress. The informant interfered and asked the leader of the Vietnamese to change his order. When the Vietnamese refused to change his order, the informant shot him in the leg."

The informant was thrown into a special prison in Phnom Penh that held about 70 leaders of the puppet regime. In that same prison, a former cabinet minister was "diaemboweled alive before his atomach was filled with stones and his body sunk in the Tonie Sap River."

- In one prison, the inmates are kept in chains, with handcuffs added at night. "The accused who refuse to sign (confessions) are dipped upside-down in a big water jar, being more or less suffocated until they 'agree' to sign."

- In the main prison at Phnom Penh, "the prisoners were sleeping straight on the cement floor," the report said. "The floor was not flat. but was raised to about 40 degrees behind the prisoners' backs like half-beds. This made the prisoners half lying and half sitting." Every day one or two political prisoners were carried out dead.

- A young Cambodian leper was arrested at the Phnom Penh railway station on his way to a refugee camp for treatment. For three weeks he was interrogated by a Vietnamese while two Khmers beat him.

- One prisoner succeeded in digging his way out of the wooden house where he was held, using a spoon and a small piece of file. He then had to get through seven separate fences of bamboo, barbed wire, wood and closely grown trees.

SOLOMON'S CHOICE - Less than a year after the bombing of the Marine base in Beirut and the subsequent U.S. pullout, the State Department decided the time was ripe for a renewed U.S. presence however modest - in strife-torn Lebanon. No guns this time, though, just money. The Agency for International Development will reopen its mission in Beirut.

But Foggy Bottom saw a problem in even this seemingly unassailable gesture: Should the AID office be in West Beirut or East Beirut? Christians or Moslems would be upset. the diplomata feared, if the AID mission was put in the rival side of the divided city.

Apparently taking their cue from the legendary wisdom of an ancient Jewish monarch in the region, the officials decided to cut the AID mission in two - one in the east and one in the west. In a departure from the biblical text, though. neither the Christians nor the Moslems offered to give up their half of the AID office.

How To Sleep Easy

Q.I have always been able to fall asleep anywhere trains, boats, easy chairs, you name it. Now that I'm a little older, sleep is more clusive. What can I do to fall asleep more easily?

A. It's funny. Older Americans, finally free of job and certain family responsibilities. might consider the last decades of their lives a time for wellearned rest. But the older one gets, the less time is spent sleeping and the more likely one is to have sleeping problems.

Sleep cycles do not take on a new pattern upon rettring from work or turning 60. But the long, deep sleep of childhood and young adulthood gradually becomes lighter and more fragmented over the years as people grow older.

What can cause insomnia? Any one of some 40 different conditions have been identified. The most common is a psychological or psychiatric abnormality - these account for about half the people who visit sleep-disorder centers. Many times physical problems have an adverse effect on sleep. Pain, caused by arthritis or other discomfort, is a major cause of sleeplessness in older people. Another problem is that many organs, particularly the bladder, don't function as well, causing sleep to be disturbed up to five times a night.

Therefore, those who have an iliness or injury might want to ask their doctor about its effects on sleep, and about the effects of medication being taken for their condition.

So what can you do to ensure a better night's sleep?

Consult a doctor. If there are severe problems sleeping, or a sudden change in your sleep pattern, you should get medical

Q. In a column a while back. you said dependents aged 18 to 22 of a deceased insured worker, who are full-time students, were eligible for benefits under the wage earnings of that deceased worker. I was elated because it looked like my 18-year-old would be eligible for Social Security education benefits. Your information must have been out-of-date. We tried applying and were told this benefit was long gone.

A. My apologies if the column was misleading. The college benefit is being phased out as a result of the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1981. But it continues for those students who were granted the benefit before that Act's adoption. There has been a reduction of 25 percent each year since 1981. Thus, individuals who were eligible for these benefits in 1981 are eligible for 25 percent of the benefits in 1984. The benefit will be completely phased out in continues UPI's in-depth examination of the death penalty which began in the Herald Sept. 9 and runs consecutive Sun-

By Dan Lohwasser

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) - This has been the long, hot summer of Margie Barfield's life. And. at times, she thought it would be

Events of the past few months drove home hard the realization that the death penalty is no longer an abstract threat, even for a matronly, soft-spoken grandmother who spends her days praying, knitting and watching the clock.

Mrs. Barfield, 51, is at the head of the list of 19 condemned women on death rows across the country. And just like their male counterparts, theirs is a purgatorial existence at the end of the line, with a growing sense that time is running out.

She was convicted in 1978 of polsoning her flance. She was a murder suspect in three other deaths, including that of her mother, but was not tried in those cases.

Mrs. Barfield was to die Aug. 31, but the U.S. Supreme Court granted her an unexpected stay July 2, citing an expected lower court ruling on a North Carolina case challenging jury selection in capital cases.

Then, on Aug. 16, the Supreme Court refused to hear her case, lifting the stay. Her execution is now scheduled Nov.

The last woman executed in the United States was Elizabeth Anne Duncan, who was put to death in the San Quentin gas chamber Aug. 8, 1962, for hiring two men to kill her daughter-in-law.

After 5 1/2 years of waiting in solitary, death by either lethal injection or the gas chamber started becoming a reality for Mrs. Barfield last March.

She wilted under the news that North Carolina had executed James Hutchins by lethal injection, the state's first execution in 23 years.

"I woke up that morning ... around 3 a.m.," she said in an interview at the North Carolina Correctional Center for Women. The first thing I did was cut on the radio and heard the news. I had thought there was always was a topless dancer. hope. It was sad."

After her execution date was set. prison officials came for her in the night and moved her to the all-male maximum security prison across town. She was placed in a cell across the half from the execution chamber. Tears welled in her eyes when she talked of the experience.

"I think everyone thinks about dying," she said. "In my own situation, with dates being set on your life, that makes it very real. It becomes a day-to-day thing. You take each day as it comes. This is how I was living ... just asking for another day." Mrs. Barfield is, for the time being, back in her regular cell. relieved to be back in the routine of a 6 a.m. wakeup, a shower, one hour outside, and then a day of crocheting, television, writing letters and prayer. She said she lives for weekly visits from her children and grandchildren.

Mrs. Barfield and her family plan to ask the governor to commute her sentence to life in prison if her legal appeals expire. "There's always hope of going home, but probably Im going to have to live the rest of my life in prison if my sentence (is commuted)," she said.

Fewer than one out of 100 death row inmates across the country are women. Watt Espy, director of the Capital Punishment Research Project at the University of Alabama, said there has been a historical reluctance to subject women to the most severe penalty.

Of the 14,235 documented executions, only 293 have been women, Espy said.

"Unless she was a horror or something like that, it was inconceivable that a woman could really do anything that would warrant the death penalty. Back when hanging was the major mode of execution, it was considered obscene to hang a woman."

"I fully expect more women to be executed in the future," Espy added. "Women today have obtained a certain amount of equality that they had never had before and that is one of the penalties they will have to pay for that."

Twelve other states have women convicted of murder on death row. Most are in their 20s. The youngest is a 19-year-old woman in Mississippi whose sentence is under review but who was sentenced at age 17. The oldest is a 55-year-old woman in Nevada.

They killed their children, husbands, lovers and strangers. Some killed for money, some killed for love, some killed for the thrill of it, and some killed for reasons no one has been able to explain. They killed with ice picks, guns, drain cleaner, cars and rat poison.

Dr. Faye Sultan, a psychologist who works with women inmates in North Carolina, says not only is crime hy women on the increase but so is the level of violence.

In Nevada, Priscilla Ford, 55, is awaiting death in the gas chamber for killing six people in Reno four years ago. She ran them down with her black Lincoln Continental on a casinodistrict sidewalk.

Professing a belief in reincarnation, she asked that appeals on her behalf be dropped because she was eager to get on with her new life. The courts questioning her mental competence. No execution date has been set for the former school teacher.

One of two women on Alabama's death row, Judith Ann Neelley, 20, is a mother of three. She is sentenced to die in the electric chair for the 1981. murder of Lisa Ann Millican, 13. At her trial, Mrs. Neelley testified she shot the girl in the back on orders from her husband after several injections of drain cleaner failed to kill the victim. Mrs. Neelley also pleaded guilty in the kidnapping of another woman who was killed. Authorities claimed Mrs. Neelley and her husband. Alvin, prowled the streets of Rome, Ga., in 1982 looking for young girls to rape and murder.

A second woman also awaits death in Nevada's gas chamber. She was convicted of the 1982 contract killing of Joy Spinney. 56, for a fee of $1,500. She shot the woman in the head and threw her body in the desert. The murderer's parents have adopted her two young daugh-

Maryland's gas chamber waits for Doris Ann Foster, 40, who was sentenced to die for killing a 71-year-old motel clerk with a screwdriver during a robbery.

"I've put life in one hand and death in the other and weighed the two," she once told a reporter. "To me, death is the only route to freedom." She changed her mind after receiving letters from people asking her to push her appeal.

some people out there who really, really care," she said.

In Florida, which leads the nation in executions with seven. Andrea S. Jackson, 25, sits on death row for killing a Jacksonville policeman. Officer Gary Bevel, 29, was shot in the head four times when he tried to arrest the woman for falsifying a

In at the Marysville Reformatory for Women. Rosalte Grant, 24, awaits execution for killing her two children by burning down their house with them inside.

Texas has two women awaiting death by lethal injection. Karla Faye Tucker, 24 convicted in April of the pickase killing of her former boyfriend. Jerry Dean, 27. She was charged, but not tried, with the slaying of Dean's female companion Prosecution witnesses testifled Ms. Rucker told them she received a sexual thrill from killing Dean with the ax.

Gulfport, Miss., defense attorney Shannon Waller agrees with the idea that women are losing the mercy they received simply because of their sex. Shannon blamed the mechanics of the jury selection system.

"The problem is that prosecutors can ask questions to keep people off the jury if they indicate they will be sympathetic because of age or sex.

He points to his own client as a good example. Tina Cannady, a one-time Mobile Ala., topless dancer convicted of helping David Gray kill her former boyfriend, was sentenced to die at age 16.

Waller contends it was never really clear how extensive her role was in the killing. He said the jury also sentenced her to die despite evidence she had a "horrible" childhood background and never really had a

'At least one psychiatrist "I've found out there were found her to be on the borderline of being retarded," said Waller, "She got absolutely no sympathy from this jury whatsoever.

The Mississippi Supreme Court has ordered a new sentencing phase for Cannady, but acted on the grounds she was illegally interrogated after her arrest and the statements were used against her.

The Florida Department of torcing six new rules/regulations October 1.

Environmental Regulation (FDER) has released an implementation schedule for its expanded regulatory jurisdiction gained from passage of the "Warren A. Henderson Wetlands Protection Act of 1984."

The legislation is going to have a tremendous impact on builders. It expands FDER's limits of jurisdiction by increasing the vegetative index list. The inclusion of fish and wildlife habitat requires permitting criteria and also adds cumulative impact considerations. This will increase costs and, in some cases, means the loss of developable

It is my opinion that in a very short time, we are going to see a great demand for product and an inability to service that demand. It has been my experience that the state's most successful developers are very sensitive to the environment. In general, people and prudent developers object to wholesale carnage of the land. Certainly, I feel strongly on this point. FDER is set to being en-

By July 1, 1985, the department intends to have at least five more restrictive measures in place. After that, several additional measures are likely to be adopted, including a rule for the "equitable distribution" of permits. There must be a coordinated effort between developers and the FDER to avoid an impasse that would result in unreasonable delays or costs associated with development efforts.

I would like to propose a conference or working seminar to include the director of FDER, his department chiefs. a select group of qualified developers, and members of the media.

It is my belief that total involvement and cooperation by all parties is the only viable option to satisfy and assure the state that environmentally sensitive areas will be protected within acceptable parameters to continue to permit land development where appropriate:

not depend just on one's own abilities, Mrs. Springfield said. "I had the qualifications, but probably the most important thing was I had people I worked with whom I respected who encouraged me to reach my potential. They encouraged me to get an education.

"They knew the answers. I'd ask them something very technical that they could have easily explained, but they'd say 'I bet if you read this or called so-and-so you'll find out what to read or where to go for the answer. They were really leading me to where to go to learn it for myself."

Looking ahead, she said, "There will come a day when I won't be able to produce as much. They won't have to come to me and say 'Springfield, you're not producing.' I'm going to already know. I will step aside and hopefully there will be a young woman coming up to take my place. I'll be awfully mad if there's not, if some of them me.'

I can walk down the street and If I know you I can holler across and say 'Hi, how're you doing today?' You can't do that here on the Orange Blossom Trail, you'd get picked up. Age doesn't matter." she laughed.

'I used to say I'd die on the streets of Sanford running from one place to another for my customers. But now I'll probably die on Interstate 4 or the Orange Blossom Trail, but I love it. I'm so involved with banking. I respect the people I work for and I learn from them. I'm not going to respect them if they aren't going to share knowledge with
