Rebels Get 11 Years, Kidnap Trial Next

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Embry and William Harris, sentenced to 11 years to life in prison, now face a trial in Northern California for the kidnaping of newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst.

The two Sanbornese Liberation Army members remained at the Hall of Justice jail here following their sentencing Tuesday for kidnapping, robbery and car theft. Authorities said they would be moved to Alameda County later this week for trial on a libel complaint stemming from the Feb. 4, 1974, Hearst kidnaping.

The Harris' showed no reaction when Superior Court Judge Mark Brandler argued that they spend a long time in prison. Under California law, he was not permitted to exact limits on the sentences, and the couple could be released after as sort a time as six years and eight months.

"It is this court's recommendation to the Adult Authority ... that the defendants serve an additional and lengthy period of confinement in the state prison," Brandler said.

Harris, 31, and Mrs. Harris, 29, who already had been jailed for nearly one year, delivered impassioned speeches before their sentences were announced. But neither asked for leniency as they took turns speaking from a lectern turned toward spectators and reporters seated behind bulletproof glass.

"I am a revolutionary, and I do not lose hope for the future," said Emily Harris.

"I'm not too impressed by the system of justice," said William Harris.

Kwiatkowski Switches

New Legal Fee System Wins Backer

County commissioner Harry Kwiatkowski has reversed his opinion on the county attorney situation and now says he favors either creation of a legal department or payment by contract.

The present fee system has been under fire since last year when Republican commissioners asked for a switch to a legal department. They said a switch could save taxpayers $100,000 a year.

Kwiatkowski says study of the issue has convinced him it's time "to do away with the fee system." If he opts for a legal department, the Democratic commissioner will have the support of both Commissioners Dick Williams and John Kimbrough.

Kwiatkowski's second option is to hire a law firm and place the firm on a yearly contract, with no allowances or overruns. Last year, Kimbrough said legal fee cost Seminole County taxpayers more than $240,000. Included in that were $115,000 in fees charge by County Atty. Tom Freeman and legal costs charged by labor attorneys, Alley, Alley & Blue of Tampa.

Under the fee system, the attorney is paid based on the number of hours.

Kimbrough and Kwiatkowski were appointed to a two-man committee to study ways of cutting down on the cost of legal fees after Freeman asked for $115,000 next year.

Commission Chairman Mike Hattaway made the appointments. Then Kimbrough got into a letter-writing war with Freeman over $12,000 the county attorney charged for work on last year's jail fire. Kimbrough said $13,000 bills are "void" of any detailed description.

Freeman replied by directing Kimbrough to the contract he has with the county. Kimbrough then sent Hattaway a letter requesting the chairman instruct the board to require Freeman provide a detailed explanation of the $13,000, but the chairman Tuesday said he didn't want to "talk about" the Kimbrough letter which Kimbrough had inserted in Tuesday's official minutes of the meeting.

Kwiatkowski, however, said he, personally, will get the information Kimbrough requested. "I'll get it; I'll find out what he (Kimbrough) wants and I'll get it for him."

Kimbrough was incensed that Hattaway wouldn't ask the board for direction. And, as far as Kwiatkowski's providing the information on the fees, Kimbrough said, "I'd rather it came from Tom — officially."

Kwiatkowski said he will deliver his recommendation on Sept. 14. He envisions the cost for legal fees at about $140,000. About $186,000 was requested for all legal fees, but the commission chopped $46,000 during budget hearings.

Kimbrough says a legal department can be created for $100,000. If two attorneys were hired, that figure would jump to $115,000. — Ed Prickett.

HAYS

To Resign...

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lawyers for Rep. Wayne L. Hays said the House Ethics Committee is negotiating a deal for Hays to resign from Congress in return for a halt to the panel's investigation of payroll-sex charges against him.

The bargain was struck late Tuesday on a question of time. The Ethics Committee was reported to be considering a resolution that said Hays is resigning effective Sept. 3, that the committee's payroll-sex inquiry would be suspended immediately when Hays' letter of resignation was delivered but that the investigation would not be completely terminated until Hays actually resigns.

The Hays caucus is being investigated by the Justice Department to determine whether the congressmen should be prosecuted. Any Hays resignation would have no impact on that investigation.

A reliable source said the Ohio Democrat had been expected Tuesday to deliver his resignation letter to Speaker Carl Albert and then to the Ethics Committee.

But sources later said Hays' representatives had not left the letter with the committee. The Hays representatives indicated they objected to the committee's reluctance to guarantee that its inquiry will end until Hays actually leaves office.

The Ethics Committee adjourned Tuesday without taking any action on its resolution to terminate the payroll-sex investigation and Chairman John J. Flynt scheduled another meeting today.

CLARENCE KELLEY

KELLEY

...Or Be Fired?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Justice Department investigator probing charges against FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley should be fired for accepting gifts from his subordinates, according to an informed source.

The source said the recommendation that Kelley be fired as FBI director was one of two suggestions placed before Atty. Gen. Edward Levi three weeks ago. Levi, who has been on vacation, has taken no action on the recommendations.

The second Justice Department recommendation disagrees with the first recommendation and proposes a public reprimand for Kelley instead of dismissal, the source said.

Both recommendations came after Kelley admitted to a Justice Department task force investigating allegations against bureau officials that he accepted gifts from subordinates. Among the gifts listed were a $200 walnut table, a $250 clock, a $150 easy chair and a handmade desk and mahogany jewelry box, the source said.

John M. Dowd, who heads the Justice Department probe into charges of misconduct by FBI officials, was the official who called for firing Kelley, according to the source.

The Washington Post reported today that Dowd's reasoning was that Kelley could not properly control subordinates after they had given him expensive presents. The story could not be immediately confirmed.

Michael E. Shaheen Jr., who heads the department's Office of Professional Responsibility, disagreed with Dowd's recommendation and suggested the public reprimand, the source said. Shaheen is

SEEDCO Director Says 'Attacks' Hurt Agency

By ED PRICKETT
Herald Staff Writer

Horace Orr, at a special news conference today, criticized publicity generated by news articles in the Orlando Sentinel Star which, he said, adversely affected operations of the Seminole Economic Employment Development Corp.

Orr, SEEDCO president, also cited a $6000 extortion attempt, a burglary and an attempted shooting as examples of harassment incidents aimed at discrediting his agency. He also said a Sentinel Star reporter was found prowling outside the agency's office at Sanford-Central Airport at 3 o'clock one morning.

Orr said that, since the "attacks" on his agency 11 months ago, public opinion has been eroded to the point that normal channels of commerce have been shut off. We have had insurance policies canceled, bonds terminated, credit refused where it once was standard, and loans or lines of credit refused by banks.

Orr blamed many of the agency's woes on the adverse publicity. He said agency officials have complained to the National News Council that more than 136 errors of facts in 51 stories, columns and editorials appeared in the Orlando paper through May 5.

Orr said SEEDCO has filed a grievance with the council, but he said the New York-based agency will not investigate the matter until the SEEDCO board of directors makes the decision on whether to file the lawsuit against the Orlando newspaper and other persons involved in criticism of the agency.

Orr said newspaper criticism was prompted by a group of doctors who in 1974 "vowed to destroy this agency."

Orr said the efforts to dump SEEDCO were spearheaded by Tom Largent, a Sanford doctor. Orr said negative news articles began to appear on May 15, 1975, after Largent brought a Sentinel Star columnist to a meeting called to discuss the feasibility of a health maintenance organization (HMO) for Seminole County.

Orr said Largent and the doctors opposed HMO on the grounds that creation of such a venture was in opposition to the private industry. However, Orr said SEEDCO was conducting an HMO feasibility study which said location of an HMO here was not feasible because of a lack of participation by local doctors.

Orr called today's televised conference to criticize the Orlando newspaper after the federal government's General Accounting Office (GAO) last week cleared the agency of any illegal activities.

The GAO report followed a four-month audit of SEEDCO records. In the request to U. S. Sen. Lawton Chiles, Orr asked for an audit by the government's watchdog agency after he complained that he was "under attack" from the newspaper toward spectators and reporters seated behind bulletproof glass.

The interim audit report said, "we did not, however, find any evidence of criminal or illegal activity by SEEDCO, its director or its president."

The interim report went on to say, "Generally I find findings do not substantiate the specific or implied allegations which prompted the Congressional request for our review of SEEDCO."

The report, however, said the findings scheduled to be released in two months "will discuss several significant weaknesses in the management of SEEDCO and its ventures and

'Mud-Slinging' Rap Doesn't Slow Boney

DAYTONA BEACH (AP) — Tommy Boney says he wasn't just slinging mud when he leveled conflict-of-interest charges against Rep. Bill Chappell, his main opponent in the Democratic primary Sept. 7.

Chappell said Monday that the allegations had been investigated at his request and settled months ago. He said Boney raised the issue just to sling some political mud. But Boney, of Keystone Heights, said Tuesday only two of the six charges he leveled have been investigated. And he said those two were "whitewashed."

He referred to a $100,000 contract he said Chappell obtained through the electric firm, which he owns, after Chappell pressed the Federal Housing Administration for action on a stalled low-income apartment complex in Ocala.

New Effort Under Way To Seize 'Neglected' Chimps At Geneva

By BOB LLOYD Herald Staff Writer

Assistant State Atty. Randy Kramer was busy today drawing up new papers seeking a county court order to seize five chimpanzees at Geneva.

These latest developments followed County Court Judge Wallace Hall's ruling Tuesday that Kramer's motion seeking a seizure of the five chimps and placing them in the Central Florida Zoo at Sanford couldn't be heard because of a technicality.

The court ruled that the state should have made the impoundment motion as a civil case rather than filing it as a pending criminal misdemeanor case in which Alexander is accused of violating the county animal control ordinance.

Gift-Taking Sparks Kelley Firing Call

Dowd's immediate superior, Kelley issued a statement Tuesday acknowledging that he had received Christmas and anniversary gifts from his office staff and from senior FBI officials.

Kelley issued the statement after Washington Star reported that FBI workers installed drapery valances in his apartment shortly after he took office in mid-1973.

But he said he didn't know the FBI was doing the work until it was done. He vowed to find out what the valances cost and pay for them.

The valances are rigid, boxlike frames running across the top of windows to complement draperies and conceal the drapery rods.

FBI spokesmen said they could not estimate the cost of the valances. But based on a description of the valances and prices quoted by a major Washington department store, a conservative estimate would be $70 to $100.

Federal law makes it a crime for a government employee to convert government property to personal use. If such property is worth less than $100, the crime is a misdemeanor punishable by as much as a year in prison and a $1,000 fine.

Hays admitted he had had a personal relationship with her but said the Ethics Committee investigation would exonerate him by establishing that she had done committee work for her $14,000 a year.

But when Hays dropped his re-election campaign three weeks ago, he said in an interview that one reason was that "I don't want to give that woman a chance to make another appearance."

His offer to resign from Congress was reportedly made shortly after the Ethics Committee voted Monday to begin hearings Sept. 15 despite his lawyer's plea that he is too depressed to defend himself.

Sheriff's deputies today were probing several burglaries and thefts reported over the county including a break-in at the Cardinal Industries plant, 3701 S. Sanford Ave., Sanford, in which vending machines were forced open and an undetermined amount of money was taken. Deputy R.A. Alexander reported several tools were also missing from the modular housing plant and an office was apparently ransacked after the doors were forced open.

Stanley Polonski, of 1311 Santa Barbara Dr., Sanford, told officers that his auto was burglarized while it was parked in the parking lot at Franklin Arms Apartments, Sanford, and tools valued at $250 were stolen.

Arms Sales Face Senate Debate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration has dropped its bid for congressional approval of "cluster" bombs for Saudi Arabia but still faces tough negotiations with key senators over Sidewinder and Maverick missiles.

In the bargaining, aides to Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger have told a group of senators generally regarded as pro-Israel that Saudi Arabia is insisting on 1,000 of the air-to-air Sidewinders.

In the effort to reach a negotiated settlement, Congress can veto the arms deal. State Department officials have agreed to yield on the cluster bombs, an anti-personnel weapon used effectively in the Vietnam war to knock out anti-aircraft batteries.

County Adopts Self-Insurance

Seminole County Commissioners Tuesday voted to adopt a program of self-insurance that will go into effect Tuesday.

After Tuesday's vote, the county was without liability insurance and workman's compensation was set to expire at midnight Monday.

The county will enter into a policy with an insurance firm to cover losses in the $100,000 to $1-million range. Smaller claims will be paid out of money set aside by the county for that purpose.

the corporation in 1973 to correct some of these weaknesses. Concerning the $5,000 extortion attempt, Orr said an individual contacted him and said for $5,000 he could get the Sentinel Star to "help SEEDCO."

Orr said he was forced to change his name telephone number because of threatening telephone calls. The agency director said SEEDCO's business development director was shot at as he drove between the SEEDCO office at the Sanford Airport and one of the agency's corporations. Orr also noted that the office at SEEDCO was burglarized.

SEEDCO must have in 1971. Orr claims the agency is responsible for 273 jobs, 106 of which are for seasonal harvesters. Orr says SEEDCO has pumped close to $5 million in federal funds into the local economy.

Orr also pointed out that, following the four-month audit, a Sentinel Star reporter has made a fresh request to review records. The agency director said the SEEDCO executive committee has instructed him to request a waiver of the federal policy which requires SEEDCO to open its records to the public.

"We asked for, not to conceal SEEDCO's books, records or activities from public view, but rather to insure that the operation of the organization will not be hampered by frivolous, capricious, or malicious requests," Orr wrote in the letter requesting the waiver.

SEEDCO's aim is to provide jobs for the employable and those on welfare rolls. Theoretically, this is accomplished by purchasing corporations called ventures, which in turn are expected to generate jobs.

Candidates Gear Up For Sept. 7 Primary

By The Associated Press

It's only the second primary of a long political year, but one of the candidates who will next Tuesday's elections for U.S. representative in effect will be elected to office.

Primary will be held to select congressional candidates in 10 of the state's 15 districts. But there are three races in which no Republican has qualified to run — meaning that the winner of the Democratic party faces clear sailing in November.

In other districts, the ballots are crammed full of aspirants. Eight Democrats are listed in the first district; in another, six Democrats and four Republicans are seeking the post; and in a third, four Democrats are running.

One district in which no Republican is running is the 1st C.D. in Northwest Florida, the home of Rep. Robert L.F. Sikes.

The 73-year-old, 34-year veteran of the House is one of the most powerful men in Congress and the dean of Florida's congressional delegation.

No Republicans are listed in the second district race, in which incumbent Rep. Don Faqua, 46, of Altha faces primary challenge from fellow Democrat Russell Bevis and Jack Fugua, both from Tallahassee.

Fugua's opponents have charged that he has been a nothing congressman during his 12 years in office. Armstrong has promised that if elected, he would serve only 12 years and would propose a constitutional amendment calling for such a limitation.

Bevis, a former Tallahassee mayor and now the director of an insurance company, criticizes Faqua's votes on spending bills.

Faqua responds that he had helped the three state universities in his district — the Florida State and Florida A&M — secure government grants. He says he voted for a congressional pay raise recently because it included raises for top people in other areas of government.

The situation is much the same in the fourth district — no Republican candidates. Rep. William Chappell Jr., 54, of Ocala has represented the northeast section of the state since 1968.

This time, the popular Chappell faces aggressive challenges by Tommy Boney, 39, of Keystone Heights and Jake Tomney, 56, of Chandler.

Boney, who has a history of local clinic investigations, has called for full employment, reduced government and a simpler tax structure. Earlier this year, he revived conflict-of-interest charges against Chappell. Chappell said he already has been cleared of the allegations.

Tomney, a multimillionaire who moved from West Virginia 14 years ago, says he is running for office "because I believe I can help people. The common man doesn't have a spokesman in Washington any more."

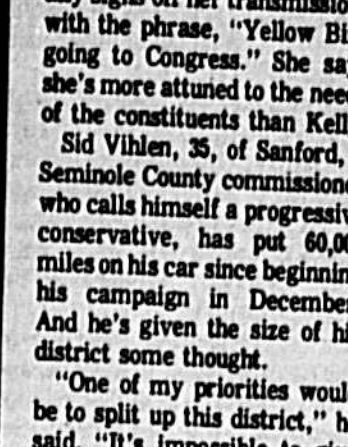

In the fifth district, five Democrats are trying to win the right to take on Republican freshman incumbent Rep. Richard Kelly in November.

Kelly, who defeated Joe Ann Saunders by 11,000 votes out of 142,000 cast last time in the large Central Florida district.

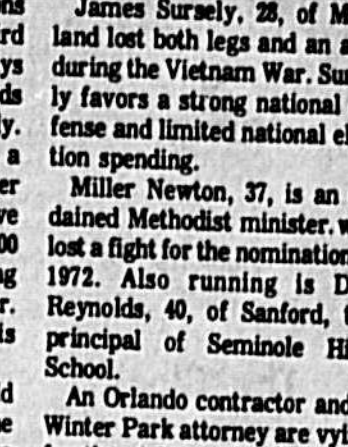

Mrs. Saunders, a 62-year-old businesswoman, has been cam-

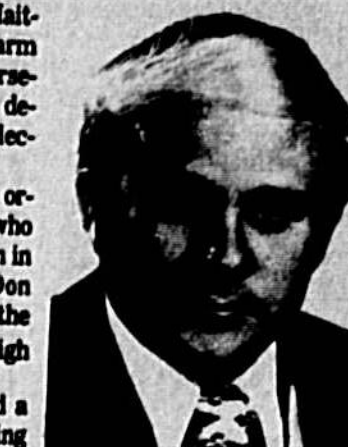

DON REYNOLDS campaigning five days a week for the past 18 months. She travels in a van equipped with a Citizens Band radio and occasionally signs off her transmissions with the phrase, "Yellow Bird going to Congress."

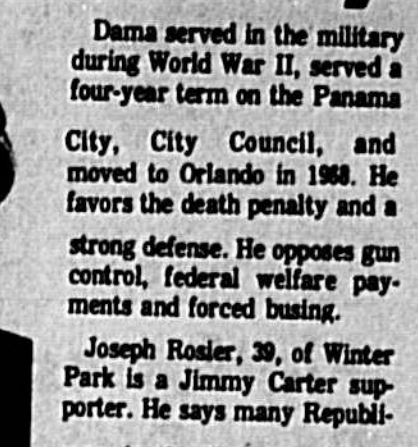

SID VIHLEN JR. An Orlando contractor and a Winter Park attorney are vying for the right to face four-time Rep. Louis Frey, a Republican, in the ninth.

James Suruly, 28, of Maitland lost both legs and an arm during the Vietnam War. Suruly favors a strong national defense and limited national election spending.

Miller Newton, 37, is an ordained Methodist minister who lost a fight for the nomination in 1974. Also running is Dan Reynolds, 40, of Sanford, the principal of Seminole High School.

Joseph Rosier, 38, of Winter Park is a Jimmy Carter supporter. He says many Republicans in the district will vote Democratic in November because they are disillusioned with what he said was Frey's inability to improve economic conditions.

Platforms Show Real Differences

It is easy to put down the platforms of the Republicans and Democrats as meaningless documents of no importance.

The platforms tell a great deal about the nature of the two national parties. There is a basic difference, even though party candidates always seek to appeal for votes across party lines.

It is revealing to compare the platform adopted in Kansas City with the one adopted in New York City.

On the economy, which is certain to be a key issue in the November campaign, the Republicans leave the generation of new jobs to the private sector. The Democrats promise government action to reduce unemployment.

The Republicans would fight inflation by ending deficit spending. They reject wage and price controls. The Democrats promise a strong domestic council on wage and price stability.

On taxes, the Republicans propose new tax incentives for business investment. The Democrats seek a complete overhaul of the tax system to eliminate loopholes.

On defense, the Republicans favor a period of sustained growth in our defense effort. The Democrats emphasize pursuit of arms control agreements and propose a reduction of $5 billion to $7 billion in defense spending.

On energy, the Republicans favor ending price controls on oil and newly discovered natural gas. The Democrats support restrictions on the right of major oil companies to own all phases of the petroleum industry.

On a number of controversial issues, the two party platforms take opposing stands.

National health insurance — the Republicans are against it, the Democrats for it. Gun control — the Republicans oppose federal registration of firearms, the Democrats support it.

Busing the Republicans support a constitutional amendment forbidding assignment to schools on the basis of race. The Democrats support mandatory busing to achieve racial integration in schools as a judicial tool of last resort.

Even this short summary displays the basic difference in the two platforms. The Democratic platform can fairly be described as liberal; the Republican, as conservative.

But don't expect the promises of either platform to be carried out promptly by the nominees of that party if elected in November. There are many practical reasons why that would be impossible, and perhaps undesirable.

Playing With Fire

The alert status ordered for all U.S. forces in South Korea is an appropriate response to the murder of two American officers by North Korean soldiers at Pusanmum.

It is potentially more dangerous. North Korea has pulled back from the talks which began in 1972 on proposals for peaceful reunification of the two Koreas.

Askew supporters have mounted a major campaign effort in behalf of Hatchett, the first black to serve on the Supreme Court in Florida's history, and the governor has strongly supported him.

A card file of 4,000 Askew campaign contributors was presented to Hatchett, former Askew aide Chester Ferguson is running his campaign, Askew aide Hugh Macklin has taken a leave of absence to help and other aides are assisting in their spare time.

DuVal has pictured himself as the victim of an Askew conspiracy and has repeatedly criticized the governor's role in the election.

"I'm glad the door's locked because it appears the governor might come in and stick a knife in my back," he told a Tallahassee audience.

DuVal is running against Justice Joseph Hatchett, who was appointed to the high court by Askew last year. Ervin, the son of former Justice Richard Ervin Jr., is running against Arthur Canaday, who resigned as Askew's general counsel to make the race.

John V. Russell of Fort Lauderdale is opposing Justice Alan Sundberg, another Askew appointee who is backed by the governor and his supporters. Russell, however, has been less vocal about the campaign role played by Askew, his aides and friends.

Around

The Clock

By NORM OSWALD

Nothing is ever all bad. Even during an election campaign in a newspaper office with hundreds of self-serving, less-than-objective news releases flooding in daily from candidates of all stripes, persuasions and opinions.

For just as you become terminally bored or tired of the predictable, there are uncheduled moments of relief.

One such moment occurred the other day when the Evening Herald had a visitor. His name was Dr. John Grady, candidate for the Republican nomination to the United States Senate seat now occupied by Democrat Lawton Chiles.

Dr. Grady is a very charming man. He is an articulate man. He is an intriguing man. He has glib views, albeit most of them gleaned right out of the handbook of the John Birch Society (yes, there still is a John Birch Society), of which he is a carrying member and official.

Dr. Grady has glib replies when he deigns to reply on selective subjects and issues.

He is ambivalent and less than precise, on racial matters and racial relations. Or when asked to spill out that "subversion that threatens to take us over."

But, on balance, the visit of Dr. Grady was not unpleasant.

Listening to his voice, reminiscent of those of the 50s when many of our fellows were sleeping with one eye open, in fear of their lives from those nasty communists lurking under every bed and around every corner, it reminded me.

It provided a moment for which we are always grateful: nostalgia. And it helped break up the predictability of this election year.

And, while we're talking of nostalgia... The House Committee on Standards of Official Conduct, more familiarly known as the Office of Ethics Committee, we learn, has decided to bite the proverbial bullet and look into the Wayne Hays sex-play-pay scandal.

The former state legislator in this particular case is one Elizabeth Ray. But is she the first in Mr. Hays' congressional life?

When she made her original allegations, my memory started churning, reverting to a day in 1972 when then-congressman Bertram Podolsky of Brooklyn and myself were seeking a quiet meeting place.

He suggested the conference room of Rep. Hoyt H. Administration Committee.

As we entered the room, my discerning eye was caught immediately by an attractive brunette sitting behind a desk. "Who's that?" I inquired anxiously. "Podol's," he responded, "that's the chairman's girl."

She was brunette — and was typing, so presumably she was a different lass. But could it be that Mrs. Hays has been active longer than it has been suggested...?

In Harvi DuVal the underdog in his race for the State Supreme Court from Group 3? He says no. "I don't think I really am," he says. "But they are trying to make me so."

Gov. Askew, it seems, has released some of his staff aides to help Justice Joe Hatchett retain the seat sought by DuVal.

DuVal calls the governor's intervention "absolutely improper and unethical. They are jumping all over me."

Might this not work in your favor? he was asked. "I am getting reports to that effect," he noted.

DuVal suggested that Hatchett, because of his association with Askew who appeared him, "will be tied to his own strings forever."

Today's Topic: "Crime and Punishment," is discussed by Edmund G. Brown, former governor of California and chairman of the National Commission to Reform the Federal Criminal Code, and Richard Velde, head of the U.S. Enforcement Administration.

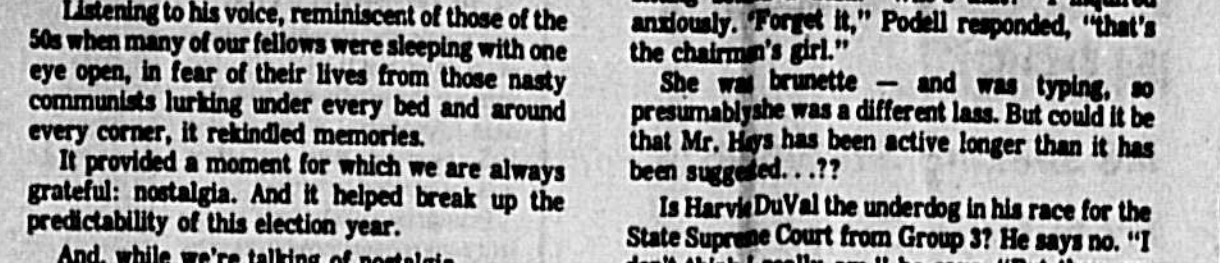

Their remarks are excerpted from the National Town Meeting which is held each Wednesday in Washington, D.C. at the Kennedy Center, where public figures debate and answer audience questions on national issues.

How well are we doing in the fight against crime? The whole subject of crime and what to do about it is a topic that has concerned the American public, criminal justice officials, and political officials for many, many years.

Despite the fact I don't believe in capital punishment I do believe that there are some individuals who must be permanently confined. There are some people that never attain a moral maturity as far as assaultive conduct is concerned.

And I don't think punishment does a great deal of good. I wish we could find some instead where we could put them, let them all live together and maybe assault one another.

PRO/CON The War Against Crime

Today's Topic: "Crime and Punishment," is discussed by Edmund G. Brown, former governor of California and chairman of the National Commission to Reform the Federal Criminal Code, and Richard Velde, head of the U.S. Enforcement Administration.

RICHARD VELDE

How well are we doing in the fight against crime? The whole subject of crime and what to do about it is a topic that has concerned the American public, criminal justice officials, and political officials for many, many years.

Despite the fact I don't believe in capital punishment I do believe that there are some individuals who must be permanently confined. There are some people that never attain a moral maturity as far as assaultive conduct is concerned.

And I don't think punishment does a great deal of good. I wish we could find some instead where we could put them, let them all live together and maybe assault one another.

The Law Enforcement Assistance Administration currently has an active portfolio of about 800 research projects. These are awarded and administered according to an annual plan. Our grants go to a variety of organizations — universities, profit and non-profit groups. We also support studies of scholars who are researching topics that are of interest to us.

A lot of these efforts lead nowhere. A lot of them have titles that make the funny papers. But we hope to learn by these studies, the failures as well as the successes. I can point to some rather significant successes. Our work in family crisis intervention is being widely implemented around the country and is going to have a very significant long term impact on aggravated assault and killing in the family setting.

LEAA has spent $1.1 billion dollars since it's been in existence and we have now completed a decade of federal assistance. But these funds, substantial as they are, represent less than 10 percent of what state and local governments have spent during that period for their criminal justice system. No one would suggest that we should eliminate all of these agencies. What we need to do is seek to improve them. No one expects that we will reach goals, that we will have crime free society, and we can certainly concur.

We should understand that there are a lot of factors bearing on the crime problem which are beyond the effective control of criminal justice. The criminal justice system does not create employment or one-parent homes.

What should be done about the chronic problem? In many states now, you have these extended term sentencing provisions. In some cases, there is an attempt to make sure that the criminal histories of these individuals are made available to the sentencing judge so that he can exercise discretion and hopefully (imposed) maximum terms available. Now that program falls a little short of permanent removal from society. I would not be prepared to go that far.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Sea Conference Deadlocked On Mining Of Ocean Floor

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger is meeting key negotiators at the Law of the Sea Conference in an 11th-hour attempt to break a deadlock over mining of the ocean floor.

Kissinger scheduled a series of meetings today and Thursday with delegates from about two dozen countries who have taken a leading role in the United Nations conference that started in 1973 and now is near an impasse.

The secretary arrived in New York Tuesday night. His first appointment today was with Hamilton S. Amerasinghe of Sri Lanka, presiding officer at the 150-nation conference.

Syrian Troop Buildup Told

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The embattled alliance of Moslem leftists and Palestinian guerrillas talked today of threats from the north and south, charging new Syrian reinforcements and a possibility of Israeli intervention in Lebanon's civil war.

Leftist newspapers claimed that 7,000 more Syrian troops had crossed into northern Lebanon Tuesday to tighten the ring around the isolated Moslem port city of Tripoli and two nearby Palestinian refugee camps. There was no confirmation of the reports, however.

Moslem spokesmen said they also feared that the Israeli army would try to take control of Palestinian guerrilla bases in southern Lebanon following a clash between guerrillas and Christian militiamen in the village of Ein Bil, three miles north of the Israeli border.

HAK To Urge Reforms

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger will try to promote elections in Namibia and a political role there for a black militant group when he meets this weekend in Zurich, Switzerland, with Prime Minister John Vorster of South Africa.

U.S. officials say he will also urge Vorster to withdraw South African troops from the territory and to take steps respecting the human rights of Namibia's 800,000 black inhabitants.

"These officials' give the impression that if Kissinger has any success in Zurich it will be with regard to Namibia, the former German territory administered by South Africa in defiance of the United Nations.

Ford, Carter Aides Negotiate Debate

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford and Jimmy Carter are sending their rival negotiators back to the draft ground rules for the presidential campaign debates both candidates seek.

The major issue to be settled by negotiators returns to work today apparently is the question of what the candidates will debate.

Republican Ford and Democrat Carter both have hailed that their personal campaign specialties be staked out as topics for the first debate, likely to be conducted during the third week of September.

Those proposals, like the issues of the number, duration and timing of the debates, may yield to compromise in order to get the show on before the national television audience.

Ford spoke to the conference of the National Guard Association today, praising increases in the defense budget. He didn't mention Carter, but the Democratic nominee has said that "improved management techniques" could cut $5 billion to $8 billion from Ford's record $100 billion.

Ford also told the military audience he opposes efforts to cut U.S. troop strength abroad.

Each candidate has three representatives in the debate talks, being conducted by officials of the League of Women Voters, the group that has offered to sponsor the joint affair.

Ford summoned his two chief negotiators on debate arrangements to a Tuesday night White House meeting to give them final instructions.

He met with Dean Burch, a Washington lawyer and former White House aide, and former Deputy Atty. Gen. William Rockefeller, on the debate situation, but his spokesman would not discuss their plans.

Carter also gave his negotiators the initial negotiating session last Thursday produced a tentative plan for a series of debates, beginning the third week in this month.

In another development in the BI program, the Air Force reported Tuesday that part of a B1 bomber body section cracked while being subjected to greater than normal stresses in a test pressure chamber.

A spokesman for Rockwell International's B1 division said the crack would not have occurred during normal flight. The part was not in one of the three prototype bombers being test flown, the Air Force said.

Critics of the B1 say the plane is too costly and they question its effectiveness in the missile age. Supporters of the plane say it is necessary to replace the aging fleet of B52 bombers.

Fate Of B1 Bomber Lies In Next President's Hands

WASHINGTON (AP) — The congressional compromise on the B1 bomber leaves the plane's ultimate fate in the hands of the man occupying the White House next Feb. 1.

Supporters of the plane hailed the decision Tuesday by Senate and House conferees to allow work to proceed on the bomber. Opponents also were happy, and they pointed to the spending limit of $87 million a month until it is reauthorized.

Rep. Robert L.F. Sikes, D-Fla., a member of the conference committee between Senate and House versions, called the decision "a modified go ahead."

The $87-million monthly limit is one-fifth of the $1,600 million for production of the first three operational aircraft. Jimmy Carter, the Democratic presidential nominee, has indicated his doubts about proceeding with B1 production, and the House has authorized a platform urges delay in funding.

Both the Senate and Senate previously approved the production funding as part of a $105-billion military appropriation for the 12 months beginning Oct. 1.

The Senate added a restriction prohibiting spending of any of the production money until Feb. 1 to give the newly inaugurated president a chance to review completed prototype test data and decide whether to proceed.

The Ford administration reportedly was prepared to sign a production contract in November, committing some $500 million for production of the first three operational aircraft.

White House Schemed To Block No-Fault

WASHINGTON — The White House and the trial lawyers joined forces behind the scenes, it can now be reported to block no-fault insurance.

The official record shows only that the Senate, by a 49-to-46 vote, recommended S-354. But the story behind this routine development dramatizes how the people get their pockets picked by their own elected officials.

Senate bill S-354 would provide quick compensation for auto victims and would lower insurance premiums. For under no-fault, each insurance company would simply pay off its own policyholders without going to court.

This would cost the trial lawyers an estimated $1 billion in legal fees. The lawyers' loss would be the customer's gain, since the cost of litigation is passed on to the policyholders in the form of higher premiums.

But the trial lawyers had no intention of losing all that money. They hired the lobbying firm of Timmons and Company, which has more connections in Capitol Hill than the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company. Its stars are two former White House lobbyists, William Timmons and Tom Kenzies, who used to pull wires on Capitol Hill for ex-President Richard Nixon.

When Nixon departed the White House in disgrace, Timmons and Kenzies hastily shifted allegiance to the new occupants. Timmons ungrudgingly himself with President Ford that he became the President's convention manager in Kansas City. Kenzies also enlisted in the Ford cause at the Kennedy Center.

The pair earn their living, however, lobbying for the special interests. Indeed, Timmons is known in the backrooms of Washington as "The Ratemaker," because he has been able to produce a downpour of benefits for his clients.

It looked bleak for the trial lawyers before they hired Timmons and Company. By private effort, 56 senators were expected to support no-fault insurance. The bill, therefore, appeared to be headed for certain passage.

It also had the support of Transportation Secretary Willie Coleman, whose experts had concluded that the legislation was "great for consumers." But something funny happened to S-354 on the way to the Senate floor.

President Ford ignored the advice of his transportation secretary and dispatched White House lobbyist Joe Jencks to Capitol Hill to work against the bill. Jencks and Kenzies quietly huddled together, comparing notes.

Jencks draws his salary from the taxpayers, and Kenzies was paid by the trial lawyers. Yet they worked together in perfect harmony to benefit the trial lawyers at the expense of the taxpayers, at least, who pay automobile insurance premiums.

Jencks acknowledged that he had lobbied against no-fault insurance and that he had conferred with Kenzies. But Jencks insisted that the White House and trial lawyers had coordinated their efforts. Jencks, Kenzies and Timmons, nevertheless, pulled the switches that sidetracked S-354.

The best way for the special interests to show their appreciation for member of Congress, or to contribute to their campaigns. With this in mind, the trial lawyers collected $352,200 in pledges to pass out to their friend on Capitol Hill. Another $445,500 in pledges was available. If more money was needed to win friends and influence congressmen.

Sen. J. Glenn Beall, R-Md., for example, supported no-fault insurance the last time it came up in the Senate in 1974. He voted for it again this year inside the Senate Commerce Committee.

Then he had a talk with Kenzies. Suddenly, Beall's support for no-fault insurance disappeared. Beall still favors the "no-fault concept" but thinks the legislation should be "left to the voters."

Former Louisiana highway director Lewis Johnson, convicted of filing false tax information, demanded to know whether the government had sniped on at his lawyers. To his astonishment, the Justice Department admitted it had. Johnson is hoping this prevented his case from going to an appellate review. He drew a year and a day sentence.

'76: The Candidates And The Campaign

Two Archconservatives And A Moderate Lawyer Fight For GOP Senate Nomination

By The Associated Press
Considered in the Sept. 7 race for the Republican U.S. Senate nomination, the highest office on the ballot, include two arch-conservatives and a lawyer who describes herself as a moderate.

—Dr. John Grady, 65, a general practitioner from Belle Glade. He is a John Birch Society national council member who polled 282,859 votes, 15.7 per cent of the total, as an American Party candidate in the 1974 Senate election.

—State Sen. Walter Sims, 52, of Orlando. He is a realtor and an Alabama sharecropper's son who has served six years in the legislature.

—Helen Hansel, 54, a St. Petersburg attorney. She is a former Glen Head, N.Y., school board and St. Petersburg civil service board member who is offering herself to GOP voters as a middle-of-the-road alternative to her conservative rivals.

The winner of the Republican primary, which may not be decided until the Sept. 28 runoff, will face one of the toughest challenges in this year's election — unseating Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla.

—"Walkin' Lawton," who was elected in 1970 after he loked the length of Florida, has cut it well over $250,000, even though he has limited his reelection campaign contribution to $10 each.

Grady and Sims figure to spend about $80,000 each in the primary. Mrs. Hansel, who seeded her campaign with $8,000 of her own money, has had few other contributors.

Sims, meanwhile, has poured $25,000 of his own money into his campaign. There is little to differentiate Sims and Grady on the issues. Each attacks Congress as wasteful and irresponsible, and each would assure that America maintains the mightiest military machine on earth.

"I want to see America No. 1," Grady said. "I want to see America so strong that we will never have to go to war."

Sims and Grady oppose busing, they advocate stronger anti-crime measures and advocate private rather than public efforts to put jobless Americans back to work.

"I proposed that we get the government off our back and out of our pocketbooks so that business can grow and expand and create jobs," Grady said.

Mrs. Hansel, whose campaign has been less visible than those of her rivals, stresses her philosophical differences with them.

"I decided to run because I felt the Republican voters generally did not have a choice that I felt was viable," she said.

In such a race, personalities may well overshadow issues if Grady would appear to have the edge.

He is good-looking and glib. Neither Sims nor Mrs. Hansel, whose manner is intense and earnest, would seem to have Grady's flair.

Sims contends that "I can speak just as well as he can," but Sims' campaign suggests concern about Grady's abilities.

Sims' 3-a attack on Grady's record, seeking to put his rival on the defensive. He has hit Grady as a turncoat party-jumper and demanded without success that Grady reveal the sources of $20,000 in 1974 campaign loans.

"It's simply a smear campaign designed to assassinate my character," Grady said.

BETTY FORD WITH THE PRESIDENT

She Thinks White House Is A Lonely Place

Betty Won't Be Heartbroken If Jerry Loses

By FRANCES LEWINE
Associated Press Writer
Betty Ford says the White House can be a lonely place, that she's dying to be a grandmother and that she "won't be heartbroken" if President Ford loses the election.

—Mrs. Ford says she's sure her husband will win in what she says will be "a very tough campaign" against Democrat Jimmy Carter and that the President's pardon of Richard M. Nixon will be an issue.

"It is a lonely way," Carter and his running mate Walter Mondale "keep bringing up the fact that they're not going to mention the Nixon pardon. I think it's bringing up the pardon," Mrs. Ford observed.

Mrs. Ford says her husband will win because he's "best equipped" for the job of president and has "spent two years proving himself."

In those two years in the White House, Mrs. Ford has proved more popular than her husband in the polls and she thinks her greatest appeal to voters is "being myself."

Starting with a trip to Chicago and Washington, Ill., this weekend, Mrs. Ford will be campaigning "as much as possible" for her husband. She said she won't discuss political issues or debate Mrs. Carter. Admitting that she is "very surprised" at her own popularity, Mrs. Ford said, "I think our family comes across as a very natural, pure, middle-American family with no pretenses."

She indicated she may be having second thoughts about continuing her outspoken comments, even though Ford has "never stepped on my toes" for being frank.

It was just a year ago that Mrs. Ford created a stir by telling a television interviewer she wouldn't be surprised if daughter Susan told her she was having an affair.

Nineteen-year-old Susan, listening in on her mother's interview this weekend at the Ford's "Vail vacation chalet, gave the latest report on that "hope," she isn't having an affair, she said.

Reminded that she has always answered tough questions, Mrs. Ford smiled and replied, "Probably too often."

Although she has been suffering recently from neck and shoulder pains caused by a flareup of chronic osteoarthritis, Mrs. Ford says it only "bothers me occasionally" and responds to hot packs and massage.

She doesn't expect it to hinder her campaign efforts and "there are no problems whatsoever" from the breast cancer that caused her to undergo a mastectomy in September 1974. She says she will be through with chemotherapy in October.

Can You Help?

Seminole residents are being asked to help the Florida State Fair build a "living and working" exhibit of rural and agricultural artifacts of old Florida.

The artifacts will be displayed at Old McDonald's Farm on the fairgrounds, while the fair is open, and will also serve as a learning and teaching center for school children throughout the year.

Donated artifacts will be tagged, cataloged and credited by donor.

The Florida State Fair Authority, which is conducting the historical search with the help of historical societies across the state, is especially interested in: tractors, hayracks, carriages, wagons, boiling pots, citrus hauling carts, buckets, sickles, well pulleys, pumps, pitchforks, rakes, plows, "cupsetter" tools, wash tubs and a windmill. Cash donations will also be welcomed, and will be used to build a house for a sugar cane operation.

For more information, contact Beverly Mason of the Seminole County Historical Commission at 323-8182.

Here's How To Make Your Views Known

Uncle Sam Needs Consumer Opinions

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
Uncle Sam wants your advice.

The government is looking for consumers' opinions on everything from chicken hot dogs to air conditioners.

Here are some of the proposals made by various federal agencies and information on how to make your views known:

POULTRY SAUSAGE
The Agriculture Department, at the request of the poultry industry, is trying to work out standards for cooked sausage — hot dogs, Bologna and knockwurst — made out of chicken, turkey or other poultry.

The USDA's proposal would set a maximum amount of fat in the finished product — 25 per cent — and require manufacturers who use giblets to include this information on the label. A listing of the binders used, vegetable starch, also would be required on the label.

Oct. 3 is the deadline for comments. Write to: Hearing Clerk, Agriculture Department, Washington.

AIR CONDITIONERS
The Federal Energy Administration has proposed a set of test procedures to measure the energy efficiency of energy consumption of room air conditioners. These test procedures, worked out with the National Bureau of Standards, will be used by still another agency, the Federal Trade Commission, in determining product labeling rules.

The proposed procedures measure cooling capacity in British thermal units (BTUs) per hour under certain conditions. The proposal also sets various formulas for figuring out estimated annual operating costs and energy consumption.

Sept. 18 is the deadline for comments. Write to: Executive Communications, Room 3208, Federal Energy Administration, Box 13, Washington, D.C. 20461. Put "Room Air Conditioners — Proposed Test Procedures" on the label.

RECALLS
The Food and Drug Administration is describing — for the first time — the responsibilities of industry in dealing with products recalled under FDA jurisdiction.

The list includes foods, prescription and over-the-counter drugs for humans and animals, cosmetics and medical devices.

Some of the practices spelled out in the regulations already are followed on an informal basis. Here are highlights of the formal guidelines:

—Manufacturers and distributors are expected to assume responsibility and expense for removing defective or harmful products from the market. The industry also is responsible for follow-up checks on the effectiveness of the recall.

—Companies should develop contingency plans for product recalls so they can put them into effect rapidly. They must notify the FDA as soon as they remove a product.

—Companies should keep records for use in tracing the distribution of a product and should make copies that identify specific batches of recalled products.

The original deadline for comment was Aug. 30, but it has been extended to Sept. 29 at the request of the Food and Drug Administration. Write to: Hearing Clerk, Food and Drug Administration, 5000 Pines Lane, Rockville, Md., 20852.

Naked Chickens:

Their Sex Lives Aren't Much To Crow About

—And They Aren't Good For Much Else, Either

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Naked chickens get embarrassed. They aren't much to crow about. They get up and burn, and they catch cold when temperatures drop.

Dr. William Johnson is an expert on naked chickens. He's been studying them for about four years — ever since his research associate, Dr. Robert Truxus, found one in a newly hatched brood in the poultry science department at Louisiana State University.

About three weeks later, they found another one — barely a feather on it — and decided: "We have to find out what's causing this."

Johnson said he hasn't found out yet, but he has learned a lot about naked chickens. He's learned that they apparently have no commercial value at all.

They have to be kept indoors to protect them from sunburn, and a thermostat turns on a heater when temperatures get below 75 degrees to keep them from catching cold.

"Because they have no feathers, they lose body heat and have to use much of their feed to keep warm, rather than for growing," Johnson said.

"They weren't bred to eliminate plucking," because they have a few deformed, tiny feathers that must be hand plucked.

"We showed them to a couple of commercial people, and they just laughed, the same as I do," he said.

Aside from the physical problems, the chickens have social problems and psychological hangups, Johnson said.

"I guess 'embarrassed' is as good a word for it as any. You put one of them in with a flock of normal birds, and it huddles off in a corner by itself. The other birds won't have anything to do with it until they get used to it," he said.

"And then they're just not as active sexually. They will court and mate more than the normal bird, but they don't mate as readily."

"Where a normal bird will start, he'll interrupt it and mate at the first sign that the female is even halfway interested. A naked bird will just keep on strutting."

Johnson said he hopes to hatch about 100 of the nude birds in about six weeks so LSU can continue trying to find out what genetic and chemical traits are associated with being born featherless.

"I guess that's what you call research for the sake of research," he said.

Ryan Gets 2,000th Strike Out

By The Associated Press
Nolan Ryan is not a man to worry about strikeout statistics. The California Angels' hardthrowing right-hander passed a milestone Tuesday night, and it almost slipped right past him.
Detroit leadoff man Ron LeFlore had just struck out swinging to open the game, and Ryan was getting set to pitch to the Tigers' No. 2 man, Dan Meyer. Suddenly, some folks in the crowd of 8,642 at Anaheim Stadium began to applaud. The cheers continued to build, finally turning into a standing ovation.
"I didn't know what it was," said Ryan. "Then I turned around and saw it on message board."
The board told the fans — and the pitcher — that LeFlore was the 2,000th strikeout of Ryan's career. He is only the 29th major league pitcher ever to reach that plateau.
Ryan went on to strike out 11 Tigers as he pitched the Angels to a 6-3 victory, scattering eight hits.
Elsewhere in the American League, the Baltimore Orioles beat the Kansas City Royals 4-3, the New York Yankees edged the Oakland A's 3-1, the Texas Rangers beat the Boston Red Sox 6-3, the Cleveland Indians topped the Chicago White Sox 4-2 in 10 innings and the Minnesota Twins and Milwaukee Brewers split a doubleheader, the Twins winning the opener 4-0 and the Brewers taking the nightcap 6-3.
Ryan's teammates supported him with 12 hits. Dave Collins contributed a double and two singles, Tony Solaita homered and singled and Jerry Humphrey and Rusty Torres each

LET THE GAMES BEGIN

Getting ready to put the ball in the air for the upcoming football season, John Litton of Seminole High. Litton will be Seminole's starting quarterback Thursday night in Winter Garden, where Seminole, coached by Groveland and host West Orange stage a jamboree. Also Thursday, Lyman plays in the Metro Conference Jamboree at Orlando Oak Ridge, and on Friday night Lake Brantley hosts a four-way jamboree. The annual county jamboree is Saturday afternoon at Trinity Prep.

Salter, Dolphins In Agreement

MIAMI (AP) — Bryant Salter has ended a week-long holdout by reporting to the Miami Dolphins, completing the deal that sent Jake Scott and a 1977 second-round draft pick to Washington for his services.
"I've always liked him as an athlete," Coach Don Shula said before the 4-foot-8 safety arrived Tuesday. "I've gotten quite a few good reports on him."
"If he comes in here, though, he'll still have to beat out people like Harry Hill, Charlie Babb and Tim Foley," said Shula, who has been finding Salter $200 a day since last Friday for not reporting.
But Hill, Scott's lineup replacement, currently has an injured left knee.
Salter has not signed a 1978 contract and had said he would not report until the Dolphins gave him a contract offer. Shula said he was club policy not to negotiate with holdouts.
Salter's attorney, Andrew Levy, said a compromise was reached Monday night when Shula agreed to submit a goal, so faith offer to Salter within hours of his reporting to camp. "Shula assured me that he camp as soon as possible," says Bryant for more than one Levy said.
year and that he wants him in camp as soon as possible, Levy said.

Artificial Courts Change Open

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Horses for course applies to tennis players as well as thoroughbred racers. Some competitors in the $16,000 U.S. Open Tennis Championships will be helped — and others will be hurt — by the slow, clay-like artificial surface at the West Side Tennis Club courts.
First-round men's singles action was scheduled for this afternoon and this evening in this richest of all tennis events, while women's play begins Thursday. Both men and women are aiming for $30,000 first prizes.
The baseliners, the smooth artists who can return anything hit their way, should benefit the most from the Har-Tru surface, which allows them to reach more shots than they would on a faster grass court. The hard servers who rely on a power game, however, will be at a disadvantage.
Among the men, Bjorn Borg of Sweden, defending champion Manuel Orantes of Spain, Adriano Panatta of Italy and the American "Bugsy" Tennis, Harold Solomon and Eddie Dibbs, all play particularly well on clay, so their stock must rise in this event.

Perez Has Too Much Finesse For Madison

ORLANDO — Following preflight plans to the Perez, Sanford's Victor "Taco" Perez showed Indiana's George Madison up for a dynamic puncher who hasn't learned how to do anything except explode his right hand.
The Indiana KO artist apparently expected Perez to charge out across the ring at him, the same as he did when they last met, June 8. On that night Perez walked into a right hand that left him almost helpless and led to a first round TKO.
But this time, Perez moved around Madison for most of the fight, clearly out of punching range. Madison didn't seem to know how to handle this change of strategy and for most of the first three rounds chased the fleeing "Taco" with ineffective punches.
By round four Perez was beginning to go on the offensive himself, but not as the wild charging Perez of old. Instead he waited for Madison to lead and then countered with his own punches before locking up in a clinch.
Finally in the fifth Perez began to reach the quickly tiring Madison with head and body shots, while Madison was content in grabbing and holding on inside.
Time after time McBride warned Madison to break. And time after time Madison refused, forcing McBride to leap in and push Madison off the thrashing Perez.
Finally McBride could take no more and stopped the fight with Madison holding onto the ropes with both hands, as Perez tried his best to fight it out.
A brief scuffle, between the boxers, broke out after the fight but was ended almost as quickly as it started.
The amateurs were sensational but once the pros got in the ring, it quickly went downhill.
The highlight of the night was a slight scuffle between Sammy Masias and Ray "Razor" Rosenberg. This three-round amateur bout ended in a draw. Fans were treated to one of the most exciting fights ever seen between amateurs.

Eastwick Big Relief For Cincy

By The Associated Press
Rawley Eastwick was red-hot. After all, he had a day off. "I was ready for work," the Cincinnati Reds' relief ace said Tuesday. "I had last night off, I was getting itchy sitting around."
Eastwick hurled the final two innings, stopping St. Louis on one hit as the Reds defeated the Cardinals 6-5.
"I didn't want to use him," Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson said, "but I didn't want to lose."
The Reds rallied for five runs in the seventh inning to post their come-from-behind victory and snap a three-game losing streak against St. Louis. Cards starter Pete Falcone, 11-12, was sailing along with a no-hitter until Pete Rose slapped a two-out single in the sixth. Ken Griffey walked and Joe Morgan singled to drive in Rose and narrow St. Louis' lead to 3-1.
Braves 5, Cubs 2
Right-hander Frank LaCorte hurled his second victory of the season as Atlanta topped the Chicago Cubs. "LaCorte had the best changeup he has had all year," said Braves Manager Dave Bristol. "It's possible he could have finished the game."
Jerry Royster scored the Braves' first run when he led off the game with a single, advanced to third on Red Gidycz's hit and scored on a sacrifice fly by Rowland Office. Atlanta added three more runs in the sixth on Ken Henderson's two-run double and Jim Wynn's sacrifice fly to ensure the victory.
Pirates 3, Padres 9
Dave Parker drove in all three Pittsburgh runs with a homer and sacrifice fly and Jerry Remy blanked San Diego, out-dueling Randy Jones. Parker's sacrifice fly drove in the only run off Jones, who was going after his 21st victory, high in the majors.
Astros 2, Phillies 2
J.R. Richard's six-hitter was backed up by Bob Watson pair of RBI singles as Houston topped Philadelphia. It was the Astros' sixth straight victory and the fifth straight loss for Philadelphia, which leads the NL East Division by 10 1/2 games.
Dodgers 5, Expos 1
Seven-hit pitching by starter Doug Ruan and reliever Steve Howe led Los Angeles past Montreal. Ruan increased his record to 19-10, going seven innings and giving up six Montreal hits, including a pinch hit home run by Andre Thornton, his 11th of the year.
The Dodgers jumped off to a quick lead in the first on a two-run double by Bill Russell. In the eighth, a pinch hit single by Reggie Smith scored Lee Lacy from second, and Los Angeles added two more runs in the ninth.
Mets 4, Giants 2
Light-hitting Roy Stager singled and scored the tying run in the seventh inning, then singled home the winning run in the eighth as the New York Mets defeated San Francisco.
Reliever Skip Lockwood gained the victory to level his record at 7-7. For Ed Halicki, 11-4, it was his first loss in five lifetime decisions against the Mets.

SPORTS

Evening Herald, Sanford, FL Wednesday, Sept. 1, 1976-18

He constantly rocked Masias with head and body shots until no one could understand what was keeping Sammy on his feet. But each time Masias would roar back with jolting shots of his own while the crowd stood on its feet and roared approval.
The draw was the first time Rosenberg was ever forced to go the limit, as he entered the bout with a mark of 12 wins by KO in 12 fights.
A lack of knowing how to pace himself might have cost him the verdict, as Masias had a big third round when Rosenberg obviously tired.
In other amateur action, Orlando's Perry Brown starched Homestead's James Casey with a thunderous right hand in the first round and Lakeland's Robbie Mayes outstaged Eustis' David Dungey. Pro Gary Thomas got caught with a punch as soon as he left his corner and collapsed for the 10 count. The scheduled six rounds lasted only 15 seconds and ended with Milton Owens scoring the third straight win of his undefeated career.
This brief encounter was followed by a mismatch as Bill Jackson was totally inept and was finally put out of his misery by Al Migliorato after 1:08 of the first round.
The semifinal between Eddie Davis and Johnny Herd lasted longer than the rest of the pro card combined, as the middleweight mauler and tugged at one another for eight rounds.
Herd remained undefeated with an easy decision but the fight did not set well with the crowd, which booed at action for most of the dull contest.

NFLPA Rejects Owners' Offer

CHICAGO (AP) — National Football League player representatives have rejected the contract offer by team owners that sparked a fierce internal battle between their off-contract executive director and their union president.
The action Tuesday, after 11 hours of secret meetings, continues the rift between owners and players which in the last 2 1/2 years has triggered one pre-season walk-out, one wildcat strike and harsh feelings on both sides.
"I honestly don't know where we go from here," said a disconsolate Dick Anderson, the injured safety for the Miami Dolphins who as president of the NFL Players Association had worked out the proposal with owners last week.
"Sometimes you win, sometimes you lose, sometimes you get mugged out. The game will go on," Anderson said.
He and three other members of the seven-man NFLPA Executive Committee supported acceptance of the offer. They were opposed by Ed Garvey, executive director of the players' union who some members would like to see ousted.
"It was a plan I felt was good and tried to sell," said Anderson. "Yeah, I'm disappointed, I feel at this point it's the best offer we're going to get."
Garvey has withheld public comment regarding his personal feeling on the offer, but a source close to him said he feared acceptance would negate players' rights already won in the courts.
Nevertheless, at a brief news conference following the marathon session, Garvey said no single point of the 70-page offer was the decisive factor in rejection. Rather, he said, it was the package as a whole.
By a majority vote, the Executive Committee summoned each of the 28 NFL teams' representatives to grapple with the proposal and decide whether to submit it to a vote of all of the NFLPA players.
But the question never got that far.
After procedural haggling and a point-by-point debate, the representatives instead approved a motion "to table discussion" of the offer "pending further negotiations and clarifications."
In effect, Garvey said later, the vote meant rejection.
A spokesman for the NFL Management Council, bargaining arm of the NFL owners, said his group reserved comment on the development until further information could be obtained as to what transpired at the meeting.
Details of the offer were not made public. The Associated Press learned, however, that among the 30 provisions the owners proposed:
— A 45-man squad limit with a four-man tax squad, each member of which would be paid $500 a week.
— A raise in salaries for pre-season and post-season play as well as minimum salary limits.
— An important article concerning the controversial re-appointing of "unreasonable restraint" on player movement, the source said.
Garvey said there was no talk of a possible strike at the meeting.
The Players Association has been without a basic agreement since January 1974. A pre-season strike later that year collapsed. The dispute also sparked a wildcat strike last year by the New England Patriots.

Moreland, Richburg Card 29

Speed Moreland and Vic Richburg combined for a best ball score of 29 in the nine-hole dog fight tournament Tuesday at Mayfair Country Club.
Secured the weekly tourney were Bill Summerville and Larry Lapanne with a 32. Wade Batts and George Billups finished third after a match of cards.

Kilmer NFL's Most Courageous

WASHINGTON (AP) — It just wouldn't be another National Football League season if Bill Kilmer were healthy.
The Washington Redskins despite recurring attacks of gastritis that required post-season surgery to correct. It is only fitting then that Kilmer, who has a possible broken rib, will receive the George Halas Award today as the National Football League's most courageous player.
"I haven't had the rib x-rayed and I'm not going to," said Kilmer, who will be 37 on Sunday, before receiving the award at the Redskins annual Welcome Home Luncheon sponsored by the Touchdown Club. "Hell, what good is that?"
"If I find out it's cracked, I've still got to play with it. It's probably not cracked anyway. It's not bothering my passing motion. The only time it bothers me is when I breathe real hard."

Here's What's On Tap For Fall Television

By JAY SHARBUTT AP Television Writer: LOS ANGELES (AP) - If you're wondering what's afoot on TV next fall, expect your breath and don't the 1978-79 program schedules you read about in spring to be the same come this September.

So far, ABC has postponed one new series, "Feather and Fables," and the retailing series, four of them new, to new time slots at night.

ABC has fought back by postponing the September start of two new series, "Snip" and "Gibberville," and making seven schedule changes, including "The Practice," "The Love of Life," and "The Love of Life."

Friday, NBC has its toughest "Sanford and Son" and "Chico and the Man," plus "The Rockford Files" and "Serpent" going against ABC's best-selling series, and then Dick Van Dyke's variety show, originally scheduled and double-written for the "family hour" trade.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY. To retain the ace of clubs as an entry to his own hand, South went after diamonds. He cashed dummy's ace and his king, led a third diamond and ruffed with dummy's eight of hearts. When both opponents followed everything was wine and roses. He cashed dummy's king of trumps, came to his hand with the ace of clubs, played his ace and queen of trumps, conceded a trump trick to West who had been unkind enough to hold four trumps and claimed the balance. Suppose diamonds had broken badly. South would not have made his contract, but as stated earlier it was not a really good slam.

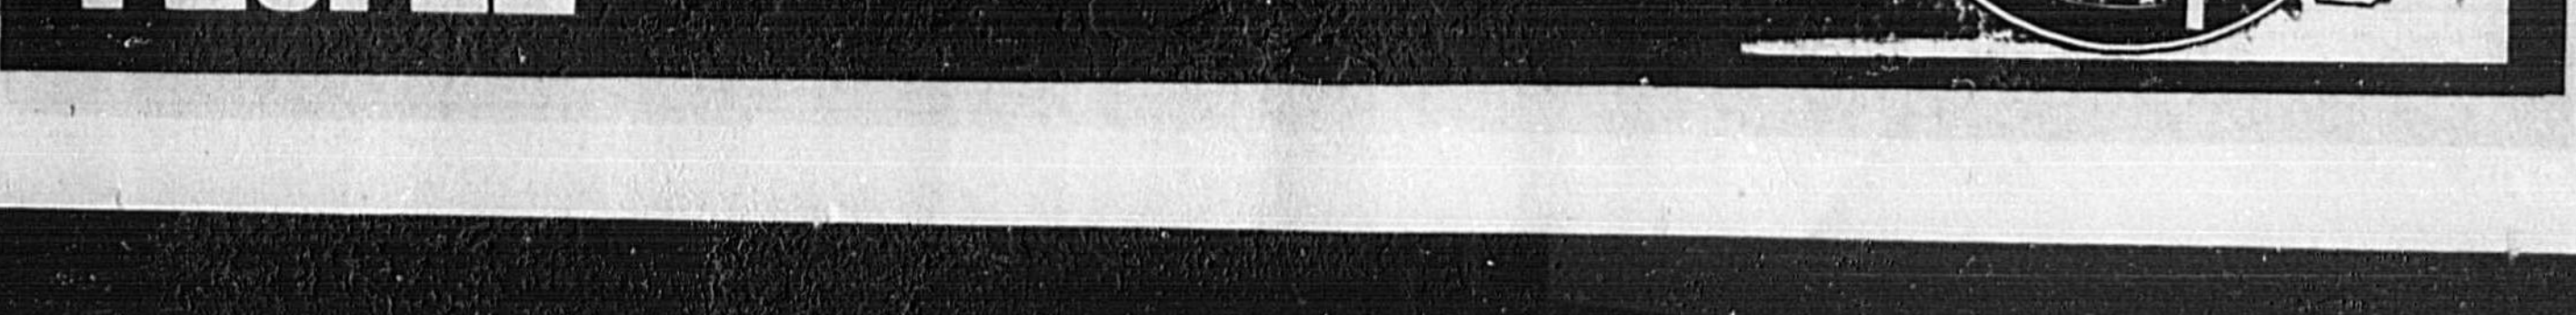

By Oswald and James Jacoby. It isn't hard to get a slam with today's hand. South has a sound opening bid and North is looking at 17 good high-card points. North wanted to bid six notrump. He had a notrump-type hand and everyone wants to be declarer, but finally North settled for six hearts. It was a wise decision indeed. South has six trumps to declare, but finally North settled for six hearts. It was a wise decision indeed. South has six trumps to declare, but finally North settled for six hearts. It was a wise decision indeed.

Too Much Parental Criticism Can Hurt Children

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—Parents who constantly criticize the things their children do wrong while ignoring the things they do right, can cause problems in social adjustment, warns a Purdue University professor.

Prof. Donald Felber, head of the Department of Child Development and Family Studies within Purdue's School of Home Economics, believes that such behavior can adversely affect a child's self-image. "Kids start thinking negative things about themselves if this is all they get from parents," he warns.

Studies have shown that a poor self-concept can lead to academic trouble, social maladjustment and a generally unhappy child. In his book, "Building Positive Self-Concept," Felber offers a variety of ways in which parents can avoid that trap and teach their children to "like themselves."

"People often hesitate to express positive things about themselves — it's often mis-contrued as 'prideful,'" Felber says. His advice is for parents not to be afraid to praise themselves in front of their children and to encourage their children to do the same thing.

Another suggestion is to set realistic goals for children rather than try to force or coerce them into doing something beyond their means. As an example he uses the familiar parental warning, "I don't want you ever to do anything like that again." A more realistic solution, Felber says, would be to point to the particular "thing" that should not be repeated — to be more specific.

Another common error that can reinforce a negative self-image, the father of five says, is to compare children with their brothers and sisters. "Evaluate them individually," he advises, while noting that some of the harshest critics are siblings who often expect 8-year-olds to behave like 3-year-olds.

Felber lists several signs of poor self-concept in a child, the first of which is the kind of thing a child says about himself. Does he seem to like himself, or does he apply words like "dumb"? Is the child enthusiastic about new, different situations, or does he hesitate? Children with a poor self-image tend to be fearful of new situations and experiences.

Finally, how does the child evaluate himself? If he is hypercritical, Felber points out, this can lead to a negative self-image, causing the child to downgrade his accomplishments.

Children who lack positive self-concepts, Felber believes, often become pessimistic adults. "They become generally negative — toward themselves and others. They're fearful and anticipate the worst — interpreting things generally in a negative way."

Psychiatrist In Family Has Its Drawbacks

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP)—It is therapeutic to have a psychiatrist at home? Not at all, says Marjorie Cray, a former psychiatric social worker who is married to one.

Coming home after listening all day to the patients' woes, says Mrs. Cray, the psychiatrist is emotionally tired and not likely to make an attentive husband and father.

"He is no longer a man to listen. Moreover, the problems of his family seem very trivial compared to the problems he has been focusing on," she explains. "His sensitivity is dulled."

Mrs. Cray admits that she feels jealous of the patient who has a priority on her husband's emotion and time. She cites a case where a child abandoned by his psychiatrist father, "When I grow up, I'll never be a doctor. I want to be a patient!"

Her husband, Dr. Cameron Cray, who's on the staff of Stanford Medical School and a practicing psychotherapist here, acknowledges emotional stress intrinsic in his profession. The stress, he says, often expresses itself in the suicide of well-trained and respected psychiatrists.

Critic Urges Firing Of Orr, SEEDCO Board

By ED PRICKETT Herald Staff Writer

Dr. Thomas Largent says Horace Orr and the entire board of directors at the Seminole Employment and Economic Development Corporation (SEEDCO) should be fired because of what the Sanford doctor calls "poor business practices."

Orr, SEEDCO president, refused Largent's statements today and reiterated a stand Orr took at a Wednesday press conference in which Orr named Largent as the leader of a group of local doctors who "vowed to destroy this agency."

"I've never said any fraudulent or illegal acts were involved, but from the evidence I've gathered there is extremely poor management, poor business practices, poor judgment and a gross misuse of federal funds," Largent said Wednesday.

Orr said Largent "doesn't know enough about SEEDCO to comment." And the agency director said Largent has "implied in several letters that there are criminal activities going on at SEEDCO."

Orr also said Largent requested an FBI investigation of SEEDCO in the spring of 1975 and brought a Sentinel Star columnist in May of 1975 to his directors' heads.

removed, Largent's reply was affirmative. "I think there should be a change in administration; I'm talking about the hierarchy, the board and that group."

"If he (Largent) can't substantiate there are thieves or crooks then the next thing is to say that we're dumb," Orr replied.

Concerning the HMO issue, Largent said he would support an HMO in Seminole if it is used to help indigents.

But he said the Orr proposal would reduce the cost of medicine to the patient went on to say that SEEDCO knew next to nothing about the operation of an HMO and that the $50,000 feasibility study conducted here by the agency was a "waste of taxpayer money."

Orr said he envisioned paying patients at the HMO, because Orr says an HMO here would reduce the cost of medicine to everyone because profits from the HMO would be spent to reduce the cost of medicine.

The SEEDCO study showed an HMO was not feasible for Seminole County. The reason, the report said, was a lack of participation on the part of area doctors. But Orr said he had 35 signatures of persons interested in an HMO before Largent began a campaign "to destroy us."

Orr blames Largent for "attacks" by a Sentinel Star columnist. Since "attacks began 11 months ago, public opinion has been eroded to the point that normal channels of commerce have been shut off. We have had insurance policies canceled, bonds terminated, credit refused where it once was standard, and loans or lines of credit refused by banks," Orr said.

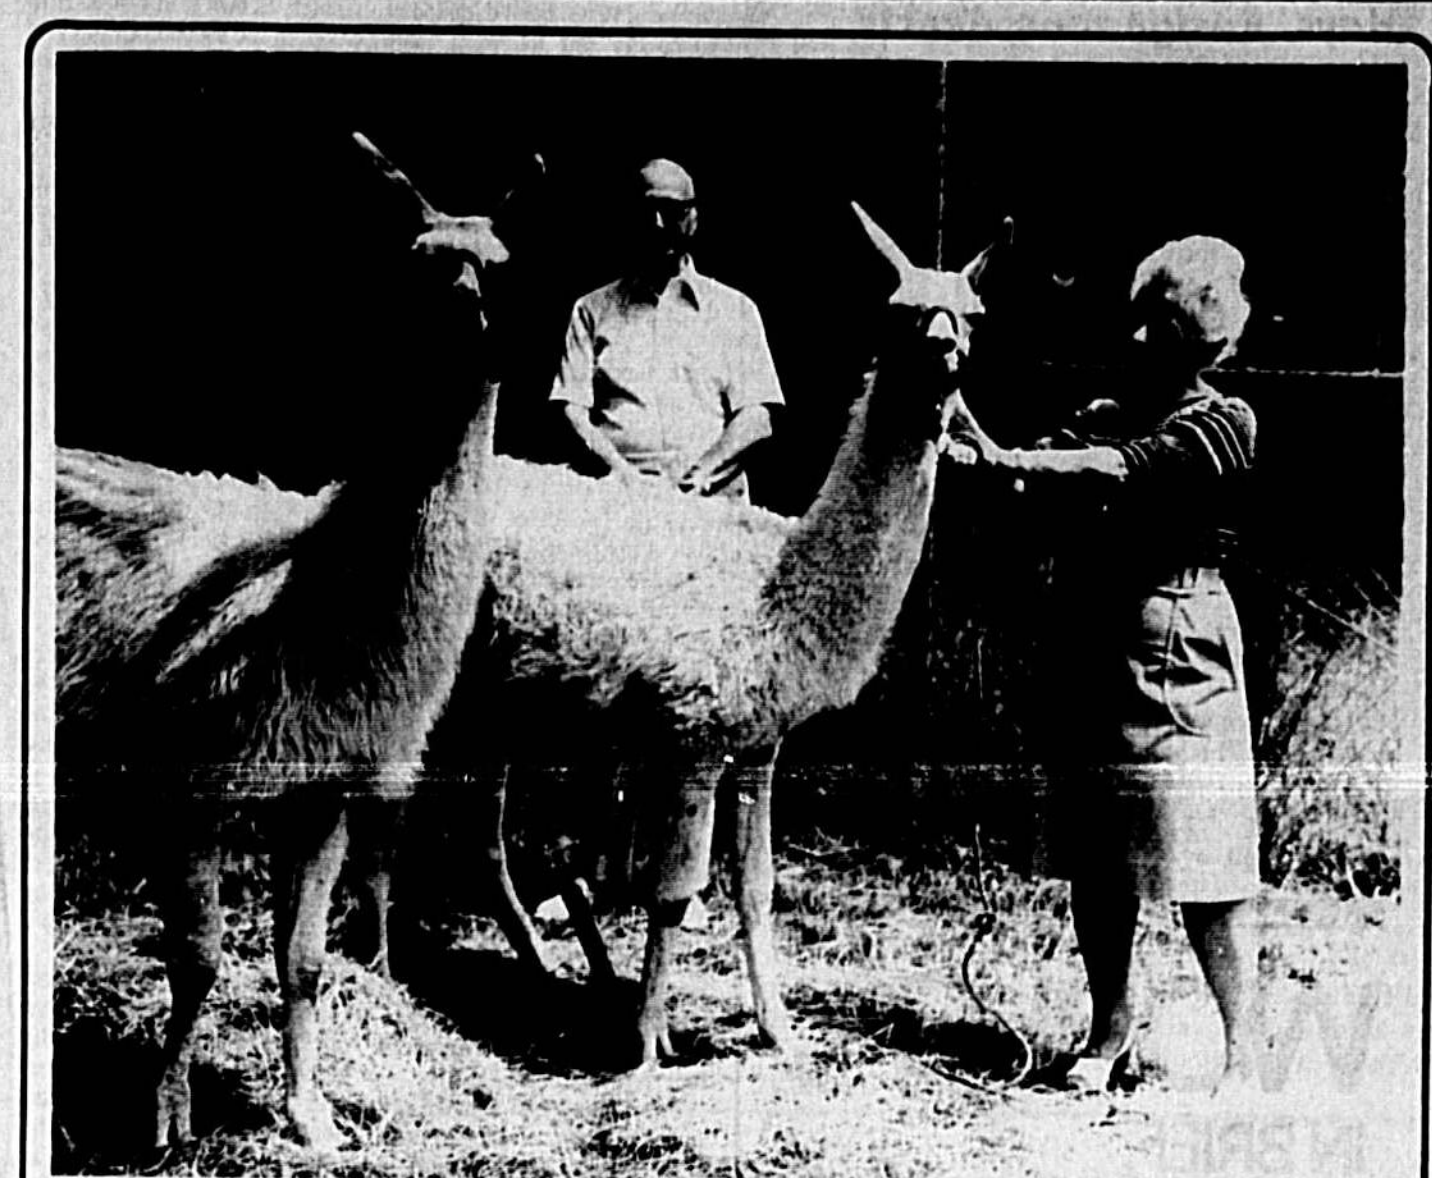

A General Accounting Office (GAO) investigation cleared Orr and SEEDCO of any instances of illegality. An interim GAO report was released last week.

The report rapped the agency for poor business practices, but Orr says he has known all along that mistakes have been made and will continue to occur as long as SEEDCO is in business.

Also, Orr cited a $5,000 extortion attempt, burglary and an attempted shooting as examples of harassment. Orr said a Sentinel Star reporter was found creeping around SEEDCO offices at 3 o'clock one morning.

Orr blamed many of his woes on the Orlando newspaper. He said the SEEDCO board of directors is considering a lawsuit against the publication. If the lawsuit isn't filed, he said the agency will ask the National News Council for a ruling.

Though a grievance has been filed with the council, Orr said officials at the New York-based agency are waiting to see if legal action is taken. If it is, it's doubtful the news council will investigate.

LIZ AND DICK SETTLE HERE

Liz and Dick are together again—right here in Sanford! But don't scramble for your autograph book. Liz and Dick are two llamas recently donated to the Central Florida Zoo by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Orr of Loch Arbor. The Orrs, shown above welcoming the new arrivals, ordered the llamas by telephone from a farm in Sisters, Ore. They named the animals after their son, Dick and their daughter, Liz. Dick, llama on the left, is 14 months old. Llama Liz is a year old. Question: Will it last?

State Attorney Completes Probe

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD—A probe of alleged wrongdoing in the city's public works department by State Attorney Abner Herring's office has been concluded, according to Herring, and a decision is now being made on what charges if any will be filed.

Connel called for all elected and appointed officials of the city to voluntarily take lie detector tests to help clear "up the whole bloody mess" in the community.

Connel said he would personally pay for the testing if council colleagues did not believe it was a proper expenditure of city funds.

Early last year, council members, including Council and Council Chairman J.R. Grant, separately investigated problems in the police department. No charges were filed although it was determined that several police officers had received more incentive pay than they were entitled to and that money from the sale of accident reports copies had been diverted into a benevolent fund and the treasury of a fraternal organization.

After Public Safety Director Douglas Keller took office, he said he found no intent on the part of the officers involved to do anything wrong.

Since then, Connel's reports to the council of complaints he received against police officers have been stopping to be unfounded.

Lormann said complaints against officers of determined young girls motorists on the road in the early hours of the morning for extended periods of time were without foundation.

Gurney: 'Flabbergasted'

ORLANDO (AP)—Federal prosecutors will retry former Sen. Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla., on a perjury charge but have dropped a conspiracy count alleging that he took part in a scheme to collect kickbacks from housing contractors.

Gurney, silver-haired defender of then-President Nixon during the televised Senate Watergate hearings, will be tried on a charge of lying to a grand jury during a probe of the fundraising scandal in 1974.

"I am surprised, shocked and flabbergasted that the attorney general would reverse recommendations of his working-level people to drop charges," the 62-year-old Republican said after a pretrial hearing Wednesday in Orlando.

Also raised to answer reporters' questions was Gurney's attorney, C. Harris Dittmar, argued strenuously against the retrial. He said it would be illegal to take only part of a grand jury indictment and try to convict Gurney with it in view of the fact that Gurney had already been acquitted of three other perjury counts, one bribery charge and one charge of accepting unlawful compensation.

The Winter Park Republican, the only senator indicted in office in 50 years, was cleared on five of the seven counts in a five-month trial in Tampa last year. The jury deadlocked on the other two charges.

Young took under advisement two motions from Dittmar that the case be thrown out.

The defense lawyer said Gurney had lived "through the impact and harassment of all this" for almost 2 1/2 years, since allegations of the scandal first surfaced in newspaper accounts.

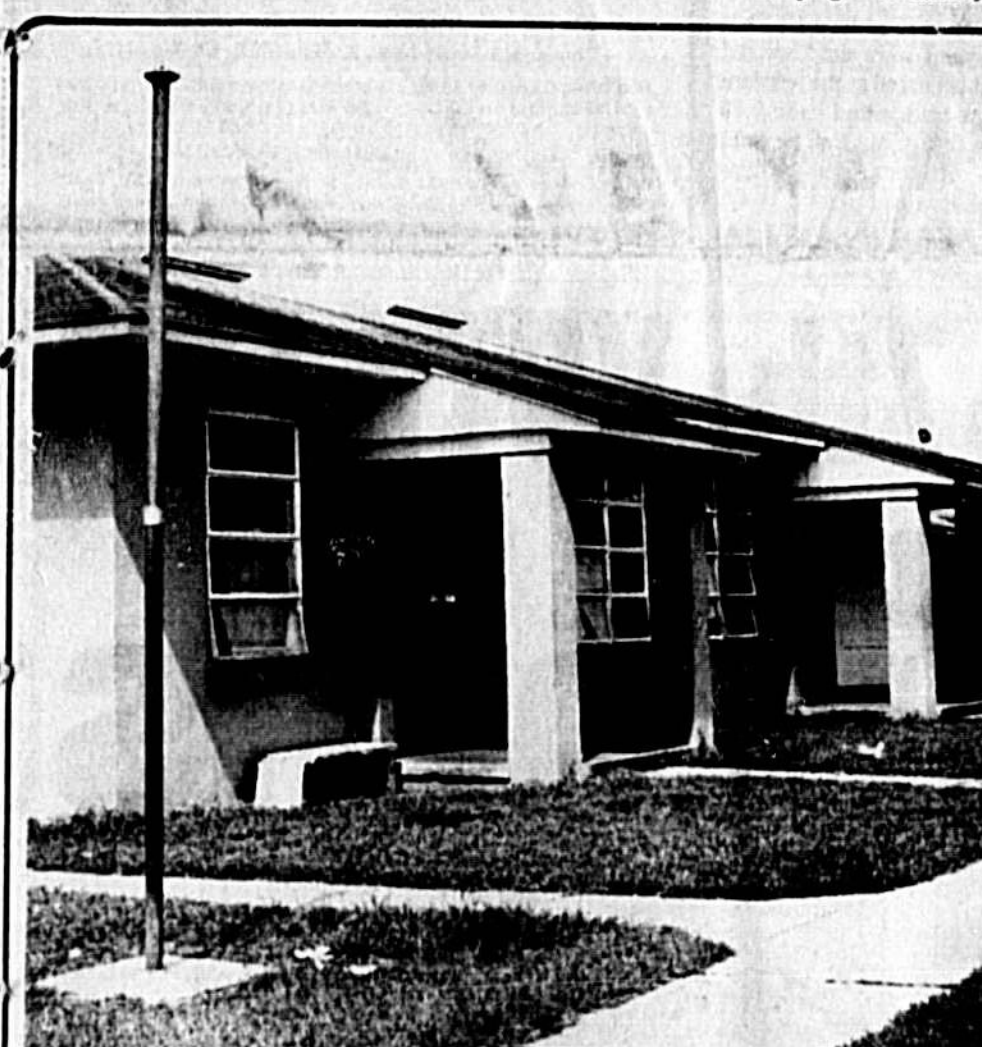

"Some other person might consider he was being subjected to a political trial," Dittmar said.

The indictment alleged that Gurney and others took part in the conspiracy to pressure Florida builders for financial contributions in return for favors from federal housing agencies.

The perjury count alleges that Gurney lied to a grand jury in Jacksonville when he testified he did not know that the case be thrown out.

Roaches Found Again At Day Care Center

By JACQUELINE DOWD Herald Staff Writer

A day care center which serves children living in Sanford's public housing has once again failed to meet basic sanitation requirements.

The commissioners delayed a decision on renewing a lease for the day care center with Leo-Jack Enterprises until the tenants' complaints could be investigated.

The commission's next regular meeting date falls on Sept. 9, when several commissioners and staff members will be attending a Florida Association of Housing Redevelopment Organizations convention in Jacksonville. A new date for the meeting has not yet been set.

Commission Chairman Edward Blackheare said this morning the lease renewal will be discussed at the next meeting. The commissioners will review the health department's inspection reports and Commissioner D.C. McCoy's findings during a personal inspection of the center.

Several issues, including who is responsible for pest control at the day care center, were raised at the last meeting but apparently have not yet been resolved.

Tenants also complained that the lease gave Mrs. Jackson control of the building, which is located next to the housing authority offices and is often used as a meeting place, after day care hours.

Mrs. Jackson's request for renewing the lease included a price increase that would hike daily charges per child to $2.50. Discounts are made if more than one child from a family attends.

Hester said the day care center falls below basic sanitation standards in several other areas, too, but he declined to discuss specifics until the center staff, headed by school board candidate Frances Colman Jackson, has time to correct the problems.

Mrs. Jackson could not be reached this morning for comment.

He said no specific time limit has been set for correcting the problems, but did say another follow-up inspection will be made "within a week or two."

Early Warning Signal For Cancer?

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Two scientists say they have inadvertently found a substance in the blood of cancer patients that could provide an early warning system for the dread disease.

Dr. J.C. Morrison and E.T. Bucovaz of the University of Tennessee said Wednesday that tests of 4,200 persons showed the system was nearly 90 per cent accurate in identifying whether patients had cancer.

They told a news conference at the American Chemical Society national meeting that if it proves itself in further studies, the blood test could in three years be part of routine yearly physical examinations.

Numerous other blood tests have been devised by scientists in the search for a foolproof way to detect cancer at an early stage. No test yet devised has been successful enough to be widely adopted.

Morrison stressed that it is unknown how early in the development of a tumor a positive result will show up in the test, but he said animal studies are under way to find out.

He also stressed the test is a general one that may indicate cancer is present but will not tell doctors where.

"This could be a test that would tell a doctor that he should run further tests on a patient, watch the patient closely," he said.

Bucovaz said the two began their research looking at something quite different — the structure of yeast cells. In trying to find a protein molecule in the cells, they mixed the yeast with human blood to see if the molecule they were looking for would combine with a different protein in the blood.

By chance, Bucovaz said, the blood they were using came from a cancer patient, and they found that a protein in the blood did latch onto the yeast protein.

When they repeated their experiment with blood from a healthy person, he said, it didn't work — the protein did not combine. With 87 per cent of the cancer patients they tested earlier, they said, the combining occurred in 81 per cent of the cancer-free patients there was no combination.
