The Harrietts: Trusted force for 77 years

By RUSS WHITE

SANFORD - The name Harriett is well known and well respected in this city. For 77 years it has been synonymous with public safety. Three generations of Harrietts have served the community, and soon the number may be four.

How apropos that 14-year-old Steven D. Harriett, Jr., a junior at Seminole High School, is considering a career in law enforcement.

Distance ordinance adopted between bars and churches

By NICK PFEIFAUF
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - The Sanford City Commission has finally agreed to separation distances in a new Alcohol Beverage Code ordinance. The decision came after a number of previous work session meetings and lengthy discussion during Monday afternoon work session.

As the present ordinance stands, Sanford has a 2,000-foot distance requirement between places that sell alcoholic beverages and a 2,000-foot distance required between alcoholic establishments and schools and churches.

Under the requirements added to the proposed ordinance Monday, the new distances will be 1,250 feet between alcohol establishments and churches, 1,250 feet between such establishments and schools, and 500 feet between similar places which sell beer and liquor.

During work session discussion, Commissioners Brady Lessard, Whitey Eckstein and Velma Williams all suggested a 1,000-foot distance between churches and alcohol establishments. Commissioner Kerry Lyons stood by previous suggestions to leave the distances as they have been.

Even though the three commissioners' announcements would have comprised a consensus vote on the 1,000-foot distance, sufficient to have it approved at the regular meeting, Mayor Dale continued to press for 1,250 feet. "We have to make our regulations as restrictive as we can," Dale said.

City employees don't have to live in Sanford

By NICK PFEIFAUF
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - For the past three or four meetings, City Commissioner Brady Lessard has been pushing the city to require prospective city employees to be residents of the city in order to be hired. Monday night may have seen the end of that drive.

On the agenda for Monday night's Sanford City Commission meeting the item was listed as "Presentation regarding requirement for new employees to live in Sanford."

Lessard gave a presentation to force a parcel of commission members, which included statistics he had obtained and a prepared display. "I believe the benefits from requiring employees to live in the city far outweigh any problems this may produce," he said.

He reported taking a tour of Seminole Tower Center merchants, finding that there were under 25 percent of the employees living in the city even though when the mall was proposed, the city suggested they concentrate on hiring more city residents.

I hear four major concerns over this, Lessard continued. The first that there is no adequate housing but this should not be a concern. There are plenty of homes available.

Secondly, they say it will have an adverse effect on recruitment. "I say the city can hire adequate employees. Perhaps we could give prospective new employees a six month to one year grace period to move into town."

He stressed that the change he proposed would not involve present employees who joined the city prior to October 1, 1998. "Everyone would be grandfathered in," he said.

Regarding benefits, Lessard said city employees would have a better knowledge of the city. (2) employees would have a personal stake in the city. (3) there would be a reduction of absenteeism and tardiness. (4) there would be a better availability of staff in the event of an emergency.

Courage under fire

Sanford Mayor Larry Dale presented a special award Monday night to Mary Elizabeth Peacock of Sanford. On December 6, 1996, the 13-year-old girl awoke in her residence, smelled smoke, and realized the home was on fire. Staying calm, she managed to awaken and alert her older sister, saving her life as well as that of the family dog. Mayor Dale said it was an excellent example of sound judgment and stood as a model for heroic action on the part of a teenager. In accepting the award, the girl commented, "Many people, like in school, tell you what to do in case of fire, but I was taught what to do by my father, and (as tears welled up), I want to say, 'Thank you, Daddy.'" Mayor Dale commented to Mary's father, "Perhaps we should have had two special awards, one to you for raising such an outstanding family."

SCC sends graduates into the real world

By VICKI BOGGS
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — There was a great deal of pomp and circumstance at Seminole Community College last week.

The college sent the 28th class across the stage to collect their diplomas this year. This was the second class to graduate under the guidance of Dr. E. Ann McGee, the college's second president.

More than 400 diplomas were distributed this year to students who earned Associates degrees in a wide variety of fields.

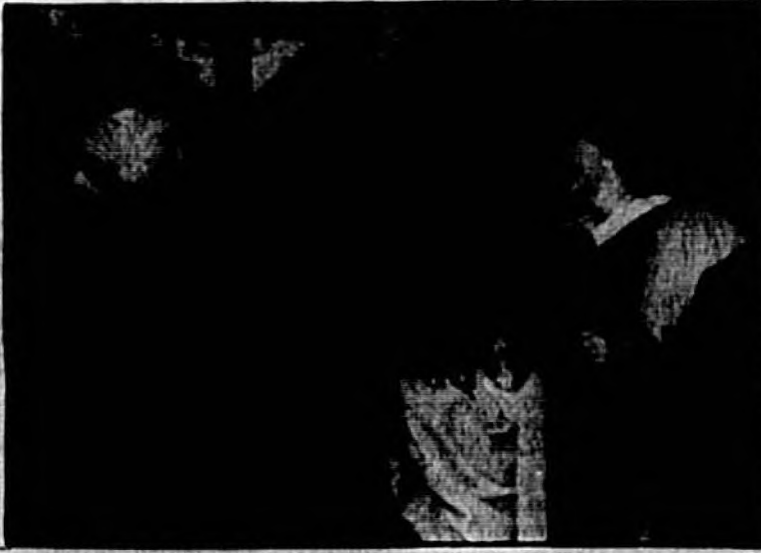

Seminole Community College students often earn their Associates degrees there before going on to four year colleges to complete their Bachelors degrees.

In addition to celebrating the graduation of the students, the ceremony included awards for faculty members who have contributed to the community during their tenure and who are now retiring.

Dr. James Sawyer, executive vice president of the college, served the college since it opened. He was given the SCC Service Award.

The commencement speaker at the graduation celebration was Frederick Fromm, president of Siemens Stromberg-Carlson in Lake Mary. The college works closely with Siemens on a number of technology education programs.

Dr. James Sawyer accepts an award for 26 years of service from president E. Ann McGee.

Today is one of those days when the staff writer

This is the day when we run out of April, 1987. There will never be another one. Sounds final, doesn't it?

On this date in 1788, while resting at courtside during a tennis match in Hamburg, Germany, 19-year-old Yugoslavian tennis player Monica Seles was stabbed between her shoulder blades with a five-inch knife. A 38-year old German man was arrested, tried and convicted.

The stabber's name was Guenter P..... His last name (no, it wasn't Pfeiff), was never released because according to Germany's privacy laws, even convicted criminal's last names are never released to the press.

On this date in 1788, Robert R. Livingston advanced to the balcony of Federal Hall, at the corner of Wall Street and Broad Street in downtown New York City, and officially administered the oath of office to the first President of the United States, under the new U.S. Constitution, George Washington.

Makes one wonder, what ever happened to the concepts of having presidents who "could not tell a lie."

Today is also National Honesty Day, with Honest Abe Awards to be given to people around the nation who are honest and true in the way they deal with others.

In West Palm Beach today, they're holding what is billed (by them, of course) as the largest music, art and water event festival. An estimated 280,000 people are expected to attend. The event, SunFest 87, which opens this afternoon, continues through May 3. The night I received a "cheating" which had been "cut short," but I caught my rear end and found that today is May Day.

According to the event officials in San Carlos, Cal., "Maydaying is the art of creating a self-image to help boost self-esteem while lending an ear to customers' problems, thereby lessening their stress."

There isn't much else to write about today, so let's look at some of the unusual activities taking place around the world.

In Guido Tadino, Italy today, they observe the feast of San Felice which dates back to the 13th century. The highlight of the event occurs when they peel the bark off a poplar tree and throw it (the tree) into the middle of the town square.

In the Feast of Valborg, Sweden, everyone is to sit around the campfire tonight in the center of town, and sing songs about Spring.

In Scotland, they observe an event called Beltane. It's also called Bealtaine, May Eve, Walpurgis Night, Cynctefyn, Roodmas and Cethemhain.

Beltane used to be what the called the day when rent or dues or debts were to be paid.

For some reason, the observance changed. Now, it has become a type of purification ceremony. Townsfolk build fires close together, then drive cattle between them, to ward off disease before they put the animals out to pasture for the new season.

It makes me wonder, someone is writing a newspaper column about what they are saying about people here in the United States doing crazy things to observe events. Groundhog day comes to mind. Let's face it; some of the parades we have are most unusual, such as those featuring people carrying bridges, or the Mummers parades.

For today's birthdays, Florida Governor Lawton Chiles is 67, actress Cloris Leachman (Play/It on the old Mary Tyler Moore show) turns 67, and singer Willie Nelson observes his 64th birthday.

Many of you will remember the B.E. Puroell Company located first at 216 E. First Street and later at another location on West First Street. There was also a store in Orlando and this picture is of the 1934 staff at that store. Arthur Lee and Lora Wilson had recently moved to Orlando from Georgia to work in this establishment. Mrs. B.E. Puroell was A.L. Wilson's aunt. Soon afterwards, the Wilsons moved to Sanford to open the Puroell store here. You may recall that Mrs. Bernice Stone was later manager of the Sanford store for many years. She and B.E. Puroell were married for many years later following the deaths of both their spouses. A.L. Wilson and Mr. Mauer opened a furniture store, Wilson-Mauer Furniture, on East First Street which Mr. Wilson managed for many years followed by his son Fred. A.L. Film takes lighthearted look at reunions

David Frazier
Screen Tests

Romy and Michele's High School Reunion (R): High school reunions is like judgment day to some people. It is a frightening experience for most and a gratifying one for others. Everyone treats it as a gauge for personal success. It serves as an introspection for self worth.

This is how Romy and Michele, the title characters, approach their ten year reunion. As they are filling out questionnaires, they take inventory of their lives and realize that they don't amount to much. This sets in motion Romy and Michele's High School Reunion, a movie that showcases three wonderful comic performances in a disappointment.

Romy and Michele --brought to bubbly life by Mira Sorvino and Lisa Kudrow, respectively--are two hip yet dense chicks living in a beachside apartment in Southern California. Their lives consists of laying in bed watching --I should say "criticizing"-- Pretty Woman and eating junk food. Romy has a job as a receptionist at a Jaguar dealership and Michele stays at home unemployed. They usually finish the day at their favorite night club wearing their, outrageously flamboyant fashions.

Lisa Kudrow and Mira Sorvino star as friends returning to fun at their high school reunion in "Romy and Michele's High School Reunion."

Life is good, but is it meaningful? The truth is hard to take for Romy and Michele and they try everything in their power to remedy the situation. Alas to no avail. So, before their trip to the reunion, they plan a story that they invented this film again. Kudrow (T.V.'s Post-Its, the miniature stick'em note pads. It is only when their plan goes awry and they end up letdown and embarrassed, they realize that their happy as is and that their friendship means more than acceptance by their peers.

Romy and Michele's High School Reunion is Mira Sorvino's and Lisa Kudrow's movie. Aside from their blistering beauty, they possess such an astounding comic sensibility. They are the only reason I would even consider watching this film again. Kudrow (T.V.'s Friends) has played Michele before in screenwriter Robin Schiff's play, Ladies' Room, which the film is based upon. Even though I haven't seen the play, I'm sure that nothing is lost in the translation from Kudrow's stage performance to the screen. She is a natural comedienne. So is her partner, Sorvino, who is still hot from her Oscar winning turn in Mighty Aphrodite, playing the ditzy, valley girl Romy. And to top off those acts is the riotously funny Janeane Garofalo (The Truth About Cats and Dogs) offering a foul-mouthed, snazzy inner who revealed a quick burning paper for cigarette.

If there is a letdown in that picture like the one here, then those characters could wear a little tin. Two stars (out of four).

A former Central Florida tourist reportedly stole the Orlando-Sanford Airport Monday, from Scotland. The purse and its contents, with a total value of $250, reportedly contained 88 pounds of United Kingdom currency.

Carlos A. Semons, 37, whose address was unknown, was arrested by Seminole County sheriff's deputies Monday. Officers said they responded to a business in the 100 block of International Parkway near Lake Mary, when a man, later identified as Semons, refused to leave when asked to do so. Requesting him to leave, officers left, only to return to the same establishment one hour later.

This time, deputies said Semons was still on hand, and went to a vehicle in the parking lot, attempting to drive it away. Following an investigation, it was determined that Semons had taken the keys to the car from a man in the store, and that the vehicle was not his.

Cops seek info about thief

From staff reports

The Seminole County sheriff's Economic Crimes Unit is asking for public assistance in identifying the suspect in the grand theft of approximately $30,000 from Fairwinds Credit Union branches in Seminole and Orange counties.

According to the sheriff's department public information officer Ed McDonough, on Friday, April 11, a female walked into the Fairwinds Credit Union, 134 Fernwood Blvd., Fern Park. She filled out a withdrawal slip with the name and account number of a credit union member. The suspect produced a Florida ID card with the member's name on it, and proceeded to make a total of $16,000 in cash withdrawals from the member's account.

McDonough said the next day, the suspect walked into a Fairwinds Credit Union branch in Orange County and withdrew another $15,000 from the member's account.

It is not known how the suspect was able to obtain the member's name and account number. Sheriff's office investigators have copies of the security camera photos and the phony Florida ID card used by the suspect. The member does not know the suspect.

The black female is described as being in her late 20s, five foot four, 145 pounds. She has short black hair and manicured fingernails.

In Florida grand theft of over $20,000 is a second degree felony, with the maximum penalty of 15 years in prison.

McDonough urges anyone with information regarding this person or the thefts to contact the sheriff's office at 330-6650.

By MARILYN BAYLA NMA Food Writer

Why is it that baking bread is such a big deal? Mustn't you bake your own bread, and people are apt to look at you as if you are some kind of flippant North Star, or a health-food nut too virtuous to get their bread the way everyone else does: at the store.

Well, I'm here to tell you that baking bread — and I'm talking YEAST bread here, not oven-baked quick-breads — can be done by busy people like you without cosmic disruption. In fact, it's easy.

Now, the purists out there will doubtless begin hyper-ventilating with their first recipe. There is no "classic method" here — these are breads you can make or leave just throw together, in the easiest bread recipe, you don't even proof the yeast. And you don't need a bread machine or any other fancy equipment to make these breads: a big bowl for mixing, a flat surface for kneading, and your hands and eyes will do the trick. If you don't have kneading troughs for the "French" bread, fashion some out of a couple of layers of heavy-duty aluminum foil.

The first recipe comes from Dr. Paul Johnson of Leavenworth, Wis., who lists the health benefits of home-baked bread: "Our digestive systems are adapted to a diet which includes a lot of grain fiber," says Dr. Johnson. "But milling technology has eliminated the fiber we need. To replace the bran in our grains products, we can eat breakfast cereal with bran, or bran muffins, but our diet of life is bread, and that's the logical plan to get it."

His bread is WHEATFUL and extremely easy to make.

The second recipe is from one of my all-time favorite cooks (cookbook or not), "More Home Cooking" by the late Laurie Colwin, a book every bit as good as its predecessor "Home Cooking." If you don't own them, I suggest you run right out and remedy that situation. Anyway, her excellent bread recipe calls for mixing it one night, and baking it the next, a perfect recipe for people who work outside their homes. (I guess that's why I was so into this one; it has so much time to slack.) It makes THE BEST loaf.

The third recipe is a basic French one that I say "French-style" because a French person would disagree at the results, which are far from the classic texture. But this bread is delicious hot from the oven, and as simple a child can make it. I know, because I've done it.

The last of the "Whitties" and later ones because they're just so old.

DR. JOHNSON'S BREAD

10 cup wheat flour

- 2 packages active dry yeast
5 package flour
1 pound unprocessed coffee bean
4 tablespoons oil
10 egg sugar
1 cup granulated barley or rolled oats
2 eggs, beaten, optional
8 cups hot tap water
10 cup cooking oil or shortening

Place warm water in a small bowl or cup. Sprinkle yeast on top. Let settle for at least 10 minutes, so that yeast gets bubbly.

Place flour, bran, salt, sugar and barley or oatmeal (instead of using a very large bread bowl or small tin. Mix with then add the hot water, the oil and the water-and-yeast mixture. Mix this with your hands until you have a doughball that can be kneaded but is not too sticky. Knead for at least 10 minutes. Then cover the bowl with a clean, damp dish towel, and set it in a warm place. Let the dough rise until double in bulk (about 1 hour) then divide into six loaves. Put the loaves into six greased 8-1/2 by 4 loaf pans and let them rise until they are bulging above the tops of the pans. Preheat the oven to 375 degrees. Bake loaves about 30 minutes. After they have finished baking turn them out of the pans and allow them to cool on racks. Wrap in plastic when cool. Freeze any loaves you might not use immediately.

Note: This recipe can easily be halved.

Yield: 6 loaves.

FRENCH BREAD

- 1-1/2 cups warm (not hot) water
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 packages (1 package) active dry yeast

2 cups flour
3 eggs, beaten
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon cornmeal (to add to flour — optional)

Showering it off for greasing bread tongs

Put the water and sugar in a large bowl. Sprinkle the yeast over it and let it sit for about 10 minutes to activate yeast.

Mix in flour, salt and cornmeal if using. The dough will be sticky and batter-like.

Place a clean dish towel over bowl and let sit in warm place until dough is double in bulk (about an hour).

Divide dough into two rope-like loaves and place in bread tongs. Cover with a damp towel and let rest 10 minutes.

Meanwhile, place oven rack in middle of oven and preheat to 375 degrees. Place tongs on rack. For crisper bread, hot water and pour into a shallow pan placed on lowest rack of oven, below the tongs. Loaves will golden brown and crusty, about 30 minutes.

Yield: 2 loaves.

CARNIVAL BREAD

- 1 cup wheat flour
1 cup all-purpose flour
6 cups all-purpose white flour
1 1/2 packages salt
1 1/2 packages active dry yeast

About 2 cups liquid water
Several tablespoons oil (optional)

The night before you are going to bake the bread: Put the oatmeal in a blender and grind to a powder. In a large mixing bowl, stir together the oatmeal, wheat germ, flour, salt and yeast. Add the water. Mix it together with a wooden spoon and/or your hands, adding a bit more water if absolutely necessary. When dough clumps together, turn it out onto a lightly floured surface and knead it for about 10 minutes. Scrape out the ball, and return the dough to the bowl. Cover it with a clean dish towel and let it sit overnight.

The day before you are going to bake the bread: Divide it in half, divide each half into a flattened loaf pan. Cover each loaf pan with a clean dish towel and let rest for 2 or 3 hours. Preheat the oven to 400 degrees.

DR. JOHNSON'S Bread Recipe good for you and easy to make.

Brush the top of the loaves with milk (optional) and bake for 40 to 50 minutes, turning the loaves around on the oven rack once for even baking. Yield: 2 loaves.

Ashes of loved ones rest in peace in many homes

DEAR READERS: When I recently asked to bury my people who kept the ashes of their loved ones, I had no feeling of the loss of a loved one who would be with me. I felt that I was right when I said that question was not all that unusual. Read on for a sample.

DEAR ABBY: My husband was a wonderful man. When he died, I was too old to drive to the cemetery, and I knew I couldn't care for his grave, so I had him cremated and kept the ashes. However, I do not keep them displayed. They are kept in my bedroom, and every time I dust, I tell him how much I miss him. I am alone now, but happy at 77 years old. MARIA IN BENO, NEV.

ADVICE
ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My mother died this past June. My father, brother and I had her cremated. Her ashes are in a nice wooden box with a gold plaque stating her date of birth, etc. My grandmother (Mom's mother) was upset because she wanted them to be buried in New Jersey with the family. My father suggested that my mother's ashes be buried with my grandmother when her time comes. She loved the idea. For now, though, Mom is on the mantel, and so, we don't think it's strange at all. SCHEIN IN FRANCE GEORGE, VA.

DEAR ABBY: My son died in 1986. He wanted to be cremated. I have his ashes in a nice urn in a private corner of my house. When the time comes, my husband will have this urn placed in my coffin with me. It will be done at the last cleaning, so the public will not see. ABNEY IN SOUTH CAROLINA

DEAR ABBY: I displayed the ashes of my late husband in a beautiful Chinese urn on the coffee table. Only a select few knew the contents of the urn, among them a man I had begun to seriously date. Rather than being bothered by it, he said he loved anyone who had loved me. And in keeping with that generosity of spirit, when he asked me to marry him, he wanted me to first display my wife's ashes, and then leaving forward to plant the urn. When it comes to love, I am twice blessed. J.R. IN BEVERLY HILLS, CALIF.

DEAR ABBY: I have had my lovely wife's ashes in my home for two years and 10 months. I'm proud to have them with me. I talk to her ashes and say good morning and good night to them each day. I also tell her please when I get up and when I go to bed. I see nothing wrong with this. I miss her so much, and sometimes this helps. We were married 47 years. Anyone who tells me to get rid of the ashes can take a hike! ABNEY IN BATH, PA.

DEAR ABBY: We are a military family and don't plan to stay in this area. Four months ago, our 2 1/2-year-old son died after a 10-month battle with leukemia. The idea of burying him and later having him here was unthinkable, so we chose to have him cremated. Because we wanted to make his urn present, but didn't have much money, we used a human box urn and placed it inside a large Whittier-style box. After several months, however, that was all we could afford.

Knowing our son's ashes in the home doesn't mean we can't love our other children. Oh, it is day in and day out. I know, the other children probably still love her too, but that doesn't mean the son can't also love the man who was his father. He should respect the relationship the son had and not be so disrespectful. BEN IN TURIN, CALIF.

DEAR ABBY: When my husband died in 1980, I was 57 years old. I wanted to put his ashes in an urn, and I was busy writing for a magazine. I thought, why not do it?

Is herbal remedy a safe treatment?

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm 70 and have been taking Proscar for about three years without much success...

DEAR READER: The prescription drug Proscar usually reduces the size of the prostate, thereby relieving symptoms of hesitancy, frequency and difficulty urinating...

I suggest that you return to your urologist and plan another strategy. He can help you decide which path to take.

PETER GOTT, M.D.

medicine is new and has yet to achieve widespread use.

Initial studies have shown it to be safe, except for one glaring drawback: Occasionally, it can cause pulmonary hypertension...

I recommend that you put yourself on a low-calorie diet (no alcohol, junk food or concentrated sweets).

and shouldn't take it. Yet my sister and several of her friends have had success with it.

DEAR READER: I don't believe that he's being stubborn, just cautious.

Redux is a prescription drug that, when used in conjunction with a sensible diet, promotes weight loss.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My 54-year-old, 300-pound son was asked by a cardiologist to be a "guinea pig" to test a new ultrasound machine...

DEAR READER: Yes, it is. But I don't believe that pressure from an ultrasound device was necessarily the cause of your tragedy.

Nevertheless, like you, I am bothered by the sequence of events leading to your son's untimely death.

However, I believe that the pressure from the ultrasound sensor was a very unlikely factor.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've read about a new diet pill called Redux...

Your brain is capable

By Phillip Alder

Most people could play a competent game of bridge if only they would do some thinking.

In today's deal, declarer's error came well down the road, at trick eight.

South's opening bid was a hearty weak two, promising some 6-10 high-card points and a decent six-card suit.

Over North's two-no-trump inquiry (which is called Ogust), South showed a strong suit with maximum point-count.

North wouldn't have known if they had two club losers) before passing six. After the spade lead, South saw 12 tricks via two spades, six hearts, one diamond, one club and two club ruffs in the dummy.

South cashed her heart king before leading a club, West inserting the heart 10. After overruling in the dummy, declarer ruffed a spade in hand and led her last club.

South's opening bid was a hearty weak two, promising some 6-10 high-card points and a decent six-card suit.

Over North's two-no-trump inquiry (which is called Ogust), South showed a strong suit with maximum point-count.

Table with 4 columns: North, West, East, South. Includes card hands and vulnerable/dealer status.
