Suspect caught after chase

SANTA ROSA, N.M. — A New Jersey man suspected of killing a teenage boy and abducting a cheerleader led police on a high-speed chase across New Mexico and slammed into a police roadblock, where he was captured, authorities said Wednesday.

The girl had been pushed from the getaway car in Groom, Texas, where she notified local police, said New Mexico State Police dispatcher Scott Simpson. She was reported in good condition.

'Karate killer' freed from prison

NEW YORK — The so-called Karate Killer, convicted of kicking a young man to death, was freed from prison in the wake of new information indicating he may have told the truth when he said he acted in self-defense, authorities said Tuesday.

Robert Wallace, 21, of Manhattan, served less than one week of a four-year prison sentence for criminally negligent homicide.

Baker orders stocks sale

ROME — Secretary of State James Baker, under pressure to adhere to high ethical standards espoused by President Bush, said he ordered the sale of all his publicly traded stocks.

Baker's ownership of stock in a New York bank holding company had raised the prospect of a possible conflict of interest because Baker, as secretary of state, will play a pivotal role in setting U.S. policy on Third World debt issues.

Baker holds stock valued at more than $250,000 in Chemical New York Corp., a James Baker successor firm to Chemical Bank, which holds billions of dollars in Third World debt.

Rocket launch 'picture perfect'

CAPE CANAVERAL — A new Delta 2 rocket successfully boosted a $65 million navigation satellite into orbit Tuesday in a "picture-perfect" maiden flight marking the debut of a revitalized post-Challenger military space program.

Under a clear blue sky, the 128-foot, $30 million Air Force rocket roared to life at 1:30 p.m. and climbed away from launch complex 17A at the Cape Canaveral Air Force Station adjacent to NASA's Kennedy Space Center, 48 hours behind schedule because of bad weather Sunday.

Escapees captured

Anonymous tip ends three-week manhunt; Smith, LeMasters taken without incident

By LAURA L. SULLIVAN
Herald staff writer

An anonymous tip led to the capture in Orange County last night of two escaped felons who had been the objects of a large-scale manhunt in the Geneva area.

The Orange County Sheriff Department received an anonymous tip from a female at 11:30 p.m., Sgt. Steven Walters reported today. The woman told sheriff deputies that a man she identified as Brian Smith would be at a 7-Eleven convenience store on Sand Lake Road to buy drugs.

Smith, 22, was arrested at the convenience store by Orange County sheriff's deputies. Upon his arrest, he told deputies Robert LaMasters could be found in a room at a Days Inn motel in the Sand Lake Road area.

Deputies said they found LaMasters, 25, at the motel room, where he was arrested. LaMasters and Smith were then transported to Orange County Jail without incident and booked on charges of escape. They remain at the jail without bond.

The two men had been at the motel one day, Walters said.

LaMasters and Smith fled Orange County jail Jan. 21. They are suspects in a Jan. 31 Chulota house burglary.

Jim Solomons, information officer at Orange County Sheriff Department, said the two men are suspects in a number of burglaries in the Geneva area.

FAA, DOT pitch in for airport improvements

By LAURA L. SULLIVAN
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Officials from federal and state agencies met with the Sanford Airport Authority yesterday to commit money for improving Sanford Regional Airport.

Bill Jernigan of the Federal Aviation Administration and Mike Martin of Florida Department of Transportation met with the authority, who approved joint participating agreements with the two agencies for funding improvements to airport facilities.

Earlier this month, the airport received FAA certification to land passenger and cargo flights. The terminal, roadways and landing facilities are being improved to accommodate such services.

Through a joint agreement with the DOT, five acres of apron east of the existing ramp area will be improved. The DOT has committed $46,000 to the $1 million project. The authority received an FAA grant for $830,830, or 90 percent of funds needed for the project.

A $180,000 joint participating with the DOT will help build 17 new T-hangers. The authority yesterday approved the low bid of $315,539 for construction of seventeen 48-foot T-hangers and two 50-foot T-hangers.

The authority has received an additional FAA grant for $40,000 to refurbish runway lighting.

Mack LaZenby, aviation director at the airport, told the authority flight operations last year exceeded master plan projections for the year 2000. The airport handled 13,503 operations last month, up 29 percent over January 1988. Operations increased 34 percent last year.

LaZenby asked for FAA assistance in adding tower facilities and personnel to accommodate increased air traffic. "Ultimately, what I'd like to see is an FAA tower — built, maintained, staffed and operated by the FAA," he said.

Bernie Palmieri, a marketing consultant for the authority, told authority members that Emory and two other cargo services had visited the airport. The airport probably will not land cargo service until passenger flights are in operation, he said.

Renovation of the airport terminal is scheduled for March 15 completion. Roadway to the terminal

Commissioners give approval stamp to neighborhood improvement plans

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Seminole County commissioners gave their approval last night to move ahead with the creation of special neighborhood improvement districts to charge homeowners fees for maintenance of common areas and other neighborhood amenities.

County Manager Ken Hooper said the final plan for the improvement districts will be available by June.

The idea for the districts, called municipal benefit services units (MSBUs), was spawned about three years ago by the Seminole County League of Homeowner's Associations to address the declining appearance of subdivisions throughout the unincorporated areas of the county.

"In absence of people being able to provide for themselves, the county can help them do it themselves," said Dan Dushrul, chairman of the county MSBU committee.

Past League president Ernest Hatton said his neighborhood, Cedar Ridge, and several others in the county have a mixture of mandatory and voluntary homeowner's associations in them. Voluntary members aren't required to participate in paying fees to help maintain their neighborhood's common areas, which are owned by the association and not the county.

McCollum defends S&L bailout in Rotary address

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — U.S. Rep. Bill McCollum, R-Winter Park, said here today that he supports a bailout of the troubled savings and loan industry with a one-time bond issue to pay back depositors.

"You and I are going to wind up paying off depositors that are at these failing savings and loans so we can get the immediate problem behind us," McCollum said.

Speaking before members of the Rotary Club of Sanford, McCollum said the federal government may have to issue up to $70 million in bonds to help pay back depositors at failing thrifts. Federal officials have found numerous thrifts have made poor loans, particularly in the Southwest and are in danger of failing, leaving depositors at risk of losing their savings.

On other topics, McCollum said he supports a balanced budget and a change away from what he called a more "phony-type" budget review process.

McCollum said Congress currently reviews the federal budget by automatically rebudgeting last year's spending, then adding an annual inflation factor and then adding the amount of money estimated to be needed to keep the same level of service.

"Then," McCollum said, "they begin to talk whether or not more" See McCollum, Page 5A

Hughes will unveil zoning plan tonight

By CAROL J. HUNSEY
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Plans to move 582 Seminole County middle and high school students to different schools next year will be presented to parents and School Board members tonight at Lake Mary High School.

The meeting, scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m., comes after a months-long rezoning process. It began in August with formation of two study committees. If tentatively adopted by the board this evening, the plan will be presented for final adoption next month.

Tonight's meeting will be the first time Superintendent Robert Hughes has presented his recommendation to the board.

Hughes' plan, released Friday, does not alter committee plans to move 284 incoming high school freshmen. However, he has dramatically reduced the number of middle school children affected by the rezoning, from 841 to 318. The 318 all live in areas zoned to Greenwood Lakes Middle School. Seventh-graders not wishing to be moved will be excluded. If their parents can provide transportation, and they apply to a Special Appeals Board by May 1, Greenwood

Report: Elderly have drug problems

NEW YORK — Widespread and sometimes fatal drug problems exist among the nation's elderly, reflecting faulty prescribing by doctors, clinical studies inadequate for measuring drug effects on older adults and bad patient habits, according to a federal study reported Wednesday in the New York Times.

The study warned of the "nation's other drug problem," and called on the Health Care Financing Administration, which runs the Medicare and Medicaid programs, and the Food and Drug Administration to act to protect the growing senior citizen population.

Richard Kusserow, the Inspector General of the Department of Health and Human Services, authored the report, which states that "a growing body of evidence accumulated over the past 10 years indicates that mismedication of the elderly has become a critical health care issue, labeled by some as the 'nation's other drug problem.'"

Although people over 60 make up just 17 percent of the country's population, they account for 51 percent of deaths from drug reactions, the report said.

Prescription drug hazards for older adults were blamed in part on the government's delay in issuing industry guidelines to expand clinical drug tests to that population, the Times said.

Many drugs designed to treat problems common to the elderly are tested on young adults.

The report also pointed out faulty prescribing patterns among doctors and inadequate medical training in geriatric pharmacology. In addition, some elderly patients misuse the drugs they are prescribed.

Stanford now costs nearly $20,000

STANFORD, Calif. — Stanford University trustees voted Tuesday to raise tuition for the 1989-90 school year to $13,569, 8 percent more than the current $12,564.

They also hiked room and board expenses from $5,257 to $5,595, making the costs for a Stanford undergraduate next year $19,164, among the most expensive in the nation.

"The tuition reflects our costs — and the costs are going up," said Stanford spokesman Bob Beyers.

He added, however, that Stanford has a long-standing program that guarantees that no student who actually enrolls will be turned away for financial reasons. More than 60 percent of all Stanford undergraduates receive aid from scholarships, grants, loans or jobs.

The trustees made their decision after campus administrators presented budget figures showing the university needs to make up an $11 million gap between expected revenues and costs.

Man pleads innocent in art theft

LOS ANGELES — An alleged con man suspected of stealing two master paintings worth at least $330,000 from an Australian dealer pleaded innocent to theft charges Tuesday following his extradition from Virginia.

Robert Leads, 56, arrested Jan. 29 in Newport News, Va., thanks to tips received after the case was featured on an episode of NBC's "Unsolved Mysteries" last month, was flown to Los Angeles over the weekend after waiving extradition, police detective Bill Martin said.

Leads pleaded innocent at his Municipal Court arraignment to two counts of grand theft. He was being held in lieu of $500,000 bail pending a bail review hearing Feb. 21.

A preliminary hearing to determine if there is enough evidence to bring Leads to trial was scheduled for Feb. 28.

The charges, which carry a maximum five-year sentence in state prison, stem from the theft of Auguste Renoir's 1916 "Anemones," worth at least $200,000, and Mary Cassatt's 1904 "Head of a Girl," worth at least $130,000.

The paintings were stolen in an elaborate scheme last year from Brian Pearce, a Melbourne, Australia, art dealer who had come to Los Angeles to sell the works.

While at the Polo Lounge at the Beverly Hills Hotel with a Los Angeles art dealer, Pearce met Leads, who told him he could sell the two paintings, plus Henri Fantin-Latour's 1882 "Raisins Dans Une Coupe," in 30 days, Martin said.

Leads promised Pearce $560,000 for the paintings and, as a guarantee, gave him $500,000 worth of stock in his company, U.S. Corporate Careers Systems, Martin said.

North trial awaits decision

United Press International

WASHINGTON — The Iran-Contra trial of Oliver North hit another snag when the judge rejected a government plan for handling state secrets as evidence, and a resolution to the problem rests with the Supreme Court.

U.S. District Judge Gerhard Gesell refused Tuesday to accept the government-fashioned proposal aimed at averting a showdown at the high court or a possible Bush administration move to scuttle the case against North. Supreme Court Chief Justice William Rehnquist delayed the case Sunday and said the full court would consider the matter at a regular Friday conference.

Gesell said the proposal allowing government lawyers to halt the case by objecting to use of classified information would have jeopardized North's right to a fair trial.

The ex-White House aide, the judge said, has the constitutional right "like any citizen to a fair trial, to an opportunity to present his defense fairly and fully" without lengthy disruptions that would confuse a jury.

But Gesell noted that Attorney General Dick Thornburgh can at any time "terminate the case or any count" by barring use of secrets at trial.

During Tuesday's hearing, Gesell challenged the administration, through Thornburgh, to take such action before the case begins. Such a move could force Gesell to dismiss some or all of the charges because North says he needs the secret material to defend himself.

Baker to sell stocks to meet ethical standards

James Baker

United Press International

ROME — Secretary of State James Baker, under pressure to adhere to high ethical standards espoused by President Bush, said he ordered the sale of all his publicly traded stocks.

Baker's ownership of stock in a New York bank holding company had raised the prospect of a possible conflict of interest because Baker, as secretary of state, will play a pivotal role in setting U.S. policy on Third World debt issues.

Baker holds stock valued at more than $250,000 in Chemical New York Corp., a successor firm to Chemical Bank, which holds billions of dollars in Third World debt.

An aide said Baker decided Saturday in London, after consulting with lawyers, to sell all of his publicly owned stocks. Baker is on a 14-nation tour of NATO countries.

Margaret Tutwiler, Baker's spokeswoman, read a statement Tuesday to reporters aboard his plane on the way to Rome from Athens. It said, "I have decided to direct the trustee of my blind trust to dispose of not only all of the Chemical Bank stock in the trust, but all of the other publicly traded stocks as well."

Officials aboard the plane said they did not know the extent of Baker's stocks and bonds holdings and it was likely that Baker himself did not know the amount, or whether he would take a profit or a loss on the prospective sale.

Baker's holdings have been in a qualified blind trust since he became former President Ronald Reagan's treasury secretary in 1985.

Lebanese alliance ends, 15 dead

BEIRUT, Lebanon — The Lebanese army and Christian militia forces battled for a second consecutive day Wednesday for control of east Beirut, killing at least 15 people and shattering a 5-month-old alliance, military sources said. The fighting, which erupted late Tuesday in the residential area of Monteveddi, spread Wednesday to most areas in east Beirut and the villages of Homal, Bsous, Bdadoun and Kfarshima in a mountainous region east of the city, the sources said. Sources said the fighting is the result of a power struggle between rival Christian camps. Thousands of fighters from the army and the Christian Lebanese Forces militia fought pitched street battles with rockets, mortars, vehicle-mounted cannon and heavy automatic machine guns, killing more than 15 people and wounding 25 others, the sources said. Smoke from burning buildings and cars billowed into the sky as the army appealed to civilians to remain indoors. At midday, the battles subsided into scattered exchanges with small rockets and machine guns for some two hours, then picked up again, military sources said. The fighting continued despite a cease-fire appeal by Christian Maronite patriarch Mar Nasrallah Butros Sfair.

IRA political official slain in ambush

BELFAST, Northern Ireland — Gunmen shot to death a prominent member of the Irish Republican Army's political wing in an ambush near his home Tuesday night, police said. John Joseph Davey, 60, was driving near his home in Magherafelt, 75 miles west of Belfast, when he was killed by three gunmen. Davey, one of three Sinn Fein members on the Magherafelt Town Council, had survived previous attempts on his life, including one a year ago when his car was raked with gunfire at the same spot as Tuesday night's attack. He escaped injury in that shooting. There was no immediate claim of responsibility for Davey's slaying, but police believed a Protestant group was responsible. The leader of Sinn Fein, Gerry Adams, has claimed a "concerted murder campaign" was being waged against Catholics in Northern Ireland by the British government. Four Catholics have been killed this year by Protestant gunmen, and the homes of four Sinn Fein members have been attacked. Loyalist gunman Michael Stone has been charged with attempted murder in the attempt on Davey's life a year ago. Stone also is to go on trial for the killing of three people at the funeral of three IRA members shot dead in Gibraltar by the members of the SAS, the British army's anti-terrorist unit. Davey had been interned twice previously without benefit of trial by the British government for his alleged role in IRA efforts to remove all British influence over Northern Ireland. More than 2,700 deaths have been reported in connection with the IRA's anti-British campaign since 1969, when the IRA revived its activities.

Iran hanged 68 drug traffickers Tuesday

MANAMA, Bahrain — Iran Tuesday hanged 68 convicted drug traffickers, including three women, the most reported executions in one day since its recent crackdown on illegal narcotics began, Iran's official news agency said. The women were sent to the gallows in the compound of Tehran's Qasr Prison for "moral corruption and involvement in drug smuggling," the Islamic Republic News Agency said. IRNA said seven men were hanged in Tehran's Roodhen district while 58 other traffickers were hanged in 30 other cities and towns, bringing to 173 the number of traffickers executed in Iran since a tough anti-drug law took effect three weeks ago. Tuesday's executions were the most in one day since Jan. 16, when 58 drug traffickers were hanged. Large crowds gathered to watch the executions in Tehran's Rah Ahan Square and Javanmard Qasab Street despite freezing weather and heavy snow. Traffickers also were hanged in Qom, the spiritual stronghold of the ruling clergy, some 90 miles south of Tehran. In addition to the traffickers who were hanged, elite Revolutionary Guards killed more than 100 heavily armed smugglers in clashes this month near Iran's border with Afghanistan.

More arrests in Japan's stock scandal

TOKYO — Two more businessmen were arrested Wednesday in the widening insider stock trading scandal that has rocked Japan's political establishment, officials said. The Tokyo prosecutor's office said the two men apprehended on suspicion of violating the Securities and Exchange Law were Shunjiro Mamiya, managing director of Recruit Co., a major employment information and publishing firm, and Seichi Takeoka, director of Recruit's real estate subsidiary, Recruit Cosmos Co. Mamiya, 45, played a leading role in distributing pre-listed Recruit Cosmos shares to selected politicians and business executives in September 1986, Kyodo News Service reported. Kyodo said the 43-year-old Takeoka, a former banker, was in charge of Recruit Cosmos' financial operations. The officials said the suspects distributed 687,000 shares at bargain prices to about 80 politicians and business executives without permission from the Finance Ministry, a violation of the Securities and Exchange Law. If convicted, each faces up to one year in prison or fines of up to $78,000.

Last Soviet soldier leaves Afghanistan

United Press International

KABUL, Afghanistan — The last Soviet soldier to leave Afghanistan crossed a bridge to his homeland Wednesday, ending a 9-year military presence and leaving behind an embattled regime diplomats predict will fall within months to Afghan rebels. Lt. Gen. Boris Gromov, 45, commander of the Soviet forces in Afghanistan, walked across the Friendship Bridge to the Soviet city of Termez at 9:55 a.m. Moscow time (1:55 a.m. EST), the official Tass news agency reported. Gromov, who was greeted by his 14-year-old son, had vowed he would be the last man out. About 140 Soviet diplomats and five Soviet journalists remained in the besieged capital, which has depended on airlifts for many vital supplies.

But sources in Kabul said the Soviets may be suspending the airlifts over fears of major rebel rocket attacks on the airport.

Western diplomats predict Najibullah's government will fall within a few months to the U.S.-backed rebels without the support of Soviet troops, who began leaving in May.

Tass had earlier said the last Soviet soldier would leave Afghan soil by noon Wednesday to comply with the Feb. 15 pullout deadline set by the U.N.-mediated Geneva accords signed in April by Afghanistan and Pakistan, which backed the rebels and provided shelter for war refugees.

A ceremony was planned in Termez to mark the end of a war that began with the Soviet invasion in December 1979 to stabilize a communist government besieged by Moslem rebels and internal political conflicts. But the war became an increasing drain and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev, who took power in 1985, at one point called it a "bleeding wound."

At least 1 million Soviet soldiers were involved in the war and 15,000 were killed.

In Moscow, Foreign Ministry spokesman Vadim Perilyev said as the Soviets withdrew, 15,000 guerrillas were massing near the Afghan city of Jalalabad and "twice that number" near Kabul, some 75 miles to the west.

Official Kabul radio said a rocket struck a road near the airport Tuesday, killing four children and a man as they stood in line outside a bread shop.

Agreement means Contra base closings

UPI report

COSTA DEL SOL, El Salvador — Five Central American presidents signed an agreement under which Nicaragua's Contra rebels will be expelled from their bases in Honduras in exchange for a promise of democratic reforms by the Sandinista government in Managua.

Contra leader Adolfo Calero hailed the accord Tuesday as a "victory for democracy" but vowed his guerrillas would not return to Nicaragua until the Sandinistas made good on their promises for open elections and other reforms.

The presidents of Guatemala, El Salvador, Nicaragua, Costa Rica and Honduras signed a document Tuesday on the final day of their two-day summit meeting that will revive the Central American peace plan, known as Esquipulas II and signed 18 months ago in Guatemala by the five heads of state.

In the plan, the five presidents agreed to draft within 90 days a plan for the "demolition, relocation or voluntary repatriation to Nicaragua" of the Contra rebels, who have been trying to overthrow Nicaragua's leftist Sandinista government since 1981. About 11,000 Contras are in base camps inside Honduras, near its border with Nicaragua.

"What we are seeing here is a consensus among the five presidents that the Contras are dead and buried," said Paul Reichler, a U.S. lawyer advising the Nicaraguan government. "The war is over in Nicaragua."

"With the cooperation with the five presidents, the Contras will have no choice but to leave Honduras," Reichler said. "They will be able to return to Nicaragua, if they wish, or to a third country. But the important thing is their movement will be disbanded for good."

The Contras received millions of dollars in support from the Reagan administration. One of Reagan's primary foreign policy goals during his eight years in the White House was the Contra effort to overthrow the Sandinista government.

Violence mars Sri Lankan election

United Press International

COLOMBO, Sri Lanka — Leftist Sinhalese rebels Wednesday unleashed a slew of attacks that left at least six people dead and eight wounded as voting began in the crisis-riven island's first parliamentary elections in more than a decade, police said.

The early turnout in Colombo and its suburbs appeared to be moderate, but officials reported poor attendance in the south, the main stronghold of the Janatha Vimukthi Peramuna (JVP), or Peoples Liberation Front, which vowed to kill anyone who participated in the elections.

A similar pledge was made by the Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam (LTTE), the only group of rebels of the island's ethnic Tamil minority that is still waging a more than five-year war for independence for the Tamil-dominated north and east.

However, election officials said polling was moderate to heavy in the LTTE's former stronghold of Jaffna and other areas of Northeastern Province.

About 41,000 troops and police, assisted by an Indian peace-keeping force of an estimated 60,000 soldiers posted in Tamil areas, were deployed for the contests for the 225-member Parliament. Some 9.37 million people were eligible to chose from among 1,383 candidates.

The main contenders were President Ranasingha Premadasa's United National Party (UNP) and the opposition Sri Lanka Freedom Party of former prime minister Sirimavo Bandaranaike. Seven other recognized parties were participating.

Political experts have predicted that the UNP, which won a four-fifths majority in 1977 parliamentary polls at the height of its popularity, would probably emerge with a working majority, although possibly requiring the support of smaller parties.

Police said JVP members staged a slew of attacks aimed at wrecking the polls in which at least six people were killed, including two rebels who were shot by security forces, police said.

The victims included Colombo city council member Jayantha Mallimaratchi, whose father is a UNP member of Parliament. Police said Mallimaratchi was traveling in a vehicle and was killed by gunfire loosed from a passing car.

A home guard, a polling station clerk and an office aide died in a JVP attack on voting booths in Eppawela, 130 miles southeast of Colombo, a senior police official said.

A tall of two puppies

sort she is, Sasha extends a paw to play (center photo), but Theo would have nothing of it and turns a cold shoulder. At right, unrequited love brings a growl to Sasha's mouth as Theo looks on unmoved. Thankfully, no fight broke out between the two, who were interacting at a recent puppy training class sponsored by Seminole Dog Fanciers at Secret Lake Park in Casselberry.

4-H's horse show open to non-members

APOPKA — Seminole County 4-H will hold its annual benefit horse show on Sunday, Feb. 19, at Clarcona Horseman's Park, off of Clarcona-Ocoee Road, in Apopka.

This year's show, which will be from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., will feature 54 classes with four high-point awards and seven champion and reserve championships.

The show is open to all, whether in 4-H or not, and will feature classes in games, western, hunter and saddleseat riding.

Entry fees are $4 per class in advance, or $5.50 per class on the day of the show.

For more information, one may call Barbara Buccino at 333-0031, Ike Isaacson at 385-4819, or Judy Putz at 332-7928.

Western and saddleseat judge will be Janet Barber from Ocala, and hunter judge will be Marylu Gallagher from Lakeland.

Businesses or individuals wishing to contribute to the show as class sponsors should call Shelda Wilkens at 323-2500, ext. 180.

Garden plots for public use

SANFORD — Interested in growing vegetables but have nowhere to plant a garden?

Consider gardening in the Seminole County Community Garden, where for a $20 water fee, one may plant a 20-by-20-foot plot full of vegetables.

The garden is located on the Sanford State Farmer's Market, and there are a few plots available.

Interested gardeners may call Celeste White, Seminole County extension urban horticulturist, at 323-2500, ext. 181, for an application or more information.

Cook

Preheat oven to 350°F. In a 1 1/2-quart baking dish, combine all the ingredients. Stir to combine. Sprinkle with paprika. Bake for 30 minutes or until piping hot and bubbly.

ABOPAO (MEXICAN CHICKEN)

1 large baking size chicken
2 large onions
2 cloves garlic
1 1/2 cup rice
Salt and pepper to taste
1 green pepper diced
1/4 pound cured ham
1 can (14 1/2 ounce) tomatoes
1/2 cup sliced stuffed olives
Cut large chicken in its joints; chop onions, garlic and green peppers. Chop ham into cubes. Boil all in 2 quarts of water. Salt and pepper to taste. When vegetables come to a boil, add chicken and cook until tender. Remove the skin and bones, and chop into large pieces. Return to vegetables and add 1 can peeled tomatoes. Add rice and sliced olives. Cook until rice is done.

RUM BALLS

3 cups vanilla wafers, ground
1 cup nuts (pecans or almonds), ground
2 cups powdered sugar
3 tablespoons white corn syrup
1 1/2 tablespoons cocoa
1/4 cup each of rum and whiskey
Mix all ingredients together. Mix into small balls and dust with powdered sugar.

EVEN IT UP!

GIVE YOUR CHANGE TO FEED THE HUNGRY

The statistics about hunger in America are shocking. More and more children and elderly people don't have enough to eat. But you can help make a change for the better. Winn-Dixie and The Salvation Army have put together a simple, effective program called "Even It Up." When you buy groceries, just ask your cashier to "even up" your grocery total to the next dollar. The funds will go to The Salvation Army to provide fresh food items for needy families.
