

Debt Dispute Ends With Assault Charges

SHOTGUN CHARGES
A 21-year-old Altamonte Springs man, who reportedly hit an Altamonte Springs woman in the face with a metal milk crate during a fight in which her boyfriend also participated, was being held in lieu of $10,000 bond. The suspect also allegedly fired shotgun blasts into the victims' home and broke out windows.

He has been charged with aggravated assault with a firearm and shooting into an occupied dwelling.

The incident occurred at the home of Kimberly Powers and Tracy Romaine of 102 Oak St., at about 12:15 a.m. Wednesday.

Ms. Powers told Seminole County sheriff's investigator Terry Huffman she answered her front door and was confronted by the suspect, a sheriff's report said.

They argued over money owed to the man and he hit her with the crate, the report said. They continued to fight, moving into the frontyard and Romaine joined in to defend Ms. Powers, Huffman reported.

Romaine welded a stick and chased the suspect to his vehicle and he smashed the windshield of the vehicle with the stick, Romaine ran toward his house and told Ms. Powers to do the same after he spotted a shotgun in the suspect's vehicle, Huffman said.

The suspect fired a single blast into the home and reloaded. He approached the front of the home and broke six windows, possibly with his hands, which were cut, Huffman said.

Another resident of the home was inside the house when the shot was fired and was standing near the area that was hit, Huffman said.

William Raymond Brandy of 633 Jamestown Blvd #1200, was arrested at 2:50 a.m. Wednesday at South Seminole Community Hospital, Longwood.

HAMMERED HEAD
During an Altamonte Springs fight over a Mattland man's daughter, a Mattland youth was battered in the head with a hammer. The suspect has been charged with burglary, and two counts of aggravated battery.

Altamonte Springs police reported the suspect arrived at the home of Robert Armstead Jr., 16, at about 3:15 p.m. Tuesday. He allegedly confronted Christopher T. Butler, 17, of 1917 Hewitt Lane, Mattland, and said, "Where's my daughter, you fat pig." Police reported Armstead is a friend of the suspect's daughter.

The suspect pushed his way into the home, armed with a pole, and allegedly hit Armstead on the shoulder with the pole, a police report said.

Armstead and Butler wrestled the suspect to the floor and when he seemed to calm down they released him and the man ran to his truck where he reportedly got a hammer, police said.

Butler thought the man had left and when he went outside the suspect hit him in the head with the hammer, the report said. When police arrived Butler, who was treated for bruises at Florida Hospital-Altamonte Springs, was lying on the ground. The suspect had fled, but not before pounding holes into the front door of Armstead's home with the hammer, the report said.

A hammer was seized and John Stephen O'She, 38, of 1640 Mattland Ave, was arrested on Second Street at Longwood Avenue, Altamonte Springs. He has been released on $10,000 bond and is scheduled to appear in court Oct. 28.

COCAINE BUST
An Apopka man, who allegedly sold a gram of cocaine for $75 to undercover Seminole County drug task force agents, has been charged with sale of cocaine and was being held without bond.

Bond was not set, according to a sheriff's report, because the suspect is wanted in Kentucky on aggravated assault and weapons charges.

The cocaine deal was reportedly made at about 8:20 p.m. Tuesday in the parking lot of the Mobil station, 901 State Road 436, Altamonte Springs, the report said.

The suspect was reportedly pointed out by a station attendant when the agents asked for a possible source of controlled substances. The man was in the parking lot of the station, the report said.

When agents asked the suspect for marijuana he allegedly told them he could supply cocaine. He allegedly took a plastic box from the dash of a car. Agents said the box contained six grams of cocaine and they bought $75 worth from the suspect, according to the sheriff's report.

After the buy other lawmen moved in and made the arrest.

David Lee Justice, 21, of P.O. Box 192 Plymouth St., has been charged in the case.

LOOKING FOR POT?
A 20-year-old Altamonte Springs man, who reportedly told police he was looking for a marijuana cigarette when a woman's fiancé allegedly found him inside her car and held him for police, has been charged with burglary to a conveyance.

A second suspect, outside the car of Patricia Hale at Windsor Apartments, fled when Kevin Helton confronted them, an Altamonte Springs police report said.

Police reported the man reportedly caught in the car allegedly said a friend who has a similar car had promised to put a marijuana cigarette for him inside the car and he was looking for it.

Victor Gerald Vitello, of 412 East St., was arrested in the apartment complex parking lot at 12:43 a.m. Wednesday. He was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

PIPE BOMB
Two maintenance workers for Huskey Ralty, who were on duty at the Riverbend Park in Longwood at about 8:15 a.m. Tuesday, found a pipe bomb along a nature trail.

Willard Raulerson, 61, of Apopka, and David W. Simpson, 24, of Altamonte Springs, told Seminole County sheriff's deputies they found the 5-inch metal cylinder, which had steel caps on the ends and a rope-type wick, beneath some foliage. They took the bomb to Raulerson's home and Orange County sheriff's deputies were called to detonate the bomb, a Seminole County sheriff's report said.

BURGLARIES & THEFTS
A sofa, nine chairs, 10 cushions, a desk, two tables and other items were stolen from a clubhouse at Thunder Hollow, Red Bug Road, Casselberry, between Oct. 5 and 7, a sheriff's report said. Harold O. Whetstone Jr., of Gene Branscome, Inc., of Bayton, Texas, who lives at Thunder Hollow, reported the theft.

BREAKING AND ENTERING
Christine Poucher, 32, 683 Keeneland Pike, reported to Lake Mary police that her home was broken into between the hours of 7 a.m. and 3 p.m.

Monday. Police reports state Ms. Poucher entered her home and found her belongings thrown about. She entered the bathroom and found the window had been broken to gain entry and someone had left through sliding glass doors in the rear. She said the house had been "secured" when she left.

Police said a tracking dog was used to follow the suspect's scent through the back yard to some woods where, police reports say, car tracks were found.

It was the second breaking and entering incident on the street in two days. Early Sunday a juvenile was apprehended walking along Lake Mary Boulevard after allegedly breaking into a car parked in the driveway of 684 Keeneland Pike. He was charged with burglary of a conveyance (automobile) and held at the Juvenile Detention Center in Sanford on a $5,000 bond.

Ms. Poucher reported that the missing items were three silver coins (one of them was a 1921 silver dollar), a man's 14 karat gold wrist watch with a rectangular face and the man's initials on the back and a Merrill Lynch Bank and Trust charge card with an expiration date of Aug. 1987. The incident is still under investigation.

NEA Proposes New AIDS Guidelines

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's largest teachers' union Wednesday proposed guidelines that it said seeks to deal fairly and safely with the problem of AIDS in public schools.

The measures, ranging from creation of medical review teams to alternative education programs, come amid mounting public concern over acquired immune deficiency syndrome — a deadly disease with no known cure.

Mary Fittrell, president of the National Education Association, said, "The guidelines are designed to strike a balance between the right of an AIDS victim ... and the right of other students and school employees to be free from the risk of exposure."

The 1.7 million member union urged school districts to create medical teams to examine students and employees who have the illness to determine if they can be in school without endangering others.

It also recommended that if a school has "reasonable cause" to suspect a student or employee of having AIDS it may require the person to have a medical evaluation.

In addition, the union said if a student with AIDS is barred from class, the school shall make every reasonable effort to provide the youngster with "alternative education."

If an employee is fired because of the deadly illness, he should be entitled "to use any available medical leave and receive any available medical disability benefits," the union said in its "recommended guidelines."

The union said the guidelines were adopted by its board of directors and will be sent to NEA affiliates for use in school districts, many of which are now wrestling with.

Robbery Suspect Hides At Veep's Home

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One of two armed robbery suspects fleeing from police was arrested early today near the well-guarded residence of Vice President George Bush, the Secret Service said.

The two men, described as "armed and dangerous," jumped a fence surrounding the U.S. Naval Observatory grounds where the vice president's official home is located at about 1:30 a.m., Secret Service spokesman William Corbett said.

Secret Service uniformed officers arrested one of the men within five or 10 minutes near a dumpster in a maintenance area. "The furthest point away" from the mansion on the observatory grounds, Corbett said.

A handgun also was recovered, he said.

Police and Secret Service combed the area with helicopters and dogs but found no trace of the other man, who was believed to have left the grounds when the search began, he said.

Corbett said Bush and his wife were in their home at the time but were never in any danger.

The two men seen entering the observatory grounds were among three suspected of robbing a taxicab near Observatory Circle, police said. A third man was arrested by police outside the grounds immediately after the holdup, Corbett said.

In their attempt to make a getaway, the two others "jumped the fence and lo and behold, they found themselves on the grounds of the vice president's home," Corbett said. "They had no intention of going anywhere near there."

Cocktail Proceeds For Charity

Football, Fall and the "Fuel Charge"

Autumn in Florida!

A time of year to look forward to... a time for "big games," tailgate parties and cooler temperatures.

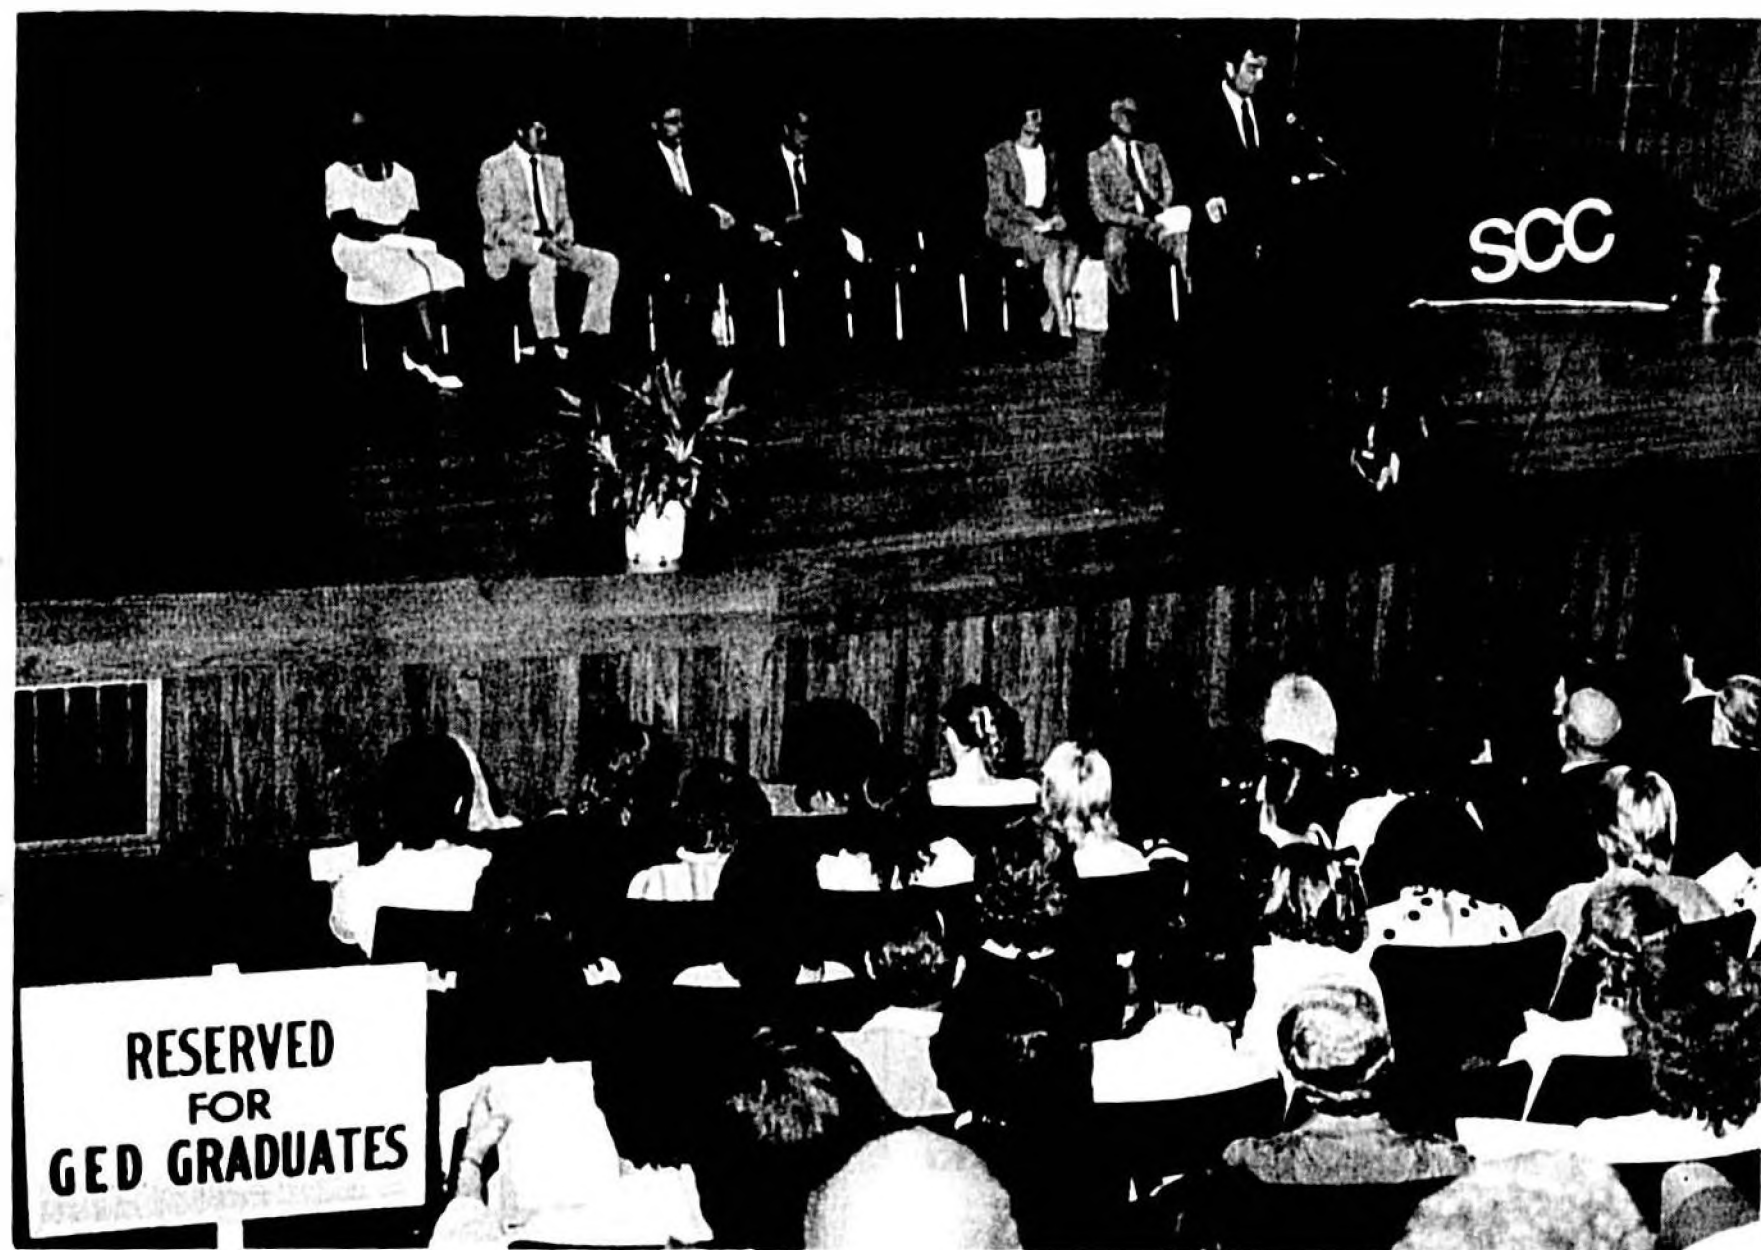

To a lot of us, it means less air conditioning... a chance to lower our electric bills. To Florida Power, it's our chance to lower the "Fuel Charge" (what you pay us to pay for fuel).

Our economical combination of nuclear and coal-fired generation has replaced much of the oil needed during the hot summer months, so we're saving money. And when Florida Power saves money on fuel, our customers save money.

Just like fall and football games... the lower the cost of fuel, the lower the "Fuel Charge."

They go hand-in-hand.

Dr. Earl Weldon, SCC president, addresses the GED graduates.

GED Graduates Honored At SCC

The Developmental Division of Seminole Community College held Honors Night in the SCC Fine Arts auditorium.

According to Nancy Williams, GED coordinator, "This is a special occasion and a way for the division to honor recent GED graduates."

Dr. Earl Weldon, president of SCC, gave the graduation address to a standing room only audience. Ms. Williams said.

Stewart Hopper II and Sandra de-Zeeuw were presented special awards for their outstanding GED scores.

The division gave special recognition to Karen Melvin for her determination and patience in obtaining her diploma. "Karen was in an automobile accident two years ago that left her a quadriplegic. Hard work and perseverance have endeared her to her teacher and other people who have worked with her these past months," Miss Williams said.

Sam Gavurin was recognized as the 6,000th GED graduate to receive his equivalency diploma in the Developmental Division and he is now enrolled in classes at SCC.

What's In A Name?

Your Credit, Not Identity, Is At Stake

By Ellen Hermanson
NEA Feature Writer

Do you know these women? Jane Hayden, Phyllis Brown, Jane Trudeau, Marlo Donahue, Christie Joel, Mary Levine?

Try Jane Fonda, Phyllis George, Jane Pauley, Marlo Thomas, Christie Brinkley, Mary Tyler Moore.

These women, like thousands outside the public eye, use their maiden, or birth, name in their professional and personal lives.

In these days of changing roles for women, the question that vexed Juliet — "What's in a name?" — has taken on a new dimension. For many, their name is a vessel for a sense of identity. And nowhere have women fought harder than to establish their identity as wage earners.

That's why changing your name when you marry can affect your life. If you've established a reputation in the work force under your birth name, people may not recognize you — at least not right away — under a new name. Even if the confusion passes with time, your credit history may still become distorted or even lost.

"If I had it to do again, I wouldn't change my name," says Nil Gold, an instructor at Columbia University in New York City, who was married 11 years ago.

"But it never occurred to me that I had a choice. Keeping my name would have been a link with my old life."

To protect their professions, reputation and credit, many women are reconsidering what for their mothers was automatic: taking their husband's name after the rings are exchanged.

Though people continue to believe that the law requires women to change their names when they marry, women and men have the right to choose whatever name they want. In 1976 Hawaii became the last state to rescind the law requiring women to assume their husbands' surnames. In some states, however, a woman must state on the marriage license the name she plans to use after tossing the bouquet.

The only boundaries are that the new name cannot be used to commit fraud and that it cannot interfere with the rights of others. For example, you can't assume the name of a famous person.

"I don't think my identity will be subordinated if I change my name," says Ellen Goldschmidt, a magazine editor in New York, who did just that after her wedding in April. "But I will keep my maiden name professionally."

That is one solution many choose, or they add their husband's name to form a hyphenated surname. But when it comes to maintaining public records, bank accounts and credit ratings, says Marcia Kaplan, a credit adviser, don't presume that others will automatically be able to distinguish joint holdings from individual ones.

"The simplest way to avoid confusion is to keep your maiden name. But if you take your husband's name, use your own first and family names on credit cards and other financial papers," says Ms. Kaplan, associate director of Bankcard Holders of America, a non-profit
