Golden Age Games Begin

By JANE CASSELBERRY Herald Staff Writer

The eighth annual Post Fun 'N Fitness Golden Age Games got off to an enthusiastic start today with the "Falling Arches Stampede'' parade and opening ceremonies at the Sanford City Hall

The crowd made up of several hundred Golden Agers, officials, beauty queens and spectators basked under sunny skies as the week-long Games were officially opened at 9:15 a.m.

Carrying the torches in for the Olympic flame were Kay Thomson, 59, of Lake Mary, and Wilbur Ott, 68, of Ellenton

Mrs. Thomson was overall women's champion in 1980 and cante in second in the Decathlon in 1981. Ott, who won medals in several track and field events last year, brought with him this year 30 members of the Colony Cove Golden Agers from Ellenton, which is located near Bradenton.

The torches made from Florida cypress knees were donated by former overall champion Edith Harrison and her husband, Jack, formerly of Sanford who came from Baltimore, Md., for the Games. The Harrisons lit the flame.

A petition seeking the ouster of Mrs. Mary Whitney from the Sanford Housing Authority Board of Commissioners will be considered by the Sanford City Commission at a 7 p.m. meeting today at City Hall, 300 N. Park Ave.

If the City Commission listens to the advice of City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles, it will take no action on the request signed by 33 members of the Redding Gardens Tenants

Mrs. Whitney is one member of a five-member board which directs the operation of the six public housing projects in

The undated petition seeking Mrs. Whitney's ouster says the "reasons are too numerous to list presently, but suffice it to say that she has not provided any assistance nor concerned herself with the tenants' needs during her tenure."

Mrs. Whitney's term expires May 20, 1984. The petition goes on to arge that Mrs. Whitney be replaced by Terri Buratti, who the petition described as "knowledgable, experienced and concerned, coupled with her having served in the said position in the past." The petition states Mrs. Whitney is the "tenant council representative" on the housing

Mrs. Whitney declined to comment today. She would only say that she will not protest the petition at tonight's commission meeting.

Knowles, in a lengthy memo to the commission, said that officially there is no such thing as a tenant council representative on the authority. He said while the commission asks for and receives recommendations for the names of persons to serve and while the tenant council is one source of such names, it is a recommendation only. "Those individuals appointed to the authority are representatives of the entire population of the city of Sanford, not any group," Knowles said.

The tenants of the public housing projects have created tenants' councils of each project, and representatives of each council are named by those councils to the Joint Tenants

The Joint Tenants Council considers tenants' problems and reports these problems to the Housing Authority Commission. Knowles' memo continues that the petition does not state charges and uses only general terms. He added that removal of an authority member "for cause" is a complex, legal process with possible liability claims and suits by any authority member against whom charges may be filed.

"Tenants making statements can also find themselves involved if a court battle resulted. Therefore, it must be done correctly, carefully and with full documentation," the city manager said.

He urged the commission to remain uninvolved at this point because the tenants have not presented any information on which any municipal action could be based.

Knowles said the city's powers in housing authority business are very limited as is its legal responsibility. He said authority operations are answerable only to the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development regional office and federal supervision is not of a high level. "Their concern is primarily with budgets, expenditure of funds and the records of fiscal use," he said.

Former overall Games champion Edith Harrison and husband, Jack, light the Olympic flame with torches run in by track and field medalists Kay Thomson and Wilbur Ott.

A Volusia County sheriff's deputy and his assailant are dead while another deputy and the killer's girlfriend are injured following a 12-hour shoot-out in DeLand which ended in the predawn hours Sunday.

Deputy Steve Saboda, the department's crime prevention officer, died from a gunshot wound while trying to throw tear gas into the home of Ronald L. Sanders, 32, in the Country Club Estates area of DeLand.

Sanders, a self-employed building contractor and part-time rock musician, held Volusia and Seminole county deputies at bay since about 4:30 p.m. Saturday after Sanders

Hospital Decision Seen Today

By MICHEAL BEHA Rerald Staff Writer

It's decision time for Serninole County commissioners. After months of planning, brainstorming, reviewing consultants' reports, receiving lawsuits and waiting for bids on the old Seminole Memorial Hospital, commissioners must now get down to brass tacks to deciding where new county office space will be located.

A 2 p.m. work session is scheduled for today by commissioners at the courthouse in Sanford to begin making those

The keystone to the plans is the old hospital, which has gone on the market twice in the last four months.

The first try at selling the building was in July with no bids

The second try was in October and only one bidder, George M. Kline of Bethesda, Md., made a proposal

Kline, who wants to convert the building into a nursing home, offered commissioners $600,000 for the facility but failed to submit a 10 percent bid bond and asked the county for a multi-million dollar bond issue to help renovate the building. County staff officials are still analyzing Kline's proposal and a decision is expected today.

If the Kline proposal is not accepted several options remain for commissioners if they still want to dispose of the building.

They could put the building up for a third bidding since several people said they were interested in the property but did not submit a bid by the deadline. Or, private negotiations could be conducted between the county and the interested parties. County Administrator Roger Neiswender said a study of the building to determine its actual value for several uses would be advisable if commissioners want to negotiate privately. But the option commissioners have said they favor is converting the hospital into county offices, at least temporarily. Projected increases in population in Seminole County mandate that additional staff members will have to be added to the courts and related agencies. Additional courtrooms are being planned and more space is being sought for the state attorney, public defender and probation and parole offices.

The public defender's office has filed a lawsuit requesting action to solve its current overcrowding problems.

By moving commission and staff offices into the hospital building, the courthouse could be converted into additional courtrooms and offices for judges and staff.

That option has been favored by a majority of commissioners. But the question of whether the move to the oldhospital will be temporary or permanent also must be answered.

The hospital could adequately house the conunission and staff offices along with the Sanford clinic of the Health Department through the year 2000.

But if the offices are moved there and permanent renovations are made to the building, it would rule out selling the hospital at a later date.

The alternative to that appears to be moving those offices into the hospital while another office building is built adjacent to the courthouse.

Commissioner Robert G. "Bud" Feather favors building an office building at the county's Five Points complex to house

IN BRIEF

Forecast: 98th Congress Will Seek Middle Course

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The new 98th Congress will seek a new identity, moving away from President Reagan's conservative philosophy but unable to return To the old ways of the Democrats.

It is likely to modify Reagan's economic policies, and probably will push aside once-hot social issues such as bans on abortion and school busing.

A dramatic reversal of Reagan's budget-cutting policy is unlikely, since Reagan still has the power of the veto and Republicans continue to control the

Still, the new Congress is likely to take a new look at the third year of Reagan's 25 percent tax cut and will be more inclined to look for savings at the Pentagon than in social programs.

Social Security benefit cuts are unlikely, although the system's problems may force adjustments such as a slight slowdown in future benefit increases and a speedup in planned future payroll tax increases.

27 Die In Jail Fire

BILOXI, Miss. (UPI) — A fire set by a prisoner in a cellblock of the city jail early today killed 27 inmates and injured at least 34 other people, most of them choking on billowing black smoke, the fire chief said.

Fire Chief Guy Roberts said the fire started in the one-story brick jail building about 1:30 a.m. CST and fire units were on the scene within 2 minutes. He said the jail consists of one mass cellblock that is not divided into individual cells.

Roberts said a prisoner had set his clothing and a polyurethane mattress afire.

Roberts said that all of the dead were prisoners. He said there were about 90 inmates in the cellblock when the fire broke out.

Reagan Sets Sights On '84

WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Reagan appointed his old friend and political adviser Sen. Paul Laxait Saturday to head a reorganized Republican National Committee in a clear indication he is preparing to seek re-election in 1984.

Laxalt, a longtime Reagan confident and the president's closest friend on Capitol Hill, will replace Richard Richards, who is resigning. He will be in charge of overall political strategy, including the White House and the Senate and House campaign

The appointment, expected for some time, completes the positioning of "nuts and bolts" people needed to launch a re-election bid, said White House aides who encouraged reporters to spread the word that Reagan will run again.

WEATHER

NATIONAL REPORT: Winter-like weather hovered over the mountains of northern California, Utah and Nevada early today, threatening to dump heavy snows, especially in the Tahoe Basin as an unseasonably cold and windy storm began gathering force. Frigid air seeped into the South Sunday, dropping temperatures to the 20s in North Carolina and to the freezing level in northwestern Florida. Travelers advisories were posted for snow and strong winds in the Sierra Nevada of northern California and western Nevada early today as well as the southern Cascade and Siskiyou Mountains of Oregan. A winter storm watch was issued for the Tahoe Basin of Nevada and across Utah through Tuesday. The National Weather Service said the frigid storm posed a serious threat to the area and could develop into a major winter storm with a good chance for heavy snow and gusty winds. A chill enveloped the eastern United States. Asheville, N.C., dropped to a record low 21, breaking a 15-year-old record of 25 degrees for the date and Wilmington, N.C., had a low of 31 to tie a 1982 mark. Snow fell on the northern Rockies, Kalispell, Mont., reported 2 inches and I inch covered West Yellowstone, Mont. At Casper, Wyo., rain turned into light snow. The ice-slushed streets of Buffalo, N.Y., dried under sunny skies of 40 degrees after a snowstorm dumped more than 10 inches of snow on the area at the start of the weekend.

Soldiers of the 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment keep close watch on the East German border from atop their M-60 tank, parked within yards of the border itself.

Altamonte Man Eyes The East

The East-West Border, West Germany — The soldiers of the 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment (ACR) go by the nickname of "Blackhorse," taken from the midnight black stallion that adorns the patches on their shoulders. There is evident pride in their regiment and in the mission they perform every day. There are a few - a very few - "blue suiters" among them.

One such is Airman Barry C. Erhart Jr., 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Barry C. Erhart, 117 W. Hillcrest Ave., Altamonte Springs, who is a tactical air command and control specialist with the 601st Tactical Air Support Group, attached to the 11th ACR. His job is to support those who maintain surveillance across the border between East and West Germany.

"It gets a bit rough going out on maneuvers with the ACR," Erhart said, "especially when it's really cold and you live in a jeep for 72 hours or so. But, the chance to control fighter aircraft on close support missions sort of makes up for it. Frankly, I'd like to see even more field training and less

Soldiers of the 11th ACR rotate by troop in and out of the various camps along the border, with smaller elements going out to the Observation Posts (OP's) which are - in some instances - within meters of the East German border. There, American soldiers and East German border troops (BT's in the largon of the ACR) pass the time staring across the wire fences, minefields and ditches at each other, duly reporting any move either side may make.

Those minefields, fences, and ditches stretch for an in credible 859 miles (1,385 kilometers) from north to south. Should the Warsaw Pact forces ever decide to move west, the "Blackhorse" regiment would be first to meet them.

Ten Qualify For Election In Casselberry

Ten candidates have qualified to run for three City Council seats in Casselberry's Dec. 7 city election.

And City Attorney Kenneth McIntosh must make a ruling on whether there will be a contest for the one year split term for mayor. Mayor Owen Sheppard has resigned the $21,000 fulltime position effective Jan. 10, with one year remaining in his Casselberry City Clerk Mary Hawthorne turned over to McIntosh the issue of whether Charles Glascock has opposition in his bid for mayor from Bill Clark who has run unsuccessfully in the past for City Council. Clark attempted to qualify at 5:03 p.m. Friday, three minutes after the deadline. While Clark had been in City Hall at 4:30 p.m., Mrs. Hawthorne said he left her office several times before finishing the qualifying process.

Glascock was present in City Hall and noted the 5:03 p.m. time and protested Clark's qualifying. Glascock is a retired Army officer and hardware store owner-operator. Clark is a court bailliff.

For the three council seats, candidates who qualified include: Richard Russo, Bertha Rines, Jim Hill, Michael Bratman and Margaret Driggers, all for Seat 1 which had been held by Jim Lavigne. Lavigne resigned earlier in the year to run unsuccessfully for a legislative seat.

Seat 2 - Frank Schutte, six-year incumbent, is being challenged by Frank Stone, a city firefighter. Stone went on unpaid leave-of-absence from his job Friday to run for the council post. Schutte is a retired naval officer.

Seat 3 - Incumbent Bill Grier is being challenged by former councilman Carl Robertson Jr. and Valentino Zeek, a newcomer to city politics. - DONNA ESTES

Chrysler Canada Strike Threatens U.S. Workers

TORONTO (UPI) - Some 2,500 Chrysler workers at 16 plants in the United States faced layoffs today as a result of the 4-day-old strike by 9,600 Chrysler Canada employees demanding wage hikes from the financially ailing U.S.

Chrysler executives said the U.S. layoffs would begin today and the 16 plants could close by the end of next week - eight in Michigan, five in Ohlo, two in Indiana and one in Alabama that make parts for the Canadian operation.

With the unemployment rate in the United States already the highest since the Great Depression, the new layoffs would affect 1,000 workers in the Detroit area, 800 at Ohio plants in Twinsburg, Toledo, Dayton, Van Wert and Sandusky, 400 in Kokomo and Indianapolis and 300 in Hunt-

Masked Bandits Strike Three Times In Seminole

By TENI YARBOROUGH Herald Staff Writer

Masked gunmen netted more than $680 in three separate armed robberies in Seminole County over the weekend.

Sheriff's deputies said a man wearing a blue ski mask and armed with a sawed-off shotgun entered the Shop & Go convenience store at Wylly and Sanford avenues at about 10:50 p.m. Friday and ordered clerk John Tipton Wyatt, 34, to hand over the store's cash.

Wyatt said he told the gunman he would do whatever he was told and approached one of the registers, telling the man that there was no cash in the machine.

After Wyatt showed the thief that the register was empty, he began walking toward another register when the gunman fired a blast from the gun, shattering the store's front glass window, deputies said. The gunman ordered Wyatt to "hurry up" and Wyatt handed over about $50 from the second register, deputies said.

The thief ordered Wyatt to walk outside with him and then fled, deputies said.

Meanwhile, Joanne Leeson Gerard, 37, and Anita Louise Lanchez, 38, told police they were robbed by a man wearing a mask and wielding a handgun at The Bloom store, 2200 S. French Ave., Sanford, at about 6:40 p.m. Sunday.

The women told police that a man wearing a stocking mask, entered the store and ordered them to surrender their purses, collectively containing about $90, and then forced them into a bathroom before fleeing. Also, two couples staying at the Cavalier Motor Inn, 3200 S. Orlando Drive, Sanford, told police they were robbed after a shoeless gunman held them up in one of the motel rooms at about 7:15 p.m. Sunday.

Harold F. Dallman, 65, of Westchester, Ohio, told police that a masked man forced his way into Room 105 and ordered him, his wife, Lorene, and their friends, Donald and Mary Bowermaster, of Fairfield, Ohio, to surrender their wallets

Police said the thief then ordered the Dalimans and Mrs.

Robbery Believed To Be The Motive In Church Murders

LOS ANGELES (UPI) - Police today searched for the killer who shot to death two officials of the free-form Church of Naturalism in an apparent robbery at a rambling Hollywood Hills home.

A Cadillac limousine belonging to the church and apparently used to batter through an iron gate was found abandoned several hundred feet down a winding road leading from the estate.

Killed were George Peters, 43, the head of the church, and James Henneberry, 31, the church treasurer.

Officers said the motive apparently was robbery. A back gate that can be reached by hiking up a steep hill was unlocked and there was no forced entry. "The suspect appears to have gone through the house looking for items of value," I.z. Edward Hocking said. "We don't know if that was intentionally or as a ploy."

The property is ringed by fences with colls of barbed wire. A television camera monitors visitors at the front

A security guard at the house told police he heard a loud crash early Saturday and ran outside to see the iron gate lying on the ground at the bottom of the driveway.

He ran to the main house and found a body and called police, officers said.

A 1976 book, "Mind Styles, Life Styles," by Nathaniel Lande, described the Church of Naturalism as a religious community in which members must turn over a minimum of $50 a week to the church. He said the church provides three stages of divinity training," as part of a philosophy of freedom to break the traditional patterns of thought.

They are "Group Grope," Rural Setting" and the "Death Judgment Experience," during which members sit in a black box for 40 days and "loses his self-concept and relives the events of his life," the book said. The church began treating drug abuse victims in 1963 and claimed to have aided up to 12,000 LSD users by the early

Another officer said no drugs or drug paraphenalia were found on the premises.

Wine America's Favorite Drink

WASHINGTON (UPI) - More Americans are drinking wine than hard liquor, federal liquor tax revenues show. The switch is attributed to several factors, including a wine fad, fitness fetish, embracing European lifestyles and, simply, an increased taste for crushed grapes.

During the first six months of this year, liquor tax revenues fell 7.3 percent while wine tax revenues climbed 11.6 percent, federal statistics show.

"Wine is our biggest seller, now more than ever," said Fed Cristina, the maitre'd at the Oak Room in New York's Plaza Hotel. "I really don't know why but people keep asking for it." Nationwide, during the first half of this year, wine represented 55 percent of the wine and spirits market, to liquor's 45 percent. For the first time since records started to be kept, U.S. wine sales eclipsed liquor sales in 1980. But the surge seems to be slowing down, experts say, and liquor may be making a comeback. Wine's gain in the first half of 1982, for example, was 2.8 percent, half the 1981 increase and the smallest since it rocksted in the 1970s, said Impact, a monthly magazine that monitors beverage industry trends.

Awaiting Trial For Cocaine Trafficking

IRS Investigating DeLorean For Tax Fraud

LOS ANGELES (UPI) - John DeLorean, charged with bankrolling a $24 million cocaine deal to save his sports car company, is being investigated by the Internal Revenue Service for possible tax fraud, it was reported today.

DeLorean, ensconced a luxurious Beverly Hilshire Hotel suite since posting $10 million bail 11 days ago, prepared today to enter pleas to a nine-count indictment returned by a federal grand jury. A trial date also was to be set.

Trouble appeared to be multiplying for the multimillionaire creator of the gleaming, stainlesssteel, gull-wing car bearing his name. An automotive publication today reported the IRS suspects DeLorean of possible tax fraud.

The Detroit trade publication

Automotive News said in a copyright story the IRS has broadened its investigation of Delorean and his business ventures.

Automotive News quoted sources close to various DeLorenn ventures as saying the IRS has escalated what were routine tax audits of financing arrangements into a wider

The result could be still another federal grand jury investigation, Automotive News said.

A federal bankruptcy court in Detroit was expected to rule sometime today on an offer by Consolidated International of Columbus, Ohio, which wants to purchase the DeLorean car company's assets including its U.S. and British auto inventories.

Two co-defendants in the case have been unable to raise bail. William Hetrick was being held in lieu of $20 million bail and Stephen Arrington was held on $250,000 bail.

Federal authorities alleged that Delorean was the financier of the drug deal and had planned to use the profits to bail out his crumbling auto manufacturing firm.

Hetrick allegedly was to have provided the drugs and reportedly took part in meetings with DeLorean and undercover federal agents to discuss an even larger deat.

The meetings were videotaped by federal agents. An affadavit by FBI agents Jerry West said that DeLorean hoped to generate $60 million to help save his Northern Ireland sports car firm.

Delorean and his co-detendants were arrested last month after the deal allegedly had been agreed upon. The cocaine was seized at Van Nuys Airport where it had been hidden in a car modified to conceal narcotics, federal agents said.

The federal grand jury charged DeLorean with nine counts of possessing cocaine for sale, interstate travel and communication for narcetics trafficking and aid to racketeering.

Automotive News said the focus of the IRS investigation is the relationship between the DeLorean Research Limited Partnership, a Swiss company that has paid more than $17 million for research and development of the sports car, and other businesses.

The trade publication said the IRS appears to be "trying to establish an audit trail to determine what happened to the money."

At the final closing on Oct. 29, it was agreed the 100,000-square-foot manufacturing facility at the Sanford Airport Industrial Park would temporarily continue as the production headquarters for Robalo.

But, Atchley reported the Cobia manufacturing facilities will be expanded for future Robalo production.

It is expected their move will take place in early spring of 1983. At that time, the present Robalo plant will be sub-leased.

"Most of the Robalo personnel will remain with the new ownership," Atchley said. Atchley, who will head both boat divisions,

Paper: Other Gunmen Involved In Papal Assassination Attempt

ROME (UPI) - At least two other gunmen were in St. Peter's Square ready to shoot Pope John Paul II the day Turkish terrorist Mehmet Ali Agea tried to Lut the pontiff in 1961, the Daily American newspaper said Sunday.

The Rome-based English language newspaper quoted Vatican sources as saying the information is contained in detailed reports given to the Vatican by Turkish authorities

The Daily American said the Turkish report "emphatically ruled out" speculation that the shooting was a Soviet KGB plot to liquidate the pope because of his support of the Solidarity trade union in Poland.

It said the Turks believed the attack was probably made to draw attention to "anti-national elements" in Turkey. The sources said the report outlined a "three-angle plan" in which the three gunmen were stationed in key positions in the square, each within easy firing range of the pope, the paper

Agea was the "second station," the sources were quoted as saying, indicating the first gunman did not shoot.

If neither of the three gunmen were able to shoot, the attack was to have been attempted the following week at the pope's next general audience, the newspaper said.

Agea seriously wounded John Paul in the May 13, 1981 assassination attempt and is serving a life sentence in Italy for

Help For Guatemala

Guatemala might fairly be considered Central America's largest, most important domino.

It is the most populous of the seven Central American republics. Its economy is the largest and most productive in the region. And under its fertile land are barely tapped reserves of petroleum.

But it is Guatemala's proximity to Mexico-the two countries share a 600-mile long border-that lends heightened significance to the struggle underway in Guatemala's bloodsoaked highlands.

There, in places with names like El Quiche and Huehuetenango, Marxist-led guerrillas are fighting government troops. Most of the guerrillas are Indians, rebelling against centuries of injustice and discrimination. But many of their leaders are doctrinaire communists trained in

And many of these same Indians, descendants of the ancient Mayans, also populate the Mexican states of Chiapas and Yucatan. Their lot in Mexico is hardly better than it is in Guatemala. Will they provide the next fertile ground for Latin revolutionaries out to establish a string of Marxist countries from the Panama Canal to the Rio Grande?

Much will depend on what happens in Guatemala. Until seven months ago, there was little reason for optimism. The misdeeds of a corrupt and brutally repressive government were fueling an already escalating insurgency.

Last March, a group of young, reform-minded army officers organized a coup that brought down the government. Their choice for Guatemala's new president was a retired general with a reputation for integrity: Jose Efrain Rios Montt.

Since taking office, Rios Montt has escalated the war against the guerrillas while simultaneously cracking down on the notorious right-wing death squads. Equally important, Rios Montt has moved vigorously against the blight of government corruption.

Granted, there are still doubts about this government. The army and the guerrillas blame each other for reported massacres of Indians in the highlands. The best bet is that both sides are killing non-combatants suspected of aiding the opposition.

Rehabilitating Guatemala's reputation requires that Rios Montt act decisively to prevent abuses of human rights by his own troops. For the record, Rios Montt says he has. He may have to try harder.

On balance, however, there can be no doubt that Guatemala's new government is a vast improvement over its predecessor.

The Reagan administration should be looking for ways to reward this improvement and to encourage further reform. So much the better if this can be done while also protecting the United States' obvious strategic interest in halting the spread of Marxist influence in the region.

We believe the best way to accomplish both objectives is to lift the ban on military aid and sales imposed against Guatemala by the Carter administration in 1978.

At the moment, Rios Montt's government is asking only to purchase spare parts for its tiny fleet of U.S.-made helicopters. Granting this request would provide the Guatemalan army more mobility against the elusive guerrillas.

More importantly, it would signal a tangible U.S. endorsement of Rios Montt's reforms. It would likely promote further improvement in the government's human rights record, and strengthen Rios Monett's political position against his potential enemies on the far right.

A modest, measured quantity of U.S. military aid for Guatemala would serve the best interests of both countries. And now is the time for the Reagan administration to act.

Reagan And The Freeze

On the campaign trail recently in Ohio, President Reagan told an audience that the nuclear freeze people are in fact unwitting

"They were," he said, "demonstrating in behalf of a movement that has swept across our country, inspired not by the sincere, honest people who want peace, but by some who want the weakening of America and so are manipulating many honest and sincere people."

Reagan's political enemies shifted instantly into the higher decibels.

"Shame on you, Mr. President," shrieked an editorial. "It was McCarthyism," cried columnist Torn Wicker. "It was low-road politics; it was disinformation." It was a "smear on the freeze movement." Mr. Reagan had "impugned its origins... though there's not a shred of evidence for that, and suggested that those who support it are dupes."

No evidence?

In its October issue, The Reader's Digest published a condensation of a forthcoming book by senior editor John Barron called "The KGB's Magical War for Peace." In this book, Mr. Barron thoroughly documents the extent of the involvement of the KGB in the nuclear freeze movement. Naming names, he traces the freeze movement, first in Europe and then here.

Needless to say, the freeze movement is entirely banned in both the Soviet Union and the Soviet satellite empire in East Europe. In fact, wearing a peace emblem is a jallable offense.

From its own political perspective, the Soviet Union uses the word "peace" in a peculiar way. The Soviet bloc, by definition, is the "peace" camp - not withstanding the fact that the Warsaw Pact tank armies are in an attack posture. The "capitalist camp" is the "war camp" - not withstanding the fact that the NATO forces are in a defensive posture.

This all rests on a political metaphysics. i.e., that "socialism" is "peace" and capitalism is war. Thus, when the Soviet Union takes over a new country, the camp of "peace" has been enlarged.

This casts chilling light on what the Soviets understand the "peace" movement in the West to be. It consists of what Lenin himself called "useful idiots," i.e., those who would weaken the will and the military power of the capitalist enemy. That many of the people in the "peace movement" and the "freeze movement" sincerely desire world peace in the traditional sense has nothing to do with the -- as the Soviets would say -- "objective" politics of the whole thing.

That The Reader's Digest has published this information about the Soviet roots of the freeze movement calls forth an interesting

In a speech at New York's Town Hall, at a meeting called to protest the crushing of the Polish Solidarity movement, the writer Susan Sontag mentioned the Digest:

"Imagine, if you will," she said, "someone who read only 'The Reader's Digest between 1950 and 1970, and someone in the same period who read only The Nation or The New Statesman. Which reader would have been better informed about the realities of communism? The answer, I think, should give us pause."

The answer, as she very well knows, is The Reader's Digest - and that answer was a shock and an outrage to her audience of leftist intellectuals at Town Hall.

ROBERT WALTERS

NASA: Facts, Fiction

WASHINGTON (NEA) - Although very few people ever head of Vance D. Brand, he'll soon be a nationally acclaimed celebrity and therein lies the story of the strength and weakness of this country's manned space program.

Brand is destined for fame because he has been designated by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration to be mission commander on the lifth flight of the Space Shuttle, scheduled to be launched in mid-November.

But is this trip necessary?

Although the exploration of space has been a resounding success, very few of its benefits can be attributed to the manned flights for which NASA is famous. Nevertheless, the inclusion of astronauts on space flights has added uncounted hundreds of millions (perhaps billions) of dollars to the agency's budget.

The astronauts do, however, provide the human drama which captivates and intrigues not only the public but also Congress and the White House - the indispensable sources of political support and federal funding for NASA.

Like other government agancies, NASA is willing to do whatever is necessary to enhance its prestige and its budget - so the agency has fabricated an elaborate myth about the importance of manned space flight. The program's purported benefits include miniaturized implantable medical devices. fire-resistant clothing, long-life waste disposal bags and impact-resistant foam for football helmets, ski boots and wheelchairs. The list also includes radar-reflecting covers for life rafts, grooved runways, glider wings, adjustable ceilings, infrared tire thermography, backpack resuscitators and composite materials for skis, golf clubs and tennis racquets.

In fact, every one of those items was conceived, designed, engineered, tested and manufactured on the face of the earth. In no case was a flight into space - manned or unmanned - necessary to develop or produce the product.

By far the most spectacular "spin-off" benefit from space exploration is attributable to a military program that involved no astronauts: A 1959 Air Force initiative led to the development of integrated semiconductor circuitry whose first major application was in the Minuteman ICBM.

In addition to integrated circuits, most of the major benefits derived by society from the space program can be ascribed to communications and remote-sensing technology.

"Advances in space technology are revolutionizing the telecommunications industry," notes a report on "the Economic Benefits of Space Development," released earlier this year by the Los Alamos National Laboratory.

International telephone calls, formerly routed through inadequate undersea cables and unreliable short-wave radio circuits, now are inexpensively and reliably transmitted by satellites orbiting the earth.

Similarly, international and domestic television signals now are routinely transmitted by RCA's Salcom, Western Union's Wester, Comsat's Comstar and scores of other satellites.

Nimbus, Tiros and Geos meterological satellites provide weather-sensing information whose securacy, quality and timeliness are far superior to data previously gathered. Other remote-sensing satellites map the earth's magnetic field, track changes in atmospheric ozone distribution, chart the planet's heat flow and measure the earth's shape. The numerous military applications of space technology include greatly enhanced command, control and communications; weapons delivery; reconnaissance and navigation. All of those functions require only relatively inexpensive unmanned satellites, while NASA is confined to essentially duplicating the same accomplishments at far higher costs imposed by the requirements of manned space flight. In 1977, NASA established a "special introductory offer" of $18 million for civillan customers paying for a full lead in the Space Shuttle's cargo bay. By late 1985, however, that price will soar to a prohibitive $90

"The agency that put a man on the moon," says the Los Aimos report, "finds itself trapped in the mundane activity of trying to reverse a negative cash flow."

SCIENCE WORLD Computer Game

For Doctors CHICAGO (UPI) - Medical students are playing "Bugs and Drugs" on computer terminals, dodging antibiotics, hallway muggers and mazes in their quest to reach the hospital's top-floor Journal Club. Only 1 percent win. The complex game, based on Dungeons and

Dragons, is the most popular lesson on educational PLATO computers across the nation. "It's a lot of fun, but it's unbelievably educational," said Dr. Fred Zar, an infectious disease fellow at the University of Illinois

Medical Center, one of 20 program operators in the country. "You can't play this for more than 15 minutes and not start learning some infectious disease."

Students play in the student lounge and library, often while eating lunch or just staying up until midnight transfixed.

"It's a relaxing way for medical students to spend their sparse free time, while also feeling like they're not wasting their free time educationally," Zar said.

"But it's fun and exciting and requires a lot of thought."

A tiny physician carrying a medical bag and rolling an intravenous medicine pole is moved on the screen by pressing four keys on the terminal keyboard - right, left, up or down. The character begins as a pre-med student with average IQ, strength, agility and endurance and gradually gains experience - from internship to Nobel laureate. "You enter the hospital armed with a minimal supply of antibiotics. Your quest is to make it to the 12th floor of the hospital where the Journal Club is located." Zar said.

Hospital floors are mazes with elevators, stairways and microbiology labs, which first must be strategically mapped out on a piece of paper. Secret doors appear occasionally -if you're fortunate enough to catch a glimpse.

Players must find a relic, or piece of medical history, hidden on each floor while fighting bacteria, viruses and parasites that arbitrarily appear on the screen.

Between 150 and 200 different bugs can be encountered, starting with common strep throat and becoming more "complicated and exotic as you get higher up in the hospital," Zar sald.

"You have to choose the best antiblotic before it kills you. And there's a time limit. If you can't choose quickly enough, it will kill

Other ways to fight bugs include using strength in hand-to-hand combat or using agility to outrun the bug. There is a last resort. "You can pray, which gives you a small chance that divine intervention will kill the bug. The bug might get zapped by a bolt of lightning and be destroyed," Zar said. A mugger wandering through the hospital attacks by asking questions.

If bugs are successfuly killed, players gain experience and may find a mortar containing pearls - of wisdom - to buy more antibiotics or floor maps.

A paycheck can be picked up at several locations - if you can find the cashier. Players start with about 10 hits. If all hits are lost, players must start over as a pre-med student. "If your hits become zero, you're dead," Zar sald.

"I would say that probably only 1 percent, or less, of people who play the game ever become Nobel laureates and make it to the 12th floor," Zar said.

He spent $350 having the locks changed on his floor, another $463 on repairs and replacements, and $76 for copies of 30 keys.

- Secretary of Education Terrel Bell wants to phase out his department, but he apparently wants to go out in style. He managed to spend $10,272 revemping his office; $6,279 of that was for painting his own elegant suits.

bought 24 dozen wineglasses and two dozen beer mugs for a bargain price of $286, and spent several hundred dollars on picture frames. A department spokesman explained that the glassware was needed for entertainment, and that the existing stock had somehow worn out. "You have to replace that sort of thing," he said. "Glassware is used on a daily basis. It becomes worn and it becomes necessary to replace it."

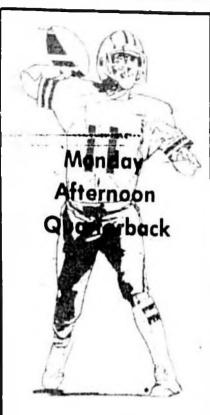

- The GAO auditors found that the Transportation Department had spent a grand total of $32,797.17 to spruce up the offices of four top officials. But the department spokesman challenged that figure. "Eight thousand dollars approximately was miscoded," he said. "Miscoded" is bureaucratic jurgon meaning that the GAO counted funds spent by the previous Democratic administration - which. presumably, was also responsible for wearing out all those wineglasses and beer mugs. Subtracting the "miscoded" amount and the money spent on other officials' offices, the spokesman arrived at a mere $1,693 for Lewis' own office.

In all, the Cabinet secretaries went through more than $68,000 of General Services Administration funds on the redecoration of their offices, according to the GAO. But sources told my associate John Dillon this was by no means the total amount of government funds spent for office elegance at the V.I.P. level.

The GAO ran individual audits only of DOT and HUD to see how much of their own agencies' money was spent by Cabinet and sub-Cabinet officials. HUD's expenditure came to $23,046; DOT's was the aforementioned $32,797.17.

Who was the most frugal Cabinet member of all? Interior Secretary James Watt. He laid out just $18 -- to replace some coat hooks on his office doors.

Spies, Lies And Outcries

This is a week old but you still might find it interesting.

While I was standing next to a disconsolate Lake Howell coach Mike Bisceglia two weeks ago, Lyman assistant coach Doug Dane wandered across the field after the Lyman win and spewed, "That showed no class, you not letting us use your press box."

It seems that Lyman had taken up a position in the Howell press box with its headsets intact prior to the game. Since the area is too small for both teams to occupy it, however, the Greyhounds were cordially asked to assume another area.

"There is no way two teams can call plays and make adjustments that close together," pointed out Bisceglia.

Lake Howell athletic director Harry Drivas said it is common practice for the visiting team to locate in the stands when the area is too small for

The Greyliounds, nevertheless, took exception and Bisceglia said the Lyman coach became "huffy" and stormed out of the press box.

Doesn't sound like that big of a deal, but then let's look at Lyman's

Prior to the game, a Lyman player, wearing a cast from his hip to his toe. was dressed out in uniform number five. Todd Marriott, Lyman's excellent wide receiver, has worn number five all year.

When Lake Howell assistant coach John Vignone asked a Lyman assistant whether that was number five, their wide receiver, he responded, "Yes, he got hurt this week in practice."

Marriott, of course, was not injured...yet. He dressed out in number 10. Ironically, he was zonked by hardhitting Howell safety Bill Lang and sent to the sidelines, missing most of the game. Call it justice. Lyman head coach Bill Scott said after the game "that Marriott's jersey had been at the cleaners. When it arrived. Todd didn't want to change because he was superstitious and had worn number 10 all day." Earlier in the week, Scott failed to show for a film exchange and when the Silver Hawks finally did get the game film, a two-point conversion play had been clipped out of the reel. "We had scouts at the game. Who did they think they were fooling," said Bisceglia.

This is the same Bill Scott which ordered assistant coaches Dan Bridges and Jim Markham to spy on a Lake Brantley practice last year before the Greyhounds played the Patriots in the finale.

Lake Brantley coach Dave Tullis remembered seeing a strange vehicle at some practices, but when one of his assistants started toward it, the vehicle moved away.

Scott denied that the incident ever took place, but Markham, the Greyhounds successful junior varsity coach, confessed last summer, "yes, we did it, but we didn't want to."

Things won't get any easier for the Lake Mary Rams this Friday when they take on Powerful Cocon Beach. The Minutemen crushed Groveland a few weeks ago and Groveland gave Oviedo quite a tussle before falling, 28-21 Friday.

The Lions are on a roll, having won four straight. A source close to the situation said Oviedo has the inside track for the Rotary Bowl game which is played after the season.

The big 4A class this week is Lake Howell and Apopka. A victory would put the Silver Hawks back in the Five Star chase. The 4-2 Hawks still need some help from either Spruce Creek or Lake Brantley though. Those two teams are the last two games for Lyman, currently one-half game behind 5-1 Apopka. Two wins for the Greyhounds would give them the conference and district title since they beat Apopka two weeks ago.

Lake Mary quarterback Scott Sperrazzo (middle) gets rid of the ball just as Lake Brantley's Ray Zink gets to him. Tailback Patt Murray (left) awaits the pitch. Murray ran for 68 yards in 17 carries, but the Rams lost to the Patriots, 34-6. Coach Roger Beathard's 1-7 Rams travel to Cocoa Beach this Friday to take on the Minutemen at 8 p.m.

The Seminole Community College basketball assetured up for all 183 season in the Mid-Florida College Jamboree at Palatka.

SCC played two balves and split, winning against Valencia Community College, 51-32, and falling to Lake City Community College, 39-35.

"We played well in both games," SCCcoach Bill Payne said. "We played all 13 kids, Lake City only played eight."

Rick Sutton's nine points and Keith Whitney's seven led SCC against Lake City while Rudy Kuiper had six points and four rebounds. Delvin Everett led SCC with eight rebounds.

In its second half, SCC crushed Valencia, 51-32 behind Kuiper's 16 points and Whitney's 14. Everett and Kuiper pulled down five rebounds apiece.

SCC will host its own preseason tournament on Nov. 19-20 with tearns coming from Miami Dade North; (second in the nation last year), Edison Junior College and Palm Beach, "It will be the best college tournament in the state," Payne said.

Kagel Pulls Out Of Negotiations

aimed at ending the 47-day old strike by NFL were dealt a severe blow Saturday night when private mediator Sam Kagel were "still in dispute" on the key economic issues.

The NFL Management Council supplied the striking Players Association with a 75-page summary of their most recent proposal earlier Saturday, but upon initial inspection of the document, NFI.PA executive director Ed Garvey found "nothing new" and Kagel decided that his role would be best served by returning home for the second time in the negotiations.

Kagel made a brief statement at 9:30 p.m. EST.

"On October 23, after 12 days and nights of bargaining, I called for a recess to let the parties review their stances," "It's quite apparent that neither the (management) not talking to us. Cheeseman Runs 3 Seconds Behind Jaeger; Brantley Girls Nip Winter Park

Ken Cheeseman almost accomplished the impossible Saturday in the 4A, District 5 Cross Country Championships at the Deland Airport, but the lake Howell junior came up just three seconds short.

Winter Park's senior standout Brian Jaeger is accustomed to putting quite a distance between himself and the rest of the pack in the boys three mile run. For the first time in a while Jaeger was seriously threatened as Cheeseman ran stride for stride with him before Jaeger pulled away for first place.

Jaeger's time was 14:59.6 while Cheeseman finished at 15:02.8.

Seminole County schools did well at the district meets with three of the boys teams and three girls teams qualifying for regionals.

Cheeseman's second place finish lifted Lake Howell to a sixth place in the team standings with a score of 169. The top six teams in the district go to the 4A, Region 3 meet this Saturday at the Boca Raton polo grounds.

The Lyman boys finished third in the district with a team score of 88 and were led individually by Doug McBroom (15.55.8, fourth place) and Brian Hunter (16:07, ninth place). Edgewater edged Winter Park, 63-71 for the district crown. Seminole finished eighth in the district while Lake Brantley finished ninth.

In the girls meet, Lake Brantley, Lyman and Lake Howell qualified for the regionals while Seminole finished a distant 11th.

Kathryn Hayward (fifth place, 12:20.7) and Ellen Stern (seventh place, 12:36), led the Lady Patriots to the district title with a team score of 71.

Although Stern and Hayward led the Patriots, it was the efforts of Kim Lubenow and Kim Pacetelli that clinched first place. Both Brantley's and Winter Park's team score was 71, but Lubenow (13:25.8) and Pacetelli (13:57.8) finished ahead of Winter Park's sixth runner to give Lake Brantley the district title. "That decided it for us," Brantley coach Tim Marshall said.

Other Lake Brantley times were Barbara Holmes (13:07.8, 19th place), Joanne Hayward (13:12.5, 20th) and

Cross Country

Laura Barnhill (13:23.1, 25th).

Behind Schowonda Williams' 12:49.7 (10th place) the Lady Greyhounds recorded a fourth place finish with a team score of 111. Kerry Ryter's 12:56.6 was good for 14th place individually and teammate Lynn Lucas was right behind with a time of 13:00 (15th place) to boost Lake Howell to a team score of 123, good for fifth place in the district and a berth into the regionals.

Other Lake Howell times were, Kathy Compton (13:09, 23rd place), Shelley Carlson (13:41, 32nd place), Candy Franklin (13:46, 39th place). Debbie Van Orden (13:55, 41st place) and Angle Rector (14:03, 44th place).

Soruce Creek's Carmen Gardner, as usual, glided to the individual title with a time of 11:29.2, 30 seconds ahead of the second place runner. Although Spruce Creek did not have a team score, Gardner will still go to regionals as the top five individuals qualify.

Mike Wooten led the Seminole boys with a time of 17:18 and was followed by Kent Troutman (17:35), Scott Meck (17:50), Mike Mclohon (18:12), Chris Calloway (18:33) and Kelly Faint (18:48).

"I was a little disapointed because I thought we could have finished in the top six and went on to regionals," Seminole coach Ted Tombros said. "Overall it was good year and it looks good for the future."

The Seminole girts were led by Sabrena Cashe (14:45), followed by Lisa Grant (15:02), Lori Eckler (15:13), Tammy Chaudoin (16:07) and Latonya Payne (17:43). "The girls made steady improvement all year long and finished about where I expected them to." Tombros said.

In the 3A, District 8 meet at Dunn Airport in Titusville, the Lake Mary boys qualified for regionals by finishing in sixth place while the girls fell just short of the mark with a seventh place team Derek Tangeman recorded a 16:26 and finished 10th to lead the Rams to a 175 team score, just three points ahead of the seventh place team. Other Lake Mary times were. Mark Blythe (17:11, 22nd place), Jun Schnell (17:42, 29th place), Brian LaVigne (18:37, 55th place), John Amrhein (18:44, 59th), Matt Palumbo (18:56, 66th) and Kit Johnson (19:02, 70).

The Lake Mary girls weren't as fortunate as the boys, finishing in seventh place. 35 points behind sixth place Rockledge.

Kim Averill led Lake Mary with a 12:48 good for 12th place individually and wad followed by Liz Stone (13.41, 32nd place), Shannon Weger (13:47, 35th), Andrea Beardslee (13:50, 37th), Maureen Friel (14:26, 52nd), Sara Karen (14:28, 54th) and Michelle Marnitz (15:11, 61st). - CHRIS FISTER

Carson-Newman Knocks Down Central Florida

By SAM COOK Herald Sports Editor

Melvin Melton took one look at the scoreboard and another look at the field and observed, "They can't line up." He was talking about the playing caliber of the University of Central Florida's Knights. When they did line up on occasive Saturday at the Tangerine Bowl, Melton and his Carson-Newman teammates proceeded to knock them

The final toll was, 36-17. It was the ninth straight defeat for coach Sam Weir's crew. It was another beating administered by an opponent too good for the Knights.

"This is ridiculous," said a beaten and bruised Billy Giovanetti in the UCF locker room after the game.

Melton and Giovanetti were teammates at Lyman High School five years ago, but it was easy to tell which one enjoyed the reunion more.

UCF took a 7-0 lead Friday on a onevard by Carl Carlson but it didn't hold un-Hugh Rutledge, a 5-7 tailback, shredded the Knight defense for 168 yards and two touchdowns as Carson-Newman won its eighth game in nine outings. The Knights, 0-9, close the season with Division 1-AA powerhouse Eastern Kentucky at the Tangerine Bowl Saturday night.

Sanford City Attorney Bill Colbert spoke on "Citizenship" at the November meeting of the Woman's Club of Sanford Introduced by Martha Yancey, chairman of the club's Public Affairs Department, Colbert circulated 39 questions to members prior to his program.

In general, club members flunked the test, the same as many other Americans who are not as up on their history as aliens seeking U.S. citizenship.

Mrs. Yancey, who announced that "Neighborhood Crime Watch" signs are being erected as quickly as they are made, also gave a talk entitled "Your Flag."

Parliamentarian Bill Gielow spoke on the topic "Making A Motion."

Club president Pat Foster conducted the business at 11 a.m. followed by a catered luncheon at noon. Chairmen of the luncheon hostess committee were Corinne Campbell and Judith Piercy who served more than 90 members and guests.

Peggy Deere, chairman of the club's Nov. 17 fashion show and luncheon, explained the event to members. Tickets are $3.50 and proceeds will

ORDINANCE NO. 157 Provides for a General Revision of the City Charter but does NOT change the terms of office of elected officials and does NOT change the general provisions for election of Council (Commission)

This General Revision DOES provide for the following changes in the Charter:

1. Consolidates and abbreviates the legal description of the City's corporate limits - does not change the city limits.

2. Changes designation of Council and Council Member to Commission and Commissioners.

3. Changes number of votes required to override Mayor's veto from two thirds to four litths. 4. Provides for removal of City Manager, City Treasurer and City Attorney by three-fifths vote rather than four-fifths vote and eliminates necessity for severance pay for City Manager. 5. Provides restrictions on power of City Manager to remove appointed Administrative officers.

6. Transfers responsibility for preparation of City budget from City Manager to City Treasurer.

7. Renumbers and reorganizes various sections of the Charter.

ORDINANCE NO. 154 Provides for the increase of length of terms of office for Mayor and Council (Commission) Members from two (2) to lour (4) years.

ORDINANCE NO. 199 Provides for the election of four City Commissioners (Council bers) from four separate single member districts in which the candidate must reside; temporary districting procedures;

bee is and establishment of Redistricting Committee.

The foregoing description is an abbraviated statement of the major points involved in each of the three proposed Amendments.

Copies of the full text of each proposed Amendment are available in the City Hell of Lake Mary. Fiorida. The registered voters of the City are invited to review said docurgents and to obtain a tree copy thereof from the City Clerk during usual working hours of 8:00 a.m.
