

20th Anniversary Is Observed Today By Sanford Herald

(Continued from page one) ... gloved man could not come down here and clean up a fortune the first day, and after this idea was exploded the new farmers started in on the proper plane. The old farmers discovered better plans of packing and marketing their crop and the celery business has gradually become our principal source of income.

In the early days there were a few tourists here but Sanford never made much effort to get them or take care of them after they were here with the result that they went farther south and helped to build cities while Sanford remained the "Celery City."

It seems to me that the present situation in Sanford has been enacted here several times in the past 20 years with the exception of the financial stringency that exists. There were many years that I never used money as a medium of exchange. Groceries and dry goods were traded for vegetables and we only needed a little cash for payments to wholesale houses and to the employees—all of my needs were met by the "trade-out" system and one of my editorials was based on the idea that Sanford could easily dispense with real currency and use oyster shells since none of our money went out and no new money came into the city at that time and we were just trading among ourselves.

However, and this may help the present generation—none of us ever lost heart or faith in Sanford and you never heard half of the complaints that you hear now although we had plenty of grouches and joy-killers who predicted dire things in store for all of the active builders of a bigger city.

I really believe that Sanford in those days received more publicity and real advertising and entertained more famous people than it does now and had more good times and made money easier. It seems to me that our wants were few, and we all chummed together and were real friends. We had only two automobiles and we were not a bit envious of the owners because every time they left town a mule team had to bring them back to the unholy joy and grief of the entire populace.

We had dances and card parties and fishing and boating trips and there was something doing all the time. There were folks here from every part of the world and in local new tourist hotels and several other enterprises.

And strange to relate it would go over and be widely copied and Sanford would get in the newspapers of many states, the people here would be enthused and instilled with new life and we would all have a flash fry or barbecue and big meeting of some kind to celebrate. And in all this hubbub we lived, enthused, built and prospered in our humble way and there was a rich spirit of friendliness, prosperity, the sense of doing things even if they did not always materialize.

In looking back over those days it seems to me that we never rested in our labors for Sanford and many of the old wheel horses of those days who are still living will remember how active we were in well doing, in building and planning something new every day. And until the newer generation is imbued with our spirit of going ahead despite all difficulties they will never get very far.

We had our troubles and our privations and we worked and starved even as they do now, only worse. But we never lost faith in our city and our state and you will see few of the old timers losing faith even now. They are growing weary with the struggle and they are looking for a soft seat in the sun but they expect the youngsters to take the helm and go ahead with full steam as though nothing had happened, to go ahead despite all difficulties just as they went ahead 20 years ago when the country was young and privations meant real privations.

The olden days were the golden days and we made them count to our mutual advantage. They can only return in our memory or be again shared on the screen of the newspaper or through the pen of the historian. Some day, some time, an old timer will write of the ancient history and then our children and grand-children will learn the saga of misery, of early struggles, of real work of building, of lean years and rich years, and see in the narrative that of history something itself.

And the child that was born twenty years ago—The Sanford Herald—how it has grown and prospered until now it is a full grown daily paper, filled with news dispatches that roll from a machine, set up on a machine, with advertisements set by machines and the entire plant set in motion with a clock-like precision. Even the front office is kept clean and the employees have clean faces and look more like clerks in the store than printers. Times have changed in 20 years and I for one would not have it otherwise. Improvements have taken place in that period in Sanford, big improvements and the city is a real city in every respect but it has a long way to go to become the city of our dreams of twenty years ago.

So today I am proud of my city, of my child, the Sanford Herald, of my country that I helped to separate from the mother and never received any credit for the act. I am proud of the fact that in the past 20 years I had a man's part in working for my city and that I was never called and found wanting, that I never faltered in my duty as a citizen and now I am on the side line I can still yell for my team and urge them on to victory.

All of which reminds me that the newspaper man does more for less than any man in the community and in all those years the editor of the Herald received less for his labors than any man in Sanford. But we would not have it otherwise. It would not seem natural for a newspaper man to be recognized at his full value so we go on and on until the time comes when another wishes to take our place and it is relinquished with few pang of regret, for it is a difficult task to help build a house and then find you have no seat in the edifice.

The softest seats and the places by the chimney corner are usually reserved for the loud speakers who have done nothing to build the house except to bully-bully.

The public is a fickle jade whose favors are distributed with a lavish hand until winter comes and then it seems that those most worthy of her favors are relegated to the rear and the unworthy are given the seats of the high and mighty. The newspaper man goes ahead just the same without fear or favor, doing his full duty as he sees it and in retrospection today it gives me a warm glow to know that the Herald had a large part in making Sanford into a city. It makes me happy to say that it was ever honest in its endeavors and today in celebration of the twentieth birthday this newspaper can say to the world that it had a real duty to perform and it has carried it out and will continue to carry it out to the end of the chapter.

Hot Weather Fails To Check Zeal Of Artists In France

PARIS, Aug. 21.—(INS)—The hottest summer Paris has seen in seventeen years does not seem to dampen the ardor of American artists who are living in the capital. The end of what is called the season of art exhibitions is remarkable for the number of shows of the works of artists from the other side of the water.

At the Galk Gallery, near St. Germain des Pres and the celebrated "Deux Magots" cafe where all Americans drink their morning coffee, Louis Lezowek, a young American who has travelled all over the world and notably Soviet Russia is showing his idea of the United States from whence he hails. There are landscapes and views of cities in their most picturesque character, together with profiles or silhouettes of machines, such as "The Crane," "The Draw-bridge" and a splendid "Port of Hoboken."

Roland Stewart, Professor at Wisconsin University has wandered through Europe and Northern Africa and put down his impressions in charming pictures of pleasant coloring which he is exhibiting at the Berheim Joene Gallery.

Will Rogers Comes To Help Of Friend At Great Sacrifice

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(INS)—Will Rogers, actor and humorist, has passed up $500,000 to come to the aid of his friend, Fred Stone, actor, injured in an airplane accident, Aug. 3.

He is giving up movie and monologue contracts to that amount to return to the New York stage and suit for Stone in a production looked for opening Oct. 1.

Stone's daughter, Dorothy, will also appear in the production. Rogers is expected in New York Sept. 10.

The lassie artist was looked after sending Stone the following letter: "If you don't want Dorothy to wait until you are entirely recovered I will go in the show with her, just to suit of plug it along till you are able to return, and I will do the best I can with my part. Dorothy can keep telling me how you would have played it."

U. S. Olympic Team Returns Victorious Amid Wild Ovation

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(INS)—America's Olympic team came back today wearing the invisible laurel wreaths of victory to be welcomed in the harbor by the strains of Home Sweet Home.

With Grover Whalen at his usual place in the van, the Mayor's reception committee, relatives and friends went down the harbor to greet them on the President Roosevelt at quarantine. The liner arrived at 2 P. M. from Holland.

Two city tugs, the Macomb and the Manhattan carried the welcoming party with the fire department band on the Macomb and the street cleaning department band on the Manhattan.

The playing of the bands, shouts and waving hands were the only greeting at quarantine to the men and women, boys and girls on the steamer. All expressed joy at retuning to America even though the rain did cut down the size of the crowd.

PLEASED WITH HOOVER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—(INS)—Secretary of Treasury Mellon, who has been on a vacation in Europe, is well satisfied with the progress of Herbert Hoover's campaign for the presidency. "Mr. Hoover's agricultural speech last night was most appropriate and fitted the occasion exactly," said Mellon.

Dorothy would of course, be the star, and I don't want any billing. Anything you, Dorothy and Dillingham says goes with me."

Rogers appeared in several editions of the Ziegfeld "Follies," but for several seasons past he has delivered his typical monologues in concert and personal appearance tours.

YALE WILL HAVE ONE OF WORLD'S GREAT LIBRARIES

Building Holding Three And Half Million Volumes May Be Ready By Fall Of 1930; Will Be Sterling Memorial

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 21.—(INS)—One of the world's great libraries is beginning to thrust its pillars above the buildings that are to form Yale University here, and if it continues to grow at the present rate will be thrown open to students in the fall of 1930. A picture to home 3,500,000 volumes is being put along today that its operations and lines are becoming similar to New Haven.

The fortune given to Yale by the late John W. Sterling, New Haven, made the new library possible. It will bear the name of the Sterling Memorial Library. The name of at least a portion of the Yale Bookstack. The building will loom above the college street here 150 feet.

The Yale Bookstack is to be 150 feet wide and will stretch 150 feet from east to west across the center of a building some 350 feet on a side, and approximately 150 feet high. The stack is to have 16 stories on which books will be kept. The bookshelves will be eighty miles long. The deck framing for the shelves is to be thirty miles long.

One of the designers of the structure has said: "If an ambitious library attendant desired to traverse all the aisles without repeating his steps, he would walk six and one-half miles." And the fact is stressed that the shelves, from end to end, would cover a distance extending from New Haven to New York City.

Among the interior features will be a main reference reading room with 15,000 volumes, a collateral reading room of 20,000 volumes, the 'Ligoniah' and Brotherton reading room of 30,000 volumes, all on the ground floor. Scattered on the upper levels of the Bookstack will be forty stalls, each four feet wide, equipped with desks and shelves for students doing research work.

The material used in the library is to absorb 6,500,000 cubic feet of common brick, 100,000 square feet of terra cotta blocks, 85,000 cubic feet of stone, and 105,000 square feet of sea face granite in walls which will be united with 1,000 bags of cement, and 6,000 cubic yards of sand for mortar.

Foundations required 112 tons of reinforcing steel, 31,000 bags of cement, 9,000 cubic yards of broken stone, 4,500 yards of sand, and to make the forms 125,000 feet of lumber and 100 kegs of nails were used.

Arches to support the floor took 1,000 square feet of wire mesh reinforcement, 4,400 cubic yards of broken stone, and 50,000 bags of cement with 200,000 square feet of steel.

Mr. E. J. and son, Inc., of New York are erecting the library. Messrs. Gamble Rogers, Inc., designed it. Andrew Keogh, chief librarian at Yale laid out the plans. The architect, was assisted in his work by the director and librarians at Harvard, and the librarians of the Universities of Princeton, Chicago, and Michigan, and the Librarian of the St. Louis Public Library as well as the Librarian of Congress. This group met here at Yale's president, Provost, and the dean of Yale art school for long conferences in which every possible idea was noted and used for the benefit of the library.

In this work James Rowland, president of Yale, gave congratulations that will be of great benefit—says Librarian.

Unemployment Problem Is Serious In Great Britain; Over 200,000 Out Of Work

LONDON, Aug. 21.—(INS)—Two hundred thousand British workmen must either emigrate or starve—that is the conclusion of the Industrial Transference Board.

This Board, composed of three of Britain's chief economists, Sir Warren Fisher, Secretary to the Treasury, Sir John Cadman, President of the Anglo-Persian Oil Company and Sir David Shackleton, Technical Advisor to the Ministry of Labor, have received this drastic view after seven months intensive study of the industrial situation in Britain.

Study Transfers. They were appointed to consider the question of facilitating the transference of workers, and in particular of miners, for whom opportunities of employment in their own district or occupation are no longer available.

They arrived at the conclusion that, in the coal trade alone, there is a permanent surplus of 200,000 men—in other words that this number of men, trained in the industry cannot hope to get work in the future.

In addition, in the textile, shipbuilding, iron and steel and heavy engineering trades there are 100,000 men who are in a like category.

The report states frankly: "There is no question of lifting over-unemployment in these areas until the crisis passes. A new policy is needed, directed to the removal of as many workers as possible from the depressed areas."

No Substitute Trade. It is also pointed out that the present chronic unemployment has arisen in areas where every man has been brought up to one or two main industries and that there is no prospect of founding any substitute industry.

It is therefore recommended that the knot be cut once and for all, and that those affected in this manner be given a fresh start elsewhere.

The report calls for private assistance apart from State aid, and emphasizes that emigration to British Dominions has been regrettably small in the past six years.

Large Handkerchiefs In Shades That Match Gowns Are Popular In France

PARIS, Aug. 15.—(INS)—Women's handkerchiefs which are meant to match the shades of their gowns are popular in France.

Necklaces in round half-beads which lay flat around the neck are worn not only with evening frocks but with afternoon ones as well. There are some charming ones in turquoise, maxtrix and pale pink which look like coral and earrings to match. An Egyptian necklace comes in triangular pieces of turquoise with a tiny crystal bead between.

Black chiffon comes trimmed with the same color lace and is very smart with the black lace evening gowns. Very attractive ones have a wide border of printed dots.

Necklets in irregular beads of blue crystal with flat cylindrical beads in black and white are very original. They come in all the fashionable shades and are very smart for simple morning wear.

Emeralds which are very popular this year, are appearing in heavy slave bracelets. Pendants of jade, opal and onyx come in extremely large sizes, almost like plaques. A beautifully carved piece makes the central and most important floral designs which often make the only bit of trimming. Necklaces in round half-beads which lay flat around the neck are worn not only with evening frocks but with afternoon ones as well. BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

A NECESSARY WARNING

He that saith unto the wicked, Thou art righteous, him shall the people curse, nations shall-ahor him: But to them that re- tuku him shall be delight, and a good blessing shall come upon them. —Prov. 24:24, 25.

PRAYER

MY SHIP

Some day I'll embark on my final trip On an unknown, uncharted sea; And now in this time to build my ship For to build it there's no one but me.

My ship must be seaworthy, sturdy and staunch, Let the way be stormy and cold I must have a pilot and crew, ere I launch, For that ship is to carry my soul.

The Carpenter of Nazareth furnished the plans For building the ship of my life; If I can but imitate His skillful hands I'll weather the worst storms and strife.

The material used must be truth, which prevails Against all the tempests of sin; I must cut out the rottenness of hate from my sails, And use only good will toward men.

And then ere I go I must have Faith in God For He is the Way and the Light I call my ship Hope, and 'tis the way be hard, A compass of Love guides me right. —Edwin Youmans

Mr. Skipper is having trouble steering the Republican bark over some of these Florida seas of discord.

Senator Tom Heflin is hereby placed in nomination for the presidency of the Amalgamated Order of Bull Slingers.

Our office boy says he doesn't mind hearing some fellows talk a great deal because he knows they never get a chance at home.

It now appears that the Rev. John Roach Straton, William Allen White and Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, like prickly heat, only break out on warm occasions.

Senator Robinson may speak in Florida next month. Since Sanford is centrally located and can be reached from any part of the state within a few hours' ride, why not stage the event here?

During one little party in Hollywood several nights ago, Tom Mix, the larrikin-throwing king of cinema, directed a few right-handed socks in the direction of the pulchritude of Will Morrissey. The latter's wife entered the fray and a regular three-cornered brawl ensued. All of which sounds as if Tom and his friends were trying to mix some ugly dispositions with some bad liquor, and those who know say it can't be done without a few casualties as a result.

The death of George Harvey, eminent journalist and diplomat and known as the maker of two presidents, recalls the famous break between him and Woodrow Wilson. Harvey discovered Wilson and boomed him for president in the magazine Harper's Weekly. When the war-time president frowned on the support of the public and bluntly told Harvey he didn't want it, the latter complied. Later Mr. Wilson regretted his action, apologized in the public press and was about to appoint Harvey ambassador to France when Harvey attacked the executive in the New York Times. The president then declared the appointment couldn't be made under the circumstances and the breach, which had been caused so thoughtlessly, was never healed.

A Columbia University professor is responsible for an innovation that promises to be a disturbing factor in the life of the college man. The plan has such rare possibilities, from an instructor's point of view, that it seems reasonably certain that it will be only a matter of a short time before the scheme will have been introduced in hundreds of other institutions of higher learning.

It appears that the late morning hours have been rather delightful periods for Columbia students to catch up with the sleep which they lost the night before. As a result they have been missing numerous and sundry classes, particularly those taught by Professor Allen Abbott, instructor in English. The professor, believing firmly that students should attend their classes, invented a modified form of the Bertillon system to help him enforce attendance. Using his own camera to obtain photographs of the students, Professor Abbot placed each man's picture on the attendance card, and in calling the class roll he checked the faces with the photographs.

The professor, whose interest in advancing the intellectual integrity of his students is only exceeded by his desire to prevent them from becoming slothful, devised the picture-checking system because he discovered wealthy young men were in the habit of hiring other students to act as their proxies and shout "present" when their names were called in class. Such a practice, he declares, was detrimental not only to those who were "cutting" class but also to the substitutes. Besides, argued the instructor, he had become thoroughly dissatisfied with the idea of seeing strange faces every day and wanted very much to become acquainted with his students.

In the meantime, the Columbia campus is buzzing with indignation. The undergraduates are protesting with increasing resentment against trespassing on what they term their inalienable right—that of attending classes as they see fit. They see in the plan grim forebodings of what may follow as a natural result. If their pictures are taken now much in the same manner as criminals are photographed for the rogues' gallery, might they not expect in the near future to have their fingerprints recorded? And might not the ever alert authorities be expected eventually to require passports, pedigrees or certificates of good behavior at home before admitting students to college? Very, the good old days are gone forever at dear old Siwash.

We Have Been Dreaming

Another of our fondest illusions is shattering. From childhood we Americans have been taught that the Turks drink black coffee, smoke water pipes and make their womenfolk wear veils. Now comes Halide Edib Hanoum, Turkish woman novelist and tells the world that the latter custom, as reported in the Occident, is so much "hoaxey." Speaking at the Williamstown Institute of Politics before many learned authors, editors, jurists and statesmen, she announced that women wear veils in Turkey as much as they wear, or wore them in Paris—for ornament and nothing else. And, she added, shattering the venerable myth completely, Turkish husbands have nothing to say in the matter.

Incidentally she stated that "the better class of Turks has never practiced polygamy. Public opinion in Turkey has been consistently against the harem—despite the fact that every Sultan kept one. There are fewer polygamous relationships in Turkey, today than in any other European country. The modern Turkish woman dresses and wears her hair exactly as she pleases—and marries when and whom she wants to. Equality of men and women is more racially ingrained with the Turks than with other Eastern peoples. You will see that as you study them." Thus the tales of customs of other nations, of which we have been told, are branded as something unpleasantly akin to false. Madame Edib is a person to be relied upon. She is the first woman ever invited to lecture at the annual Williams College gathering. She is described by Charles R. Crane, noted American statesman, as "the most brilliant woman in Asia." She is an accomplished and fiery novelist and a fecund and suave pleader. So, we must accept her statements, as fact, and divest Turkey, in our minds-eye, of harms, veils and the romance they engender. We are ever a trifle inclined, now that one story has disintegrated, to come to the conclusion there is no such thing as "Turkish" coffee and that the gentlemen of Asia minor chew gum instead of smoking "Turkish" tobacco. However, the message Madame Edib brings is that, after all, the women of Turkey are much the same as those of Europe and America and is another step toward the much talked of "world peace through understanding."

A NOTABLE CAREER

Two important anniversaries, one marking a epochal change in Government, the other a new attitude toward the world about it and a new outlook have just been celebrated in Germany. On Sunday the country observed the ninth anniversary of the republic; on Monday it was recalled that just five years before Gustav Stresemann had assumed the office of Foreign Minister. Stresemann entered upon his duties when amicable international relations seemed a forlorn hope. The Ruhr had been occupied and Germany had retaliated with passive resistance. France was seeking reparations at the point of the bayonet and there were no reparations forthcoming from the miltitized and beaten nation. With the exception of the withdrawal of American troops, the Rhineland was occupied as it was following the Armistice, and an alien military control commission was saddled on the defeated country. Germany nursed a grudge and France was having fits of nervousness, while England remained aloof and Italy was occupied solely with domestic affairs. Anything like cooperation between former Allies and former enemies seemed a biennial dream.

THE NEWSBOY

DAYTONA NEWS-JOURNAL

The children's bureau of the department of commerce finds, as the result of a recent survey, that of all vocations and avocations in which young boys are engaged for their economic benefit, carrying newspapers and magazines is the least dangerous from a moral standpoint and among the most profitable in all other ways. In eight large cities in which the survey was conducted it was found that the newsboy fares best.

Conditions surrounding such trades as bootblacking, peddling and junk collecting by children were, such as to cause the bureau to declare that they should be prohibited. But the bureau approves of the employment of boys in the delivering and selling of newspapers.

Contrary to the opinions of some well-meaning persons, the government experts found that carrying newspapers builds character. Among the newsboys was found a low percentage of truancy and juvenile delinquency. Newsboys are seldom found in the juvenile courts. In their school work carriers make better than average progress.

The average newsboy, the survey reveals, tackles the job because it appeals to him and because it pays him well. He is a hustler who works because he likes it and who, in working, generally keeps out of mischief. His work, while light, fits him for a better career after he completes his education. Many successful men earned their first dollar selling newspapers.

Miss Whitner Honors Visitor From Mobile

Miss Elizabeth Whitner was hostess at a delightful bridge party Tuesday afternoon at her home on Oak Avenue honoring Miss Doris Alexander of Mobile, Ala., who is visiting here as the guest of her sister, Mrs. Mortimer Glover. The spacious living-room where the tables were arranged was attractively decorated with pink tulle and hibiscus. Scores were kept on unusual hand-painted tallies ornamented with silhouettes of dancing girls.

After an interesting game of bridge scores were counted and it was found that Miss Elizabeth Turnbull held top score, for which she was awarded a beautiful gold compact. Miss Elizabeth McCulloch of Orlando received the prize for low score which was a silk brocaded memorandum book. Miss Whitner presented her honor guest with a box of dainty hand-made handkerchiefs as a memento of the occasion.

After the awarding of the prizes the hostess, assisted by her mother, Mrs. B. F. Whitner, Miss Elizabeth McCulloch, and Miss Georgia Mobley, served a delicious salad and ice course. There were three tables of players including: Miss Alexander, Miss Elizabeth McCulloch of Orlando, Miss Maude Lake, Miss Olive Newman, Miss Margaret Louise Young of Pensacola, Miss Camilla Puleston, Miss Elizabeth Turnbull, Miss Carol Stone, Miss Ruth Henry, Miss Rebecca Stevens, Miss Georgia Mobley, and Miss Penny of Florence, S. ## Police Seize More In Connection With Murder Of Obregon

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 22.—(INS)—Twelve additional arrests have been made in connection with the assassination of President-elect Alvaro Obregon. It was announced today by Gen. Antonio Rios Zertuche, inspector general of the police for the federal district. The prisoners are accused of complicity in a plot against the life of the president-elect. Further arrests are forecast.

Gen. Zertuche said he was determined to get at the bottom of the crime and would not let up until the mystery has been solved. The police official said that his office will not only seek the actual plotters but "those who were intellectually responsible" for the intended killing of the president-elect.

It is understood that the police have unearthed evidence of a plot against the lives of both Gen. Obregon and President Calles that was to have come to a head last April. It was claimed that a pretty 17-year-old girl named Maria Elena Manzano went to Colonel Juan Valdesola and other plotters in South Georgia.

Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Gatchell and young sons, Stewart and David, Mrs. Sarah J. Stewart and daughter, Miss Marie Stewart, expect to leave Sunday on a motor trip to Waycross, Quitman, Valdosta, and other points in South Georgia.

Mr. and Mrs. Van Buren Connell left Tuesday afternoon for their home in Philadelphia, Pa., after spending the past few weeks here as the guest of Mrs. Connell's mother, Mrs. Sarah J. Stewart at her home on Meltonville Avenue. They were accompanied by Mrs. Connell's niece, Miss Helen Chasman of Kissimmee, who will enter the West Philadelphia Hospital for women to take a course in nurse's training.

American Girl Is Glorified In Film At Milane Theater

With all attempts to glorify the American girl on the screen having proved to be futile in the past, Fox Films has stepped out without any blare of trumpets and is said to have done the very thing as one of the many high lights in the production, "None But the Brave," directed by Albert Ray which is coming to the Milane Theatre today.

One important sequence of the production called for a bathing beauty parade. Forty-eight real bathing beauties were needed and from a field of thousands of the forty-eight were selected after arduous eliminations and then the sifting process came whereby an even dozen, who rightly could be called "the most nearly perfect specimens of feminine pulchritude," was selected to act as entries in the international pageant, done, by the way, in Technicolor.

The twelve selected from several thousand were Sally Phipps, Eleanor Black, Jacqueline West, Edna Bonaldi, Janeta Winters, Ann Williams, Lola Salvi, Irene Murray, Virginia Parent, Diana Davis, Marjorie Andrus, and Betty Lawrence.

In the present each girl represents a certain country and the bathing costumes were especially creations designed and executed by Jerry Collins, famous creator of all in dress and currently designing fashions and costumes for Fox Film stars and feature players.

In the aggregate the dozen girls who appear in the pageant have won more than 150 beauty contests with Ada Williams having to her credit the greatest number, an even dozen, including the winning of the Misses Miss United States, "Miss Kentucky," Miss Coral Gables, and "All Star Beauty Queen." Also during the production of the picture Miss Williams was selected as the most beautiful girl in southern California. This award made her the Queen of the Orange Festival, an annual event on the coast.

Al Smith Declares For Drastic Change Of Liquor Statute

Smith clearly indicated that he intends to make prohibition the major issue of the campaign.

Declaring that he believes in temperance, but that temperance has not been achieved under the present system, the Governor said, "The members and fathers of our young men and young women throughout this land know the anxiety and worry which has been brought to them by their children's use of liquor in a way which was unknown before prohibition. I have news in reverence for law. Today disregard of the prohibition laws is indignantly resented by the people who believe to be a great moral issue involving the right rearing of our children, and the protection of our children's morals."

The Remedy For Prohibition

The Governor said that remedy of the prohibition question is the "Jefferson and his followers favored the complex activities of the widespread country. Smith said they know that it will support the activities of this body until a satisfactory law is placed upon the statute books."

Declaring that government should be in accordance with the democratic principle, some immediate relief would come from an amendment to the Volstead law giving a scientific definition of the alcoholic content of an intoxicating beverage. The present definition is admittedly inaccurate and ancient. Each State would then be allowed to fix its own standard for alcoholic content, subject always to the provision that standard could not exceed the maximum fixed by Congress.

In announcing that he favored a change in the prohibition amendment, the Governor said:

Let the People Decide

"I believe, moreover, that there should be a referendum on the question of some change in the provisions of the 18th Amendment. Certainly, before we attempt the amendment was ratified the conditions which exist today of bootlegging, corruption and violation of the law in all parts of the country. The people themselves should decide whether existing conditions should be repealed. I personally believe in an amendment to the 18th Amendment which would give each individual state itself after approval by a referendum, the right to manufacture or cause to be manufactured and sold by its own people, or to be made only by the State itself and sold for consumption in its own territory. We should learn from the experience of other nations. Our Canadian neighbors have already made a wise and judicious decision on this matter. The question of personal guilt has been thoroughly disposed of. The Federal Government has abandoned the government actually look from the people and to the States. The Federal Government has abandoned the government actually look from the people and to the States. The Federal Government has abandoned the government actually look from the people and to the States.

...nomination was brought about by no promise given or implied by me or any one in my behalf. I am satisfied that our party is in a position to promote it. I am satisfied that our party is in a position to promote it. I am satisfied that our party is in a position to promote it.

Monroe Doctrine

The Governor declared that the Monroe Doctrine should be maintained and not be taken out of the realm of politics and treated as a strictly business case. He charged that the Republican Party had failed in its effort to maintain the doctrine. He said that the doctrine is a policy of peace and amity with the world, and that it is a policy of peace and amity with the world, and that it is a policy of peace and amity with the world.

Tariff Views

In concluding his discussion of the tariff, the Governor told the people that he would not support any tariff which would increase the price of the things which the people need. He said that he would support a tariff which would protect the people from unfair competition from foreign countries. He said that he would support a tariff which would protect the people from unfair competition from foreign countries.

EMERALD GROWS MORE IN DEMAND IN FRENCH MARTS

Green Stone Is Most Popular in Combination With Diamonds

Paris, Aug. 21. (INS)—Emerald has once more come into its own, judging from an explosion of the precious green tone now going on in Paris.

It is set in all manner of ways, in brooches, necklaces, pendant rings, watch cases, cuff links and every piece of individual art creation with an apt modern standard of taste. It is considered the stone par excellence to be combined with diamonds, according to the contrast in the different hues of the green and the brilliant white of the diamonds. In the very center of this modern collection is the famous emerald given by Napoleon to Josephine de Beauharnais in 1800, a magnificent stone of great purity. Contrasts in the different hues of the stone are used with the effect in the latest modernistic designs. In fact, the emerald is being used in a way which is new and smart and is largely being furnished in the form of brooches, pendants, rings, watch cases, cuff links and every piece of individual art creation with an apt modern standard of taste.

CARDINALS SCORE ONLY NINE RUNS IN LAST 5 GAMES

St. Louis Outfit's Failure To Connect Nullifies Sterling Mound Work Rendered By Ball Tossers Of Red Birds

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—If those Cardinals don't start hitting mighty soon something will have to be done about it, as the timiding office boy smoking a stolen soul sterner remarked after catch-Perfecto for the sixth time in as many days. The St. Louis outfit has scored only nine runs in its last five contests, an average of less than two runs per game, thereby nullifying some excellent pitching by the Red Bird hurlers.

The only Cardinal who is hitting is Ernie Osratti, the versatile California Italian who was persuaded by Buster Keaton to become a ball player. Frank Frisch hasn't hit a respectable foul in his 25 appearances at the plate. Manager McKechnie is thinking of changing Douthett's name to "Nobit" and the rest of the team is afraid to do any thinking at all.

Excluding Osratti, who collected his daily pair of singles, the club amassed a grand total of one hit yesterday against Russ McWeney, of Brooklyn, and took a 6 to 1 drubbing. The Cards thereby lost a chance to take first place away from the Giants, who suffered a 3 to 2 setback at the hands of Red Lucas of Cincinnati.

Lucas made three hits himself and held New York to five, including a homer by Bill Terry. Fitzsimmons was the losing pitcher.

Waite Hoyt hung up his 16th victory for the Yankees and Jack Quinn dittoed for the Athletics, the Yanks holding their lead of 5 1/2 games. Hoyt won a 3 to 1 duel from Sam Gray of the Browns with the aid of Koenig's sparkling fielding and timely hits by Bengough and Gehrig.

The Mackmen had a picnic at the expense of four Cleveland pitchers, scoring six runs in the first inning and winning 12 to 4. Max Bishop had a perfect day at bat with four hits.

The tall-end Philadelphia outfit, members of the Cubs, made it six straight wins from the Bruins "Weeping" Willoughby limited the Windy City gang to five hits, score 3 to 1.

Ray Kremer of the Pirates registered his sixth straight victory by beating the Braves, 6 to 2. Traynor assisted with four hits.

The White Sox jumped to fourth place in the American League by virtue of their 3 to 1 triumph over Washington, the Nats dropped to seventh place. Detroit passed the Senators by nosing out the Red Sox, 4 to 3.

Joe Glick Looms As Leading Contender For Boxing Honors

By Sid Mercer
NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(INS)—Joe Glick, the Brooklyn talley who narrowly missed winning the featherweight and junior light weight titles, loomed as a leading contender for the lightweight championship today as a result of his victory over Pope Tenorio, clever Filipino, in a ten-round bout here last night.

Hunter Asks Tennis Body To Defer Action

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(INS)—Efforts to have the United States Lawn Tennis Association defer action on the charges against William T. Tilden, of Palmdale, scheduled to be tried by the executive committee of the association Friday, until after the playing season today developed into a powerful campaign headed by Francis T. Hunter of the Davis Cup team. Hunter has sent a telegram to tennis clubs throughout the country asking him to appeal to the association not to act until after the active season.

Tennis Tournament For Women's Title Free From Upsets

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 22.—(INS)—Not in years has a women's national lawn tennis championship series gone through the opening rounds so free from upsets as the one in which Helen Wills stands head and shoulders over all opposition in the Forest Hills stadium this week. With two rounds completed and the play leading directly to the quarter finals, not a single seeded player has known defeat while only one, Penelope Anderson of Richmond, Va., has been put to any kind of test to get by.

Miss Anderson caught a tartar yesterday in eliminative Evelyn Parsons of Palo Alto and just did manage to squeeze out a victory. But the others, headed by Miss Wills, Mrs. May Sutton, Bundy, Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory and Mrs. Hazel Hotchkiss Wightman, breezed along into the third round. One real test faces Mrs. Wightman today when she meets Mrs. Bundy, a holder of the title something more than a decade ago. If Mrs. Bundy treats Mrs. Wightman as harshly as she did Miss Eleanor Sears, Boston sportswoman and champion in 1907, the former Hazel Hotchkiss is in for a distressing afternoon.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—(INS)—The Federal Trade Commission today began laying the groundwork for the second phase of its investigation of public utilities. Questionnaires were sent out inquiring into the financial status of utility and holding companies. Open hearings will start in September.

MANY PRESENT TO HEAR SMITH GIVE ADDRESS

Gustav Lindgren, secretary of the building was reeled from "cloudy, hazy weather Bureau. A storm area which gathered in the vicinity yesterday afternoon moved eastward so briskly during the night that the regular morning bulletins were reeled from "cloudy, with probable showers" to "fair, with moderate southerly winds." Desiring to protect his voice for the "make" Governor Smith attempted to keep his day's calling list as light as possible. Many party chieftains deferred to this wish but hundreds who had not heard of the besotted executive offices at the capitol throughout the day.

Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, the vice-presidential nominee named to Albany this morning from the home of Franklin D. Roosevelt, accompanied by Mrs. Robinson, went directly to the executive mansion where he is to be the guest of Governor Smith today and tomorrow.

Senator Robinson will return directly to Hot Springs, Arkansas, where he is to be formally notified of his nomination on Aug. 30. He will open his speaking campaign at Dallas, Texas, on Labor Day.

"The real fight is going to be in many eastern states, where surveys and predictions hard in the cities and the industrial centers," said Barrett. "And while the most vital battleground of all New England will be Massachusetts, I believe that Mr. Hoover's record of interest and work on behalf of the laboring man will win him the state."

Good crops are having their effect in minimizing the agricultural depression in the Middle West. Work said: "I believe that every state west of the Mississippi will record electoral votes for Hoover and Curtis," said Work. "Ohio and Indiana are safe for the Republicans beyond argument. I will make an early survey of the states of the East, many of which have been carefully canvassed during my absence. I have never conceded the loss of a single Atlantic coast state. It is probable that the opposition will make its strongest fight for these states, which will compel us to meet them with the strongest forces and this we will do."

Trolley Franchise Sought From Local City Council At Meet Two Decades Ago

An account of a City Council meeting, held on August 17, 1908, appeared in the first issue of The Herald 20 years ago today.

The most important business transacted by the city governing heads was the consideration of a petition of a group of prominent citizens, asking for a franchise to operate a street car line. Among those identified with the proposal were: S. O. Chase, A. T. Rossiter, A. P. Connelly, F. P. Forster and J. N. Whitner. A resolution, authorizing issuance of the franchise, was ordered placed on the calendar for its first reading.

Excerpts from The Herald's story reveal several other interesting matters coming before the Council. How the business was transacted is described in the following account of the meeting:

"It was resolved by the Council that the building committee shall lay off and subdivide the City of Sanford, north and south and east and west, and shall fix and appraise the numbering of houses in the city limits, said numbers to be in the series of 100 to each block. All numbers on the north side of any street shall be odd numbers, and on the south side of any street shall be even. All numbers on the east side of any street shall be odd and all numbers on the west side shall be even.

"A petition was presented by William McGibbon for a franchise for the right to construct, maintain and operate an electric light and power plant in the city of Sanford."

The franchise request precipi-

Sixth Street and Magnolia Avenue. Thus the good work goes on.

Miss Bertha Kent, a popular young lady of DeLand, is visiting her cousin, Miss Emma Smith on West First Street.

Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Driver of the Sanford House are enjoying a few weeks' visit at Waynesville, N. C.

Felix Frank spent several days last week at Daytona Beach and reports a good time.

Mr. George Fox, a prominent citizen of Sanford, was in Jacksonville yesterday and stopped at the Everett while in this city. Mr. Fox speaks very highly of the growth and prosperity of the Celery City, and predicts a good tourist season next winter.

The Coast Line pay car came in Wednesday and left about $15,000 in Sanford to gladden the hearts of the merchants. Every little bit helps.

Mrs. W. W. Long is enjoying a visit with friends in Geneva.

Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Molnar are visiting Mrs. Molnar's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Takach. They have just returned from a trip to New York and will leave tomorrow for Gainesville, where Mr. Molnar is a well known analytical chemist.

W. J. Thigpen is spending a few weeks' vacation at his old home in Charlotte, N. C.

Dr. and Mrs. L. R. Phillips and children are at Daytona Beach.

Marshal Lee is one of the most vigilant officers the city of Sanford has ever had and is continually on the alert to bring all malefactors to justice. During dog days the microbe of cursedness seems more active, as the results of the mayor's court will indicate. This week the city treasury will be richer by about $150 as the result of the marshal's vigilance.

The establishment of The Herald has increased the population of Sanford an even dozen.

Mr. John Hammond, president of the New Smyrna bank, passed through Sanford on Tuesday enroute home from Orlando in his new Buick automobile. Mr. Hammond was accompanied by his sister, Miss Ora, and Miss Gailbraith.

Mrs. A. E. Phillips left Thursday for a much-needed vacation in the mountains of Tennessee, her destination being Sewanee. Her nephew, Dr. S. M. Tucker, who was born and raised in Sanford, and who was for a number of years principal of the school here, but now filling the chair of English at the Florida State College for Women, will meet Mrs. Phillips at Atlanta.

The new Chase packing house will be of brick and one of the most substantial structures in the city.

Miss Allie Trafford has contracted for a cottage to be built on Magnolia Avenue. Snood and Venable have the contract.

To— The Sanford Herald

We extend to you on this day, the twentieth birthday of the foundation of your paper, congratulations for the success you have achieved in your particular field.

We feel that you deserve the good wishes of every citizen of Sanford and Seminole County. We, personally, desire to see The Herald an even more outstanding success in future years than it has been in the past.

Personal Items Of Interest

Dr. R. M. Mason left last night for Wrightsville, Ga., where he will enjoy a month's vacation with his family, who are also visiting there. Wrightsville is the old home place of both the doctor and his good wife. Dr. Butts will have charge of Dr. Mason's dental business during his absence.

George Fox is able to hobble around and see his many friends. George had the misfortune to break a bone in his ankle in a baseball game recently and the team misses their fast fielder greatly. He will probably be out of the game for the rest of the season.

It is reported that one of the fastidious newly married ladies of this town kneads bread with her gloves on. This incident may be somewhat peculiar, but there are others. The editor of this paper needs bread with his shoes on. He needs bread with his pants, and unless the delinquent subscribers of this "old rag of freedom" pay up before long, he will need bread without a thing on—and Florida is no Garden of Eden in the mosquito time.

Miss Margaret I. Hart of Orlando is spending a week in Sanford, the guest of Mrs. G. C. Butts of the Hotel Wilton. She is a sister of A. C. Hart, our very efficient surveyor and draughtsman.

Mrs. C. C. Buchanan of Waycross, Ga., has returned to her home after a month's visit with her daughter, Mrs. D. B. Sweat. Dr. Sweat accompanied her as far as Jacksonville.

Mrs. C. W. DeCoursey is visiting friends at her old home in Burlington, Ky.

We hope the Sanford band will favor the citizens with another concert soon. This body of fine musicians is one of the attractions of Sanford. Instructor Maxwell is making it one of the best bands in the state.

Rev. M. M. Lord and wife returned to their home in Anthony last week, after a short visit to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Lord. They went overland and will visit Mrs. Lord's parents in Clirmont.

The music house of D. A. Caldwell and sons glories in handsome new window signs, the work of Green of Orlando, who has also executed some very artistic sign work for The Herald.

Dr. F. H. Scaphets is in Boston whether he went to visit friends and attend the K. of P. conclave. Mrs. Stephens and her sister, Miss June Waddell, are visiting friends in North Carolina.

K. R. Murrell of the real estate firm of Murrell and Mincew has returned from a trip north, during which he visited Michigan, Colorado and California.

C. A. Dobbins, foreman baker at Spencer's, has been keeping company with a bone felon for several weeks. He is so far recovered as to resume his duties.

Clarence Priest of Kendrick was in the city Wednesday, negotiating for real estate. The Herald will keep him informed of Celery City matters.

The resolutions passed by the City Council asking the citizens to number their houses indicates that Sanford has made one more step in the order of advancement and will have a free delivery of mail in a few months. This will be a great boon to our citizens, and will place Sanford in the metropolitan class. Nothing is too good for the Celery City, and the present spirit that prevails will land Sanford in the foremost ranks of the largest cities of Florida.

Mrs. M. F. Moyer left Tuesday for Tampa for a visit with relatives.

The Herald scribe happened in to a session of the mayor's court one day this week and saw a negro sentenced to work on the streets for vagrancy. Mayor Lake is determined to rid Sanford's streets of this shiftless class, and with all the work in Sanford at the present time there is no excuse for loafing. Our city will soon have the reputation among the flotsam and jetsam as a poor place to stop. For those who are able to work and refuse to cut wood, Mayor Lake has a nice quiet job on the city streets.

Mr. W. J. Hill left this week for New York and other points in the east where he will sojourn for a month and enjoy a well-earned vacation.

A very enjoyable dance was given Monday evening at the Hotel Wilton in honor of Miss Hart of Orlando, who is the guest of Mrs. Butt. Among those present were: Mesdames Butts, Keeley, DeCoties, Roumillat, Misses Lillian and Arline Close, Blanche Bothamly, Mammie Hill, Mabel Bowler, Birdie Harris and Miss Hart of Orlando. Messrs. Diekens, Hart, Close, Roumillat, Herndon, Rossiter, Nash, Madden, Hert, Cecil and Nixon Butt and Watson.

S. O. Shimbeler, the contractor, has just finished putting in concrete walks around two lots for the Holden Real Estate Company and one adjoining for J. J. Miller, corner First Street and French Avenue. He has also completed a block for L. R. Phillips on Park Avenue, between Seventh and Eighth streets. Also for the same property owner at the corner of

FRENCH SOLDIERS MAY AGAIN WEAR BRAIDED UNIFORM

Present Field Dress To Give Way To Pre-War Fancy Attire If Kellogg Treaty Is Ratified Soon By Powers

PARIS, Aug. 21, 1928.—(INS)—Here is one possible sequence to the adhesion of France to the Kellogg pact to outlaw war—general officers of the French Army once more may wear red trousers, gold braid and plumes.

Such finery is admittedly for peaceful display. It was worn before the war. Early in the conflict certain units went into the field in red trousers but the art of camouflage did away with them. Horizon blue and khaki were decreed as most suitable for the grim business of fighting.

Today ten years after the Armistice, campaign uniforms are still being worn by officers and enlisted men. A general officer is distinguished only by his stripes and the gold leaves on his hat.

But now France and other world powers are preparing to sign the Kellogg pact promising abstention from at least aggressive warfare. Campaign uniforms are no longer imperative for all occasions because, according to the outlawing of war, plus Locarno and the League of Nations to which France is obligated, there will be no more campaigns—at least not so precipitate but that the quartermaster will have time to give out new field equipment.

What must the well-dressed general wear? Even marshals, who rank generals, disagree on this subject.

Marshal Pétain defender of Verdun, and General Debeney, who plugged the gap at Mondidier would carry on in the horizon blue of 1914-18.

Marshal Ver Lyvauty, and Generals Targe and Nollet, also illustrious chieftains, are reported to prefer ceremonial garb of black coats, red trousers with the alternative of white trousers for summer and colonial service.

The Press has a lot to say about this question and appears to side with the advocates of more splendor, criticizing the display of uniforms in the last Bastille Day military review.

"The disappearance of beautiful spectacles hurts our national pride," writes Lambert Franc in the "Figaro." "Let us have uniforms worthy of our role in the world. If not the feathered hat of a crop commander—and why not?—at least epaulettes of gold and silver, ornamented belts and other embellishments."

This man moved up on the roof so as to be nearer Heaven when he died. But the wardens of an insane asylum managed to haul him down.

Paul Cerf, the hero of the adventure, has for years been a coal dealer doing business in a Paris side street. He lived on the premises. Recently he suffered some business reverses. These are believed to have been preying on his mind. At any rate Cerf in the middle of the night started his neighbors by carting his furniture up to the roof.

"I feel that I am going to die soon, and I want to be up here with my possessions when death comes in order to be as near Paradise as possible."

Death has not come John Cerf's way yet. If it does now, it will have to look him up in the cell of an insane asylum.

Georges Boucher, young Frenchman of the Saint Denis quarter, has established a new record by downing one quart of good beer in fifty-nine seconds. On the night of the glorious fourteenth, all the best beerdrinkers in Paris gathered at a cafe and tried their luck. Boucher was given the first prize—another beer.

French Food Fails To Drop In Price As Franc Is Stabilized

PARIS, Aug. 21. —(INS)—The stabilization of the franc has not yet brought lower prices in France. On the contrary reports seem to show that more things are going up than coming down.

The index number for the cost of living for the second quarter of 1928 is given at 544, against 521 for the preceding period, thus showing an increase of nearly four per cent. The lowest index figure shows the cost of living is almost five and one-half times as much as during the fluctuation of the franc.

Tourists arriving from the other side are being extremely conservative in their purchases, saying that they get much less value for their dollars here than in America. A large number of them doing nothing more than window-shopping.

Mrs. Diana Strickland Back In London After Crossing Wildest Part Of Continent, Says Exploring Man's Job

LONDON, Aug. 21. —(INS)—After crossing the widest and wildest part of the African continent by automobile, Mrs. Diana Strickland has returned to London convinced that exploring is a man's job.

One thousand of the five-thousand mile journey, which extended from Dakar in French Senegal to the Red Sea, was completed alone, her mechanic being forced to return to England owing to illness and another member of the party dying of blackwater sickness.

"Few women are capable of blazing a trail through an unexplored land," Mrs. Strickland told International News Service. "It is not so much a question of physical hardship as will-power. Above all things you need will-power, the urge to get to the other side of the hill top. That is where the average woman fails."

During the thousand miles she travelled alone which included some of the most dangerous parts of the continent, she drove largely with the aid of a compass, and at times had to bridge large streams by her own ingenuity to enable her to continue on her way.

"At times the hardships were terrible," Mrs. Strickland added, "and I was unable to get food and water. When I reached isolated native villages I had to beat up the villagers to get food. These were the only occasions on which I got frightened. Sometimes I stayed in the car all night to keep myself secure from attack."

"No, exploring is not a woman's job," she reiterated. "The average woman does not want to bury herself for a year—the time it took me to cross the continent—without decent food, clothes, and the other refinements of life. She can safely leave that to men, who are more capable of bearing these hardships."

At one period of her trip Mrs. Strickland was held up for nearly five months in a hut by heavy rains. There were stretches of mud all round her a foot deep and rain continually came in the roof. Mrs. Strickland touched at many points where a white woman or man had never been seen before.

Shakespeare Being Given In Open Air

THALE, Aug. 8.—(INS)—Visitors to this part of the Harz will this summer have an opportunity to see productions of classical dramas played in the beautiful open-air mountain theatre near Thale.

The performances will continue until August 26. The program includes Shakespeare's "Two Gentlemen of Verona," Kleist's "Amphitryon," Tieck's "Blanchard," Hebel's "Geneveva" and Brentano's "Ponce de Leon."

ST. AUGUSTINE—New Crescent Beach bridge nearly completed.

Berlin Making Plans For An Opera Season

BERLIN, Aug. 21.—(INS)—The proposal to establish "a season" in Berlin could not be carried out this year, but the first one has now been definitely set for the month from May 12 to June 12, 1929.

Its main feature will consist of special operatic and concert performances by Germany's most prominent artists. There will also be noteworthy art exhibitions.

Soviet Court Gives Man Jail Sentence For 3 Day Marriage

MOSCOW, Aug. 21.—(INS)—
A decision which may profoundly affect lax Soviet marriage and divorce laws has been rendered by the State Supreme court of the Russian republic. It sentenced Ivan Pankratoff, a railroad employe, to 18 months in prison for criminal assault merely because he married and divorced an unsophis-ticated country girl within three days time, when all the while he had another sweetheart.
The court ruled that Pankratoff violated the spirit of the marriage laws, though he adhered to their technical requirements. His living in unregistered relationship with a girl for two years was a "moral marriage," though not a legal one.
Hence when he met and married Katherine Trolova in a little village near Moscow, he was "morally obligated" to break relations with his "moral wife."
Instead he divorced Katherine without her knowledge three days after the wedding and went back, as he had always intended, to his sweetheart. The marriage was held tantamount to seduction and had to be punished accordingly.

CIGARETTE BEING OUSTED BY PIPE VOGUE IN LONDON

Fashionable British Youths
Brand "Fags" Effeminate?
Take To Smoking Briars To Ape Prince Of Wales' Habit

LONDON, Aug. 21.—(INS)— Cigarettes are dethroned in London, because they are deemed effeminate. The "manly" pipe has superseded them and returned to its old-time popularity.
To find this out, one has only to spend ten minutes in the fashionable area of London between Bond Street and Saville Street.
The young men, who, twelve months ago, were drawing clouds of smoke through long and wierdcolored cigarette-holders, are now to be seen puffing at a scarcely seasoned briar, and, to boot, appearing to enjoy it.

"It is probably due to the fact that the Prince of Wales hardly ever smokes anything but a pipe," explain the leading fashionable to-baccanists.
"And also, practically every young woman nowadays smokes cigarettes constantly and openly.
The result is that young men are beginning to look upon cigarette smoking as 'effeminate' and have returned to a pipe as a man's exclusive privilege.
"Women play a part in another way. Many of them prefer to see men with pipes rather than cigarettes, and don't hesitate to say so.
"To meet the new demand for pipes special designs are being manufactured which can be smoked indoors. One of these, a very small pipe holding enough for five minutes' smoke, has been designed for dancs.
"Pipes with long stems are the most popular. They are cooler and prevent smoke getting into the eyes."

British Coal Miner Saves Funds To Pay Channel Swim Cost

BRIGHTON, Eng., Aug. 21.
—(INS)— In a tiny cottage on the outskirts of Brighton lives an ex-Derbyshire miner, John Tomlinson, who is training to swim the English Channel this year.
To achieve this, he has given up everything but the bare necessities of life for years past in order to save the money to pay his training expenses.
Tomlinson is a short sturdy man with a bright sense of humor. "I was working in the mines until three months ago," he says. "I have always been keenly interested in swimming, and when I saw the Channel being conquered, especially by foreigners, I made up my mind that I would have a shot at it, just to show what provincial England could do in that direction."
"Of course, I realized that it would cost a good deal to achieve it and that it would serve me better to train by the seashore. Therefore I have been devoting every penny I could save towards my aim. In the way I am managing I can live, apart from food and lodging, on about twelve cents a day."

His sister, Margaret is keeping house for Tomlinson and also accompanies him on his practice swims.
RELIEF FOR FLOOD AREA
WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.
—(INS)—The War Department today ordered Brig. Gen. Richmond Davis, commanding the 4th corps area at Fort McPherson, Ga., to extend flood relief to sufferers in South Carolina from the recent inundation. This action was taken at the request of Senator Cole Blaise (D) of South Carolina, who reported to the department that a "serious flood menace" exists in Broad Catwba, Saluda, Congaree and tributary valleys in South Carolina.

Sincere Good Wishes

to The Sanford Herald on its Twentieth Anniversary and best wishes for continued growth, progress and achievements in the future.
