

Communists Hint Washing Hands Of Conducting Truce

Chinese Reject UN's Latest Proposal For Prisoner Exchange

By ROBERT B. TUCKMAN
MUNSAN, Korea (AP)—The Communists hinted today that they would wash their hands of conducting a truce in the Korean peninsula.

The hint was cryptic and indirect. It came during a meeting of staff officers on truce supervision at which the U. N. Command reported "progress was being made."

In another truce meeting, how plan for exchanging prisoners. The Communists were promptly told they "must contribute something" if an agreement is to be reached.

The Chinese hands-off hint was discussion of an 18-page U. N. proposal by a North Korean during a meeting for supervising the truce. The Allies plan to divide the administration of the Red half of a demilitarized zone would be the joint responsibility of the supreme commander of the Korean Peoples Army and the commander of the Chinese Peoples Volunteers.

North Korean Col. Chang Chun Han, principal Red staff officer, asked that the word "joint" and the phrase "supervisor of the Chinese Peoples Volunteers" be stricken. This would leave administration of the area exclusively in the hands of North Koreans.

Rep. Raymond P. Beardsley (D., N. C.) said he would have anything to do with administering an armistice "if it is the first time to my knowledge."

There was no implication that the Chinese considered withdrawing their troops during an armistice. The Reds tentatively agreed to the first 12 paragraphs of the 54-paragraph Allied draft. But they raised objections to the 13th, the 14th, 15th, 16th, 17th, 18th, 19th, 20th, 21st, 22nd, 23rd, 24th, 25th, 26th, 27th, 28th, 29th, 30th, 31st, 32nd, 33rd, 34th, 35th, 36th, 37th, 38th, 39th, 40th, 41st, 42nd, 43rd, 44th, 45th, 46th, 47th, 48th, 49th, 50th, 51st, 52nd, 53rd, 54th.

Oliphant later said he was a long-time friend of Grunewald. He said "The Dutchman" asked him the status of Teitelbaum's case at about the time Teitelbaum alleged he was being approached by "fixers."

In today's session Maloney intervened repeatedly as the chairman sought to find out whether Grunewald had brought books and records which the subcommittee had subpoenaed.

"Answer yes or now," King insisted. Grunewald, however, tried to read instead a prepared statement. King finally cracked down and Maloney was escorted from the room, still protesting.

"When I arrived at the intersection I saw the trailer on the crossing blocking a long line of traffic in both directions," he said. Patrolman Ortagus stated that the train must have kept going for it was not stopped at the scene when he arrived.

"The tractor, which houses the driver's cab, was turned over on the left hand of the road with no one in it," he continued. "They were taken to the hospital before I came the witnesses told me."

The accident took place at the FEC branch line rail crossing over Route 17 1/2 at the base of a hill, which stands to the north of the intersection, he said.

Patrolman Ortagus stated that from what he witnessed, he believed the cause of the accident was the "total" darkness at the time, which in part obscured the passing train from view of the Justice truck.

Atomic Reports Traded To Canada By United States

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has given some hitherto secret atomic information to Canada and has received some in return under an arrangement declared "beneficial" in the United States.

Chairman Gordon Dean of the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission, announcing this late Monday, did not disclose the nature of the information given by either country. He said only that "it is classified (secret) and 'within an area' of atomic development."

But there are grounds for speculation that the United States may be getting new details on Canada's unique "heavy water" atomic reactor—a device which conceivably could be the device for explosive producing reactors now in prospect at the projected American A-bomb plant.

American atomic experts have publicly rated the Canadian device as the "most advanced" in design and performance among all known reactors.

And, while the Canadians say their present reactor can not make plutonium—an A-bomb explosive—in "production" quantities, the Canadians have claimed that plutonium can be produced at a faster rate from a given amount of uranium in a reactor of the "heavy water" type than it can be produced in reactors employing graphite in conjunction with the uranium.

American reactors for producing plutonium employ graphite instead of "heavy water."

Any atomic reactor which produces plutonium can also produce tritium, one of the possible ingredients for the proposed American hydrogen bomb.

Atomic energy is being used to produce electricity in Canada. The Canadian government has announced that it will sell to the United States a large amount of atomic energy information.

selsing a 100-mile frontier strip in Yunnan Province in a small-scale penetration.

In today's debate, before Malik spoke, U. S. Delegate John Sherman Cooper asked the Soviets if their charges of U. S. interference in Southeast Asia meant the U. S. S. R. was actually planning aggression in the area herself. He denied "categorically and specifically" Soviet charges of U. S. activity with the Nationalists in Burma.

Nationalist China's delegate, T. Y. Tsing, in turn denied that the Chinese troops in North Burma were supported from Formosa, present seat of the Chiang government, and said they were operating as independent raiders, "similar to Garibaldi."

Malik claimed that the Chinese troops in Burma were being supplied by parachute drops from U. S. Constellation planes and said they are "gliding for aggression under the leadership of American generals."

He labeled the troops a "shock force, armed to the teeth, which at any moment can provoke an aggression."

The Soviet delegate was seconded by Poland's Stanislaw Gosciniak, who asked Cooper to confirm or deny each of Malik's charges and demanded to know whether the U. S. Britain and France have decided to bomb Communist bases in Manchuria and open full scale war against the Chinese mainland.

Hurmele Delegate U. Myint Thain told the committee Monday his country "unmistakably facing aggression" by these troops. He asked Cooper directly whether the U. S. would oppose this aggression just as the American has said earlier it would resist Communist aggression in Southeast Asia.

Cooper said that on direct instructions from Washington, he could assure the Burmese delegate that the United States would not "aggression anywhere in the world is a matter of grave concern to the United States."

"My government does not view aggression on any duplicate standard," Cooper declared.

Navy Lets Award For Rocket Ship To Help Beaches

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy let a contract today for the first of a new line of rocket ships designed for close support of beach-head attacks.

The award went to the Puget Sound Bridge and Dredging Co. of Seattle, Wash.

Rapid-fire rocket launchers will be the main armament of these ships, which will be constructed to operate in shallow water close to landing beaches. The mission of these vessels will be to saturate a landing area with high explosive rockets.

The new line of vessels is an outgrowth of experience gained in World War II and more recently in Korea with rockets launched from small and medium-sized landing craft.

The Navy said the new vessel will be designed so as to permit mass production. If the prototype proves satisfactory, No cost figures were available for the first ship, the Navy said, because the basic design has not been completed.

The ship will displace 1,200 tons, be 245 feet long and 34 1/2 feet wide.

Give it Air and Watch it GO!

TAKE ONE GALLON of good gasoline — 8.350 gallons of ordinary air—mix well and feed in small doses to a Fireball Engine—and what do you get?

Well, mister, the closest we can come to describing the result is to tell you—it's something like the mighty thrust of an airliner—swooshing down the runway for a take-off.

All of which is another way of saying that this newest and finest of Buicks can rev up to 170 horsepower, the highest in its distinguished history.

Now, you seldom need all this horsepower. But it's nice to know you can boss it around—even if you use no more than an eighth of it at 40 miles an hour.

BUT BUICK ENGINEERS never do things by halves.

In the process of getting this whopping new charge of power, Buick engineers also came up with more miles per gallon from gasoline.

And they did it with one of the neatest bits of ingenuity we've seen in years.

Instead of building a whole new engine—they focused on ways to feed a better mixture to the great Fireball Engine they already had. A mixture of fuel, which costs money, and air, which is free.

The result was the Airpower Carburetor—a four-barrel automatic—which works on a booster principle.

Two barrels are sized and designed to supply the just-right thrifty mixture of fuel and air for anything from smooth-running idle up to some 40 or 50 miles an hour.

Then—when you call for more power—for a quick spurt out of a tight spot—for an unbroken gait up a steep hill—or for full-throttle operation—the reserves go into action.

You have two more barrels—to feed the just-right thrifty mixture for extra power—something like "second wind."

LIFE'S GREAT behind this great-powered eight, but that's only part of the story.

The rest is about interior styling stepped up to a new plateau of excellence and taste—of silencing to a point where a whisper sounds almost loud inside this car in motion—of bigger brakes and a smoother ride—and of Power Steering* as you have always hoped it might be perfected.

How about coming in and getting that story soon?

BUICK ENGINEERS, who and models are subject to change without notice. *OPTIONAL ON EQUIPMENT OF A SUITABLE MODEL.

Sure is true for 52... BUICK

Taft Clashes With John L. Lewis On Mine Safety Law

UMW Head Says Taft Hartley Law Is A "Slave Labor Act"; Taft Says "Untrue"

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Taft (R., Ohio) and John L. Lewis headed up in a bitter name-calling clash at a Senate committee hearing today. Lewis termed the Taft-Hartley Law "a slave act." Lewis wound up with this broadside at the GOP presidential hopeful: "If you are ever elected President, Mr. Taft, and Joe Stalin should ask you about the Taft-Hartley law, I don't know how you'll answer him."

Lewis was obviously referring to his overwhelming reelection as senator in 1950 when his authorship of the labor law was a primary issue.

Earlier, Taft had accused Lewis of injecting a "red herring" into Senate hearings on mine safety. Taft said it is "entirely untrue" that miners are denied the right to walk out of unsafe mines because of the labor law Taft co-authored.

Lewis hit away Tuesday at what he called "Bob Taft's slave act."

The GOP presidential hopeful hit back today. Taft entered the mine safety hearing late. Almost at once he asked to interrupt testimony being given and to make a statement on Lewis' attack.

"He blames it all on the Taft Hartley Law," Taft speaking clearly and very slowly. Taft intoned: "Mr. Lewis' statement yesterday was entirely irrelevant and entirely untrue."

When Taft had finished his strong criticism of Lewis' testimony, the United Mine Workers chief was refused a request to answer him.

Senator Taft And Eisenhower Meet In New Hampshire

By The Associated Press An open challenge by Sen. Robert A. Taft today pinpointed little New Hampshire as the first testing ground for Republican presidential hopefuls.

The Ohio senator said he would not ask his backers to withdraw his name from the New Hampshire presidential preference primary—first in the nation despite the fact that he considers factors in New Hampshire "unfavorable" to him.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower already has been entered in the New Hampshire primary, set for March 11.

"Win, lose or draw," Taft said in his statement, "I feel I should permit the preference vote to be taken in New Hampshire."

It was likely that Harold E. Stassen, another top presidential hopeful, would join in the New Hampshire race. Stassen's name was entered Tuesday. He has until 5 p. m. EST today to decide whether to withdraw from the race.

In mentioning unfavorable factors in New Hampshire, Taft observed that "the political machine of the present state administration is openly pledged to Gen. Eisenhower."

That was a reference to Gov. Sherman Adams, Sen. Tobey and other New Hampshire Republican leaders who have announced for the general.

Taft said he would not only challenge Eisenhower in the presidential preference contest, but that he would also seek pledged delegates in New Hampshire.

That state will send only 14 delegates to the GOP nominating convention in Chicago.

Illinois Negro's Home Bombed In Segregation Row

Crosses Are Burned In Negro Sections Of Cairo, Illinois

CAIRO, Ill. (AP) — A Cairo Negro doctor's home was bombed Tuesday night in the first flare-up of violence occurring during preparations to admit Negro pupils to city schools previously limited to white.

The physician, Dr. James H. Lee, his wife and four small children escaped injury. An unoccupied rear bedroom was demolished.

Today Federal Bureau of Investigation agents and Illinois state police joined local authorities in an investigation. They declined comment immediately.

The physician, in an oral statement given to the state police, has been a small minority group of hoodlums that have become incensed because of the school fight and who intend to terrorize and maybe kill," he added that he had not taken part in the school row.

Only two nights before, three fiery crosses were burned in and around Cairo Negro sections. That was on the eve of the state agreement upon between the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and school officials to admit 25 Negroes in white schools.

Tactical segregation is forbidden in Illinois school systems through a law authorizing the withholding of state grants from violating districts. Schools could not run without state help.

The Negro pupils were told to return to their own schools until they are notified individually that they transfer papers were ready.

The Negro and adult executives left the various schools as groups of white parents watched. Some Negro pupils also presented them.

Five new General Motors 60 passenger school buses, complete with blue bird bodies, have been ordered at $4,622 from the General Truck and Equipment Co.

Mr. Lawton said the new members are Barbara Lowe, color player, and James Huffman, bass horn player, who was transferred here from the Orlando High School band.

Breaking a first division ruling, the band is practicing for the district contest in Orlando, Mar. 28, when it will compete with other bands of its class from nearby counties.

New Plumes for the hats of the band members are being supplied by the Seminole High School Band and Orchestra Association, which recently bought a new pair of Belgian cymbals for the band.

Mr. Cowley, the association will meet again on Feb. 11 at the band practice hall.

On Feb. 8, the band will be featured at a program at the High School in connection with the Boy Scout drive. They will play for the Jaycees Circus on Mar. 8.

Acheson Is Pleased With Progress Made In Helping Europe

No Crop Damage Chinese Agree To Is Reported From 25,000 Figure On Low Temperature Troop Rotation

State Department Believes Russia And China Being Split; Egypt's Views Seen

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Winston Churchill said today Britain had no "formal commitment" to join with the United States in any punitive action against China if a Korean truce is broken.

Acheson was asked for comment on a speech Hoover made Sunday in New York suggesting that no more ground troops be sent to Europe and that those already there be withdrawn except where needed to protect certain airfields.

Acheson said Hoover apparently was restating his own views in which he was entitled and which he had every right to make known, and Acheson added he did not want to comment directly on them.

Then Acheson said he thought the U. S. should be very pleased with the political, military, and economic gains made in strengthening Western Europe.

Progress has been tremendous, Acheson said, adding that this country should press forward unflinchingly for a realization of its goals.

The State Department took note today of reports that Red China and Soviet Russia are drifting apart.

The department's officials indicated that the possibility of a split in the Communist bloc was a possibility.

In China, one of the countries where food production has fallen to an extremely low level, year-end reports showed a growing confidence in the government's economic policy.

The department did not enlarge on the point but said that in general "the picture is one of a healthy year behind the Iron Curtain."

Months after the end of the war in Europe, the story has been the same, the summary said. It is one of increasing confidence and economic progress.

WEDNESDAY, JAN. 30, 1952
TODAY'S BIBLE VERSE
It is a time to build great foundations, not to sow wild oats.
Rejoice O young man in thy youth.—Ecc. 11:9.

Andrew Robinson of Altamonte
Springs and Nathaniel Stokes,
Old Orlando Highway, P. O. Box 184, have been issued federal occupational stamp taxes for gambling.

Senator Kefauver's name has been entered in the Florida Democratic preferential primary, and already a "Stop Kefauver" movement has been launched. Perhaps Senator Russell, or Senator Byrd
could do it, but not Truman.

There is no criminal more cruel than the self-righteous criminal. A middle aged couple in Winnepeg is arrested for beating their seven year old child to death "because she refused to pray". Evidently they had not learned how to pray themselves.

The mink coat market is a trifle soft, says OPS boss DiSal-lino, indicating that so many mink coats have been given away in Washington that there is no longer any demand for them on the open market. If this thing keeps growing, it could be that the market for everything would be soft, for the same reason.

There are more ways than one of avoiding taxes. A veteran of Bougainville, where he lost both legs, claims his car was part of his person, like his teeth, and therefore he owes no taxes on it.
His car, he says, is a "prosthetic appliance," and his only means of locomotion and therefore non-taxable. Perhaps he is right.

That old, Jonah, the railroad crossing on Highway 17-92, just south of DeBary, has done it again. This time a trailer-truck with two people aboard plowed
into the mid-section of a Florida East Coast train, doing considerable damage and nearly killing the occupants. This sort of thing has happened so many times that it almost ceases to be news. There are "Stop, Look and Listen" signs at the crossing, but there should be bells and lights.

When your wife tells you, "I haven't a thing to wear," don't you believe her, she is probably just kidding. But Los Angeles model June Bright meant it when she told the police that the other day. She had been packing and getting ready to move to another house. It was warm so she put on her bathing suit. When she had finished packing, the van came and took all her stuff off to the new place. So she had to start out on a bus ride to her
new quarters in her bathing suit,
told the police.

Two men were arrested in Sanford the other day on a charge of attempting to break into some township offices for the evident purpose of robbery. Reports indicate they were from New York City on their way through, bound perhaps, for the Gold Coast or some other happy hunting ground.
They thought Sanford would be easy pickings, on a small scale of course, to tie them over until they reached more fertile fields.
But they got caught. There are lots of snow birds coming to Florida this winter. Let's hope the police are equally successful in stopping the rest of them before they start.

Senator Taft says he is opposed to compulsory FEPC, and will make many friends
throughout the South with this stance. Almost everyone agrees there should be fair treatment to employee relations,
there should be no discrimination against anyone
because of race, color, or creed, many people seem to think there should be a good idea to pass a law setting up government bodies employing boards of experts to be named up and down the country to determine what is the best way to handle the many opportunities for employment at home.

Stalling in Korea

The extended truce talks in Korea, seeming for weeks at a time to be of little profit, present deep questions as to the Communist motives. Why should they have entered the negotiations so readily, apparently having no desire to bring them to a fruitful end? Has it all been for display, or have they had other purposes in mind?

One possibility of shrewd motivation can be deduced from a report of Trygve Lie, secretary general of the United Nations, on the active participation of members in the Korean fighting. Since the proposal for truce talks was advanced last June in a statement by Russian Delegate Jacob Malik, not a single nation has been added to the list of those represented by fighting forces in Korea. This fact might be coincidence, but it more likely indicates that nations which might have joined the fight have decided not to do so because the truce talks were in progress.

There was a noticeable letdown of tension and the sense of urgency in America when the truce talks were started, and the causing of that letdown could have been a motive of the Reds. They may also have planned on a slackening of effort in Korea by all U. N. forces active there. During the talks the line of battle has remained fairly stationary across Korea, and in particular has been anchored securely at the western end, in the only area where the Reds hold territory south of the thirty-eighth parallel, because of the neutral zone for the negotiation site.

Perhaps there is still room for hopes that the Reds may sincerely want an armistice. But there is more and more cause for the pessimistic suspicion that they have merely wanted to stall while building up their strength. If that should turn out to be the case, we should then be in the position of the old army drill sergeant who told the recruits that he couldn't make them obey the rules, but he could make them wish with all their hearts that they had done so.

Food For A King

Perhaps the best advertisements for the American standard of living are the grocery store ads which the housewife peruses as she meditates on the menu for the day. Even in the middle of winter she can serve sweet corn on the cob, ripe strawberries, golden oranges and many other combinations of vegetables and fruits which would not have appeared in winter on the tables of even the very wealthy a generation or two ago.

Of course food prices are high and some of the more tempting fruits and vegetables, are a luxury. But the fact that grocery stores carry these items in quantity is an indication that there is widespread consumption of them.

It could be said that an American dining room knows no season. Remarkable progress in the transport and marketing of foodstuffs has made it possible for people with average incomes to eat as well in one season as another.
Through the years the expression "fit for a king" has survived as a comment on the excellence of a meal. In America almost every man is a king at meal time.

News And Advertising

A leader in the advertising business told the recent convention of the Newspaper Advertising Executives Association that advertising in a newspaper has far more force on public opinion than the news and editorial columns. Recognizing that a newspaper needs both news and ads, we shall pass lightly, in the spirit of "live and let live," over the possibly derogatory implications. But the line of reasoning is interesting.

The executive spoke critically of the fact that most news, as selected by editorial judgment, is bad news, and that "peace and contentment are not news." This view, not common, is only partly right. Peace would be the biggest story of the era, if it happened. But it is true that most news is bad; that's because news is the unusual, and it is the bad which is unusual. We can thank God for it. If goodness and happiness were news, the world would be in a bad way.

Keeping Things

It was Sir Walter Scott who wrote the line, "If you keep a thing seven years, you are sure to find a use for it." The evidence to refute this statement could be found in the attic or cellar of any house which has been occupied by the same family for more than seven years. Nevertheless it would be impossible to dissuade us from keeping those things which we are sure will be useful sometime. It might be of some benefit to bring ourselves to dispose of them if, after seven years, no use has yet been found for them.

OLD AGE COUNCIL
GAINESVILLE (AP)—The University of Florida's 2-day conference on gerontology ended Tuesday with experts recommending recreation, part-time employment, and not overeating as aids toward living longer and enjoying it.
Some 100 persons attended the meet to discuss "living in later years."
Cornell University Nutritionist

Clive M. McCay told the group that overeating is a form of suicide
and that the remedy is to eat
less food and make every unit
contribute more energy.
St. Petersburg Times Editor Nelson Poynter said if the nation's 15 million persons over 65 worked for as little as 25 cents an hour for 20 hours a week, 2 1/2 billion dollars would be added to the national income.

Taft And Lewis

Neely (D-W. Va.) which is taking testimony on the question of a compulsory federal mine safety
law.

Testifying Tuesday, Lewis said
the "abominable, barbaric" Taft-Hartley law makes it possible for mine owners to file suit for breach of contract damages when miners refuse to work because of alleged unsafe conditions.

Lewis had been discussing the role of United Mine Workers' safety committees set up at every mine in the country with the stated purpose of seeing that owners carry out federal safety recommendations.

But Lewis said the safety committees "have no further powers"
beyond recommending that mine owners follow state or federal recommendations.

In earlier testimony, Neely had permitted Lewis to examine witnesses. He appeared ready to follow that procedure when Taft had stopped speaking, but changed his mind after Taft said "I suggest
Mr. Lewis come back and testify

CITIZEN WINDSOR

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—The Duke of Windsor today was named an honorary citizen of Florida by Gov.
Fulmer Warren in a brief ceremony
in the Cabinet Room of the capitol here.

The duke and duchess are vacationing at the plantation of Mrs.
George F. Baker near here. They will leave Thursday for New York
but will return to Florida in March for a stay at Palm Beach.

PUTNAM APPROVED

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate
Banking Committee today unanimously approved the nomination of Roger L. Putnam as economic stabilizer.

The vote came after Putnam testified he believes he can "hold the line against inflation . . . in the very dangerous year" ahead.

LOT OF GAS

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—Seventy-
nine million gallons of gasoline
were sold in Florida in December.
That was 11 million more gallons than in November, and nearly nine million more than the consumption in December a year ago.

South's Plans

poration if the Supreme Court rules out segregation. He has tried once, but in vain, to get through a legislative act cutting off state funds if Negroes are ordered admitted to white schools.

Georgia has already done what
England failed to accomplish.
The appropriation passed last year
says state money will be cut off
for any school forced to teach Negro and white students together.
If South Carolina loses its fight in the courts, Gov. James F. Byrn-

as has said the state will abandon its public school systems. At his request a constitutional amendment has been proposed in the Legislature to do just that.

The issue came more sharply
into focus when the Supreme Court
two days ago sent the South Carolina suit back for further consideration.

A three-judge Federal Court upheld the segregation last summer, but told school authorities to report back in six months on what steps had been taken to equalize educational facilities. The Supreme Court said it wants that report studied before final action is taken.

They tear up the orchestra's sheet music. "Fortunately I make the arrangements, so I have them memorized," said Stabile.

The handman doesn't seem any the worse for the abuse he takes. "In fact, when they stop kidding around, I get worried," he said. "If they then they're mad at me, the trio's friendship goes back to the comies' engagement at the now defunct Slapsy Maxie's in Los Angeles. "Like most night club acts, their music consisted of tunes written on old road maps and racing forms," said Stabile. "I was lending the hand at Slapsy's and I always liked to help the acts fix up their music. I stayed up all night making arrangements for the two boys."

They signed him up and since then he has done their musical work in night clubs, records, radio, TV, theaters and movies. It has been a full-time job, although he also lends the hand at Ciro's in Hollywood when he isn't on the road with Martin and Lewis.

"Jerry might call me at 4 o'clock in the morning and tell me to come over to his house," he said. "He might have an idea that he wants to figure the music for Jerry got the idea for their Bing Crosby-Barry Fitzgerald act in the middle of a Los Angeles-New York flight. He woke me out of a sound sleep and we worked out the music by the time we landed in New York."

Besides his musical abilities, Stabile also functions as what he calls "a professional laugher."

"Maybe that's the reason the boys hired me," he said. "I thought they were funny and I laughed. It was the same thing I used to do when I was with the Ben Bernie band I have made a study of crowd psychology and I've found that if people see somebody laughing, they'll laugh too, even if they don't get the joke."

"I can laugh convincingly even if I don't think something's funny. It helps warm up the audience."

PTA Study Course Is Given At School

Hower, principal of the Lyman school, explained "What Citizens Can Do to Provide Better Schools." Peterson explained the work of the children's committee and presented a film prepared by Life Magazine, showing the work of the committee in the United States. There were about 70 persons attending the meeting.

HOLLYWOOD BY BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD as Dick Stabile, who has been beaten, bruised and abused by Martin and Lewis for three years, has signed on for another seven years of punishment.

Handleader Stabile is a rugged 200-pounder who looks as though he could take care of himself in any situation. That's an essential for his job with Martin and Lewis, who can be expected to do the unexpected.

"Oh, I take a beating, all right," sighed the musician. "One of their favorite tricks is to get on opposite sides of the stage, run and jump on me and try to hold on. Now I weigh 175 pounds and built solid Jerry is 145 and very wiry. When you get a couple of guys like that flying at you, you've got to be able to take it. Thank heaven I've got my health."

Stabile discovered another favorite Martin and Lewis trick at a New York night club when he was playing "The Man I Love," which has long been his star solo on the sax. He was doing the number in the spotlight when the two comies assaulted him. They poured water over his head, wadded in his sax, slashed his tuxedo, ripped his $20 shirt.

"I didn't know what to do, so I kept on playing," said Stabile. "It was so funny that we kept the routine in the act." But he added that Martin and Lewis now get the bills for the ruined clothing.

Stabile suffers many other indignities. The boys steal his script on their NBC radio and TV shows.

The new estimate was contained in the AEC's semi-annual report to Congress today.

The commission described "intense activity" in the past six months throughout the entire atomic enterprise including an "expanding atomic weapons program." It told of:

1. Full blast operation of all its existing plants including those for making atomic explosives.
2. Progress on new construction entailing 3 per cent of the nation's total building expenditures and employing nearly 2 per cent of the country's total construction force.
3. "Continued" increase in the output of fissionable materials at a lower cost than ever.
4. Increased domestic production of uranium ores thanks to expanded exploration, opening of new producing areas, and incentive bonuses for uranium producers who collected more than $250,000 in such "Prizes" last year.
5. Research findings with radio active isotopes that may lead to improved methods of farming and lowered costs of food and fiber production.
6. Development of chemicals of a type which might ultimately be used in humans as a kind of antidote for anyone who accidentally swallows poisonous atomic materials.

HOLLYWOOD BY BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD as Dick Stabile, who has been beaten, bruised and abused by Martin and Lewis for three years, has signed on for another seven years of punishment.

Handleader Stabile is a rugged 200-pounder who looks as though he could take care of himself in any situation. That's an essential for his job with Martin and Lewis, who can be expected to do the unexpected.

"Oh, I take a beating, all right," sighed the musician. "One of their favorite tricks is to get on opposite sides of the stage, run and jump on me and try to hold on. Now I weigh 175 pounds and built solid Jerry is 145 and very wiry. When you get a couple of guys like that flying at you, you've got to be able to take it. Thank heaven I've got my health."

Stabile discovered another favorite Martin and Lewis trick at a New York night club when he was playing "The Man I Love," which has long been his star solo on the sax. He was doing the number in the spotlight when the two comies assaulted him. They poured water over his head, wadded in his sax, slashed his tuxedo, ripped his $20 shirt.

"I didn't know what to do, so I kept on playing," said Stabile. "It was so funny that we kept the routine in the act." But he added that Martin and Lewis now get the bills for the ruined clothing.

Stabile suffers many other indignities. The boys steal his script on their NBC radio and TV shows.
