World War I Vets Invited To Attend Meeting Tomorrow

All veterans of World War I and their wives are invited to attend a meeting at 8 p. m. tomorrow at the American Legion Home for the purpose of organizing a barracks of Veterans of World War I, U.S.A., for Sanford and surrounding communities. Dr. A. Royal Forsythe, St. Petersburg announced today.

Dr. Forsythe is Florida Department chaplain and membership director for the new veterans group which was formed 2 1/2 years ago. It is a non-profit national organization with some 800 barracks in 36 states and the Philippines, including 21 in Florida. Dr. Forsythe said.

He listed the aims of the organization as:

1. To secure for all World War I veterans over 60 years of age a pension of $100 per month, and for the widows and orphans of deceased veterans, without the necessity of subscribing to an income limitation.

2. To secure hospitalization or all World War I veterans, including those with non-service connected disabilities, without having to sign the so-called "papers oath" and without regard to income limitations.

3. To secure out-patient treatment for all veterans of World War I with non-service connected disabilities.

The average age of U.S. Veterans of the first World War, Dr. Forsythe said, is 68, and "We are dying off at the rate of nearly 2,000 a month."

Dr. Forsythe will speak at tomorrow's meeting and will give a detailed account of the organization and the work being done by its national and state boards of administration.

Trainees Needed For Sewing Classes

More trainees for the Seminole County Vocational School Commercial Sewing Class are needed to fulfill the present needs of the three clothing manufacturers of this city.

There appears to be a seasonal increase of garment production and as a result, more skilled needle workers are needed to meet these demands. Over 200 men and women are presently employed in the three plants operated by Piero Manufacturing Company, Sanford Manufacturing Company and Brookfield Mills. With the anticipated expansion of the Sanford Manufacturing Company, more experienced needle workers will be needed to meet their increased production of garments.

The Seminole County Vocational School has been operating the Commercial Sewing School for over two years. The purpose of the school is to train local citizens to become skilled or semi-skilled needleworkers so that they might secure jobs with the local plants. It also serves to provide the local garment plants with these trained workers which saves the plants both time and money in not having to do their own training.

The school has been jointly sponsored by the Seminole County Board of Public Instruction and the Sanford Industrial Board, a civic and non-profit organization. Those members currently serving on the Education Committee of the Sanford Industrial Board are Al Wilson, Herman Jacobson, Fred Murray, Odell Phillips, instructor of the school and the owners of the three plants, George Jolley, John Piero and Hyman Meltzer. The school is operated in the Brookfield Mills Building, located on North Elm Ave. in a separate room isolated from the main plant. The hours of instruction are from 6:00 p. m. to 10:00 p. m., five nights a week. Any Seminole County citizens interested in attending the school or seeking further information would contact either Fred C. Murray, Director of Vocational Education, whose office is located in the School Administration Building or Odell Phillips, instructor of the sewing school at Brookfield Mills.

O. P. Herndon, Seminole Clerk of Circuit Court, this morning declared himself a candidate for reelection in the May 8 Democratic Primary.

Herndon, in making his statement today, said "recently an out-of-town newspaper carried a story in which it was stated that the entire personnel in the Clerk's office, each with continuous employment in the said office of over thirty years, planned to retire on or before the end of my present term, and intimated that I had been giving some vague thoughts to retiring."

The Clerk of Circuit Court then said, "this was followed by the political rumormongers."

Herndon commented, "Since this appeared, I have been called upon by many representative citizens from every section of Seminole County and from every walk of life, urging me to continue as a public official, and to perfect a new office organization."

"They point with pride," he said, "to the fact that this office is regarded as one of the best operated Clerk's Offices in the State, with courteous and efficient services to the public, that the State Auditors have praised me for the excellent and well kept records at all times, and the stable financial planning of our County."

O. P. Herndon said, in his interview with a Herald reporter that, "I have a patriotic duty to the people of Seminole County to render the public service of which I am capable." And he added, "I therefore state that I will not retire at this time, and that I will be a candidate for reelection as Clerk of the Circuit Court in the forthcoming primary."

He concluded, "I will consider it a privilege to submit my record to the sound judgement of the people of my County."

Those in attendance were from Key West: Donald Sagehorn; Mrs. Eldon Weisheit, Miss Jane Musler; Miami: Mrs. Mops Atwell; N. # Nearly 5,000 Take Tour At Hospital Open House

Viewers Are Awed

Viewers Are Awed

Nearly 5,000 people stood in line and waited their turn to go through the Seminole Memorial Hospital yesterday afternoon during the Open House from 1 to 6 p. m.

Brief ceremonies and ribbon-cutting preceded the continual flow of people through one of the South's most modern hospitals, a deluge of people that completely surprised hospital authorities.

Many times during the afternoon, the que of citizens waiting to get a view of the hospital stretched to the sidewalk of East First St. From the door of the building, the corridors and roofed off recesses were lined with visitors from the very first moment of the open house to the minute the hospital doors closed for the afternoon.

A. B. Peterson Sr., a member of the Board of Trustees, and in charge of the program said, "I know how anxious you are to see the hospital we have waited for 30 years and these ceremonies will be held to a very minimum."

Peterson introduced E. M. Galloway, trustee of the Herb Fish Testamentary Trust who cut one of the three white ribbons stretched across the front driveway of the hospital. Randall Chase, chairman of the Board of the Fernald-Laughton Memorial Hospital was the next to cut the second white ribbon across the driveway. T. E. Tucker cut the last of the three ribbons to admit the hundreds waited to file through the hospital.

Every official was high in praise for the Memorial Hospital. Chase said prior to the open house, "We have been striving for this hospital for more than 30 years. It was the Clara Barton spirit that kept the Fernald-Laughton Memorial going until this one was provided."

Mrs. E. J. Moughton Sr. came back to Sanford by airplane from a visit with her daughter in Virginia for the opening ceremonies and open house at Seminole Memorial Hospital. She said, "I just couldn't miss it."

Members of the hospital Auxiliary were stationed throughout the hospital at important points to guide the visitors in a complete tour of the hospital facilities. Each one explained the intricate apparatus and the significance of each important point of interest as they filed by.

The Rev. Milton Wyatt, president of the Seminole County Ministerial Association offered the invocation prior to the opening ceremonies. On hand to witness the ribbon-cutting were the members of the Board of Trustees.

Visitors came from far and wide to see what has been termed the "most modern hospital in the South." Mrs. Martin Halter, supervisor of the McCoy-Jones Hospital of Folkston, Ga., with her husband and two children, was here for the opening event. She said, as she left the hospital, "It's wonderful."

Adjectives describing the hospital were numerous as old and young, white and colored, left the hospital after a complete day's tour. "It's a complete $10 million dollar facility, after which he established many Sky Pilot Squadrons, which feature model plane building."

His work has taken him all over the United States, Hawaii and part of Canada, presenting Sky Pilots of America, as well as emphasizing the importance of working with boys to the Church and the Nation.

Sachs goes on the premises that a strong Christian character built into our youth is the greatest defense against Communism. As well as the only sure method of breaking down juvenile delinquency. He likes to call the Sky Pilots a juvenile delinquency prevention work; and while rehabilitating delinquents is praiseworthy and necessary, delinquency prevention is far more profitable, and has lasting results, yet as he says, "It is our most neglected operation."

The Rev. Sachs will also speak at the Christian and Missionary Alliance Church Tuesday evening at 7:30.

Beneficial Rains Reported In State

"Rains beneficial, particularly to younger crops, were reported by Florida City and Immokalee State Markets." Director L. H. Lewis of the Florida Market system stated in summarizing weekly market reports. "While volume has declined somewhat due to the freezing weather, prices have advanced in most areas. With favorable weather prevailing, new crops should make rapid advance or recovery from cold damage."

Manager Sandy Anderson of Sanford State Market had "Thirty two varieties of fruits and vegetables totaling 53,942 packages with a gross valuation in excess of $132,200 the past weekly report period. This was a gain in valuation of more than $5,915.55 over the preceding week. "We anticipate fair to good supplies of a wide variety of produce this week."

Elks Volunteer Aid In Patient Switch

The civic minded Elks club last night at their meeting took over "Operation Big Switch" under which the patients and immediate essential equipment at Fernald Laughton Memorial Hospital will be transferred to the spick-and-span Seminole Memorial Hospital. It was announced this morning by Harry Weir, Administrator. Following the announcement yesterday that volunteers were asked to help in the transfer from the old facility to the new one, the local BPOE lodge went on record as being willing to do the job. Don Bales and Roy Sheffield were made co-chairmen of the committee to outline and carry into effect plans for the move.

Persons interested in helping, therefore, should get in touch with these co-chairmen rather than call the hospital as was suggested earlier, Mr. Weir said. Delighted with the arrangement, the hospital authorities expressed appreciation for the generous and helpful spirit and said that with the Elks' usual pattern of thoroughness they were confident that the undertaking would be handled in a splendid manner.

Rev. Elmer Sachs To Address Groups At Alliance Church

The Rev. Elmer Sachs, pastor of the Christian and Missionary Alliance Church where he is showing, also, a Sky Pilot film "Combat" which included such famous people as Gen. Jimmy Doolittle and the Japanese Captain Mitsu Fuchida along with Sky Chief Pilot Elmer Sachs.

The meetings begin at 7:30 p. m. says the Rev. David S. Carneluz, pastor of the church who emphasizes that these meetings are not in any way a sectarian or profit-making enterprise. He says, "We would like to have in attendance a good cross section of churches in Sanford."

The Rev. Sachs, is the Founding Director of Sky Pilots of America, International, a non-profit interdenominational boys' organization for churches. He is a former detective from Evanston, Ill., whose police work has given him a firsthand insight as to factors which make for delinquents and criminals.

He is a 6' 3" giant of a man, weighing 240 pounds, who look up to win the confidence and admiration of boys, after which he established many Sky Pilot Squadrons, which feature model plane building.

His work has taken him all over the United States, Hawaii and part of Canada, presenting Sky Pilots of America, as well as emphasizing the importance of working with boys to the Church and the Nation.

Sachs goes on the premises that a strong Christian character built into our youth is the greatest defense against Communism. As well as the only sure method of breaking down juvenile delinquency. He likes to call the Sky Pilots a juvenile delinquency prevention work; and while rehabilitating delinquents is praiseworthy and necessary, delinquency prevention is far more profitable, and has lasting results, yet as he says, "It is our most neglected operation."

The Rev. Sachs will also speak at the Christian and Missionary Alliance Church Tuesday evening at 7:30.

NY Couple Celebrates 55th Year

Quipping, smiling, and laughing, Judge and Mrs. A. G. Meyer of New York City celebrated their 55th wedding anniversary at the Mayfair Inn last night.

As active and jubilant as one many years his junior, Judge Meyer remarked that "We've been coming to Florida for 40 years or more and we like it."

And Mrs. Meyer spoke up and said, "This is our first trip to Sanford and we like it well enough to have spoken for reservations for next year."

Only Saturday, Judge Meyer celebrated his 85th birthday.

Judge Meyer, now retired, was District Attorney for New York County and Judge of the City Court, City of New York. He recounted that the City Court, City of New York is a continuation of the old Marine Court and is the only court that has marine jurisdiction.

The Judge's also the Past District Grand Master of the Masons of New York.

Judge Meyer related that the most interesting case to come before him was the trial of Richard Crocker, leader of Tammany Hall who was sued by his son in civil court. He said, "It was the peculiar circumstances involved that made the case a memorial one in my career as Judge."

City At One Time Without Hospital

Tomorrow is D-Day for the transfer of about 30 or 40 patients from the old Fernald-Laughton Memorial Hospital in Sanford to the new three-story, 75-bed Seminole Memorial Hospital recently completed and opened to the public for inspection. Everything is in readiness for the big move which is scheduled to take no more than four hours. It is hoped that patients, served breakfast at Fernald-Laughton, will be able to have lunch in the new Seminole Memorial Hospital.

The Big Switch, about to get underway, is reminiscent of the move from the present Fernald-Laughton Memorial Hospital site to the sprawling hospital located at the Sanford Naval Air Station and then back again to the home-turned-into-a-hospital at the corner of Fourth St. and Oak Ave.

There was a period of time that Sanford was without a hospital, according to Randall Chase, who yesterday reviewed the history of the efforts in securing the new hospital and of the spirit that saved the Fernald-Laughton Memorial Hospital alive and active through the more than 30 years of planning for what now is one of the most modern hospitals in the South.

A hospital, operated by the old Plant System was located where the old Atlantic Coast Line railroad station now stands on Ninth St., and was moved to Wagon, Ga., when the Atlantic Coast Line took over the railroad.

The move left Sanford without hospital facilities and for a 13-year interim, said Chase, chairman of the Executive Committee of the Fernald-Laughton Hospital, and homes were taken for patients who needed hospital care and medical attention. Simple operations were done here, he said, but patients requiring complicated surgery were taken to Jacksonville.

Through the generosity of George H. Fernald and his wife, Mabel, the Fernald home, now the Fernald-Laughton Memorial Hospital, was given to the City of Sanford for use as a hospital. The name, said Chase, was taken from the George H. and Mabel Fernald gift and in memory of Mrs. Fernald's mother, Mrs. Elise Laughton, who lived here with her daughter.

Just as it is now, said Chase, the Fernald-Laughton Memorial Hospital has served Sanford. Changes in the building have been made with the addition of a new wing, air conditioning in the operating room and nursery, an elevator, and a new heating system.

Because of the necessity, said Chase, nurses in the old days shoveled coal and threw wood into the furnace to keep the hospital warm. Such was the spirit that carried the hospital through periods of time when no one knew where money would come from to operate.

Said Chase, "We can think of nothing better to wish for the new man of the hospital, the building which is exemplified by the desire to serve the patient." He added, "If such a spirit is instilled — that of service to the patient — Seminole Memorial Hospital cannot help but be a success."

In paying tribute to those who helped in the furtherance of hospital care for Sanford and Seminole County's sick, Chase recalled that there have been but two presidents of the Fernald-Laughton Memorial Hospital — T. W. Lawton and T. E. Tucker. He said, "T. W. Lawton deserves a tremendous amount of credit for steering Fernald-Laughton Hospital along and keeping the public interested."

Chase again said, "In spite of the physical handicaps of Fernald-Laughton Memorial Hospital, the lack of space and rooms, because of the nursing care patients received, it was almost superhuman effort on the part of the nursing staff that kept the hospital a complete success."

"We have a fine hospital," said Chase, "one of the most attractive I have ever seen. Nothing has been spared in money and plans to make it a most complete facility."

Tomorrow morning the Big Switch gets underway. The Sanford Rotary Club has volunteered to provide the trucks, cars, automobiles, or whatever is necessary to move patients and equipment from one location to another. Brisson's ambulance will be on hand to have stretcher patients.

Seminole Memorial Hospital will begin its operation tomorrow on behalf of those who need it.

Nelson & Neal Duo Solve Difficulties Of Traveling Life

Most concert pianists on tour today have one question on their lips when they arrive in a city where they are scheduled to give a performance: "How is the piano?" Not so with Nelson and Neal, the two-piano team who will appear here tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at Pinecrest School auditorium. This brilliant young wife-husband team solved the piano problem several years ago by bringing their own concert grand pianos on tour—and tuning them. They have developed into an exact science the process of packing their valuable instruments, as well as unloading and reloading them.

Democrats Are Ready To Go Into Action

"The Democrats are ready for action and ready to go to work," said Mrs. Ralph Austin Smith, State Democratic Committee woman. "An evidence of this," she said, "there was not a tuxedo worn at the head table when a dedicated Democratic contingent overflowed the ballroom of the Soreno Hotel in St. Petersburg to eat a delicious $28 a plate dinner on Saturday, Jan. 28."

Aunt Jemima Due To Give Appearance Friday At Foodmart

Aunt Jemima, the world's foremost pancake expert, known from coast to coast for her "fluffy" griddle cakes, is coming to Sanford on Friday and Saturday, Feb. 3-4. The originator of the world's first package ready-mix will demonstrate how to prepare and serve hot cakes at the Foodmart, Park Ave. at 23th St. It was announced today by "Chuck" Atkinson, manager of the supermarket.

"Chuck" issues a general invitation to his friends, neighbors, and all the citizens of Sanford to meet Aunt Jemima in person on that day and to eat her famous pancakes.

"If you love good eating, you haven't lived until you try pancakes the way Aunt Jemima herself bakes them," he said in announcing the event.

As a leading culinary expert for more than half a century, the name and fame of Aunt Jemima are legendary. Aunt Jemima made her first public appearance during Chicago's Columbian Exposition in 1893, when she baked the world's first pancakes made from a ready-mix. Her immediate popularity spread the fame of her pancakes until Aunt Jemima was soon a household word for good pancakes. Since that time food-mixes have grown in popularity until today they are universally used, but the name of Aunt Jemima is still synonymous with ready-mix griddle cakes. Over the years, too, many other tasty food innovations have been developed by Aunt Jemima, but pancakes remain her favorite dish.

Aunt Jemima will demonstrate her cooking techniques, and serve hot cakes to all her old friends at the Foodmart, Feb. 3 and 4. During that time she will talk personally with everyone who visits the store, and give many cooking tips to make kitchen work easier.

Out of all the hundreds of thousands of miles traveled, Nelson and Neal have had only one accident. This took place in a whirling snowstorm in mid-Missouri in November 1931. Their truck lost traction on the icy pavement and skittered off the road, turning over into a snowbank. Fortunately, no one was injured and the two pianos were only slightly damaged. The Neals were soon on their way to New York after their mid-western tour, so they left their pianos at the Baldwin Cincinnati factory for repairs and continued on by train.

Their determination to have a normal family life in spite of the difficulties imposed by one of America's busiest concert careers prompted the nation's third largest magazine (the Ladies' Home Journal) to do an extensive study of their lives in its January 1934 issue.

The Neals have an infectious sense of humor and the rear of their mobile unit carries a sign which invites all comers to "Wave As You Pass!" You could not fail to recognize their 23-foot, two-section unit on the highway, painted jet black with gold and white lettering. If you prefer to hail them to a stop, rather than merely waving as you pass, the chances are Nelson and Neal would be delighted to invite you in for tea, if you don't mind having your second cup 20 miles down the road!

Wilson's Back Home From Slushy 'North'

A. L. Wilson, manager of the Wilson-Maier Furniture Company, at 311 E. First St., Sanford, and Mrs. Wilson, returned Friday evening from High Point, N. C., where they attended the Southern Furniture Market's Spring Exposition.

The Wilsons were among nearly 2,000 furniture dealers and department store buyers who annually inspect the latest offerings of 100 southern furniture manufacturers using the facilities of the vast Southern Furniture Exposition building.

The Wilsons were glad to return to what they had considered "cold weather" here at home after slugging through nearly six inches of wet slush and snow in North Carolina. Open-toed shoes and oxfords were not much protection, so they have two brand new pairs of rubber galoshes as souvenirs of their trip.

Diamond Authority Addresses Rotary

Members of the Sanford Rotary Club at their regular weekly meeting held yesterday noon at the Yacht Club had the opportunity of hearing an outstanding authority on the diamond, universally recognized as chief among precious stones.

Mrs. Gladys Rasmussen Hannaford, of the public relations staff of N. W. Ayer and Son, Inc., has made the most extensive study and examination of the South African diamond mines ever made by a woman and is a trained speaker of broad professional experience who knows diamonds from the inside of the industry through work with cutters, wholesalers and retailers.

She has been associated with the De Beers Diamond Syndicate, considered to be the world's largest diamond organization and has appeared before countless schools, colleges and clubs.

Mrs. Hannaford stated that diamonds were valuable, for three reasons: they are the most enduring substance known; they are rare, being found in very few places and they are beautiful. She gave many instances of diamonds having an effect on history. She displayed genuine stones and replicas of practically all the famous stones of the ages.

As to statistics, Mrs. Hannaford mentioned where and in what quantity the stones in a very rough state were found stating that 98 3/10 per cent of all diamonds are found in the Union of South Africa. Her talk held the attention of her hearers in a manner that must have delighted her and she received a rising ovation at its conclusion.

The program, arranged by William E. Kader, local jeweler, was introduced by Charles Morrison. The meeting was presided over by William (Bill) Bush, club president.

A meeting will be held at 8 p. m. today in the American Legion home to organize a barracks of Veterans of World War I, U.S.A., Dr. A. Royal Forsythe said yesterday.

Dr. Forsythe, St. Petersburg, Florida department chaplain and state membership director, said the organization does not conflict with the American Legion, the purpose being to secure special benefits for the veterans who organized the Legion.

The organization concluded a successful state convention at New Smyrna Beach last weekend and 21 barracks are in existence in Florida now, Dr. Forsythe said.

He added, since organization nationally two and one-half years ago, there are 500 barracks in the U. S. with over 150,000 members in 38 states and the Philippine Islands.
