

Morris Issue

"Hate has no place in a position of trust," he said, and added: "If Jesus Christ had been the third member of this board, he would have had to perform miracles to save Mr. Morris."

Mr. Chase, who presided over the meeting, was emphatic in his denial that any reflection on the honesty or integrity of Mr. Morris was intended by the board. "We simply feel that the records of the school funds have not been kept in a proper manner," he said, "and that Mr. Morris has neglected his responsibility in this respect. The board feels that it has discharged its duty to the citizens in withholding its recommendation for Mr. Morris' reappointment."

With respect to discipline at the school, Mr. Chase said that he had received numerous complaints from patrons running back over the years concerning a lack of discipline and that this had been brought to the attention of Mr. Morris. School children had been seen on the streets during school hours, he said, and excuses had been given other children by Mr. Morris so that they could go hunting.

Mr. Chase also read excerpts from school laws outlining the duty of the School Trustees to the citizens, and pointing out that their recommendation of school principals is their most important responsibility. He said that in view of the complaints received against Mr. Morris and his failure to correct the causes, the School Board could not recommend him for reappointment.

the amount of $600.00 each payable to the Board of Public Instruction, Seminole County. The checks were not deposited by the Board of Public Instruction, but were endorsed and turned over to the Seminole High School activities. It will be noted that during the period under review Mr. Kettles was paid a total of $1,551.00, whereas a total of $1,200 was received from the City of Sanford.

In answering the charges of the School Trustees, Mr. Morris said that when he took over as Principal of the High School 3 1/2 years ago, the athletic fund, was $600 in the hole. He pointed out that increased gate receipts from football games are used to pay the expenses of all other school activities. Had the audit been made at the end of the year instead of in the middle of it, he said, all accounts would have been in balance and there would have been no overdrafts.

"This money," he said, "belongs to the boys and girls of Seminole High School. It is not tax money and no tax money is involved. The boys and girls have a right to spend it in any way they want to, and not a single dime has been spent for anything for which it was not intended."

The bookkeeping system for the high school funds was set up, Mr. Morris said, by C. W. Ishill, and the books have been kept by two different bookkeepers in both of whom Mr. Morris expressed the utmost confidence.

"I am not saying it is the best system in the world," he said, "but it is not a bad system. It reflects no ill credit on the high school or the man who keeps the books. It is not nearly as bad as the audit would make you think, or as it would have been if the audit had been made at the end of the year."

Mr. Morris explained the salary arrangement between the City and the school board, for employment of Coach Kettles and two loans which had been made to him out of the athletic funds last Fall, both of which Mr. Kettles is expected to repay out of his salary from the Baseball Association this summer.

With respect to discipline, Mr. Morris said that the Trustees had complained to him about discipline 3 1/2 years ago when he first went to the high school, but "that was not my discipline," he added, "that was before I took over."

"There has been a general let-down in discipline all over the country," he continued, "but we have not had any instances here of a failure on the part of the students to do as instructed. Our pupils behave better than those we have seen elsewhere in our trips around the state." "Educationally, athletically and musically," he continued, "our school stands at the top. Our students are making good in college. Out of 90 graduates last year, 15 went into the armed services. Forty-two went to college and only one of them failed, at a time when the colleges are overcrowded and the faculties are overworked out all they can."

Pointing out that he has had nine offers of other jobs since last Wednesday, Mr. Morris said he was not fighting for this job, but rather because he likes Sanford and wants to stay here, because he has given 21 years of his life to the education and development of Seminole County children, and because "if the Trustees can fire me for what I've done without any more evidence than they have presented here, no one has any business dedicating his life to the public schools of America and he might as well quit now and get out of the teaching profession."

Dr. Brooks, speaking in Mr. Morris' behalf, characterized the whole procedure as "Much Ado About Nothing," and said that he was proud of Seminole High School and didn't think it should lose the services of a good educator because he did not happen to be a good bookkeeper. He suggested that the Trustees might hire someone else to keep the books.

"As for discipline," he continued, "they're your children. And it does not matter much who the Principal is, he can't make angels out of them. For 21 years Mr. Morris has poured his life into your children, some of whom have gone forth into the world and brought great credit to our city and county. I think we ought to be proud of him."

At the suggestion of G. W. Spencer, a rising vote was taken and was accepted by the Trustees as being unanimous. Mr. Chase announced that the Trustees would hold an executive session today to decide their further action in the matter. They are to present their decision to the School Board which meets tomorrow.

of the Brooklyn club. During the spring training season, MacPhail accused Durocher of conduct detrimental to baseball. MacPhail referred specifically to comments made in a newspaper column under Durocher's name, and also to a quotation attributed to Durocher that MacPhail had entertained gamblers in his box while witnessing an exhibition game in Havana between the Yankees and Dodgers. Chandler held a hearing on MacPhail's charges, after which he announced that no decision would be handed down until he returned to Cincinnati.

The commissioner found that two alleged gamblers were not sitting in a box with MacPhail during a recent baseball game in Havana. It developed also that Drensen's suspension was the result of his leaving the Dodger club to work for the Yankees. Chandler said he was convinced that the coach had agreed to remain with Rickey for two more years although no formal contract had been signed.

"Durocher has not measured up to the standards expected of required managers of our baseball teams," Chandler stated. He added that is why he is being suspended for the season.

MacPhail made the same charge of conduct detrimental to baseball against President Branch Rickey of the Brooklyn Dodgers, whose name was not mentioned in the decision handed down by Chandler today.

Parrott was brought into the case because he was supposed to have written the newspaper columns which appeared over Durocher's name.

Lewis Accused

(Continued from Page One) retary John Battle of the National Coal Association charged. "Lewis is in reality telling his miners not to return to work until the federal inspectors have had time to revisit all the mines and recertify them, a matter of weeks or months."

Meanwhile, in the Pennsylvania soft mine area, State Mines Secretary Richard Maize today certified 74 pits as safe. Maize accused Interior Secretary Krug of not showing good judgment when he closed 158 bituminous mines. He said inspection reports Krug used were as much as a year old.

Lewis goes back before Judge Alan Goldsborough tomorrow to ask for the return of all but $710,000 of the fines assessed in connection with the 17-day soft coal strike last fall. The United States Supreme Court has upheld Goldsborough's finding that Lewis and the union committed contempt by ignoring a federal district court order to return to work. But the high tribunal directed the return of $2,800,000 to the union if it complied after losing its appeal. Lewis' own $10,000 fine was left intact.

(Continued from Page One) for their correspondence. The House also adopted rules of procedure which were substantially the same as in the past. The major exception was a rule permitting the Appropriations Committee to hold bills for the first 30 days of the session without having to report them. Bills in other committees held more than 14 days can be called up without a report. While the House was moving swiftly into action, the Senate met only briefly and adjourned for the day. The air conditioning system still is not working in the Senate Chamber. Senator John R. Beacham of West Palm Beach said concurrent resolutions will be offered tomorrow, calling for an adjournment of the legislature until Monday. Beacham said the long recess would allow engineers time to install a new air conditioning unit. As the 1947 Legislature convened yesterday, hundreds of baskets and bouquets of flowers adorned the desks of House members.

Phone Strike

(Continued from Page One) into its third day, the Associated Press made a survey in the South to determine just how much support other labor unions are giving the Southern Federation of Telephone Workers, an independent organization. The survey found only scattered support from unions affiliated either with the CIO or the A. F. of L.

The question of supporting the telephone strike has hardly been raised except among construction workers on buildings of the Southern Bell Telephone Company. In only two cities, in Miami and New Orleans, the construction workers are refusing to cross picket lines of the telephone strikers. Construction in Atlanta, Daytona Beach and Little Rock stopped temporarily but has been resumed.

A F of L carpenters, bricklayers, and concrete spreaders went back to work on an eight-story addition to the Southern Bell building in Atlanta. In Daytona Beach, there was a delay of only two hours on a company construction job valued at $500,000.

In Miami, however, work remained at a standstill this morning on a $1,000,000 addition to the downtown office building. In New Orleans, construction workers remained off the job of putting up a four-story addition to the telephone building.

Board Okays H.E. Morris As Principal

Trustees Reverse Decision In Reponse To Public Demand; S. O. Chase Resigns

Herman E. Morris was appointed this morning as principal of Seminole High School by the Seminole County Board of Public Instruction after it had received notice of his nomination by the Sanford Board of School Trustees, who thereby reversed a previous decision not to recommend him as principal for the school year 1947-48.

Notice of the resignation of S. O. Chase, Jr., chairman of the Sanford Board of Trustees, was also received by the County Board of which L. E. Jordan of Ovidio is chairman and which includes J. A. Bintliffe of Longwood and Walter M. Hayes of Sanford. Following the reading of the notice by Supt. T. W. Lawton, the Board agreed to defer action on the matter until later.

Appointment of other principals throughout the county in accordance with the recommendation of the School Trustees of the various districts was also acted upon.

Notice of the School Trustees in nominating Mr. Morris was contained in two almost identical statements. Under the first was the signature of S. O. Chase, Jr. and of Mrs. Rosamond Chapman and under the second which differed from the first only in the addition of the words, "with my approval" was the signature of R. A. Cobb.

The notice dated April 9th, reads: "In accordance with the wishes of the overwhelming majority of interested patrons of Seminole High School, the nomination of H. E. Morris as Principal of Seminole High School for the school year 1947-48 is hereby EVIL PLOTTERS USUALLY SUCCEED IN CATCHING THEMSELVES IN THE END: So they hanged Haman on the gallows that he had prepared for Mordecai.—Esther 7:10.

ORPHAN HOUR (From "The Phoenix Nest" in The Saturday Review of Literature) Do you remember how we lay silent together in the grass when it was neither night nor day—watching that orphan hour pass?

And all about us, stretching far, The daisies waited, elbow-tall. The air above advanced one star To gleam there, brilliant and small.

The quiet stuned us where we lay. We held our breath, though not in fear. Desiring only to delay The subtle dusk that hovered near. RAYMOND HOSKEN.

President Truman is concerned about the price crisis, as who isn't who is trying to live on a budget.

They say that the six dollars a day pay which our Legislators receive in Tallahassee is almost enough to buy their breakfast.

We wish we had had space to quote all the wisecracks that were made up at the meeting the other night. Some of them were pretty good.

The Titusville Star-Advocate quotes a Miami man as having said that the day of the $50 tip is over. And just as we were about to become a red cap!

We see where Henry Wallace is going on a lecture tour of England. He probably wants to explain to those Blighties why this country doesn't want to have to pull England's chestnuts out of the Greece.

Senator Vandenberg says the Truman Greek Aid bill was designed to head off the third World War. With the various projects being launched these days to head off the next World War, we hope one of them works just a little bit.

Governor Caldwell gave the Legislators a forward-looking program as he opened the 1947 session of the Legislature. It will cost the state many millions of dollars, but not necessarily new millions in taxation. At least $33,000,000 will be available from sources already provided to pay for such necessary improvements as schools, new buildings and other state services. Of course, if the Legislature grants every request for funds made of it by various organized groups, new taxes will be necessary, and they will probably come in the form of sales taxes.

"Democracy In Action" might have been the title for the little drama which took place Tuesday night in the Seminole High School Auditorium. Only in America could the voice of the people have made itself so resoundingly felt. We were gratified by the courtesy and restraint with which the audience listened to arguments with which they were almost wholly in disagreement and their patience in sitting through the tiresome reading of the school fund audit. We were impressed with the dignity and discipline with which the high school students conducted themselves upon this occasion. And we admired the manner in which the Trustees faced a hostile audience and conducted the meetings if the same interest which the patrons showed Tuesday night can be maintained and directed toward more adequate educational appropriations, we can make our school second to none in the nation.

The People's Verdict

It was a fine tribute which the patrons of Seminole High School paid to Principal Herman E. Morris Tuesday night when after hearing all the arguments against him they stood up almost as a man and voiced their approval of his conduct of the school. We don't believe we have ever previously known a man who occupied so difficult a position to receive such whole-hearted public support or to enjoy such loyalty and affection on the part of the faculty, the student body, and the alumni.

Such popularity must be deserved. After 21 years of service in the public schools of Sanford, if he were not a man of unusual talents, those who know him best, those with whom he has worked, and those for whom he had dedicated the better part of his life, would surely have discovered such flaws as might exist. It is comparatively easy for a stranger to come in, create a favorable impression and make friends for a year or two. But time is a ruthless prosecutor who lays bare the faults of the best of us.

And it is no trivial virtue, this popularity of Mr. Morris, to be dismissed lightly. It is of the highest importance to the principal of a high school to be loved by the students, to be admired by the faculty and to be supported by the public. Wherein could a man in his position possibly maintain discipline, in this day and time, if he were regarded as a tyrant. A principal's only hope for usefulness lies in his support from, and his influence with, the student body.

It does not make any difference how much Latin or Mathematics an educator may know, if he does not possess those qualities of leadership which enable him to inspire his pupils to greater efforts and to instill in them an honest desire for the better things in life, he cannot teach. Only a principal who has these qualities like Mr. Morris can possibly maintain discipline and turn out competent citizens.

We have no doubt, in the light of the people's verdict, the Trustees will reconsider their decision.

Negro Health Figures

A report of the U. S. Public Health Service points out clearly that health standards of American negroes are greatly below those of whites. Negro life expectancy is 57 years as compared with 66 for whites; infant mortality is 63 per cent higher. There are only 24 negro hospitals with about 21,000 bed capacity as compared with 1,700,000 beds for the total population. As the negro population is about one-tenth of the whole, the bed capacity for the negroes should be 170,000 for an equitable distribution.

There is one Negro physician for about 3,400 of the black race, as contrasted with one doctor for every 750 of the total. Though negroes have increased in number in the past ten years, their doctors are fewer. Tuberculosis, kidney afflictions and pneumonia are the most common diseases among the negroes. Cancer and heart disease, the white man's killers, are less prevalent among the colored, though cancer is claiming more of them than formerly.

Statistical generalizations are often cold and inelegant. But these say something and say it vividly. There must be better health provisions and higher living standards for Americans of the colored race. This is one of the first steps toward harmonious and satisfactory interracial conditions.

Kingless Kingdom

A kingdom without a king is to be the next state of Spain. Dictator Franco has directed the Cortes, or Spanish national assembly, to declare Spain a monarchy but to leave the throne vacant. This may be meant as bait for Spanish monarchists. Hints will be dropped that if they support the tottering Franco regime, their candidate, Prince Juan, may hope for Franco's support for the royal title.

On the other hand, if Franco is not overthrown, this kingless kingdom might go on for years. Hungary is an example. After World War I Admiral Horthy proclaimed his country a monarchy without a king, and with himself as regent. This state of affairs continued until World War II.

Spanish monarchists should appreciate what other Spaniards know, that a Franco dictatorship remains a Franco dictatorship as long as Franco himself stays on top. The name by which the system goes, monarchy or republic, is meaningless.

WASHINGTON LETTER By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—Georgetown is a residential section of the Capital. It is old. It is also very snooty. Much to the dismay of many of its aged in the atmosphere residents, it has been invaded since the beginning of the war by newcomers who will pay any price to have an address in that community. Now the center of a fantastic real estate boom, sleepy Old Georgetown, whose history goes back to the seventeenth century, has come to life with the clatter of political gossip, the clink of cocktail glasses and the redecorating exploits of its current set of tenants.

But even before that—in 1929 to be exact—members of St. John's Episcopal Church, one of the oldest houses of worship in the District, thought up the idea of inviting outsiders to look at some of the houses. A fee is charged, and the proceeds from the tour go to the social welfare department of the church. Those who have shown their homes in the past and are sponsors of this year's tour include Mrs. Robert A. Taft, wife of the Roy C. The framed records of achievement will hang in the State Capitol.

Ohio senator; Mrs. Robert M. Patterson, wife of the secretary of war, and Mrs. James Forrestal, wife of the secretary of the navy.

Mrs. Taft declined to accept the honor because she had been so busy helping the senator she couldn't get the house in shape for the sharp inspection it would get.

The residence of Rep. Richard B. Wigglesworth of Massachusetts, one of a row of federal houses built by Col. James Smith, circa 1805, is listed for showing this trip, however.

Classic domers and recessed panels relieve the facade of the house, which was originally "done over" for modern occupancy by Lewis Douglas, newly-appointed U. S. ambassador to the Court of St. James.

The Wigglesworths added touches too. They imported fine old woodwork, including two mantelpieces, from Beverly, Mass. Helen Gahagan Douglas, California congresswoman, is also showing the small house she leased, furnished, from Gen. and Mrs. Francis Brady, now in Florida.

The house, which dates back more than 100 years, is enriched with rare furnishings brought back by the Bradys from Rome, where he formerly served as military attache.

Other houses to be shown include that of the Assistant Secretary of Commerce and Mrs. William B. Burden, the home owned by Ray Atherton, U. S. Ambassador to Canada, the former residence of Alexander Graham Bell and the house that was at one time the Russian Legation.

Incorporated as the city of George Town in 1789, on the site where the Indians years earlier had established a village, Georgetown led in colonial society life.

Washington once was looked upon as its back yard. Though Washington finally swallowed it up, it remains undigested.

Economists Believe Price Decline Will Not Mean Recession

By STERLING GREEN WASHINGTON—More and more government economists now believe that the 1947 price dip—if one comes—won't be deep enough to merit the name "recession." Opinion still is well divided. But this is becoming a typical forecast by some experts who last fall were predicting a short-lived but full-fledged business slump: A "price adjustment" or around 10 percent at wholesale, certainly not much more; an increase of around 2,000,000 in unemployment; a start after midyear and an end within one year.

Such a modest decline, in the view of most federal economists, would not be a recession. The difference, they say, is not simply the use of a milder word to describe a harsh fact, because there are distinct shades of meaning for "dip," "recession," and "depression." Therefore there were actual differences of opinion among officials when President Truman in January spoke of "minor detours and bumps" ahead; when his Council of Economic Advisers warned of a possible "dip" this year; when the Federal Reserve Board men spoke of a "recession" and the Commerce Department of a "business adjustment." Nobody, however, has forecast a "depression."

The Commerce Department last fall was in the "recession" camp, though it never made such a prediction officially. The fact that it now speaks of an "adjustment" betokens a definite change in the economic outlook. A "dip" is a mild adjustment of price levels. These would be the earmarks of a depression implies heavy unemployment and a duration of several years.

There could be a recession in the middle of a depression. For instance, the country was just emerging from the depression of the 1930s when it ran into the sag of 1938.

But even if a full-scale recession came along this year, it would have much lighter impact, because the economy is moving on a much higher level generally. Only a totally unexpected cataclysm could create an army of jobless like that of 1938. Even if it happened, total employment still would be much higher because the labor force expanded so greatly during the war.

The business "adjustment" of which the Commerce Department now speaks is much milder. It means that the most inflationary prices will come down into line with the average of prices, but at a level which still will leave business a good profit—even in food, which is the commodity farthest out of line and probably will suffer the biggest drop when supplies improve.

It also means that wholesale, assembly plants and stores will stop piling up stocks faster than they sell or use them. Such inventory accumulation has been hitting an unprecedented clip for months.

When it ends, department experts expect about 5 percent of the total volume of orders to factories will stop. Production, and therefore employment, will reflect the drop.

Consumers, also, may be expected to shift their demand from "soft" goods—shoes, clothing and the like—to hard goods, thereby pulling one drop from soft goods prices. The reason this shift has not already been staged is because automobiles, sewing machines, cabinet radios and other wanted items have been much slower arriving in quantity than was expected.

Last fall most federal economists thought all those movements would smack into the economy at once. Prices and business activity, they felt, would rise to a sharp peak, then sag suddenly.

That is approximately what happened in 1938. Optimistic businessmen were piling up inventories at rising prices and expected to sell at still higher prices. Then came two blows at the public buying power. The soldiers' bonus suddenly was all spent, and simultaneously the government started its own depression outlays.

Consumer demand fell off. The overbuilt inventories had to be sacrificed. A good many firms took big losses or failed. Factory production lagged and workers were laid off.

That was a recession. Three months ago many analysts thought we were walking the same path, and some still do.

But other have changed their minds. They say that the whole movement has been slower than expected, that inventory accumulation will be trimmed voluntarily before the consumer shifts his buying habits, so that the limit of those events will not coincide; that consumer income is holding up better than expected; that buying power has been conserved because the goods weren't available to buy.

So, instead of the 'high-peak-and-downskid' pattern which results in depression, they foresee a more gradual movement from a very high plateau to a slightly lower one—an "adjustment" in reality, and not a recession.

Showmanship, a pleasing plaintive voice, clean living, and in Autry have made Gene a millionaire. He was born poor in Tioga, Tex., the son of a circuit-riding preacher farmer.

Bashfully, Gene recounted his interests. Besides picture making and his Sunday radio program, he co-owns a radio station in Phoenix, is building one in Tucson, co-owns six theaters in Dallas and a flying school in Phoenix. His ranch near Window, Ariz., covers 12,000 acres. He derives royalties from cap pistols, hats, shirts, boots, belts, chaps, and comic books.

Since leaving the Army Air Transport Command—he piloted C-47s in the United States, India, and Africa—he has made two movies.

Once he was vacation relief telephone operator at Chelsea, Okla. One day Will Rogers came in to file a wire. Gene was singing to his own accompaniment on a mail-order guitar.

"So, I think you're wasting your time here," the humorist said. "You ought to get yourself a job on the radio."

Gene got a pass and rode a chaircar to New York—and fame.

Garden Club Board Has Monthly Meet

At the regular monthly board meeting of the Garden Club held at the Tourist Center on Wednesday morning at 10:00 A. M. Mrs. A. W. Epps presided and led a discussion on resolutions drawn up by the Tampa Men's Garden Club presented to the session of the Legislature.

The measures are aimed toward the beautification of the state highways, she said. The first measure bars roaming livestock from the Florida highways and the second measure asks the Legislature to appropriate state funds or to provide funds from the state highway appropriations to be used by the department solely for the procuring and transplanting of those native palms most suited to each area along the highways.

The club voted to endorse the measures and to submit letters of endorsement to Representatives M. B. Smith and H. H. Boyle and Senator L. F. Boyle.

Programs were distributed for the convention of the Florida Federation of Garden Clubs which will be held in Orlando on April 16 and 17 at the Angelbird Hotel. Delegates from the Sanford chapter are Mrs. Epps and Mrs. W. A. Fitts with alternate being Mrs. Julius Dingfelder and Mrs. Z. B. Radloff.

Such actions were given for registration and a program will be held in the "Sky-Room" of the hotel, a formal banquet on Wednesday at the Orlando Country Club, a Dutch breakfast in the Assembly Room on Thursday and a talk on "Orlando on the South" by Mrs. Epps. Mrs. Epps is the editor of Home Gardening For The South, the Garden Club magazine. The convention will close with a tea for the guests.

Gabby hasn't shaved in 10 years. He shampoos his silvery hair and hair every night. "My whiskers have been good to me," he says; "they mean the difference between porterhouse steak and beans."

Mr. and Mrs. Wroten Dunn, Special Gospel Singers, will be at the Church of God at Fifth Street and Holly Avenue each evening next week where they will bring the Gospel message in songs.

Tally Lassies

Spring holidays have come and gone. Easter vacations have come and gone. Legislature has come to the hills of Tallahassee and with it has come the hotly contested question of co-education. Surprisingly enough, it too may just come and go unless its ardent advocates can convince the overwhelming number of dissenters that what they believe in is right.

For the past two quarters, we've had just a small taste of what co-education would be like. The advent of the male student on the ESC campus has brought with it not only a change in the social outlook, but also a major change in educational viewpoints.

Supporters of co-education naturally mention the previously mentioned dissenters claim that all that interests a co-educational student is the possibility of a date every night and the possibility of staying at other dates that is not co-education. However, the addition of a male student affects every phase of campus life. They have a new classroom competitor in the boys' world. In view of the fact that the co-education bill to keep in mind is not a bill to keep in mind, but a bill to keep in mind, it is not surprising that the co-education bill is being introduced in the Legislature.

I could stand on my neck and sing the praises of co-education, but I am not going to attempt to take the opposing side, mentioning the obstacles such as housing plans, faculty changes, and individual differences which will still present a picture of a co-educational South both sides of the co-education bill.

In the case of Tallahassee, there will be a great number of educational institutions and institutions concerning co-education. We are personally delivering these papers to the legislators in the hopes that our views on the subject will help them see the advantages of co-education.

Nevertheless, notice I am not either of the student body can convince the senators and representatives. The success of the bill also rests in the hands of the people at home. Through letters and other means with

Sanfordites On Honor Roll At Southern

Dean J. C. Peel of Florida Southern College in Lakeland announced the honor roll for the winter term. The list included 234 students, 24 of whom had straight "A" averages for the term. Among the students on the "A" group for their second consecutive term this year was Miss Virginia Chapman of Sanford. Also listed on the honor roll for the school was William Francis Newweather.

At a party the other night the girls were all dressed in the best blouses and aprons, when a bobbed the males looking like something out of Huckleberry Finn. This wouldn't have been too bad, considering we're in the "casual" age, but the girls' date nights to be DATE NIGHTS. And when the males all sat around on the floor reading the comic strips, and then some of the boys stood up and sang before the girls.

When the boys got bored with the comic strips, they began to talk about it was time to meet and upon and all the set that played with him. But the girls were not of that opinion, so they sat there and they like some real home of goodness conversation and then some and dancing and a couple of songs. Some of the girls were talking about a date night.

Get the kids to work at it. Some more examples of the date night. Some of the girls were talking about a date night. Some of the girls were talking about a date night.

Dear Judy,
If you have never heard Jackson, have you heard of some of the girls had the other afternoon. What has country music become? It is very easy and lots of fun. Double Dots or North Side High School, Fort Wayne, Ind. has collected more than 500 of them. His friends send him money from Mexico and Hawaii. He hasn't yet decided what to do with them. You'd be surprised how many things you can pretty up with them. An old coffee table or end table can be pecked up by pasting match covers on the top with glue. Put an iron on top to keep 'em down. When they are all securely pasted coat over the top of them with lacquer. It gives even a more super effect if a glass is placed over the table top.

Gene Autry's Start On Road To Fame

By GENE HANDSAKER
HOLLYWOOD—Gene Autry, who swapped his telegraph key for a guitar and became a big business, finds that bronc bustin' and calf ropin are paying off as never before. The City folks are rarin' to go to rodeos.

We get a new house record at Madison Square Garden, Gene said modestly, reporting on his recent rodeo tour of New York, Boston, and Baton Rouge, La. "We play on 59 performances in '32 days at the Garden, the longest run of any rodeo in history."

An estimated 750,000 New Yorkers paid up to $6 a head to watch bulldozers, bare back riders, and other performers, who received, incidentally, approximately 15 broken arms, legs, and ribs. Gene sang cowboy songs and performed aboard Champion, his stunt horse.

"People are more outdoor minded than ever," he thinks. Maybe it's a reaction to the war years when they were cooped up at home.

The movie warbling cowboy has returned to the celluloid range to do two more pictures for Republic studio. Pending final court adjudication of his suit to break his contract there, he thinks HOLLYWOOD—All was very tense and dramatic on the set of "The Paradine Case." Director Alfred Hitchcock was using four cameras simultaneously in a brand new manner. Multiple cameras have been used before for odd-angle shots of the same scene, but each of Hitchcock's pointed at a different subject.

One showed British lawyer Gregory Peck hurling accusing questions; another focused on dark and handsome young Louis Jourdan sweating in the witness box. Still another pointed at the fat, supercilious judge, Charles Laughton.

Contest Pitched By Kettles Rated Tops In State League

SILVER SPRINGS, Fla., Apr. 10 (Special)—As far as Florida State League fans at Orlando, Leesburg and Daytona Beach are concerned, the most novel pitching performance that could be turned in by one of their 1947 hurlers would be a no-hit nine-inning affair.

For official records released at league headquarters here today show that only 16 nine-inning no-hitters have been pitched since the league was organized in 1936, and not one is credited to a hurler from those cities.

And and Gainesville pitchers each have carved out three no-hitters since 1936. With the Red Hat hurlers losing they pitched no hit ball!

First nine-inning no-hitter in league history is credited to Bradshaw, St. Augustine, who turned back Orlando 4 to 0 on Aug. 28, 1937.

Five days later, on Sept. 2, 1937, DeLand Jim McMullen pitched ed no-hit ball but lost to Orlando, 3 to 0, when his teammates bobbled behind him.

Lefty Brewer shut out Orlando without a hit at St. Augustine on June 6, 1938 for the only no-hitter of the 1938 season.

Lefty Frank Hudson of Palatka turned back Gainesville 1 to 0 without a safe blow on July 21, 1939, for the only no-hitter of that year.

Three no-hitters went into the records in 1940: W. J. Davis of Gainesville whipped DeLand 4 to 1, May 25, 1940; Don Ryan of Gainesville stopped Ocala 1 to 0, June 16, 1940, while Lefty Eddie Harper of DeLand defeated Leesburg 3 to 1, on July 10, 1940.

Johnny Moore of Gainesville came up with 1941's only no-hitter, a 5 to 0 decision over Ocala on Aug. 19, 1941.

Wildest no-hitter in league history was played at St. Augustine on April 25, 1940 when DeLand manager Bill Fuch's pitched no-hit ball but lost by the odd score of 6 to 5.

Tenth and last nine-inning no-hitter was credited to Sanford's veteran Goose Kettles whose 2 to 0 victory over Gainesville on June 2, 1946 was one of the best pitched games in league history.

League records also reveal that fans can expect an average of six no-hitters, nine two-hitters, and 14 three-hitters during any one season.

Will 1947's first no-hitter be credited to an Orlando, Leesburg, or Daytona Beach hurler or will DeLand and Gainesville produce him?

You figure the odds on that one, bearing in mind that in seven years of league play 3,591 games have been played, including the ten no-hitters!

Truman Will Pitch First Ball Of Year In Major Leagues

WASHINGTON, Apr. 10 — A well-known southpaw will throw the first pitch in Major League baseball this year. The southpaw, of course, is President Truman.

Barring complications, the President has promised to drop around for next Monday's opening game between the Washington Senators and New York Yankees. The result is expected to be the best presidential pitch since the days of William Howard Taft.

The authority for that statement is Morris Beale, Washington number one diamond fan and author of the book, "The Washington Senators."

Beale says Taft threw a high, hard one. As for his successor, Wilson, Harding, Coolidge, Hoover and Roosevelt, Beale says: "They all used the bean bag stance, of a bloomer girl debutante."

Beale expects President Truman to do better this year than last. Beale says of last year's toss by the Chief Executive: "No bean bag stuff. The following through was perfect."

Pilot Ruel Ignites Browns' Pilot Light With Fighting Club

By FRANK ECKS AP Newsfeatures Sports Writer MIAMI, Fla.—Herold (Muddy) Ruel, new manager of the St. Louis Browns, has one of the softest jobs in baseball.

Muddy has a two-year contract and no one expects him and his team to set the American League on fire this year.

But watch the Browns' smoke under Ruel in 1947. They are building for the future with 14 farm clubs.

"This is a new club with a new pilot and I've never managed before," says Ruel who caught the immortal Walter Johnson during the Big Train's pitching career in Washington. "It'll go along easy to see what we have because I didn't see one American League game last year. Everbody on the roster will get a chance."

Ruel, who was special assistant to Commissioner Happy Chandler last season after 12 straight years as coach with the Chicago White Sox, got his chance to manage the Browns because General Manager Bill DeWitt thought he would make a good field general.

Earl Combs, new coach, is the silver-haired ex-Yankees center fielder who quit baseball "for a year" in the winter of 1944 to devote full time to his Richmond, Ky., farmland. But he never came back until Mueckerman and Bill DeWitt lured Combs, a veteran of 11 World Series either as a player or coach with the Yankees, back to baseball.

The Browns now own outright four farm teams—Toledo in the American Association, San Antonio in the Texas League, Elmira, N. Y., in the Eastern League and Springfield, Ill., in the Three-I loop—and have working agreements with 10 others.

At San Antonio the Browns are building one of the finest minor league parks in the country. "It will cost over $350,000," says Traveling Secretary Charles DeWitt, Bill's brother. "And in St. Louis we'll spend another $250,000 on Sportman's Park."

The DeWitt brothers know their baseball. Both started as vendors in Sportman's Park in 1912. Bill, 44, two years younger than Charles, began his office career in 1916 when Branch Rickey, present Dodger president, was with the Browns. At 21 Bill became treasurer of the Cardinals and in the winter of 1918 he returned to the Browns as vice-president and general manager. Two months later Charley, then a scout for the Cardinal farm team at Columbus, O., came to the Browns.

The DeWitts inherited a last place club but within the space of a year they acquired 10 players through working agreements with minor league teams.

"The war took players we were building with," says Charley. "Two

Comments from the SIDELINES

By ARTHUR BECKWITH, JR. Celery Feds.

Manager Ruddy Lake of the Sanford Celery Feds is continually building a more potent nine for the baseball wars this summer.

Lake announced yesterday that he had contacted the Tampa Smokers organization and had received several more players.

Among the players is "Lefty" Bozuto. Bozuto is a left-handed pitcher.

The Fed skipper has also received two outfielders from the Smokers, Lou Faramelli and Floyd Snider, and the newly acquired prospects. It was understood that Snider played in the Georgia Florida League last year and hit over 300 in the Class D circuit.

It has been rumored that the Feds were about to receive the services of Big Wally Nash for the initial sack. It is evident at this time that Nash will make the Tampa ball club and will be the Smokers' regular third sacker.

Nash will be remembered as the powerful first baseman that played for the DeLand Red Hats in the State League last year.

The catching department seems to be well filled with capable men. It is likely that the Fed manager will keep Martin Zubo and Eric Mottler to handle the catching duties this year.

Second base and shortstop are still Lake's headaches. The key-stone sack combination from the 1946 aggregation is in the running for the positions. Al Bryant is making a bid for short and Bob Tuttle for the second base slot in the lineup.

John McManus, a rookie from Bradford, N. Y., is making a definite bid for one of the positions around second base. Danny LaTrea, from Key West, is another contender.

The McManus-LaTrea combination has shown promise. A third baseman, Charlie Linschmeyer, a Miami more lad, looks like a sure bet to cinch the third base position.

With the infield players making as good a showing as they have, it is not so violent that Manager Lake may be forced to manage the club from the pasture. Lake's services in the out-of-garden are going to be of great value to the Feds. His hitting average will be better as a fielder and his ability to catch the hard ones will also be of great benefit to the Feds in left field.

Mike Ward and Don Ricketson are giving all corners a run for their money for outfield berths.

Jerry Silverman has shown plenty of hustle and aggressiveness at the initial sack.

The Fed minor corps is sporadic. At one time or other they have all looked good. Other times they have all looked none too good. It is our belief that Lake can round into form a winning group of pitchers from those in camp, however.

The Lakemen are a long way from mid-season form, but they will make a lot of trouble for all the Florida State League aggregations before Sept. 1 rolls around.

Baseball Commissioner Happy Chandler stunned the baseball world yesterday by suspending Manager Leo Durocher of the Brooklyn Dodgers for the 1947 season.

In his ruling, Chandler said: "Durocher has not measured up

Comments from the SIDELINES

Asked if Durocher's salary will be paid in the face of the suspension, Rickey replied "as usual."

Chandler also announced a number of other actions resulting from an investigation launched after President Larry MacPhail of the New York Yankees accused Durocher and Brooklyn President Branch Rickey of conduct detrimental to baseball.

The New York Yankee and Brooklyn Dodger clubs were fined $2,000 each because their officials engaged in what Chandler described as a public controversy damaging to baseball.

Coch Charley Dressen of the Yankees was suspended for 30 days beginning Apr. 15, because, as Chandler explained, he went over to the Yanks after agreeing verbally to remain with the Dodgers for two more years.

Donald Parrott, traveling secretary of the Dodgers, was fined $500 for, as Chandler put it, writing a deliberately derogatory newspaper article about persons in baseball, and also for violating Chandler's order to remain silent following the Commissioner's hearing. The newspaper article appeared under Durocher's by-line.

Chandler said evidence produced at the hearing disproved reports that two gamblers were guests of MacPhail at a baseball in Havana.

Although MacPhail also accused Rickey of conduct detrimental to baseball as a result of the Havana incident, Chandler gave Rickey a clean bill. The Commissioner's report declared: "Rickey denied that he had made any statements which might be construed as detrimental to the character and integrity of MacPhail either personally or as a club owner. MacPhail has said that he would accept Rickey's explanation and that aspect of the affair is hereby closed."

Rickey has declined comment, other than to say that he is not yet ready to name a new manager. However, he eliminated the popular outfielder, Dixie Walker, as a candidate by saying that Walker never has been considered in a managerial capacity. Either Roy Blades or Pepper Martin is expected to be Rickey's choice.

THIS TELEPHONE STRIKE DOESN'T MAKE SENSE

We deeply regret the inconvenience being caused you by the telephone strike and we appreciate the fine spirit of cooperation you have shown in making only emergency calls.

The company did everything it could to avert a strike. We could see no excuse for the strike before it occurred and we can see none now.

The demands made by the union are exorbitant. They would increase the cost of providing telephone service by $65,000,000 a year. This would make our payroll alone over $2 million more than the total of all the money we took in last year. In terms of the average telephone bill it would amount to an increase of about $3.30 per month for each of our customers.

Careful studies which we have made show that our wages compare favorably with those paid other workers in the community with skills similar to telephone employees. However, to remove any doubt and to avert a strike, we offered to arbitrate the wage matter and to renew our contract with the union until such arbitration could take place. This offer was rejected by the union, placing the responsibility for the strike squarely where it belongs on the shoulders of union leadership.

We hope the public will have no hard feelings toward telephone employees as a result of the strike. They are a grand group of people who have been misled by inexperienced and immature leadership.

A telephone strike is bad business any way you look at it and this one should bring home to union leadership a sense of its responsibility to the public.

A. Does not agree that the wages of its members are good - which we have offered to settle by arbitration or B. It wants its members to be in a highly preferred position in the community in relation to other workers performing jobs requiring similar skill and equivalent training. This makes no sense to us and we think won't make sense to you who must pay the bill. We don't believe in

King Paul Of Greece Is Only Fifth Royal Ruler In 119 Years

By ADELAIDE KERR AP Newsfeatures Writer Greece's new king Paul is only the fifth royal ruler since the Greeks freed themselves from Turkish dominion 119 years ago. But that is only half the story.

Final added irony is the fact that Greece's royal line stems not from ancient Greece, but from Denmark, one thousand miles away. After the Greeks freed themselves of approximately 400 years of Turkish dominance by the War of Independence (1821-28), Greece had a short-lived republic. Count John Capo d'Istria was elected president for seven years, beginning Jan. 1828, but he was assassinated in 1831 and a state of anarchy followed.

U.S. Suggests 50 Countries Attend Meet

Peace Parley Would Comprise Big Four, German Neighbors, Nazi Antagonists

MOSCOW, Apr. 11—Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov today blocked attempts by France to get an immediate decision on the Saar question in the foreign ministers' council. The French are seeking approval by the council of an economic merger of the Saar with France.

MOSCOW, Apr. 11—The United States proposed today that more than 50 nations participate in the German peace conference.

United States Ambassador Robert Murphy presented the plan to the Big Four council's deputies for Germany. However, the deputies of Britain, Russia and France did not accept the proposal immediately.

Murphy's action came while the foreign diplomats awaited a response from Russian Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov to a French request for the Saar under an autonomous local government.

The United States wants the deputies to approve the Big Four, the neighbors of Germany and all states at war with Germany as members of the peace conference. That would include the Latin American nations.

The German deputies have reviewed numerous disagreements over plans for the peace conference.

Judge Of Supreme Court Involved In Reversed Affair

WASHINGTON, Apr. 11—Associate Justice Frank Murphy of the United States Supreme Court dissented, but he was overruled.

Justice Murphy, in this case, was not sitting on the high bench, but in an automobile. He argued the case ably, but like so many other people do, Justice Murphy lost the decision to a traffic cop.

Murphy was a passenger in a car halted by Private R. V. Taylor of the Washington metropolitan police. Taylor said that the driver had made a turn from the wrong lane at 14th Street and Pennsylvania Avenue.

So the policeman directed the driver to accompany him to headquarters to be booked. It was at that point that Murphy dissented. He maintained that Taylor lacked the right to arrest and deprive someone of his liberty for a misdemeanor.

Taylor argued right back that he certainly did have the right as long as the misdemeanor was committed in his presence.

Bystanders said the discussion between Supreme Court Justice Murphy and Traffic Policeman Taylor lasted several minutes, and was accompanied by considerable arm-waving on both sides.

They said that at one point, Murphy asked Taylor: "Do you know who I am?" And Taylor replied "I think I do."

But afterwards, Appellant Murphy told a newsmen that the discussion was "nothing but a friendly talk about what's the practice here."

Traffic Officer Taylor maintained a judicial silence.

Official Findings Disclose Subs Can Withstand Atomic Bomb Attacks

NEW YORK, Apr. 11—The official score of damage by the two atom bombs at Bikini indicates that submarines could make a stand in atomic warfare, it was disclosed today in connection with the 47th anniversary of the purchase of the Navy's first submarine Apr. 11, 1900.

There were eight subs at Bikini, and all survived the air bomb. However, the underwater bomb sank two submarines and flooded one. The other five remained operable.

One sub, the Skate, was very close to the air burst. Afterward, she looked like a long scow loaded with junk and was towed to shallow water to prevent sinking. It was then discovered that the Skate was virtually undamaged.

except for her superstructure. The Navy did not baby the subs in placing them for underwater damage. Six were submerged in positions where damage could have been lethal.

At least three of the submarines were submerged near the edge of the "ring of death"—the circle of open water immediately around the bomb ship. Three other subs were submerged apparently in a radius no greater than that between the bomb and the battleship Nagato, which sank.

The submarines Plotfish and Apogon were sunk, and the Skipjack was severely flooded. The Skate and Parche were on the surface.

Man and Wife Drown When 2 Barges Sink Off California Coast

SANTA ROSA, Calif., Apr. 11—An expedition to Alaska to open a large freight line with surplus military landing craft ended in tragedy today for a Detroit couple off the coast of Northern California.

A former Detroit chiropractor and auto salesman, Francis Capshaw, 46, and his wife, Marion, 35, were drowned yesterday when two barges sank while fighting heavy seas. A partner of the couple, Martin Ernestus of Dillingham, Alaska, was rescued by the Coast Guard. One of the barges was beached.

Capshaw had put his life's savings into the plan to establish a new barge freight service on the Newishagah River. He and his wife and Ernestus had been living at San Pablo for the last month, gathering equipment for the expedition.

The barges, heavily loaded with lumber, fuel, lighting plants and other equipment, were linked by towlines when they left the San Francisco Bay at dawn Wednesday. Capshaw hoped to reach Fort Bragg on the Mendocino county coast by nightfall.

Ernestus said the towline from the larger barge to the two small craft snapped just before darkness Wednesday night. All three were weary and seasick, and Ernestus said he managed to jump from the larger barge into one of the smaller ones. Ernestus said he started up the motor to head for shore, thinking Capshaw was following.

Search for the body of Mrs. Capshaw will be delayed until the weather clears.

FRANKFORT, Germany, Apr. 11—An American general at Frankfurt asked today for the immediate recall of a Polish colonel attached to the United States headquarters staff. In a letter to Polish authorities, United States Lt. General Clarence Huebner said the Polish colonel made aggressively anti-American speeches three times in the course of one evening. He said Col. Tadomas Podwysocli, the officer in question, made the remarks in the presence of a number of Allied officers.

"This expressed attitude," said Huebner, "is, of course, unbecomingly anti-American, and cannot be tolerated by this headquarters."

Denson asserted that nothing less than the hangman's rope would satisfy justice.

O.D. Farrell Urges Baseball Park Outfield Be Shortened By 25 Feet

Another proposal to shorten the distance to the fences at the Municipal Ball Park was received from O. D. Farrell this morning. Mr. Farrell proposes that the distance be shortened by 25 feet so that the Florida State League players can knock homers out of the park more easily.

Several other letters to the editor have been received concerning the matter.

Mr. Farrell's letter was as follows:

"Sports Editor, 'Sanford Herald,' Sanford, Florida.

"Several months ago the Herald printed my article advocating a shorter outfield for the Municipal Park. To date nothing has been done about it, and the 1947 season of the Florida State League opens on April 15th. The city has given their permission for the improvement, however they feel that the city's financial condition at this time will not permit any outlay of cash for the purpose.

"Moving the outfield closer to home plate is of great importance to the players as well as to the fans, and it will prove more beneficial to our Sanford Celery Feds

Weather In Near Future To Decide Farm Production

New Delay In Crop Planting Would Affect Price Trends

WASHINGTON, Apr. 11—The Agriculture Department announced today that the weather may have a strong influence over farm product and food price trends during the next several weeks.

This is due to a late spring planting, which has delayed crop planting operations in the eastern two-thirds of the nation. The Department said that further delays could cut down on crops finally planted, thus reducing the year's food production. Production prospects in non-affected areas.

The Department emphasized, however, that much of the delay to date could be overcome if the rest of April is generally favorable. Modern mechanized equipment has greatly aided the harvest of a late planting season.

Despite the late spring prospects, the department said wheat crop on hand is high. High hopes of a good yield in bumper but crops because fruit trees have been held back from premature budding by the late.

Slash In Labor Appropriations Is Attacked By CIO

Wages And Hours Act Opposed

WASHINGTON, Apr. 11—The CIO announced today that it opposed the reduction of labor appropriations in the President's Budget.

Carl L. Gayer, CIO director, said the bill in which the House made the cut would reduce the amount of money available for the Labor Board, which is the agency that enforces the Wagner Act and the National Labor Relations Act.

Gayer said that the reduction would mean the labor board would have to operate on a shoestring budget. He said that the board would be unable to enforce the law, and that the Wagner Act would become a dead letter.

The CIO also announced that it would oppose the bill which would reduce the amount of money available for the Labor Board's enforcement of the Wagner Act.
