Pools at schools effort not going swimmingly

By VICKI DeSORMIER Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — It's not so much that Sanford's Seminole High School is being ignored as a possible site for a community swimming pool, it's just that the Seminole County school district has more pressing needs.

their high schools, school board Chairman Sandy Robinson says, the school district can't afford to help out right now.

The school district has $62 million in unmet needs in our operating budget," Robinson said. "There are more pressing needs than swimming pools."

Robinson said the school board will not put swimming pools ahead of classrooms in the budgetary process.

One of those people is none other than Academy Award winning actor Tom Hanks, who is executive producer on the project.

Sanford officer now at rest

By RUSS WHITE Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — A police officer was buried here Friday. An officer who was eulogized as being neither famous nor wealthy, just a good cop, a good wife and a good mother, someone who made a significant difference in her community.

The community came much closer Friday as a Catholic priest conducted a memorial service in a large Baptist Church so all of Cpl. Sharon Sheaffer's family and friends could attend a stirring celebration of a life well lived.

The prelude music began with Schubert's "Ave Maria," followed by Beethoven's "If Only I Had Known." Already, some began to cry. Sharon's husband, Ricky, and her son, Jacob Luther Smith, Jr. and the many men and women in blue, Sharon Sheaffer had two families, her own and the Sanford Police Department.

Cpl. Sheaffer, who served 14 years with the force, beginning as a dispatcher with a dream that she could be an officer, suffered a heart attack last week and died Monday night at the Columbia Medical Center, Sanford. She was 41 years old. Friday was not a day to talk about how or why Cpl. Sheaffer died, but to recall how and why she lived.

Throughout the service, Sanford Police officers stood at Sheaffer's flag-draped casket. There were a half dozen changes of this guard, each solemnly executed, with the traditional, surrealistic, slow-motion salutes as two officers replaced two others, taking their place alongside their beloved comrade.

Father Richard Trout, the pastor of All Souls Catholic Church where Sheaffer had recently begun attending services, read St. Matthew's Gospel on the Beatitudes, how fitting for the occasion. "Blessed are they that mourn; for they shall be comforted. Blessed are the peacemakers; for they shall be called the children of God."

"You are all peacemakers," Father Trout said in his homily. "It's a wonder people don't come up, hug you and tell you so. We are grateful to you, grateful for Sharon Sheaffer's life. She was a

Bringing the world home to Heathrow

By JEFF BERLINICKE Herald Staff Writer

HEATHROW - New York, London, Paris, Heathrow.

Why does Heathrow fit in with these world class cities?

That's because Heathrow is quickly becoming a world destination, thanks to the work of IVC, a Heathrow-based organization which is part of a national government attempt to promote business development in Central Florida.

Daniel Jittu and Patricia Gehri of the IVC spoke about how and why Central Florida and, especially, Seminole County, has become a player in international relations.

In the past month alone, embassy-level representatives from at least 12 countries have visited the Seminole County area as a result of the work of IVC.

Jittu said the work of IVC is just to spread information about Central Florida and the ways of attracting representatives to develop a strong program that mixes entertainment and business objectives to make for a successful visit.

For instance, there was the Korean representative that visited last month. Sure, he got to meet various business and local government leaders, but he also got a canoeing trip where he saw his first alligator.

"He was so excited about seeing the alligator, he decided to promote the county when he got back to Korea and not Orlando," Jittu said. "He was a newspaper editor. We try to meet opinion-makers for their counties and he recommended a sister-relationship with his city. He's also recommending businesses to relocate to Seminole County."

There have been many opinion-makers in town lately. The publisher of a newspaper critical of the Hosnian government was in Heathrow recently and editors of a Polish newspaper came in this week.

Jittu and Gehri said they have to do plenty of homework to prepare for the visits, studying personal profiles and cultural etiquette.

For instance, with the Polish newspapermen coming to town, Jittu and Gehri each had profiles of each member of the Polish contingent detailing whether the visitors had children, what their dietary habits were, even if they were cig-

The Barn in Sanford keeps on steppin'

By DAVID FRAZIER Herald Staff Writer

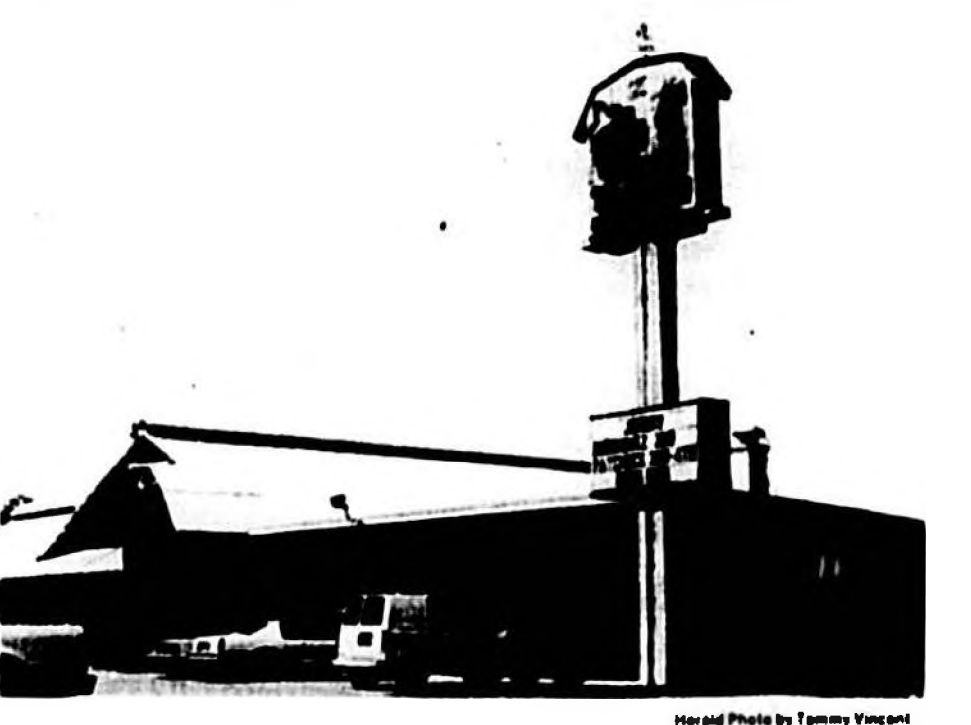

You may not realize what a storied past that The Barn has had. Since May 1988, The Barn has been live dancing and two stepping with the best country music has to offer.

General Manager Bob Hellekson said, "We want customers to leave with a sense that this is home away from home." Unless your home looks like a Western saloon then you may have trouble identifying with that. Although, Hellekson was not referring to the actual building but the way customers and even the acts are treated. "We have a 'people friendly' environment," said Hellekson. "We have a lot of return business."

In the past year, The Barn had seen its better days. The former proprietor, who took over in March 1996, lost it in foreclosure in September, 1997. The Hellekson family returned and refurbished The Barn back to its original glory.

The Barn tries to bring in acts that will placate the appetites of all ages. In the past it has had hot young performers like Garth Brooks, Trisha

POLICE

Child fondling

Antonio Joseph Filippi, 36, who told Sanford police he lived in the streets of the city, was arrested Thursday in Casselberry. According to the arrest report, on April 6, a 9-year-old Sanford girl reported that a man she identified as Filippi had been fondling her in a sexual manner when she returned home from school each day, to her residence in the 850 block of W. Eighth Street. She reportedly told officers it had happened at least 50 times between Nov. 7, 1986 and March 17, 1987.

Following an intensive investigation into the case and interviews with a number of people, police called for Filippi's apprehension this past Thursday. He has now been charged with 50 counts of lewdness/sexual fondling/leading on a child. He is being held without bond at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility.

Home raid

Sheriff's department City County Investigative Bureau (CCIB) officers, with a search warrant, converged on a home at 109 Mercury Street in Altamonte Springs Thursday. They located the resident, identified as Charles Hamilton, 39, and reported a total of eight persons in the residence. Following a search, police charged Hamilton with possession of a controlled substance (powder residue), possession of drug paraphernalia, and possession of a controlled substance (crack cocaine). The CCIB report did not indicate any of the other persons in the residence at the time of the raid were taken into custody.

Domestic case

Richard M. Mottola, 41, of 2940 Walker Road, Oviedo, was arrested by sheriff's deputies at his residence Thursday following a reported altercation with his brother. He was charged with domestic violence.

Retail theft

Sherronda Roberts, 29, of Titusville, was arrested by Sanford police Thursday at a retail store in the 3600 block of S. Orlando Drive in Sanford. Officers said she attempted to take a $65.99 swimming suit from the store without paying. She was also found to be wanted on an outstanding warrant for failing to appear on a charge of having a suspended driver's license.

Sheriff reports

• A camping trailer in a storage area in the 3600 block of Alafaya Trail near Oviedo was reportedly burglarized Thursday. Items taken were valued at $74, but an additional $300 in damage was reported.

• A white and blue 1987 Lincoln, license number UAL-671 was reported stolen Thursday from a residence in the 100 block of Anchor Road in Altamonte Springs.

Campbell Barke has a million of them herself.

"She liked to dance and go crazy," Barke said. "As a team we did a lot of crazy things. When we finished second in districts, we went to our coaches' house and it was Megan's idea. She was screaming and we went to toilet paper his house. Hey, it was all Megan's idea."

Megan also had a problem with procrastinating that led to another story.

"She would always get a grocery and Megan was walking in her sleep. She walked all the way out of the hotel," Barke remembered. "She started banging on the door to let her back in and she was screaming that a bear was chasing her."

"The next morning, she didn't remember a thing about it."

The still-defended challenge cup.

When the team learned about the accident and its aftermath, the team got together to show support for each other. They discussed what happened and why. Some of her friends said that Megan, who became seriously involved with her Christianity several years ago, was enjoying the happiest time in her life.

Now they will carry on the task of remembering Megan and making sure those students at Lake Mary know that there was once a wonderful teacher and person who was Megan "Big" Wilkes.

"We're planting a tree for her at the school," Barke said. "But it has to have very red blooms. Megan wouldn't want us doing anything plain."

Walk a mile in their shoes

While some may not agree, people who are elected to a city commission seat are basically honest people. Only occasionally will we find someone who is out for their own glory, with possibly the hope of eventually seeking higher and higher offices or some other type of personal gain. But these are few (thank goodness).

As has often been said in the Sanford Herald, the only way they can be truthfully judged is by people who are capable of and willing to walk in their shoes.

This is not to single out any particular commissioner or city, but let's look at the problems people have being a city commissioner. In the first place, our elected officials are covered under the "Government in the Sunshine" law. This means even one or two, perhaps encountering each other at a public event, cannot, without the public being informed in advance, discuss anything of municipal operation, planning, or matters scheduled to come before their commission.

Yes, they can talk about such things as the weather, friends they have in common or the results of last week's fishing or golfing outing, but they cannot talk about anything affecting government.

While this is basically good, it is often a bad situation. It means that commissioners are unable to find out each others' thinking on a matter without a public meeting. There are many cases when we believe this stalls the wheels of progress.

Then there is the matter of coming up with ideas in the form of resolutions or ordinances. Hardly anyone, commissioners, city staff members, even attorneys, (and yes, newspapers) can write something and get it approved and enacted, without someone else thinking they meant something else. Interpretation is always different, which causes problems. Case in point is the establishment of Sanford's Citizens Advisory Board. It is now clear that the intent of the board, as envisioned by the voters, was to give commissioners the right to discuss with the public elected boards on the board.

All cities are continuously having to revise or re-write various city codes and statutes to eliminate flaws, clarify wording or correct misinterpreted phrases.

A city commissioner is expected to be a representative of the people. Yet on certain matters, such as zoning requests, a commissioner is not allowed to discuss anything with the person submitting the request. People immediately shout "Conflict of interest," and spend the rest of the time admonishing the commissioner for what otherwise may have been a sincere attempt to exercise his or her duty to serve all the people.

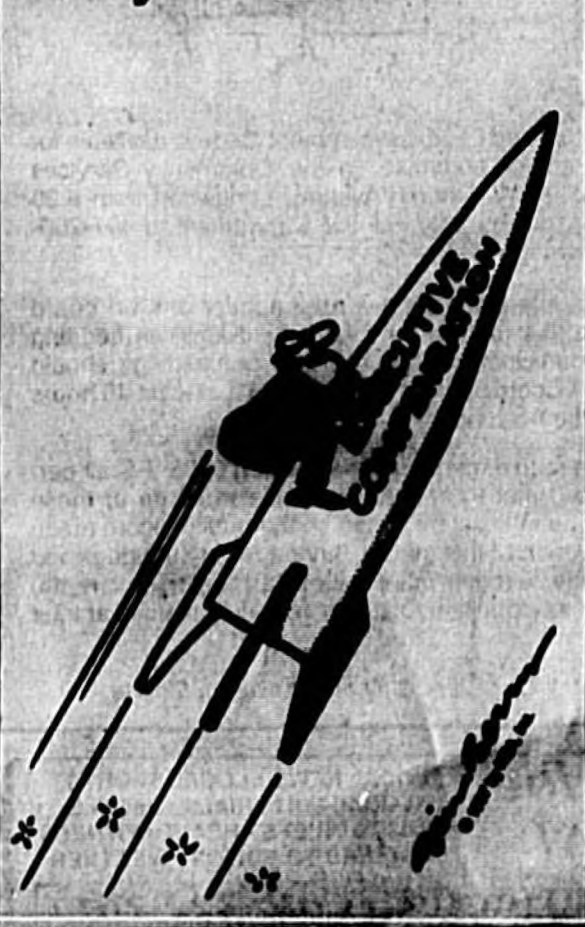

Naturally, the biggest complainers about individuals who serve on our city commissions, are those who did not have their request approved. If commissioners approve a request, the applicants say, "We have a good commission." But to not approve it results in the complaints. "They don't know what they're doing, and should be kicked out of office."

It's apparent many people already understand the trials and tribulations people elected to office must go through. That's perhaps why so many people are hesitant to seek office.

But there are others who only judge a commission and commissioners on what they have done for them personally.

We believe it's time more people started walking in their shoes, and trying to understand that the operation of our government is not an easy matter. It's difficult, to say the least, and the people who are successfully doing it deserve our appreciation rather than our insults or degradation.

Berry's World

Should school program make a profit?

I received an interesting fax last week. In it, the sender complained that the School Board's plan to make a profit from the after school day care program was "...wrong, wrong, wrong." The sender claimed the Board plan violated a basic principle of governmental fair play--equal protection of the law--by charging a few parents to raise money that will be used for the benefit of all parents. Further, the sender claimed that the Board will be charging parents a higher fee for day care than many of them can afford. In closing, the sender said "You should leave the program alone, but if you do take it over, it should be at no profit."

The astonishing thing is that this fax came from an elected public official--Altamonte's Russ Hauck. It never ceases to amaze me that people expect the Government to be altruistic. When the YMCA or a Park and Recreation Department runs a program, it is all right to pay a certain rate--even though the "profit" of that of the program goes somewhere else. And if there was no program at all, citizens would pay the market rate for after school programs provided by the for-profit child care industry.

BOB GOFF

Bob Goff is an elected member of the Seminole County School Board.

But if the School Board offers a program, then it must be free or cost neutral. Why do people expect the School Board to be a low cost or no cost source of after school care for their children? Why do they expect the School Board to supplement their standard of living by providing them with services at below market cost? If you can't afford children--then don't have them! If you can't afford to support the ones you have--then change your style of living. It is the parent's responsibility to provide for their children. We need to have forgotten that in recent years.

Recently a bunch of Mr. Hauck's opponents, the Altamonte Springs Recreation Department, appeared before the School Board asking for the old Teenage Middle School site--at $1 per year for 20 years. It's interesting to note that during the discussion with the School Board, it came out that the City of Altamonte Springs charged a 100% surcharge for out-of-city children to participate in their basketball program.

It seems that it is okay for Altamonte Springs to make a profit--but not the School Board. If Mr. Hauck believes what he is preaching--let him clean up the Altamonte Springs Park and Recreation Department's unequal pricing of children's programs first--then climb on his soapbox to preach to others.

The Disability Movement

"Metaphors"
It may sound like a strange title for an article about the disabled, but I'd like to discuss two important metaphors (inspired by the animal kingdom) in a disabled person's life. THE TORTOISE & THE HARE:

Metaphors - Compton's Encyclopedia describes a metaphor as a word or phrase ordinarily and primarily used of one thing and applied to another.

PERSONS - Compton's also describes this as: to assign to a category or categories. This is what society does to the disabled. We may be looked upon as less intelligent, experienced and maybe even child-like...in a condescending way.

Many times, the disabled are overlooked for leadership roles and given less demanding tasks. This is why many years ago you would almost never see a disabled lawyer or business executive. The only time you would see a disabled individual in an office was either answering phones or stuffing envelopes. Today, many disabled people are captains of industry or even have their own businesses.

Much of the success of this has been helped by technology. Technological break-throughs in the areas of automobile devices, such as special car attachments and computers (voice activated programs and input devices) have made it much easier for a disabled person to be in the business world, but there is still a long way too.

THE TORTOISE & THE HARE: This old fable has become a metaphor for patience and taking your time. It applies to the disabled. Like many minorities, the disabled had to wait a long time to achieve equality (in some areas, we are still waiting for it). Much of this equality came with the passing of the A.D.A. (American's with Disabilities Act). This Act, however, did not come about overnight.

Similar to The Civil Rights (African-Americans issues) and The Women's (women's issues) Movements of the sixties and seventies, the Disability Movement was and continues to be a slow-burning flame. The disabled had to be patient. Like the groups above, they had to mobilize, know what they wanted to achieve and unite. (We are still working on that one.) Although because of health or financial difficulties, it is still very tough for the disabled to be truly independent.

What's new and what's ahead

I intended to title this column, "What's New? What may be new", or "What's ahead?..That's how much is happening in our area. But, before I get into any of that, may I say that I'm pleased to see that the Orlando Sentinel found some of our columns quite interesting...thank you. A difference of opinion does create interesting reading.

Representative Bob Starke...Good for you! I agree there are too many things excepting the sales tax. Go get em' Bob! He'll probably be successful and, if so, I hope some of that $16 billion a year revenue can be earmarked for schools. What do you think, Bob?

Another great idea from Starke...safe drivers should get their license fee. Starke is proposing that if you are a safe driver you should not have to pay the $15 fee for your license. If you are not a safe driver, you will pay more. A suggestion to Mr. Starke, it could be a great incentive for teenagers to drive safely and...Maybe we could get the insurance companies to get involved and reduce the cost of insurance for teens to that of other safe drivers...A great incentive to drive safely, and an incentive for parents to help them buy that car. The kids are going to love you if you can pull that off!

In truth it would be fair and a great opportunity to show that they are responsible. I'll be the first to help buy a car under these conditions. Work hard in school, no license fee, a reduction in insurance and I'll help my teenager buy a car.

A thank you to Representative Starke for new thoughts and concepts. Bob, Keep it up! You are on a roll! Now, on to other topics...

If you are in Tallahassee and you have not understood that the educational system is going to change, then you are in the way. The voucher system, along with other alternatives, are what the majority of the public wants. This means better education in "all schools" and the opportunity for students and parents to choose. It will not destroy the public school system. If you think it would, then that means the public school system isn't any good to begin with. To fear competition is admitting that the present system is lacking.

I was invited on "The Train Ride" and it was a "Great Train Ride." It was interesting, and certainly there isn't any question that the area is in need of a transit system. What system, or combination of systems, is finally decided upon is the "BIG QUESTION." There may be a wonderful opportunity here for a joint venture with great potential.

Congressman Mica has presented us with the question and the challenge, not so much with the answer. He is trying to get us to move ahead soon, to try and prevent transportation problems. He is looking forward, and I believe, still looking for the right "Answer." At least, I would hope that is the case.

I think that my conversation, related to matters other than transportation with Mrs. Mica was the most interesting part of the trip for me. I was very impressed with her. That could be because our philosophy was pretty much on the "Same Track."

The trip was attended by various elected officials and others, as mentioned in other

Think about this, reports. Wm Adams, Daryl Melain of the Seminole County Commission were present, as was the great Ambassador, and a man of wonderful vision, Everett Huskey.

I had the opportunity to talk to Steve Cook and Ray Wise from the Orlando Sanford Airport and am looking forward to presenting a column to you on the airport, as soon as time allows. I was quite impressed by the numbers of British tourists landing at the airport. If, I remember correctly, they expect one million this year. Quite impressive! Also of importance, they like American beer! So, we have quite a lot ahead for our growing area.

This is the way I see it. Sanford needs to move ahead. Not to say...can we do it, but how shall we do it? How can we develop the "waterfront"? How do we become a part of all that is happening in Central Florida? That question starts with development and transportation facilities that will lead us into a close relationship with all of Central Florida. A transportation center in Sanford, linking the city to the airport, Orlando-Sanford, and the rest of Central Florida is a must and it should be a part of any transportation system being considered.

I do not favor the present plan of approximately 13 miles from Orlando to Sea World as the first phase with Seminole County a part of the second phase...I think we need to at the very least, connect Sanford in the first phase and then shortly after...Volusia County.

It's time to stop thinking small town. Sanford needs to exert itself. Otherwise, we may find ourselves much further behind than you may think. As it now stands there is no time to waste, unless we are not interested in improving this city and the entire county.

I think we've thought, and talk, about this long enough. It's time to work very hard in getting ourselves involved in all that is happening and to be a part of an integral part of the Central Florida scene. We can't do that unless we are connected by transportation and we cannot wait to be a part of a second or third phase.

Our County Commission has worked hard, but an alliance set to propel us into the Central Florida scene, which we are not a part of, must be the objective of the City of Sanford, Seminole County Commission, and the Orlando Sanford Airport, and others.

"Otherwise, we are going to be spectators, not participants."

IN BRIEF

American housing

LAKE MARY — American Housing Development Inc., Lake Mary, announced that its projected sales for the year increased to $4 million. American Housing specializes in buying existing multi-family properties, refurbishing and reselling them as individual townhomes and condominiums.

News sent to shareholders reflected strong sales of the company's Ridgewood Villas development in Sanford, a 60-unit apartment complex. More than 50 percent of that development is under contract.

Company officials stated that the company is "projecting gross sales for 1997 to exceed $4 million, and $7 million to $10 million in 1998."

Alaqua homes

ALTMONTE SPRINGS — Arthur Rutenberg franchisee Brentwood Custom Homes in Altamonte Springs will start its first estate home at Alaqua Lakes in July. Brentwood President Frank Pizica said the 3,400 square foot home is planned for the Markham Woods Road community, and will be built on a half-acre home site overlooking the Tom Tasto-designed golf course.

The home will be priced at $600,000.

Brentwood plans more homes in Alaqua Lakes to range from $350,000 to $600,000.

Not for sale

Jeno Paulucci has issued a letter to his customers, brokers and others. "Yes," he writes, "my history has been to build companies and sell them, such as the Chun King Corporation, Wilderness fruit fillings and Jeno's Inc., but I've got news for you! Luigino's, Michelina's and Yu Sing is not for sale!"

Paulucci said he is happy with the seven-year progress and pleased with future projects on a global basis. "It is so exciting it keeps me stimulated to a point that we have planned ahead with a succession of management no matter what may befall Jeno as years go on," he added.

He concluded his letter by urging everyone, "Let's look to the future together."

10,000 house plans

ALTMONTE SPRINGS — Altamonte Springs has a new library. Not one for students, but a resource center for home builders called 10,000 House Plans.

10,000 House Plans, the "House Plan Store" is the first of its kind, said owner James E. Zirkel and Store Manager Nancy Groves.

The facility allows builders and future builders the opportunity to look at house plans through computer-directed searching, narrowing the plan search by category of style, square footage and special features.

The store has a staff of assistants to guide customers in making decisions.

The facility is located at 580 Cape Cod Lane, on highway 434. It is open weekdays from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m., and from 11 a.m. until 4 p.m. on Saturdays.

CD-ROM home buying

LONGWOOD — A Longwood firm says it is trying to reduce the time and cost of home buying.

PDQ Information Services is now providing local home buyers, investors and anyone interested in country property records with wealth of real estate information at their fingertips and from the privacy of their home or office.

The new CD-ROM, called PDQ Property Records allows a computer user to take a "walk" down any street in Seminole County. Users can find out who owns property, when they bought it, and how much they paid for it.

For less than $75, this program will allow anyone with Windows 95 or 3.1 and a compact disc drive to access information without having to battle the I-4 traffic or wait in line to search courthouse records.

For information on the service, contact Jerry Ross, 767-1886 in Longwood.

Solar home sought

SANFORD — With two record breaking months following on the heels of an equally impressive fiscal year, Florida Solar is bursting at the seams of its 11,000 square foot facility on Coastline Road in Sanford.

As a result, Solar is now searching for another Sanford location on which to build a new 18,000 square foot facility, or find a suitable building to lease and remodel for its use.

The company employs approximately 80 professionals, and plans to increase its workforce by at least 40 percent by summer.

Local boy among first to try new insulin treatment

By MELANIE FRIDL ROSS
Special to the Herald

Like many professional athletes, David Anderson devoted time and talent to charity. Anderson, a former infielder with the Los Angeles Dodgers, logged miles in walk-a-thons and spoke at fancy fund-raisers for the American Diabetes Association.

But diabetes is no longer an arbitrary enemy. Now Anderson's hoping to make a crucial double play—a cure for his daughter, and a way to prevent the disease for his son. UF physicians may find they have the medical equivalent of a hall-of-fame player: an oral insulin capsule that might someday prove to prevent or delay insulin-dependent (type 1) diabetes in individuals who have a 25 to 50 percent chance of getting it within the next five years.

Three years ago, Anderson's daughter Christa, now 13, was diagnosed with diabetes. Soon the Anderson's of Lake Mary, learned even more bad news: Their son Ryan carried a genetic marker for the disease and also was at risk.

This January, Ryan, 10, walked into the Clinical Research Center at Shands at UF and became one of only two people in the Southeast to enter the oral insulin arm of the nation's first diabetes prevention trial, DPT-1. Each day for the next five years, he will take a single capsule. Neither he nor his doctors will know whether he is actually receiving oral insulin, or simply a placebo, until the study is completed.

"When you are first told one of your children has diabetes it is very scary," said Anderson, now a minor league manager in the Detroit Tigers system. "We knew right off the bat Ryan had a good chance of getting it, too."

The $31 million study is funded by the National Institutes of Health, the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation and the American Diabetes Association. Researchers seek to screen more than 60,000 relatives of insulin-dependent diabetic patients at risk for the disease themselves.

If tests indicate individuals, ages 5 to 45, have a 25 to 50 percent risk of developing diabetes in the next five years, they are assigned to the oral insulin part of the study. If it is determined they have a greater than 50 percent risk, they are assigned to receive daily, insulin injections.

Participants will be tracked for years before physicians know whether the capsule is effective.

Insulin-dependent or "type 1" diabetes occurs when white blood cells vital to the body's defenses against infectious diseases attack insulin-producing beta cells in the pancreas. The insulin these beta cells produce regulates how the body uses and stores sugar and other food nutrients for energy.

Research has shown that more than half of the insulin-producing beta cells in the pancreas must be irreversibly destroyed before an individual develops symptoms of the disease—frequent urination and increased fluid and food consumption. While these symptoms appear abruptly, the disease process itself takes months or even years to occur.

"That quirk could be diabetes' Achilles heel: The long period prior to the onset of symptoms provides an opportunity for interventions aimed at preventing the disease's development," says UF pediatric endocrinologist Desmond Schatz, M.D., center director for UF's arm of the study.

UF is now the national screening site for blood samples amassed across the nation. Nearly 45,000 samples have been shipped to Gainesville to date, where they are analyzed for the presence of a biochemical "crystal ball," islet cell autoantibodies. The presence of these autoantibodies—first identified by UF researchers—alerts physicians to the destruction of beta cells and helps determine an individual's risk of developing diabetes within the next five years.

"We have a very successful team spearheaded by Dr. Noel Maclaren that enabled us to predict diabetes, which led to the development of a prevention trial," said Schatz.

rette smokers. Jittu has children and said he is able to strike conversations with his visitors that have children of their own.

Gehri said there were several visitors from The Netherlands where it is a cultural habit to not eat until given permission. No one was aware of the custom which provided for a few awkward moments.

Finally, someone from IVC asked them to enjoy their meal and everyone dug in.

Gehri worked in international travel for a long tenure and based she became aware of the differences between cultures.

None of the relationships could have worked without the help of the Seminole County Commission, Jittu said.

"We've been very impressed by the forward thinking of the Seminole County Commission," Jittu said. "They've helped put Seminole County on a global scale. We're especially big fans of (commissioner) Win Adams."

The delegations that are sent to Heathrow are all on an ambassador level. They'll usually get to town on a Saturday and rest, then follow a carefully prepared program set up by

IVC. It can include meetings with just about any local organization or business. A report earlier stated to meet with Seminole County's Sheriff's Department.

Another recent visitor was King Bae's second-ranking prince in his country's embassy's department. He wanted to meet with the Seminole County Sheriff's Department to discuss money laundering techniques and drug enforcement.

"It was more interesting for Seminole County to meet him than it was for him to meet us," Jittu said. "It was quite exciting for Seminole County sheriff to meet him."

It's not all business for the international guests. There's plenty of pleasure but it doesn't always involve Walt Disney World.

Gehri said an awful lot of visitors are requesting to see Kennedy Space Center on their visit. They also want to see baseball games and hit the golf course and it is occasions like those that set up a lot of business deals.

"When you get people at such a high international level, they are used to sophisticated meetings," Jittu said. "For them, a lot of their business is done over meals. Americans say, 'Let's do business first,' but foreigners are the exact opposite."

IVC is getting plenty of opportunities to experience the different cultures. Only 3,000 foreign guests are invited each year and nearly 1,000 have already visited. With such an influx of guests, volunteers are needed.

"We're looking for people to host or help out," Gehri said. "We need drivers, people to play tennis or golf with them."

"We need our program to be top-notch," Jittu added. "We need to be one of the top-10 favorable locations for visitors throughout the world."

To achieve that goal, Jittu said IVC is concentrating on some specific goals.

"Any international company looking to go abroad can use us as a liaison with the state department and with people at different levels of the embassies," Jittu said.

He added, "Seminole County has positioned itself to be the international destination for some very powerful people."

Yearwood and Clint Black to country legends like Tammy Wynette, Waylon Jennings, George Jones and Tanya Tucker. Some acts --like Garth-- have returned more than once. Hellekson said that he will try to keep that pattern bringing in the newest talent from Nashville to the reliable oldies. Hellekson would not disclose who would be coming due to contractual circumstances but he said that everybody will not be disappointed. "Acts depend on their availability like whether they're in the region," Hellekson said.

The Barn is probably the most authentic looking country nightspot in Central Florida. Saddles hang down from the trusses. There are a number of stuffed critters strewn about the place. And there is even a shotgun toting sheriff in front of a mock jail. There are two dance floors with big screens showing the action in the club and country music videos. There are five full bars, several tables for seating, a "Wall of Fame" with the acts that have performed and pool tables.

The Barn is open Tuesday thru Saturday. Admission is $3 and doors open at 6 p.m. It is 21 and up and drink prices are indicative to the area according to The Barn management. The Barn has free dance lessons from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. and it includes line dancing and couples dancing as well. Thursday thru Saturday at 9 p.m., the house band "The Barnyard" takes the night. Thursday nights are indoor night and Hellekson said that people should arrive early on Saturdays because of the crowd. According to Hellekson, The Barn has been selected top night spot of the year for two years in its past. There will be a dance workshop on Saturday, May 3, from noon till 4 p.m. Also there is a planned dance competition coming in the future.

The Barn is patrolled by off duty Sanford police and Seminole County Sheriff's deputies. They provide security for the parking lot. It is all a part of the safe feeling that The Barn tries to provide for its patrons.

"The country music at its finest here," Hellekson said. "We have always strived to be one of the premiere clubs in Central Florida."

Thumbs up to Seminole County's Information Technologies Manager Chris Grasso for his cost-saving plan and efforts to outsource information services to meet the immediate and future needs of the county.

"Chris Grasso is on this county's honor roll," said Commissioner Win Adams. "He's an excellent manager. Whatever we do, there's going to be an important role for Mr. Grasso."

The county is awaiting the results of the RFP to evaluate the proposed costs for providing the same services with the new enhanced software/hardware that is needed to bring existing departments and division resources up to date.

Grasso has detailed all in a comprehensive evaluation and game plan.

Effervescent Diane Merkt, aide to Seminole County Chairman Randy Morris, is frequently kidded about the spelling of her name.

"What's so unusual about it?" Merkt asks. "Do you think I need another vowel?"

Merkt said she has a no-vowel friend who lives in Orlando - Gloria Cryczek.

(southern sector)

CITIZEN PARTICIPATION - CONSOLIDATED PLAN PROCESS

Seminole County is the recipient of federal grant funds through a number of programs administered by the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD). These include the Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) Program, the HOME housing grant program (Volusia and Seminole counties formed a consortium in 1991 to qualify for this program), and the Emergency Shelter Grants (ESG) Program. These programs are designed primarily to assist the County's low and moderate income residents. In order to streamline the administration of these programs, HUD has consolidated all of the local planning and citizen participation requirements of these various federal programs into a single administrative process: "The Consolidated Plan".

Anticipated Grant Amounts:

CDBG	$2,685,000
HOME	$765,094
ESG	$271,000
Total	$3,521,094.00

Range of Activities: The County can undertake a wide range of activities under these programs if they benefit low/moderate income people or areas where the majority of the people living there are low/moderate income.

Proposed Funding Recommendation: The purpose of this public meeting will be to review submitted proposals that have requested 1997-1998 Community Development Block Grant funding. April 24, 1997 at 6:00 p.m. at the Seminole County Services Building, Room 1038, SCC Chambers.

Requiem for Sharon

A Tribute to Sharon

The Bible teaches us that Jesus died that we might have life. Sharon died for all police officers so that there might be justice. Cpl. Sharon Sheaffer was the epitome of a professional police officer. She was a cop's cop. Sharon earned the love and respect from all of us who worked with her by being hard working, fair, dedicated, conscientious, and persevering. She gave her all for the profession that she loved so much, ultimately giving her life for it. In a time when too many people do just enough to get by in their jobs, Sharon always went the extra mile and gave 110%. Sharon was a real cop. Let us all remember Sharon for her courage, her integrity, her strength of character, and the valiant effort she always made to fight for equality, fairness, and justice, not just for herself but for all of the people whose lives she touched. A friend of mine told me after Sharon died that "Sharon was a drum major for justice." I can see her up there now, flapping her angel wings and smiling down on us as she leads her crusade for justice. Shakespeare said, "Towards die many times before their deaths, the valiant never taste of death but once." Girlfriend, you will always be remembered, always missed and forever in our hearts.

dedicated police officer. She is not dead; she is alive in part.

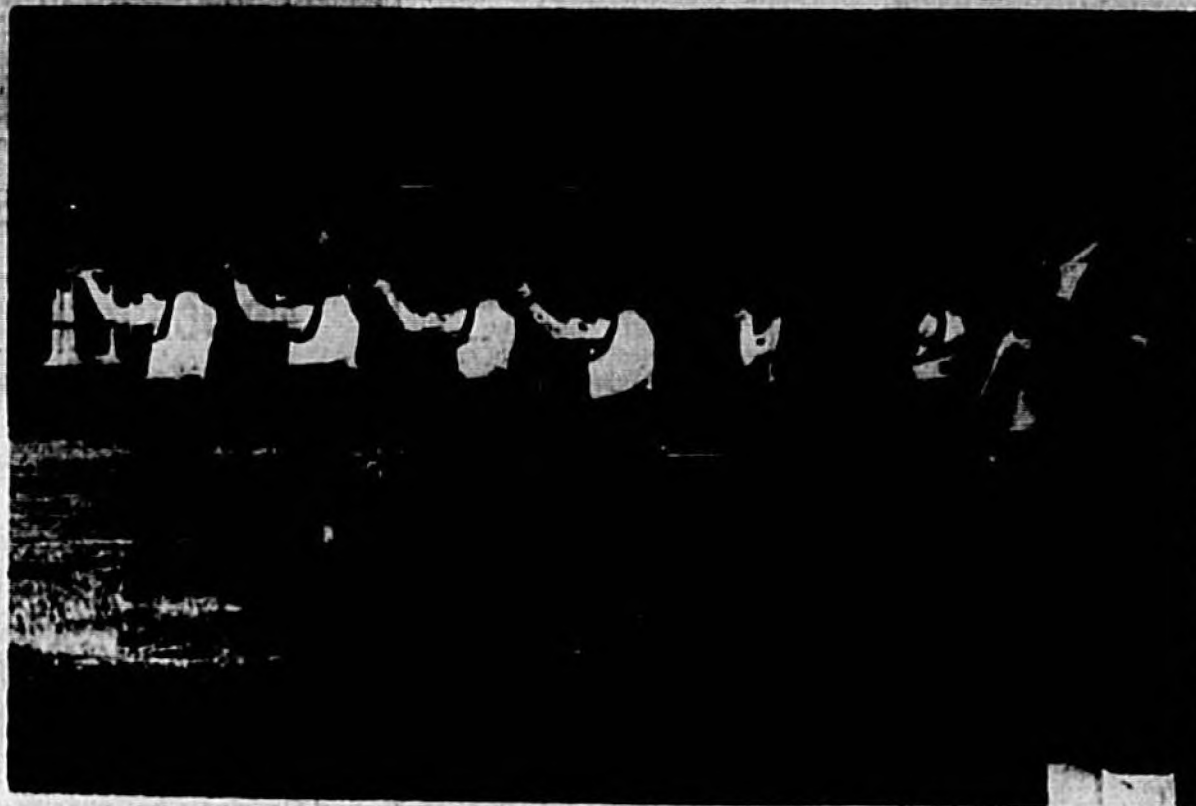

Three women officers - Claudine Yelton, Terry Murray and Robin Bernosky - eulogized Sheaffer, praising her for her dedication, courage and decency and even her downright silly sense of humor that always helped pick up everyone in times of crisis and danger. Sheaffer, they said, was seldom quiet or shy.

Sheaffer's son, Jacob Smith, rushed to Sanford from the U.S.S. John Paul Jones in the Pacific, fought back huge tears as he eulogized his mom in the church and later placed his white sailor's cap on her casket at All Souls Cemetery.

When Tracie Jackson, of the records department at the SPD, sang "I Won't Complain," the 500 or more assembled at First Baptist Church of Sanford looked into their hearts and to each other, experiencing a moment that they no more could forget than they forget Cpl. Sharon Sheaffer.

The Rev. Edward Manning of the True Holiness Church gave a resounding tribute to Sheaffer that brought everyone to their feet, followed by a warm testimony by the Rev. Wayne Harvey, pastor at First Baptist.

At the conclusion of the Recessional Hymn - "Amazing

Grace" the church emptied and the rows and rows of police cars - from Sanford, Eatonville, Orlando, from the Orange and Seminole County Sheriff's Department - began their procession out to French Avenue, making a right on 25th Street to

All Souls Cemetery. Tiny rays of sunshine broke out after several brief showers. A bagpiper played "Amazing Grace." An honor guard removed the flag from Sheaffer's casket, folded it and gave it to her husband. A 21-gun salute was rendered, followed by "Taps." A police helicopter roared overhead.

A dispatcher's voice was heard over the police radios...10-7...the traditional radio check when an officer comes to the end of a shift...10-7...Cpl. Sharon Sheaffer's duty with the Sanford Police Department was complete...10-7.

Officers Webber, Murray and Bernosky embraced and allowed themselves to cry. They were given a white dove to release into the sky and heaven above. The dove decided to stay on earth, as each of those who buried Sharon Sheaffer must, also - and without complaining, as Tracie Jackson earlier sang on this particular April afternoon.

Hanks

Continued from Page 1A are working extremely hard on this project." Hanks said in front of a moderate press corps Thursday at the Disney-MGM Studios. "And we still are not near to being done." Hanks, despite having to work until the wee morning hours from Wednesday, still seemed exuberant enough to talk about this endeavor.

From the Earth to the Moon is the biggest original programming venture in Home Box Office history and HBO has exclusive rights to it. The series is filming for eight months in the Central Florida area utilizing several locations. Other big names associated with the project include Imagine Entertainment's Brian Glaser, Ron Howard and Michael Boatick. Several feature film directors and writers will be in and out of the area in association with the series as well. The epic is based in part on Andrew Chaikin's book "A Man on the Moon," which chronicles the voyages of the Apollo astronauts and the 12 manned Apollo missions. Chaikin will also act as a consultant on the series, which is scheduled to debut in early 1998, coinciding with the 25th anniversary of the completion of the Apollo space program.

Some of the material for From the Earth to the Moon will range from the early U.S. space efforts in 1961, when Alan Shepard became the first American to break the 100-mile barrier where space begins, to the final Apollo lunar mission in 1973, when Jack Schmitt and Gene Cernan left humanity's last footprints on the moon.

Hanks served up his own brand of expression and comedy when discussing the series. He had just driven up minutes before in a gleaming white Lincoln Town Car and seemed quite alert despite that unseemly finishing time Thursday morning. He must be on that Hollywood clock where directors can call you on a dime -- forget the time -- to film a scene.

Hanks' passion for the space program spanned in childhood. It is not as though he developed some bug filming Apollo 13 and just had to do a series on the entire Apollo missions. Surely what he learned during the making of that film only spurred him on to get involved in such a large project. "This was no small inspiration to me as I was growing up," said Hanks. "I was more interested in what was going on with Apollo 10 than what was going on on the Starship Enterprise." Hanks also said that he was interested in "science fact not fiction".

The idea for From the Earth to the Moon took a few years, according to Hanks, to finally commence. He also said that such stories could not be crammed into a two hour feature film. "Television really became the only medium to encompass the whole story," said Hanks. He said that there are two things he wants people to walk away with. "I want people to have a sense that this was fascinating," said Hanks. "I also want them to be amazed by what these guys went through and look at what they accomplished."

"We have 13 hours in which to work and still cannot do it all," Hanks said. Hanks said that he thinks the crew that he is working with in Orlando is "first rate." He even complimented the talent pool that Central Florida has to offer. He said that he would have liked to have had a bigger soundstage, the one employed

Pool

Sanford Mayor Larry Dale said he believes Sanford would benefit from an Olympic size swimming pool at Seminole High. He said the city is willing to put forward a $500,000 commitment toward the project.

In a letter to Robinson, Dale noted that if the school board would commit to an equal amount, he was certain they could "fund the balance from Seminole County, the YMCA and the City of Lake Mary."

Diane Kramer, executive director of facilities for the district, has promised to keep crowded with props and facades. Yet Hanks is not complaining.

Hanks is involved with the project pretty much day to day now, but his itinerary will not allow him to stay on as much as he would like to. Hanks is slated to start work on a new Steven Spielberg project soon as well as other movies including an as yet untitled Martin Scorsese picture. Given the passion and intelligence which Hanks conveyed you may think that he could do all the work with this project himself.

Even though Hanks played an astronaut, he said that he would not like to be one. Maybe not. It would be hard to agree with him though. His ambition and interest on this subject leads you to believe that Hanks would love to go from the Earth to the Moon.

Dale informed about the budgetary process, but neither she nor Robinson held out much hope that the school district would help finance a pool in Sanford.

Robinson said the other cities "did not stand a chance" of getting school board support for a pool facility either.

"We have other needs that are much more important," she reiterated. "There isn't going to be money for Sanford or Winter Springs or Lake Mary."

Robinson said she believed the money for the pool would have to come from cities, from block grant money, from tourist development funds and from community initiatives.

She also pointed out that the construction costs were not the end of expenses for such facilities. The cost of operating the pool at Lake Brantley High School (which was built several years ago in cooperation with the city of Altamonte Springs) is about $60,000 a year.

The best the school district can offer the municipalities is about three acres of space on the high school campuses that could be used for the pool facilities. "We don't want to get a community pool for Sanford."

It just won't be the same at Brantley

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Is there anything worse than trying to see a great sportsman hang on a little too long?

Remember Tom Landry's last year with the Dallas Cowboys?

It wasn't pretty. Landry hung on a little too long and the game got away from him.

Don Shula?

Many would feel the same thing.

Nobody will say that about Fred Almon. The game didn't have a chance to get away as long as he was walking the Lake Brantley sidelines.

He won with teams that passed. Teams that ran. He won with defense and special teams.

The key word is, he won.

Don't remember Almon for the way he went out, with a pounding by Niceville High in the state regional semi-finals last season.

Remember that team as an overachieving bunch that couldn't pass a lick and still found its way into the districts in a year when Lake Howell and Oviedo were supposed to be locks.

Almon retired the other day after 12 seasons of stalking the Lake Brantley sidelines. Along the way, he coached some pretty fair football players.

Daryl Bush terrorized opponents as a Patriot missile before heading for Florida State.

There was Dee Brown, now poised to play a larger role at Syracuse.

There were others that received scholarships at big time universities like Notre Dame, Minnesota, North Carolina State, Georgia, Georgia Tech, Purdue and, of course, the big three of Florida, Florida State and Miami.

Remember names like Ricky Hamilton, Clint Johnson, David Swain, Ryan Ruland, Chris Walsh and Cornelius Friendly?

They are only a few of the players who owe a lot of credit to their experiences under Almon at Lake Brantley.

Then, there was last year's option run by the versatile Ryan Pagan and Aaron Russell that never looked impressive, but knew how to put the ball in the end zone. It might not have been pretty but Almon had to be proud of the effort.

Now Almon is gone from the sidelines.

Health reasons.

Who can forget the horror they felt when Almon suffered a heart attack on the sideline during last season's opening game against Apopka?

Almon was taken away in an ambulance but was stalking the sidelines not too long after the attack.

Now it seems he's decided his health is more important than coaching.

Good choice.

He saw his defensive coordinator David Bodle pass away last summer and only one night after Almon suffered his heart attack. Lake Brantley's first football coach, Bill Duty, passed away in his home state of Kentucky.

After beginning to run the Lake Brantley golf team this January, Almon realized that coaching could be hazardous to his health.

That should probably be standard knowledge for any high school football coach but Almon apparently took it to heart.

Literally.

The Lake Brantley sidelines will look different next fall. A search committee is looking for the next Patriot head coach. Could it be George Clayton who has coached the Patriots' offensive line for the past nine years?

Clayton took over for Lake Brantley when Almon went down last September and has been coaching for more than 20 years.

He'd seem to be an obvious first choice for the job but, like Les Steckel after Bud Grant, Richie Pettibone after Joe Gibbs, Phil Bengtson after Vince Lombardi, Ray Goff after Bill Dooley and Bill Curry after Bear Bryant, it won't be easy.

But whoever takes over shouldn't even try to replace Almon. It can't be done.

When September rolls around, Lake Brantley will still be picked to finish near the top of the Seminole Athletic Conference.

They can probably plan on playing late into November and early December.

But with Fred Almon away from the game, it just won't be the same.

Elks Devil Rays top A's in Babe Ruth action

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — William Beehner and Josh Sparks combined on a three-hitter and Joe Sondheim and Brad Cook drove in three runs apiece as the Master Construction Athletics knocked off the Elks Lodge #1241 Devil Rays 11-5 in Sanford Recreation Department Babe Ruth Baseball League action Friday afternoon at Zinn Beck Field.

The Devil Rays took a 2-0 lead in the top of the first inning as, with two out and no one on base, Bradley Locke and Brian Porter walked. Locke eventually scored on a passed ball and C.J. Thompkins and Dallas Williams both singled, with Williams' safety plating Porter.

The Athletics took the lead in the bottom of the first inning as David Beehner singled, stole second and third and scored on a grounder by Sondheim. Sparks then walked and William Beehner singled before Cook scored both runners with a double.

The Devil Rays tied the game in the top of the second inning as Grady Hutchins walked and later scored on a single by Chris Culhoun.

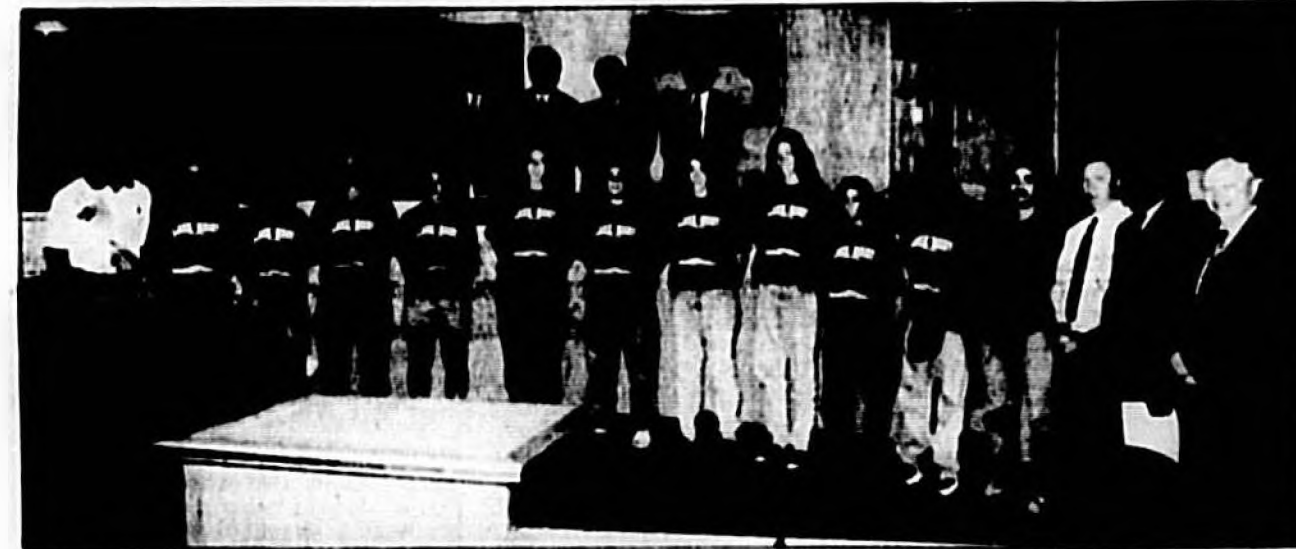

The Athletics took the lead for good in the bottom of the second inning, plating four runs. Four consecutive walks allowed Chris Witte to score and Sondheim drove in Mike Doney and Jeremiah Dickerson on a force out at second base. Sondheim came around to score the final run on a wild pitch.

The Athletics added a single run in the third inning on an RBI grounder by Jonnie Rollins and then tacked on three runs in the fourth inning with one run scoring on a passed ball and the final two on RBI singles by William Beehner and Cook.

Knapp hurls a perfect game at Howell

By TONY BOGANNIA
Herald correspondent

WINTER SPRINGS — Ben Knapp gave a five-inning example Friday afternoon of why his return to the Oviedo High School baseball team was eagerly awaited.

It took him less than 75 minutes to toss a five-inning perfect game, retiring all 15 batters he faced as the Lions coasted to a 10-0 win over the host Lake Howell Silver Hawks in a game stopped by the 10-run mercy rule.

Knapp struck out six.

"I'm getting there," said Knapp, a junior, who missed the first couple weeks of the season while playing with the Oviedo basketball team that advanced to the state championship game. "I felt good today. I'm just starting to get into pitching shape."

In his last start, Knapp (2-2) gave up six hits in a 3-2 loss to Lake Brantley but managed to throw his first complete game of the season.

Knapp was quick to point out the several outstanding defensive plays his teammate made behind him that made his perfect game possible, specifically efforts by center-fielder Scott Ferrell and shortstop Andy Neufeld.

In the bottom of the third, Jesse Gelm lifted a fly ball into shallow right-center field. Ferrell came charging in and made a shoestring catch to end the inning.

Neufeld's play came in the bottom

LAKE MARY — It is one thing to go unbeaten. It's another thing to go unchallenged.

That's about how it went for the Greenwood Lakes Middle School girls' basketball team this season as the Eagles went undefeated, winning the championship in a 12-point rout of Indian Heights.

The Eagles are coached by Mike Mitchell, whose daughter Metta is one of the Eagles' starters. Metta, in fact said she knew why her team was so successful.

"We put in a lot of hard work and practice," Metta said.

That applied to the whole team. Erica Dunkman was one of the team's leading scorers and ran the Holmes finished with two singles and two runs scored. Devito had two singles, a run, and an RBI. Scott Ferrell doubled in one run and scored two. Troy Boutwell and Guy Erwin each singled and scored a run.

Orlando (17-8, 4-3 in 6A-District 4 play, and 5-3 in the Seminole Athletic Conference) will travel to Sanford to play the Fighting Seminoles under the lights at Alumni Field in the Seminole High School Baseball Complex on Wednesday starting at 6 p.m.

Florida gets "H.I.P." for bird hunters

SANFORD Migratory game bird hunters in Florida are getting "H.I.P." soon. That's a new federal program to gather more-accurate information about the numbers and species of migratory game birds hunters take.

H.I.P. (Harvest Information Program) will start with a brief questionnaire migratory game bird hunters will fill out on their 1997 hunting license applications. Hunters must fill out the questionnaire in order for their licenses to be valid for hunting migratory game birds.

Later, some hunters will receive a survey from the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, asking for details about the migratory game birds they take during the hunting season.

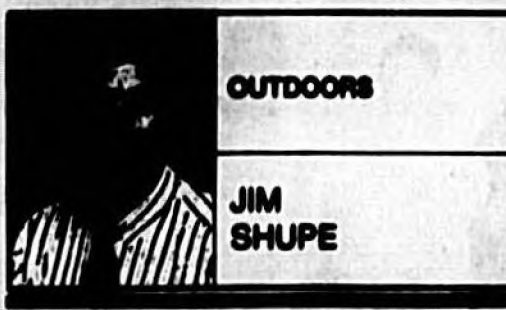

Fishers migratory game birds include doves, ducks, coots, woodcock, rails, gallinules and snipe.

Mark Wiley, the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission's small-game coordinator, said sportsmen will benefit from H.I.P. in that it will enable wildlife agencies to set season dates and bag limits at the most generous levels possible, because officials will be working with more accurate figures than ever before.

Another benefit of the H.I.P. system, Wiley said, is it will afford wildlife managers a more defensible legal position when facing court challenges regarding hunting seasons.

"Information from H.I.P. will help preserve hunting and justify it as a valuable wildlife management tool during future litigation," Wiley said.

FISHING FORECAST

Base fishing is still great due to low water levels in the river. Shiners are still producing most of the bass over 5 pounds, but plastic worms and small Rapalas will also work just fine. The Fuzzle Lake area is really hot when the water is well in the banks, and bass are feeding on tiny grass shrimp and ditch minnows. I use ultralight spinning tackle and the smallest of Rapalas for fast action and a lot of fun. Deep hends and run-offs hold the greatest concentrations of bass.

Rehoboth Inlet is featuring snook, redfish, bluefish, jack crevalle, and a few flounder and small snapper. Live shrimp or finger mullet are the best baits. Most veterans hook a large live shrimp up through the head on a plain lead head jig and work the rig slowly around the rocky bottom. Very few fish will pass up this offering.

Captain Jack at Port Canaveral reports that high seas have kept all but the largest of boats in Port. When seas subside, expect cobia and king mackerel to be on E. A-Beef and Pelican Flats. Wahoo and dolphin will be in 180-240 feet of water. Inside the Port, count on sheepshead and flounder to provide steady action. Trout and redfish are roaming the flats of the Banana and Indian Rivers.

Sheepshead and drum are the main attraction at Ponce Inlet, and live or dead shrimp is the bait of choice. Also expect small bluefish, a few redfish, and plenty of small jack crevalle. Trout and redfish are rated as good in Manatee Lagoon.

With this ring I thee wed for 61 years

The years have been good to Thomas Burch Cornelius and his bride of 61 years, Carolyn. One would never guess that the popular and handsome couple come close to a milestone of this magnitude.

Burch and Carolyn were married March 27, 1936, in Haines City, and have made their home in Sanford for 33 years.

Burch spent 43 years teaching in public schools and was a high school principal when he accepted the position of headmaster of Sanford Naval Academy which was located at the present New Tribes Mission. After his retirement from education, Burch went on to work in retail part time.

Vivacious Carolyn has been an officer in Florida Federation of Women's Clubs, is active in the Sanford Woman's Club and enjoys playing bridge. They are also active in the First United Methodist Church.

Carolyn and Burch are proud of their two successful children. Dr. Catherine Cornelius will be among about 50 women in Florida to be honored at a ceremony this year at the University of Florida. She is president of the South Florida Community College in Aven Park.

Their son, Dr. William Burch Cornelius, practices optometry in Altamonte Springs.

Guest of honor was Lee Dotson, mom-to-be. Lee and her husband, Timothy, are anticipating May 3 and excitement is definitely the word in the family.

Lee has chosen Noah's Ark as the theme for the nursery and Joyce carried out this same theme in the party decor.

Highlight of the festivity was Lee opening up all of the adorable gifts for the new little person expected in the family.

"We really had a good time," Joyce said.

Lee is the daughter of Kathy (Lee), formerly of Sanford, and Dennis Dingle of Lakeland and her mom attended the shower-luncheon.

Others attending were Tish Lee, great-grand-mom to be, Linda Maliczowski, the new baby's great aunt, Doty Maliczowski, Katherine Fletcher, Jennifer Clayton and Doris Gormly.

WEDDING CARD
Longtime Herald readers will probably never forget Jeri and Bill Kirk who made a tremendous impact on the community with their benevolent services and charitable endeavors. They were also big on the social scene. The Kirks' two sons, William (Bud) Jr. and Scott attended local schools and both are Orlando attorneys.

Bill passed on several months back and left his wonderful family, including his dear wife, Jeri, who has been in failing health, but reportedly is doing well. Those who may like to cheer Jeri up, please send her a card to: Sutton Homes, Glastonberry Road, Maitland 32751.

CONGRATS TO CINDY
Congratulations are in order to Cindy McDonald Quiles who recently accepted the position as Director of Campus Ministries, Wesley House, Stetson University in DeLand. Wesley House is a home away from home for college students during their period of growth and change. It is a center of Christian caring and sharing and has been a place where students can find a meaningful Christian faith since the 1950s.

Students from Wesley, with Cindy at the helm, will lead both worship services Sunday, April 13, at the First United Methodist Church.

Cindy is the daughter of Mary Lou McDonald and the late Tom McDonald.

Goldsboro honors Dreamers, Doers

Goldsboro Elementary School has recognized its 1996-1997 Dreamers and Doers.

Ryanne McCray presided over the recognition program. The National Anthem was sung by Jasmin Nathan. The occasion was done by Hector Gonzalez, Asha Nathan, Jennifer Pawelchak, Samantha Ford and Kyle Ricker.

The winner and runner up and three finalists were recognized by Dan Merchant, Asst. Principal and Guidance Counselor Jesse Wynn called the names of all applicants.

The applicants were students who wrote an essay that addressed their areas of involvement and told of the things that were unique in their lives at school, home and community.

Disney Dreamers and Doers are not always the easiest to recognize. They are curious, they show a strong sense of self-worth and display a great deal of courage in pursuing their objectives regardless of adversity.

Disney Dreamers and Doers are students who give 110% to every effort they undertake. They have a positive influence on the people around them and their contributions often go unrecognized or unobserved. They strive to be the best and improve themselves, as well as, the world around them. They are the ones who are most like Walt Disney himself who himself was a curious person as a young child that dreamed about doing things, wondering how not if they could be done.

These special dreamers and doers are in a group of their own. They can be summarized in four C's: Curiosity, Confidence, Courage, and Constancy.

Principal Ronald Nathan presented the winner of the Dreamers and Doers Award to Candace Cherry, who is captain of the Safety Patrol; was vice president of the student council in 1995, is a straight A student, member of the chorus and art club, is a cheerleader. Candace has received reading trophies, three Principal's Awards, Subway Certificates, Student of the Week and Student of the Month.

She has been told that she is special and attributes her first grade teacher into pushing her to success. She has often shown great courage.

Candace will go to the Dreamers and Doers Disney Award Ceremony with other counties. The Disney-MGM Studios will host the awards on April 19 for the Disney Super Star Television.

Runner-up was Christine Barrett who is corresponding secretary of the Student Council, sergeant of the Safety Patrol, is a straight A student, was in the spelling bee and is a sports advocate. She is courageous and has confidence.

Finalists were Tiffany Church, Ryanne McCray and Kyle Ricker.

Barrett and Kyle Ricker. Back row, Dan Merchant, assistant principal, Taffany Church, Jesse Wynn and Principal Ronald Nathan.

Congratulations to Candace Cherry and the 26 other students who wrote essays and made application to the Walt Disney Dreamers and Doer's Award contest. "When you believe a thing, believe it all the way - and one day your dreams shall come true."

Jazz Society to give scholarships

The Central Florida Jazz Society announces its annual scholarship competition for high school seniors and students in the first three years of college, focusing on jazz music. Five awards will be given: One for $1,500, one for $1,000 and three for $500 each. There are no age restrictions - on these awards. Applications must be completed and received by May 1, and must be postmarked by midnight that date to be considered eligible. Call Central Florida Jazz Society at 536-2357 for information or to receive an application.

Auditions will be held on Saturday, May 17, 1997 on the campus of The University of Central Florida. A rhythm section of professional musicians will be provided. In the preliminary screening of applicants it will be necessary to submit an audio tape with the application.

Auditions are open to the public. The winners will perform and receive their awards at a future CFJS concert. For further information, contact

Painting is part of artist's life

By Susan Graham
Herald Staff Writer

HEATHROW — Over 29 paintings fill the Heathrow home of Bunny Schneider. Her hobby of painting landscapes, from her own photographs or those of others, have been a favorite pastime for numerous years.

She added that "since she was a young woman" painting has been a part of her life. In fact, in high school she entered a poster contest while living in Chicago and was honored by receiving a one-year scholarship to the Art Institute of Chicago. She attended classes during those 52 weeks each Saturday.

Presently, Schneider is enrolled at Creation School of Art in Lake Mary. She mentioned that sometimes painting alone can be depressing so she enrolled in a class.

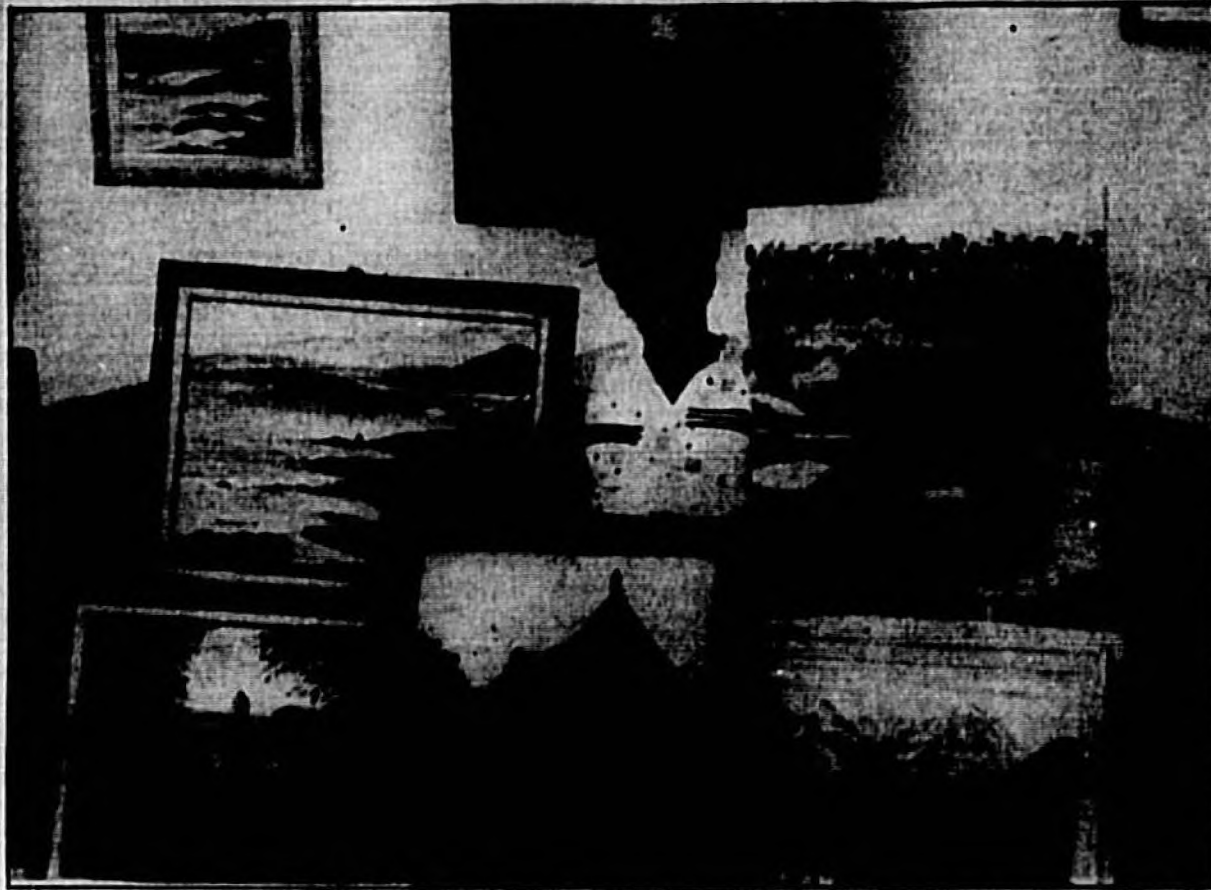

"We do our own style," she said. "Our teacher, Celeste, critiques us and helps us but she allows us to stick with our own style. It's nice painting around other people."

Most of the canvas works that Schneider creates are landscapes. "I'm a photographer too," she said. "I paint what I photograph."

Sharing a recent trip to Hawaii, Schneider said, "I photographed a little church on the waterline when we were visiting on the island of Kauai in the area of Toitu. It's the smallest of the Hawaiian islands. It's called the flower island. I painted a picture from the photograph I took. It's so beautiful there."

Schneider talked of how her brother wanted a portrait from the islands. "I painted one," she said. "Then I painted another one. I liked them so much I kept them. Now I'm working on a third and I hope to give it to my brother."

She continued by saying, "I gave my son a whole wall of my paintings. When we moved there were too many to pack and ship and I thought he would enjoy them."

Acrylics are the paint of choice for Schneider. "I found out that acrylics were invented in Europe," she said. "Americans like them more though. I like them because there is no odor and they are more vibrant. When I used to paint with oils the odor really got to me."

Pottery has been another art form with which Schneider has dabbled. "I tried pottery," she said. "It's just not my cup of tea but I've done a few things."

Schneider cited that beginners should start "by attending schools or art classes." She also added, "If you have a good communication with your teacher that helps. All the students work together. In my class, I paint one way and I don't want to paint like someone else. We keep our own style."

Writing a few pieces about her childhood, Schneider has published a few in the a Heathrow publication. "I lost my daughter about three years ago," she said. "My son talked me into writing. He's a fantastic writer so I guess he thought I might have a talent with it. I started writing about my childhood, some things about my husband and about flying standby on an airline."

All in all Schneider summed things up by saying, "Painting is my real love. It's a very pleasant thing. It's nice to be surrounded with your work. I give my paintings to other people too and hope they enjoy them as much."

Schneider and her husband, Morris, have been married for 36 years. They have lived in Heathrow for six and one-half years.

She has one son, Larry. Schneider is a member of the Heathrow Women's Club and the Heathrow Women's Golf Association

Mr. and Mrs. Brett Christopher Mollé

Sharon Clancy, Brett C. Mollé exchange vows

Sharon Clancy and Brett Christopher Mollé announce their marriage today.

The traditional ceremony took place at Celebration Church of Lake Mary on Saturday, March 1, at 2 p.m., with Rev. Kevin Chubb officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Randy Lee and Valerie Henningsstrom, of Lake Mary.

The bridegroom is the son of Bruce and Carol Mollé, of DeBary.

Given in marriage by her stepfather, the bride chose for her vows a traditional, V-neck, short sleeved gown, with a lace overlay accented with seed pearls and sequins and a long train.

Her headpiece, of silk lily of the valley, rosesabuda and pearls held a fingertip veil. Her traditional bouquet was made up of bridal white roses accented with Bavardia.

Debbie Edwards served the bride as matron of honor and wore a sleeveless, tied-front velvet bodice gown with a full burgundy taffeta skirt. The honor attendant carried lilacs and red roses tied with burgundy ribbons.

Bridesmaids, dressed in gowns identical to the those of the honor attendant, were Gale Casey, Lorri Mulholland and Tana Pope.

Bruce Mollé served his son as best man.

The groomsmen were Mark Taylor, Frank Poerio and Craig Lester.

The flower girl was Nina Clancy and the ring bearer was Ryan Rubio.

The Marina Hotel, in Sanford, was the setting for the reception. At the reception, the assistants were Michele Taylor and Nanette Johnson.

The newlyweds honeymooned in Mexico, California and at the Grand Canyon.

The bride is employed as a branch office administrator for Edward D. Jones, in Longwood and the groom owns his own business, as a cabinetmaker. They are making their home in Sanford.

Scouts conduct Olympics

The modern Olympics have been around for 100 years. The Stardust Olympics held by the Lake Mary Girl Scouts, has only been around for four years, but it's getting better every year. The modern Olympics gives athletes from all over the world a chance to compete against each other. The Stardust Olympics gives Girl Scouts from all over Lake Mary the chance to compete against each other, have fun, and meet with other Girl Scouts in the area.

The Stardust Olympics was held on Saturday, April 8. Over 100 girls came to compete. It was a perfectly beautiful day. Once the field was set, the girls began their events. Each event is run concurrently with a different grade starting at each event. For kindergarten and first grade, the events are the race, basketball toss, sponge throw, shot put and three legged race. (Because real shot puts are a little heavy, the girls use water balloons.) The second and third graders run the same events plus the triathlon. Fourth graders and up and the relay race and the discus as well. (A real discus is heavy, so Frisbees are substituted.)

The triathlon is the funniest event to watch. The girls run 25 yards, kick a soccer ball around a cone and then crab-the soccer field next to the Sports Complex every year. And this year, for the second year in a row, there was no cost to participate in the Olympics. Each troop talked with businesses and sold sponsorships for the Olympics. There were three levels, Gold, Silver and Bronze. The Gold Sponsors were AFCOM, Ant-care Pet Supply, Astronet, Broadway Gymnastics, Cumberland Farms, Steven D. Feiner, MD, Hollywood Cows, Outdoor Etc. of Seminole, Pino Tile, Post, Buckley, Schuh and Jernigan, Stanford Centre and Suniland Corporation. The Silver sponsors were ABB Powers T&D Company, American Piano Wholesalers, Holy Cross Lutheran Church, Langston, Hess, Bolton, Znoeko and Helm, P.A. and Shyroek Pest Control. The Bronze sponsors were Barnett Bank, Bill Auld Company, Big Tree

Haircut turns into a disaster

DEAR ABBY: I am sitting here half-bald after a horrendous trip to two hairdressers. The first did such a terrible job that I was forced to go elsewhere to get my hairdo repaired. I went to the first salon for a simple trim. Although I explained what I wanted and even showed a picture to the hairdresser, I had the uneasy feeling she didn't understand. At that point, however, my hair had already been washed and I felt as though I had no choice but to go through with the haircut. When she was finished, I was left with a disaster on my head. My hair was much shorter than I'd requested, with two thin layers that didn't blend together. I looked ridiculous and the hairdresser knew it. She asked me if I wanted her to take a little more off the top to help blend the layers, but I quickly said no. She charged me $24, which I reluctantly paid. I then had to pay more money to correct the disaster on my head. After hours of combing, curling and crying, I am turning to you for advice. Can you help me and others like me by answering: After getting a "bad vibe" from a stylist, is it socially acceptable to refuse service (even after he/she has washed your hair)? What is the best way to find out what a stylist's concept of an inch is? If you are dissatisfied with your haircut, can you refuse to pay for it?

ADVICE ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ALL CHOPPED UP: You have my sympathy. If it's any comfort, your experience is not that uncommon. Clear communication is the key. You should discuss your expectations in advance, and make sure they are clearly understood before any work is done on your hair. If you are uneasy, you can leave at any time, even if your hair has already been shampooed. You should not have to pay for anything that is not satisfactory. Reputable salons will not insist that you do. DEAR ABBY: I am a 50-year-old housewife. After 31 years of marriage, my husband suddenly asked me for a divorce. Over the years he has given me some very nice pieces of jewelry. I don't want to sell any of it unless I really need the money. It has a lot of sentimental value. Besides, I have seven daughters, two daughters-in-law and several granddaughters whom I would like eventually to inherit my jewelry. My quandary is this: I would like to continue wearing these pieces occasionally. I also want to continue to wear my wedding rings since, to my way of thinking, I am still bound by the marriage vows we took (twice). Is there any etiquette governing my situation? WONDERING IN TEXAS DEAR WONDERING: You may continue to wear all of your jewelry in any manner you wish. However, you are still a relatively young woman, and divorced women who entertain the idea of someday marrying again often have the stones from their wedding and engagement rings reset into another kind of ring, which they wear on their right hand. You would be wise to specify which pieces of jewelry you would like each family member to have. I urge you to consult a lawyer and put it in writing. (Problems? Write to Dear Abby. For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dear Abby, P.O. Box 60448, Los Angeles, Calif. 90060. All correspondence is confidential.)

Happy Birthday

Sunday, April 12, 1987

You will be motivated by your desire to get more out of life, and this could lead to changes in the year ahead that will benefit you materially.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You have a remarkable faculty for finishing difficult projects today. If associates have left things unfinished, you'll be able to move in and tidy up. Also, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $2 and SASE to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10158. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Mundane involvements are likely to occupy most of your time today. You are entitled to a fun break, however, so be sure to fit one in.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) This could be a rewarding day for you, provided you are enterprising and resourceful. Give meaningful endeavors your full attention.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Do not be reluctant to express your ideas today; persons involved will recognize their merits and appreciate your involvement.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Rather than let a debt to you drift along, this is a good day to finalize the arrangement and ensure you will be receiving your due.

VRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Today your mood will reflect the inclinations of your companions; for example, productive co-workers will inspire you to act as they do.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Give yourself meaningful goals to focus on today; substantial accomplishments are possible if you're determined to attain them.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 22) You will have a way of expressing your ideas that will capture the imagination and support of others today. Make a bold pitch!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Associates might find stressful conditions frustrating today, but you'll be able to figure out ways to use these changes to your advantage.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) An individual who is important to your immediate plans can be swayed to your way of thinking today. Make arrangements to meet and tell your story.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Much of your energy today might be devoted to helping others sort out their affairs. You normal procedure in North America.) Thinking there was no hope, Kerr called for the club six. If East had trusted her partner, she would have inserted the 10 and defeated the slam. Instead, she played the seven. Taking West's discard at face value, Kerr put in her nine - and it won the trick!

Doing the impossible

By Phillip Alder

Kerr won the first trick with dummy's heart queen and cashed the spade ace, preparing to claim an over-trick. However, West failed to follow suit. Of course, you or I would have thrown one of those useless hearts, but West discarded the club two. In her partnership's methods, this was encouraging in clubs. (We call this a reverse discard: the reverse of the Four clubs was Gerber, asking for aces. Over to dummy with a heart, Kerr tried the club jack, covered by the queen and king. Red news: West produced the ace. Good news: West couldn't return a club. When she played a heart, Kerr cashed all her red-suit tricks. Dummy was left with the K-Q-10 of spades. Declarer had the spade five and the 4-3 of clubs. Poor East couldn't keep three spades
