Weather

The War Department is preparing to open an army air force weather training center soon at Grand Rapids, Mich. This news leads to meditation about weather in general. What caused weather, where it came from, where it went and what it would do next used to be deep mysteries. They are now no longer mysterious.

Much research preceded the air-mass discoveries of Vilhelm Bjerknes, the Norwegian. The foundation was laid by men of many nations. But when he worked out his principles of Air Mass Analysis, weather became understandable at last.

"Though in this particular case it seems almost childishly simple," says Wolfgang Langewiesche in the October Harper's Magazine, "it is Norway's greatest contribution to world culture since Ibsen." It's like that famous egg which Columbus so easily stood on end by tapping it on the base. When the weather student gets the idea he wonders why it ever seemed occult.

Nothing could be more useful, in war or daily life, than knowing how to figure out weather. There are only seven American airmen, says Langewiesche: Polar Canadian, Polar Pacific, Polar Atlantic, Tropical Atlantic, Tropical Continental, Tropical Pacific and Tropical Gulf. The airmen at Grand Rapids will learn what these do. The ordinary American might do well to learn about them, too, thus finding weather simpler but even more fascinating, and understanding easily why, in time of war, weathermen must be silent.

Corsican Vengeance

One by one the few parts of Europe that have not been submerged by the flood of war find it sweeping over them. The latest is the island of Corsica, lying west of Italy but a part of France. The Nazis have just occupied it in their effort to control the Mediterranean before it is too late.

Corsica to most people suggests little except bandits, who have long been pretty thoroughly cleaned out, and the vendetta or blood-feud, which for generations has kept families at enmity.

The most famous Corsican feud affected vitally the career of the island's most illustrious son, Napoleon Bonaparte. The Bonaparte and the Fozzo di Borgo families quarreled over politics, and Carlo Andrea Pozzo di Borgo vowed vengeance upon Napoleon. It fell to this humble Corsican's lot to rise high in the world, and in a strange direction: he became foreign minister of the Czar of Russia. As such he built alliance after alliance against Napoleon, and finally had the pleasure of signing the Treaty of Paris which meant the emperor's downfall.

Hitler would do well to think twice before incurring the enmity of even the humblest Corsican.

Reasoning It Out

The draftee on his way to camp asked a stranger, Draftee No. 2: "Do you happen to have a match?" "Sure," said No. 2, "but I'm not giving you any."

"But why?" was the startled reply. "Well, we'll get to chinning. And if we get to chinning we'll wind up buddies. And if we're buddies we'll get in the same tent. If we are in the same tent and same squad, then we'll both volunteer together for special missions. Maybe we'll even get a dangerous night job; then we'll have to use flashlights. And if the flashlights should happen to go out some night in enemy territory, I sure don't want to be stranded with someone who doesn't even carry matches."—Telefun.

Labor Shortage

The staff of the Miami chamber of commerce has completed a report after investigating the labor shortage and wage situation here.

They found, among other things, that fountains are paying double the long accepted wage scale for order girls. That experienced sandwich makers are receiving $40 a week plus 1 per cent of the gross.

"Girls and women going into the defense industries and the defense vocational training classes, husbands making enough money that wives do not think they need to work and army checks coming into families that did not have a regular income before, appear to be the three principal causes for the shortage," says the report.—Miami Herald.

WHAT ABOUT YOUR SOLDIER?

By MRS. ERNEST HOUSHOLDER

Bill it is midnight and we are walking on tip-toe lest we might wake you Soldiers. We want, though, to give a little thought through your dreams. It is this, and we entitled it "THOUGHT".

Thought can be such a lovely thing. It can touch the heights on silver wings like a plane in flight. When the motor sings.

Yet, thought can be such an ugly thing. When it strips itself of its silver wings. And sinks to the depths of a sordid thing!

Let's keep our thoughts high. Let's keep 'em flying, especially when Seminoles boys are reported as "missing in action". No war or sordid thoughts in regard to them.

Think of Eddie Rickenbacker, lost in the South Pacific, and after nearly a month, miraculously found. Think of boys reported as "killed in action" who have returned to their families safe and sound!

Personally, we like to believe that all of our Seminoles soldiers will return to us. So you "missing" Soldiers, here's our little prayer for you: "They good will be done for." That's how we believe it will reach you, wherever you are.

Staff Sergeant Charles J. Mervether is now reported as "missing in action" by the commanding general of the Western European Front.

You will recall that Charles had a narrow escape in October when he was shot in the chest by a German bullet.

He was taken to a hospital in England, and after a long stay, he was returned to his unit in the front lines.

His courage and bravery are well known to all who have served with him.

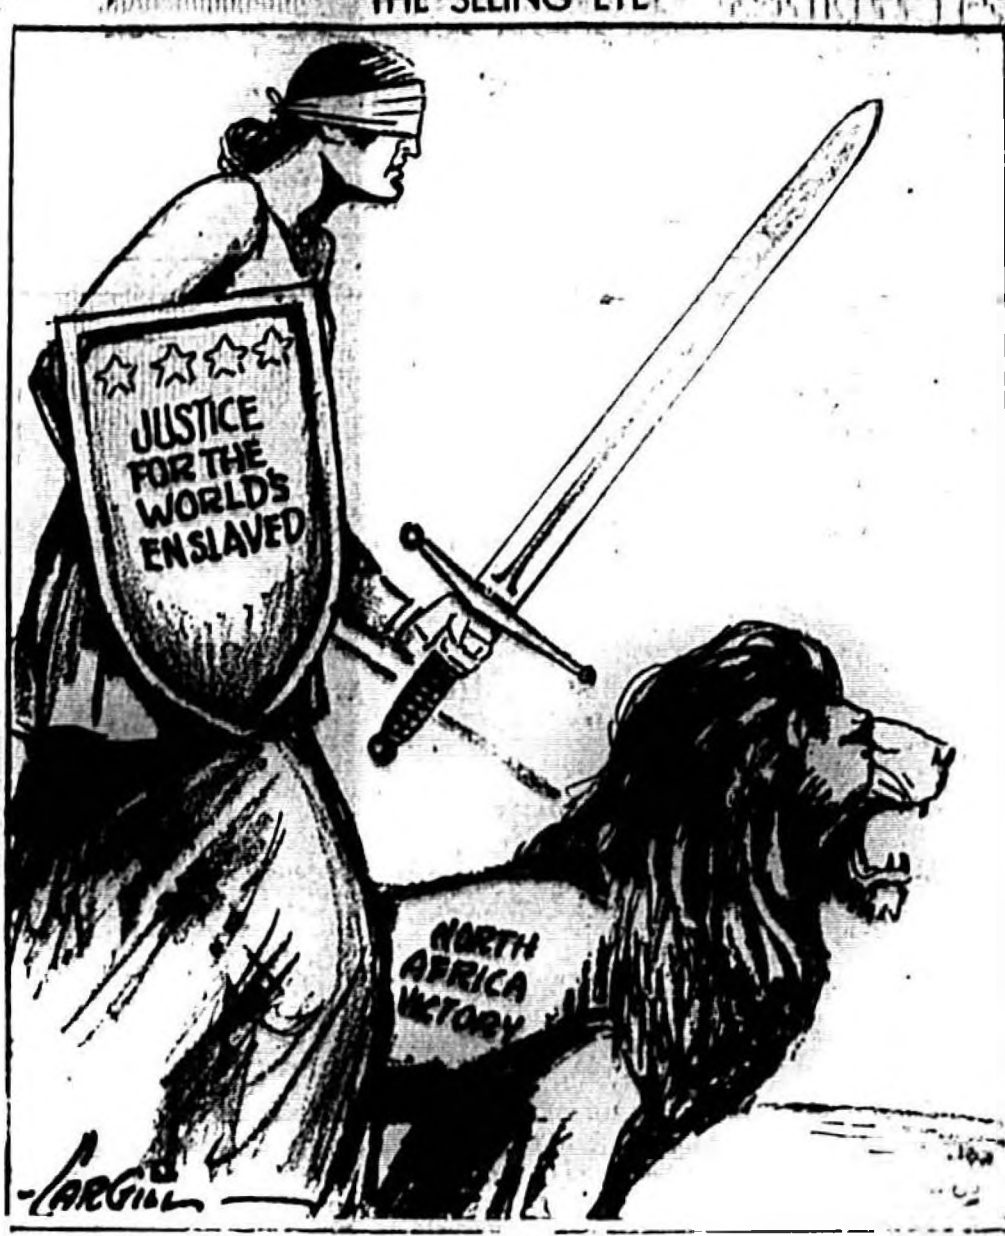

We hope to hear from him again soon.

Keep your thoughts high, Soldiers!

Montgomery Keeps Himself As Fit As His Soldiers

Wide World Features

He believes in training himself as he does his soldiers. His words for training are thoroughness and efficiency. He is making that training pay dividends.

He is Lieut. Gen. Bernard Law Montgomery, C. B., D. S. O., commander of the British Eighth Army. A soldier for 33 years, Montgomery has been in Egypt only three weeks last summer when he was called on to command the Eighth and stop Nazi Field Marshal Rommel's push towards Alexandria.

The general was born Nov. 17, 1887, son of a clergyman. He married in 1927 and his wife died 10 years later; they had one son, Ian, and a daughter, Montgomery. He is a teetotaler and non-smoker who has led a Spartan life.

His military career began as an infantry officer in 1908. In World War I he was wounded three times and in December, 1914, with the threatening cloud of invasion rear took over as general officer commanding the vital home front southeastern command.

He trains his men hard, said once: "There is only on standard of fitness—the standard of total war."

A veteran man who served in World War I as an officer, said on his recent return from Europe, we are feeling ourselves if we think Germany will soon surrender or that she is the victim of starvation or misery.

A news story says that the shoe-string land of Chile is about 24 times as long as it is wide. It is a long, thin strip of land, a dog's head in a dog's body, and a half long and half dog high. From its northern border, where no rain ever falls, it tapers to a point at the southern end.

It will sink the U. S. Air Force's million-ton aircraft carrier, the USS Yorktown, as an exercise. Also half as many tons of copper and tin are in the ore, just now it is struggling with the problem of a break.

State Hotel Managers Are Still Optimistic

TALLAHASSEE, Nov. 20. (Special)—That Florida caters to public comfort—the owners and managers of the 1,350 hotels; the more than 7,000 apartment houses and the more than 11,000 rooming houses in the state—are optimistic regarding the prospect for good business during the season.

But about to open is manifested with the fact that the state of Florida is still in a state of emergency. The state of Florida is still in a state of emergency.

Last year Florida marketed 18,800,000 boxes of citrus fruit. This year's crop is estimated at 17,200,000 boxes. If you liked a steady job and could count about 40 boxes a minute, by working eight hours a day, with no holidays, it would take you nearly 300 days, or about two and three-fourths years, to count them.

The Greater Miami insurance board lists 66 insurance agencies. Since Wallace has declared celery to be a luxury rather than a necessary element of our diet, it is interesting to know that last year Florida grew more celery than any other state of the Union, her crop amounting to 2,600,000 crates that brought $1,184,000.

Estimates show that of last year's Florida citrus crop Ohio was our fourth best purchaser, the others ranking in this order: New York, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts.

Garden Clubs Have District Meeting

MRS. JULIUS DINGFELDER, the annual district meeting of the Florida Federation of Garden Clubs was held at the Woman's Club Building at Leesburg on Nov. 17. Miss Ethel Enyart of Winter Park, first vice president, and path-a-mentarian offered the musical program, specially written for this occasion. Alfred Rosenquist, florist from Leesburg gave the welcome greeting. Mrs. Alison Marriott from Winter Park, district director, presided over the meeting; the district congress garden clubs in Sanford, New Smyrna, Deland, Leesburg, Orlando, Winter Park, Daytona Beach, Melbourne and Lake Helen reports were given by the respective club presidents. Sanford was outstanding among the reports given and her president, Mrs. O. P. Herndon was lauded for her many club activities.

Significant in the Winter Park report given by its president, Miss Matilda Campbell was the service she gave to other garden clubs in the district by lending her the Service Men's Center, and the service men flowers are being placed each week in the three chapels in the district circles. Winter Park, having adopted the war time slogan "Share your garden with a valiant soldier," reported the cooperation with the Red Cross in furnishing transportation for them. Miss Enyart added that a soldier had forgotten to wear a hat when he was permitted to feel birds in her garden, and conducted his own hat count. He was a member of the Mackay Service Men's Center.

Mrs. Marriott urged members to "dedicate" themselves to the Garden Club for the winter. The club does not engage in any other work than to raise flowers for hospitals and service men's centers. It will have accomplished a home mission by the end of the year. The speaker also gave much helpful advice on how to incorporate a victory garden into the landscape. She stressed the importance of setting stream-lined, simple, and colorful borders. The flowers and vegetables, Mrs. J.

L. Houston of Winter Park read passages on nature from Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings' "Cross Creek".

Luncheon was held at the Magnolia Hotel and the afternoon session continued there with Mrs. H. C. Livingston, later President, No. 10 Federation, from Tallahassee, leading the first address. She announced that 20,000 harvest shows will be staged throughout the United States, and sponsored by the National Federation of Garden Clubs. The entire net proceeds will be turned over to the Army and Navy Relief agencies. In her message to the clubwomen, Mrs. Livingston urged the members on to do common things uncommonly well. She gave a comprehensive report of club activities and also gave an outline for future plans. It was discussed to place the native Magnolia tree under state preservation control.

Mrs. H. R. Totten from Chapel Hill, N. C., regional director for eleven South Atlantic States gave an inspiring talk. She commended the Florida women for their "not to be shamed and busy hands on the home front" and she termed "the real second front." The speaker referred to our state not only as the Fountain of Stability, Fortitude and Courage. Mrs. Totten, well known to Florida women as contributor of articles on native material to the Florida Times-Union, now resides at Palfrey Farms to be near her husband, Captain H. R. Totten, stationed at Camp Blanton.

After adjournment members motored to the Victorian Gardens where the Florida Landscape Nursery, headed by Mrs. Sanford, were Mrs. O. P. Herndon, Mrs. E. Spencer, Mrs. J. W. Gault, Mrs. Frank L. Miller, Mrs. Henry McLaughlin, and Mrs. J. H. Bond.

Miss Claire Evans Entertains At Dinner

Miss Claire Bennett Evans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Evans of Lake Mary, who was a few days here this week, entertained a few of her friends at a small informal dinner party at the Mayfair Hotel Wednesday night before leaving for Orlando, Fla., where her marriage to Capt. Daniel Bennett Evans, Medical Corps, will be solemnized in the near future.

Those dining with Miss Evans were the Mrs. J. B. Ray, Mrs. J. H. Menick, Mrs. J. W. Gault, Mrs. H. M. Gleason, Mrs. A. W. Thompson, and Mrs. L. Q. Park.

Victory In North Africa Will Open Shipping Lanes

BY JOHN GROVER

If the north African campaign is a success, as now seems indicated, Lieut. Gen. Dwight (Ike) Eisenhower will go down as a "shipbuilder" whose exploits take precedence over the miracles performed by Henry K. Kissner.

In one swoop, Gen. Eisenhower will have virtually doubled the size of the whole Allied merchant marine. The importance of this dramatic easing of the critical shipping problem to all fronts cannot be over estimated.

Shipping has been the really desperate focal point of our whole war effort, by official admission. The terrific distances involved in moving supplies to the southwest Pacific, to the India-Burma theater and to the Middle East have had the war planners grey-headed with worry. Despite magnificent achievements by U. S. shipbuilders, the need for cargo space has always been ahead of available bottoms.

The American landings in north Africa, if expanded to actual control of the south shore of the Mediterranean, mean a whole fleet of "new" vessels created overnight for the further garrisoning and supplying of all world fronts.

The closing of the Mediterranean as a regular military supply route neatly complicated the problem of Allied munitions and troop transport. It required from five to seven times as many ships to carry the same quantity of goods and men around Africa to the Middle East as over the route through the Mediterranean.

It is something over 13,000 miles from England around the Cape of Good Hope to Suez. It is somewhat more than 2,000 miles from England to north Africa. The distance from the U. S. to Casablanca is 3,200 miles.

Control of the south shore of the middle sea would permit use of it again as a supply lane. With Allied air bases scattered along that shore, the convoys could proceed under a canopy of planes with less risk than Russian-bound convoys to Murmansk.

In addition to a saving of an expert-estimated 75 percent in the number of ships needed to service the Allied troop-munitions pool in the Middle East, the requirements of the England-India run would be cut one third.

What this means to the furtherance of Allied offensives is obvious. Scores of scores of freighters would be released for supplementing the present service of supply to Australia, to Russia and to Alaska, all three of which have suffered by reason of ship shortages which did not permit the movement of arms already fashioned and waiting at docksides for transport.

There is evidence that the surprise offensive had this relief of overcrowded Allied shipping as its primary purpose. The strategic impact of the campaign, in its relation to future offensives directed at the Axis southern exposures, cannot be minimized. The immediate advantages in shipping, however, will be the first great gain if Gen. Eisenhower completes his mission.

DRUNKS TRIED OUT LOMPOC, Calif., Nov. 20. (AP)—A Los Angeles magistrate's idea of rehabilitating drunks by putting them to work here mining strategic cells has failed. Mine operators found reported a group of drunks, offered the work as a substitute for jail, "drifted away" in the course of a few days.

Armoraider's Various Uses For Woolen Underwear

Wide World Features

FORT KNOX, Ky., Nov. 20. When winter comes to the armorers' stronghold at Fort Knox, an odd practice is initiated. It hinges around the wearing of long woolen undersuits to which Armoraider's have varying uses. At this time of year, for example, they start clanking in and out of long underwear at bedtime. Some soldiers wear the undersuit during the day, shifting into pajamas before retiring, while others only don the long handles when retiring, as an added insulation against low rising temperatures.

This isn't the only time, however, when use of the undersuits, sometimes called a "John I. Sullivan" because of its resemblance to the early pugilist's tights, is varied. Some soldiers wear only the top piece, other only the bottom. In fact, some of the more rugged fellows stick to summer shorts.

Although the Army gives the soldier an option on wearing woolen undersuits, it wouldn't take much encouragement to get most troops to put on an extra pair when bucking especially around 3 A. M. with frost nipping at pup tents and sending "remotes" through chilled sinners.

Rocket Bomb Has Added Speed And Penetrating Force

Wide World Features
The rocket bomb, writes James L. H. Peck in "Air Trails Pictorial," incorporates the advantages of high level flying—penetrating power for bombs—with the advantage of low flying—accuracy. It does so by means of a steel cylinder in the rear of the bomb a cylinder filled with powder which ignites with pink and blue flame and pushes the bomb through space, giving it added speed and penetrating force.

The Russians introduced the rocket bomb against the Nazis last November, and in the December issue of the U. S. Naval Institute Proceedings appeared a report indicating a rocket bomb could pierce armor twice as thick as could ordinary bombs.

Eye on twenty-five pound rocket bomb can bust a tank, says Peck, if it has enough penetrating power to crash through the armor and explode inside. It can blow a tank crew to bits.

Axis scientists are working to develop their own types of rocket bomb. But thus far, thanks to the Soviets, Hitler's words about "secret weapons" are literally exploding in his face.

Ways Listed To Save And Preserve Coffee

TALLAHASSEE, Nov. 20, (AP)—Keeping the coffee in the refrigerator to preserve its freshness is just one of the tricks Florida housewives should learn before coffee rationing starts Nov. 28, Miss Mary E. Keown, State home demonstration agent with the Agricultural Extension Service emphasized Monday.

Under the rationing plan of a pound every five weeks for each person, Floridians will have to get along with about one-third less coffee than the average used during the last five years, she said.

"But the cut need not be that sharp in its results to us if we use our heads and manage well," Miss Keown declared. She offered the following pointers:

1. Keep your coffee in a tightly covered container.
2. Keep coffee in a refrigerator or some cool place. It deteriorates less rapidly when cool.
3. Keep your coffee pot clean. Wash, scald and air it after each use.
4. Have your coffee ground as fine as possible for the kind of pot you intend to use. Finely ground coffee goes further than coarsely ground coffee. The best grind varies according to whether you brew drip, percolator or plain boiled coffee.
5. Measure coffee accurately—use level and not heaping spoonfuls.
6. Learn to make coffee properly. Boiling drives off the very elements you want and causes that grand coffee aroma to be lost.
7. Serve the coffee as soon as it is made.
8. Make only the exact amount you want to use. Left-over coffee is nearly always wasted, although it can be stored in the refrigerator for use as a flavoring for a cup of warm-over coffee, if you like it that way.

An interlude in the battle between Tim Holt and the Marked Riders gives him the opportunity to dress the wounded Cliff "Ukelele Ike" Edwards while Nell O'Day looks on. In a thrilling scene from RKO Radio's drama of the plains "PIRATES OF THE PRAIRIE" starring Tim Holt and featuring Cliff Edwards, at the RITZ today and Saturday. The charming Nell O'Day supplies the romantic interest.

SERVICE CLUB ACTIVITIES

BY MAYNE MERO HODGKIN
We hope that all of us are aware of the rare privilege that can be ours this Thanksgiving Day. We are about to face one of the few great Thanksgivings in the history of our country. Just to mention three of them would be the First Thanksgiving of course, then the Thanksgiving after the last war and now this approaching one. We have before us an opportunity of giving thanks to our country, for the great victories achieved won by our country together with the United Nations. And for the Great Victory of all victories, the peace that will come to our country when the war is won by our United Nations, which will most certainly be won if all of us are joining our prayers and sending them in a steady faithful flow before the throne of God.

To say "Thank You" is not enough for the blessing we have received. Just to say "thank you" is never enough to do when there are others lagging for our blessings and the comforts which we may afford them. The finest thanks we may offer are those which are silent; offered through service to others.

It is such a joy to hear the conversations of our Sanford citizens in their planning to show their thanks to God and to other mother's sons by entertaining one of the men from our Air Station in their own homes. They don't do this simply because they hope someone will be kind and generous to their loved ones away, sometimes so far away, from home. That is, of course, one of the factors in the case, but they are entertaining them not because they feel they are doing just a little more toward the service of their country, trying in their small way to let these men know that they are aware of their loneliness, aware that they have been uprooted from their homes, families, business and all the substantial things they had built around themselves as a foundation for their future and their reason for their being. This seems to be the spirit that will endure, and a Thanksgiving offering from such as these will not go unappreciated by the Prime Mover of our Universe.

We understand that not more than 200 of the men stationed at our Air Station will be able to go out to private homes for Thanksgiving Dinner. Many folks have already contacted Mrs. E. Newman, Chairman of the Home Hospitality Committee, and asked her cooperation in securing a home for that day. And by the way, they must be invited in "two's," that seems to be the rule as written in American rule we don't know which, but it is the only way it is done. Mrs. Newman has been so busy that she has had to get the information on just how to get what necessary for the day. But the day is coming in the neighborhood of 100,000 men.

vice men in their homes, and for this reason she has not been able as yet to get around to informing all those who wish to know just what the procedure is. But we are sure that if you would call her on the phone she will be glad to give you the information you desire. Only, if you don't wish to be disappointed, make your plans early as a number of men who may accept, as we have said before, is limited. A certain number of the men have to be on that station on duty at all times.

The Home Hospitality Committee is progressing very nicely though it is one of the most difficult to get in a body. The chairman doesn't want to overlook anyone one who wishes to entertain the service men and it is impossible to list all the names of those who have been selected from each church and each of these chairmen select their own committees to assist. This plan is working out beautifully as already the committees are active and some of the churches have had parties and entertainment for the men, either at their own church or in some of the private homes.

We believe you will be interested in knowing the names of these various chairmen of the churches and will proceed to give them to you. We also hope it will not horn out to be like our first attempt to be a Society Editor. It was summer and we proceeded to name those who had gone off on vacations. It turned out that we gave a perfectly eligible bachelor a wife and sent one man off with another's wife and one married gentleman off with his wife to a very alluring beach resort. Anyway we will attempt to give you these names: Mrs. J. B. Root, Congregational; Mrs. C. E. Gormly, Jr., Methodist; Mrs. A. J. Peterson, Baptist; Mrs. June Bonaduly, Catholic; Mrs. Claude Howard, Presbyterian; Mrs. F. S. Lawson, Christian; Mrs. E. L. Cornell, Episcopal; Mrs. O. M. Harrison, Christ Scientist; Mrs. Frances Shames, Jewish Community; Mrs. E. A. Monforton, Full Gospel Tabernacle.

Any of these ladies will be glad to help you with suggestions in the field of the home entertainment you are anxious to offer if you contact them.

We sincerely hope that all who have planned to have a happy Thanksgiving with two of the service men as their guests will have one of the richest and most memorable days of their lives and the presence of the men in uniform will be some way off the road made by the presence of their own family members. A proper and appropriate Thanksgiving is so easy a thing to give and the rewards are so beautifully rich.

Victory In North Africa Will Open Shipping Lanes

BY JOHN GROVER

If the north African campaign is a success, as now seems indicated, Lieut. Gen. Dwight (Ike) Eisenhower will go down as a "shipbuilder" whose exploits take precedence over the missiles performed by Henry K. Eggen.

In one swoop, Gen. Eisenhower will have virtually doubled the size of the whole Allied merchant marine. The importance of this dramatic easing of the critical shipping problem to all fronts cannot be over estimated.

Shipping has been the really desperate focal point of our whole war effort, by official admission. The terrific distances involved in moving supplies to the southwest Pacific, to the India-Burma theater and to the Middle East have had the war planners grey-headed with worry. Despite magnificent achievements by U. S. shipbuilders, the need for cargo space has always been ahead of available bottoms.

The American landings in north Africa, if expanded to actual control of the south shore of the Mediterranean, mean a whole fleet of "new" vessels created overnight for the further garrisoning and supplying of all world fronts.

The closing of the Mediterranean as a regular military supply route vastly complicated the problem of Allied munitions and troop transport. It required from five to seven times as many ships to carry the same quantity of goods and men around Africa to the Middle East as over the route through the Mediterranean.

It is something over 13,000 miles from England around the Cape of Good Hope to Suez. It is somewhat more than 2,000 miles from England to north Africa. The distance from the U. S. to Casablanca is 3,200 miles. Control of the south shore of the middle sea would permit use of it again as a supply lane. With Allied air bases scattered along that shore, the convoys could proceed under a canopy of planes with less risk than Russian-bound convoys to Murmansk now run.

In addition to a saving of an expert-estimated 75 percent in the number of ships needed to service the Allied troop-munitions pool in the Middle East, the requirements of the England-India run would be cut one third.

What this means to the furtherance of Allied offensives is obvious. Scores of scores of freighters would be released for supplying the present service of supplies to Australia, to Russia and to Alaska, all three of which have suffered by reason of ship shortages which did not permit the movement of arms already fashioned and waiting at dockside for transport.

There is evidence that the surprise offensives had this relief of overworked Allied shipping as its primary purpose. The strategic impact of the campaign, in its relation to future offensives directed at the Axis southern exposures, cannot be minimized. The immediate advantages in shipping, however, will be the first great gain if Gen. Eisenhower completes his mission.

Armouraiders Have Various Uses For Woolen Underwear

Wide World Features
FORT KNOS, Ky., Nov. 20. When winter comes to the armoraiders' stronghold at Fort Knox, an odd practice is initiated.

It hinges around the wearing of long, woolen undergarments which armoraiders have varying uses. At this time of year, for example, they start changing in and out of long underwear at bedtime. Some soldiers wear the undersuit during the day, shifting into pajamas before retiring, while others only don the long handles when retiring. As an added insulation against lowering temperatures.

This isn't the only time, however, when use of the undersuit, sometimes called a "John I. Sullivan," because of its resemblance to the early pugilist's tights, is varied. Some soldiers wear only the top piece, other units the bottom. In fact, some of the more rugged fellows stick to summer shorts.

Although the Army gives the soldier an option on wearing woolen undersuits, it wouldn't take much encouragement to get most troops to put on an extra pair when donning especially around 3 A. M. with frost nipping at the tents and sending shivers through the hulled canvas.

Coach Says Team Is In Good Shape To Play Tonight

Following another workout yesterday afternoon on passing and signal drills, Coach McLucas today announced that the Celery Feds were in good shape to invade New Smyrna today and play the Barracudas, as those gridirons are termed. The game will start at 4 o'clock.

Billy Epps, the tow headed cyclone, will now get a good chance to show his means, replacing Bill Fleming at left half who is out of the game with a sprained ankle, as a result of being tackled too hard in the St. Augustine game.

Probable lineup for the Fed according to Coach McLucas will be: Carleton, LE; Elgetery, LT; Frank Johnson, LG; Fox; Burns, RG; Gormley, RT; Deke RE; Daniels, QB; Epps, LI; Wolfer, FB; and Landress, RH.

Gators Practise "Razzle-Dazzle" Plays For Game

GAINESVILLE, Nov. 20. (Special)—Dipper-dipper and razzle-dazzle—now you see it—now you don't.

As apt as such play themselves the University of Florida Gators will this week have to use much of their practice trying to stop the razzle-dazzle by the opposition Georgia Tech, their opponents Saturday in Florida's 1942 football finale, is one of the nation's leaders in wide open play.

This style has been most effective for them. Coach Bill Alexander's team has a perfect record and has met some of the nation's best gridiron machines. A 7-0 Tech victory over Alabama last Saturday was a football highlight. Ranked second only to the University of Georgia nationally, the help to make the Cracker state the 1942 football capital.

Florida's coach, Tom Lieb, has a lot of respect for the Georgia Tech head mentor who returns to active duty with the team after two weeks of rest prescribed by doctors. Back in 1922, Lieb came south with a Notre Dame eleven, a broken leg encased in plaster to watch the "Fighting Irish" beat the Engineers while he sat on the bench.

In 1929, pinch hitting for Knute Rockne at Notre Dame, he brought a squad to Atlanta that left with a hard earned win. Lieb has directed two Florida teams to victory over Tech. In his first season here, the Gators won 10-13, and last year the score was 14-7 in favor of Florida.

Speaking of last Saturday's 12 to 0 loss to the University of Miami, Lieb said, "Jack Harding has a very good team—one that would give any school a good scrap. They made the most of their scoring chances against us and we passed up three opportunities. But our boys came out of the Miami battle in good shape and we should be ready by Saturday to give Tech an entertaining afternoon."

On The Spot BY DILLIS GRAHAM Wide World Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—Army's pass defense against Notre Dame was the finest these eyes have ever seen.

The Cadets were faced by a passer whom many regard as the best in the land. It was Angelo Bertelli, could complete only four of eighteen passes for a miserable total of 22 yards. That Bud, is what I call defense. There are two methods of defense against the aerial game. You can concentrate on rushing the passer or on covering the receivers. Of course, you try a little of both, simultaneously, but you stress one or the other. Most coaches believe the best safeguard is to rush the pants off the passer. It's had to pass accurately when several bull boys are coming at you full force with a firm determination to smack you to earth. A thrower is often pretty fagged out after a period or so of battering about.

Coach Red Blaik of Army elected to take his chances on covering the receivers. It was a smart bet in the end. Bertelli's pass football was the protection Coach Frank Leahy provides for Bertelli. Rushers seldom get to him and it is a rare thing for him to be boyed over after pitching one. Blaik, profiting by the experience of other Irish opponents, decided to let Bertelli take aim—and to steady chaperon the receivers.

Bertelli is a cold fish. He never lets that ball go until he spots a sure receiver. He did a good job of passing. Army's defense really shined had pass he threw. All were down near on the bottom. But... Army's guys are on deck too. They always managed to get there—in time to get the ball out of the receiver's hands.

With 10 seconds left to play, Bertelli had completed only three passes for a total of FIVE yards. That he tossed one over the goal which Army defenders scooped down but—with the luck of the Irish—into the hands of Blaik and for the second touch-

Texas Baylor Has Good Team, Not Liked By Sports Writers

Wide World Features

DALLAS, Nov. 20.—Question: What makes a sports writer use the color of those apples on used to give the teacher with hope of getting better grades hereby?

Answer: Well, there are lots of things but Baylor's football team can make it redder and keep it that way longer than anything else in these parts.

The Bears always have done well. The sports writers, it seems, just refuse to take a lesson.

Year after year, they pick the Bears to finish in the cellar; year after year, Baylor pulls the strings in the Southwest Conference football. Remember that 7-0 tie with Texas last season?

Before the season started, a poll was taken among the sports writers. They were asked to pick the teams as they thought they would finish in the conference race. Baylor was tagged seventh in a field of seven. There were hints that if Baylor won one game this season they would feel like they had had a great season.

No one could figure the Bruins even as strong as last year when they were resplendent by Texas A. and M. 48-0, and won one conference game. That tie with Texas was the only thing that caused anyone to even so much as notice they were in the race.

Well, mates, the Bears are in the fight for the championship. They lost to Texas, but they beat Arkansas, Texas Aggies and C. U. The Bears still must tie M. U. A. Rice in games that may further shakeup the Southwest race. The Bears' defeat by Hardin-Simmons didn't count in the conference competition and neither did the Tulsa game.

It's a team of opportunists. The Bears were called upon to stop Texas A. and M. and Texas Christian 12 times inside the 20-yard line. They failed only once. But that's not the story of Baylor's greatness. Just give them an inch and they'll take the ball game. They play rock-and-roll football and they turn any kind of break into a score.

Little Bill Coleman was the spark that carried the team along after the loss to Hardin-Simmons. He was the guy Texas Christian was watching. Well, Little Bill went out with an injury, and Dick Kitzell took over to run the Frog. ragged.

They call Baylor the boys with the Sunday punch. That's all they need. Just one opening. They'll score then camp down on their one-yard line and hurl insults at you.

There's A Reason Why Best Punters Come From South

By ART EDSON AP Features

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 20.—There's something about the south, son, that makes a fellow want to kick a football out of this world. There never will be a satisfactory answer to the question: what section produces the finest football teams? But there's no doubt but that the south, at least in recent years, has come up with the finest punters.

And down here, where sectional pride biases like a fire detached with gasoline, the fans proclaim it's the south-west that emphasizes the foot in football.

The American football statistical bureau backs up this southern supremacy in punting. This season the southeast kickers are setting the most distances. Last year, it was the southwest, and year before that, the southeast.

But individually, ah, that is where the southwest sparkles. Long, lean Glenn Dobbs, a goal to goal punter, has kicked so well his University of Tulsa is the No. 1 punting team in the nation.

Last year's top punter was Owen Price of Texas Mines. In 1940, it was this Price person again with a 47-yard average. The University of Oklahoma's celebrated Indian, Jack Jacobs, was only a few inches behind.

But here's the test. In the National Football League this fall, where the best in the business operate, Jacobs was the leading punter until he flew away to join the Air Corps. And when he left, Haugh took over first place, and Sam, generally conceded to be the best kicker in pro ball today, is from Texas Christian University.

In there any reason why southwestern kickers should be superior? Coaches at Oklahoma's three major schools—Dewal Luster of the University of Oklahoma, Jim Lookabaugh of Oklahoma A. and M., and Henry Frank of Tulsa—have a variety of answers, including one so novel the typewriter blanches to repeat it.

It could be the wind, they declare. That's right, the wind. It blows almost constantly across these southwest plains, putting a premium on punting. A team with a grade A punter often finds to victory on that quasi-sternal breeze. In the southwest, it pays to have a god kicker. Consequently kicking is stressed.

Other explanations are wild enough to permit lots of ball handling. Warm fingers make for good passing and kicking.

Lookabaugh, the bull of these southwesterners has something to do with it. Most of them are built to the moon. A long legged leg can get a lot of power into a kick.

Frank—Too many coaches think of punting purely as a defensive weapon. These punts of pure defense, it's a waste of considerable time in every practice working on them.

But say way you look at it, these southwesterners are getting a lot of kick into, and out of, their football.

Better breaks in southwestern rivers are being made by engineers to provide more water for the year after.

Wayne Millner Knows Answers To Old Game

NOTRE DAME, Ind. Nov. 20. (AP)—Fellow members of Notre Dame's football coaching staff delight in ribbing Wayne Millner, and coach about the 75-0 victory scored by the Chicago Bears over the Washington Redskins a couple of years ago when Millner was playing left end for the Redskins.

Millner answers all questions with the assertion "I've not heard first. It would have been different—it would have been 75 to 71."

He was a bit better and Coach had wound up the day with 18 completions out of 24 passes the 120 yards. That brought Georgetown to 187 yards.
