Johnson leads U.S. gymnasts

SEOUL, South Korea — Altamonte Springs' Brandy Johnson, at 15½ the second-youngest member of the U.S. gymnastics team, came through with a surprising performance in the team competition. She led all Americans in scoring with 39.225 of a possible 40 points, good enough to leave her tied for ninth in the individual standings with 1987 world champion Aurelia Dobre of Romania. Mills ended 13th, Kelly Garrison-Stevens was 18th and Hope Spivey 24th.

Senator predicts North pardon

WASHINGTON — Sen. George Mitchell, D-Maine, a member of the Iran-Contra panel, says Oliver North probably will never face a jury because President Reagan will pardon his former White House aide to avoid a trial.

George Mitchell

But Mitchell's Republican colleague from Maine, Sen. William Cohen, also a member of the congressional committee that investigated the scandal last year, said he does not detect any administration effort to prevent North's trial, despite the national security concerns arising in the court case against the chief operative in the Iran-Contra affair.

No charges filed in shooting

SANFORD — A Sanford man shot in the chest at Pearlie Mae's Bar at about 11:20 p.m. Saturday is in satisfactory condition and police say he won't cooperate with them.

Police say Luctious Williams, 47 of 1717½ W. 13th St., was shot as he stood behind the bar at the nightclub.

Williams remained hospitalized early Monday and refused to give information regarding the incident to law enforcement officials. The victim has signed a release, meaning charges won't be filed in the case.

The New York Yankees entered Fenway Park Thursday for a four-game set with thoughts of repeating their miracle 1978 comeback. They left having dropped the last three contests to fall to fourth place, 6½ games back.

"We beat the ghosts of 1978," said Red Sox second baseman Marty Barrett, referring to the Yankees' comeback from 13 1-2 games out in July. That surge featured the now infamous "Boston Massacre," a four-game September sweep in which New York outscored Boston 42-9.

No winner; Lotto jackpot jumps to $33 million

TALLAHASSEE — Florida's Lotto jackpot has jumped to $33 million because no one matched the six winning numbers for the second consecutive week. Florida Lottery Secretary Rebecca Paul says.

None of the millions of players who last week matched the six numbers drawn Saturday night — 01, 21, 24, 38, 39, 44 — for the jackpot estimated at $23 million, so the money was added to the next game, which is likely to produce another frenzy of ticket buying, Paul said Sunday.

"Lotto sales have continued to be strong," said

Lottery Secretary Rebecca Paul. "The popularity of the Lotto game has created very large jackpots in Florida."

Total sales for the week were $24.1 million, with $10,839,850 sold Saturday before the drawing, the fourth-highest single-day sales, behind the 14.5 million sold Sept. 3, $11.5 million on Aug. 6 and $10.85 million a week ago.

Although the jackpot went unclaimed, players matching some numbers collected record prizes for the 4½-month old game, including nearly $12,600 for those who missed by one number, said Colleen Mikesk, a spokesman for the Division of the Lottery.

Paul defended the single jackpot for the lottery, saying, "The larger the jackpot the more tickets we sell, and the more tickets we sell, the more money we raise for the Educational Enhancement Trust Fund."

Those players matching five numbers won a record $12,582 each, those matching four of six digits will collect a record $231 each and players matching half the numbers will be paid $8.

Mikesk said the amounts for each runner-up prize is determined by the prize pool, which

Charter hearing Tuesday

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — A charter to give Seminole County residents local say in their government is expected to be placed on the Nov. 8 ballot Tuesday.

Seminole County commissioners will hold a special public hearing at 7 p.m. to place the charter question on the ballot.

The charter, as proposed by the Seminole County Charter Advisory Committee, does not, on the surface, change much in the way of Seminole County government. The county staff has endorsed the charter proposal and county commissioners have stated no opposition to it.

A charter, beneath the surface of words contained in it, inherently gives counties the authority to collect certain revenues from utility franchises. It also requires a city to gain county approval to create special improvement taxing districts. But on the whole, the proposed Seminole County charter doesn't change county government from its present status.

The sheriff and other constitutional officers will still be elected separately, although charters can be changed to allow some elected officers to be appointed by the county commission or chosen in some other manner.

The proposed charter also keeps the current form of five county commissioners, each representing a different district of the county, but elected at large. That provision too can be changed under a charter, to have commissioners elected only by their district constituents, or by changing the number of commissioners.

The proposed charter also steers clear of its possible controversial impact on cities. Many city officials in the county fear the charter will be used by county commissioners to gain more powers over them, but the proposed wording states city ordinances will prevail over county ordinances when conflicts between similar legislations arise.

The conflict wording in the proposed charter is identical to the current state requirement for non-charter counties.

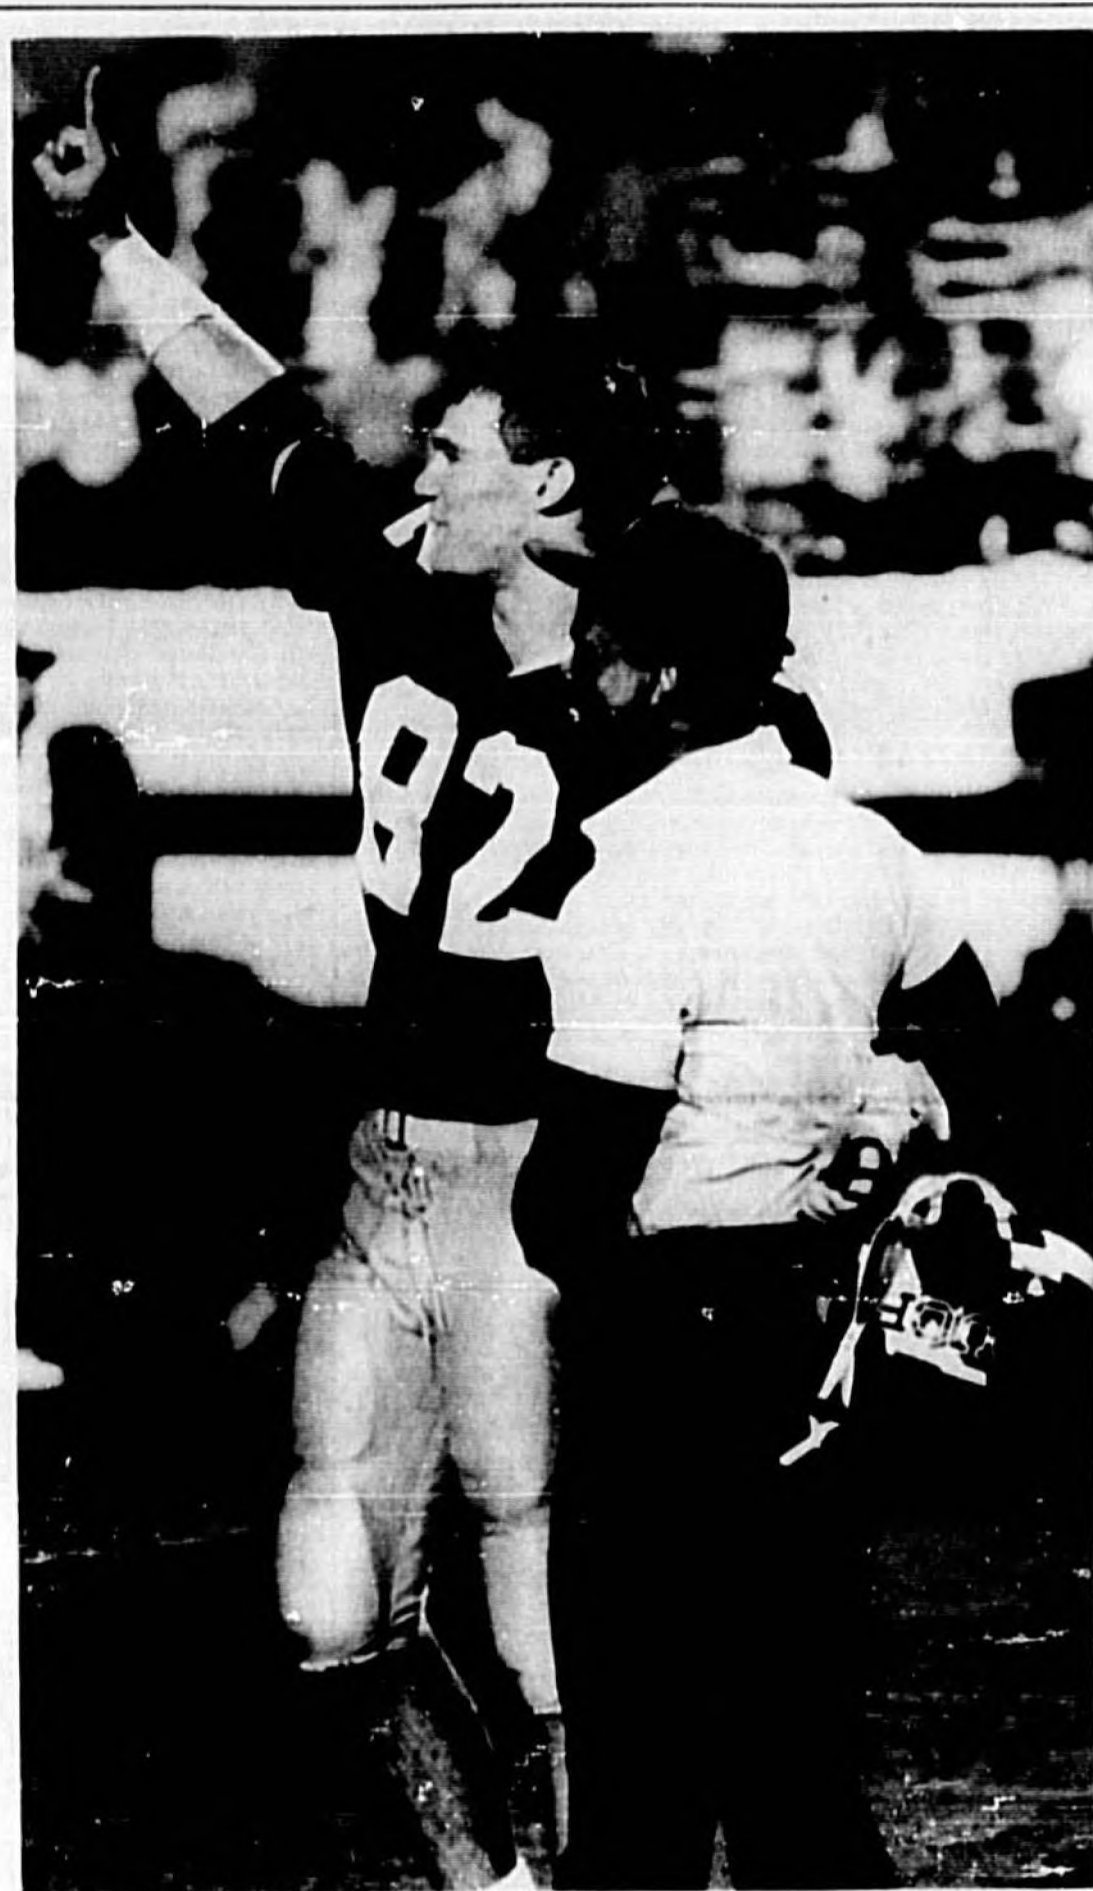

The other functions and responsibilities of the county have also been retained in the proposed charter.

One bonus is that county voters will be granted more powers under the proposed charter. They will have the authority to recall commissioners and pass certain ordinances that don't affect the taxing authority or fundamental operations of the county, through petitions.

Tuesday night's meeting is being questioned by charter critic Bob Webster, a member of the charter advisory committee. Webster has been successful in having the Orange County Charter overturned in the courts because Orange County failed to allow its residents adequate time to review the proposed document before they voted on it.

Webster said because a copy of the Seminole County proposed charter is not in the same file as the ordinance, it cannot be considered Tuesday. The proposed charter is kept in another file in the

Jamaican pastor escapes storm's fury

Green in Florida when Gilbert struck

By SANDRA BOUCHANINE
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — The Rev. Dr. Wesley G. Green of Jamaica was visiting Florida when Hurricane Gilbert smashed through his homeland.

The Rev. Green is a Baptist minister who is pastor of three churches, with a combined congregation of 800 people, located seven miles east of Montego Bay in the West Indies country.

Green was visiting the Lakeview Baptist Church in Lake Mary when Hurricane Gilbert swept across his country, leaving in its wake devastation and approximately 500,000 homeless people. Green said he was as surprised as the rest of the 2.5 million people who populate the nation.

"When I was over here I heard the hurricane was going to hit Jamaica. I couldn't believe it. I kept saying, 'Jamaica? Jamaica?'" he said.

Green is president of the Bethlephel Evangelistic Association Inc., a local association formed to assist Christian churches in Jamaica. He is also president of the Minister's Fraternal of Montego Bay, St. James, which is an association of 50 interdenominational pastors who meet once a month to discuss common problems, such as the hurricane.

"It's the most damaging hurricane in this century. Our last bad hurricane was in 1951," he said.

He said many people have been left homeless.

"The roofs of houses have been blown off, the roofs of churches have been blown off, my car is damaged, my house is damaged," he said almost in disbelief.

Immediately after the hurricane started, Green got to work with a relief fund. With the support of the Lakeview Baptist Church, he has organized a drive to collect food and monetary contributions. Other ministers and friends in the Sanford

Christian community have banded together to form a project committee.

Funds collected through the confiscated property of arrested drug dealers are being used to pay for the program. The state allows lawmen to use their share of such funds from the "Law Enforcement Trust Fund" to finance their fights against narcotics use and sales.

Gang fight injures 20

MIAMI — Two teenagers were shot and at least 20 people were injured as two youth gangs began fighting at an outdoor concert, and chaos erupted as a crowd of 5,000 people tried to flee the melee.

Police said about 50 people were arrested on various charges, including disorderly conduct, battery on an officer, and holding concealed weapons.

The concert Sunday was held at the 275-acre Tropical Park to celebrate Central America's independence from Spain.

"It was two rival gangs that were fighting for no reason other than it was rival gangs," said Keith Green, a Metro-Dade County police gang investigator. "It wasn't really planned. They just started to square off, and it was just chaos after that."

The violence began after the first band left the stage Sunday about 3 p.m. A gunshot, apparently indiscriminate, hit a 17-year-old boy in the shoulder, police said.

Bottles flew and young men carrying sticks began moving through the crowds. They provoked a dozen fights. Spectators screamed and began running for the parking lot.

Police ordered the park evacuated at 3:30 p.m. About 100 officers and state troopers were deployed to clear the scene.

Hospitals grapple with liability law

TAMPA — Hospitals caring for potentially dangerous mentally ill patients are chaining some patients into their beds, citing the insurance liability under a law known as the Baker Act.

When mental health and hospital officials in March agreed to temporarily house indigent patients in emergency rooms until they could get a bed, the liability question was not considered.

"Our assumption is that the hospitals are responsible while they (Baker Act patients) are in their care," said Ron Mihalick, executive director of MHC Inc., a private firm that coordinates tax-supported Baker Act care. "I think we assumed that they would be given the same care... just like any other patient."

But Baker Act patients are not the same as other patients. They are involuntarily committed for up to three days because they might be dangerous to themselves or others.

Because physicians at one hospital fear they will be legally responsible if one is injured in the emergency room while awaiting a bed, they keep every Baker Act patient strapped to his bed, one hospital administrator said.

"We don't feel like we have a choice," said Charles Scott, operations chief at St. Joseph's Hospital. "What we're doing is keeping these patients in a maintenance mode until they can get the help they need. The fact of the matter is that as long as a person is in our care... we are liable."

Noriega receives U.S. invitation to talk

MIAMI — The Reagan administration has approached Panamanian Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega to resume bilateral talks that collapsed earlier this year, a development he calls a positive step. The Miami Herald said Sunday.

Noriega also told the Herald he is willing to open talks with ousted President Eric Devalle, "without preconditions," to help solve the country's worsening crisis.

Noriega told the newspaper he received two messages from Washington suggesting a resumption of talks suspended in May after U.S. officials offered to drop two drug indictments if he stepped down from power.

The invitations are a change in policy for the Reagan administration, which recognizes Devalle, who is believed hiding in Panama, as the legitimate head of state.

Federal grand juries in Miami and Tampa indicted Noriega, the chief of Panama's armed forces and the de facto ruler, last February on drug trafficking charges. The indictments ignited Panama's worst political crisis in recent history.

U.S. officials confirmed recent meetings with members of Noriega's ruling coalition, but said the contacts are part of regular discussions with Panamanian political leaders, the newspaper reported.

Road prisons value debated

JACKSONVILLE — Department of Corrections chief Richard Dugger says he does not plan to phase out Florida's costly road prisons, a newspaper reported Sunday.

The seven road prisons are the most expensive element in Florida's correctional system, the Jacksonville Times-Union/Journal reported. The average cost per day per inmate at a road prison is $39.64, compared with $32.95 at high security prisons and $30.54 for large prisons with lower security levels.

It costs DOC $27.20 per day to house an inmate at a work camp, compared with $22.85 to keep a prisoner in a work-release center, department spokesman Robert MacMaster said.

Those figures prompted House Corrections, Probation and Parole Committee Chairman Rep. Everett Kelly, D-Tavares, to suggest road prisons be converted to work camps.

Lawmakers join to save hurricane flights

By STEVE QUIMANN
United Press International

MIAMI — A legislative campaign to save the Air Force hurricane hunter flights has gained support from coastal state lawmakers, citing the urgency of tracking dangerous storms such as Hurricane Gilbert.

Rep. Tom Lewis, R-Fla., said 24 House members from six Gulf and Atlantic coast states, sponsored a resolution last week to maintain the $6 million spent to fly 1,000 hours of flights into the storms.

The Air Force has suggested it will drop the appropriation from its 1989-90 fiscal year budget, which takes effect Oct. 1, 1989, as part of a budget-cutting move. The Air Force projects savings of $25 million, but only a portion of the plane's operations are devoted to storm flights.

The decision will not involve National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration research flights using WP-3D Orion aircraft, which normally fly at lower altitudes. The Air Force planes check conditions at 10,000 feet.

Officers believe weather satellites in nearly stationary orbit provide sufficient information to monitor the progress of the huge storms that threaten the Gulf and Atlantic coasts for six months each year.

"The Air Force mistakenly believes that satellites alone can predict hurricane movement," Lewis said. "That is just not true."

Bob Sheets, director of the National Hurricane Center in Miami, said the satellites provide only one piece of the information required to accurately predict the size, power and direction of tropical hurricanes.

"It's a good first guess, a good tool," Sheets said. "It's the heart of our operation."

The sophisticated aircraft measure barometric pressure, windspeeds, temperatures, and other indicators, which are radioed to the hurricane center where forecasters track the storm's path. A $500 sensor is dropped from the plane during its transit of the storm to obtain additional information.

Information from the airplane on wind speed, and especially the barometric pressure reading, is crucial to predicting the path of the storm. Satellites are unable to penetrate the cloud cover to obtain those details.

"Satellites tell us something is developing," Sheets said. "Then we take our position from the satellite and send the airplane to get us the entire windflow."

Before Gilbert withered into a messy rain system in Texas, Lewis said he convinced Air Force Secretary Edward Aldredge Jr. to review plans to scrap the hurricane flights, a first signal the military is reconsidering its plan.

Lewis said: "If the Air Force secretary is so sure he's right, maybe we ought to move his office to the Gulf coast. Until then, he better keep those planes flying."

Farewell flight delayed

United Press International

WEST PALM BEACH — A mechanical problem foiled the takeoff of a hulking Constellation airplane for a second time Sunday, setting back plans to fly the plane on its last journey to Maine.

Ray Porter, the Texas engineer called in to repair the huge plane with the distinctive triple tail-fin, had delayed the takeoff Saturday to completed equipment checks on the huge plane.

Officials at Palm Beach International Airport said the six-hour flight to Maine was again delayed Sunday, apparently by mechanical problems.

"When someone gets one that they say will never fly again, they call me," Porter said. "This one was on the ground for 12 years, but it's going to Maine."

The huge Constellation L-1649-A, boasting the most complex piston engines ever on an aircraft, operated as the workhorse for commercial aviation before the jet era. TWA and Eastern both used the aircraft extensively.

Production ended in the late 1950s when jet planes with lighter bodies became more economical to operate.

Pre-paid college tuition program to begin

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — Parents hoping to beat inflation will be able to pay for their children's college education years in advance under a state program beginning this week.

With the cost of a higher education rising twice as fast as inflation, parents are learning they can no longer finance their children's education by setting aside a few dollars a month.

"It's very difficult for most families to be able to afford all the college education costs for their children," said James Freeman, a financial planner in West Palm Beach. "There are ways a determined person can do it without help, but the state program is quite attractive."

Gov. Bob Martinez will buy the first two pre-paid plans Thursday from the Florida Prepaid College Program in the capital for his twin granddaughters, Emily and Lydia Keen of Tampa.

The cost of room, board, fees and tuition at a state school is expected to average $8,700 a year by the end of the century. A single year at a private school will probably cost about $38,000.

But under the Florida program, a parent or grandparent will be able to guarantee four years' tuition at a state school, beginning in 2000, for an advance payment of $3,852. An additional $4,622 will guarantee four years in a university dormitory.

Parents can also stretch their payments out, paying $81 a month for five years or $41 every month until the child enters college.

The state will invest that money in a trust fund that will draw enough interest to cover inflation. Because the program is run by state government, the interest drawn will not be taxed.

The program must repay a $600,000 start-up loan from the Legislature, and must be self-supporting after this year.

The program doesn't begin until Thursday, but director Bill

Montjoy says he is already receiving about 150 inquiries a day from interested parents. Montjoy says he expects 200,000 people to sign up before the application period ends Jan. 20.

The program is being run through Barnett Banks of Florida, where applications can be processed with a $32 application fee, officials said.

The tuition savings is good only at nine Florida universities and 28 community colleges. Lawmakers designed the program that way intentionally, hoping to keep more of Florida's best high school students in the state.

Two shot, one cut in brawl

SANFORD — A Seminole County sheriff's deputy reports a street party on Collidge Avenue, rural Sanford, involving about 700 people, turned violent about midnight Saturday.

Two men were treated at Central Florida Regional Hospital for minor gunshot wounds and one for a cut on his forehead. All were released after treatment.

After the shootings, the deputy reported leaving the scene said his car was hit by bottles.

Sheriff's deputies have the name of a possible gunman in the incident, but no arrest has been reported.

Shot were Roger Livingston, 18, of 3220 Hugley St., Sanford, and Jamie Brown, 20, of 111 McKay Blvd., Sanford. A bullet entered Livingston's back and came out under his arm. Brown suffered a flesh wound to his arm. Arthur Hersey, 20, of 1215 Magnolia Ave., Sanford was cut on the forehead when hit with an object, a sheriff's report said.

The deputy reported that when he arrived at the scene several groups, each containing five to 10 people, were fighting with each other.

Man cited with punching his wife

CHULUOTA — A man who allegedly punched his wife in the mouth during an argument, as the victim sat in her car outside a friend's house in Chuluota, has been arrested on a count of aggravated battery.

John Bradford Peterson, 30, of 630 Old Chuluota Blvd., Chuluota, was arrested at home at 9:56 p.m. Sunday by Seminole County sheriff's deputies.

Peterson is accused of standing outside the car of Denise Peterson, and punching her in the mouth through an open window. The incident occurred at 280 Langford Road, Chuluota, where the Petersons had been arguing while at a friend's house, a sheriff's report said. Sheriff's deputies report recovering some of the stolen goods from the living room of the suspects' home. Bond for each suspect is $1,000.

Grand jury resumes PTL testimony

United Press International

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — A federal grand jury called John Wesley Fletcher, the preacher who introduced Jim Bakker to Jessica Hahn, to testify today in its investigation of the PTL ministry.

Fletcher, a self-styled evangelist twice defrocked by the Assemblies of God church, arrived in Charlotte Sunday night and said he was not certain why he had been called to testify for a second time.

"Apparently they feel like I can put together some of the pieces for them," he said. "I don't know what the pieces are."

Waiting for the water

A telephone answering machine is blamed for starting a fire which caused an estimated $35,000 to a home at 131 Bunker Lane, near Mayfair Golf Course, Friday Here, Seminole County firemen wait for the water to begin surging through their fire hose as flames lick around the door. A neighbor called the fire alarm in about 10:45 a.m. and firemen found the fire raging through the one-story home. The fire was brought under control by 11:18 a.m. Fire investigators said the occupant had been refinishing cabinets, using acetone and plastic finishing material, then left home for about 45 minutes. He turned off all appliances, except his telephone. When the phone rang, a spark from the answering machine is believed to have ignited the fumes, fire officials said.

Restoration of citizenship asked

United Press International

MOSCOW (UPI) — A leading Soviet critic said that Alexander Solzhenitsyn, the exiled dissident author of "The Gulag Archipelago," should have his Soviet citizenship returned in a drive to restore the writer's rank among Russian readers as a major literary figure.

"I think Solzhenitsyn is a very great writer and consider it a misfortune for our literature that the young generation was deprived of the opportunity to read his books," Natalya Ivanova, a noted literary critic, said Sunday.

"I hope that this erroneous situation will soon be corrected," Ivanova wrote in the Moskovsky Komsomolets youth newspaper.

Since Solzhenitsyn's exile from the Soviet Union in 1974 when he was stripped of Soviet citizenship, the controversial Nobel Prize-winning author has lived mainly in Cavendish, Vt.

Ivanova, who called Solzhenitsyn "a very great writer," also said the now banned works of Solzhenitsyn, an outspoken Russian nationalist once hailed as a "new Tolstoy," should be published in his homeland.

Ivanova said she was adding her voice to that of another literary figure, Elena Chukovskaya, in a drive to restore Solzhenitsyn to his proper rank as a Soviet citizen and writer.

"I support the suggestion of Elena Chukovskaya to return the citizenship to Solzhenitsyn," Ivanova wrote. "We should separate the writer's fate from his work."

Husband accused of beating wife

CASSELBERRY — A 22-year-old Casselberry man who allegedly battered his wife when they began arguing in their car near the public library in Casselberry, was arrested on counts of battery-spouse abuse and disorderly conduct Saturday night.

Casselberry police report Tammy Lynn Alece, 20, of 740 Sandpiper Drive, Casselberry, got out of the car she was in when her husband allegedly began attacking her during an argument.

As she fled on foot toward home, her husband, Brian Paul Alece, 22, of the same address, allegedly followed her and pulled her hair and pushed her. Mrs. Alece eluded her husband and went home.

Alece, who had walked away from his locked car, returned to find police at the scene. He reportedly said someone else had attacked his wife and he wanted to pick up his car.

Mrs. Alece was brought to the scene and reportedly identified her husband as her attacker.

Diplomats file grievance

United Press International

WASHINGTON — An effort by the State Department to straighten out its chaotic expense account system has encountered trouble with the organization that represents diplomats in their dealings with the department.

The American Foreign Service Association has filed an institutional grievance to prevent the State Department from mentioning in the employees' efficiency report that they are delinquent in returning travel advances.

"Often times an unresolved travel advance is not the fault of the traveler, but of the processing office," said Perry Shankle, president of AFSA.

"It shouldn't be fought out in the efficiency reports, which are meant to evaluate a foreign service officer's abilities and potential," he said. "It's just not the right place for it, especially when the delinquency might be the fault of a cumbersome process."

The dispute is to be mediated by a three-member grievance panel.

The new State Department regulation grew out of a report by the General Accounting Office, the Congressional watchdog agency, which said nearly 20,000 individual travel advance accounts were delinquent.

In one case, a State Department employee had been advanced $34,000 that has not been accounted for and has been written off.

The GAO report said $660,000 was written off in 1986 as uncollectable, but that figure is only an estimate — perhaps low, perhaps high — since the State Department had admittedly lost control of its own bookkeeping procedure.

Computer safeguards, such as those that matched employees to their social security number, were dropped by the State Department because they made the accounting procedure too cumbersome.

The GAO investigation showed that the understaffed State Department travel accounts office invented fictitious travelers — "Ludwig Van Beethoven" was a frequent flier — in order to balance the books.

The report pointed up a problem in the State Department accounting system at a time when the head of a parallel office in the Agency of International Development, William Burns, is awaiting sentencing after pleading guilty to embezzling more than $1.2 million.

Burns said he took the money from an AID account with unexpended travel funds he controlled. The GAO report said the State Department had a system which — like Burns' office — did not always require a separate authorizing signature.

At the time the GAO report was written, more than $20 million was outstanding in the State Department travel advances. Of that, more than $8 million was outstanding for more than four months.

The GAO report said the State Department system, at the very least, provided for interest-free loans for its employees, and at worst, was a form of compensation for employees or consultants who simply kept the money.

Treat surplus as savings

This year's presidential election campaign offers the candidates special opportunities for productive Social Security proposals. "Productive" now means pointing a way to manage and protect Social Security's swelling cash reserve.

The first challenge for George Bush and Mike Dukakis is to help the public know how rich the retirement system is becoming — and how that is a problem as well as a blessing. The blessing is that for decades ahead, Social Security payroll-tax collections will far exceed Social Security pension payments. Thus instead of surviving hand-to-mouth as earlier in the 1980s, the system will accumulate a huge reserve. By the 2020s the nest egg will amount to trillions of dollars, set aside in advance for pensions.

Perversely, that hoard is a problem. One aspect is that in federal accounting, Social Security's annual excess of receipts over spending is treated as surplus, not as money pledged for future pensions. Thus in broad-brush reporting it cosmetically cuts the deficits rung up by other spending. This fiscal year, for instance, a $25 billion increase in the Social Security reserve will make the deficit look about the same as in 1987. It will really be much larger.

Such fiscal camouflage encourages dangerous complacency about the budget. And danger is compounded by the requirement that Social Security's cash be loaned to the U.S. Treasury. In normal times, that makes sense for safety. But when the Treasury's huge deficits for current spending can be covered by huge borrowing from the pension fund's nest egg, the requirement should be re-examined. Poaching the nest egg to cover deficits means that when the reserve is needed for pensions it will have to be re-created by raising new taxes. Worse, such dissipation of Social Security funds cuts off opportunities to treat them as savings that the nation urgently needs for investment.

As the swelling cash reserve is unusual, so is the chance to use and protect it by investment for future economic strength instead of to use it up to conceal present weakness. Thoughtful economists are starting to suggest how the challenge might be met. For example, one proposal is that after 1990 individuals be allowed to shift part of their payroll tax payments to strictly regulated individual retirement accounts — and in return agree to smaller benefits from Social Security. There are other ideas and they deserve wide debate and understanding. A good way to get both is for Bush and Dukakis to debate and understand such proposals themselves.

"And ANOTHER thing — smoking is fast becoming socially unacceptable."

WILLIAM A. RUSHER

What did you do during the war, Duke?

Ever since our liberal media spent a whole week trashing Dan Quayle for having joined the National Guard during the Vietnam War, I have been fascinated by the iron reticence of Dukakis' headquarters on the subject of the Massachusetts Miracle's own military record.

You can't call it a "war record," because he doesn't have one. Instead, Dukakis chose — I repeat, chose — to spend the Korean War years studying at Swarthmore College (as was his legal right), while other Americans his age, who didn't have the smarts or maybe the money to get into college, or who just chose to serve, were fighting and in some cases dying in Korea.

Then, as recently reported in this column, when peace had returned, Dukakis shrewdly got his military obligation out of the way by "letting himself be drafted" for two peacetime years (rather than enlisting for the usual four).

He spent 16 of those 24 months as an enlisted man in peacetime Korea, rising to the rank of specialist third class. According to his campaign staff, he was assigned to "a support unit for the U.N. command delegation" that conducted the interminable peace negotiations with the North Koreans at Panmunjom on the DMZ.

Exactly what young Dukakis did for the U.N. command delegation is something I have been unable to wrench from his staff. Did he fill the water pitchers on our side of the negotiating table? Did he empty the ashtrays? Did he type? Or did he simply peel potatoes, like many another GI on KP duty?

I was still musing idly on this question the other day when there came to hand a copy of the March 1988 issue of Boston Magazine, containing an article entitled "The Duke Does Dixie." The author, Ken Engle, was described by the magazine as "a free-lance writer who lives in Atlanta," and his piece was a mildly critical analysis of how Dukakis was doing (or rather, as Engle saw it, not doing) in the South during the primary campaign.

Did he simply peel potatoes, like many another GI on KP duty?

What caught my eye, though, was a short paragraph in which Engle was describing

Dukakis' visit to a Veterans Administration hospital in Atlanta last November. "In a brief warm-up speech," Engle reported, "Dukakis recalled his own years in the Army: 'I spent 18 (sic) months sitting in a rice paddy in Korea praying I'd get back in one piece.'"

Now that must have gone over pretty well with the hospitalized veterans in Atlanta, but it clearly presents problems for people like you and me, who know the truth. At a minimum Dukakis' quoted statement is seriously misleading; one would be justified in calling it in effect a brazen lie.

Maybe the "support units" for the U.N. command delegation in South Korea in the peacetime years of the mid-1950s were housed in rice paddies (though I doubt it). But, whether Dukakis was or not, what put him in fear of life and limb? Was he afraid the general's limousine might run him down en route to the peace talks? Or did he fear that he would cut himself peeling potatoes and bleed to death?

At this point, Dukakis' headquarters in Boston has had my questions on these subjects, and my unlisted phone number, for more than two days now, but the phone hasn't rung.

Candidates turning off voters

WASHINGTON—"Big enough to lead the world?" That is the question asked on the cover of The Economist, the British weekly whose insights into American politics are often shrewder than any minted on these shores. The unstated subjects of its question are, of course, George Bush and Michael Dukakis and the implicit, provisional answer is "No, not if you judge them by what they have said so far."

That is the same answer four Washington Post colleagues and I heard last week from voters in swing precincts in five key states in our first round of door-knocking since the conventions. The public mood is so skeptical that it is safe to predict that unless one or both of these men elevate their rhetoric and captivate their audiences, voter turnout may again decline in this election.

The irony is that many of those turned-off voters can articulate the stakes in the election more clearly than the candidates are willing to do. There's a widespread apprehension, even among those who count Ronald Reagan's presidency as an overall success, that the United States faces difficult challenges—and maybe hard times—ahead.

After seven fat years, many voters expect some lean. More than that, they tell you that increasing foreign competition, rising public debt and the wave of mergers and takeovers have sapped their confidence that the big shots running the economy really know what they're doing.

Though the candidates can't seem to fathom it, the voters' concerns are not selfish. In the middle-class neighborhoods from Long Beach, Calif., to Parma, Ohio, to Englewood Cliffs, N.J., we visited, the real worry is not how the voters will pay their own bills, but how well cared for their parents will be as the illnesses of age afflict them, how well trained and educated their children will be, given the problems in schools, and whether their grandchildren will be able to "move up" a ladder of opportunity that seems to have lost its bottom rungs.

"We're all pretty well set," said Dale Harting, a 52-year-old St. Louis plumber, "but the kids coming along behind us are not going to be able to afford the same standard of living. We're a consumer nation sucking stuff out of the rest of the world and eventually we're not going to have the money to buy this stuff."

This sense of tough challenges—and tough times—ahead makes these voters long for a President who has the judgment to see what needs to be done and the force of character to persuade the nation to do it. As The Economist editorial puts it, "The political skill required of an American President... is to choose a few not-quite-possible goals, and then to use his personality and the authority of his office to lead his countrymen and the world to them."

At this point, neither Bush nor Dukakis is displaying those qualities. Instead, they are turning off the voters. "The candidates should give us firm facts and not so much back-stabbing," said Donna Freiner, a St. Louis medical receptionist and housewife. "They need to do a better job telling us who they are."

All the praise the rivals drew for their acceptance speeches in Atlanta and New Orleans has done little to improve the stereotypes voters carry in their minds. Bush is still weak—a wimp, as many say—and Dukakis is still vague and emotionless.

Indeed the only significant change in what we heard was a change for the worse: Republicans have succeeded in planting doubts about Dukakis' values and beliefs, by hammering on the "Massachusetts liberal" image.

To a remarkable degree, these men are still strangers, mysterious figures to many voters. Bush has been around for years, they know, but only for a few weeks has he attempted to step out of Reagan's shadow. His first big decision-picking Dan Quayle as his running mate mystified almost everyone we interviewed and dismayed quite a few. As for Dukakis, he comes across to them as a stern, straitlaced fellow who popped up in Ted Kennedy and Tip O'Neill's backyard and somehow worked his way into the presidential race.

The single biggest reason these candidates seem amorphous and unimpressive is their reluctance to deal head-on with what the voters recognize as clearly The Economist editors to be the greatest challenge awaiting the next President: the budget deficit. Voters are not dumb. They recognize the truth of what The Economist says: "Ronald Reagan made America stand tall partly because he placed it on a mountain of debt. Sooner or later, mountains have avalanches."

So long as the candidates evade that reality, they will continue to invite cynicism. Greg Atkinson, a St. Louis tax lawyer, voiced the common complaint: "They keep telling you what they're going to do, but they don't tell you how they're going to pay for it."

These men are still strangers, mysterious figures to many voters.

Constitution Day thoughts

September 17 was Constitution Day. On that date in 1787 a Constitution was signed by convention delegates and submitted for approval to the thirteen original states. In the decade since the American colonies became free, they discovered that INDEPENDENCE WAS NOT ENOUGH!

Independence was not enough for America to become a "United" nation, developing into one of the greatest and strongest countries in the world, it simply set the stage for a forum where destiny placed the future of America. New "Americans" debated and deliberated on how best to avoid the abuses of the European political systems, and the conflicts between church and state, an yet assure for themselves rights and privileges previously denied. From these the Constitution and Bill Rights were created.

Constitution Day is an opportune time to refresh and re-focus our thinking on the documents in which our freedoms and privileges are made secure. Independence, without control and guidance, was not enough. It could lead to anarchy and chaos. An American Constitution and Bill of Rights, however, becoming the "effective law of the land," laid firm legal foundations to strengthen and preserve the rights and freedoms we cherish today.

Don't dump your pats in parks

I have lived near Lake Jesup Park for almost 10 years, and in that time I couldn't tell you how many dogs and cats have been left on their own by irresponsible people.

Some are kittens, most however, are adult dogs that have become pregnant or are just not cute anymore. So they are left to roam the streets, get into garbage cans trying to find something to eat, and to rely on their own natural instincts.

Some people may think that a park is a good place to dump an animal because people around the area will feel sorry for it and give it a home; however, most of the people who live around this area already have their own pets who are taken care of and they just cannot give another animal a home. So these animals end up dying of starvation, or being hit by a car as was in the case today, not being killed but having to be put to sleep because its injuries were too severe. This dog I am referring to was a Chow that was dumped at the lake last week. (In case the owner really cares.)

If someone is as heartless to hurt an animal in this manner, what would they do to a human being?

Please stop this cruelty.

Tired of 'Last Temptation'

I think most rational people are tired of listening to the mundane hullabaloo concerning the motion picture "The Last Temptation of Christ." I am convinced that if Jesus Christ were alive today, he would be drawn to tears of sorrow over such trivial pursuit. We have evolved a world where millions die of hunger wide communities that we are rapidly destroying the atmosphere and land environment are ignored; where millions of our fellow living creatures are slaughtered each day for eating and to satisfy our vanity for apparel; where millions of people die each year from diseases related to meat and chemical consumption; where 100 million sentient creatures are tortured and killed each year in the name of medical science; where food and other processing plants use billions of gallons of water each day for dumping grease, carcasses, waste, and toxics back into our limited water supplies, where developers continue to build excessively — destroying animal habitats, wet and marsh lands in the process.

If Christ ever returns to Earth, he will surely cringe at the terrible mess we have created. If God provides him with computer files on the current status of Earth, Christ will surely be tempted to erase all existing data files and restart Genesis anew. Maybe all this rain really is an omen!

Market moderate, prices dip

United Press International

NEW YORK — Prices opened lower today in moderate trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which rose 29.34 last week, was down 11.02 to 2087.13 shortly after the market opened.

Declines led advances 508-266 among the 1,205 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape. Early turnover amounted to about 7,880,000 shares.

The stock market staged a healthy advance last week, boosted by a surprisingly favorable trade report that for one day — Wednesday — allowed the Dow to recapture the 2100 level for the first time since Aug. 8.

After modest gains on Monday and Tuesday in anticipation of the July merchandise trade report, the market closed sharply higher Wednesday.

The Dow jumped 17.60 following a government report showing the trade deficit narrowed to $9.5 billion in July, down from a revised $13.2 billion in June, and far better than market expectations.

The only down day of the week was Thursday when the Dow gave back 8.36.

Japan to import U.S. TV sets

United Press International

TOKYO — Toshiba Corp. says it will market in Japan beginning Oct. 10 46-inch projection television sets produced at the Tennessee plant of its U.S. subsidiary Toshiba America, Inc., making it the first Japanese company to import U.S. made projection TVs.

The Japanese electronics firm said Sunday 500 sets of the 46VPI model have been shipped from the plant for sales in Japan at a price of $48,000 yen ($4,985) per unit.

The same model was introduced on the U.S. market in August, the company said.

It said the company plans to procure $465 million worth of products made in the United States in fiscal 1988, ending next March 31, up from $330 million last year.

The Tennessee plant was established in 1978 to manufacture color television sets. It was expanded in 1981 to produce microwave ovens. Its current production capacity is 800,000 color TV sets and 400,000 microwave ovens.

Burma in turmoil after military coup, 165 feared dead in fighting

United Press International

RANGOON, Burma — Soldiers opened fire today on demonstrators defying a protest ban by the new coup-installed government, killing two people in front of the U.S. Embassy, a diplomat said.

At least three other people died in Rangoon, and up to 165 were killed in fierce, all-night clashes on the outskirts of the capital, according to unconfirmed reports.

Protesters prepared to fight back. Some were sighted filling bottles with gasoline to make Molotov cocktails while others armed themselves with swords, slingshots firing sharpened bicycle spokes and pitchforks. At least one was seen carrying a rifle.

Heavy gunfire, including possible artillery shelling, erupted in several parts of the city within hours of the announcement Sunday that a 17-person junta of generals led by hard-line Saw Maung had dissolved the single-party government of President Maung Maung and banned public gatherings.

Saw Maung and other military leaders had provided the muscle that kept the month-old civilian government of Maung Maung in power.

Military announcements issued after the coup indicated the Southeast Asia country's leadership still rejects a key opposition demand that an interim government be named to oversee Burma's first multiparty elections since 1962.

Burmese army soldiers opened fire today on demonstrators defying a protest ban by the new coup-installed government, witnesses and official media said. A U.S. Embassy official who claimed to have been a witness said troops shot dead two demonstrators in front of the American diplomatic facility after youths taunted soldiers during a protest near the mission.

The official, who requested anonymity, said the soldiers, on the roof of a nearby bank, fired into a crowd gathered at the embassy in downtown Rangoon. He said the shots wounded several others, who were able to flee.

Demonstrators have rallied at the embassy during the past two months of violent uprising in recognition of U.S. government statements supporting the popular movement for democracy and because of their belief that Burmese soldiers would not open fire under the eyes of American envoys.

Burmese sources said up to 165 people were killed in fierce fighting through the night in Okkalapa district, an outlying working class area where protesters seized and burned three police stations last month. They said one army truck was sighted picking up about 60 bodies.

The accounts from Okkalapa could not be confirmed.

Officials at Rangoon General Hospital said two youths were killed outside the medical facility early today and pointed to bloodstains on the ground. Two more people were reported killed in suburban tea shop that was raked by fire from soldiers passing in a car.

Troops sealed off the hospital and a Buddhist monastery believed to be harboring armed forces personnel who have deserted their ranks and joined the opposition forces.

Fighting was also reported at Victoria Point on the southernmost tip of Burma, a Thai border official said.

Li Sanit Komolwanich said 105 Burmese students fled the fighting at Victoria Point, also known as Kawthawung, and reported that soldiers fired on protesters, killing or seriously wounding four people.

Baptist Church at 700 Elm Street, Sanford recently Rucker will appeal to his parishioners for financial help. Rucker has personally delivered letters to other pastors in the Sanford area.

"It's really pitiful. Women who are pregnant are delivering their babies and there are no facilities," said a sympathetic Rucker.

Green is mainly concerned with the lack of food. The Jamaican people were surprised by the storm and did not stock provisions or take precautions against it.

Green hopes to collect donations of non-perishable items such as rice, flour, canned meats and fish, and cooking oil. They can be turned it at any church or the items can be delivered to collection points at the Lakeview Baptist Church, 126 W. Lakeview Ave., Lake Mary, 321-0210, or at First Shiloh Missionary Baptist Church, 700 Elm Ave., 322-5489. Arrangements can be made to pick up contributions by calling either of the two churches.

Rucker suggested bottled water may be needed since contaminated water is causing children to die from dysentery.

Any businesses or industries that would like to get involved and donate needed materials can contact either of the two churches.

"So far, people have been responding. We already have money and we already have food," Green said.

Green noted that the things he is collecting are not going to warehouses in Kingston or Montego Bay. The items will be picked up directly from the airline and will be distributed to the churches. All people in need, not only church members, can pick up items. Green says he is dealing mainly with the rural area of Montego Bay.

Green will take back as many things with him as he can when he leaves Tuesday morning for Jamaica.

Gilbert cleanup nets more bodies

United Press International

CIUDAD VICTORIA, Mexico — Rescue workers found eight more bodies while searching for some 200 people reported missing in Monterrey as Hurricane Gilbert dwindled to a tropical depression and the U.S. Coast Guard helped evacuate dozens of people isolated south of the Texas border by flooding.

The searchers discovered the bodies in or along the waters of the Santa Catarina Sunday and took them to the morgue of the Civil Hospital, a hospital spokesman said.

The unofficial report of the eight dead pushed the death toll in Mexico past 100. Both police and the Red Cross refused to confirm further reports of death.

But with outlying areas cut off from communications and many people still reported missing in Monterrey, the toll could rise. Four buses filled with some 200 people were swept away Saturday — the single most deadly blow of Gilbert.

"Bodies of flood victims are coming in here all the time, but I am not authorized to give out the figure," said a Red Cross spokesman, who refused to give his name. "The total number of confirmed dead will rise today and tonight, though."

The remnants of Gilbert sped quickly through Texas Sunday, triggering moderate rains and no flooding, but nonetheless killed one woman in the state, spawned tornadoes from the Rio Grande to the Dallas-Fort Worth area and wrecked hundreds of houses and apartments.

quori, Altamonte Springs Police Chief. "We will buy posters and bumper stickers using the 'Twist and Shout Drugs are Out' theme." There are plans for a billboard with the same message for State Road 436.

The program has three phases, with the first designed for second through fifth grade elementary school children, who hopefully have had no contact with narcotics. Liquori said.

The objective is to train the children to reject drugs, using the remote control police car "MONTE," a film entitled, "How do You Tell?" an animated Disney feature, and coloring books, enforcing the message.

"Say no to drugs." The use of alcohol and cigarettes will be covered in addition to narcotics.

The second phase of the program is designed for students from the sixth through 12th grades and will be presented in the schools. Former substance abusers from the STRAIGHT and The Grove counseling centers will tell firsthand of the devastating effect drugs had on their lives and how they recovered. "The Drug Knot," another Disney film, which is a hard-hitting, emotional look at drug use, peer pressure and communication with parents, will also be shown.

Penalties on conviction for drug use and possession will be outlined, Liquori said.

STRAIGHT and The Grove graduates will also participate in the third phase of the program, directed to young adults and parents. The intent is to open lines of communication between the youngsters and their parents, so they may better understand each other's problems. A film will also be shown to this group, and Liquori will speak. This program will be available to civic groups and community organizations.

Such a presentation, scheduled for 7 p.m. Sept. 28, at Capistrano Condominiums, 200 Maitland Ave., will kick off the third phase, police spokesman Jeff Hawkins said. The first phase is already in effect at Altamonte Elementary School.

accounts for 50 percent of total sales, with 13 percent shared by the second-place winners, 19 percent by third place players and 18 percent by fourth-place finishers. The remainder of the pool goes to the grand prize.

The current jackpot was set at $7 million Sept. 4, the day after Sheelah Ryan of Winter Springs hit the prize for $55.2 million, and climbed to $8 million when a flurry of ticket buying swelled the prize pool.

The drawing Sept. 10 produced no winner, so the prize jumped to an estimated $20 million, then to an estimated $23 million amid busy ticket sales.

Billie Rozansky, director of official record-keeping, said only one other person than Webster has viewed the charter ordinance file and did not question the missing document. She said a copy of the proposed charter is available to the public in the records office, but in a separate file.

McMillan ordered a copy of the proposed charter placed in the file Friday.

Cardinals rally past Bucs, 30-24

United Press International

TAMPA — In the late stages of the fourth quarter at muggy Tampa Stadium, Neil Lomax was watching. Coach Gene Stallings was sweating and the Phoenix Cardinals were reeling.

It had all the nasty elements of an 0-3 start until a reserve quarterback and a backup tight end exchanged a grimace and a smile.

Besieged by an injury to Lomax and enough mistakes to fill a reel of "Football Follies," the Cardinals rallied to a 30-24 victory against the Tampa Bay Buccaneers Sunday on Cliff Stoudt's 42-yard touchdown pass to Jay Novacek with 3:14 remaining.

With Lomax sidelined in the second half by a hip injury, the Buccaneers came back from a 20-3 halftime deficit to grab a 24-23 advantage on a bizarre 47-yard scoring run by rookie Lara Tate. Stoudt then directed a 65-yard TD drive in six plays. Novacek, who caught five passes for 102 yards, exploited a misguided zone and Stoudt led him perfectly down the right hash mark for the winning score.

"It was a zone defense and three people were trying to cover four of us," said Novacek.

Falcons 34, 49ers 17

At San Francisco, Robert Moore returned his second interception of the game 47 yards for a touchdown and Gerald Riggs rushed for 115 yards and scored one touchdown to lead the Falcons over their NFC West rivals. The loss was San Franciaco's first in three starts.

San Francisco's Joe Montana completed 32 of 48 attempts for 333 yards and two touchdowns, but was intercepted three times for the first time since last year's season-opening loss to Pittsburgh. He was also sacked three times as Atlanta improved to 1-2.

Vikings 31, Bears 7

Tommy Kramer threw for 258 yards and three touchdowns to lead the Vikings, who had lost eight of the previous nine meetings with Chicago. The Bears turned over the ball five times — three interceptions and two fumbles — after committing just one turnover in their first two games.

Saints 22, Lions 14

At Pontiac, Mich., Dalton Hilliard ran 3 yards for a touchdown to cap a second-half comeback that lifted the Saints. The Saints improved to 2-1 with their second straight victory, while Detroit's second consecutive loss dropped the Lions to 1-2.

Redskins 17, Eagles 10

At Washington, Timmy Smith ran for 107 yards, including a 19-yard touchdown, and rookie Jamie Morris added a 27-yard touchdown run against the NFL's top defense against the rush. The Redskins, playing without Pro Bowl defensive end

Gerald Riggs had a reason to smile Sunday as he ran for 115 yards and one touchdown in Atlanta's 34-17 rout of the San Francisco 49ers.

Charles Mann, registered six sacks of Philadelphia's Randall Cunningham.

Rams 22, Raiders 17

At Los Angeles, linebacker Kevin Greene snapped a 10-10 tie with a third-quarter safety and the Rams sacked Steve Beuerlein nine times. In defeating their crosstown rival for the second time in six meetings, the Rams improved to 3-0. The teams had not played since 1985.

Giants 12, Cowboys 10

At Irving, Texas, Lionel

Manuel caught a 9-yard touchdown pass and Steve Pelluer threw two key interceptions in the fourth quarter to help the Giants. On the opening kickoff Dallas' Darryl Clack fumbled, retreated into the end zone and was tackled by the Giants' Mark Collins for a safety.

In the fourth quarter, replay official Armen Terzian issued a statement that the play should have gone as a touchback and the Cowboys should have retained possession at their 20-yard line.

Miami nips Pack for first victory

United Press International

MIAMI — The Miami Dolphins offense played well in the first half of Sunday's game against the Green Bay Packers, but disappeared after intermission.

The defense gave up 14 points in the first half but dug in in the third and fourth quarters.

And the special teams won the game, 24-17 over Green Bay.

The Dolphins built leads of 17-0 and 24-7, capitalizing for two touchdowns on field position provided by the punt return team.

In the first five minutes of the game, cornerback William Judson blocked a punt by Don Bracken, giving the offense the ball on the Green Bay 18. Four plays later Lorenzo Hampton wheeled into the end zone from two yards out.

Chargers 17, Seahawks 6

Keith Browner, a veteran defensive end converted to linebacker this season, grabbed a deflected pass from Dave Krieg on Seattle's first possession and scored a 55-yard touchdown that gave San Diego a 7-0 lead and the Chargers never looked back. Gary Anderson scored a touchdown with 4:05 to play and ran for 120 yards on 19 carries for the day.

Jets 45, Oilers 3

At East Rutherford, N.J., Ken O'Brien passed for 266 yards and three touchdowns, including two of Wesley Walker's three scoring receptions, pacing the Jets to their largest margin of victory in franchise history. O'Brien completed 17 of 26 passes and was not intercepted as the Jets, generally expected to finish last in the AFC East, improved to 2-1.

Bengals 17, Steelers 12

At Pittsburgh, Boomer Esiason completed 15 of 27 passes for 221 yards and two touchdowns to spark the Bengals, off to their best start in 13 years at 3-0. Esiason delivered scoring passes of 13 yards to running back Stanley Wilson and 65 yards to Eddie Brown to help Cincinnati to its best start since opening 1975 at 6-0.

Bills 16, Patriots 14

At Foxboro, Mass., Scott Norwood kicked a 41-yard field goal with 11 seconds left to help the Bills end an 11-game losing streak against the Patriots. Norwood converted three field goals in the game and has made eight of nine this season to help Buffalo begin 3-0 for the first time since 1980 when the Bills opened 5-0.

Chiefs 20, Broncos 13

At Kansas City, Mo., Steve Delberg, named the starter earlier in the week, threw for 259 yards and two touchdowns to fuel the Chiefs. Denver's John Elway continued to suffer problems against Kansas City. He was intercepted twice by Pro Bowl free safety Deron Cherry and has been picked off 18 times in nine games against the Chiefs.

the tie when it scored on a 61-yard touchdown pass from Godsey to split end Kenny Eddenfeldt with 1:12 remaining in the first half to make it 12-6 Troy State.

But the Knights special teams came through again, as Parnell McCall blocked Wilson's extra point try.

Less than a minute later, the Trojans had the ball again, and had a great chance to break the game wide open, but on a first down at the Knights' 28, strong safety Eric Buckley, who led the Knights defense with 12 tackles and 2 key interceptions, made the first interception at the UCF five and returned it back to the Knights 22 with 33 seconds left and the Knights trailed only by six, 12-6, at the half.

After an emotional halftime speech by McDowell, the Knights came out fired up, but the Trojans responded by taking the opening kickoff and returning it 37 yards.

Nine plays later, the Trojans scored on a 1-yard run by Tony Young at the 11:36 mark to make it 18-6. Troy gambled on the 2-point conversion, but Young's run failed, and that was the point where the momentum started to swing toward UCF.

Knights quarterback Shane Willis (18-34-1 204 yards), felt that "the offense was trying to make the big play, and we felt we were ready to explode."

Sean Beckton celebrates after throwing a 21-yard touchdown pass to fellow wide receiver Arnell Spencer in the third quarter Saturday night vs. Troy State.

They did indeed, as two of the three members of the "Bomb Squad", wide receivers Arnell Spencer and Shawn Beckton, made the two biggest plays of the season for the Knights.

Starting at their own 15 at the 7:38 mark, two runs by Giaccone and Perry Balasis netted 12 yards.

Then at their 27, Willis hit Spencer for a 55 yarder to the Trojans 13. Three plays later on a third and 18 at the Troy State 21, Beckton took a pitch from Willis, and threw an option pass to Spencer for the touchdown to close the gap to 18-13 with 4:51 remaining in the third quarter.

Then the defense fired up and stopped Troy at its own nine, and the Knights got the ball at Troy's 43 following a punt. UCF scored 14 seconds later on a 1-yard run by Gil Barnes (his fourth TD of '88), to take the lead for good at 19-18.

Then, with 7:12 left in the game, Troy State in which Maddox later admitted was "the worst call of my coaching career," went for a fake punt run on a fourth-and-three at their own 27, and punter Glenn Klava was tackled by the Knights Wyatt Bogan for no gain.

Two plays later, on a third-and-nine, Willis hit tight end John "Ozzy" Osborne for 18 yards to the Trojans' eight. On the next play, Giaccone (13-39) scored and the Knights took a 26-18 lead with 5:41 left.

Troy, however had one last chance to win as it has the ball on the UCF eight with a first-and-goal with more than three minutes remaining. But the Knights defense came through one last time when Buckley made his second interception of the night in the end zone.

Seven plays later the Knights ran out the clock.

'Canes cling to No. 1

United Press International

Miracle comebacks are becoming a way of life for the Miami Hurricanes.

The 'Canes' 31-30 win at Michigan Saturday featured a furious Hurricane rally in which Miami stormed back from a 30-14 deficit with 7:16 remaining. Freshman walk-on Carlos Huerta capped the victory drive with a 29-yard field goal with 43 seconds to go as Miami improved to 2-0 on the season and ran its road winning streak to 20 straight.

Last year, the Hurricanes rallied from a 19-3 deficit in Tallahassee to defeat Florida State 26-25.

Meanwhile Saturday, in Clemson's Death Valley, FSU Coach Bobby Bowden's Seminoles rallied to defeat the Tigers 24-21. The key play was a fake punt by the Seminoles that Leroy Butler ran 78 yards to the Clemson 1-yard line. Richie Andrews kicked the winning field goal from 19 yards out with 32 seconds left.

In other games involving Florida schools, Florida completed its run at the NCAA Division I-AA championship by routing Indiana State 58-0. Howard beat Bethune-Cookman 41-26. Central Florida rallied from a 12-point deficit to beat Troy State 26-18 and Howard beat Bethune-Cookman 41-26.

At Ann Arbor, Mich., it appeared that the Wolverines again would knock the Hurricanes out of their No. 1 spot. In 1984, the Hurricanes came into Michigan Stadium ranked No. 1, but lost 22-14 in the only road defeat Coach Jimmy Johnson has suffered at Miami.

Junior quarterback Steve Walsh, architect of last year's comeback against FSU, also masterminded Saturday's rally. He completed 24 of 45 passes for 335 yards and three touchdowns.

It was his scoring passes of seven yards to tight end Rob Chudzinski and 48 yards to Cleveland Gary that brought Miami to within 30-28 with nearly three minutes left in the game. The Hurricanes recovered an onside kick after Gary's score and drove deep into Michigan territory to set up Huerta's game winner.

"Everybody was calm and business-like," Walsh said when describing the mood on the Miami bench when Michigan appeared to have the game in hand. "I told them 'We've been in this situation before, and you all know what I mean.' We were in the same situation at FSU last year."

Miami also scored on a 49-yard pass from Walsh to Gary and Gary's one-yard run.

Defenses flex their muscles

By MARK BLYTHE
Herald sports writer

Seminole County football defensive teams flexed their muscles this weekend and were a big part in every victory. Their was a shutout and two games where teams were held to just one touchdown.

● In Sanford Seminole High School's defense came up with the strongest effort of the week as it blanked Edgewater's Eagles, 3-0. In a tough class 4A-7 victory Seminole's offense, which came up with some big plays the week before, could only come up with a 34-yard field goal off the foot of Chuck Roll.

The Noles, 2-0 and 1-0 in district action, held the Eagles to just 92 total yards of offense and were led by Isiah Williams, Fred Bass, Julius Bennett, Lester Bobb, Kyle Faulkner and Kevin Nathan along with Bernard Eaddy and Darius Grayson.

"It was a great all-around effort by the defense," defensive coordinator Bill Zeiss said. "But there were a few things we did that we can't do against Lake Mary or we'll get burned by (Carlos) Hartsfield."

● At Lake Howell High School, the defense unit, which has proven to be one of the toughest in the area, came through again against a tough DeLand team. The Silver Hawks, 2-0 and 1-0 in district 5A-4 play, will now have a week off before returning to action against Lyman.

George Wisneski led the defense with a big hit and a fumble recovery that led to a touchdown in the opening half for Lake Howell. Greg Astle also had a strong game for Howell. Only one week early, the Hawks held Apopka to just three points in a 14-3 victory.

● Oviedo came up with its second strong defensive effort led by All-State candidate Willie Pauldo who continually stopped the Dr. Phillips running attack all night. Stan Merrell also tackled Dr. Phillips quarterback Dave Kirtley in the endzone for a safety while Chris Tabscott added strength to the defensive effort.

The Lions, 2-0, will hope for the offense can get on track this week and the defense can continue to play well against DeLand on the road. Oviedo has been a surprise this year and the coaching staff is extremely pleased with the performances so far.

● At Lake Brantley and Lake Mary it was the Patriots taking advantage of the Rams weaker defense to win a 24-21 shootout in a game that went back and forth all night.

Lake Brantley, 1-1 and 1-0 in district 5A-4, will return to action against Boone and will look to gain its second victory of the season. The Rams, 0-2 and 0-1 in the district, will look to get in the win column this week against a tough Seminole team.

This week will see another hot county rivalry in the Seminole and Lake Mary battle. Seminole has a young team and should be tested as the Rams are always tough and at their best when the chips are down.

The Noles, though, are riding high and are full of confidence while Lake Mary may be down on themselves after going 0-2 for the first time in three years.

Lyman will return to action this week after taking a week off. The Greyhounds will go after their second victory after beating Lake Mary 21-7, behind the running of Corey Bowers.

Tampa sweeps Brantley

By CHRIS FISTER
Herald sports editor

Lake Brantley's Lady Patriots, in the process of building a program they hope will be one of the state's best, got a look at an established state power Friday night when they traveled to Tampa Prep.

Tampa Prep has won eight Class A state titles and finished second on four occasions. The Lady Patriots, second in the state in Class 4A a year ago, had their moments, but ended up dropping a 15-8, 15-13 decision.

"We came out and took the lead in both games, but then we just went flat," Lake Brantley coach Wolfgang Halbig said. "It was a good learning experience, though. Tampa Prep has a great tradition and they really do a good job."

The Lady Patriots will have another tough road trip today when they go to Merritt Island for a tri-match against Titusville High and host Merritt Island.

The Lake Brantley junior varsity kept its record unbeaten Friday with a 15-7, 15-5 victory over Tampa Prep. Christie Gordon, Michelle Davis, Sarah Keith and Janet Russell led the way for the JV Lady Patriots.

Scabies sores keep returning

DEAR DR. GOTT: My sister is 87 and lives in a retirement home. She has had scabies for a year. She takes oral medicine and the nurse applies ointment but the sores persist. What else can we do?

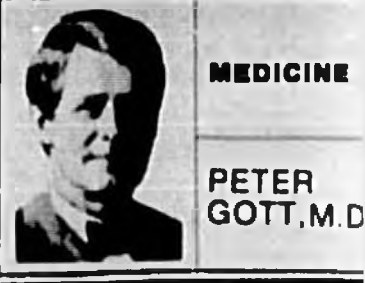

DEAR READER: Scabies, a skin condition marked by intense itching, is caused by the itch mite, a parasite that burrows into the skin and deposits her eggs. It is highly contagious but easily treated with Kwell lotion. Your sister may be experiencing repeated infections, courtesy of the other nursing-home residents or workers. I believe that she will continue to have symptoms until the environmental sources of the mites are eradicated. Speak to her doctor about this problem because he or she will have to deal with more than your sister to prevent recurrences. For more information that may help, I'm sending you a copy of my Health Report "What You Should Know About Nursing Homes." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1 and their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My son stepped on a nail and developed scedosporium inflatum. He's had two hospitalizations for intravenous antibiotics, three operations on the foot, and it still persists. He's only 7, and is losing bone. What is our next step?

DEAR READER: Scedosporium is now known as monosporium, a type of fungus that can cause deep tissue infection. Your son appears to have contracted a rare infectious disease of the foot, called maduramycosis or madura foot. This serious chronic condition is caused by more than 20 different micro-organisms, of which monosporium is one.

The problem with madura foot is that the fungus infection (and secondary bacterial contamination)

(tion) are difficult to treat. The inflammation penetrates deeply, antibiotics may give only temporary relief, and surgical drainage may be necessary. In advanced cases, amputation may be the only method of stopping the infection.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Defense is probably the hardest part of the game to master because there are so many different ways of taking tricks, and so many of a defender's decisions are based upon the ability to imagine what cards and distribution declarer is concealing. Still, deals frequently occur in which you can picture an easy way to defeat the contract even before the dummy comes down. Today's deal is an example.

West bravely made a one-spade overall. The double by North was a special call announcing support for the other suits. When East jump-raised spades, South bid clubs more from an unwillingness to let the opponents play spades than anything else. But North had the values to go on to game.

To West it hardly seemed like a routine hand, in which the defenders would take whatever tricks were coming to them in spades and then wait to see what developed in the other suits. Instead, it might be easy to grab the first three tricks. So out came the ace of diamonds. Then West led the deuce of spades to his partner's ace. If there was any doubt that the diamond ace was a singleton, the suit-preference lead of the spade two rightly convinced East that the contract could be quickly set with a diamond back. And that's what he returned.

James Jacoby's books "Jacoby on Bridge" and "Jacoby on Card Games" (written with his father, the late Oswald Jacoby) are now available at bookstores. Both are published by Pharos Books.

HOROSCOPE

What the day will bring...

By Bernice Bede Osol

YOUR BIRTHDAY

September 20, 1988

In the year ahead you may make a major change that will take you into areas you've never previously explored. They will offer you far more opportunities than you've found in your old hunting grounds.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Try not to get involved in social situations today where you know beforehand that it won't be something you'll enjoy. Once you're dragged in, it will be difficult to escape. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If you're planning a get-together today, be sure the people you invite are compatible with one another. The wrong mix could put a damper on the affair.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) People with whom you'll be involved today might not live up to your expectations. Don't make matters worse by openly criticizing their shortcomings.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You might be a little too careless with your possessions or resources today for your own good. If you don't respect what you have, don't respect others to.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Usually you're pretty good at keeping objectives in focus, but today your vision could be fuzzy and you're not apt to achieve what you set out to do.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If you make a mistake today, rectify it immediately instead of trying to cover it up. What you attempt to hide will be discovered later and it could be embarrassing.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If you require financial advice today, go to an expert instead of a friend. The counsel your pal may offer could cause additional complications.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you do not find others cooperative today, the problem could be with you. Don't expect people to do your bidding if you only focus on your priorities and ignore theirs.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Today, guard against inclinations to read more into what companions say than is intended. You're a bit too sensitive and your feelings could be hurt needlessly.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Someone who loves you could be deeply upset today if you're overly attentive to someone else. Be careful where you cast your roving glances.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Do not make commitments impulsively today in order to placate someone who is applying pressure. If there is something you would rather not do, be firm and say so.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're not apt to have too much success today in getting others to do things for you that you should be doing yourself. Don't annoy them with your requests.

Freddie (standing) looks over a radar console.

JACKSONVILLE — Ensign Erik T. Freddie, son of Mr. and Mrs. C.P. Freddie of Sanford, has been selected to appear on the U.S. Navy's national bookcover, found in all high schools and recruiting stations in the country.

The promotional bookcover shows Freddie overseeing a ship's radar console as one illustration of technological advances in the military branch.

Freddie is a 1983 graduate of Seminole High School and an 1986 ROTC graduate of Florida A&M University in Tallahassee.

Currently, he is serving as a combat systems watch officer aboard the USS Antrium FFG-20 on a cruise of Canada and the Great Lakes. He is stationed at Mayport Naval Station in Jacksonville.

Readers butt heads over cat care

DEAR ABBY: I couldn't believe your telling "C.B. in Phoenix" to have Brandy and Spice, his two cats, put to sleep just because they were old and sick.

If they were too much trouble, surely he could find another home for them. Lots of people love animals enough to care for them even when they are old and sick.

ADVICE

If you approve of "putting cats to sleep," how about people? When they get old and sick, maybe you would like to solve the problem by putting them to sleep, too.

I thought you were an animal lover, Abby. I was very disappointed in your answer.

OHIO FARM GIRL

DEAR FARM GIRL: Sorry I disappointed you. Please read on.

DEAR ABBY: I'd like to respond to "C.B. in Phoenix," who faced the dilemma about what to do with Brandy and Spice, the two cats who became old and sick. Find a new home for them? Or put them to sleep?

First, cats have a strong sense of place. Having lived for so long with you, they would very probably be disoriented and unhappy if they were moved into a strange environment at their age.

Second, if you, who loves them, can't cope with their illness, what makes you think someone else can? If someone does impulsively take them, then finds the task of caring for them impossible—what then? (I have learned from sad experience that there are a lot of people who simply put old cats out, even though the cats have lost what ability they had to fend for themselves.)

The thought of "putting them to sleep" may be painful, but having done it once, I would not hesitate to do it again. Our big cat, Riley, was not only old, he was dying of leukemia. We cared for him lovingly, but when his pain became too intense, we took him to the vet who had cared for him for years. I held Riley in my arms so he would not be upset or frightened (never mind how hard I was crying at the time) while the doctor gently administered the fatal injection.

Riley laid his little head against my hand, and slowly stopped breathing. There was not a twitch or quiver. He was neither hurt nor frightened.

Of course, we missed our old friend for a long time, but I felt good about having spared him a painful, lingering death. I hope when my time comes, it will be as easy.

NORA IN LITTLE ROCK

DEAR ABBY: All right, here is my pet peeve. And I am sure others will say it is also theirs.

Why don't people who are sick stay home instead of going to work and giving everybody else their cold, their flu, or whatever they have that "seems to be going around"?

A co-worker dragged herself to work when she was feeling lousy with some undisclosed sickness, and you guess it—she gave whatever it was she had to the rest of us. Please print this, Abby, but please don't use my name. I need this job, and she is my superior.

OUT FOR A WEEK

DEAR OUT: Thanks for a helpful letter. This also applies to parents who send their children to school with colds, coughs and various other minor ailments. Folks, give your co-workers and children a break. If you (or they) are not feeling well—there's no place like home.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I received a graduation announcement from "Jennifer," the daughter of a man who works for the same company my husband works for. They live in another state, we have never met the girl, and my husband and her father are not close friends. We saw no reason to send this girl a gift, but we did send a very nice card.

Today, we received an acknowledgment from Jennifer. Inside the envelope was the card we had sent her, folded to fit the small envelope. Her message was "Thank you so much for the nice card for my graduation. I thought maybe you would like to use the card again. (Signed) Jennifer."

Abby, I never knew it was mandatory to send a gift when one receives an announcement. We send graduation gifts to all our relatives and friends we know well. Were we wrong to send only a card? I am now thinking that perhaps she could have used a book on etiquette. Please comment.

BEWILDERED IN NEWARK

DEAR BEWILDERED: An announcement is not a bill. Under the circumstances, you were under no obligation to send a gift. I doubt that an etiquette book would help. What Jennifer could really use is a good spanking.

(Problems? Write to Dear Abby. For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dear Abby, P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. All correspondence is confidential.)

Two die, five injured in gang violence

United Press International

LOS ANGELES — Two people died and five others were wounded in a burst of gang-related shootings that erupted despite a weekend crackdown that netted more than 700 arrests in the latest of a series of anti-gang police sweeps.

In the most recent slaying, a man was killed and another was wounded in a drive-by shooting reported about 2 a.m. Sunday outside a bullet-scarred apartment complex in Sun Valley, a suburban section of Los Angeles, detective Mike Coffey said. Jose Maldonado, 22, also known as Juan Romero, and Mario Figueroa, 24, were talking with friends when they were hit by gunfire from a passing car, Coffey said. Maldonado was killed and Figueroa was taken to Northridge Hospital Medical Center, where he was in stable condition, Sgt. Michael McKean said.

Boston cracks down on drinking

UPI report

BOSTON — City officials enacting unprecedented new regulations against drinking by college students said they will force administrators to take more responsibility for protecting students and city residents.

alcohol "not intended for the personal use of the person ordering the beverages." As part of its enforcement, the board intends to regularly check delivery records of liquor stores and revoke licenses of those that fail to comply.

Schools also could lose their licenses to operate their dormitories if dorm supervisors fail to turn away students carrying more alcohol than they can expect to drink themselves, and require the city's colleges and liquor stores to enforce such limits.

The new rules, announced Sunday, will prohibit college students from bringing more alcohol into their dormitories than they can expect to drink themselves, and require the city's colleges and liquor stores to enforce such limits.

The rules require liquor store owners to keep written records of names and addresses of customers receiving a liquor delivery, the signature of the person accepting the delivery and the date and time of the delivery.
