United States Authorities Deny Report

Iran Claims Downing American Helicopter

By Jack Reed

MANAMA, Bahrain (UPI) — Iran claimed today it shot down a U.S. helicopter and damaged an American vessel immediately after U.S. helicopters destroyed three Iranian speedboats in the Persian Gulf but the United States firmly denied the claim.

After an overnight silence on Thursday's confrontation in the north-central gulf, Iran acknowledged that three of its speedboats were sunk by the U.S. military. It denied a Pentagon account the Iranians had fired first.

a U.S. observation helicopter on routine night patrol Thursday in international air space. Two Army MH-6 commando helicopters in the vicinity raced to the scene and fired 2.75-inch rockets on the Iranian vessels. Three were set ablaze and sunk while at least one other sped away, the Pentagon said. Iran said two boats escaped.

The Pentagon reported no American casualties and no damage to the U.S. helicopters involved in the clash, which erupted about 15 miles southwest of Iran's Farsi Island.

It was the first time Iranian forces had opened fire on U.S. forces and came less than three weeks after Iran vowed to avenge the Sept. 21 U.S. helicopter attack on the Iran Ajr, a vessel spotted planting mines about 50 miles off the coast of Bahrain.

A spokesman for the Iranian Revolutionary

Guard described Thursday's U.S. attack as "savagely" and the official Islamic Republic News Agency warned Americans against becoming embroiled in "an unwanted war."

IRNA quoted a military source as saying the Iranians were on a routine patrol mission when they were attacked. Iran said several Iranians were killed or wounded and six "taken hostage" by the United States. The Pentagon reported it picked up six Iranians, and two later died from wounds suffered in the clash.

The source said Iran's Muslim combatants

Desecrated Body Laid To Rest Again

Benjamin Adams was laid to rest in Shiloh Cemetery Thursday—for the second time in six years.

Adams' grave was broken into Wednesday afternoon, the vault door pried and the casket opened. His wife, Rozella Fields, went to visit the grave

Wednesday afternoon and found four white males and a woman kneeling over the remains of Adams, which had been removed from the casket.

Three of the grave-robbers fled in a car and two ran. One, a 14-year-old boy, was caught by police and later released.

Burglar Hits Police Station

Officers 'Taking It Personally'

By Susan Loden

The Sanford police station has been hit by a burglar and Police Chief Steve Harriett said today police are taking the intrusion into a police evidence room personally, although police have nabbed a suspect in the case.

It was almost an inside job, Harriett said, because the man arrested in the case at about 4 p.m. Thursday, LeRoy Hubert King, 25, of Sanford, worked at the police station as a trusty prisoner from the Seminole County jail a few years ago.

King, Harriett said, knew the layout of the police station and also knew that it would be manned by a skeleton crew of two when the burglary occurred around 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

Harriett said that since the burglary security at the police station has been tightened, but he would not elaborate on what changes have been made. He said that over one year ago the type of access trusty prisoners have to the police station was severely curtailed, but those changes came after King had already worked there with more open access.

Harriett did not release news of the burglary until after King's arrest Thursday, because he said he did not want to jeopardize the intensive police investigation into the case.

Police, he said, now know what it's like to be the victim of a crime. About $311 in cash, two wallets and an undetermined amount of jewelry, mostly costume jewelry, which were found property, not evidence in criminal cases, were taken. After King's arrest some of the jewelry and some evidence bags were recovered by police, but the cash was not found, Harriett said.

Packets containing evidence in the evidence room were apparently not tampered with by the burglar. They remained sealed and the police officers who sealed these containers of evidence will swear they had not been disturbed or opened. So the burglary, Harriett said, should have no impact on other criminal cases. The burglar, Harriett said, jimmied the lock on an outside door to a training room located in the "remote" north end of the station. Once the burglar was inside, a video projector was placed on a table top and the burglar climbed onto the projector to reach the ceiling and remove ceiling tiles.

3-Year-Old Undergoes Brain Surgery

Crash Victim Still In Semi-Coma

By Jane Casselberry

Three-year-old Cynthia Leigh "Cindy" Williams of DeBary remains in a semi-coma today following brain surgery recently at Halifax Medical Center in Daytona Beach, where she was flown by helicopter following a two-car accident in which she received a fractured skull, a fractured left leg and ankle cuts.

Hospital spokesman Grant Knowlton said the child's condition remains serious and she is in the intensive care unit.

The accident has put a financial strain on the family's resources, but friends are rallying to their aid through a fund-raising effort.

Cindy and her mother, 25-year-old Barbara Ann Williams of 221 Lakewood Drive, DeBary, who moved to DeBary from Sanford less than a year ago, were injured in an accident that occurred about 11:45 a.m.

Saturday at Delespine and Estrella roads.

Cynthia Palmer of Sanford, Mrs. Williams' sister, said Mrs. Williams was unfamiliar with the street and did not see a stop sign, which was obscured by bushes, and drove into the path of another vehicle. The other car struck the rear of the Plymouth hatchback where Cindy was sleeping and spun the vehicle around into a telephone pole.

Mrs. Palmer said a garage-sale ceiling fan, which was also in the back of the car, struck the child's head, fracturing her skull and leaving a portion of the brain exposed. A hole in the skull remains after the surgery and doctors say she will have to wear a protective helmet until she is about 8 or 10 years old when a steel plate can be inserted, her aunt said.

Mrs. Williams received a cut above her eyebrow which required 16 stitches. The driver of the other vehicle was not injured. The Williams car was a total loss in the accident.

Palmer said Mrs. Williams, pinned in the vehicle, called out to her daughter, but there was no answer. She crawled out through the window and unlocked the hatchback to get her daughter. In shock, she picked up her injured child in her arms and pleaded with residents, who had come out of their homes, to call for help. Paramedics and emergency medical technicians from the DeBary Fire Department were the first to arrive at the scene and gave first aid to the victims, according to DeBary Firefighter Charles Douglas.

Douglas said the accident victims were taken by Evac ambulance to a local shopping center to meet the Air-1 helicopter. The ambulance crew wanted to take the mother to Central Florida Regional Hospital in Sanford, but she wanted to go with her child. She was not allowed on the helicopter, because there wasn't enough room.

Mrs. Williams' sister Patty Lewis happened to be working in the center at the time and came out to see what was going on. About the time she was spotted by Mrs. Williams, Lewis' husband, Steve, drove up and

Legislative Grades: Passes Gun Bill Fails Sales Tax

From Staff And Wire Reports

The Florida Legislature has apparently shot itself in the foot over a to-be-vetoed tax bill but did successfully mend Thursday a loophole in a new gun law.

Gov. Bob Martinez and the Legislature still hope to work toward a compromise over the service sales, and the governor is expected to sign the gun legislation next week.

The tax showdown came Thursday, two days before the end of the special session, when the House voted 63-50 to approve legislation developed by its Democratic leaders. The Senate followed suit early in the evening on a vote of 21-18. The bill was expected to arrive on the governor's desk early next week.

Martinez, a Republican, did not wait to announce his intentions. He called Senate President John Vogt, D-Cocoa Beach, at the Senate podium shortly following the vote, saying he will call a new special session on the services tax beginning at 1 p.m. Monday and ending at noon Friday.

Martinez can call any number of special sessions as long as he states the topic to be hashed out. "For the record, I will veto the bill," Martinez told reporters. "There is not much good in it."

Vogt said he doubted the Legislature could muster the votes to challenge the governor again. He said the veto probably kills the tax for the foreseeable future. The 45 House Republicans pledged to vote as a bloc to defeat any attempt to override a veto.

Lake Mary Dumps City Hall Plan

New Commissioners Agree To Reverse Former Panel

By Richard Whittaker

The new Lake Mary City Commission Thursday night reversed previous commission action and agreed not to proceed with an attempt to obtain seven and a half acres of downtown property for a new city hall.

In its first gathering since commissioners Randall Morris, Goerge Duryea and Thomas Mahoney were sworn in on Oct. 5, the workshop setting would not allow any official action to be taken by the body. However, the commission said it will vote to drop any plans to purchase the property, which is located on the northwest corner of Old Lake Mary Road and Country Club Road in the downtown section of Lake Mary.

The past commission had originally voted 3-1 to try to buy the land at $625,000 last July.

Former Commissioner Kenneth King voted against the attempt saying the land was too expensive to city taxpayers. City Attorney Frank Kruppenbacher was instructed then to make the attempt to buy the property, but to also investigate the use of eminent domain to take the land should the owners refuse to sell.

Harriet Nixon, one of the seven property owners, told the commission she had no intention of selling her land, and would fight to keep it. Several other owners said they were interested in selling, but wanted more money for the land.

A fight between the city and Nixon may no longer be necessary, but the commission has not ruled out the use of force in obtaining other land it may decide it wants for a City Hall site.

Deputies Arrest Man Wanted In Georgia

By Deane Jordan Herald Staff Writer
 A former Lake Mary man was arrested at the Seminole County Courthouse Wednesday after the sheriff's department received a tip from Georgia that a man by the same name was wanted in Georgia.

Arrested around 12:14 a.m. was John Anthony Lombardi, 43, formerly of 308 S. Spaulding in the subdivision of Heathrow. Lombardi also has two Ohio addresses, records show.

Deputies at the courthouse were told by the Newton County Sheriff's Department that a man named Lombardi would be in court in Sanford early today. The Georgia sheriff's department got the tip from a probate judge in Newton area. Newton County is about 30 miles east of Atlanta.

The Newton County sheriff's department said a man named Lombardi, who reportedly fits the description of the man arrested in Sanford, is wanted for theft by conversion, that is, selling cars without owning them. The warrant was issued on July 31, 1986.

When Lombardi was told of the warrant Wednesday, he is reported to have said he has never been to Georgia but has had some business dealings there. Besides the Georgia warrant, there were rumors that a man of the same name was wanted by the FBI in Ohio and by police in Toronto.

A probation office in Columbus, Ohio, reports that a man of the same name is on probation there for attempting to pass bad checks but did not report that he was wanted by officials. The FBI confirmed that they have been investigating from their Cincinnati office a man by the same name but no more information about that case was available. Police in Toronto could neither confirm nor deny a man of the same name was wanted there.

The 5-foot, 4-inch Lombardi, who weighs 170 pounds, was in court Wednesday regarding two civil cases.

According to the suit that was scheduled to heard, Lombardi and his wife, Cheryl, were suing Heart Homes, of 385 Wehvia Springs Road. The Lombardis claim in that suit that Heart Homes committed a breach of contract in connection with the sale of a $325,000 house in Lake Mary and the subsequent possession of $10,000 in "earned money."

The Lombardis, who apparently had a lease-to-buy option, wanted to buy the home Dec. 1, 1986, but the seller preferred June 1986, according to the suit. The seller, Marretta S. Graham, says the Lombardis missed one of their $2,700 monthly payments in July 1986.

Rich Purse Swiped At Cleaners

A Canadian woman's purse disappeared Monday while she visited the owner of a local dry cleaning business.

Naazlin Hirji, 28, reported to Sanford police she placed the purse on the counter top of Soft Touch Cleaners, 1528 S. French Ave., at noon on Monday. She discovered the purse missing at 5 p.m. The purse contained $570 in cash, an Eastern Airline ticket to Toronto, Canada, and assorted personal papers.

Other actions investigated by the Sanford Police Department include:

• David McGhee, 30, music director of the First United Methodist Church, told police a stereo and a pair of speakers, with a total value of $300, were stolen from the church's choir room between 4 p.m. Oct. 2 and

1 p.m. Tuesday.

• Someone broke into a vacant house at 2019 Park Ave. between 6:30 p.m. Oct. 1 and 8 p.m. Sunday. Raymond Cline, 60, 111 Tucker Drive, reported to police Tuesday someone pulled down plaster on the living room ceiling, causing $200 damage, and removed $50 worth of men's clothing and blankets.

• Carroll Knudsen, 21, 114 Jessamine Ave., reported to police a .38-caliber handgun and $5 in change were stolen from the house between 6:45 a.m. and 3 p.m. Tuesday.

• A Smith and Wesson 9-millimeter semi-automatic handgun worth $430 was taken from a gym bag Tuesday between 4:30 p.m. and 10:45 p.m. The owner of the gun, Ronald Wise, 30, 845 Sabal Palm Circle, Altamonte Springs, told police the bag was in the office of the J.T. Greene Produce Company, 413 W. 13th St.

• Steve Mayer, 31, 210 Borado Drive, reported between 8:50 a.m. Oct. 2 and 3:45 a.m. Saturday someone removed a Yashika 35-millimeter camera worth $700 from his home.

• A 25-inch color television and a radio with a cassette player were reported stolen from the home of Jacqueline Lovett, 26, 1508 W. 12th St., Wednesday between 7 a.m. and 3 p.m.

• Robert Tillia, 22, 1618 W. Second St., told police that between 5:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. someone stole a handgun, a Seiko watch and a video tape recorder, for a combined value of $650, from his home.

Bank Robbed By Bicyclist

An Altamonte Springs savings and loan was robbed by a man who made his getaway on a 10-speed bicycle.

The robbery occurred at the Savings of America, 450 E. Altamonte Drive. A brown-haired man in his 20s ran into the business around 2:30 p.m. Tuesday. He wore a handkerchief over his nose and mouth and held his left hand under his T-shirt as if he had a gun.

He ordered the teller to fill a bag with money, then he left with the undisclosed amount of cash.

Chilly Nights Still But Rain On Way

Staff And Wire Reports

The thermometer in Sanford dropped to 54 degrees overnight according to the University of Florida station in town, whereas the "official" U.S. of A. weathermen basked in the balmy heights of a 60 degree reading for a low during the same period. Either way is chilly, but not like the temperatures in the Great Lakes regions up north - it's snowing in places up there.

The same front that has dropped temperatures in Seminole County is doing a bouncing ball bit near Cuba and is about to ricochet. That may bring us some showers this week-end. Then again, it may not. This is the forecasters firmness to which you have become accustomed.

Eyes have been on that suspicious area in the northwest Caribbean, and now it's beginning to yake shape.

The tropical depression churned along the Honduran coast today and hurricane forecasters warned small ships around the northwestern Caribbean not to venture too far from port.

The depression, carrying maximum sustained winds near 30 mph, was located 50 miles northeast of Cape Gracias a Dios, Nicaragua, at 6 a.m. EDT, the National Hurricane Center said in an advisory.

The depression, the 13th of the Atlantic-Caribbean hurricane season, was nearly stationary, but it was expected to begin a slow west-northwest movement today, said hurricane forecaster Bob Case.

Case said some strengthening was possible.

"It depends exactly on where it goes," he said. "If it moves in a northerly direction we have that possibility."

But if the storm moves west along the Honduran coast, as forecast, then it will remain close to land, which would hinder its growth. Small ships in the northwestern Caribbean, however, were urged not the stray too far from port.

Freezing weather that set record lows in 29 cities across the Midwest and Southeast settled across the East Coast today prompting frost warnings from New England to the Carolinas, the National Weather Service said.

Frost warnings were called for the Carolinas, West Virginia, Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York and New England.

"The cold air that is behind the front that sagged around the Midwest is now over the eastern half of the U.S.," forecaster Mike July said.

Temperatures early today fell to 33 degrees in the suburbs of Washington, D.C.; 38 at Raleigh, N.C.; 31 at Asheville, N.C.; 38 at Columbia, S.C.; and 41 at Montgomery, Ala.

The cold front Thursday brought whipped winds across the Plains of up to 54 mph. Record lows temperatures were set in at least 29 cities in the Midwest and Southeast.

By early today temperatures in North Dakota had plummeted to 25 degrees as 20 to 30 mph winds blew through the state producing a wind chill equivalent to temperatures between zero and 15 degrees. Light snow or snow flurries are expected across North Dakota, Minnesota, Montana and Wyoming by afternoon.

Unseasonably cold weather is expected by Saturday to hit as far south as Kansas and northern Missouri.

In the West, temperatures were not as hot as they had been earlier this week, except in the desert areas of California.

Longwood Rezones Annexed Property, Awaits County Action

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

Zoning on property recently annexed by the city of Longwood has been changed from R-1 Single Family Residential and A-1 Agriculture to RP Residential-Professional.

City Commissioners voted unanimously Monday night to amend the Comprehensive Plan Land Use Element to change the designation and amend the Comprehensive Zoning Ordinance to change the zoning classification for Lots 1, 2 and 3 of Koontz Villa Park, located west of County Road 427 north of Longwood Hills Road.

The county zoning was R-1 for Lots 1, 2 and 3 and A-1 for the abutting parcel to the west between the lots and Duck Lake. The property has one single family house fronting on County Road 427 with a heavily treed vacant lot in between. It abuts the Veterans of Foreign Wars building to the north and a single family residence to the south.

The Seminole County Commission has voted 3-2 to contest the Sept. 14 annexation of the property by Longwood. The county claims the city is creating an enclave, while the city says it is eliminating one. The city was already providing the property with police and fire protection and garbage service before annexation.

City Attorney Michael Kramer said he has inspected the property and Duck Lake is actually a pond that has very little water in it and you can see townhouses in the city 200 feet away.

Kramer said winning the dispute with the county is not a "sure thing but the city has a reasonable chance."

The triangular parcel to the rear of the three lots is a floodprone lot composed of Duck Lake bottom lands, wetland area and a small upland area, thus, according to City Planner Chris Nagle, it would be difficult to develop.

The applicant, H&M Holding Co., had originally requested C-2 Office-Commercial zoning, but agreed to the RP zoning recommended to the city commission by Nagle in order to eliminate some types of businesses and professions that might generate more traffic.

The C-2 office commercial zoning requested would allowed higher intensity retail and office commercial uses. The previous zoning under the county allowed single family residences and home occupations as permitted use. The RP designation will allow office, group home or residential use of the existing structure and land.

Kramer said regarding the request to operate a bingo parlor in Fairmont Plaza, a shopping center on Highway 17-92, he said after research had determined the city doesn't have a permitted use for it under the C-3 zoning classification and the applicants would have to come back before the city commission with a conditional use request if they wanted to operate one.

Bill Mayo told the commission "in behalf of the veterans' organization and churches who use profits from their bingo games to participate in public and community events" that "the bottom line is that the person who owns the bingo parlor makes money and the veterans organization who make money must by state law use it for charitable projects and we certainly do that."

Panel Mulls Utilities Extension

By Brad Church

Seminole County plans for extending, or not extending, central water and sewer services to rural areas of the county were presented to the county advisory committee drawing up a new zoning classification for the land now categorized as Suburban Estates.

Part of the committee's task is to ascertain whether there will be adequate services to support a higher population density, which the new zoning classification would allow.

Jim Bible, county director of environmental services, outlined the county's plans for the parts of the county now designated Suburban Estates, which are mainly in the northwestern and eastern parts of the county.

He said the proposed Yankee Lake sewage treatment plant will serve the western part of the county from Longwood to the northern county line. The Greenwood Lakes treatment plant, located near Lake Mary, is being expanded and will be connected to the Yankee Lake plant, he said.

County planners project a need for treating 8-10 million gallons of sewage per day in the western part of the county south of Lake Mary Boulevard, and an equal amount north of Lake Mary Boulevard in 20 years, Bible said. He said those figures were based on development in those areas being restricted to one house per acre, as is presently allowed, not on the basis of 1.5 houses per acre as proposed in a new zoning classification.

If the Yankee Lake plant is constructed in 18 months, which is the earliest it could be brought on line, it could begin serving the area west of Markham Woods Road in about two years, he said.

Committee member Roger Neawender pointed out that it is cheaper for developers to install septic tanks than to install or hook up to existing sewer systems. A septic tank can be installed for much less than the hook-up charges for a central water system, which doesn't include the costs of a lift station.

County Administrator Ken Hooper said that is one reason developers want to be allowed to build more houses in a given area. He said developers claim the cost of central sewer, when spread among a fewer number of houses in the one-acre-lots category, add enough to the cost of lots to reduce their marketability.

The Markham Woods area now has central water, Bible said, but another plant north of Heathrow in the State Road 48 area will be needed in the future. He said the majority of the county has poor quality water. The only area with good water is along the Interstate 4 corridor in the northern part of the county, widening out some from that corridor in the south, he said.

A master water plan to be completed in about a year will tell how much water is available for future growth and how it can best be managed.

The eastern part of the county has poor water quality, with a lot of salt intrusion, except for the Geneva Bubble, he said, and the county has no plans to extend either public sewer or water to that area. Extending those services would be very expensive because of the distance pipe would have to be laid, and there have been no major pushes for development there, he said.

Once the proposed ordinance is submitted to the county commissioners, it will be included in other proposed amendments to the comprehensive land use plan and public hearings on the amendments will be held next March or April. If the amendment is approved as part of the land use plan, the commissioners would then have to adopt an ordinance creating the new zoning classification before it became effective.

Terrorist Fund Needed In U.S.

She was celebrating her wedding anniversary with her husband in a deluxe Paris restaurant. A bomb went off. Crystal chandeliers shattered. A searing pain shot through her legs. Before losing consciousness, the Parisienne saw her husband was bleeding—but alive.

For two months, she hung between life and death in an intensive-care ward. Doctors said she would never move her limbs again. But she fought to regain control of her arms and legs.

The restaurant was gutted by the blast. The owners, a famous champagne-producing family, never acknowledged her injury or paid restitution.

"They never even sent me a bottle of champagne," she later told a visitor from America.

A year after the bombing, she saw an article in Paris Match magazine celebrating the reopening of the restaurant. The crystal chandeliers were restored with insurance money. The article didn't mention that one of the bomb victims was still paralyzed from the waist down. When she inquired if the insurance would pay her damages, she was told that the restaurant was insured for damages to things—but not injuries to people.

The Parisienne, a lawyer from a well-to-do family, could survive without assistance. She began wondering about other victims. What happened to them after they were injured or their loved ones were killed?

She started an organization to represent victims of terrorism. It is called S.O.S. Attentat.

In meetings with victims and their families, she learned that most survivors received little or no assistance. Medical bills were paid largely by socialized medical insurance. But once out of the hospital they were basically left to their own survival.

Wheelchair-bound, she began her campaign for victims' rights in France.

Her first cause was to create a national fund for victims of terrorism. The French government was skeptical. But a new wave of bombings in Paris last year galvanized attention.

President Mitterrand asked her what kind of program she proposed. Should the government set up a fund for victims of terrorism?

No, she answered. If the government funded it this year, there would be no guarantee that it would continue funding it when attention waned. Instead, she advocated that the Parliament should mandate that a small sum be added to each insurance policy in France and the funds set aside for a terrorist victim's fund.

The fund became law. Millions of dollars are now in the fund. Victims and their families apply for aid. They may receive income, psychological and social counseling, education and other services to begin their lives again.

France, once a haven for terrorists, has become a protector of victims' rights. Recently, France held a "Victims of Terrorism" conference. By joining together and focusing on the human dimension of terrorism, it has given an identity to the faceless, often nameless victims of attacks.

America, so far, has suffered few terrorist attacks. But the threat is real from countries such as Iran, which is suspected to have been behind the 1986 Champs Elysees bombings. In the event of terrorist violence here, Congress should consider France's example and set up a national fund for victims of terrorism, funded by insurance fees.

The founder of S.O.S. Attentat has not yet regained the ability to walk, but she has helped victims to stand up for their rights. Victims are not powerless. They can fight for dignity.

Key Advance Man Joins White House Exodus

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It's not often that the White House press corps applauds a departing presidential aide.

But Bill Henkel, the presidential assistant who ran the advance office, planning all the president's trips at home and abroad, was warmly saluted when he entered the press room to say goodbye. He had always been friendly and civil to reporters even in his high-pressure job.

Henkel, a White House veteran dating back to the Nixon administration, decided it was time to go back to Merrill Lynch, the investment company that had extended his leave so that he could serve the president in his travels far and wide.

"Now we can go to Moscow," President Reagan teased Henkel at his farewell party.

Reagan was referring to an incident during the Nixon era that left presidential aides blushing. When President Richard Nixon went to Moscow in 1972, his aides, who had been socializing, decided that they should search for electronic bugs in their hotel room. They lifted a carpet and found some wiring.

Convinced that it was part of a wire-tapping apparatus, they disconnected some wires and suddenly there was a loud crash. The crystal chandelier in the room the floor below had fallen. The Soviet hosts never mentioned it and neither did their American visitors.

Henkel could write a book about some of his adventures in planning presidential excursions, but one incident he would like to forget involved the advance work leading to Reagan's controversial visit to the cemetery in Bitburg, Germany, where members of the German Waffen SS were buried during World War II.

While planning the trip, he remembers casually asking, "Do we know who is buried there?"

But Reagan had promised Chancellor Helmut Kohl, who saw it as a reconciliation step, that he would go to Bitburg, and he did not want to renege on his promise. Henkel and other White House aides came in for a heavy share of the blame for scheduling the trip.

"I was dying a thousand deaths for the president," he said when recalling the firestorm of protest, particularly since it was considered by many as an affront to the victims of the holocaust.

Although Henkel won't be around to run the show, he indicated there is contingency planning for the expected U.S. summit meeting in late November between Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev. He said much will depend on what Gorbachev wishes to see in this country.

"I truly believe the next 15 months of this presidency may be the best ... and lay the foundation for lasting peace," he said in an interview with United Press International.

Henkel said that the Reagan White House and the Nixon White House were different in a crisis. "There's no comparison," he said. "During Watergate, the White House became immobilized."

But during the recent Iran arms- Contra aid scandal, the Reagan White House "did not become consumed," he said. "This place functioned."

"In Watergate, one shoe after another kept dropping," he said.

Listen To Pat's Message

While political observers have been amusing themselves watching various candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination self-destruct, a very different sort of development has been taking place over in the Republican ballpark. Slowly it is beginning to dawn on everybody that Pat Robertson's role in the 1988 nomination process is going to have to be taken very seriously indeed.

As the only avowed champion of the "social conservatives" to declare his candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination, Robertson was at first gently patronized by his rivals. Social conservatives, who are mostly ex-Democrats and independents concerned over family and moral issues, are an absolutely essential part of the coalition that has been giving the GOP nearly 60 percent of the votes in recent presidential elections. But they were assumed to be heavily outnumbered by economic conservatives (the GOP's ancient core) when it came to voting in Republican primaries.

The media chimed in with generous attention to a charge by former liberal Republican Rep. Pete McCloskey that Robertson, as a Marine officer in the Korean war, had invoked the aid of his father, then Sen. A. Willis Robertson (Democrat of Virginia), to avoid front-line service. Pat Robertson promptly sued McCloskey for libel, and the media settled back to await the outcome.

Recent weeks, however, have brought nothing but a series of shattering surprises to those who privately thought Robertson was just a palm-singing hillbilly and probably a military coward as well.

In the first place, his supporters in Michigan teamed up with Jack Kemp's smaller group to trounce the supposedly dominant Bush forces in the battle for that important state's large bloc of convention delegates. Then, in Iowa, whose early caucuses will kick off the 1988 presidential festivities, Robertson shook his opponents to the core by winning a widely publicized straw poll of Republicans.

As for the South, the further the Democratic party alienates conservative Democrats with its present array of wimpy liberal candidates (not to mention such sidebar as the savage attack by Democratic senators on Judge Robert Bork), the likelier it is that many of them will choose to vote in their state's Republican primary instead — for their fellow Southerner, Pat Robertson.

Soviets Stock Deadly Weapons In Cuba

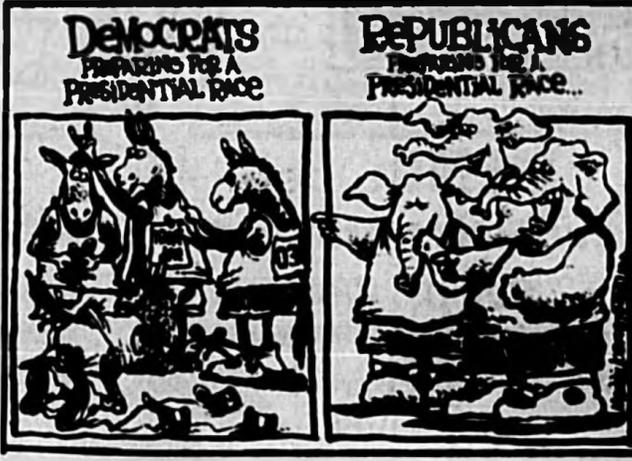

By Jack Anderson
And Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — It is now 25 years since the Cuban missile crisis — which supposedly ended with the Soviet Union backing off in the face of determined brinkmanship by the Kennedy administration. But the American public has still not been told officially the whole truth about this nerve-racking confrontation between the two superpowers.

The State Department's determined cover-up has even extended to keeping top White House officials in the dark, by withholding secret documents that detail the delicate negotiations in the fall of 1962.

There's a reason for this continuing coverup: Soviet offensive weapons now in Cuba are far more numerous — and more sophisticated — than the 42 medium-range ballistic missiles that caused all the ruckus a quarter-century ago.

ROBERT WALTERS

West Sticks To Guns

SHERIDAN, Colo. (NEA) — Conventional wisdom holds that the "agebrush rebellion" of the 1970s collapsed after defiant Westerners failed to impress politicians and bureaucrats in Washington with their demands for increased independence.

Indeed, fierce hostility toward the federal establishment has subsided in the West — but resistance to government proclamations and mandates, especially those concerning motor vehicles, still flourishes.

Among the issues that have evoked the most strident reactions are mandatory seat-belt requirements, the 55 mph speed limit (raised to 65 mph on rural interstate highways in response to Western objection) and the establishment of 21 as the minimum age for buying alcoholic beverages.

The bitter dispute over the drinking age dates back to 1971, when a constitutional amendment lowered, from 21 to 18, the minimum age for voting.

Responding to arguments that those old enough to vote and serve in the armed forces were also old enough to drink, many state legislatures reduced the drinking age to 18.

By the early 1980s, however, organizations such as Mothers Against Drunk Driving were pressing for a nationwide minimum drinking age of 21. They noted that drunk driving, the leading cause of death among teenagers, was taking about 10,000 young lives every year.

Especially compelling was the argument that differences between states created "blood borders" as inebriated young people traveled to and from states with lower drinking ages.

The National Drinking Age Act of 1984 did not directly impose a minimum drinking age because that remains a right reserved for the states. Instead, the federal law provided that states permitting the sale of beer, wine or liquor to those under 21 would forfeit a portion of federal highway construction funds.

Most states then promptly raised the drinking age. In the West, however, the seething hostility toward Washington edicts surfaced once again.

Included among the last eight states to increase their drinking age were five in the Rocky Mountains or Northern Plains — Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Wyoming and South Dakota. (The other three were Ohio, Tennessee and Louisiana.)

South Dakota even initiated a civil suit alleging that federal intrusion in the matter was unconstitutional. But the U.S. Supreme Court, in a 7-2 decision last June, rejected the state's claim.

On Sept. 30 of this year, the deadline for compliance with the 1984 law, the minimum drinking age was fixed at 21 in every state — except Wyoming, where it remained at 19.

As a result, Wyoming forfeited 5 percent of the federal highway funds to which it was entitled in the 1986-87 fiscal year. That loss of $3.7 million came at a time when the state's economy was very shaky — but its leaders insist they will not capitulate to pressure from Washington.

"It's states' rights as much as anything. We ought to be able to handle our own problems," says Wyoming Gov. Mike Sullivan. An aid to the governor accuses the federal government of "blackmail."

Indeed, proposals to raise the drinking age were advanced — but soundly defeated — in three of the last four sessions of Wyoming's legislature.

Magellan Probe On Schedule

By William Harwood
UPI Science Writer

CAPE CANAVERA (UPI) — A $500 million robot probe built with spare parts and set for launch aboard a space shuttle in 1989 promises to strip away the veil of mystery surrounding the cloud-shrouded surface of Venus.

Named after the 16th century explorer, Magellan is scheduled for launch on April 29, 1989, aboard the shuttle Atlantis to begin a 500-day voyage to Venus.

Because of the alignment of the two planets and the trajectory required by Magellan's solid-fuel rocket, Atlantis must blast off by May 23, 1989. If a delay pushes liftoff beyond that point, the probe would have to wait 19 months for another launch opportunity.

Magellan's primary instrument is a "synthetic aperture radar," a device that will be able to produce a photograph-like map of the hidden surface of Venus showing objects as small as 800 feet across, a significant improvement over earlier efforts and one that may show signs of ancient seabeds and other features.

Project manager John Gerpheide of the Jet Propulsion Laboratory in Pasadena, Calif., said a recent test of the interface between the radar and the probe's electronics assembly was a success. He said the spacecraft is on track for delivery to the Kennedy Space Center next year for launch processing.

Venus, one of the most brilliant "stars" in Earth's sky, has long been a target of science fiction writers because of its general similarity to Earth. The two planets have similar diameters and densities and on the scale of the solar system, they both orbit the sun at roughly similar distances.

But with the advent of the space age, Venus's mysteries have been slowly stripped away and along with them was the fiction writer's dream of a sister planet friendly to life.

Instruments aboard American and Soviet spacecraft have found a hellish environment beneath the clouds that perpetually shield the surface from view.

The atmosphere is composed mostly of carbon dioxide and its clouds are laced with acid. Ground-level pressure is some 90 times that of Earth's and temperatures are in the 900-degree range.

Scientists believe Venus is a victim of the "greenhouse effect," in which a carbon dioxide atmosphere inhibits the reflection of solar radiation into space.

them within a month." The Soviets eventually did remove the IL-28s, and the U.S. quarantine of Cuba was lifted.

But the Soviets now have more and better warplanes in Cuba than they did then: a dozen Tu-95 Bear bombers (some with nuclear capability) and about 40 MiG-23 or MiG-27 fighter-bombers, all of which can carry nuclear bombs. Intelligence officials have told Congress they can't tell for sure if the Soviet planes in Cuba actually have nuclear bombs.

Furthermore, U.S. intelligence has confirmed the delivery of at least six nuclear missiles to Cuba by submarine in 1972 and 1974, and the naval base at Cienfuegos is linked by rail to a nuclear warhead storage facility.

By way of a 25th anniversary observance, may we suggest that the State Department finally let the American public in on the truth about the Cuban missile crisis?

Pre-Marital Conception Of Son Will Aid Campaign - Robertson

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Republican presidential candidate Pat Robertson, whose campaign focuses on "family virtues," insists his political future will not be crippled by revelations his first child was conceived out of wedlock.

"I think it will probably enhance (the campaign) rather than diminish it because people are saying, 'Is this guy really flesh and blood? Is he a real, honest-to-goodness human being?' And the answer is yes," the former television evangelist told a news conference Thursday.

The Wall Street Journal reported Tuesday that Robertson's legal marriage date was Aug. 27, 1964, 10 weeks before his first son was born and also before his religious conversion. Robertson told The Washington Post he used March 22, 1954 — the day he says his son was conceived — as the marriage date because the official date "to be wasn't any big deal."

Jim, Tommy Hope For PTL Return

FORT MILL, S.C. (UPI) — Jim Bakker says the resignation of the Rev. Jerry Falwell gives him "renewed hope for the future of PTL," and that he and his wife, Tammy Faye, are ready to return to "our baby," the television ministry they founded.

But lawyer Jim Toms said Thursday the Bakkers would return only with the consent of a U.S. bankruptcy court, saying, "We don't want there to be any impression that they would be doing this for their own financial benefit. They would not."

Falwell's farewell at a news conference Thursday was softly spoken but harsh, and he vowed, "I personally intend as I leave today to never return." He said after taking over the PTL when Bakker resigned in a sex scandal on March 19 that he sensed "it could be the Watergate of Christianity."

Philippine Senators Tell Aquino Coup Attempt Won't Succeed

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — Pro-government senators assured President Corason Aquino today that her embattled government can counter threats from both the extreme left and right without resorting to martial law.

"There is absolutely no need for martial law or the suspension of the writ (against illegal detention) or anything of that kind," Sen. Raul Manglapus told reporters after a one-hour security briefing at Aquino's offices for the 24 members of the Senate.

Armed forces chief Gen. Fidel Ramos warned this week that the political and military enemies of the government on both sides of the political spectrum had joined forces in a grand conspiracy and were prepared sometime this month to mount the gravest threat so far to Aquino's rule.

U.S. officials Thursday also warned the restless Philippine military the United States will cut off millions of dollars in aid if it ousts the Aquino government.

Sonar Sweep Seeks Nessie

DRUMNADROCHIT, Scotland (UPI) — Organizers of a search for the legendary Loch Ness Monster say they detected "something" as they prepared for today's sweep of the murky depths with a fleet of sonar-equipped boats.

After a full dress rehearsal Thursday, expedition leader Adrian Shine said the boats reported "mid-water (sonar) contacts that were followed up by a backup boat and must be studied further." He did not elaborate.

Houses To Be Razed, Raised Anew With Grants

Maryann L. Cross
Herald Staff Writer

The home of K.C. Forrest, at 801 Willow Ave., is the next house in the Georgetown area to be demolished and rebuilt using federal grant money.

The Community Development Block Grant Committee decided Wednesday to accept the $22,986 bid of Sanford building contractor Stephen Balint to demolish and rebuild the Forrest home. The committee rejected the two lowest rehabilitation bids for the homes of Gloria Washington, 1007 Locust Avenue, and Bernice Orter, 915 Willow Avenue.

Richard Woods, Sanford's community development officer, said the Forrest home is being demolished because it is structurally damaged and would not be cost-effective to rehabilitate. The demolition work will begin within 30 days, and the committee will allocate funds to pay for relocation. It will take 60 days to build the new 912-square-foot house, according to Balint. Woods said the minimum square footage of city housing is 900.

The bids on the two houses scheduled for rehabilitation were rejected because they were considered too high. Charles Rowe, rehabilitation specialist, said that, based on specifications and costs prepared by the city's housing inspector, the Washington home should cost approximately $18,500 to rehabilitate, but the low bid received for that house was $18,165. Rowe also said the Orter house should cost approximately $13,000 to rehabilitate, but the lowest bid received on that house was $16,900.

Woods said the lowest bid estimates should not be more than 10 percent higher than the anticipated cost of the project.

"If the low bid is higher than that (10 percent) it indicates there's a problem," Woods said. "What we'll do next is contact the Housing and Urban Development office in Tallahassee and ask them for advice. We may rebid the work or sub-contract the work to different firms."

The committee also appointed three new members to replace Gerald Orson, Leroy Robb and Robert Doctor, all of whom resigned recently. The new members are: Ruben Burch, 1303 W. Seventh St., who has a background in construction;

K.C. Forrest's house, at 801 Willow Ave., won't be standing much longer. But a much better structure will stand in its place through building financed with federal grant money.

Turner Clayton, 1401 Mara Court, who works for the Seminole County School Board; and Welma Williams, 1605 W. 17th St., who has experience in community involvement.

The committee was appointed by the city commission in November, 1985, to assist in preparing the application for a $650,000 Housing and Urban Development grant. The committee began distributing the grant money in October 1986, after developing guidelines for disbursement of the funds. The eight-block area that qualified for the funding is bounded by Orange and Locust avenues and Seventh and 12th streets. The area was defined in the funding application Sanford sent to the state Department of Community Affairs.

Woods said the program is on target for distributing the funds and the committee has until March or April of 1988 to complete the grant. Woods said when the program is complete, 17 units will have been demolished and rebuilt and 57 units will have been rehabilitated.

Open House To Acquaint Sanford With WINS

Maryann L. Cross
Herald Staff Writer

People who want to know more about what Sanford's community development officer calls the most comprehensive redevelopment program in the city can stop by the WINS project office opening Oct. 30.

The Westside Neighborhood Strategy Steering Committee announced Tuesday it will open its new office on 13th Street with a ribbon-cutting ceremony at 2 p.m. Community Development Officer Richard Woods said refreshments will be served and the public is invited to stop by and review the project's redevelopment plan.

The project office will be located in Cherry Plaza at 1220 W. 13th St. Woods said the office site was chosen because it is central to the target area of the WINS project. The office will serve as an information center where residents and property owners will have easy access to accurate information and can review and comment upon the plan. The office staff also will answer any questions about finance, land use and other aspects of the plan.

Woods said he hopes the office will encourage early public participation and neighborhood awareness of the redevelopment project.

The target of the WINS project is the Goldboro area of Sanford's west side, bounded by French Avenue to the east, Olive Avenue to the west, 13th Street to the south and a railroad right-of-way to the north. The city commission hired the Florida Center for Urban Design and Research in March to provide a $60,000 redevelopment study of the area.

In the course of the study, personal interviews with the members of each household in the target area were conducted. The survey revealed that 60 percent of the residents had lived there for 10 or more years, with the same percentage owning their homes. The survey also showed that almost all the homes need some repair, with as high as 50 percent needing major repairs and some needing to be demolished and rebuilt.

The consultants presented two plans to the committee in August involving major housing rehabilitation, demolition of substandard homes not worth rehabilitating, and construction of new single- and multi-family housing units. In addition, both plans envisioned improvements to Coastline Park by getting rid of drainage ditches, landscaping and constructing a community swimming pool. Public improvements also would include sewer and water service and street improvements. The plan selected by the committee included the above redevelopment projects, but its housing density was considered too high.

The WINS committee asked Florida Center to present a revision of the plan they selected, with fewer multiple housing units. Florida Center representatives returned with a revised plan which includes more single-family units. In addition, the revised plan identifies 129 rehabilitations, 118 homes to be demolished and 100 vacant lots.

Florida Center's Frank Setzer, the project manager, told the committee Tuesday the revised plan maintains the approximate level of new development presented under the original plan, which will increase the city's tax base and provide impact fees from new development.

Setzer also said the plan will be ready for final review Oct. 27. The committee will hold its next meeting on that date in the city manager's conference room and study the plan before presenting it to the city commission.

When the redevelopment plan is finished it will show land use, traffic flows, projected locations and types of residence, and renderings of the major focus of the WINS project area. In addition, the plan will include such things as funding sources and capital budgets. It will further refine the affordable housing concept, that is, working with lending institutions and identifying cost-reduction techniques.

Florida Center's Associate Director Daniel Bennett said the redevelopment project is expected to take five to seven years to complete. Bennett said the study will provide several options for relocation of residents while their houses are being renovated or rebuilt.

One option might be to temporarily relocate residents to city-owned property.

Another option might be to provide a $25,000 relocation allowance per family. Under that option, for example, the family could use part of the money to pay for rent while their house is being rebuilt. The remaining funds could be put toward the mortgage on the new house. Bennett said that, for the benefit of elderly people and others on a fixed income, the firm is working on a redevelopment plan that would result in no increased housing costs.

"The new house (built to replace a home that was not cost-effective to rehabilitate) might be smaller than the original structure, but it would also be more energy-efficient and would require less maintenance," Bennett said.

He said these are only a few of the options his firm is considering, and final recommendations on relocation strategies will not be available until the complete project plans are presented in late October.

The WINS project will not be a give-away program but will be financed by a partnership of private and public funds. Woods said some of the public fund sources over the duration of the redevelopment process might be: Community Development Block Grants from state and federal sources; economic development funds from state or federal sources; and housing and neighborhood revitalization funding from federal sources.

Woods said the WINS project already has $300,000 available for housing rehabilitation and $35,000 for a drainage study from the Interlocal Agreement the city has with Seminole County.

Man Sentenced For Child Abuse

A Forest City man was sentenced Thursday to 10 years probation for kicking, hitting and beating his former stepson.

Blame Junior Beam Jr., 52, of 6218 Bear Lake Trail, also was sentenced to 28 days in jail for contempt of court. Circuit Judge O.H. Eaton gave Beam credit for 28 days already served. Beam was held in contempt of court when he threw a desk calendar at a probation officer doing a pre-sentence investigation.

Beam was found guilty of child abuse. The 10-year-old boy's mother has since divorced Beam.

Beam was arrested April 21 after he attacked the boy with a 4-foot stick. The attack was unprovoked, records show.

The 10-year-old received minor injuries of cuts, bruises, numbness and swelling. He was treated and released at Florida Hospital—Altamonte, records show.

Stocks Open Lower

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened lower today in active trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which fell 34.44 Thursday, was down just over 10 points at the 2,508 level shortly after the market opened.

Losers led gainers by a 2-1 ratio among the 1,330 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape.

Early Big Board turnover topped 10 million shares.

Most stock prices lost ground Thursday as worries about inflation and interest rates sent buyers — still nervous about aftershocks from the Dow's 91.55-point drop Tuesday — scurrying for the sidelines.

"The market is in the throes of a correction process," said Monte Gordon, research director of Dreyfus Corp. "It looks ahead and sees an exaggerated shadow of rising interest rates and inflation clouding the horizon."

The Dow fell 34.44 to 2518.64 Thursday, recovering somewhat from a 54-point decline it posted less than an hour before the closing bell.

Loosing issues pounded declines 1,187-402 among the 1,993 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange. Big Board volume totaled 199.7 million shares, compared with 186.3 million in the previous session.

It would take a two-thirds vote of both chambers to override Martinez' expected veto.

Martinez has said he will ax any tax bill with a service tax in it and is holding out for some budgetary reform including the right to veto line items within funding packages.

One discussion in the session starting Monday will involve a House Republican plan to repeal the tax and then let voters decide whether to reinstate it. Martinez has been receptive to the idea, and House leaders considered the option Thursday night before deciding to press ahead with their own plan.

Another possibility proposed by business lobbyists is a "business purchases" tax. Services would be taxed if the buyer holds an occupational license, is subject to unemployment compensation withholding, or can write off the expense on federal taxes as a business expense. Promoters argue the option would raise nearly as much as the current services tax.

Three of the grave-robbers fled in a car and two ran. One, a 14-year-old boy, was caught by police and later released.

Thursday, under the direction of the Rev. Robert Doctor, the vault, which was resting on top of the ground, was buried, as well as another vault beside the Adams grave.

Mrs. Fields and her son, Samuel Eugene Adams, and other friends and relatives watched as the grave was dug and the vault lowered into it.

Before lowering the vault into the grave, Rev. Doctor opened it and slid the casket out. He scooped up some clothing and small bones which were still laying in the sand, raised the casket lid and returned them to the casket.

The robbers removed gold fillings and gold teeth and some clothing from the casket. Some of the teeth were found lying on top of an adjoining vault.

Mrs. Fields said finding people crouched over the casket of the husband she buried in January, 1981 was a terrible shock. "I couldn't sleep last night, now maybe tonight I can," she said as the vault was slowly lowered into the grave.

"I don't know what is happening to kids today that they don't even have respect for the dead," she said.

The area is known to be frequented by teenagers who pass through on their way to a Reservoir Lake behind the cemetery.

Shiloh Cemetery is located at the far rear of Restlawn Cemetery. Much of it is unkempt and overgrown with brush and trees, but the section in which the Adams grave is located is grassy, although the grass is long.

Police Chief Steve Harriet said his department regularly patrols the cemetery. The part of the cemetery where the Adams grave is located is actually outside the city limits, he said, and the grave-robbing incident has been turned over to the Seminole County Sheriff's department for investigation.

together they drove Mrs. Williams to Halifax Hospital where she admitted herself to the emergency room. She was treated and released and is staying in Daytona Beach to be near her daughter.

Mrs. Williams said today she may have to undergo plastic surgery as the result of facial injuries and anticipates a long recovery period for Cindy.

Mrs. Palmer said the decision was made to have the surgery done at Halifax rather than risk another flight this time to Shands Teaching Hospital in Gainesville. She said they were the surgeon, Dr. Thomas Scott, is one of the best and time was of the essence. Members of the family were told that chances of Cindy surviving were slim and that if she did she would be "a vegetable."

"But when they got in, it wasn't as bad as they had thought," Palmer said. "They had expected the operation to take five or six hours, but it took three and a half or four hours. There was not as much brain damage as had been expected and she apparently is not paralyzed, something that doctors had feared. They won't know the full extent until she comes out of the coma, which could be two weeks."

A graduate of Seminole High School, Mrs. Williams lived in Sanford most of her life before moving to DeBary recently. Although she has automobile insurance, Mrs. Williams, a dental lab technician, has no medical insurance because she had just started a new job at Carbone Laboratories in Winter Park about a week earlier and the insurance would not be effective for 30 days. She had lost her job when the company she worked for closed and had been employed temporarily at Walgreen's Drug Store in Sanford until she could find a job in the dental field.

Meanwhile, according to a family friend, Donna Johns of Sanford, the DeBary community is rallying to help. Friends have established a Cindy Williams Fund (202-200-2114-9) at Empire Bank in DeBary to receive contributions toward Cindy's medical expenses. Containers for cash are also being placed in some area businesses.

Cindy is the granddaughter of Janet Wolter of Airport Boulevard, Sanford, who works at Harcar. Cindy and her mother were returning home from a football game, where Cindy's 12-year-old sister, Christina Gulliano, was a cheerleader. Christina, a student at Enterprise Elementary School, rode with her grandmother, so she was not in the car with her mother and sister when the accident occurred.

Cindy was formerly a pupil at Gingerbread House nursery school in Sanford.

Chuck Suggs Flies High For Life

Silhouetted against a setting Florida sun, an air-ambulance took off from the Sanford Airport shortly before 7 p.m. Thursday, carrying Chuck Suggs and his family closer to a possible life-giving heart/lung operation for the 14-year-old Lake Mary youth.

Chuck Suggs

Along with the Suggs family, a nurse and doctor accompanied the former Seminole Pony League all-star on a journey that will unite him with an English doctor that will perform the surgery he needs for survival.

John Edwards, one of the leading organizers of the fund-raising drive to help pay for the Suggs' operation and associated expenses, said thus far, local efforts have raised over $30,000 for Chuck. Dr. Magdi Yacoub, had already insisted on a $60,000 down payment before he would perform the surgery.

"Over the long range, we safely calculate we'll need a minimum of $350,000 for Chuck," Edwards said. "That's without any real complications."

According to Edwards, the operation wasn't even possible until Dave Cain, director of the Bloomington Indiana-based Children's Organ Transplant Organization offered his group's support in lending the money to the Suggs cause so he could get the operation as soon as possible. Cain has been in the area helping with fund-raising efforts and was present when Chuck departed Thursday night.

"We only had $60,000," Cain said of the COTA loan to Chuck's cause. He added that if they can get more money back into the organization, they could then help one or two more kids like Chuck. "We need that money to grow so that we can help five or six Chucks at a time, and maybe one day we can help a hundred kids like Chuck," Cain said.

There will be many more fund-raisers in the future for Suggs and COTA, according to Edwards. COTA will also still have cups for donations distributed around the area. "This will have to go on until we reach the level where we have all the money regarding Chuck's expenses," Edwards said of the fund-raising activities.

"If everybody in the community in a 25-square-mile radius around Lake Mary would just contribute 25 cents, we would have all the funds Chuck needs," Cain said. He stressed that it takes so little to get the needed money if everybody helps a little.

Persons wishing to make donations to the Chuck Suggs fund may address them to the Chuck Suggs Trust Fund, Sun Bank Trust, P.O. Box 3838, Orlando, Fla. 32802.

who did not expect such an attack. Immediately responded by attacking the U.S. helicopters," IRNA reported. "As a result, he said, a U.S. helicopter was hit by an Iranian stinger missile and crashed in the Persian Gulf waters."

The crash, according to the military source, was coupled with a huge explosion, which lit the sky," the dispatch said. "The Iranian combatants also fired light missiles at several U.S. vessels which had rushed to help the helicopters as a result of which one of the American vessels was hit and damaged."

U.S. command spokesman Col. John Head in Manama firmly denied the Iranian claim of having shot down an American helicopter or damaged any U.S. vessels. There were no U.S. casualties and no damage to the U.S. helicopters, Head said.

In Washington, Lt. Col. Jim Jannette said the Pentagon had "no reports of any additional engagements."

The confrontation came amid a sharp rise in tensions in the gulf following the Iran Ajr attack and a steady buildup of naval forces of the United States and its Western allies.

A hole was knocked into a wall and the burglar crawled into the space between the ceiling and the roof to crawl to the area above the evidence room and open the ceiling there to drop into the evidence room. He apparently walked out through an exit door near the evidence room. A key is not required to exit through that door, Harriett said.

Footprints found at the burglary scene were reportedly matched to shoes owned by King, police said.

Harriett said there was a good possibility that the motive for the burglary was to get cash to buy drugs. Police, he said, are "taking it personally," that the station was burglarized. This was the first time a burglar has ever hit the Sanford police station.

King, who is 5-feet, 6-inches tall and weighs 150 pounds, was being held today in the Seminole County jail in lieu of $25,000 bond. He was scheduled for a first appearance in court today. King's home address is 2350 Center St., Sanford.

Jail records show that King has been jailed several times since 1984 on charges ranging from battery to failure to appear and contempt of court. He has also been jailed for driving without a license and having no tag attached to his car.

Jail administrator Capt. Jay Leman said that King was assigned to trusty duty when he was serving a six month sentence in 1984. Leman said he does not expect this incident to impact in any way on how the jail administrators its trusty program, where some prisoners are released for day work at various government agencies.

"Any site downtown will require condemnation," said Commissioner Paul Tremel.

Duryea agreed with him, but added "Some (sites) will require less condemnation than others."

At the meeting the commission agreed to instruct City Manager Bob Norris to look into the price and availability of downtown property bounded on the north by Lake Mary Avenue, on the south by Lakeview Drive, on the west by Fourth Street and on the east by Second Street.

In the event the city cannot find a suitable site in that area the commission has agreed to also look in the area along Lake Mary Blvd. for a possible site.

While the commission also agreed the administrative portion of the City Hall complex could be separated from the police and fire department functions, they said the administration of the city should be kept in the downtown area.

Duryea said he would like to see the complex built on at least five acres of city land in order for the city to accommodate future growth. "I'm hard pressed to find a five acre site," Mahoney said of the land available in the downtown area, adding, "I believe the biggest site around is about three and a half acres, and five acres seems like a lot to me."

The commission also agreed to direct Norris to research the possibility of temporarily re-locating some of the city administration functions to another site until the new building can be started and completed. The public works portions of the administration were mentioned as being the department most likely to be moved. Duryea suggested the move saying he was looking for a quick temporary solution to the overcrowding in City Hall. "It would be invaluable for employees to move," Norris said, adding "There is not room here to work."

Tim Laudner, left, tagged Detroit ace Jack Morris for a two-run double for the key hit in a 6-3 Minnesota victory.

Laudner Doubles Tigers' Troubles

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — The Minnesota Twins have overpowered the best slugging team in baseball by flexing their muscle with men on base.

"The story of the first two games is that they've come up with the big hits and we haven't," shortstop Alan Trammell said Thursday night just before Detroit boarded a plane home for their Tiger Stadium sanctuary.

Minnesota, which hit .667 with runners in scoring position Wednesday and .429 Thursday, took a 2-0 lead in the American League playoffs with a 6-3 victory in Game 2.

The best-of-seven series returns to Detroit for the next three games, beginning Saturday at 1:07 p.m. EST. Walt Terrell, who has won eight straight decisions and is 13-2 at home, will pitch for the Tigers against rookie Les Straker.

"It's whoever wins four first, not two," Terrell said. "I think we'll still keep that attitude."

In two games thus far, Minnesota has out-slugged Detroit 5-1 in doubles, 1-0 in triples and is down by only 3-4 in homers to the leading home run hitting team in baseball.

A Minnesota record baseball crowd of 55,245 attended the game at the Hubert H. Humphrey Metrodome.

A.L. Playoffs

"It's so loud you can't hear," Detroit second baseman Lou Whitaker said. "The umpires were covering their ears at times."

"I think the fans influence the whole ball club," said Tim Laudner, whose two-run double in the second capped a three-run rally that topped the two runs Detroit scored on Chet Lemon's homer in the top of the inning.

"It's great for the Twin Cities, Minnesota and the whole Upper Midwest," Laudner said. "Also, it's great to show the nation enthusiasm in this area."

While the crowd may have given the Twins an energy surge, it didn't bother most of the Tigers.

"It's got to help them," Jack Morris said after losing in his home state for the first time in 12 decisions and losing in the Metrodome for the first time in nine. "It is inspiring."

"Unfortunately, I enjoyed it just as much as they did," Morris said. "That's what this game is all about. But we have to score some runs — and we have to keep them under six runs, too."

"You don't blame it on the crowd," Trammell said of his team's two defeats. "That's a plus for them."

Minnesota's Randy Bush was sarcastic about Detroit being heavily favored entering the series.

"Instead of sweeping us in four, now they'll have to sweep us in six," he said. "No one gave us a chance."

Whitaker hit a solo home run off Bert Blyleven, who except for that home run and Lemon's two-run shot allowed only five other hits. Juan Berenguer got the last five outs and punctuated them with some glove-raising and flat-pumping.

The National League Championship Series resumes tonight at San Francisco. The Giants and Cardinals are tied at one game each. See Page 9A for details.

Progress? Opinions Conflicting

TYSONS CORNER, Va. (UPI) — Negotiators have returned to the major stumbling block of free agency during talks to end the 18-day NFL players' strike with contradictory claims of how much progress has been made.

Union chief Gene Upshaw and Jack Donlan, the owners' negotiator, held their longest bargaining session Thursday, spilling over until this morning. After two sessions totaling eight hours, Upshaw and Donlan resumed talks shortly before midnight. A fourth straight day of talks are set for today.

Upshaw and Donlan have agreed on a handful of minor issues, but the main issues of free agency and severance remain unsettled.

Union officials paint a brighter picture of the negotiations than management.

"This is the beginning of the end (of the strike)," said Doug Allen, assistant executive director of the NFL Players Association.

Upshaw early Thursday said there was a chance of the strike being settled in time for the union members to play Sunday, but time is running out. The owners are set to play for the second straight weekend with non-union teams and regulars who have crossed the picket line.

Management Council spokesman John Jones said the union made an "overstatement of the actual progress that has taken place."

However, Allen Thursday night said if the sides have a collective bargaining agreement by noon today, the 1,500 striking players could report to their teams in time to practice Saturday and play Sunday.

"We hope it could be done by this weekend, but we're not setting an arbitrary deadline," he said.

Allen said the issues discussed Thursday were: free agency, severance pay, pension benefits, the duration of the contract and option clauses in individual contracts.

On free agency, the union has agreed to limit salary increases of free agents.

Management still balks at the players' demand for total free agency after a certain length of service.

"In the area of free agency, at this juncture the union is still seeking the right for a player to be totally free after a period of time," Jones said. "There's no indication of a willingness to discuss the issue of free agency within the current system of the NFL."

"They're talking about a number of possible scenarios to see if they can find a middle ground and see if they can pull the two sides together," Allen said of free agency.

Five months of negotiations have failed to yield a collective bargaining agreement to replace the five-year deal that expired Aug. 31.

Jones also said management, fed up with strikes every time a contract expires, is now seeking a six-year pact. The two sides had agreed this summer that the duration of the new contract would be three years, matching the length of the league's $1.42 billion television deal. Several owners said earlier this week they wanted a five-year deal.

"That's very difficult to take seriously," Allen said. "Yesterday it was five and today it's six. We better get this thing settled or we're going to have a 15-year agreement."

Both sides said agreements have been made in four minor areas: including the first increase in club fines since 1977.

Patriots Hope Wishbone Will Control 'Noles

Lake Brantley's hope of beating Seminole tonight rests on the wishbone.

What could be more natural? Hope from a wishbone. Kickoff for the Seminole Athletic Conference battle is 8 p.m. at Seminole High's Stadium.

The wishbone is not your ordinary high school offense. Its execution takes daring and flair, yet patience and discipline. It must be run with reckless abandon one time and with utmost precision the next.

Lake Brantley coach Fred Almon is sold on the wishbone. Every Tuesday night he dials his satellite dish into Norman, Okla. to watch the nation's premiere wishbone: Sooner quarterback Jamele Holloway.

Over and over Almon watches Holloway dazzle the opposition with dangerous pitches and swerving cutbacks. Oklahoma coach Barry Switzer watches too, biting his fingernails with each gyration and gambling toss.

The wishbone is fingernail-biting exciting.

The quarterback must be a fearless magician. He must give and take. All the backs may have the ball or none of them may have it. The wishbone thrives on now you see it and now you don't. Many television cameramen have been left at the line of scrimmage while the quarterback streaks into the end zone.

"I believe the wishbone is the hardest offense for high school kids to stop," Almon said. "They just don't see it very often and they only have a week to prepare for it. I'm sold on it. We won't run anything else at Lake Brantley."

The wishbone, of course, is not a cure-all. If so, Brantley would be 4-0 instead of 2-2. But... "I think we should be 4-0," Almon insisted. "We gave away the Oviedo game and we had eight turnovers against Lake Mary. Statistically, we dominated both of those teams."

Oviedo's comeback for a 28-21 overtime victory did border on miraculous, but Lake Mary won 21-0, which is pretty convincing — eight turnovers or not. Still, no one can argue Brantley does not hog the ball.

The Patriots are averaging 330 yards per game. Almon said Brantley had the ball 34 of the 48 minutes against Oviedo; 37 of the 48 against Lake Mary and 29 of the 48 against Oviedo.

"We haven't had a third and long all year," Almon continued.

"That's the key. We've gained good yardage on first and second down to always give us a third, and short."

And Almon said it is impossible to key on one position due to Brantley's availability of fresh personnel. Quick waphomory, Clint Johnson and heady junior Scott Meredith are the QBs. Hard-running senior Mark Sepe and Clegg Ivey are the fullbacks. Johnnie Griffin, Jeff Bynum, Mike Dantzer and Matt Lange are the halfbacks.

"We are going to attack the middle," Almon said. "They put their linemen on the shoulders of the guards. Once you find a crease, that linebacker is all alone. If he doesn't make the tackle, they're in trouble."

"I've seen Seminole on film all four games. They've given up yards up the middle. We're going to hammer the fullback and they're going to have to stop him. If our fullbacks gain 100 yards, we will win this football game."

Seminole coach Roger Beathard agrees about the importance of Sepe-Ivey.

"If the fullbacks are able to run like that (100 yards), it will keep our offense off the field," he said. "The wishbone is ball control. It spreads out the defense. We have to designate certain defenders to handle certain parts."

Linebackers Earnie Lewis, Bernard Burke and Ron Cox, defensive ends Paul Newell and Ardine Daniels along with cornerbacks Nick Casello and Ron Blake play crucial roles tonight. At times the defenders do not know whom has the ball. A rule of thumb is to hit everybody — sooner or later you'll find the ball carrier.

"The thing that bothers me about the wishbone option instead of the veer is that the wishbone has that extra blocker," Beathard said. "The wingback will get an extra block and give the quarterback a seam."

Lyman's Mission: Stop Curry, Shut Down SAC-Leading Rams

By Scott Sander
Herald Sports Writer

The Lyman Greyhounds know that there is only one way to beat the Lake Mary Rams: stop tailback John Curry.

"I've played against him (Curry) twice, and we haven't been able to figure him out yet," Lyman defensive back Scott Radcliff said. "We can't arm-tackle against him or he will be gone."

Linebacker Mike Whitaker, who leads the Seminole Athletic Conference in tackling with a 14.3 per game average, said stopping Curry is undoubtedly the key. "He can cut back on a dime," Whitaker said. "If we can stop him, I think that we will win."

After an opening game thrashing by Winter Park, the SAC-leading Rams have won their last three contests. And after victories over hapless Orlando Boone and Orlando Edgewater, the Greyhounds (2-1, and 0-1 in SAC and 5A-4) are coming off a frustrating 14-13 setback to Lake Howell. A missed extra point prevented Lyman from sending the game into overtime.

Lyman coach Bill Scott and Lake Mary coach Harry Nelson both said tonight's SAC/District

5A-4 contest, which is scheduled to begin at 8 at Lyman High, is crucial to their respective teams.

"We've got the toughest part of our season coming up (Lyman, Lake Howell, DeLand, with all of them being SAC/5A-4 meetings)," Nelson said. "We have to get by Lyman first, though. They are a pretty good team, and I'm expecting a tough game from them."

Scott said he respects the Rams. "They are a very talented team," Scott said. "Every district/conference game is important. This is a really big one for us, there's no doubt about it."

The Rams are sitting pretty in the SAC and 5A-4. Mary is 3-1 overall and 2-0 in the SAC and district. "Our kids are confident," Nelson said. "But I hope that our confidence doesn't turn Lake Howell's Silver Hawks used a well-oiled rushing attack to forge nine victories and a Seminole Athletic Conference title in 1986. The Hawks have stayed mainly on the ground again in '87, but have not had the same success of last year's championship squad.

Athletic Conference title chases. The Hawks are 1-1 in the district and conference.

"We've been really conservative the last three ballgames," Lake Howell coach Mike Biscaglia said. "I think that has hurt us. We'll try to pass the ball more now and try to open things up earlier."

After quarterback Jeff Neace turned in a solid effort last week, Biscaglia believes he has the tools to construct a good passing attack. Neace completed 5 of 7 passes for 73 yards and one touchdown in last week's 14-13 SAC victory over Lyman. He also ran for 86 yards.

"Jeff (Neace) did an excellent job against Lyman," Biscaglia said. "He called a lot of audibles on the sneaks he ran and he pulled us through when we needed him."

Neace said last week's victory was important. "This win will really help the spirit," he said. "That was a dire need. We'll be rolling along now."

Ken Joseph, one of the area's top offensive linemen, said the victory will turn the Hawks around. "The team has a completely different attitude," he said. "We'll come out smoking now."

The Hawks' leading receiver is Craig Derington who has five catches for 103 yards, including 2 for 40 and a touchdown last week. Derington has been a reliable pass catcher despite being bothered by shoulder injuries. Greg Meier and David Yapo are also good receivers for the Hawks as both have three catches with one of Yapo's for a touchdown.

NOTES — The Gator offense is averaging 270 yards rushing per game over the past four contests... It has passed 1,000 net rushing yards the past three weeks on 192 attempts, an average of 5.6 per carry. In 1986, Florida's offense registered 12 rushing touchdowns in 11 games. So far this season, the Gator offense has 12 rushing touchdowns in the first five games... In its last four games, the Florida offense has scored 123 points, an average of 30.7 per game... But what about Emmitt Smith? You know, the "Big E," King Emmitt, the savior of the Gators' offense? Well, Emmitt will practice. He will practice with a dominating thought in the back of his mind: the Heisman Trophy. Ah, yes, that coveted award which even Herschel Walker could not grasp as a freshman. It is not a goal that is out of Smith's reach.

Smith, a 5-foot-10, 201-pounder from Pensacola Escambia High School, currently leads the nation in total net yardage with 706 yards. He also has eight touchdowns. Lady Hawks Locate Intensity, Roll Over Brantley 15-11, 5-10

CASSLEBERRY — If Lake Howell's Lady Hawks play every match with the same intensity as they did Thursday night, they could be legitimate contenders once the district tournament rolls around.

The Lady Hawks put together their best overall performance of the season Thursday night, rolling over Brantley 15-11, 5-10 in Seminole Athletic Conference action before 111 fans at Lake Howell High.

"If we had played this hard and with this much intensity more often, we wouldn't be looking at a losing record right now," Lake Howell coach Jo Luciano said. "The girls have to realize they are capable of doing this every time they play."

In snapping a four-match losing streak, Lake Howell evened its record at 4-4 in the SAC and now stands at 6-8 overall. Lake Brantley, 12-7 overall, saw its hopes in the SAC fade as it dropped to 4-4.

"Instead of adjusting after mistakes, we had a total mental breakdown," Lake Howell coach Jo Luciano said. "We had trouble with our serve return and we missed some serves at crucial times."

Senior co-captain Susan Hayden turned in a dynamic performance for the Lady Hawks with five kills, excellent serving and fine defensive play. Included in Hayden's kills were vicious spikes on game point in both games.

"I'll take the ball anytime, but I like it the best when the game is on the line," Hayden said. "I think we were over the top in the last four matches we've played tonight." Luciano said, "Having a winning season now is just a matter of being consistent."

In junior varsity action Thursday, Tina Wilson, Christa Kranz and Jennifer Ripplard led the way as Lake Brantley claimed a 15-7, 15-10 victory over Lake Howell. The JV Lady Patriots improved their record to 10-1.

DELAND SWEEPS SEMINOLE — After dropping a tough decision in the first game, Seminole High could not regroup for game two and wound up on the losing end of a 15-13, 15-5 score at Thursday night in SAC action at Deland High.

The Lady 'Noies fell to 4-9 overall and 3-7 missed serve gave Lake Howell a side out and Heather Brann then served Lake Howell to a 14-11 lead. Lake Brantley had the serve one more time but couldn't score and the Lady Hawks then closed out the game when Lewis put up a nice set and Hayden nailed it to the floor for a kill.

Kim Gunderson's kill sparked Lake Brantley in the early going of game two and the Lady Patriots went on to build a 10-5 lead as Wendy Vickery served three points and Pam Wittig served four.

With the score 10-8, Lewis beat the Brantley block with a spike and she then served five balls in a row that the Lady Patriots did not return to give Lake Howell an 11-10 lead.

Lake Brantley had the ball two more times, but missed both serves and Brann served the final four points of the game. The 13th point was an ace serve by Brann while the 15th point was almost a replay of game one when Lewis set up Hayden for an impressive kill.

"I was really glad to see Susan (Hayden) pull through the way she did," Lewis said. "We decided not to let the four losses in a row get to us and came out and tried to reach a higher level of play."

"Of all the other hits, all six of them, Laudner's was the poorest one," Morris said. "It was a nothing slider right down the middle."

"Gladden hit a good forehand," Morris said, "but 90 times out of 100 that guy's out. In Detroit, he's out. The grass sucks it up."

"Kent Hrbek tagged Morris for a home run in the fifth, but by that time the game was effectively over."

"We've dug ourselves a pretty deep hole," Trammell said. "But we're not out of it. Certainly Saturday is a must game for us. We're two down, but we're going home. And we're not out of it."

Hoover's Defensive Vacuum Scoops Up Oviedo Mistakes

By Scott Bender

DAYTONA BEACH — Coming into Thursday night's football game with Daytona Beach Seabreeze, Oviedo coach Jack Blanton was hoping his Lions could sharpen up their skills before several important conference and district contests in the weeks to follow.

What Blanton received, however, was his team's poorest effort of the season as a pair of defensive touchdowns by Seabreeze linebacker Hoover Owens lifted the Sand Crabs to a 17-7 victory over Oviedo before 1,501 fans at Memorial Stadium.

Oviedo (3-2) will travel to Lyman next week for a Seminole Athletic Conference game. The triumph lifted Seabreeze's record to 10-2. It gave the Crabs a three-game winning streak.

"We just didn't play very well at all," a dejected Blanton said outside the Oviedo locker room after the game. "We made some mistakes, and they really cost us."

"I hope that all of the mistakes are out of our system," Blanton added. "I sure hope that we can rebound from this."

Oviedo's defense has always had a reputation for being tough, and the Crabs didn't do anything to tarnish that reputation. The Seabreeze defense held Oviedo to 136 total yards.

"We have always had a strong defensive football team, and I think that our defense was the difference tonight," Seabreeze coach Rocky Yocum said. "We have some good pieces tonight, but I think that he got a little confused at times."

Seabreeze's best offense was its defense. After holding the Crabs to their opening drive, Oviedo got the ball at their own 23-yard line. On third-and-nine, Blanton dropped back and was picked off by Owens over the middle. The strong error led to a turnover and scurried into the end zone untouched with 9:02 left in the first quarter. Scott Gatson's PAT gave the Crabs a 7-0 edge.

"(He Owens) made a good play to get to it," Blanton said. Blanton held Seabreeze on its next possession, the Lions got the ball at their own 23 and Oviedo recovered at the Oviedo 25.

The recovery set up Gatson's 42-yard field goal. Oviedo beat chance to score in the first half came late in the first half. The Lions engineered a 14-play, 84-yard drive that ended when Scott Watson missed a 24-yard field goal to the right.

Seabreeze took the second half kickoff and milked 11:08 off the clock. The Crabs used 17 plays and went 49 yards, but didn't score when Oviedo held Seabreeze on fourth-and-48, giving the Lions the ball at their own 20.

Thompson took the handoff from Blanton and was met by Owens. Owens ripped the ball out of Thompson's hands and glided 20 yards for a touchdown. Gatson's PAT pushed the lead to 17-0.

Oviedo scored its only touchdown with 4:44 left to play. After Aaron Robinson's fumble was covered by Mike Lounsbury at the Seabreeze 5, running back Chad Duncan scored on a three-yard touchdown plunge. Walmsen's PAT made the final 17-7.

Blanton was impressed with Owens. "The kid can really play," Blanton said. "He made the big plays for them, and he did his job."

The Oviedo defense also played well. The Lions limited Seabreeze to 129 total yards. "We did a good job defensively," Blanton said. "But the turnover on offense were what hurt us."

Oviedo offensive coordinator Ken Kroog said, "Hopefully we'll use this as a learning experience and do a better job next time."

The game was sloppy played as Seabreeze tallied up 13 penalties while Oviedo was flagged nine times. Seabreeze had more yards in penalties (144) than it did in offense (129).

Oviedo quarterback Matthew Blanton had a shaky debut. Blanton completed 5 of 11 times for 67 yards. His performance was, however, as he threw three interceptions with one of them being returned for a touchdown.

"This was a good chance to get Matthew some playing time," Kroog said. "He threw some good passes tonight, but I think that he got a little confused at times."

Chang, 15, Masters Testerman

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (UPI) — Michael Chang became the youngest player ever to reach the quarterfinals of a Grand Prix event by attempting to master the game of tennis and not his opponent.

Chang, a 15-year-old high school sophomore from Placencia, Calif., Thursday came back from a one-set deficit to notch a 4-6, 6-1, 6-3 victory over Ben Testerman in the $300,400 Scottsdale Open.

In the day's feature match, Peter Lundgren of Sweden won easily against Dan Goldie of McLean, Va., who had ousted top seed Mats Wilander Wednesday. Lundgren dispatched Goldie 6-1, 6-1 in 51 minutes and never fell behind in games.

Burgess Wins, Seminoles Lose
Trinity Prep soaked Seminole in prep swimming Thursday but the Tribe did come away with one victory as sophomore Clay Burgess won the 100 by 1:05.65.

Florida's Newest Greyhound Facility

Florida's newest Greyhound facility, located at Seminole Park, is set to open next month. The $1.2 million facility will provide a more comfortable and convenient environment for passengers.

The new facility will feature modern amenities, including air conditioning, restrooms, and a waiting area. It is expected to significantly improve the Greyhound experience for passengers in the area.

The facility is located at Seminole Park, a major transportation hub in the area. It will serve as a central point for Greyhound routes to and from the region.

The new facility is part of a larger effort to modernize Greyhound's infrastructure. The company is investing in new facilities and services to better serve its customers.

The facility is expected to be completed by the end of the year. It will be one of the most modern Greyhound facilities in the Southeast.

Petty Gets Provisional

CONCORD, N.C. (UPI) — Seven-time NASCAR Winston Cup champion Richard Petty left Charlotte Motor Speedway because of a qualifying problem. Petty's car was not able to qualify for the race, and he was given a provisional status.

Petty's two timed laps failed to put him on the starting grid and he had to use a provisional spot to join the 40-car race in Sunday's 664.785 race at the 1.5-mile track. NASCAR allows each car owner four provisional spots annually to gain entry into a starting grid to get a qualifying speed too slow to make the designated field.

Petty's faster lap Thursday was 167,038 mph, making him 41st fastest. Dale Jarrett qualified 40th fastest in a Chevrolet, posting a one-lap speed of 167,297 mph.

Petty missed the first-round of qualifying Wednesday after wrecking during practice. "Well, we kind of figured that," Petty, 50, said about his poor qualifying time. "This car's not quite as good as the one we wrecked. Maybe we can get it running faster before we start."

day and I didn't want to mess up. Rounding out the five quickest qualifiers Thursday were Morgan Shepherd, Buick, 170.456 mph; A.J. Foyt Jr., Oldsmobile, 169.739 mph; Greg Sacks, Oldsmobile, 169.673; and Speed Sacks, Pontiac, 169.507.

Buddy Baker qualified his Oldsmobile 26th at 169.194 mph. Ricky Rudd will start 27th and Nick Bonnett 28th.

Bobby Allison earned the pole position for the 664.785 race with a record breaking run.

Columbia Closes In On Mark Of Infamy

United Press International The Columbia Lions are on the verge of a major college record they don't want to set.

A loss at Princeton on Saturday would be Columbia's 35th consecutive defeat, surpassing the mark of 34 set by Northwestern from 1979 to 1982.

"I feel very strongly that you can't run from things, you can't run from a loss," Lions Coach Larry McCreary said. "We're carrying some baggage right now. We're the only ones who can deal with it."

The players have to recognize it and try to do something about it. McCreary, 6-3 so far this year and 0-13 since taking over for Jim Garrett in 1986, believes his team may be moving toward a victory.

"We've been striving to pick up the intensity level a little bit," McCreary said. "We've told our players that, once you do that, you never know what's going to happen."

Something did happen, at least defensively, last weekend when Columbia fell to Pennsylvania 23-0. Princeton Coach Steve Toebes said at least 1

Hepatitis Forms Differ, Get Facts On Viruses

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT — My husband had a severe attack of hepatitis 12 years ago. His doctor told him he was cured. Last week, at a family gathering, my cousin told my husband not to serve himself as he would contaminate the food. I was agast. Was he correct?

him — unless, of course, his blood were to be used in a transfusion.

Once past the acute stage of the illness, hepatitis B patients will not transmit the virus in a social setting, such as a family gathering.

Therefore, I believe that your cousin's concerns are unfounded. On the strength of your husband's doctor's conclusion, I'd give your cousin a failing grade.

Dr. Gott's new Health Report.

DEAR READER — Your cousin could use some brushing up on his manners, as well as on his medical information.

There are many causes of hepatitis (liver inflammation). The two most common are hepatitis A and hepatitis B viruses.

Hepatitis A, formerly known as infectious hepatitis, is usually caught by eating food that is contaminated by the hepatitis A virus. Uncooked shellfish are notorious in this regard. Hepatitis A virus causes a flu-like illness that may or may not be marked by jaundice, the yellowing of the skin and eyes from backup of bile pigments. Patients almost always recover from this infection and, although they are immune to repeated hepatitis A attacks, they are not contagious. Therefore, if your husband had this type of liver inflammation, he poses no threat to those around him.

Hepatitis B is more serious. It used to be known as a serum hepatitis because it usually was transmitted from one person to another by inoculations, such as blood transfusions or contaminated needles. Hepatitis B virus can remain dormant in a "recovered" patient for months even years. This is the reason medical and dental personnel are extremely cautious in handling blood specimens and blood products from infected patients. People who have had hepatitis B are usually prevented from donating blood because the virus can reactivate if transfused into another person.

Doctors routinely test the blood of people who have had hepatitis B to see if they are still infectious. Since your husband had hepatitis 12 years ago and was pronounced "cured" by his doctor, I assume he is no longer carrying the virus. Again, he poses no threat to those around

Answer to Previous Puzzle

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

It was aggressive for South to jump right to three no-trump over the opening heart-bid by East. He optimistically viewed his diamonds as solid and relied upon partner to hold not only stoppers in either black suit that the opponents might lead, but also another trick to make nine. He did get a fine dummy from partner, but still had to play jam-up when the diamond distribution went against him. Declarer won the heart lead and played the ace of diamonds. When West showed out, it was time for thought. Where were the cards for East's opening bid? With two jacks for his red-suit points, wasn't East likely to have the K-Q of spades and the A-Q of clubs? (Declarer obviously had not seen some of the light opening bids you and I have experienced in our bridge life.) That was declarer's conclusion, so he played a spade and confidently rose with the ace. He was not surprised to see the king fall, and continued with the jack. But East now showed out, and West was just smart enough to let the jack hold the second spade trick. No matter. With two spade tricks in, declarer was now able to switch back to diamonds, giving up a trick in that suit, but scoring two spades, two hearts and five diamond tricks to make his contract.

Gold Rush Fever Lives On

Thar's Gems In Them Thar Bags

Photos And Story
By Susan Ledon
Herald Staff Writer

The lure of riches from the soil still tugs at the soul of the gambler long after the miners of the 1849 California goldrush have themselves turned to dust.
But a pack mule, pick and perseverance aren't needed by today's treasure seekers, who don't have to court danger and live the rustic, lonely life in the wilds to turn their dreams of found treasure into reality.

You don't have to go west in quest of lousy. You don't have to break your back shoveling through tons of earth. In fact you don't have to leave the state of Florida, despite the fact that the Sunshine State, has never been a mecca for miners.

In the era of fast food, a formula for fast mining, not of gold but of gem stones, has been found. The urban miner can take a place in line at a flea market just across the Seminole County border in Orange County, to buy a bag of dirt that may bring a big pay off in gem stones when the dirt is washed and panned.

Plastic bags filled with 12 to 15 pounds of soil dug from a seven acre North Carolina mining site rich with deposits of raw rock including sapphires, topaz, rubies, garnets, amethyst are stacked high in the "Ruby Mines," of Mike Zueppardo.

You pay your money, $3 per bag or $5 for two bags, make your selection and under the directions of trough tenders, belly up to the water-filled trough and begin to sift through water and mud to shake jewels out into a screened-bottomed wooden tray. Just like in the movies, almost.

You may not know a gem from a simple stone, but the trough tenders, including a Cherokee Indian imported from North Carolina along with the bags of treasure laden dirt, have searched for jewels in the wilds and know a keeper stone when they see one, according to that Indian, Charlie "Chief" Sequoyah.

Mike Zueppardo admits it's a bit more fun, and more challenging, to dress in miner's gear and take a pick and dig for your own stones, which can be done at the mine site for a fee. But the North Carolina mining site is hundreds of miles away, so he figured if people can't go to the mines why not bring a mine to the people.

It was a decision he made because about three years ago his wife took a chance at a similar setup and despite Zueppardo's skepticism walked away with bag of stones that after being professionally cut were valued in an appraisal at about $2,500. He displays the documents that confirm that appraisal.

But his own "miners," prove that the possibilities of riches are in them — their bags of dirt at his Ruby Mines.

The mother of three, Anne Brown, never expected to become a miner. But the urgings of her youngsters, ages 11, 12 and 13, brought a family investment of $3 for a bag of Zueppardo's dirt a couple of weeks ago. In sifting through that dirt the family turned up two emeralds along with other stones.

Her children, from Zueppardo inventory of gold settings, selected a mounting for the rubies and ordered them cut and set by a jeweler, at an additional cost. Two weeks later Peering hopefully, this couple enjoys the delights of the search and the anticipation of the find.

Brown was back to pick up her flashy new ring — a special gift from her children, which they had a hand in creating.

"It's hard to believe the stones could be cut like that after seeing them in the raw stage," Brown said. She didn't have the stones appraised, but Zueppardo said that during the five weeks his mine has been open at least one miner has turned up two emeralds that were appraised at $450 and $1,400 each.

The chance is there. And if you buy a bag of dirt that doesn't have a single stone with any promise, Zueppardo will give you a second bag to sift.

Mining he warns can become addictive. "Some people become 'dirt junkies.' They come in every weekend and spend $40 to $60. They do this instead of Bingo," he said.

Even the uncut stones can have value, especially as an educational tool for youngsters. Brown's 12-year-old daughter, Jennifer, like many young miners, was curious about the stones her family found and did a bit of research on each one, increasing her knowledge of geology.

But basically, Zueppardo said, it's a gambling instinct that draws "miners" to his trough and causes them to pay cash for a bag of dirt. "Am I going to find a good one? Am I ever going to have what I could't afford — a big jewel," he said, is the hope and dream that motivates these miners, circa 1987.

Motion Picture Academy Turns 60

By Vernon Scott
UPI Hollywood Reporter

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, the oldest and most prestigious of Hollywood's non-profit institutions, celebrates its 60th birthday this year with special tributes and observations.

Best known for the Oscar, the movie academy is a bastion of quiet conservatism in a razzle-dazzle business peopled by more zanies and hustlers than Wall Street and Madison Avenue combined.

The Oscars are the most visible of the academy's activities because they involve movie stars, evoke glamour and make a potful of money for the academy. But the 4,800-member organization conducts other operations for the benefit of motion pictures and those employed in the industry, many of whom are overlooked by the foofaraw of the Oscars.

Academy programs include the collection, preservation and restoration of classic old films. It fosters film projects and awards for student moviemakers.

The academy sponsors The Visiting Artists program, providing on request to film festivals, universities and service groups producers, directors, actors, writers and others as lecturers.

A separate Academy Foundation was established in 1944 to organize and oversee the educational and cultural activities of the industry, including the preservation of its history and the promotion of its future.

Today it sponsors scholarships and grants to individuals and institutions for the support of a variety of film-oriented projects, mostly to college film departments and individuals involved in research, including internship programs through the American Film Institute.

The academy regularly displays exhibits in the cavernous lobby of its seven-story building. The exhibits feature photographs and documents of historical interest. In recent years such stars as Mary Pickford, Charlie Chaplin, director George Stevens and producer Jesse Lasky have been so honored.

Then there are academy tributes two or three times a year honoring outstanding individuals who have made significant contributions to movies.

Earlier this year Fredric March was the subject of a tribute at a reception attended by the public as well as the film colony.

Afterwards a full-blown program was held in the theater where director Fred Zinnemann, Jane Fonda, Jason Robards, Vanessa Redgrave and others who had known or worked with March spoke extemporaneously. Film clips were interspersed to illustrate March's work. At the end of the program the celebrities participated in a question and answer session with the audience.

The academy also conducts regularly scheduled lectures for members and the public at academy headquarters on Wilshire Boulevard in Beverly Hills. Subject matter runs from comedy to special effects and motion picture lighting.

Perhaps the most outstanding element of the academy is the Margaret Herrick Library, the most complete motion picture research library in the world. It has become a mecca for film buffs, movie historians and writers.

More than 14,000 visitors (mostly researchers) visit the library every year. It receives more than 30,000 telephone calls annually for information stored in some 18,000 books and pamphlets. The library contains some 5 million still photographs.

Two major publications are produced by the academy that are of vital importance to the industry.

The first and most important to actors, directors and producers is The Academy Players Directory. Established in 1937, it contains the photographs of 15,000 actors and lists their agents. The four-volume directory includes special indexes for minority performers.

Castings directors, producers and directors rarely cast a movie without first checking the directory, especially in hiring performers for secondary roles and supporting parts.

The second publication is the Annual Index to Motion Picture Credits, a compilation of the contributions made to each movie by the individuals who worked on each film.

The academy supports a paid full-time staff of 85. Its growth has been phenomenal in recent years.

Sixty years ago the academy was organized as a nonprofit corporation with 38 members. Among the founders was Douglas Fairbanks Sr., who had the backing of such industry giants as Louis B. Mayer, Will Hays, Mary Pickford, Cecil B. DeMille, Joseph M. Schenck, director Frank Lloyd and actor Conrad Nagel.

ALL MY CHILDREN

Travis fretted over Erica, who was wounded while Goldie and Silver (Noelle) struggled over a gun. Damon and Goldie left Cobble's island in a boat, taking Silver (Noelle) with them. Damon left Goldie to drown after she fell overboard while fighting with Silver. Jeff fired clinic employee Dan, who remained by telling everyone that ex-judge Mark probably has AIDS. Russ went on a drinking spree after a fight with Ellen, who he fears may have the AIDS virus if she slept with Mark. Cindy and her son, Scott, moved in with Angie. Julie, who is hanging out on the streets of New York City in order to avoid Palmer, was befriended by a beg man, Hugh Tinsley. Stuart can't take his eyes off Cindy. Erica and Travis are worried that the trauma Erica's been through could cause her to miscarry their baby. Jeremy searched for Silver (Noelle). Damon led to Silver that Goldie conceived the plot to have Silver kill Erica.

ANOTHER WORLD

John used his Vietnam doctoring expertise to save Vicki's life after she crashed her sports car. A hospitalized Vicki later went into a coma. Rachel read the riot act to Mitch for encouraging Matthew to fight back when his classmates pick on him. Michael and John both donated blood in case Vicki needs a transfusion. Amanda was green with envy when Sam's former girlfriend, Joyce, arrived in town. Scott told Cheryl that he's now dating Dawn. Peter secretly feels he's to blame for Vicki's accident because he egged her on to expose Donna and John's feelings for each other. Reginald feels no guilt about Vicki's condition even though he's the one who pressured Peter to put the screws to Vicki about Donna and John. Michael was suspicious when a disheveled Donna emerged from John's houseboat. Donna later led that a stranger raped her on her way to the waterfront. Mitch is upset he can't tell anyone he's Sam's brother.

AS THE WORLD TURNS

Kathy, who tried to commit suicide by combining booze and pills, phoned the teen suicide hotline during Kim's new TV talk show. Later, at the hospital, Casey and Taylor tried to save Kathy's life. Andy felt guilty that he didn't realize Kathy was troubled enough to try to kill herself. Hal admitted to Margo that he plans to use Barbara and Paul as bait to trap James. Lance, who is smitten with Lily, paid a stripper to come on strong with Holden. Duncan learned that Nick is James' Oakdale contact. Nick disappeared after firing shots at Tom, who wasn't injured. After Casey turned down her dinner invitation, Taylor turned her charms on Tom. Margo escaped from Nick, who bragged that he'd killed George, Doris and Capt. Cromwell. Duncan doesn't know he's been cleared of charges that he killed Cromwell. Shannon fretted over Duncan, who went looking for James. In a phone call, James threatened to kill Shannon and Duncan.

THE BOLD AND THE BEAUTIFUL

Caroline refused to listen to Ron's mother, Florence, who insisted that Ron is a good boy, not a rapist. Lawyer Rosemary West agreed to defend Ron. Mark freaked out when Donna said that she might be pregnant. Brooke told a crushed Ridge that she's sure Caroline is in love with Thorne. Donna insisted that she loves Mark and that she's only friends with Rocco. Dave was jealous when Brooke admitted that Ridge once put the make on her. Caroline doesn't want Thorne to accept Bill's job offer.

BATS OF OUR LIVES

In Montreal, Adrienne accepted Justin's marriage proposal. Jennifer was devastated when she overheard Bill tell Janice that Laura, who is Bill's wife and Jennifer's mother, is mentally ill. Kayla is secretly relieved that because of his illness, Jack (Billy) can't make love to her. Eve arranged for Nick to harass Kimberly, then panicked when she learned he had lashed Kimberly in a warehouse that was to be demolished. Eve secretly arranged for Shane to rescue Kimberly. Because Kimberly had the measles during her pregnancy, she feared her baby could be born abnormal. Jonah and Curtis opted on a man they think is an alien from outer space. While working on the waterfront project together, casual sparks flew between Patch and Kayla, who were forced to find shelter in a cabin during a rain storm. Harper and Jo argued over Jack (Billy). In Greece, Roman kept tabs on Victor and Dana.

GENERAL HOSPITAL

Lary walked out on Tony, who said he's only interested in having a casual relationship with her. Aunt Charlotte insisted on staying in Port Charles and helping to reunite Lary and Tony. Charlotte planned to cut herself in for a share of Tony's money. Terry, who is upset over Dotty's disappearance, suddenly lost her ability to sing. Anna and Duke planned a traditional Scottish wedding. Edward reluctantly agreed to let his dying brother, Herbert Quartermaine, spend some time at the Quartermaine mansion. Alan has visions of pushing the Port Charles Quartermaine money with Herbert's fortune. Sam told Robert that Von Schuler suspected Alan of embezzling the missing HTI funds. Bobbi took Melissa and Sherry to visit their hospitalized mother, Martha. Melissa admitted she's afraid that Martha is going to die. Robert is bored working as a private eye.

GUESS WHO'S COMING TO DINNER

Reva talked Josh, who met with Sonni. Sonni told Josh how she escaped death the day she fell from a bridge and was presumed to have drowned. Even though there was sexual tension between Josh and Sonni, she insisted that she wasn't ready to hop in the sack with him. On a tape recorder, Will said that he wants to take Rosie to bed. Alan-Michael sabotaged Cameron's study date with Dinah. Reva realized that Alan is seeing Vanessa. Alan burst Reva's bubble when he said he had Sarah's latest paternity tests altered so that it appeared that Josh is Sarah's father. Meredith argued with Rich that he shouldn't be treating Johnny's cancer because the two men are relatives. Nona and Meredith are very attracted to each other. George, who is guilty of robbing Alan's safe and the Chamberlain home, realized that Frank Cooper's garage is the perfect place to set up a chop-shop.

LOVING

Alan "married" April in a mock ceremony, then freaked out when April nixed kissing him. Ned and Jim arrived just as Alan attempted to kill himself and April by setting his house on fire. Harry rebuffed Ann's attempts to get him to try to make love to her. Ava is jealous that socialite Cynthia Hunnicut is best friends with Kate instead of Ava. Cecilia offered to help Steve run his garage. Gwyneth laid into Ann for telling Clay she thought Gwyneth was having a fling with Rich. Stacy is upset that Jack doesn't want another baby right now.

ONE LIFE TO LIVE

Everyone was stunned when Charles' will revealed that he was Geoffrey's father. Before she was taken off to prison, Tina returned Al to Gabriele. Elizabeth talked Tom into helping her conspire to get Lee (Carole) ousted from the Sanders clan. Tina was harassed by her prison cellmates, Elaine and Maude. Sandra, who is in the same prison, befriended Tina. Mari Lynn insisted she's not interested in Charles' money even though Lee (Carole) pointed out that Charles' money can help them live in style. Max vowed that he'd find a way to prove Tina didn't murder Maria. Jamie plotted to blackmail Frank and to get revenge against Tina, who helped to expose his South American drug ring. Cord nixed moving into the Sanders mansion with Kate, who agreed to tempo-

Better Brew

In making coffee. "The Complete Book of Food" reports, the aim is to extract flavorful solids from the ground beans without pulling bitter, astringent tannins along with them. How long you brew the coffee determines how much bitter you extract. To make strong but not bitter coffee, increase the amount of coffee - not the brewing time.

Line

Of Succession If by reason of death, resignation, removal from office, or failure to qualify there is neither a president or vice-president to discharge the powers and duties of the office of president, then the speaker of the House of Representatives shall, upon his resignation as speaker and representative, act as president.

Don't Argue With Success - Hair And All!

Dear Dick: Doesn't Bernadette Peters realize how awful those hairdos look? Of all the years we've watched her perform I have never seen her with a decent hair style. She's talented and could be cute if only she'd do something to her hair. A rat's nest would look better. — Mrs. J.W., Joplin, Mo.

Dear Mrs. J.W.: Yes, her choice of hair styles leaves something to be desired in my eyes, too. But you can't argue with success, and Miss Peters is doing very well, hair and all.

Dear Dick: I remember a film starring (I think) Clint Eastwood. He was injured and "haling up" at an all-girl's school. They finally did him in by serving poisoned mushrooms. Can you tell me the title of that film? It's haunted me long enough. — N.W., Pottsville, Pa.

Dear N.W.: That was "The Beguiled," dating from 1971. Curiously, the two female stars in that were Geraldine Page and Elizabeth Hartman, who died within two weeks of each other last June.

Dear Dick: Could you please settle a long-standing argument between my mom and me? She says the couples on the TV show "Divorce Court" are not actors. I say they are. Who's right? — R.D., Saginaw, Mich.

Ask Dick Kleiner

Dear R.D.: You are. They are all professional actors.

Dear Dick: Besides looking alike and having many of the same mannerisms, what else do actor Leslie Nielsen and Sen. Paul Laxalt have in common? — W.W., El Campo, Texas.

Dear W.W.: Nothing. And furthermore, I see no resemblance nor any similarity in mannerisms.

Dear Dick: On the miniseries "Deceptions," there was a character named Carlo. The actor looked very familiar. Who was he? — T.C., Amarillo, Texas.

Dear T.C.: His name was Fabio Testi.

Dear Dick: I've seen at the end of some episodes of "Bewitched" that the character, Serena, is played by Pandora Specks. Why is this so, as Serena appears to be Elizabeth Montgomery in a wig and make-up? — D.C., Knoxville, Tenn.

Knoxville, Tenn.

Dear D.C.: That is what is known in show biz as a "George Spelvin" name. In the theater, whenever one actor played two parts, the second part was listed as "George Spelvin." This was done to keep the audience in the dark about the fact that the actor was doubling up. In this case, the alias was used to try and fool the audience, but it didn't work with you.

Dear Dick: Is John Wayne really from Texas? A few people told me he was. — J.B., Torrington, Wyo.

Dear J.B.: No, he wasn't. He looked big enough to be a Texan, but he was actually born in Iowa and raised in California.

Dear Dick: Recently, I saw Virginia Madsen in two good movies — "Electric Dreams" and "Creator." I enjoyed her work very much. I'd like to know what else she has done. — E.H.R., Bowling Green, Ky.

Dear E.H.R.: She's a busy actress — a lot of TV work and a few good movies. Besides the ones you mentioned, she also had good parts in "Dune," "Class" and this year's "Long Gone," among others.

Actor Cries For Wolf

By Jamie Portman
Southern News

NEW YORK — "What do I think of wolves?" Charles Martin Smith chuckles at the question.

"I'm very fond of them. Some of my best friends are wolves." Then, he adds impishly: "Take Farley for instance."

He's talking about flamboyant Canadian author Farley Mowat whose Never Cry Wolf became the movie that has brought Smith his greatest acting success so far.

He got to know Mowat as a result of making the film — a grueling venture which saw Smith spend 18 months on location in primitive conditions in the Yukon and northern British Columbia. He had the one main human role — that of a biologist who learns, in the company of wolves, the meaning of Arctic survival.

"Farley's great. We got to be good friends." Indeed, this friendship further fueled American-born Smith's rage when U.S. immigration authorities barred Mowat from crossing the border because of alleged left-wing sympathies.

"It was such a typically American action," he fumes. "I was supposed to meet Farley when he got off the plane in Los Angeles. Instead, he couldn't come. Now he's so furious that he'll probably never return to the U.S. unless Reagan sends Air Force One to pick him up!"

If Smith sounds less like an American than a loyal Canadian, it's not surprising. One of the side benefits of Never Cry Wolf was that he not only fell in love with Canada but also with a Canadian woman.

Married, he now lives in Vancouver and is a landed Canadian immigrant — although he still commutes regularly to the U.S. to work.

There was another positive fall-out from the Never Cry Wolf experience — working with famed director Carroll Ballard.

It whetted an interest in directing dating back to the early 1970s when he acted for George Lucas in American Graffiti. Last year, he made his directing debut with the horror comedy, Trick Or Treat.

Not, of course, that he's giving up acting. In fact, one day after he finished Trick Or Treat, he found himself donning a Thirties fedora in Chicago to play federal tax accountant Oscar Wallace, the man who nails gangster Al Capone in the Paramount film The Untouchables.

At first, he worried about the violence in The Untouchables — his character is fated to be murdered and hung up like a piece of meat in an elevator — only to change his mind after seeing director Brian De Palma's approach to the material.

As a fledgling director himself, Smith counts himself fortunate that he has worked with some of the top names in the business — Ballard, Lucas, De Palma, John Carpenter (Starman) and the late Sam Peckinpah (Pat Garrett And Billy The Kid.)

"They all have one thing in common. These guys, when they get on to a story, they really know how to tell it. That's the thread of all good directors — they're storytellers, and each of them will make a story his own in his own way."

Smith is concise and to the point in analyzing various directing styles.

De Palma: "He not only has this wonderful gift for visual narrative, but he also likes long takes."

Ballard: "He likes to shoot close-ups, but he does it with long lenses which bring out the face in a different way."

Carpenter: "He likes to get close up with a wide lens which ensures that everything including the background is in focus. This makes for a very rich canvas."

Lucas: "George likes to work with two cameras at the same time and then choose the best."

And what of the notorious hell-raising Peckinpah?

"Peckinpah was a wild drunk," Smith says candidly. "Was he drunk on the set? You could never be sure — it was hard to tell."

"He maintained a tension on the set — he loved to work with everybody being tense. Some people loved him, and others would refuse to work with him again."

Smith was 19 when he appeared for Peckinpah in Pat Garrett And Billy The Kid.

When he weighs the pros and cons, he decides it was a good experience and that he would have been prepared to work for Peckinpah a second time.

"I remember he wouldn't use a normal director's chair. Instead he'd sit in a low canvas chair and have one of his screaming tirades. Then he would smile and wink at me. Really, he was an old salt and a fantastic story-teller."

But Ballard, the director who managed to make Never Cry Wolf for the Disney organization without making it look like a typical Disney movie, is his obvious favorite.

"It was astounding making that film because it was really like making a documentary. I went up there and lived in the North and Carroll followed me around with a camera for a year and a half."

"It was great because of the artistic integrity that was going into that picture."
