

Zoo Referendum Killed By House Committee

Herald Staff Writer

A bill that would have paved the way for the Central Florida Zoo to move from Sanford to Orlando was killed in Tallahassee Monday when a committee chairman rejected several bills asking for selective hikes in property tax.

The zoo bill would have let voters opt to let local governments raise the property tax above the legislature-set ceiling of $10 per $1,000 assessed valuation. While a constitutional provision allows for such an exception, there were so many similar bills seeking exception that chairman of the House Finance and Taxation Committee, Carl Ogden, D-Jacksonville, decided mittee. He said he was not sure why Ogden to kill them all.

"It seems to me that it's a serious setback for our organization." said Alan Rozon, executive director of the zoo.

"We had hoped to have the opportunity to take the issue to the voters, whether they wanted to pay for a new zoo." he said.

Rozon, who called measuring support for the zoo - not a possible move - as the reason for the referendum, was critical of Ogden whom he called a "switch-hitter." He said the bill had made its way through the House without problem and was approved by Ogden's comdecided to quash the measure.

We're especially puzzled by it... The bill has had no problems ... We wonder why this didn't happen (to the bill) some time ago instead of after it cleared all the hurdles of the house." he sald.

With the bill defeated, and no countywide elections scheduled for next year, thus precluding another attempt for a referendum. officials will "work hard out here to make it a viable zoo and to make it a better attraction." Rozon said.

If the bill had passed. It would have allowed

Seminole. Orange and Osceola counties form a special taxing district and levy a 25 cents-per-$1,000 evaluation tax to support the zoo and its move from near Sanford to Turkey Lake Park, west of Orlando. If the bill had passed, voters in the three counties would have to approve the tax and a $40 million bond issue.

The special tax would have raised an estimated $6.5 million.

Zoo officials have considered moving because the Sanford site is small and too damp for some of the animals. The move has been opposed by people who want to keep the zoo where it is, or if it does eventually move, to keep a small animal zoo at the site.

Seminole Teachers Ask 20% Pay Hike

By Paul Schaefer Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County teachers want pay increases ranging from 13 percent for beginning teachers to slightly more than 20 percent for teachers with 15 years' experience amounting to $10 million for the 1986-87 school year. But they'll have to wait until July for a reaction from the school board's bargaining team.

Contract talks between the school board negotiating team and the Seminole Education Association (SEA). representing 2.302 teachers, began Monday afternoon at Lake Mary High School on a new. one-year contract beginning with the 1986-87 school year.

Marshall Ogletree, SEA Executive Director, presented the teachers' initial salary proposal. saying Seminole teachers are paid below the Florida and national pay averages. Half Brothers Get Life, More For 'Almost Barbaric' Crimes

By Deane Jordan Herald Staff Writer

For committing "almost barbaric" crimes on a topless dancer, a Colorado man was sentenced Monday in Sanford to a century in prison and life. His half brother was sentenced to life and 70 years.

The sentences are to run concurrent for Robert Charles Boruker, 38, and Stormy D. Faddis. They were sentenced at the county jail by visiting Circuit Judge J. Emory Cross.

The half-brothers were convicted in April of kidnapping, four counts of sexual battery and robbery. As at the trial, the jailhouse courtroom was under heavy security when the men were sentenced. Each man wore leg irons. The courtroom doors were locked and people entering the fall were met by a corrections officer with a metal detector. Sheriff's deputies were stationed in the courtroom. Parked near the jail was a deputy at-ready in a patrol car.

"The court is imposing (the sentences) because of the severity of the charges against you and because the victim was subject to almost barbaric treatment over a period of 48 hours." Cross told each man.

They were found guilty of kidnapping a woman at gunpoint in Fern Park, sexually assaulting and defiling her with a handgun and robbing her during a two-day period in November.

She escaped from them in Daytona Beach. They were not caught, however, until two weeks later after Winter Park police identified the vehicle they were driving as stolen and nabbed them after a 100-mph chase into Seminole County.

During their trial, two other woman testified they had been similarly treated by the men. The brothers face similar charges in Orange and Volusia countles.

At the time of the incident, Boruker was wanted for a parole violation in Colorado and Faddis was a September escapee from a correction institute in Cocoa. Faddis escaped one month before he was to be released from a 10-year sentence for burglary and dealing in stolen property. Monday, sheriff's investigators were looking into an incident in which a hacksaw blade was found in a bottle of hair conditioner hidden in Faddis' mattress.

Both men plan to appeal their convictions and sentences, according to their attorneys.

Shackled half-brothers Robert Buroker, 38, foreground, and Stormy Faddis, 24, await sentencing Monday at the Seminole County jall.

Precaution Said Best Policy In 'Sunshine Law' Matters

"I would suggest if a question exists as to whether the action might involve a violation, the best thing to do is assume the law applies," City Attorney William Colbert told the city representatives. "My advice is don't allow yourselves to be put in a situation where a question of violation could arise."

The State Government in the Sunshine Law prohibits elected and appointed county and city representatives from private considerations of matters that are or may be scheduled for consideration by their respective boards.

Colbert's statements regarding the law came during Monday afternoon's city commission workshop at Sanford City Hall. The meeting was called by city commissioners admitted discussing commission agenda item by phone.

The session had been opened by commissioners to all members of the city's 17 advisory boards, authorities and committees. Those who chose to attend represented a cross section of these public bodies and Mayor Smith said she was "delighted" with the turnout. Attendance necessitated the workshop's being held in the city commission chambers rather than its usual location in the smaller city manager's conference room.

Attendees' apparent knowledge of the sunshine law was indicated by the questions they posed to Colbert. The queries focused on the law's application to specific situations, rather than its general guidelines.

NATION IN BRIEF

Star Light, Star Bright Senate Stars Were Quite A Sight

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Senate has gone live on nationwide television with a warning from Republican leader Robert Dole that lawmakers must resist hamming it up for the cameras if the historic change is to become permanent.

Unfazed by that advice, Sen. Howell Heflin, D-Ala., recited a "Sonnet to Senate TV," Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, dusted his bald pate with powder in an on-the-air demonstration for his colleagues and Sen. Robert Stafford, R-Vt., admitted to the nation that he had searched his closet in vain for a "television blue" shirt.

Despite such shenanigans Monday in what members are fond of calling "the world's greatest deliberative body." Democratic leader Robert Byrd of West Virginia said television has come to the Senate to stay.

Nine senators were on the floor as the first televised Senate opening took place, about half wearing blue shirts and red ties - recommended colors for the cameras.

C-SPAN, the network that already televises House proceedings, produces the gavel-to-gavel Senate coverage for a potential 25 million American households - one quarter of all those with TV sets. Other networks will be able to select coverage for use on newscasts.

Eight States Holding Primaries

California Republicans pick among 13 candidates to find an opponent for Sen. Alan Cranston today, while veteran Rep. Peter Rodino, D-N.J., and freshman Sen. James Abdnor, R-S.D., face tight primary battles.

Eight states are holding primaries. Alabama, California, lowa and South Dakota pick candidates for governor and senator, while New Mexico has a contest for governor. Those five states along with Mississippi, Montana and New Jersey have House races.

The South Dakota Senate race between Abdnor and Gov. William Janklow has sparked predictions of a 68 percent voter turnout. Abdnor said over the weekend he had not had time to consider whether he would support Janklow if he gets beat, while the governor said he would support Abdnor because "I'm a team player."

Woman Police Chief Resigns

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) - Penny Harrington, the first woman police chief of a major American city, said she had no other choice than to resign when a three-man review panel accused her of having serious "defects of leadership.'

Mayor Bud Clark said Monday he was flabbergasted by the commission's recommendation that Harrington step down, but he and the chief concluded that the sharply critical report left Harrington no choice but to quit after 17 months in office.

A 22-year veteran of the force. Harrington had filed 42 suits and complaints to end sex discrimination during her climb to top rank. The report recommending her resignation was released to the chief and the mayor this weekend. It criticized her reorganization of the department's vice squad and said Harrington demonstrated "defects in leadership that have cost her the confidence of the rank and file of her command, as well as the confidence of other law enforcement agencies with which the bureau must work cooperatively."

The House removed language allowing death warrants to last indefinitely - they currently expire after two weeks - only after supporters of the cap told them the Senate would not pass the bill while the death warrant provision was in it.

The Senate rejected the death warrant amendments last week. and asked the House to remove them. The bill increases the stateimposed cap on the prison inmate population by about 300. Prison system director Louie Wainwright has told Graham the population has exceeded the cap: if Graham's office had confirmed that report before the new cap became law Wainwright would have had to release prisoners before they completed their terms.

The higher cap goes into effect immediately.

put a modification of the homestead tax exemption before the voters, despite claims from numerous black legislators it would mean higher taxes for the poor.

Currently, homeowners can deduct the first $25,000 of their house's value when figuring their property tax. Critics say that takes many owners of small homes off the tax rolls entirely. forcing owners of larger homes to pay more than their fair share and leaving many rural counties short of operating funds.

If approved by the voters in November, the bill (HJR 1305) would instead make the first $5.000 of a home's value exempt. then exempt half the remaining value up to $25,000. Homes worth $45,000 or more would see no tax increase, but cases, and so would not have taxes on homes worth $5,000 to $45.000 would go up.

Court Avoids Definite Ruling In Cable Case

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Supreme Court, sidestepping a major controversy in the cable more detailed views on the TV industry, ruled Monday that local governments cannot arbitrarily restrict cable franchises without giving good reasons for doing so.

The justices, in a unanimous ruling, sent back to a lower court a case challenging an auction process used by the city of Los Angeles for awarding cable franchises. The high court said it did not have enough facts before it to decide if the city's interest in setting up monopolies outweighed the First Amendment rights of cable operators.

The action leaves open for another day the question of whether cable television is entitled to the same First Amendment protections as newspapers and magazines and other types of media.

King Predicts Oil Price Rise

KUWAIT (UPI) - King Fahd of Saudi Arabia said in an interview published Monday he expected oil prices to rise to $20 a barrel and ruled out speculation on further drops in the price of crude oil.

King Fahd told Kuwait's As Siyassah newspaper there was no acceptable substitute for oil and rejected the idea that pricing and production wars among producers could push prices down to $7 a barrel.

"In my opinion, oil prices will stabilize at around $20 per barrel because consumer countries have now used up nearly all their reserves, and as prices go down. consumption tends to rise," the Saudi monarch said.

A 20-year-old Maitland woman told Seminole County sheriff's deputies she was raped at about 2 a.m. Saturday by three men. one of whom took her from the ABC Lounge in Casselberry, to a home where two other men were waiting.

The woman told sheriff's deputies the man had promised her a ride home from the bar, but took her to a home near Lake Triplet Drive, where she was raped by that man and two others.

The two men waiting at the house helped the first man force the victim into the home where she was assaulted. After the attack she fled on foot, but the man who took her from the bar followed. Silencing The Whistleblower

The modern Japanese business executive isn't expected to commit hari kari when his company is responsible for an airline crash or a faulty product that causes human suffering. though he can be expected to resign in disgrace and with deep public remorse.

In this country, unfortunately, we adhere to a different tradition: when something goes wrong, we shoot the whistleblower. Almost inevitably, the company conscience can expect to be ignored, demoted or drummed out of the organization.

Such seems to be the case at Morton Thiokol Inc., the company that made the space shuttle's flawed booster rockets. Three months ago, two of Morton Thiokol's rocket engineers, Allan J. McDonald and Roger M. Boisjoly, told the presidential commission investigating the Challenger tragedy that they had argued strenuously against the launch because of the unusual cold weather on Jan. 28. Their warnings were overruled by Morton Thiokol's management, and a few hours later, the Challenger and seven people were lost.

In testimony recently made public. McDonald and Boisjoly told the commission that in recent months they had been stripped of their authority, deprived of their staffs and prevented from seeing critical data about the investigation of the Challenger disaster. They were being "punished for being right," as William Rogers, chairman of the presidential commission, observed. (A Morton Thiokol executive denied the engineers had been demoted but conceded that they had been reassigned in what he said was a broader company reorganization.)

Whistleblowers, of course, should expect such a fate. Fortunately, the principals in this case had a well-publicized and still active presidential commission on their side. The commission was able to raise a cry of protest. and chairman Rogers felt compelled to communicate to the "company as a whole" his distress that the engineers had been punished for testifying. McDonald and Bolsjoly, for all practical purposes, are probably through at Morton Thiokol, though there must be some consolation in knowing that they have performed a valuable public service. Until they first testified, several weeks after Challenger was lost, both the commission and the public were leaning toward the theory that the disaster was an inexplicable accident caused by hardware failures no one could have been expected to foresee. The testimony of the engineers, however, shed light on problems with the booster rockets' safety seals, problems that had been ignored for several years. Later evidence has virtually proven that a burn-through of the joints held together by those seals caused the disaster. Thinking back to the day of that disaster a few short months ago, we remember President Reagan's eloquent tribute to the seven Challenger astronauts and his call for a renewed commitment to space exploration. Engineers Allan McDonald and Roger Boisjoly have done their part. They have spoken with the eloquence of truth.

Group Could Give Vampires A Bad Name

WASHINGTON (UPI) - An organization calling itself "Bat Conservation International" is trying to separate facts from myths, many of which appear to have been spread by the English novelist Bram Stoker in his book about Count Dracula of Transylvania.

As for the fiction that "bats suck people's blood," a BCI spokesman allows as how "only three of nearly 1.000 species eat blood, and those live only in parts of Latin America."

Furthermore, according to BCI, even vampire bats "generally go after wildlife or livestock, not people."

The last time I consulted a map. Transylvania was part of Romania and was located the next hemisphere over from Latin America. And Dracula's victims were mostly young women.

Any resemblance between wildlife or livestock and young women is, of course, purely coincidental.

BCI took no heed at all of the notion that the best way - some say the only way - to kill a vampire is by driving a stake through its heart. However, I am willing to concede that such a concept probably is more mythical than factual. That myth may have originated among vampire-hunters who were poor marksmen.

BCI does say that bats not only are harmless but actually a boon to the human race. An organization like that could give vampires a bad name.

Vampire bats themselves are small, reddishbrown creatures. They can't help it if they can only swallow fluids. Any member of the human race who has ever been on a fluid diet can sympathize.

Moreover, according to one reference book I looked at in the course of this rather exhausting. if not exhaustive, research, while vampire bats have been known to attack sleeping people. their bite is generally painless and soon heals.

Nevertheless, what are described as "weird stories" have sprung up around bats, including the "superstitious legends" that their life style was patterned after Count Dracula-type vam-Dires

Although vampire folk tales come from many parts of the world, including, presumably, Latin America, the folks in Romania and other Balkan countries must have been particularly talkative.

They envisioned some vampires as corpses of suicides who came back to life at night and bit the necks of sleeping persons in their quest of a constant supply of fresh blood.

As to why a suicide would choose to come back to life at night with only fresh blood for nourishment, I cannot imagine. But you know how folk tales are. Maybe there wasn't a fast-food outlet in the neighborhood.

Anyway, there have been numerous motion picture versions of the Dracula legend. In some of which the vampire pursues two young Englishwomen. But, the bat conservation movement to the contrary, I still ao along with the novel.

Incidentally, I was somewhat surprised to learn that Stoker's Dracula character was based on a real person - a member of the Romanian nobility whose nickname in that language means "son of the devil."

Too bad for literature and the movies that Stoker never met his father.

VIEWPOINT Hazard: Litigation Pollution

By John P. Cregan

Chief Justice Warren Burger relates the story of a small town with only one lawyer who is about to close shop for lack of business. But then another lawyer moves in, and both thrive.

Abraham Lincoln, himself a lawyer, once proclaimed that the highest duty of any attorney is to discourage litigation. Honest Abe could never have foreseen the day when litigation lawyers would be hawking their talents on TV in between soap detergent ads and "I Love Lucy" reruns.

America is easily the most litigious society in the world. In 1984, one new civil suit was filed for every 15 Americans. Since 1950, the number of lawyers has increased twice as fast as the nation's population. America houses twothirds of the world's lawyers. What the dean of the Stanford Law School has termed "litigation pollution" has likewise become a uniquely American hazard. This litigation pollution is primarily the result of a breakdown in our civil justice, or tort, system. Not a new dessert pastry, torts is that body of legal rules that determines what injuries can be compensated and what has to be proven to win a lawsuit. We inherited our tort rules from English Common Law. For most of our history, changes in these rules evolved ever so slowly and always with reverence for the great traditions and precedents of our legal heritage. That all began to change for the worse during the 1960s. The past generation has managed to reverse 200 years of common law tradition, transforming tort law from a system of redressing wrongs into an easy lottery with lots of ways for the plaintiff and his trial attorney to win. Historically, in the unexceptional case, the person suing could only recover damages if he proved that the defendant was at fault: that the defendant's negligence caused the injury. If the person suing was primarily at fault - either through deliberate or negligent actions - he rarely received any damage award. This is known as the doctrine of "negligence."

v. Anaya's Shame

WASHINGTON WORLD House Labor Dispute

By Robert Shepard

WASHINGTON (UPI) - A labor dispute involving employees of the House restaurant system is becoming an embarrassment for some Democrats who fear the squabble is calling into question their party's traditional support for the labor movement.

For about two years, the restaurant workers have been trying to form a union, but have been thwarted by what some House members describe as "a concerted anti-union campaign."

These liberal Democrats, concerned that the impasse will drag on indefinitely, recently took the issue to the full Democratic caucus and are pressing for a vote on a resolution that would sweep away the obstacles that so far have prevented the workers from voting on whether to form a union.

The issue is uniquely a Democratic problem for two reasons. As the majority party, the Democrats pretty much run the House as they please, including deciding if an employees' union is something that can be tolerated. And in view of organized labor's longtime support for the Democratic Party, it seems incongruous at best for Democrats even to appear guilty of antiunionism in their own backyard. Rep. William Clay. D-Mo., one of the most outspoken supporters of the union effort, recently charged that "every dilatory tactic in the book has been used" to deny the restaurant workers the chance to organize. 'What a pity the Democrats, who traditionally have led the way in the advancement of workers' rights. have been so reluctant and so callous in extending those same rights to our employees," Clay said in a speech to the House. Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., called it "an embarrassment to the U.S. Congress that our restaurant workers have been unable to organize." He said it was "way past time that we act to correct this disgraceful situation." Rep. Major Owens. D-N.Y., noted the House is controlled by the Democrats "and whatever happens here certainly is an indication of the will of the Democratic Party." Rep. Barney Frank, D-Mass., said he and his colleagues took the issue to the Democratic caucus "because people in positions of authority" would not resolve the matter. "We got from some of them typical anti-union arguments, and I was kind of surprised to hear them coming from some of my Democratic friends," Frank added.

BERRY'S WORLD

State legislatures - pressured by the growing clout of consumer groups - began to modify the doctrine of "negligence" by statute in the 1960s. At the same time, newly elected liberal judges started compensating plaintiffs using a standard of "strict liability."

Gov. Toney Anaya of New Mexico stands alone among state chief executives in urging citizens to avold cooperation with the law. His extraordinary action has been largely overlooked, but should be noted and condemned.

The Governor's counsel of disobedience comes in a formal declaration of New Mexico as a "state of sanctuary" for Central Americans. According to The New York Times. the proclamation aims to discourage citizen cooperation with efforts by the Immigration and Naturalization Service to arrest people who have illegally entered the United States. The Governor said: "It's my hope that this will serve as more than a symbolic gesture."

The Governor should be ashamed of himself. In a time of growing lawlessness, he should be urging respect for the law, not noncooperation with public authorities. It should be borne in mind that the INS is a lawful agency of the U.S. government, operating under the mandate of Congress. The Congress has made the laws and authorized the regulations governing the admission of foreigners into the United States. If Gov. Anaya doesn't like these laws and regulations, he has the right to lobby for new laws. In democratic societies, public officials don't advocate disrespect for the rule of law.

The idea of "sanctuary" has no basis whatsoever in U.S. law. It is a concept completely without justification, acceptance or legal history. It is strictly a political notion fostered by those who want to circumvent the law of the land. It should be obvious to any reasonable person that the nation's immigration policy can't be left to individual or pressure group de-cision-making. Control of the nation's borders is a national responsibility that rests with the national legislative body, Congress.

The United States has an extraordinarily generous immigration policy. Each year it admits hundreds of thousands of legal immigrants from all parts of the world, despite the fact that many states and regions are facing recessionary conditions and jobs are in short supply. Unfortunately, there is a silent invasion by illegal immigrants, who may total 10 million or more. They represent an unacceptable burden on American society.

If the "sanctuary" advocates were to be given their way, a human wave would overrun the Southwest of the United States.

Understandably, all the poor people of Mexico and other Central American countries prefer the better life that exists in the United States. The U.S., however, would be sunk if these people were allowed to enter when they pleased. Social services would be overwhelmed. The struggle over jobs would become bitter and divisive. In time, the United States would find its living standards drop to that of the lessdeveloped countries in the Americas. It isn't the will of the American people for that to happen. That's why they favor strict enforcement of immigration laws, including tougher policing along the Southwestern border.

JACK ANDERSON Beer Barons Lobby For Monopoly

By Jack Anderson And

Joseph Spear WASHINGTON - As members of the Senate return from their fence-mending at home, a frothy controversy is bubbling to a head: A bill to give the beer industry broad exemption from antitrust laws is still sitting on the agenda like sweat rings left on the bar by a bottle of suds.

The beer bill, which would allow wholesale distributors to stake out regional marketing monopolies, is opposed by an odd coalition of conservatives, liberals, the Justice Department, the Securities and Exchange Commission and the watchdog group Public Citizen. Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole, R-Kan., yanked the beer bill back from its scheduled floor debate May 15 after being warned of some potentially embarrassing discussion by opponents.

Some critics of the antitrust exemption claim the beer bill has been kept afloat for the past few years only by the flow of industry money into congressional campaign coffers. "The pattern of spending by beer wholesalers definitely has contributed to the success of the bill," said Public Citizen attorney Priscilla Budeiri.

In fact, this February the National Beer Wholesalers' Association singled out the majority leader for special treatment. It hosted a $1,000-a-head "Salute to Bob Dole" at the Hyatt Regency Hotel here. The clubby industry affair was designed to raise $25,000 for Dole.

Association officials declined to say how much was raised, but an internal memo preceding the affair showed what the beer barons had in mind when they planned it. The Jan. 24 memo. obtained by our associate Stewart Harris, was signed by the association's president and said in part:

"As majority leader, Sen. Dole is responsible for all legislation reaching the full Senate for debate. ... Dole will be playing a key role in any future (association) legislative efforts. ... This will be a unique opportunity to discuss the industry's concerns with the majority leader. We also will be pleased to accept additional contributions from those unable to attend."

Dete's office scoffed at the notion that the wholesalers' fund-raiser had any influence on his position on the legislation. In any case, he's not the only member of Congress receiving donations from the beer industry's money bar. We reported three years ago on the lawmakers who were getting donations from the industry's quaintly named politleal action committee, SIXPAC.

Now a Public Citizen study shows that the beer industry has shelled out more than $700,000 in lobbying fees and campaign donations during the four-year fight for the antitrust exemption. Among the industry lobbyists are Christopher O'Neill, son of House Speaker Thomas P. O'Nelll, and former staff aldes to Sens. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, and Dennis DeConcini. D-Ariz., both supporters of the bill.

The top recipient of the beer industry's campaign donations was Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Texas, the legislation's chief sponsor in the House, with $10,750 over the past four years. Leading the industry's list in the Senate was Pete Wilson. R-Calif., with $8,500 in the same period. To date, Wilson has taken no stand on the beer bill.

Current laws already allow exclusive regional distribution rights for breweries' products, provided they don't decrease competition among different brands of beer.

Clinger's 6th-Inning Double Saves Moose, 5-4

By Chris Fister Herald Sports Writer

Derrick Taylor and Rotary almost bagged themselves a Moose Monday night, but Harvey Clinger kept the Moose alive with a two-run double in the top of the sixth inning as it pulled out a 5-4 victory in Sanford Junior League action at Chase Park.

The win lifted Moose to 14-0 for the season while Rotary dropped to 8-6 and six games back in the standings. Knights of Columbus is in second place with a 9-6 record.

Although both struggled with their control at times. Moose's Mike "Dr. K" Merthie and Rotary's Taylor locked up in a heated pitching duei Monday night. Merthic allowed only one hit in the game and struck out 11 but Rotary stayed close as it took advantage of 12 walks. Taylor scattered six hits, struck out 10 and walked six.

Moose, which is managed by Duane LaFollette. took a 2-0 lead in the top of the first when, with two outs, Jeff Derr and Merthie both walked and Tony Pritchard belted a two-run double. Rotary got one run back in the bottom half when Taylor drew a lead off walk, stole second and third and scored on a wild pitch.

Rotary came back to tle it in the bottom of the second when Tommy Mathis led off with a home run, the first off Merthie this season, and the only hit off Merthle in the game.

The score remained tied at 2-2 as both pitchers settled down in the middle innings. Moose broke the tie in the top of the sixth with three runs. Pritchard walked to start off the inning and, with one out, scored on Al Perkins' single. With two outs. Darrel Canada drew a walk and Clinger then ripped a double to bring home Perkins and Canada for a 5-2 Moose lead.

Baseball

Rotary made it close in the bottom of the sixth when Merthie walked the first five hitters in the inning with Mathis and Robert Whitaker both scoring to cut the lead to 5-4. With one out and runners on second and third, Merthie struck out Andres Stokes and got dangerous Tim Hampton to pop out to end the game.

Adcock Roofing ran its record to 12-2 with the win while Seminole Ford fell to 2-12.

Although the game was stopped after two innings due to the slaughter rule, it was the fourth no-hitter of the season for Adcock Roofing pitching. Holly struck out one, walked one and two runners reached on errors.

Offensively, Holly smacked a two-run homer in a nine-run first inning and a two-run single in a 10-run second. Mike Maples drilled a three-run homer in the first and Al Holt added a solo shot in the second.

ATLANTIC BANK ROUTS PETROLEUM

A 10-run second inning explosion led the way as Atlantic Bank downed Seminole Petroleum. 15-5. In Little American League play at Westside Field.

Atlantic Bank stayed above the .500 mark as it improved to 8-6 while Seminole Petroleum dropped to 2-12.

Harvey Clinger

Neville Fuller led the offense for Atlantic Bank as he was 2 for 2 with a double, triple and four RBIs. Seminole Petroleum was held to one hit by a pair of Atlantic Bank pitchers and that was a single by Dan Metzler in the third inning.

Arizona Wins; FSU, Miami Battle Tonight

OMAHA (UPI) - Arizona first baseman Todd Trafton said he froze on the pitch he was looking for but given a second chance he cleared the left field wall for a two-run homer to give Arizona its go-ahead run in the seventh inning.

"I was looking for an inside pitch, and he threw one and I froze. Then he came back with the same pitch and I had already seen it and just drove it," he sald.

Trafton's homer scored Mike enne in Arizona's Loyola Marymount in the College World Series Monday. Arizona. 47-18, will play the winner of tonight's Miami-Florida State game on Thursday. Thursday's game will be one between the two remaining undefeated teams in the series. "It surely is a luxury we've never enjoyed at Arizona." Coach Jerry Kindall said about being undefeated after two games. Miami beat Oklahoma State Saturday. Florida State got to the winner's bracket by beating Indiana State in the second half of Saturday's double-header. FSU and Miami have split six games this year. Seminoles' coach Mike Martin will pitch hard-throwing righthander Richie Lewis (12-2). Miami mentor Ron Fraser will counter with freshman Will Vespe (0-1). Fraser again will try to get five or six quality innings from his starter before calling on ace reliever Rick Raether. The sidearming righthander set a record for saves this year and was the hero when Miami when the national championship last year. Loyola Marymount, 50-14, will play Oklahoma State in an elimination game Wednesday. After losing to Miami, Oklahoma State rebounded by eliminating Indiana State from the series. Arizona scored the game's first run in the third inning when Chip Hale drove home Gary Alexander with a single to center field. With two outs and two Artzona runners on base, Loyola Marymount pitcher Mark Stomp walked two batters to give the Wildcats their second run. Arizona went up 3-0 in the fifth inning when Dave Rohde scored from third on the Lions second baseman's fielding error. Bobby DeJardin dropped a ball hit by Hale, missing a force out at second with no outs in the fifth inning. 'We've played at a good level all year. We broke down in a few key situations tonight." Loyola Marymount Coach Dave Snow said. Loyola Marymount capitalized on its first two hits and two Arizona errors in the bottom half of the fifth inning to rally and tie the game 3-3. DeJardin singled into right center field, scoring Jim McAnany, who took a base after being hit by a pitch. Jim Bruske, who singled and took second on an overthrow to first base, and DeJardin scored on Carl Fraticelli's single into right center field. In the sixth inning, Arizona's Steve Strong scored to put the Wildcats up 4-3. Loyola Marymount tied the game when Chris Donnels scored from third on a balk pitch. Bruske then homered over the left field wall to put Loyola

Celtic Cockiness Bothers Sampson

HOUSTON (UPI) - Ralph Sampson wonders if beyond the cocky words of the Boston Celtics there exists respect for his team.

Carrying a 2-1 advantage into tonight's Game 4 of the NBA Championship, Boston has said its loss in Game 3 was due to a combination of misfortune and Celtics' mistakes, rather than good play by the Houston Rockets.

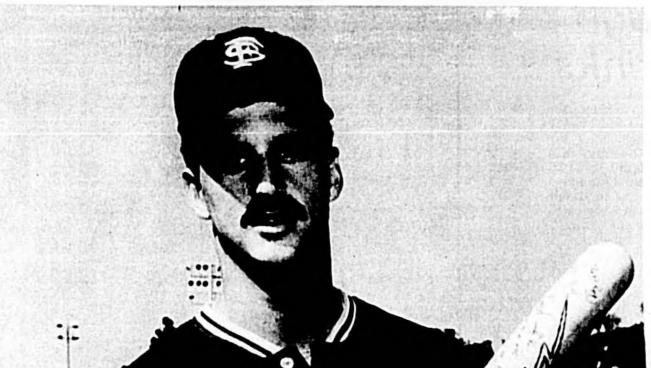

"It may be arrogance, what let it fall in the water and he they're saying, or maybe in the swims away. back of their minds they know what we are capable of doing." said Sampson, who dislikes hearing that Houston's 106-104 triumph Sunday was "lucky." A three-way playoff for the National League title in the Seminole Pony Baseball Bronco Division got underway this week and winning that playoff will most likely be the highlight of the season for one of the three teams.

That's because the winner of the playoff will go against seemingly invincable Salvagio's Boys. American League champions.

Salvagio's Boys closed out the season with a 20-0 record and Kevin Twiggs hurled back to back no-hitters.

Calapa pitched his first nohitter of the season on May 23 against Barnett Bank while Twiggs tossed his second nohitter this year on the 27th against Lake Mary Travel.

Twiggs finished the season with a 9-0 pitching record with Calapa at 7-0 and four other pitchers won games. Twiggs and Calapa combined for three no-Hillsborough High School in hitters, three on-hitters and two in center and Mike Wasman in

Angels Hang Doubly Tough Loss Ón Yanks

United Press International

The California Angels needed help to keep pace with the Texas Rangers in the American League West, and the New York Yankees supplied it.

The Angels blew a 6-1 seventh-inning lead Monday night, but rallied in the ninth to take an 8-7 victory over the Yankees. California remained a half-game behind Texas, which regained sole possession of first place. The Rangers defeated the Chicago White Sox 1-0, while the Kansas City Royals fell to the Milwaukee Brewers 7-2. The Yankees slipped to 3 ½ games behind Boston in the American League East. The Red Sox defeated Cleveland 3-1 last night.

'Tough? To come back from a 6-1 deficit, go ahead, and then lose in the ninth - sure it's tough." Yankees manager Lou Piniella said. Dear "Doubly tough."

New York second baseman Willie Randolph made his second critical error of the game, and Brian Downing singled home the winning run in the bottom of the ninth. "I was trying to hit the ball hard to the outfield until I had two strikes." Downing said of the bases-loaded one-out situation against reliever Dave Righetti, 4-3. "Then I just wanted to make contact. The pitch he threw was a slider, down and in. He's got me on that pitch before."

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Indians Use Hurling, Last-Inning Magic To Pull Out Pair Of Wins

Behind some strong pitching and some last-inning magic, the Indians claimed a pair of one-run victories in Altamonte Springs Little League Major Division play.

In a 7-6 win over the Angels, Chris Lubinskas and Kevin Scott combined for 20 strikeouts and the Indians pulled out the win with three runs in the top of the eighth. Brian Dangel's RBI triple gave the Indians the winning margin.

Lubinskas pitched the first six innings for the Indians and struck out 16 before giving way to Scott, who struck out four in two innings of relief. Scott was the winning pitcher and he also drove in three runs with three singles and a double. Shane Odom added a pair of doubles for the Indians.

Dana Dearth tripled, drove in one run and scored two to lead the Angels while Mike Monahan added a double.

In a 2-1 win over the Expos, Scott and Tim Graham combined on a three-hitter and the Indians scored two runs in the bottom of the sixth to squeeze out the victory.

The Expos took a 1-0 lead in the top of the second on Anthony Tolone's home run and Scott Davidson held the Indians scoreless for the first five frames.

Dangel led the comeback in the bottom of the sixth with a lead off triple and Mike Elliott followed with an RBI single. Eddle Storey then singled Elliott to third and he scored the winning run on Jamie Strott's sacrifice fly.

Scott again was the winning pitcher in relief as he allowed just one hit in three innings, struck out five and walked two. Davidson pitched a strong game in defeat, striking out 12 and walking none.

Lie-Detector Supports Fryar

BOSTON (UPI) - A lie-detector test has indicated New England Patriots wide receiver Irving Fryar was telling the truth in denying he gambled on NFL games, said a licensed polygraph administrator in a published report.

Fryar was given a 3 1/2-hour exam Monday by Eric Holden, a licensed polygraph examiner and board chairman of the Texas Association of Polygraph Examiners, at the request of Sherwood Blount, Fryar's Dallas-based agent.

"It's my opinion conclusively that he is truthful in his statements that since turning pro he had never himself gambled or bet on any NFL football games or had ever allowed or let anyone use his name or his money to gamble on any NFL game." Holden was quoted in Tuesday editions of the Boston Herald.

Blount requested the test following revelations last week the NFL was investigating allegations Fryar bet on NFL games this year, including the Super Bowl contest between the Patriots and the champion Chicago Bears.

Mexico To Host Belgium

Tuesday, June 3, 1966-7A

MEXICO CITY (UPI) - World Cup soccer, in all its unrestrained frenzy, descends on Mexico today.

Mexico plays Belgium at Azteca Stadium in Mexico City before a sellout crowd of 115,000 fans ravenous for victory. In the 1978 World Cup, Mexico was humiliated. Four years later, it failed to qualify.

The game also provides ample reason for a nation to temporarily put aside the specter of two devastating earthquakes and its crushing economic problems.

"Mexico is not a world team but an 11 which will be fantastically motivated by 100,000 supporting fans," Belgian coach Guy Thys said.

Midfielder Rene Vandereycken recalled when Mexico narrowly defeated Belgium in Mexico City at the 1970 World Cup.

"I'm nervous," he said. "The bus with the team was stoned then by a mad crowd ... what can you do against a crazy crowd. To win is nice but will we get out of there alive?"

In Monday's World Cup play. Hungary barely got out alive. losing 6-0 to the Soviet Union in Irapuato. Elsewhere, Argentina beat South Korea 3-1 in Mexico City and Poland and Morocco played to a 0-0 draw in Monterrev.

In today's other games. Algeria faces Northern Ireland in Guadalajara and Portugal meets England in Monterrey.

The Soviets scored twice in the first four minutes of their Group C game. making goulash of the Hungarian defense.

The Duke forward, who won the 1986 Hermann Award as the top collegiate soccer player, managed to hide himself in an audience of hopeful professional soccer players watching the draft at a downtown Cleveland hotel.

'I was pretty sure New York would take me with the top overall pick." said Kain. "But I didn't want to make long speeches. There were 51 other guys waiting to see what would happen to them.

Bradley Emerges As LPGA Star

MASON, Ohio (UPI) - Pat Bradley, an unheralded star on the LPGA Tour for a dozen years, has emerged as the top attraction in women's golf in her 13th professional season.

"I've been working at this for 13 years and my number has come up, my star is going to shine a little brighter than someone else's," Bradley said.

Bradley has won 19 tournaments in her LPGA career, three coming in the last seven weeks.

Bradley's victory in Sunday's $300,000 LPGA Championship made her the first player ever to win all four of the LPGA's major tournaments. Her next goal is to win all four this year - and she's halfway home.

Having won the Dinah Shore in April and now the LPGA Championship, Bradley needs triumphs in the U.S. Women's Open and the du Maurier Classic — both played in July - to complete a 1986 Grand Slam.

Canada Sets Retaliatory Tariffs

OTTAWA (UPI) - Canada slapped retallatory tariffs on U.S. imports, despite a letter from President Reagan apologizing for a failure to inform Canadian officials of an impending 35 percent penalty on Canadian cedar shakes and shingles.

On Monday the Canadian government retaliated against the American penalty, slapping import taxes on American Christmas trees, computer parts, magazines and books.

The United States immediately expressed disappointment in the action, and one key Canadian official said he feared a trade war was brewing.

Mulroney was said to be angry that Reagan did not personally warn him of the tariff.

Accused Nazi Faces Deportation

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI) - A retired Yale University lecturer who was decorated by the Nazis for for writing anti-Semitic propaganda during World War II has been stripped of his U.S. citizenship and faces deportation.

Vladimir Sokolov, 73, a native of the Soviet Union, had concealed his work for the Nazis when he was granted permission to emigrate to the United States in 1951 and when he was naturalized in 1957, U.S. District Judge Thomas Murphy ruled Monday.

"Someone such as Sokolov had no business coming to this country and enjoying the rights of citizenship when he was such an integral part of the Nazi machinery and policy of persecution and genocide." said Neal Sher, head of the Justice Department office that prosecuted the case.

Husband's Career Moves Shake Up Family's Life

DEAR ABBY: My situation is not uncommon. My husband works for a large national company that moves employees regularly. The last move was exceptionally difficult, and 1 don't want to move again for seven years, when our youngest child will graduate from high school.

I'm so tired of my children feeling like they don't belong. So often, as soon as they make control pills from 1970 to 1977, some really good friends, we have to move.

My husband says if we have to move, we will. If I try to discuss it, we get into an argument. which always ends with. "I'm only doing it for you and the kids."

Ambitious men are rarely home on moving day, or when the kids get sick, or the cats get lost.

"Abby, must men accept every transfer they are offered?

TIRED

DEAR TIRED: No. Some have been known to pass up promotions rather than move their families. And in two-paycheck households, some men move because their wives' jobs require

Not all children react badly to moving. Some have grown with the challenge of making new friends - witness "Army brats." Every family must decide what is best for all the members and then make the decision accordingly.

DEAR ABBY: I was on birth then we moved to another state and a different doctor prescribed them for me from 1978 until 1986. Neither one mentioned any interaction with antibiotics.

Medicine is in pretty bad shape if vital information such as what you pointed out is transmitted to the public by an advice columnist in the newspaper instead of by the medical community. Perhaps your column should

IN LEXINGTON, KY.

DEAR GALLY: I was absolutely flabbergasted at the number of letters I received from women thanking me for that information. And if an editor wants to put this letter on the front page. it's all right with me.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing to you concerning a dispute between my mother and me. First of all, I am 17 years old and have a good-paying job. I have a Camaro, which I'm paying for myself. I also pay my own insurance, which is $600 a year.

Here's the problem: I have wanted a four-wheel drive truck for a long time, but my mom says trucks are for guys, and I am a girl. I don't agree with my mom at all. I think as long as I am paying for my own car, I should be able to drive whatever I want. Do you agree with me or my mom? I hope you print this. Abby. It may not get me a truck. but it will settle the argument.

WANTS A FOUR-WHEEL DRIVE

DEAR WANTS: If you are sufficiently mature to buy a car and support it, you should be able to drive a car of your choice. Four-wheel drives are not for guys only.

DEAR ABBY: 1 am a natural blonde and my husband's hair is black. We have a 3-year-old daughter whose hair is flaming red.

We've heard all the snide remarks about mailmen, traveling salesmen, etc., but what should our daughter say when Summer people ask her where she got her red hair?

DEAR STYMIED: A Tulsa reader gave me the ideal retort: "When our son was about 4 years old, and people would ask him where he got his red hair. we taught him to say. It came with my head."

Bruises Can Be Caused By Just Getting Older

DEAR DR. GOTT - My common condition that profrom broken blood vessels. What's your opinion?

DEAR READER - Some types of joint inflammation, such as iupus arthritis and rhuematoid arthritis, can affect the body's clotting mechanism. Spontancous bruising - that is, black-and-blue spots from no obvious cause - can occur. Also, casy bruising can be caused by certain medicines. like cortisone, that are used to treat arthritis.

However, aging itself can cause bruises. As your doctor pointed out, breaks in tiny blood vessels that are near the skin can result in leakage of blood and occasional bruising. In addition, bruises can be caused by weakened varicose veins that may leak.

By itself, arthritis does not cause bruising: certain blood compounds that are related to the arthritis are the culprits. I am sure that your daughter's doctor will want to explain to her, in more detail, the reasons for her bruising. I also think it would be prudent for you to have blood tests to make sure that your bruising is a common 26 Mild expletive and benign condition caused by aging.

DEAR DR. GOTT - I'm a senior citizen, female, and in the past year, lots of hair has grown all over my body. I took estrogen shots for 10 years after menopause, but no longer do. What causes this hair growth and what can I do about it?

DEAR READER - Your hair growth may be caused by the small amounts of male hormone 45 Texas shrine that every woman normally produces. After menopause, male hormone is not counterbalanced by the powerful female hormones, so hair growth may occur. Check with your gynecologist to see if the judicious use of female-hormone pills might prevent your problem.

DEAR DR. GOTT - What is a spastic colon, and does what I eat affect it?

East's hand was rather mangy for his weak two-heart bid. In the play? Without the overbid we'd have hearts. no story, because against three no-trump West had to make an imaginative play to defeat that Yes. If you're going to make contract.

West led the jack of hearts, this, it helps to be lucky. The which was allowed to hold the last time I tried it, declarer had trick. The 10 of hearts was the 10 of diamonds and made continued and declarer won the more tricks than anyone else in queen. Next came a diamond to the room.
