County Case Could Reach Supreme Court

By DAVID M. RAZLER
Herald Staff Writer

An Alton Springs attorney is trying to challenge, before the U.S. Supreme Court, a Florida law which provided an extra $93,000 to the Seminole County Clerk's general fund.

Attorney Harvey Alper is preparing to request the clerk take jurisdiction in the case involving the dissolution of a chain of drug stores in 1976. He said he must file his request by Jan. 2, but even if he gets the necessary papers prepared in time, he only has about a one in 25 chance of actually having his case decided by the high court.

The case involves about $93,000 in interest on just under $2 million in escrow with the Clerk's office while the Circuit Court in Seminole County decided which of over 200 creditors of Webb's Fabulous Drugs were entitled to the money.

Under Florida law, income generated by the clerk's office goes to the clerk, a law Alper says denies the creditors their rights.

"I'm sure it didn't cost the clerk $93,000 to invest the money," he said, explaining he believes the county is only entitled to costs under the constitution.

Circuit Court Judge Kenneth Leffler agreed with Alper and found the law unconstitutional. However, the state managed to win a reversal last year in the Florida Supreme Court.

Now Alper is on to fight the decision in Washington.

Alper said he became involved in the case as an appointed aide to the clerk when Eckerd Drugs of College Park Inc. offered about $2 million to buy out Webb's.

Webb's had more than $2 million in outstanding debts and Eckerd had to file an interpleader action, a suit to ask the court to determine who to pay. For the first year, the money was held by the county clerk, who invested it after receiving bids for commercial bonds, Alper explained.

County Clerk Arthur Beckwith said the huge interest payment was the first like it in the close to 20 years he has held his post.

Normally, the clerk handles a total of about $500,000 a year, and that money is in and out in a short period of time, little for years. The money generates very little interest, Beckwith said.

From 1977 on, following his appointment to aid the court in determining who would get what, Alper was given control of the funds. He, too, invested it, but all of the interest — except the amount allocated as his fee for work and the costs of litigation — had to be turned over to the creditors whom the court finally decided deserved the money.

While Alper's chances, based on the total number of cases before the Supreme Court, are only one in 25, he believes the case is a basic matter of property rights, one the court should agree to hear.

8 Polling Places Changed

By DIANE PETRYK
Herald Staff Writer

Eight election precincts in Seminole County have new polling places.

The changes were made to improve voting facilities and to replace polling places that became unavailable, said Camilla Bruce, supervisor of elections.

Voters in the following precincts will vote for the first time at these new polling places in the presidential preference primary March 11:

Precinct No. 5 — Oviedo Women's Club, King Street (between high school and Methodist Church), Oviedo.

Precinct No. 10 — Lake Mary Presbyterian Church, 128 W. Wilbur Ave., Lake Mary.

Precinct No. 21 — Sanford City Hall, 300 N. Park Ave., Sanford.

Precinct No. 28 — Seminole County Teachers Federal Credit Union, 2450 Laurel Ave. (at 25th Street), Sanford.

Precinct No. 32 — St. Augustine Church of the Sacred Heart, 1000 S. Orange Ave., Sanford.

Precinct No. 54 — First Baptist Church of Sweetwater, 1821 West Springs Rd., Longwood.

Precinct No. 59 — First Federal Building, Southeast corner of Palm Springs Drive and Highway 436, Altamonte Springs.

The following precincts have voted at the following polling places for less than one year:

Precinct No. 30 — Holiday Inn, Southeast of 46 and 14 on Service Road, Sanford.

Precinct No. 61 — Forest Lake Elementary School, 2801 Sand Lake Rd., Forest City.

Precinct No. 62 — Melodee Skating Rink, 2700 W. 25th St., Sanford.

Precinct No. 82 — Forable, Semoran Skateway, 1109 Semoran Blvd., Casselberry.

"Voters should find the new polling places to be an improvement over what they had," Ms. Bruce said.

Precincts No. 31 and No. 39 will continue at the same location, however, much to the election's office dismay, she said.

Every effort was made, Ms. Bruce said, to separate the two precincts, but no establishments in the area would agree that they had the facilities to handle voting. Both precincts will continue to vote at English Estates School, Oxford Road, Fern Park.

Voters who do not know their precinct number will find it to the right of their street address on their voter I.D. card.

Trash greets the eye on many a Sanford street these days. There has been no pickup since Monday, prompting 56 phone calls to city hall. The garbage will be collected on Friday, but the problem looms for next week, when work crews get New Year's Day off. However, the county sanitarian says there is no health hazard at this time.

Garbage Piling Up On Sanford Streets

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Christmas garbage and trash at 3,000 Sanford households, piled at the curb since Tuesday, will be picked up Friday.

No pickups were made Tuesday, Christmas Day, as the city's refuse and trash collectors had the day off. Since Wednesday was a regular day off for the sanitation workers, refuse wasn't picked up Wednesday either and the same thing will happen over the New Year's holiday.

City Manager Warren Knowles said today.

Mayor Lee P. Moore said, however, he received a number of complaints Wednesday and will be discussing with Knowles whether the same schedule should be maintained next week.

"Hindsight is much better than foresight," Moore said, noting the city commission decided to work garbage and trash crews Christmas Eve, when other employees had the day off. It was also decided that the crews would not work on Christmas. And Wednesday was a regular day off for the crews which work a four-day week, 10 hours daily.

"We avoided having to pay for another holiday period," Moore said.

Concern that a health hazard might exist from the garbage being piled up for three days before it is picked up Friday was expressed by County Sanitarian Val Robbins. Robbins said if the garbage is properly bagged, as it is supposed to be, and considering the cool weather, there is no problem.

He added that many do not properly bag their garbage and if the weather were hot there could be a health problem. City Commissioner David Farr said he received no complaints. Asked whether it wouldn't have been a better procedure to notify the people that there would be no collection on Tuesday, Farr said, "I don't think the people expected a pickup on Christmas Day. I hope the people understand that the sanitation people need Christmas off the same as the rest of us do."

Moore said if the city had called the sanitation personnel in to work on Wednesday, their regular day off, the city would have had to pay time-and-a-half or double time.

Knowles said city hall received 56 calls Wednesday inquiring when garbage and trash would be picked up since it was not picked up Tuesday. He said two of those calls were complaints. "Most people understand that workers get a paid holiday," Knowles said.

The manager said it costs about $1,200 per day to operate a refuse crew, and while the city in the past has paid overtime wages for refuse collection on holidays, the budget is too tight this year to carry the extra cost.

Knowles also said there would be no rebate of garbage fees to those households which received only one refuse collection this week and will receive only one next week.

The city serves 6,000 households with garbage and trash pickup twice weekly for a fee of $5.46 per month.

Captives To Be 'Witnesses' Against U.S.

By DAVID M. RAZLER
Herald Staff Writer

TEHRAN (UPI) — A close aide of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini said in an interview published today that Iran intends to release all the U.S. Embassy hostages in Tehran after their trial by an international tribunal even if they are found guilty of spying.

Ayatollah Mohammed Beheshti, secretary of the Iranian Islamic revolutionary Council, said the hostages will appear before a tribunal as witnesses.

"The trial that we are talking about is designed to expose to the world America's policies toward Iran for the last 30 years," Beheshti said. "The hostages will appear in the trial of the United States as witnesses."

The religious leader, in the interview in Tehran Wednesday with the Japanese newspaper Mainichi Shinbun, said that once his government achieves the key aim of "trying" the United States, "all the hostages will be released."

"Even if some of the hostages were found guilty of espionage charges, they would be given clemency," Beheshti said.

He also said Iran is ready to free the hostages "if a more appropriate witness (the Shah comes out)."

He said the hostages are "repressed people" who were "employed as tools by our oppressors," and ruled any Iranian tilt toward the Soviet Union as out of the question and said, "Iran has no plan to export revolutions."

Iran Official Warns Against Sanctions

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — Iran, declaring itself virtually at war with the United States, warned all the American hostages will be tried as spies if the U.S. Security Council imposes any economic sanctions against it.

Three American clergymen ended their Christmas visit to Iran and flew home via London early today, although the questions they raised about the exact number of hostages held in the occupied U.S. Embassy for 94 days remained unresolved.

The clergymen — the Rev. William Sloane Coffin, William J. Howard Jr. and Catholic Bishop Thomas Gumbleton — who are carrying 33 personal messages from the hostages, said they saw all the captives — 43 of them — but the State Department insisted there are 60 hostages and the matter was unlikely to be settled until Washington and the clergy compared lists.

Controversial figure, Rep. George Hansen of Idaho, continued his solo and unofficial diplomatic efforts, which have drawn criticism from colleagues and the White House, to secure the release of the captives but he refused to give any details of his second mission to Iran since the Nov. 4 siege began.

In a direct challenge to the United States, Iran's foreign minister said if Washington won Security Council approval for his plans for an economic blockade, Tehran would retaliate by putting all the hostages on trial as spies.

President Carter has said he would ask for sanctions against Iran and U.S. diplomats have been sounding out U.N. delegates about it.

"If there is a U.S. resolution or any action — an economic blockade — we definitely abandon the idea of a grand jury and we go on with trials of the hostages ... as spies," Sadeq Ghotbzadeh said Wednesday in an interview with ABC.

He said these spy trials, which could carry the death penalty by firing squad for the Americans, would be held in place of a less onerous grand jury Iran was planning to convene in the first week of January.

The foreign minister previously said the hostages would be called only as "witnesses" rather than defendants at the grand jury hearings.

Khomeini Aide: Hostages Free After Trial

Dart Board To Hostages?

REDFORD PARK, Ill. (UPI) — The distributor of a Rubik's Cube poster says he is trying to have 98 of them delivered to the U.S. Embassy in Iran — one for each of the American hostages.

Michael McCormack, 39, executive vice president of Dell Press, said Wednesday the firm plans to mail the posters and 98 U.S. flags to the hostages and, if necessary, hand-deliver the material to the gate of the embassy.

"They (the hostages) may decide to burn the poster or to throw darts at it," McCormack said. "Our point is that these people are Americans, this reflects them, and they should be able to decide whether they want the posters."

The 17½-inch by 20-inch posters, which sell for $2 retail in the United States, display a picture of Khomeini encircled by five rings. McCormack said the posters can be used for dart boards, or for target practice.

WORLD IN BRIEF

State Department Protests Russian Afghanistan Move

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With America's attention centered on Iran, the Soviet Union has sent possibly as many as 10,000 troops and advisers into neighboring Afghanistan — a move condemned by Washington as "blatant military interference."

The State Department said Wednesday the Soviets launched a massive Christmas airlift into Kabul. Perhaps as many as 4,000 to 5,000 combat troops were sent to the Afghan capital, it said.

The department also said Soviet forces north of the Russo-Afghan border have been considerably strengthened in recent days, and as many as 50,000 men in five divisions — some moved from areas near Iran — are now in the region.

State Department spokesman Hodding Carter said: "We believe that members of the international community should condemn such blatant military interference into the internal affairs of an independent sovereign state. We are making our views known directly to the Soviets."

Rhodesia Leader Killed

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (UPI) — Josiah Tongogara, commander of the guerrilla forces of Robert Mugabe's wing of the Patriotic Front, was killed in Mozambique today in a car crash one day before a ceasefire in the Rhodesian war is to go into effect, British sources said.

Tongogara, 41, was commander of the Zimbabwe African National Liberation Army, the military wing of Mugabe's Zimbabwe African National Union (ZANU). In that role, he was a pivotal element in both the 7-year-old war and the impending cease-fire.

No details were immediately available regarding what was described only as a "motor accident."

Gold Soars Over $500

LONDON (UPI) — Gold soared above the "unbelievable" price of $500 an ounce in Europe today for the first time in history and dealers said they expected it to keep on going up.

The Swiss bullion dealer warned the speculation in gold was becoming dangerous.

As gold rose, the dollar continued its steady decline. New reasons for its weakness were given, but the basic reason was simply that no one had much faith in the weak dollar.

Gold increased by $17.75 in London to open at a record $504.50 an ounce, and in Zurich it opened at $507.50, up an astounding $25.50 from the price when the Zurich bullion market closed for Christmas on Dec. 21.

Israel Covets U.S. Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Israel is making a last-minute appeal to the United States to approve its $3.45 billion economic and military aid request. The administration reportedly is thinking in terms of $2 billion — at least.

Israeli Defense Minister Ezer Weizman is meeting today with top administration officials, to convince them of the need to approve the U.S. economic and military aid package requested by Israel for fiscal year 1981.

While in Washington, Weizman also is expected to voice Israel's concern about Saudi Arabia's intention to purchase millions of dollars worth of U.S. weapons. Israel is said to feel such transactions could threaten the Mideast power balance.

Power Company Expects To Get Pulverizer OK

By DIANNE PETRYK
Herald Staff Writer

Florida Power and Light Co. will be granted a permit to construct a coal pulverizer as a step in preparing its experimental coal-oil fuel if there are no complaints about it in the next 30 days.

The Department of Environmental Regulation has announced its intention to grant the construction permit, which is separate from the utility's request for an environmental variance to burn the new higher polluting fuel known as 'colli.'

Bill Thomas, engineer with the DER Bureau of Air Quality, said he has prepared a draft of the permit which will be put out for public scrutiny for 30 days prior to its final issuance. Thomas did the engineering evaluation on the proposed construction.

"After trying to foresee any problems that might come up, we see no reason for not issuing the permit," Thomas said.

Thomas said the utility applied for the construction permit before knowing for sure if the environmental variance would be granted. To have filed for the variance, he said, would have delayed the process.

"There's no question the variance will be granted," Thomas said. "The only question is what restrictions will be placed on it."

Man's Luggage Taken At Restaurant

As a Miami man stopped to ask directions at a Sanford restaurant, thieves made off with his luggage, police report.

David Cline of Miami stopped at the Samba's on U.S. Highway 17-92 Wednesday at 8 a.m. to get directions to Interstate 4, say police. While there, he left his suitcase in the restaurant lobby.

A short time later, he turned to see a man throwing the bag into a car and driving off, leaving with close to $700 of Cline's possessions.

Rescues Underway In 3 Mishaps At Sea

By United Press International

International rescue operations were under way today at opposite ends of the globe to search for possible survivors in three freighter mishaps off Canada, Greece and Okinawa and to refuel a military tourist grounded on the fringes of Antarctica.

A Chilean naval ship rescued 100 tourists from the Lindblad Explorer near Antarctica and a Russian tug was to try saving the vessel. Hops was fading, however, for a 30-man Taiwanese crew of a freighter that capsized in the North Pacific during a fierce storm.

In another accident, the Panamanian freighter Dingo caught fire and sank Wednesday 460 miles south of Okinawa. Early today, the remaining 48 crew members were rescued, but the other four were believed dead.

The search is being continued but we fear the remaining four are dead," an official of the Japan Maritime Safety Agency said today.

Off western Greece, six people died Christmas Day when the Greek freighter Soula G. sank in rain, snow and gale-force winds and one seaman was still missing. U.S. and Canadian rescuers Wednesday mounted a full-scale search for possible survivors of the iron-carrier Lee Wang Zin, which overturned early Tuesday. Its entire crew of 30 Taiwanese was missing.

A U.S. Coast Guard cutter Wednesday recovered an unidentified body believed to be a crewman from the ore freighter off Canada. Rescuers spotted another body five miles south of the overturned hull of the ship, but it vanished before divers from helicopters could be dropped into the water. The search was continuing today.

At almost the opposite end of the world near Antarctica, a powerful Russian tugboat steamed toward the grounded luxury liner Lindblad Explorer to try saving the vessel before ferocious winds and currents caused more damage.

The Chilean Navy transport Pilotar 108 stood by the Lindblad Explorer with 100 tourists rescued from the stricken ship.

Canadian officials said the 15,000-ton, 71-foot Lee Wang Zin turned keel up Tuesday in waves 20 feet high in the Hecate Strait between the Queen Charlotte Islands and the British Columbia coast.

"There's always a chance of survival," a Canadian search official said Wednesday. "We never give up hope, obviously. Stranger things have happened."

Porter Probe Results Near

State officials said today the investigation of charges of misconduct and sexual discrimination against Seminole-Brevard Public Defender David M. Porter will be closed by the middle of next week.

The nature of the findings will not be disclosed, said P. J. Doyle of the Executive Investigations Division, Florida Department of Law Enforcement, said Florida Gov. Bob Graham is briefed on the matter.

"My knowledge of my client's (Porter) case is limited to what I know from this meeting. 'Nobody's' said what they found anything illegal."

"I made full disclosure of all the books and records they wanted," he said. "I don't think they found anything. Some of the allegations were proportionately false."

Porter said it was preposterous that he be charged with misappropriation of funds.

"I don't even handle any funds," he said.

Charges of favoritism, "close friendships" and other wrongdoings in the public defender's office were brought against Porter in November.

The allegations, with a cover letter signed by Graham, were forwarded to the Florida Department of Law Enforcement Nov. 21. An investigation began Nov. 27.

The charges were brought by disgruntled former employees, Porter said.

Principal complainants are Donna Downing, Titusville, a former personal secretary to Porter; Lloyd Baker, Porter's former chief investigator; and Diana Thompson, former investigator for the public defender.

Downing was fired two years ago, Porter said, after animosity between her and a secretary developed. Baker and Thompson were recently fired by Porter.

The complainants "were strictly a political maneuver on the part of Baker, Thompson and their lawyer, Andrew Graham of Melbourne," Porter said.

"In fact," Porter said, "the whole thing was engineered by Andrew Graham."

"The job involved giving legal advice to lawyers," Porter said. "Twenty of them, to be exact. Andrew Graham would have lots to gain."

Two prominent South Carolina politicians who supported Ronald Reagan for president in 1976 have switched and are now backing John Connally.

Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., and former Gov. James Edwards, who headed Reagan's campaign in the state almost four years ago, were scheduled to announce their support today for the former treasury secretary and governor of Texas. Like Connally, Thurmond was once a prominent Democrat.

Connally has set his sights on a victory in the South Carolina primary March 8 as a means of breaking through Reagan's strength in Dixie. The primary also represents the first chance for Connally to win the state, coming as it does after the New England primaries, where he is not considered a threat, and just before the March 11 Florida contest, where he is running behind Reagan. Connally has also predicted runoff in the March 18 Illinois primary, but a poll released Wednesday showed Reagan running far ahead of everyone also in the state.

Armed Vietnam Vet: Search Off

DURHAM, N.C. (UPI) — Public safety officers today discontinued a search for an armed Vietnam veteran who barricaded himself in his home Wednesday, then escaped 12 hours later.

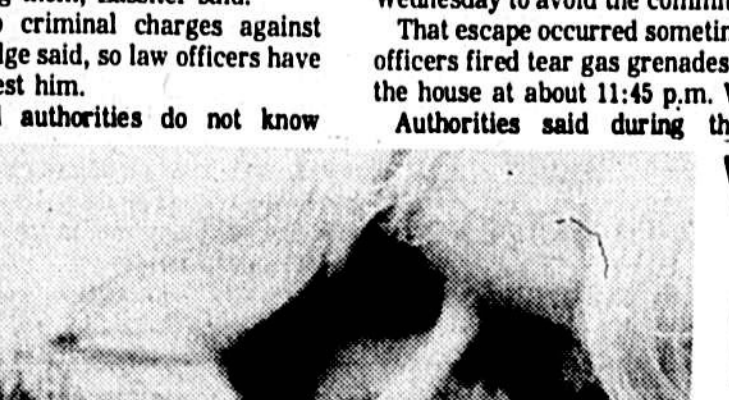

Authorities said the commitment papers the veteran was trying to avoid have expired. Maj. Talmadge Lassiter, the city's public safety officer in charge of the case, said the papers signed Wednesday morning to commit James E. Holland for psychiatric observation were good for only 24 hours. They expired this morning and Holland's family have decided against reissuing them, Lassiter said.

There are no criminal charges against Holland, Talmadge said, so law officers have no cause to arrest him.

Talmadge said authorities do not know where Holland has been since he fashioned a rope from bed sheets and descended from the second-floor room of his home, where he had barricaded himself for over half a day Wednesday to avoid the commitment papers.

That escape occurred sometime before law officers first tear gas grenades and stormed the house at about 11:45 p.m. Wednesday. Authorities said during their all-night search for Holland that they considered Holland armed and dangerous. Talmadge said today, however, that Holland's family believes he won't cause any trouble unless he is threatened.

Holland's family returned to the home today and public safety officers are "insuring the family's safety," Talmadge said. He would not elaborate.

Winter Storm Blankets U.S.

By United Press International

A winter storm moving out of the Southwest dumped half a foot of snow on the Southern and Central Rockies today and moved toward the Oklahoma and Texas Panhandles with freezing rain and sleet.

The National Weather Service posted heavy snow warnings today for the mountains of Utah, Colorado and New Mexico. Travelers advisories were for the plains of southern Colorado, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas, where freezing rain and sleet were expected to develop.

Winter storm watches were in effect over much of the Southern Plains through Thursday.

The storm, which developed over Arizona and Utah and moved into Colorado and New Mexico, dumped 5 inches of snow by midnight Wednesday at Pagosa Springs and Poncha Pass in the southwestern corner of Colorado. Only a trace of snow had fallen in Denver.

In the East, freezing drizzle and snow flurries glazed roads in the mountains of western Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Maryland. Travel advisories were in effect.

A storm system that brought fog, rain, freezing drizzle and snow to New England moved out to sea off the coast of Maine Wednesday.

Thick fog was blamed for the rear-end collision of two Burlington Northern coal trains near Firth, Neb., Wednesday that caused about $30,000 worth of damage. No one was injured.

Beef Prices Expected To Rise 10-15% In 1980

By United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Short supplies are expected to boost retail beef prices 10 to 15 percent next year, but pork will be plentiful, holding overall meat price increases below the inflation rate.

Inflation is running at about 13 percent, but some improvement is forecast for 1980.

The American Meat Institute today announced total red meat production in 1980 — including beef, veal, pork, lamb and mutton — will be close to 35.1 billion pounds, 1 percent more than in 1979, but 4 percent below the record 38.7 billion pounds produced in 1977.

The National Cattlemen's Association reported Wednesday retail beef prices would average between $2.47 and $2.59 per pound in 1980 compared with the $2.25 average this year.

While smaller herds contributed to the price increase, the association blamed most of the projected rise on increased marketing and distribution costs.

The institute forecast beef production would drop 4 percent next year, well below the 12 percent decline in 1979.

The institute said American ranchers have now emerged from the most severe cattle herd reduction ever recorded. As ranchers attempt to rebuild their herds in 1980, cow price increase will be held back from slaughter and used for breeding purposes, resulting in lower supplies of choice beef.

Reduced slaughter rates will continue to put severe strain on the beef packing industry, already beset with rising energy and packaging costs, high interest rates and steeper wage settlements negotiated this year.

Pork production is expected to grow by 9 percent next year.

Elvis Death Cause Covered, Says ABC

By United Press International

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Authorities were misled about the drug usage of Elvis Presley during an investigation of his sudden death two years ago and two death certificates were issued during an ensuing coverup, ABC Television contends in a 20-20 segment to be aired tonight.

Jim Cole, a free-lance writer working for ABC, said a segment of the weekly show will detail the alleged cover-up, which began almost as soon as Presley's body was found on the bathroom floor of his mansion, Aug. 16, 1977.

"We will show how the authorities were misled about the amounts and the extent of drug usage by Elvis," Cole said Wednesday. "We will show how they were led astray."

Following Presley's death, homicide officers from the Memphis Police Department and Dan Warwick, an investigator for the Shelby County Medical Examiner's office, questioned Dr. George Nichopoulos, the singer's personal physician, and Tish Henley, a nurse who lived in the mansion to regulate Presley's medication.

Both Nichopoulos and the nurse failed to detail Presley's usage of drugs, Cole said.

"They said he took a couple of Valium and one other pill the morning before his death and never gave substance an inkling of just how much was prescribed and how much he was taking," Cole said.

A chemical analysis of Presley's blood samples turned up traces of 10 different drugs. Nichopoulos and Shelby County Medical Examiner Jerry Francisco maintain, however, the singer's death from heart problems was not brought on by his drug usage.

Nichopoulos is scheduled for a malpractice hearing in Memphis Jan. 14 on charges of indiscriminate prescription of drugs to his patients — including Presley.

The state medical board claims the Memphis physician prescribed more than 12,000 narcotics, depressants, tranquilizers and stimulants to Presley in the 20 months prior to his death.

FBI Containment Bad For The Nation

It was bitter news to hear that the gathering of domestic intelligence by the Federal Bureau of Investigation has so deteriorated that some cities in this country are "off limits" to the president of the United States.

The presence of the chief executive cannot be risked in such cities because there just isn't enough current information about violence-prone groups and individuals. His safety cannot be guaranteed.

This situation is commented upon in a new book by Mark Felt, second in command of the FBI when Patrick Gray was its director — during the Watergate investigations.

Felt states that the phasing out of FBI domestic intelligence investigations, after the Watergate troubles, has seriously affected all law enforcement and compelled the Secret Service to recommend to President Carter he stay away from certain locations.

The former associate director is to go on trial next month on espionage charges involving the Weather Underground. He is accused by Edward Miller, former FBI intelligence chief, of violating the civil rights of friends and associates of the Weather Underground by wire tapping, break-ins and other forms of surveillance.

And because of this situation, there will be those who say his book is self-serving, but that is not the problem at hand. It is becoming more and more important to have intelligence on terrorist groups that threaten our leaders, our nation and our way of life.

It's apparent that the FBI — once rated as the top federal bureau composed of G-men who couldn't be bribed and followed the letter of the law — has fallen on bad times.

The bureau's image was damaged by revelations of acts, and orders by its late director, J. Edgar Hoover, and by poor judgment of its leaders during the Watergate investigations.

But still, over the long haul, the bureau has a brilliant history as a non-sensational group of crime fighters, the kind of men most Americans want out there keeping an eye on those who would overthrow our government by violence.

It is time to get the bureau back on the result in barring our president from going, as he is needed, to the various cities in this nation border on the criminal, and they should be fixed.

Judicial Cop-Out

The Supreme Court's adjudication of a congressional challenge to President Carter's cancellation of the Taiwan Mutual Defense Treaty would appear to require the wisdom of Solomon. But the court seemed to fall into a decision.

Six of the nine justices voted to dismiss the suit to reinstate the treaty filed by Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and 23 other members of Congress. The majority reached their position by two very different routes, however, and the three dissenting justices were no more unanimous in their dissent.

The prevailing opinion was delivered by Associate Justice William Rehnquist who wrote that the case was "unjudicial" because it involved a political question. This view, it seems to us, is a cop-out that dodges the constitutional issue of whether the President has the power alone to abrogate a treaty which had been ratified with the consent of the Senate.

Only Associate Justice Lewis F. Powell grasped the larger question. Justice Powell wrote that the suit should be dismissed solely because it "was not ripe for judicial review" because he said Congress had never formally challenged the President's authority to terminate a treaty.

If the Senate had voted against termination of the treaty, Justice Powell held, "it would be the duty of this court to resolve the issue." He has thus defined a serious, unresolved constitutional issue which the Supreme Court someday may have to face.

In the meantime, the court has taken the nation off the hook on the Taiwan treaty challenge which awkwardly jeopardized the normalization of relations with the People's Republic of China.

Cowboys, Indians Aligned

By ROBERT WALTERS

BILLINGS, Mont. (UPI) — The cowboys and Indians are on the same side this week, but they're being trounced by a powerful coalition of government policy-makers, multinational corporations and millions of energy-hungry consumers.

The stakes in this contemporary range war aren't the West's bountiful pasture and farm lands but what lies beneath the ground — the richest deposit of coal on the face of the earth, known as the Fort Union Formation.

In an era of growing energy demands, soaring petroleum prices and uncertainty about sources of imported fuels, federal officials have designated domestic coal supplies as the key to the nation's energy self-sufficiency.

More than two-thirds of those coal reserves are in the West, concentrated in North and South Dakota, Montana, Colorado, Wyoming and Utah. The size of both the coal deposits and the efforts to extract them is staggering, with the Fort Union Formation estimated to contain at least 1.5 trillion tons.

In northeast Montana, Burlington Northern is planning a strip mine-power plant-synthetic fuel complex near the tiny town of Teton, which will consume 35,000 tons of coal daily to produce anhydrous ammonia for fertilizer, methanol-methyl fuel and synthetic diesel fuel.

Tenneco Inc. hopes to build an 800-megawatt mine-mouth power plant and a facility to produce synthetic natural gas near the small town of Wibaux in east-central Montana.

Already in operation in eastern Montana is a pair of 300-megawatt mine-mouth power plants. Among the owners of the generation stations are utility companies serving customers in cities as distant as Seattle, Wash., and Portland, Ore.

The Colstrip developers want to construct two more units, each with a capacity of 700 megawatts, but area ranchers and the Northern Cheyenne Indians, whose reservation lies just south of Colstrip, are waging a determined battle to head off future expansion.

Residents of the region generally are willing to share their coal with the rest of the nation, but many are bitter about the widespread adoption of mine-mouth generation, a technique that saves money for the utilities because it eliminates the cost of transporting coal to urban areas for traditional load-center generation.

Even with emission control devices, the huge power plants spew into the atmosphere sulfur dioxide, nitrogen dioxide, lead, fluorides and other contaminants that pose a danger not only to humans but also cattle.

Throughout the northern tier of the Rockies and the Great Plains, the plaintive appeal has been repeated so often that it has become the unofficial motto of those concerned about the region's future: "We don't want to be the boiler room for the nation."

Why Did U.S. Allow The Shah's Entry?

WASHINGTON — The inglorious exit of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi from the United States, unfortunately, has not ended the Iranian crisis. The Lights of the Aryans World has come and gone, but his ill-adviced visit has unleashed passions that cannot be stuffed back into the bottle.

Because of the Shah's stay, Iran has embarked on a late-American campaign that could end in a nasty, propaganda trial of American hostages. The United States has threatened military reprisals and has dispatched three nuclear task forces within air-strike distance of Iran.

In Moscow, the Soviets have earned Iranian Amnesty International's wrath that they "will not remain idle" if the United States attempts "armed aggression" against Iran. This statement has been accompanied, according to intelligence reports, by Soviet troop movements in the area.

What compelling national purpose caused President Carter to disregard repeated warnings not to admit the Shah? The reasons specifically mentioned the likelihood that enemy Iran might attack the U.S. Embassy and seize American hostages.

The Shah's ostensible purpose, David Rockefeller and Henry Kissinger, have cited America's moral obligation to a faithful ally. However, the Shah ruled Iran by sheer terror. Over the years, witness the mass killings with accusations of unspeakable atrocity suffered at the hands of his men.

The respected Amnesty International has accused him of achieving "the highest rate of death sentences in the world" and "a history of tortures which is beyond belief." There are few Iranians who cannot name a relative or friend who has been brutalized by the Shah.

No, we were not morally too money that we hid behind the curtain of being the Shah's ally in the United States. If he had been an impoverished tyrant who had occupied the wrath of his people with more than the shirt on his back, Rockefeller and Kissinger would likely have gone to such lengths to lay out the welcome mat.

In Moscow, the Shah had intended a king's ransom in oil deals, real estate projects and banking ventures upon the Rockefeller enterprise. By most accounts, he had occupied Iran with billions that are now available for investment. His personal wealth would have been the Shah's chief international adviser to the Rockefeller-run Chase Manhattan Bank, which headed a huge share of the Shah's billions.

The Shah's sister, Farah, Rockefeller's top immigration attorney, David Carleton, who wrote the book on "black money," has made secret agreements with the Shah. He is credibly thought to have represented the anti-Shah Iranian Students Association and championed human rights.

Iran To Oil: Editors Comment

The Evening Herald today presents a sampling of opinion from the editorials in newspapers across the nation:

Scripps-Howard Newspapers: When the crisis over the hostages, finally is resolved, the American government and people would be wise not to forget the true role played by the Soviet Union...

At the same time Persian language broadcasts from Russia attempted to fan anti-Americanism in Iran. They claimed the takeover was justified because the embassy was a "nest of spies" — that from a regime maintaining the most expensive espionage network on earth.

Yemen Opens The Eyes

By DON GRAFF

Well, Yemen is back in the news. Surely you remember Yemen — actually the strategically situated country — actually two countries — at the southeast tip of the Arabian peninsula that hit the headlines early in the year.

The Soviet-equipped forces of South Yemen, a one-time British colony that acquired Marxism along with independence, were invading neighboring Yemen proper. That geographical entity, the legendary home of the Queen of Sheba, went through its own leftist-led revolution back in the '60s but has since become a semi-satellite of neighboring and fiercely non-Marxist Saudi Arabia.

The Saudis in Riyadh were understandably alarmed, and that as usual was sufficient to alarm Washington. Which as usual responded with an emergency arms program, several hundred million dollars worth of warplanes and other super-sophisticated weapons for a region still in the process of emerging from a prolonged medieval past. And just to make the American commitment unmistakable, an aircraft carrier was moved into the adjacent Arabian sea.

What's now news is that the arms, or most of them, never reached the Yemennites. They were held up, Washington discovers, by the Saudis, who had been designated middlemen for the transaction but apparently had second thoughts about building up Yemen military to the point where it could cock a snoot at Saudi as well.

Nothing is so resourceful, the Yemennites simply were smart. They had a Russian connection and for the past month or so have been stocking up on Soviet arms — MIG-21's, T-28 tanks, stuff like that. No midwestern industrial, all merchandise delivered directly to the customer by the supplier who, remember, is also the chief supplier of the South Yemennites, the enemy.

Are you still with us? If not, we're not surprised. Washington, it is however, more than a little unhappy with the affair.

Some administration quarters are reported to be having their own second thoughts — about the extent to which we have been allowing our very good friends the Saudis to infiltrate U.S. military policies in the Persian Gulf region.

Scranton, Pa. Tribune: A letter written by Tom Carraher of Nebraska which appeared in Time magazine, suggested: "Let us surrender the Shah to the Iranian courts in exchange for the deliverance of the Ayatollah Khomeini to our courts to be tried for kidnapping." Fair enough. Our bet is that the Shah would be hanged before sunset of the first day of trial. Our additional bet is that the Ayatollah would be sentenced to a work release program, perhaps spending the weekends in jail, while mobsters fought madly for publication rights to his memoirs. Further, the Ayatollah would replace John Dean as a reigning favorite on TV talk shows.

U.S. District Judge Joyce Hens Green, bars, deporting thousands of Iranians, declaring unconstitutional the administration's nationwide check of the visas of more than 70,000 Iranian students. Maybe, Green wants to run one of these Iranian students...for president! We have a better idea. Let's run one of them for district judge in the district presided over by Judge Green!

New York Daily News: The departure of the deposed Shah of Iran for Panama has deprived the Iranian government of its original pretext for the seizure of our embassy in Tehran. Yet, the crisis goes on and 59 Americans remain hostages.

We should not be surprised. The erratic behavior of Iranian leaders during the Ayatollah on down, their endlessly conflicting statements of what they intend to do and when they will do it clearly reveal a regime almost out of control.

Patience has been the Carter administration's strong suit throughout the crisis. With 80 lives at stake the President had no other choice. But he has hung tough on the central issue — freeing the captives in Tehran before any other issue is taken up. The Shah's move to Panama just makes that point all the clearer.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat: The sleep of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran by Iranian "students" has now been on nightly television longer than Rene of Hogon's hair. Which raises a question: When, if ever, do "students" in Iran go to school?

Dear the Ayatollah Khomeini, in all his wisdom, think that learning is not in the nature of OPEC. No, however, even again, should be America's determined policy.

Beginning early next year, 1980, the U.S. should embark on the most massive conservation and energy development program in its history.

When the crisis over the hostages, finally is resolved, the American government and people would be wise not to forget the true role played by the Soviet Union...

At the same time Persian language broadcasts from Russia attempted to fan anti-Americanism in Iran. They claimed the takeover was justified because the embassy was a "nest of spies" — that from a regime maintaining the most expensive espionage network on earth.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Common College Calendar Key To Cabinet Session

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Gov. Bob Graham wants the Cabinet involved in several major higher education policy decisions, including whether the universities and community colleges switch to a common calendar.

Education Commissioner Ralph Turlington Wednesday called a special Cabinet meeting for Jan. 10, acting as Graham's request.

No votes will be taken, but Turlington hopes to get the Cabinet to order the universities to switch to the modified semester calendar used now by the community colleges and to endorse the two-plus-two system.

Under the plan, community colleges provide the first two years of instruction and universities offer the final two years and graduate courses.

Kennedy Records Sought

MIAMI (UPI) — The Federal Elections Commission filed suit in U.S. District Court Wednesday seeking the records of the Florida For Kennedy Committee, including lists of contributors and other participants.

The suit resulted from sworn accusations by the Carter-Mondale Presidential Committee Oct. 4 that Kennedy campaigners had violated the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971.

Arthur McDuffie, 33, a former Marine and father of three, received head injuries in the Dec. 17 incident with Dade police. He died Friday, but doctors said his brain had been dead for days.

The death of Mr. McDuffie was a homicide, "Wright said. His skull was 'cracked like an egg' with multiple fractures.

McDuffie, an insurance salesman, was hurt when the motorcycle crashed following a high-speed chase by police, according to the original police report.

"There was no collision involving his motorcycle," Wright said. "He died as a result of being beaten at the conclusion of a chase."

Acting Dade Public Safety Department Director Bobby Jones said he hopes to complete an investigation into the incident by New Year's Day.

Four Dade County police officers — Sgt. Ira Diggs, 31, and Officers Charles Veverka, 29; Alex Marrero, 26, and Michael Watts, 30 — have been suspended without

Orlando Rate Jumps 9.6%

Crime Rises In State's Larger Cities

MIAMI (UPI) — The major crime rate in four of Florida's larger cities exceeded or equaled the national average for the first nine months of 1979, according to FBI figures.

Tampa with a 15.6 percent rise over the first nine months of 1978, St. Petersburg with a 12 percent increase and Orlando with a 9.6 percent jump topped the nationwide 9 percent overall increase in reported major crimes.

Jacksonville matched the national average with a 9 percent, while the increase in major crime in Miami was only 6 percent.

But police spokesmen cautioned Wednesday that the overall index was somewhat misleading. While Miami showed a decline in assault (4.5 percent) and less-than-average increases in larceny (7 percent) and car thefts (5.6 percent), major violent crimes such as murder and forcible rape rose significantly.

In St. Petersburg, on the other hand, "62 percent of our crime was larceny: bicycle theft, theft from cars," said Bill Doniel, police public information director. "The violent crime percentage was very small."

A growing population, drug wars, economic hard times and the vagaries of statistics were among the reasons cited by police spokesmen to explain the increased crime rates.

Among the statistics: murder up 41 percent in Miami through September; forcible rape increasing 43 percent in Orlando, 42 percent in Miami and 29 percent in Jacksonville and car thefts up almost 26 percent in Tampa.

In Miami, murders increased from 67 to 85. Sgt. Larry Matheson, a Dade Public Safety Department spokesman, attributed the rise in large part to the drug war that has swept the city — in particular, the "cocaine cowboy" murders.

"A large number of the homicides reflected are involved with drug trafficking, persons committing them upon each other," he said. Jacksonville showed a decrease of five murders during the period, from 58 in 1978 to 53 this year (4 percent). Tampa murders also declined, from 32 last year to 27 (15.6 percent).

In Orlando, nine murders were reported during the period in 1978, 13 this year (a 31 percent increase).

In St. Petersburg, 20 murders were reported, six more than in September 1978, for a 30 percent increase.

Only St. Petersburg showed a decrease in rapes, from 114 in 1978 to 75 this year (a 39 percent drop), with Doniel attributing it to a "vigorous" public-awareness campaign by police.

In Orlando, reported forcible rape rose from 72 to 103, an increase of 43 percent. Miami reported a 42 percent increase, from 145 to 206. In Jacksonville, 211 rapes were reported through September 1979. The figure rose by 62 to 272, an increase of 29 percent this year. And Tampa reported 41 more rapes, an increase from 189 to 230 (21.7 percent).

Matheson noted that a number of Miami rapes had been attributed to one man: the "Bird Road Rapist."

"One individual can have a fairly significant effect," on statistics, he said. No other city could point to a single individual believed responsible for large numbers of rapes.

Tampa reported the largest increase in motor vehicle thefts: 25.9 percent, from 958 during the first nine months of 1978 to 1,206. John Barker, a Tampa police spokesman, said he could pinpoint no particular reason.

"We have been operating about 40 people down (on the police force) this year, but I'd be hesitant to say that's the reason," he said. Vehicle thefts also rose in the other four large cities.

In other categories: Miami reported the most robberies — 2,471, an 18 percent increase, while St. Petersburg with 491 robberies (up 85 from the previous year) had the greatest percentage increase, 19.7 percent.

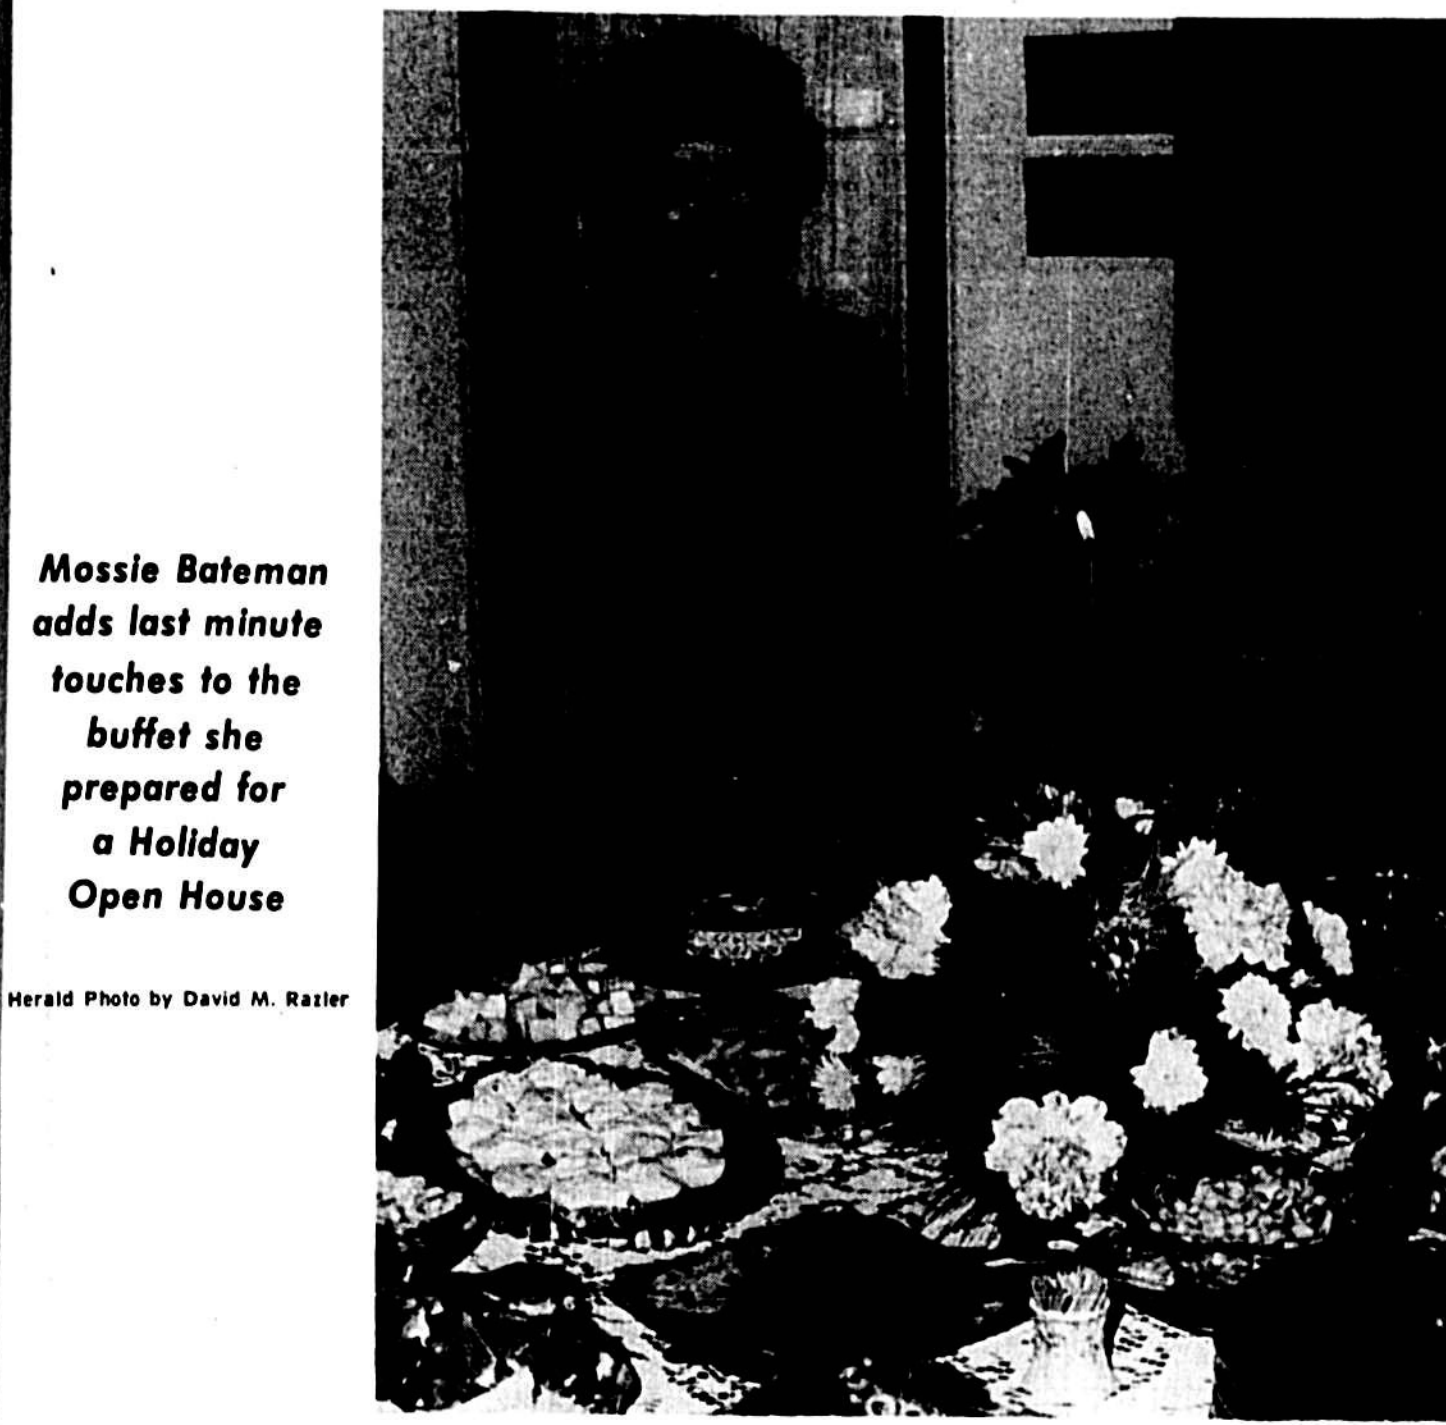

Jacksonville, Orlando, St. Petersburg, and Tampa all reported increases in aggravated assaults. The aggravated assault rate in Miami was down 5.5 percent.

Burglaries increased in all five cities, as did larceny thefts.

Police spokesmen had various theories for the increased crime rates.

"There's population shifts — a lot of new people coming in," said Dade's Matheson. "You have a lot more people, you'll have a lot more crime."

St. Petersburg's Doniel said, "We've seen it (crime) follow the economic trends: 1974 was a year of economic hard times and a big year for crime. In '75 and '76, things were getting better and there was a big decrease in crime. In '78, it started to come back, and this year, it's even worse."

In And Around Sanford They Really Deeked Halls

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bateman really "decked the halls" of their Laurel Avenue home for Christmas Eve celebration.

Mossie C. Bateman goes all out every year of an open house to say "thank you."

She includes many of her friends from the Club, the Garden Club of Sanford, and the Sweet Adeline's on her invitation list.

Mossie decorates her home in a traditional Early American decor to complement her beautiful antique furniture. Her decorations are all handmade, most of which, she has made herself.

She made all of her holiday food, providing a personal touch to her Christmas giving. Mossie said "I especially want to show my customers that I appreciate the happiness they have given me by making them happy a little bit."

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nopper are coming to Sanford from Ottawa, Canada for a month's vacation. They will be guests of Mrs. Robert's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy N. Nopper, 103 Tangerine Drive.

Robert and Audrey plan to do some touring and sight-seeing in our area after their arrival on New Year's Day.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Carlson are looking forward to a visit from Rev. and Mrs. O. W. Nyblade who are missionaries of the Lutheran Church in Nyblade.

They have served on the field in Tanzania, Africa for 25 years. Rev. Nyblade is an educator and Mrs. Nyblade is a registered nurse.

They are currently serving an exchange mission in St. Paul, Minn., and have come to visit the Carlsons for a short holiday. Mrs. Nyblade is Jean Carlson's sister.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Feddersen were pleasantly surprised with the unexpected, early arrival of a beautiful, healthy granddaughter.

Heather Platt was to arrive in the new year, but decided to come early and bring joy to the family for Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Platt are Heather's proud parents.

She was attired in a floor-length gown of mauve tulle knit styled with a halter bodice and knee pleated skirt. Her triangle capelet of chiffon was edged with matching ribbon. She carried an arrangement of mauve shades of silk flowers and baby's breath in similar design as the bride's.

Bridesmaids were Miss Martha Robinson, Mt. Airy; Mrs. Dick Hoase, Decatur, Ga.; Mrs. Ted Coleman, Mebane; and Miss Cara Gordon. Their gowns and flowers were identical to the honor attendants.

The bridegroom's father served as best man. Ushers were Rick Smith, Burlington, N. C.; David Harris Gilsonville, N. C.; Andy Thompson, Chapel Hill, N. C.; and Steve Ward, Boone, N. C.

Jamie Coleman and Tracy Thompson were the flower girls. Ring bearers were Christine Thompson and Jeremy Coleman.

Gallbladder Just Storage Reservoir

DEAR DR. LAMB - I'm interested in knowing more about the gallbladder and gallbladder attacks. What is the function of the gallbladder? What are the symptoms of a gallbladder attack? Does such an attack mean there are gallstones in the bladder? If an attack occurs in the "dead of the night," what can you do for yourself? If gallstones are present, does this require surgery? If you have an attack, it is possible to never have another one?

DEAR DR. LAMB - Even though gallbladder operations are common, many people do not know what the gallbladder is and how it can cause trouble. The gallbladder is simply a storage reservoir. Bile from the liver flows down the bile duct and backs up into the gallbladder. Bile is stored in the gallbladder as it's being formed. Then when you eat, the gallbladder contracts and squirts all that bile down the rest of the bile duct into the small intestine.

Now about that attack in the dead of the night. The symptoms are sufficiently varied that you probably would have trouble making a definite diagnosis yourself anyway. If you have severe pain in the belly at any time, you should seek medical assistance rather than trying to make a diagnosis and treating yourself. That kind of pain can be associated with a lot of different problems, many of which require immediate attention. So call your doctor or go to an emergency room.

You can have large stones in the gallbladder that are not about to be dislodged and may not produce any symptoms at all. So you can have a variety of pain associated with gallbladder disease, from that which requires immediate attention. So call your doctor or go to an emergency room.

Life Is Worse Than Ever For Single Working Moms

Life has always been hard for the single working mother. But now, it's worse than ever, says Dr. Helen De Rosa. Associate Clinical Professor of Psychiatry at the NYU Medical Center, and author of "Women and Anxiety" (Doubleday Press), Dr. De Rosa says, "Formerly the major focus for the single working mother was to make a living and to see that her children were clean, fed and taken to school. And, because she was a traditional woman, she came 'at the end of the pile.'"

Dr. De Rosa says, "The single working mother who decides to her that, for one, her job isn't just to make a living - it's to build an interesting career and make a lot of money. In addition she has to be something looking, have all kinds of clothes, a nice group of women to raise her consciousness with, and, of course, she has to have an active social life. On top of which she still has to take care of her children."

Atlantic Bank Buys Mr. P's Supper Club

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Mr. P's Supper Club and its furnishings were sold at the west door of the Seminole County courthouse this morning for $10,000 to the holder of its mortgage, Atlantic National Bank of Seminole.

Chester Pierce of the bank said it has not been decided how the property will be disposed of. "We're turning it over to our attorney," he said.

Only three bids were received, including two from the bank. The bank's first bid was $1,000. An unidentified man bid $1,500 and immediately left the scene after being out-bid by the bank.

The supper club, which has operated for three-and-a-half years in Sanford, closed its doors to business Wednesday night.

Famous personalities, including ex-Georgia Gov. Lester Maddox, Rusty Valles, Frankie Fontaine and Tiny Tim, had appeared at the club during that time as well as the Glenn Miller and Woody Herman bands.

This morning's auction was ordered by the Seminole-Brevard Circuit Court at the request of the Atlantic Bank. Mr. Patrick's Inc. owed the bank a $100,000 mortgage on the building at 119 S. Magnolia Avenue and its furnishings.

The bank filed the foreclosure action after Robert Patrick, owner of the nightclub, defaulted on payments on the equipment and the building at 119 S. Magnolia Ave. Property taxes for 1975, 1977, 1978 and 1979 years are also owed by the club.

Patrick, admitting he is bitter about the failure of his supper club, said today, "A lot of beautiful people supported the club. But, he added, he will "keep plugging" and attempt to open a similar club in the south end of the county, preferably in Casselberry or Altamonte Springs. "If I sound bitter, I am," he said.

He criticized the banks in the area, saying they feared to invest in the downtown area, and he said much of the problem businessmen face in Sanford is because the city is divided into factions. "Some of the people are dynamic," Patrick said.

The building was constructed in the 1880's and was a former opera house during the city's golden days.

Items sold in the auction included the property, and personal property, such as amplifiers, car stereo, decks, transformers, and speakers and dining room furniture of various descriptions.

The furniture included, dishwashers, trash compactors, drink dispensers, coolers, freezers, ranges, fire protection system, chef table, refrigerator, waitress station and ice cuber.

Mr. P's Supper Club, at 119 S. Magnolia Ave. in Sanford, was noted for bringing famous personalities to area diners. Constructed in the 1880s, the building which housed the club was a former opera house. Mr. P's closed Wednesday.

India Diplomats Claim 'Invasion' Soviets Muscle Into Afghanistan

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — The overthrow and execution of pro-communist Afghan President Hafizullah Amin, losing a civil war to Moslem rebels, amounted to a virtuous takeover of the country by the Soviet Union, diplomats said today.

The diplomats said the Afghan army fell to Russian troops Thursday after about four hours of fighting in the Afghan capital of Kabul.

They said many Afghan units fled, others defected and many more simply handed over their weapons to the Soviets, who backed Amin until the coup.

One diplomat, who asked not to be quoted, said the coup in which Amin and his family died amounted to an invasion by the Soviet Union.

He said the Soviets mounted the buildup of the Afghanistan border of 30,000 combat troops and the unprecedented airlift this week of up to 5,000 fighting men into Kabul in preparation for the takeover of the strategic, but isolated central Asian nation.

Official Radio Kabul announced Amin's ouster and execution Thursday, adding that Babrak Karmal, 50, was appointed president of the Revolutionary Council, becoming the Moslem nation's new strongman.

The tyrannical, murderous, treacherous, dictatorial and fascist regime of Hafizullah Amin has been overthrown," said the Kabul broadcast, monitored in Washington, London and Adelaide.

"Hafizullah Amin has been tried and sentenced to death for crimes . . . against the noble people of Afghanistan," the radio said. "The sentence has been carried out."

Firing squad is the usual method of execution in Afghanistan but the method used for Amin was not disclosed.

Amin's wife, daughter and son (names and ages not known) also reportedly died in the coup, radio reports monitored in Kabul said.

Eye witnesses reported heavy fighting in the streets of Kabul Thursday night between Soviet troops and regular Afghan forces, diplomats said.

There were no immediate estimates of casualties or arrests but diplomatic reports from Kabul said the streets were calm with Soviet troops patrolling the streets.

Kabul Radio also announced the new Afghan government, which imposed a dusk-to-dawn curfew in Kabul, requested urgent "political, moral and economic assistance including military aid" from the Soviet Union, which "last week airlifted thousands of combat troops to the country. The radio said Moscow agreed to the aid request.

Western analysts in Moscow indicated the coup was a Soviet-backed effort to defuse the Islamic, nationalist rebellion that reportedly has gained control of much of the countryside.

"Both Amin and Karmal are good friends of the Soviets, but the new one has broader-based connections with the Afghan populace," a Western diplomat in Moscow said.

However, Mangal Husain, a spokesman for the rebel Islamic Front of Afghanistan, said from Peshawar, Pakistan, today the guerrilla organization would never recognize the new authorities in the Afghan capital and would continue the "holy war . . . against the infidels."

Speaking by telephone to Islamabad, Pakistan, Husain added, "The new government of Babrak Karmal has been installed in Kabul directly by the Russians. All the new members of the Revolutionary Council are pure communists and agents of Russia."

In Washington, intelligence sources described Karmal as an explosive character, as close as you could ever get to the classic Moscow-lining communist," and said he probably was hand-picked by Moscow to take over from Amin.

Radio Kabul reported earlier that Karmal, founder of the Parcham Communist Party and longtime ideological opponent of Amin, staged the coup. Amin, also a pro-Moscow communist, earlier had purged the Parcham faction.

U.S. officials said the Soviet military airlift into Kabul resumed Thursday after a brief suspension and as many as 200 Soviet flights took place since the massive airlift began Christmas Day.

President Calls Security Meeting

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter summoned his national security advisers to the White House today to assess the latest developments in Iran and Afghanistan, where a communist Iranian militia took Americans at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran hostage.

Carter arranged to fly back to the White House at 10 a.m. EST from Camp David where he has been on a week-long holiday sojourn.

He originally planned to return to the United Nations, an official said today, but later decided to remain at the White House for the weekend to monitor the situation.

Shortly after his arrival, Carter will convene a full-blown National Security Council meeting. "Obviously they are going to discuss Afghanistan as well as Iran," a White House official said.

Smaller groups of diplomatic and military advisers have been meeting on an almost daily basis since Nov. 4 when Iranian militia took Americans at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran hostage.

In the meantime, Carter has received word there is "a good chance" the Soviets will not veto the U.S. proposal for economic sanctions against Iran in the United Nations, an official said.

The White House announcement said Carter will return "to meet with foreign policy advisers on the situation in Iran and other developments in that region, which national security affairs adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski has dubbed the "arc of crisis."

An official said "obviously they are going to discuss the situation in Afghanistan" where Soviet-backed Hafizullah Amin was overthrown by former Prime Minister Babrak Karmal, founder of the Parcham Communist Party.

After the coup, administration officials said there were indications Soviet troops might be involved in street fighting in Kabul. The United States has protested Russia's "blatant military interference" in the country.

One administration official said the United States is still short of the nine votes in the U.N. Security Council for approval of economic sanctions against Iran.

Carter also was to meet at noon today with Israeli Defense Minister Ezer Weizman, who has been conferring with Defense Secretary Harold Brown and Secretary of State Cyrus Vance on a request for $3.45 billion in new military and economic aid.

Administration officials said they expect Israel will wind up with a package of less than $2 billion.

Hansen Considers Street Hearing

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — Rep. George Hansen, conducting a personal "mission of mercy" to win the release of the American hostages, suggested today he might "set up a little table" outside the U.S. Embassy and begin hearings into allegations against the United States and the deposed Shah.

But Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh again warned if the United States tried to impose an economic blockade on Iran, the captives would be tried as spies.

Showing obvious impatience with the 60-day-old stalemate, Hansen demanded in a news conference that Iran release an exact list of hostages and clear up the mystery over how many captives are held in the embassy.

Three American clergymen who returned home Thursday said they met with 41 hostages on Christmas Day and were told by the militants six other prisoners declined to attend their services. But Washington still maintains there are 50 captives, not 46.

Hansen told newsmen that, schedule permitting, "I'm very much inclined to go and stand right in front of the American embassy and set up a little table and let people come and share me . . ."

"Let's get it on the table . . . exactly what abuses are there. Let's just start the hearings, start the fact-finding right here. Then maybe we can understand what the problems are between us and get them solved."

Hansen, describing his second visit to Iran as a "mission of mercy," said congressional hearings — either formal ones or his own unauthorized ones — could provide the key to the hostages' release.

The Idaho Republican, whose trip is unofficial, refused to say with whom he will meet and let specifically he hopes to accomplish, but said his visit was "to try to provide some comfort to the hostages' families by finding out the facts."

Hansen, on a similar mission to Iran in November that was widely criticized by officials in Washington, called for congressional investigations and Ghotbzadeh said this would have a "moderating" effect on the situation.

Captor: Hostages Not Moved

NEW YORK (UPI) — A militant captor of the American hostages in Tehran today denied a report that seven of the hostages had been moved to a maximum-security prison and said all the captives were well. But he said he did not know the exact number of prisoners in the embassy.

Interviewed live on ABC-TV, the captor, identified only as Habib, said through an interpreter, "We have never moved any hostages. They are in shelter. We have taken good care of them. They are safe."

Habib said doctors had seen the hostages and reported none of them was sick, but he said, "In case of an attack (by the United States), we will destroy them."

Asked if all the Americans were in the embassy, he said, "Yes."

In Tehran, the official Iranian news agency Pars, to whom the report was attributed, also denied any knowledge of hostages being moved.
