2 Sanford Men Die In Crash; 4 Injured

Two young Sanford men were killed Thursday and four other Sanfordites injured in a single-car crash on Interstate 4, about 11 miles west of Kissimmee.

Dead are Derrick J. Cohen, 17, of 121 Bethune Circle, the driver of the 1986 Ford Bronco II, and I. V. McGriff, 21, of 143 Bethune Circle, one of the five passengers.

Injured and taken to nearby hospitals shortly after the pre-dawn accident were:

● Alton Isaac, 18, of 143 Bethune Circle, taken to Orlando Regional Medical Center with head and neck injuries, reported in serious, but stable condition today.

● Elwell Ferrell III, 19, of 121 Bethune Circle, taken to Kissimmee Memorial Hospital with back injuries, reported in stable condition. He is scheduled to be released today.

● Richard Armstrong, 15, of 121 Bethune Circle, taken to Kissimmee Memorial Hospital with a broken right leg and broken right arm, with possible internal bleeding, reported in serious condition.

● Lori Berkey, 25, of Casa Park Circle, Winter Springs, taken to Orlando Regional Medical Center with multiple injuries to the head and some fractures, reported in critical condition today.

Berkey, according to Florida Highway Patrol, is listed as the owner of the car. Ferrell and Armstrong are brothers, according to their mother, Altamease Lewis of 121 Bethune Circle. She said Cohen is her grandson, Isaac is McGriff's brother, according to a sister.

FHP troopers said the six were in the eastbound car about 4:35 a.m. when it left the highway, skidded into the median strip of I-4, returned to the eastbound lanes and veered off the road, striking a guardrail then overturning.

Everyone in the car was thrown from the vehicle on impact and while it was rolling over, according to Mary Duhart, of 143 Bethune Circle, McGriff's sister. Troopers said none of the occupants were wearing seatbelts.

Ferrell said the FHP is correct in reporting that no one was wearing seatbelts, but he said, in his opinion, anyone wearing the belts would either have been pinned beneath the wreckage of the vehicle or died instantly inside of it.

The FHP declined to speculate whether the deaths or the severity of the injuries could be attributed to the driver or passengers not wearing seatbelts.

Armstrong said today from his hospital room that Ferrell should be credited with helping survivors of the crash.

"I think he's the only one who was walking around at the scene, locating bodies and pulling them to safety," Armstrong said. He said he was sitting in the rear of the jeep-wagon-like vehicle asleep when he was awakened partially by the car's vigorous swerving. He said the last thing "I remember, is I was lying on the grass and Ferrell was walking around, at least it looked like him. The next thing I remember is waking up in the hospital."

Ferrell, by phone from his room at Kissimmee Memorial, said he pulled Armstrong away from the wrecked vehicle, fearing an explosion. "I was the only one walking around."

Ferrell said details of the accident are still "foggy," but added he remembers waking up outside the Bronco.

"I woke up after I was thrown out," he said. "I didn't know what to think."

Ferrell, who sustained a back injury and fractured skull, admitted he and the others had been drinking beer earlier "but not enough to assume we were drunk."

Zoo Board's Opponents Say Court Next Step

Recall Meeting Fizzles For 'Lack Of Quorum'

By Ted Carter
Herald Staff Writer

A brief but intense meeting of the Central Florida Zoological Society Thursday night did nothing to end a bitter dispute between the zoo's governing board and a group of honorary and former board members.

A lawyer and professional parliamentarian hired by the zoo board stood fast in their claim that the 56 voting society members at the meeting did not constitute a quorum able to vote on recall motions against certain board members. Zoo attorney Mel Martinez and parliamentarian Randi Sutphin said repeatedly that 128 "paid up" society members eligible to vote as of July 21 would be needed to act on recall motions.

Mason

Brock

Critics of the zoo board cried foul and vowed to have the issue settled in court.

"A judge will decide how the meeting can be conducted and what we are entitled to," said J. Cheney Mason, attorney for fired zoo chief Al Rozon, honorary board members Newman Brock and Gerald Rutberg and former board member Shirley Mason.

Mason argued a vote of a majority of the society members present for the meeting was sufficient to remove certain board members. Moreover, said Mason, the society's entire membership, which numbers about 3,000 people, should have been invited to vote.

Mason and his clients have targeted 12 board members, including executive committee members Susan Morris, Wayne Weinberg and John Smith, for recall. Morris is president of the zoo

Health Department Probing Illnesses, Status Of Lake

The Seminole County Health Department is investigating the cause of an undetermined illness suffered by Longwood residents and the death of several ducks in Fairy Lake.

Bernice Duncan, community health supervisor for the health department, said today at least eight adults and children from several families had complained of nausea and vomiting after eating fried turtle and that some of them had also eaten a pie made from duck eggs. She said there is no confirmation that the illness was connected to eating the turtle or duck eggs.

Duncan said some of the persons became ill Tuesday and some reported symptoms earlier. She said that stool samples from those affected are being sent to the state laboratory for testing and it will probably be Wednesday before the results are known.

Russell Miller, director of the state's environmental health agency in Seminole County, said several dead ducks from Fairy Lake had been sent to the Department of Agriculture lab in Kissimmee in an effort to learn the cause of their death.

Miller said, however, it is not unusual for ducks to die this time of year from botulism because they forage on the bottom of the lake where there is a lot of silt and algae creating anaerobic conditions. He said it has not been shown that botulism in ducks is transferred to people through eating the ducks or duck eggs.

Miller said results of tests on water samples taken by his department from Fairy Lake on Thursday are expected late today. He said testing of the lake water was done after the ducks died and some people who became ill thought it might have been because of contamination of the lake where they swam.

Miller said, although salmonella has been mentioned by some as a possible cause for the illness, there is no evidence at this point. Salmonella bacteria can cause food poisoning, gastrointestinal illness or diseases of the genital tract in humans and warm-blooded animals.

Miller said the bacteria is commonly found in fowl such as ducks, chickens and turkeys.

"We were able to obtain a small amount of duck egg white for testing, he said, "but at this time we really don't know for sure what is causing the death of the ducks or the illness in the people."

He said his agency plans to take another sample of water from Fairy Lake on Monday for further independent tests.

Lake Fairy is marked off for the time being until tests are completed. It is not a lake approved by the agency for swimming, Miller said. There are only three lakes — Red Bug Lake, Lake Sylvan and Lake Mills — where swimming is permitted and testing is conducted every other week. They are all located at county parks.

This does not mean there are not other lakes that are safe for swimming. Other lakes can be tested by the agency on request.

Soviets OK Bering Strait Swim

In Just A Bathing Suit, Eskimos Doubt She Can Make It

WALES, Alaska (UPI) — The Eskimos think it is impossible to swim across the icy cold 2.7-mile Bering Strait, but they gave a warm welcome to the woman who arrived to make the attempt.

Lynne Cox, 30, who set English Channel swim records as a teenager, squealed with joy and jumped up and down Thursday when word came from Moscow that the Soviets would permit the U.S. to U.S.S.R. swim.

Cox, who lives in Los Alamitos, Calif., and a small medical team were stranded in Wales on the western tip of mainland Alaska, delayed by bad weather from flying to the Alaska island of Little Diomed for her swim to the Soviets' Big Diomed.

"We are ready to render assistance to Lynne Cox in the swim," read the telex from the U.S.S.R. State Sports Committee in Moscow. "Your group will be met at the international dateline."

The Soviets said they were waiving all visa requirements for Cox and her party and asked for further details on when Cox would be making the plunge.

The Soviet telex came following reports late Wednesday from the Alaska Eskimos on Little Diomed of unusual activity on the Soviet side of the border.

The Eskimos reached Cox in Wales and reported Soviet ships anchored off Big Diomed and Soviet tents going up on the shore — activities that the Eskimos described as extremely unusual.

Little Diomed, a village of 150 Eskimos, faces Big Diomed across the Bering Strait.

Cox had left Nome on the Bering Sea in northwest Alaska on Wednesday to fly to Little Diomed for the swim but weather forced her group to stop in Wales where they remained Thursday waiting for a break in the weather.

Resolution Fails 3-2; Waller Keeps Job

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

A resolution to remove Longwood City Administrator Ron Waller from his job was voted down 3-2 Thursday night at a special meeting.

Waller, who called the resolution drafted by Commissioner Lynette Dennis "false and slanderous," has turned it over to his lawyer for legal action against Dennis.

Waller, 49, said Thursday night after the vote that he had been hoping it would be defeated. "I think this will clear the air and we can now go forward," he said.

Dennis said the outcome was "pretty much what I expected from the commission meeting Monday night when I wasn't allowed to present my resolution." She said she doesn't deliberately try to see how much controversy she can cause, but was doing what she thought was right. She said during the seven months she has been on the commission she has seen problems and has not been able to get any cooperation from Waller, who has been on the job for 16 months.

Some of the reasons listed in the resolution for asking for Waller's removal were "incompetency," "lack of leadership," "failure to keep the commission fully advised as to the financial condition and future needs of the city," and "lack of initiative with respect to the city's sewer problems."

Voting against the resolution were Mayor Ed Myers, Deputy Mayor June Lormann and

Ron Waller
...resolution calling for his removal was defeated.

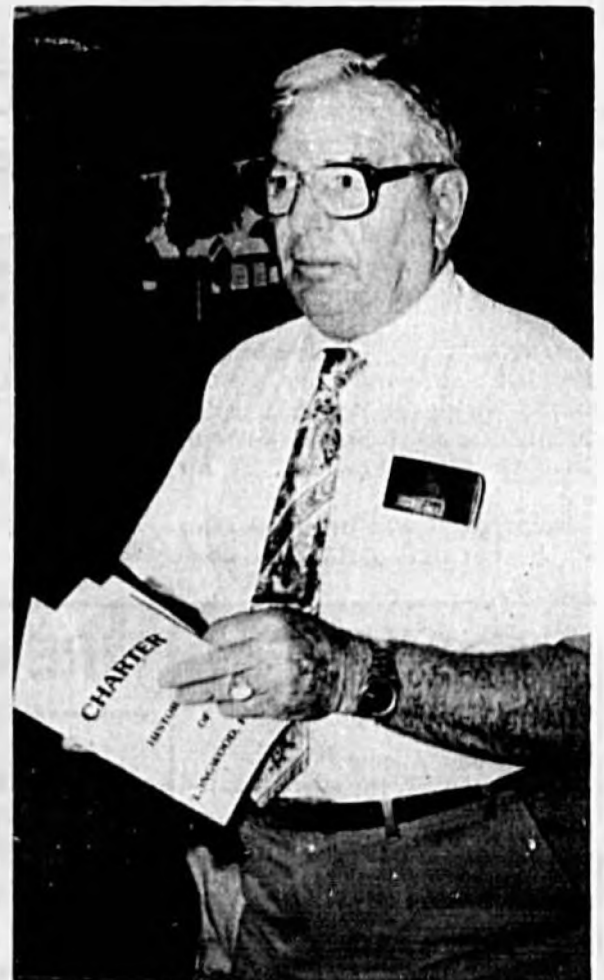

Commissioner Harvey Smerilson. When Commissioner David Gunter voted "yes," cries of "of course" came from the audience of about 35 persons, some of have charged Gunter and Dennis with charter violations and are seeking their removal from office.

Smerilson called the resolution slanderous and false.

"I don't think any part of it is valid," he said. Smerilson chided Dennis for stating in the resolution that the "city has still not received a final audit" because of problems in the finance department. He said the city had received the final audit and held up what he said was the audit.

When it was pointed out the audit was only delivered Thursday afternoon, Smerilson said that didn't matter it was before Dennis' resolution was read so she should have known about it.

Longwood Mayor Ed Myers, after the special meeting, uses city's charter to back up his statement the commission has the right to remove a commissioner. Interim City Attorney Ann Colby earlier advised that state law says the commission can't do that and state law supercedes the city charter where they conflict.

Longwood Wants Access To School Facilities

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

The city of Longwood is seeking use of Lyman High School facilities for programs Bill Goebel, city parks and recreation director, would like to start.

Goebel wrote City Administrator Ron Waller that on several occasions he had spoken to Principal Carlton Henley at Lyman, but he appeared uninterested.

Mayor Ed Myers told Waller at the Monday night commission meeting to go directly to School Superintendent Bob Hughes to get permission to use the swimming pool and gymnasium for city programs. "We paid for them, let's use them," Myers said.

"Excuses were always at hand," Goebel stated, "such as, 'Our teams need to use the gym'; 'our swim team needs to use the pool'; or 'the YMCA uses our facilities.' I am well aware of the needs of the school to use its facilities, but it would be encouraging to hear that maybe the school and the city could work out a schedule where taxpayers could use facilities for which they are being taxed."

"A good case in point," Goebel said, "when employed with Altamonte Springs Recreation Department I was able to secure the Milwee gym for a men's basketball program. This program is still going on and that was 10 years ago. Altamonte Recreation Department has just worked out an agreement with Lake Brantley High School to use its softball facility, so I know it can be done."

Goebel added, "I believe it comes down to the old saying —

"Where there's a will, there's a way."

Programs listed by Goebel as possibilities for the cooperative venture at the Lyman swimming pool include: open swimming for residents, swimming lessons for adults and children, life saving classes for youth and adults, diving classes and water polo league for adults; in the gymnasium: basketball for youth and adult leagues, volleyball, tumbling and ballet for children and adults, and Jazzercise.

"We must also keep in mind the cost factor involved in running these programs," Goebel said. "A good portion of the expense would be off-set by user fees."

In other business Monday night the commission:

- Gave unanimous preliminary approval to an ordinance establishing rules for fireworks displays in the city. A public hearing was set for Aug. 17.

- Voted to table action on an ordinance amending the city's personnel policies and procedures manual until after a work session is held on changes in the proposed budget.

- Accepted an $8,000 cash performance bond from Shoppees of Island Lake as a guarantee that oil coat applied to the parking lot was washed into the bottom of the retention pond by rain is properly removed. The check had already been cashed and put into the escrow account of the general fund.

- Unanimously approved the site plan for Island Lake Meridian, a 120-bed nursing home to be located on the southeast corner of State Road 434 and Slade Drive. The applicant is Oxford Construction. The overall site plan was approved by the city in 1983, the developer had to wait until certificate of need could be obtained from the department of Health and Rehabilitative Services before the nursing home element of the plan could be built. The site plan specifically for the nursing home was brought back before the commission at the request of the city staff.

- Approved a site plan request by Mike Hattaway for auto display with a one-foot setback at 180 E. State Road 434 in a unanimous vote.

- Authorized a study by the staff to see what lakes in the city should be allowed what kind of boats in preparation for drawing up an ordinance to cover restrictions for all of lakes. Petitions for and against amending regulations for use of West Lake to allow small power crafts and jet ski crafts less than 10 feet long and less than 40 hp.

- Approved expenditure of up to $4,000 for appraisal of Candyland Park for the purpose of applying for a $120,000 state grant to develop the park.

- Announced an auction sale of surplus property to be held in the parking lot between and city hall and city hall annex at 10 a.m. this Saturday and special trash pickup of large items including appliances at 7 a.m. Saturday.

AIDS Hospital To Close

HOUSTON (UPI) — The company that founded the nation's only hospital devoted entirely to AIDS treatment and research says it can no longer cover the center's mounting financial losses and plans to close down the hospital within the next 12 months.

American Medical International Inc., which opened the hospital in September 1986 under an affiliation agreement with the University of Texas System, said an $8 million loss prompted the decision announced Thursday.

"AMI has made the decision to phase out the program and services of the institute toward an eventual closing," said AMI spokeswoman Ann Wheeler. "That decision on the part of AMI is a final decision."

The institute's $8 million loss included about $5 million in indigent care. AMI initially committed only $250,000 to that area. AMI expected to lose about $6 million more in a second year of operations.

"What we are looking at are continuous, irreversible subsidies of operations," she said.

Wheeler said the hospital was a "pioneering effort where a balance has to be maintained between what any entity can do with regard to social responsibility and what it has to do with regard to its fiscal responsibility."

AMI and UT System officials have been discussing plans for phasing out services at the hospital to provide minimal disruption of patient care and research, she said.

Five-Day Forecast For Central Florida

Forecasters Eye Weather System

By United Press International

A tropical wave in the northwestern Caribbean sea weakened today, but hurricane forecasters began to cast a cautious eye on another weather system hundreds of miles out into the Atlantic.

Weathermen at the National Hurricane Center had planned to send a hurricane hunter plane to the disturbance in the Caribbean but cancelled plans after it began to dissipate.

"The one in the Caribbean has apparently peaked out so we won't be flying out there," forecaster Gil Clark said. "But the system several hundred miles east of the Windward Islands looks a little better this morning."

Clark said forecasters will take another look at satellite photographs of the system before sending a plane out. He said the system was so far out, the aircraft wouldn't arrive until late today.

The National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration reconnaissance aircraft records the disturbance's circulation. The level of circulation is one indicator of a storm's chances of gaining strength, he said.

The 1987 Atlantic-Caribbean hurricane season began June 1 and continues until Dec. 1. Only minor disturbances have developed so far this year and no named tropical storms have developed.

Summer showers and thunderstorms blanketed the Gulf Coast today as a cold front hanging over the Plains and the central Rockies triggered violent storms in Nebraska, Kansas, Colorado and Utah.

Early morning thunderstorms and rain showers were scattered from Montana to New Mexico and from Nevada through the central Plains into southwest Iowa and northwest Missouri. Severe thunderstorm watches were issued in northern Kansas and parts of Nebraska.

Damage from wind gusts of up to 60 mph was reported Thursday near Concordia, Kan.

Showers and occasional thunderstorms stretched this morning from the Carolinas across Florida and along the central Gulf Coast. The weather service reported especially heavy rainfall at Greer and Columbia, S.C., Augusta, Ga., and Crossville, Tenn.

Storms were expected to linger throughout the day today in the vicinity of the cold front, which stretched "from eastern Lake Superior across the Great Lakes, down across the Plains and up toward the central Rockies," said National Weather Service forecaster Harry Gordon.

Heavy rains Thursday caused flooding in White Pine and Lincoln County, Nev., as well as in parts of Utah.

After two weeks of record-breaking heat, temperatures today were expected to be in the 70s and 80s over the northern Atlantic states, the Great Lakes, the upper half of the Mississippi Valley and the northern Plains, Gordon said.

Residents of the deep South, the Gulf Coast, and the southern Atlantic Seaboard faced yet another day of readings in the 90s, while mercury levels in the upper 90s and up to 105 degrees were expected today in parts of Texas and California.

In the Southeast Thursday, the temperature at Charleston, S.C., hit an all-time high for the date at 99 degrees. Elsewhere, it was 88 in Beckley, W.Va., breaking a 19-year-old record.

Local Report

The high temperature Thursday in Sanford was 96 degrees and the overnight low was 75 degrees as reported by the University of Florida Agricultural Research and Education Center, Celery Avenue. There was no rainfall recorded. Mostly sunny today with expected high in the low to middle 90s and a 30 percent chance of afternoon showers.

Wolfinger Plans No Crusades

Stepped-up prosecution of adult video shops in Brevard County apparently is not needed in Seminole County because it has not become a problem here, according to State Attorney Norman Wolfinger.

The Brevard branch of Wolfinger's office has obtained two convictions and two guilty pleas in connection with shops specializing in adult films.

Wolfinger, whose second office is in Sanford, said the pressure was put on the Brevard shops because they were organized, had been complained about, and in some cases were becoming a health hazard. The type of shops closed down in Brevard apparently do not yet exist in Seminole County, he said.

He said while many video shops offer triple X films along with other films, the shops closed in Brevard specialized in adult sex films and often sold sex paraphernalia and had unsanitary booths for private viewing of films.

Wolfinger said any shop that sells an obscene film is breaking the law but prosecution is currently loosely based upon "the worst first."

"I would hope it wouldn't be a problem in Seminole County. But, if it is we'll work with law enforcement," said Wolfinger.

He said he has met with Seminole County law officers and explained to them what's been going on in Brevard County. He said he's also provided the one adult video store in Seminole County, The Erotic Emporium in Longwood, a list of films that have been judged elsewhere to be obscene, and thus, illegal.

He said it is up to shopkeepers to monitor the films they rent and to make sure none of them are obscene.

"Adult films are not illegal. Obscene films are," said Wolfinger.

He said prosecution on obscenity charges is time-consuming and not one of his office's priorities nor a priority of law enforcement.

"I am not a crusader," he said.

Wolfinger said he had not received any complaints about adult videos from Seminole County residents.

Shop Sues Wolfinger Over 'Porn' Film List

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

A Longwood shop that specializes in "sexually oriented video tapes" has filed suit against State Attorney Norman Wolfinger to cut short any attempt by him to bring criminal or civil charges against the business operators.

The Erotic Emporium filed suit Monday saying that Wolfinger's act of supplying it with a list of 32 films that have been judged obscene elsewhere plus related court action constitutes a violation of the constitutions of Florida and the United States.

The business states that telling it what has been judged obscene before a local jury has made such a decision constitutes a prior restraint of its "communicative activities."

Wolfinger, who had been prosecuting some adult video and sex paraphernalia stores in Brevard County, said he was unaware of any reason to conduct such a push in Seminole County. He said Seminole County did not have the type of stores that were brought to court in Brevard County. Those stores included adult films, sex toys and private booths for viewing, he said.

Nonetheless, he did give The Erotic Emporium on U.S. Highway 17-92 a list of 32 films judged in Brevard County to be obscene and, thus, illegal. The purpose of giving it the list, Wolfinger said, was to give the business operators some idea as to what has been considered obscene elsewhere and could possibly be considered obscene in Seminole County. He said he could not legally tell the business what was or was not obscene.

In the suit, the business said it contacted Wolfinger's office in an attempt to learn if its films were in compliance with Florida law.

The Erotic Emporium states in the suit that it has made the 32 films noted in Wolfinger's letter unavailable for rental or sale in its store. The store has 2,000 films for sale or rent, according to the suit.

The business states that it or its proprietors are operating under the unconstitutional threat of arrest and prosecution and that the business is incurring economic injury because it pulled the films off the shelves. Erotic Emporium states that

Wolfinger's letters about what constitutes obscenity and violation of racketeering laws are vague and "overbroad misstatements of Florida law."

The business states that under Florida law, it is a jury that decides what is obscene and not the State Attorney, even though Wolfinger states he is not trying to tell them what is obscene but only trying to tell them what has been considered obscene in Brevard County.

The company asks for a trial by jury. No hearing date has been set.

Prescription For Disaster

The House and Senate trade bills are descendants of failed protectionist policies of the past. The self-righteous mood on Capitol Hill to do something about the U.S. trade deficit, however wrongheaded, is reminiscent of 1929 when Congress passed the disastrous Hawley-Smoot Tariff that exacerbated the Great Depression.

Fortunately, President Reagan is vowing to veto the omnibus trade bill unless its more objectionable provisions are eliminated in conference committee. Thus the state is set for a classic confrontation between Capitol Hill and the White House later this summer when the finished product finally emerges from committee.

Although the trade bills passed by more than the two-thirds margin required to override a presidential veto, the final outcome is by no means certain. Many of the 19 Republicans who voted for the bill in the Senate said they would switch sides if they aren't happy with the modified version.

It should also be noted that the president has promised to sign trade legislation this year if a reasonable compromise can be achieved. Of course, what Reagan considers to be reasonable is a far cry from the monstrosity that the Democratic-controlled Congress has created.

The House and Senate bills would diminish the president's power to negotiate with this nation's trading partners, just as another round of global trade talks are about to begin in Geneva. Both measures would impose arbitrary quotas on foreign imports, thereby undermining the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade that is designed to open world markets. They would also target for retaliation those countries with work-place and wage standards unlike those in the United States.

Higher tariffs on imports would, in turn, raise costs to American consumers, promote sloth among inefficient U.S. companies, and stunt domestic growth. In fact, protectionism already costs American consumers more than $60 billion a year in higher prices for foreign-made goods. Many economists believe that some of the provisions in the House and Senate bills could dwarf that figure in the near future.

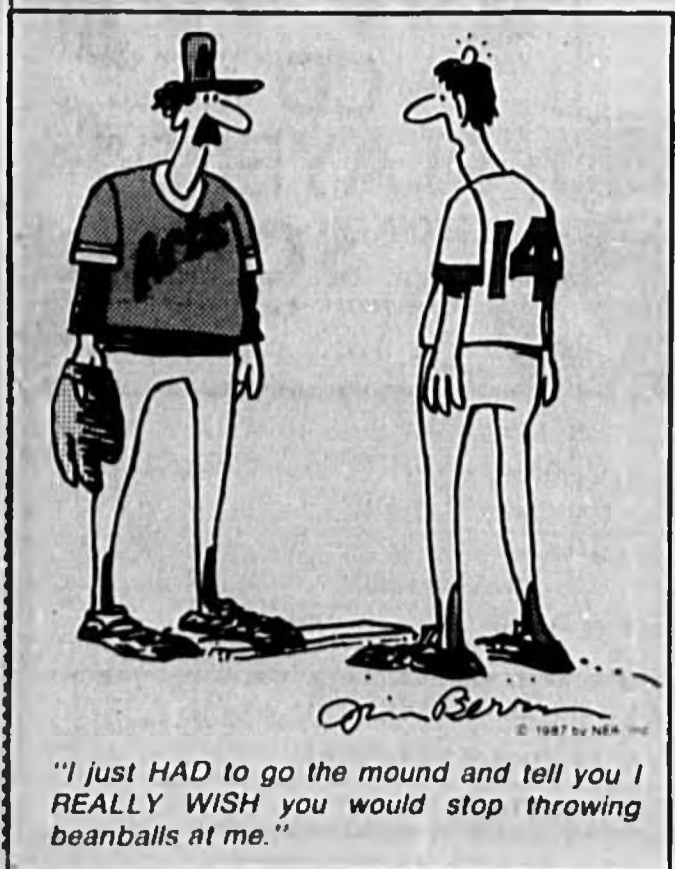

The most outrageous feature of the House bill is the Gephardt amendment that would require mandatory quotas against some of America's largest trading partners who have large surpluses with the United States. Economic analysts generally agree that such a meat-ax approach is irrational and should be avoided at all costs.

For its part, the Senate would have the International Trade Commission, an obscure federal agency, tell the president when and how to retaliate against foreign nations that run up a trade surplus with the United States. Even though the president would have more leeway than is allowed by the Gephardt amendment, his discretionary powers would still be curtailed.

In a sop to big labor, the Senate bill would also penalize businesses with more than 100 employees that fail to give 60 days' notice to workers and local officials if they plan to shut a plant or to reduce their work force by at least one-third for six months or more. This plant-closing provision could have a chilling effect on companies that are struggling to become more competitive by paring their production costs.

In short, Congress would risk a global trade war, penalize American consumers, and weaken the U.S. economy in its heavy-handed attempt to reduce the nation's $170 billion trade deficit. No wonder President Reagan has promised to veto the omnibus trade bill in its present form. It is a prescription for economic disaster.

Reagan Ready For All-Out Bork Backing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan intends to make an all-out fight for his nomination of Judge Robert Bork to the Supreme Court.

Rarely has a nomination evoked as much polarization as the choice of Bork, a member of the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, and it culminates Reagan's political dream of a conservative high bench to promote his goals long after he has left office.

Bork is the choice of conservatives, and even of some Democrats like former White House Counsel Lloyd Cutler, who served in the Carter administration.

He also has the firm backing of Republicans on the right, like Attorney General Edwin Meese, who want the Supreme Court to conform to what they are sure was the intent of the founding fathers 200 years ago.

Reagan has likened Bork to Justice Felix Frankfurter, who started out as a liberal and became more conservative in his later years on the court, and to Oliver Wendell Holmes. Some might dispute the comparison with Holmes.

When he chose Bork, Reagan said he was "recognized as a premier constitutional authority."

"His outstanding intellect and unrivaled scholarly credentials are reflected in his thoughtful examination of the broad, fundamental, legal issues of our times," Reagan said.

Bork will be judged in the final analysis on his record and his ideology. He could be an urbane and charming witness for himself before the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Sen. Joseph Biden, D-Del., chairman of the committee, has already indicated he will vote no, while at the same time acknowledging he should not have tipped his hand before the hearings begin.

Both conservatives and liberals recognize the Senate vote on Bork will be crucial in terms of the direction they want to take in the future. Reagan has already made it clear that he wants his policies to prevail long after he leaves the White House. "Judicial restraint" is the battle cry of Reagan and the conservatives. Bork, the president said, "shares my view that judges' personal preferences and values should not be part of their constitutional interpretations."

Bork, who taught for years in the Yale Law School, has definite ideas about antitrust law — the less regulation the better.

He also has some baggage from the Watergate scandal when he fired special prosecutor Archibald Cox on orders from President Richard Nixon.

Civil rights advocates and leaders of other minority groups decry Bork's various rulings and attitudes.

He opposed the Public Accommodations Act of 1963, which barred a restaurant or hotel owner, among other things, from denying blacks entry into places of business.

Bork also opposes the high court's stand on abortion.

ROBERT WALTERS

'Grass Roots' Politics

ROSEMONT, Ill. (NEA) — Sen. Paul Simon of Illinois criticized "the rich and powerful." Former Arizona Gov. Bruce Babbitt spoke of "workplace democracy." Sen. Joseph Biden of Delaware talked about "generational politics."

They were among the surprisingly large group of Democratic politicians who traveled to this Chicago suburb recently to address the annual meeting of a little known but increasingly influential organization called Citizen Action.

A confederation of statewide organizations dedicated to securing political and economic power for those now denied it, Citizen Action has affiliates in two dozen states from California to Florida and from Washington to Maine.

In an era when almost all other political and ideological groups rely upon mass marketing techniques — direct mail, "telemarketing" or advertising — to reach their constituents, Citizen Action's communicates with its supporters by going door-to-door.

"We do it the old-fashioned way. We go out, knock on people's doors and talk to them about issues," says Vincent Hughes of Philadelphia, a member of the Pennsylvania legislature who had been a leader of Citizen Action's Pennsylvania affiliate.

Equally significant are the Citizen Action's issues. They include reform of utility rate structures, helping the elderly obtain reasonably priced prescription drugs, expansion of health insurance programs to cover all workers and elimination of toxic waste dumps.

Most likely to identify with those issues are middle-income people — often young "new collar" workers in service industries — who rarely contribute to or affiliate with better known organizations — liberal and conservative, political and ideological — whose support comes from the more affluent.

Many of the 1.5 million donors claimed as "members" by Citizen Action are characterized by Ira Arlook, co-director of the national organization and director of its Ohio affiliate, as "dealigned" from the two major parties and "politically disaffected." Generally, they do not view themselves as political activists and will not respond to mail or telephone appeals.

Coin Dealers Cash In On U.S. Eagles

By Jack Anderson
And Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — Thanks to a decision by U.S. Mint officials, buyers last fall paid exorbitant prices for American Eagle gold coins while a chosen few distributors raked in handsome profits.

This is the scathing conclusion recently reached by investigators for the House Subcommittee on Consumer Affairs and Coinage, chaired by Rep. Frank Annunzio, D-Ill.

The closed system of sales, through authorized dealers, led to a bizarre situation where American coin collectors paid more for the Eagle coins than customers overseas did. That's because the authorized distributors can charge whatever the traffic will bear — and sales of the American Eagles have nosedived in the foreign markets, where they must compete with the Canadian Maple Leaf, South African Kruggerand, and bullion coins from a growing number of other nations.

But Mint Director Donna Pope rejected the congressional findings, saying that pent-up demand caused high prices after the coin was released Oct. 20. Since then, she

DICK WEST

Forget These Lines

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Should you be unable to resist quoting from "Nineteen Eighty-Four," the New York Public Library could be a good place to bone up this winter.

From Oct. 2 to April 30, next, the library plans to feature an exhibit called "Know These Lines." And we all know it was George Orwell, author of "Nineteen Eighty-Four," who wrote: "It was a bright cold day in April, and the clocks were striking thirteen."

Or maybe you prefer typically English weather. In which case, George Du Maurier's "It was a fine, sunny, showery day in April" might be more to your liking.

In the United States, I have seen some days when it was doing both at the same time: that is, it was raining and the sun was shining, simultaneously. Consequently, I like T. S. Eliot's "April is the cruellest month."

You don't have the choose April as your favorite opening line, however. Any month will do, although the author might not be represented in the exhibit.

Along with Orwell, Du Maurier and Eliot, the library will exhibit lines penned by such authors as William Shakespeare, Charles Dickens, Walt Whitman, Arthur Conan Doyle, James Joyce, Henry Miller, Anita Loos and Samuel Beckett.

Not to mention Ben Johnson, Oliver Goldsmith, Robert Burns, William Wordsworth, Robert Browning, Herman Melville, Emily Dickinson, Lewis Carroll and Mark Twain.

Surely one of that group must have started a book with at least a passing reference to your favorite month.

Anyway, their lines were chosen, along with those of such assorted writers as William Butler Yeats, H.G. Wells, John Galsworthy, Henry James and Robert Louis Stevenson, mainly because the library's Berg Collection happens to contain many "first and rare editions."

Although Lola Szladits, the collection curator, cautions that "not all items on exhibit are first editions," she points out, quite correctly I hope, that "most of our memorable lines have not changed in later editions."

It is true that Dickens' "It was the best of times, it was the worst of times" might not have suffered, but I would hate to think that Browning's invitation to "grow old along with me" changed from edition to edition.

But who knows? One Browning edition may have been dedicated to Elizabeth Barrett.

Be that as it may, the exhibit, which will feature 100 "famous first lines," is being touted as a challenge to "trivia fans and avid readers alike."

But Szladits must have had avid readers primarily in mind when she admitted that "many of us misquote." Trivia fans, of course, are not permitted the luxury of misquoting.

I would say the library's next exhibit should include 100 forgettable lines. Among the contributors, I would include Ronald Reagan, Rosalynn Carter and Indiana Democratic Chairman John Livengood.

Downs Syndrome Detection

By Gayle Young
UPI Science Writer

BOSTON (UPI) — A new, simple blood test could help detect one-fourth of the young women who are pregnant with Downs syndrome babies, giving them an early opportunity to undergo further tests to check the baby's health, study results showed.

Results of the study, which used the blood test on 34,354 pregnant women under age 35, showed the test could be used to help identify pregnant women at risk of bearing a Downs baby, making them candidates for amniocentesis, which can accurately detect evidence of the syndrome in fluid surrounding the fetus.

Downs syndrome is a congenital condition marked by mental retardation and various physical defects.

"The blood screening test can't tell us if the fetus has Downs, only that there is a possibility, a risk," said Miriam Schoenfeld DiMaio, a genetic counselor at the Yale University School of Medicine who wrote the report published Wednesday in the New England Journal of Medicine.

Current health policy is to offer amniocentesis, an invasive procedure that carries the risk of spontaneous abortion, only to women over the age of 35 because older women have an increased risk of bearing children with Downs syndrome, DiMaio said.

But 80 percent of all Downs syndrome babies are born to women under the age of 35 because younger women have more babies.

The blood test measures alpha fetoprotein, a protein produced in the liver of the fetus, in the blood of the mother, DiMaio said.

Previous studies have indicated that women who had babies with Downs were more likely to have had low AFP protein levels in their blood during their pregnancies.

In interviews Wednesday, doctors said the finding could change prenatal care in this country.

"About 80 percent of women who have a baby with Downs do so without any warning. It's out of the blue," said Dr. Aubrey Milunsky, director of the center for human genetics at Boston University School of Medicine.

premiums on the Eagles in many cases remain higher than those on Canadian and South African gold coins, according to the congressional report.

The Eagle's international market also suffered when it was discovered — incredibly — that many of the smaller denominations contained less gold than they are supposed to. At the time, the Mint guaranteed only that the average weight of the coins in a bulk shipment would be correct. Now the Mint insists that every coin contains at least the minimum amount of gold.

Annunzio's investigators suggested that the Mint's distribution system may be not only unfair but illegal. They noted that Congress directed the Mint to sell the coins "to the public."

The Mint argues that the law should have said "directly to the public" if Congress didn't want them sold through authorized distributors. But when a coin dealer who wasn't among the 25 authorized dealers threatened suit, the Mint made him an official distributor rather than fight him in court, according to the report.

Freeway Shootings Move North; 2 'Irrational Cowards' Arrested

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The freeway shootings that have terrorized drivers in Southern California have spread as far north as San Francisco, and police are calling the traffic-related gunplay a plague.

Shootings were reported Thursday in a San Francisco suburb and the San Joaquin Valley cities of Fresno and Bakersfield, bringing the number of traffic-related shootings to at least 36. Three people have been killed and at least 10 wounded since mid-June.

In Los Angeles, police said Thursday they arrested a pair of "irrational cowards" on the Hollywood Freeway after yet another incident in the series of motorist-against-motorist shootings.

Investigators said Angel Varela, 21, and Jose Santos, 26, may also have been involved in some of the other highway shootings in Southern California.

Lonetree Released From Solitary

QUANTICO, Va. (UPI) — Marine Sgt. Clayton Lonetree, the former guard at the U.S. Embassy in Moscow charged with espionage, has been released from eight months of solitary confinement as jury selection in his court-martial begins.

The court-martial was in recess Thursday, and jury selection was scheduled to begin today in the case that led to the recall of the entire 28-Marine guard contingent from Moscow last spring and raised questions about the security of U.S. diplomatic posts worldwide.

Lonetree attended evening prayer services Thursday at the Quantico Marine base brig, where until Wednesday he had been restricted to his cell nearly 24 hours a day since shortly after his December arrest.

Lonetree, speaking for the first time Wednesday during the close of pre-trial proceedings at his court-martial, asked the presiding judge, Navy Capt. Philip Roberts, if he could attend the weekly prayer services with other prisoners.

Survey: College Bills Up

NEW YORK (UPI) — The average charges for college tuition and fees rose by 5 to 8 percent for the upcoming school year, but the increases fall far short of the double-digit percentage increases of the early 1980s, a new survey shows.

The College Board survey, released Thursday, shows the average yearly cost of tuition and fees at four-year public colleges has jumped from $1,285 last year to $1,359 for the new academic year and between $6,581 and $7,110 at private schools, rises of 6 percent and 8 percent, respectively.

Bennington College in Vermont remained the most expensive four-year institution with fixed charges at nearly $18,000 annually; $14,850 for tuition and fees, and $3,140 for room and board. The school has an enrollment of 550 students and caters to aspiring poets, dancers, musicians, writers and actors.

Congress Misses Debt Deadline

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressional negotiators missed their midnight deadline to raise the federal debt limit, forcing the Treasury to cut off sales of savings bonds and other government securities starting today.

The debt legislation, designed to lift the debt ceiling to $2.8 trillion, was held up because a House-Senate conference committee could not agree on terms of an accompanying budget reform package.

"We're making progress, but it's painful and slow," Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee and leader of the conference, said after a Thursday night meeting with other key committee members.

They were scheduled to meet again today, and some lawmakers said Congress might be in session Saturday to deal with the problem.

Lawmakers File War Powers Act Suit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — More than 100 Democratic lawmakers filed suit Thursday to force President Reagan to invoke the 1973 War Powers Act and let Congress decide whether U.S. warships should escort Kuwait's re-flagged tankers.

"The situation in the Persian Gulf clearly mandates that this administration ought to invoke the War Powers Act. Since it has not, we have little choice," said Sen. Paul Simon of Illinois, a candidate for the 1988 Democratic presidential nomination, who was among the 107 lawmakers filing the suit.

The Vietnam-era law requires the administration to tell Congress within 48 hours about the introduction of U.S. forces into an area of actual or imminent hostilities. The troops could stay for up to 90 days, including 30 days for withdrawing, without congressional permission.

The suit by the Democratic senators and House members was filed in the U.S. District Court in the District of Columbia. Spokesmen for the lawmakers said they would seek a quick hearing, given the growing tensions in the Persian Gulf.

"The government of Iran has ... clearly indicated hostile intent" toward U.S. forces in the region, added Rep. Robert Torricelli, D-N.J.

"The question for the president is, 'How many young men have to die before he will come to Congress' under the act," said Rep. Peter DeFazio, D-Ore.

The United States is registering 11 Kuwaiti oil tankers under the American flag and putting the ships under Navy escort through the Persian Gulf as protection from attack from warring Iran and Iraq.

The suit said the administration waived some registration requirements for the Kuwaiti vessels in the interest of national security. Such waivers are invalid, the suit said, because they were intended only for wartime or other military emergencies.

If the court does not force reporting to Congress under the War Powers Act, said the suit, then the re-flagging should be voided.

In other Capitol Hill action Thursday, Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo., pressed her case before a House military personnel panel to force the Pentagon to provide $110-a-month danger pay for troops now in the gulf. That pay would come under a statute authorizing extra money for duty in areas of combat or imminent danger.

The Pentagon — said by some House members to be edgy about approving the pay because it might fuel arguments for imposition of the War Powers Act — sent an official to the hearing who said the agency "does not believe that ... special pay is appropriate at this time" but would keep reviewing the situation.

In recent years, the hazard pay has been approved for duty in Lebanon, El Salvador, Colombia, Peru and the Sudan.

Rep. Beverly Byron, D-Md., chairwoman of the House panel, said members have pressed the Pentagon since May without success to provide the extra pay.

Also, the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee heard testimony on legislation that would strip the U.S. flag from Kuwaiti tankers should Kuwait refuse to let U.S. minesweeping helicopters operate from its territory.

No U.S. formal request for that action has been made yet, but Navy officers told reporters covering the first escort mission that the request was not made because it was understood it would be rejected.

Dry Teen Night Club Planned In Longwood

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

William F. Pascucci, director of the Boston Bartenders School of America, plans to open a non-alcoholic nightclub in the near future in Longwood for young people over 16 and under 21 featuring a $21,000 light and sound show and national bands and radio, television and sports personalities.

Pascucci told Longwood City Commission Monday night he hopes to open the nightclub at County Road 427 and State Road 434.

"I live in Longwood and there are not many things for teens to do. I don't want to open up a dance hall, but an adult style night club with waiters and on Saturday night valet parking," he said.

Pascucci said the club will be one of the very few serving draft, non-alcoholic beer and more than 21 frozen, non-alcoholic drinks. Deli sandwiches and health oriented food will be available.

He promised to furnish security to make sure there was nobody hanging around in the parking lot and the customers will not be allowed to go out to the cars and come back in without buying another ticket. Most of those working there will be about the same age as the customers, he said, because he wants the teens to feel it is "their club."

Pascucci said one night would be for 13-15 year olds with dance contests and celebrities.

He said there will be contests between local high schools. "They will be treated as adults, with accent on the important fact that they can have fun without using alcohol and drugs," he said.

Pascucci said he is not against drinking, he is against drunkenness. He said he trains bartenders to have responsibility with the concept that the people who serve the drinks can pick up on clues when some one is drunk to slow down the number of people going on the road drunk. He said he has worked with alcohol awareness for adults and is concerned for those under 21 as well.

Police Chief Greg Manning has approved the concept with proper security and screening of employees. Applause from the audience followed Pascucci's presentation Monday night and Interim City Attorney Ann Colby asked, "When are you going to have one for adults who want somewhere to go without all the alcohol?"

Clinician Denies AIDS Charges

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — A health clinic director who works with AIDS patients denies he spit on his hands, rubbed the saliva on four anti-abortion protesters and threatened he was exposing them to the fatal disease.

Four people have filed simple assault charges in municipal court against Randy Gould, alleging he spit on his hands and rubbed the saliva on them during a protest outside a Planned Parenthood clinic.

They said if Gould is infected with AIDS, they may have been exposed.

"They called police and alleged that I touched my mouth, touched them, and verbally threatened to give them AIDS," Gould said Thursday. "The police came out and did an investigation and said it was nonsense. But apparently the people went on their own to different precincts and swore out these complaints."

"It's harassment and they are trying to intimidate me."

"I didn't do what they are alleging. I don't have AIDS and even if I did you can't spread it that way," the director of the Kansas City Free Health Clinic said.

The spitting incidents are alleged to have occurred June 13, June 27 and July 18.

Speedworld Negotiations Unsuccessful

At the drivers meeting prior to the races at Orlando Speedworld two weeks ago, Florida Speedway Management Inc., president and Speedworld copromoter Don Nerone announced that they would no longer be promoting at Speedworld.

"The track was bought by Les Richards of Titusville," Nerone said. "Since that time, my partner Gene Jones and myself have tried to negotiate a lease agreement with Mr. Richards. Those negotiations were unsuccessful."

Nerone and Jones took over promoting Speedworld in May 1985. The track, which had a trouble past, prospered under Nerone and Jones with standing-room only crowds and averaging over 100 race cars in the pits each Friday night.

Nerone will promote the rebuilt Lakeland Interstate Speedway, which will open in about two weeks for weekly racing. Lakeland will run the same classes that were run at Speedworld. Nerone said that the Speedworld point championship for all classes will be picked up and decided at Lakeland.

As the new group moved in last week to manage the track, a smooth transaction occurred and another fine show was presented. Clyde Hart, who owns and promotes New Smyrna Speedway, is listed as an adviser to Speedworld and John Darveau is going to do the public relations work for both tracks.

Would you like to crew for "Big Daddy" at Indy? Mopar's "Top Wrench" Sweepstakes will send a lucky race fan and their spouse on an all-expenses-paid U.S. Nationals weekend that will be highlighted by a once in a lifetime chance to be a part of World Champion Don Garlits' pit crew for the weekend. It's as simple as filling out a sweepstakes entry form available at any Chrysler, Plymouth or Dodge dealer. The good news is that no purchase is necessary; the bad news is that the contest is open to certified mechanics only and excludes employees of Chrysler Motors Corporation.

While on drag racing, there will be a special Stock-Super Stock combo race at Gainesville Raceway Aug. 15. Gates will open at 5 p.m. with racing to start at 8 p.m. Interested racers should call Aaron Green at (305) 351-5711 for any additional information.

James Powell III of Astor led all 25 laps of the NASCAR-Winston late model event Saturday night at Volusia County Speedway. Powell was pressured from the drop of the green flag by Greg Ward of Ormond Beach. Current points leader Tuck Trentham moved from his ninth starting spot to mount a challenge of both Ward and Underwood. Half way through the event Trentham had to give up with overheating problems.

Driving with a broken wrist suffered in an accident last week at VCS, Dennis Bennett pulled up to take over fourth but was unable to catch the leaders. Powell finished about two seconds ahead of Ward at the finish line with Rob Underwood third, Bennett in fourth and Bruce Collins of Umatilla fifth.

St. Augustine driver David Showers claimed another street stock victory battling his way from 10th starting spot for the checkers. The caution filled event was marked by several accidents including one which sent Doug Shockly to the hospital for a check up. Coming from 20th place, Bob Register picked his way through the field to finish in second place.

The NASCAR circuit makes a stop in Watkins Glen, N.Y., this weekend for what is expected to be one of the fastest races of the season. Forty-five drivers are entered for the $447,070 Budweiser at the Glen, the 18th race of the 29-race season. Qualifying for the first 20 spots begins today.

Dunedin Takes Pair From District 14

By Scott Sander
Herald Sports Writer

DUNEDIN — With a 7-4 lead going into the bottom of the seventh inning, it appeared as though the District 14 Nationals would defend their state title and head for the Big League Southern Region Tournament in Hollywood.

But things do not always turn out the way they are expected to. Dunedin took advantage of two District 14 errors in the seventh and posted an exciting 8-7 victory.

Dunedin's win forced a second game between the two teams and, this time, Dunedin jumped out to a 5-0 lead and coasted to an 8-3 victory in the Big League State Tournament championship.

In the second game, a single umpire's call extinguished any hopes the Nationals had.

Trailing, 5-3, in the bottom of the third inning with two runners on, shortstop Anthony Laszack ripped a long fly ball to right center. Dunedin center fielder Bryan Dixon bobbled the ball and clearly caught it off the wall. But second base umpire Ray Boller, who never left the infield, ruled that the ball never hit the wall.

"They (umpires) took the game right away from us," Nationals manager Gene Letterio said. "It's really a shame when something like this has to happen."

Assistant coach Bob Shakar said that particular play took the win out of the Nationals' sails.

"A lot of people say an umpire can't decide the outcome of the game," Shakar said. "But if we had scored those two runs and had a runner at second it would have been a different game."

After that play, the Nationals never seemed to get any momentum going again. Scott Bowers started on the mound and was drilled for five runs in one inning in Thursday's second game.

Dale Stevens and Greg Ebbert relieved Bowers. Dunedin out-hit the Nationals, 10-7.

Ernest Martinez led the way offensively as he was 5 for 8 in the two games with four RBIs, including a two-run homer.

"This is a real tough way to lose," Martinez said. "I thought we were going to regionals for sure."

In the first game, the Nationals jumped out to a 5-1 lead after three innings. After scoring two runs in the first, Martinez slapped a two-run single in the second for a 4-1 lead. Eric Martinez made it 5-1 in the third when he cracked his fourth homer of tournament play.

"I still can't believe we lost," Eric Martinez said. "We were a better team than they were."

Dunedin came back with a run in the fifth and two in the sixth to make the score 7-4. After Letterio made a number of defensive changes in the bottom of the seventh, an infield single and an error put runners on first and third and another error allowed a run to score and loaded the bases. Catcher Jeff Fresh then cracked a three-run double to give Dunedin the victory.

Steve Shakar started the first game and gave up four runs on seven hits over six innings. "I thought I pitched pretty well," Shakar said. "There was no way I thought we would lose."

Ebbert relieved Shakar and took the loss. "You can't blame Greg," Letterio said. "He got them to hit routine balls that we couldn't make the plays on and it cost us."

In game two, Dunedin rallied for five runs in the first. The Nationals, who stranded eight runners in the game, loaded the bases in the first two innings but could only come up with three runs.

Dunedin pitcher Greg Gerhart had a fine game as he only gave up four hits in the final four innings.

Nationals' catcher Ryan Lisie was thrown out of the game after arguing a strike call. "I asked the ump if he was calling strikes at random," Lisie said. "The guy kicked me out — can you believe that?"

Wadkins Early Leader

PALM BEACH GARDENS (UPI) — On a sweat-filled day in which the world's best players had to contend with some of the world's worst playing conditions, Bobby Wadkins did something he has done only on rare occasions.

He managed to upstage his brother.

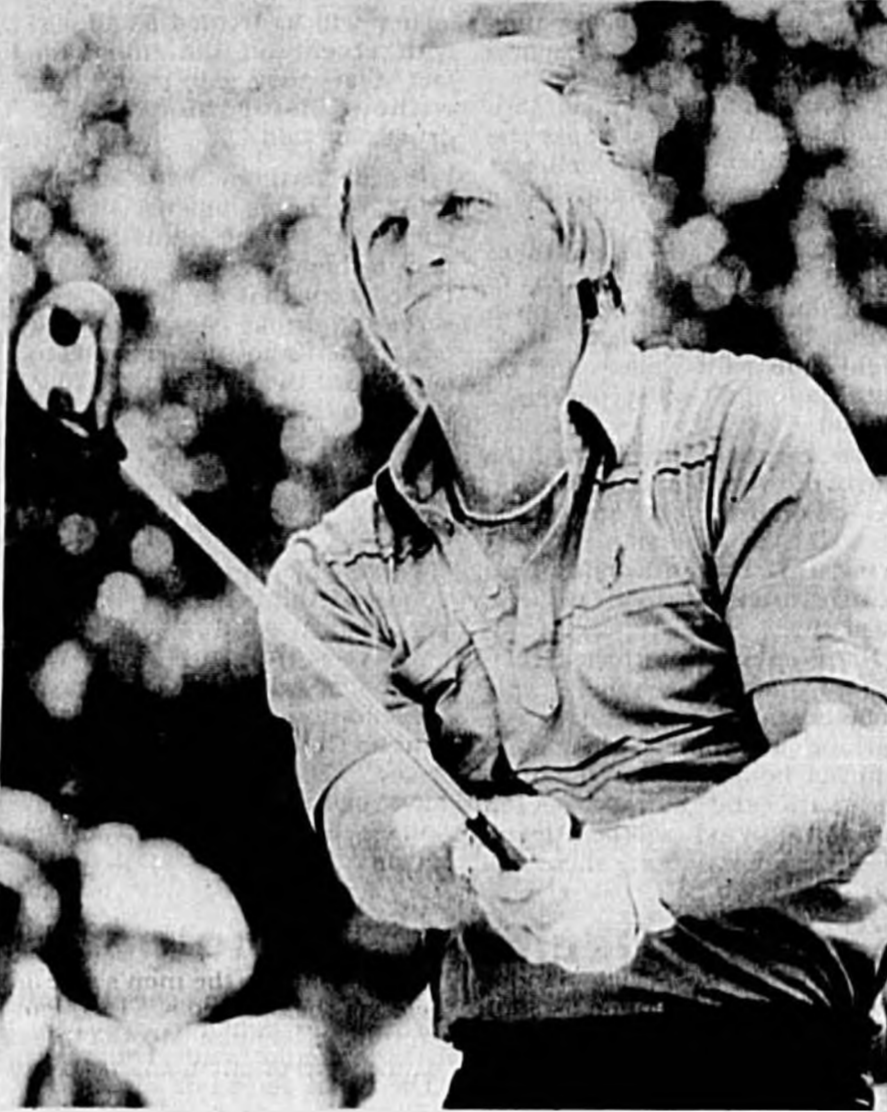

It has been nine years since a player has won his first tournament in a major championship, but the lesser known of the Wadkins brothers made a start toward that goal Thursday in the opening round of the 69th PGA.

Wadkins overcame scorching heat, brutal rough, poor greens and a gusting wind to shoot a 4-under-par 68 and take a one-shot lead after one round of the final major championship of the year.

If he should win, Wadkins would become the first player since Jerry Pate's 1978 U.S. Open triumph to make his first victory a major one.

"The fairways were perfect, the rough was unplayable and the greens were so-so," said Wadkins, who twice hit iron shots within three feet of the hole and then birdied the par-5 18th by two putts from 45 feet. "The real tournament doesn't start until the final nine holes on Sunday, but it's nice to get off to a good start."

Wadkins' brother was among a limited number of big names — Tom Watson among them — who broke par over the PGA National Golf Club course Thursday, but the opening round of the final major event of the year was an ordeal for most of the 150-man field.

Greg Norman takes a look at his drive. Despite struggling, Norman stayed close to the leaders as he shot a 1-over 73 in the first round of the PGA Championship.

Jim Petralia, for instance, shot a 19-over 91. But that woful number posted by the 44-year-old club pro from Pasadena, Calif., was only five shots worse than the 86 fired by European tour leading money winner Ian Woosnam.

Wadkins' 68 gave him a shot advantage over veteran touring pro David Edwards and University of Maryland golf coach Fred Funk, who has tried and failed three times to earn tour playing rights.

"Whether you do something good or something bad," Funk said, "people will remember it with a name like, 'Funk.'"

He made a 35-foot birdie putt at the final hole to shoot his 69.

The group at 2-under 70 included Lanny Wadkins, Strange, Raymond Floyd, Bernhard Langer, Larry Nelson and Watson — who played in an all-star threesome with Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer. The three of them have combined to win 176 tour events.

Nicklaus and Palmer both shot 76 with Palmer's round highlighted by a 40-foot eagle putt at the par-5 11th.

Legion: W. Tampa Mauls Lyman, 14-1

By Mike Dame
Special to the Herald

Prior to Thursday's game against West Tampa, Lyman manager Bob McCullough felt that his team would have to score big — and score fast — for his squad to be successful in the state tournament.

But Lyman could not do either as they were soundly defeated by West Tampa, 14-1, in the first day of the American Legion State Tournament at Boardwalk and Baseball.

The loss drops Lyman into the losers' bracket, where they were to battle with Deland at 9:45 this morning. Deland lost to Lake Worth, 11-9, to create the matchup.

West Tampa jumped out to a quick 1-0 lead in the first inning off Lyman starter Chris Radcliff, who lasted four and one-third innings before being pulled. West Tampa added one more run in the fourth and five more in the fifth to take a 7-0 lead. All seven runs were credited to Radcliff, who allowed six hits with two strikeouts and seven walks.

Baseball

Matt Pedrotty relieved Radcliff midway through the fifth inning and went the rest of the way, allowing seven more runs on five hits with one strikeout and seven walks. All seven runs off Pedrotty came in the seventh inning.

Lyman scored its lone run in the eighth inning. Mickey Helms led off with a single, followed by a Radcliff walk which placed men on first and second. Kenny Jackson then came up and rapped an RBI single that drove in Helms, thus avoiding a shut-out.

West Tampa hurler Sam Millitello, who will be a freshman at the University of Tampa this fall, held Lyman's bats at check to pick up the win. Millitello combined with reliever Rob Freeman in the victory, as the duo gave up one run on nine hits, fanning nine batters while walking six.

Altamonte To Host Region

For the second consecutive year, Altamonte Springs will host the Little League Baseball Junior Division Southern Region Tournament beginning Monday at the Eastmonte Recreation Complex.

There will be no games Monday as the four qualifying teams meet for a pre-tournament banquet. First-round games Tuesday will be played at 5:05 and 7:35 p.m. The Florida entry for this year's tournament will be either North Fort Myers or Windermere. Florida will be joined by teams from Texas, the Alabama-Mississippi-Louisiana-Georgia region and the West Virginia-Virginia-Carolinas region.

The winner of the Southern Region Tournament advances to the Little League Junior World Series starting Aug. 17 at Taylor, Mich.

Ditka: McMahon, Harbaugh Top Two

United Press International PLATTEVILLE, Wis. — Chicago Bears Coach Mike Ditka said Thursday Jim McMahon and Jim Harbaugh will be two of his 1987 quarterbacks, leaving Doug Flutie, Mike Tomczak and Steve Fuller to battle for the remaining job.

Ditka said one of the five quarterbacks in camp will be eliminated after the Bears play Miami in a pre-season game Aug. 16.

Fuller, who has been injured and has not practiced at all in training camp, could be put on injured reserve or waived at that time. But Tomczak and Flutie have been battling for the third roster spot, which could result in quality playing time if McMahon fails to fully recover from his shoulder surgery.

Ditka said he will pick the best three quarterbacks, but cutting Flutie would be painful for him because he had to defend the former Boston College star to fans and reporters when the Bears picked him up as a free agent last season.

Tomczak won all seven games he started in 1987 after McMahon was injured.

LONDON — The Los Angeles Rams and Denver Broncos open their 1987 exhibition season Sunday, a long, long way from home.

But both teams are taking the 1987 American Bowl at

Football

England's Wembley Stadium seriously.

For the Rams, its a chance to implement their new offense, featuring the passing of second-year quarterback Jim Everett. For the Broncos, it's the first chance to see how the New York Giants-inflicted wounds from Super Bowl XXI have healed.

"We've had two good weeks of training camp and our players are now ready to start beating on somebody else," Denver Coach Dan Reeves said Thursday. "We see this game as a curtain raiser to a second straight Super Bowl. This is no backyard game."

The Rams, coming off a fourth-straight playoff appearance, want to loosen Everett's arm in preparation for his first full NFL season.

"British fans will see us passing during the game. We will have a much more balanced offense this year," Everett said.

WEST CHESTER, Pa. (UPI) — The Philadelphia Eagles offensive line, which surrendered an NFL record 104 sacks last season, received a blow Thursday when they learned starting left tackle Ken Reeves will be lost for three to four weeks after undergoing an appendectomy.

win, lose & DREW

Reeves, who started nine games at left guard and six games at left tackle last season, underwent surgery at Paoli Memorial Hospital on Wednesday. Reeves, a three-year veteran who started 13 games at left tackle as a rookie, was hospitalized after he reported pain in his side.

The loss of Reeves makes second-year player Matt Darwin the starting left tackle after just three weeks at the position. Darwin was a center last year.

"It is better now than it would have been later," Eagles Coach Buddy Ryan said. "He'll (Reeves) be back in three weeks."

Trainer Othel Davis said Reeves could be out for a month.

CARLISLE, Pa. (UPI) — The biggest question in Redskins' training camp a year ago was whether Jay Schroeder, the minor league baseball flop, could make it as the team's starting quarterback.

Schroeder dispensed with those doubts by becoming only the eighth quarterback in NFL history to throw for more than 4,000 yards in a season, earning his way to the Pro Bowl.

Now the question is, just how good can Schroeder become? "There's no way I compare to Marino, Kelly, Montana and those guys," said Schroeder, referring to Miami's Dan Marino, Buffalo's Jim Kelly and San Francisco's Joe Montana. "They're in a different league. I just don't consider myself to be that good yet."

IN BRIEF

LPGA: Hamlin Shoots 67, For Henredon Classic Lead

HIGH POINT, N.C. (UPI) — Everyone thought top 1987 money winner Jane Geddes and defending champion Betsy King would be vying for the lead at the end of the first round of the $300,000 LPGA Henredon Classic.

But when play ended Thursday in the seventh annual Henredon at the par 72 Willow Creek Course, it was Shelley Hamlin who held the lead with a 6-under-par 67. She said it was the shoo.

"I'm going to stick with my running shoes," said Hamlin, who admitted choosing the unorthodox footwear because she has blisters on her feet. "When you've been on tour for 15 years, your feet have covered a lot of ground."

Close on Hamlin's heels in the first day of the tournament were four other golfers who shot 4-under-par 68s.

Not doing quite as well were the two women expected to be top contenders in the Henredon — King and Geddes. Each finished with a 70, as did a dozen of their compatriots.

Hamlin characterized her one-stroke lead over other contenders as "brilliant" and she said her putting — she hit a 40-footer for a birdie on the 18th hole — had a lot to do with it.

NASCAR Hits Fast Track

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. (UPI) — Davey Allison scrambled to fix two crash-damaged cars Thursday while other drivers predicted this weekend's NASCAR race at Watkins Glen will be faster than last year's inaugural event.

Forty-five drivers are entered for the $447,070 Budweiser at the Glen, the 18th race of the 29-race season. Qualifying for the first 20 spots begins Friday.

Track officials estimate last year's attendance mark of 88,000 will be easily broken with an expected Sunday crowd of 93,000 at the track that was home to the U.S. Grand Prix until 1980.

One driver with an extra handicap going into the weekend is Allison, whose two cars were damaged in a truck accident Wednesday night.

The truck carrying the Hueytown, Ala., rookie driver's car lost its brakes while descending the steep hill into the village of Watkins Glen and flipped over at the intersection of state Routes 414 and 14, police said.

Two occupants — Devin Barbee, 23, and Joey Knuckles, 37, both of North Carolina — were treated at Schuyler Hospital for minor injuries. Police credited driver Larry Ifft, 37, with steering the truck away from traffic.

NBC: Mobile Defeats Miami

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI) — Andy Penry tossed a four-hitter to help Mobile, Ala., to a 7-3 triumph Thursday over Miami at the National Baseball Congress World Series.

Penry, a right-hander, struck out eight and walked four to gain the complete-game victory over Mobile.

Mobile led 3-2, but scored three runs in the seventh inning to put the game out of reach. Designated hitter Matt Kifer ripped a two-run homer and another run scored on a wild pitch.

Mobile, 2-1, added a final run in the ninth inning when right fielder Dwayne Jones walked with the bases loaded.

Miami was the seventh team to be ousted from the original 30-team field. The 15-day, double-elimination tournament ends Aug. 14.

Mayfair Women Start Sept. 23

Mayfair Women's Golf Association (MWGA) will begin the 1987-88 season on Wednesday, Sept. 23. It is possible to play with the women and not be a member of the Mayfair Country Club by joining the MWGA.

Newest members to the MWGA include Jerri Whiteside and Donna Dondanville. Any women wishing to join the MWGA can call 323-0239.

In weekly play on Aug. 5, members played the back nine at Mayfair with the one-half handicap low net winner being Kathryn Park with a 37. Annette Hodges and Ada O'Neill followed with 38 while Mary Anderson and Verne Smith tied for third at 39.

'87 Season One Of Controversy

In all my years of following Major League Baseball, never has there been more controversy and public uproar over everything from loaded baseballs to loaded bats than there has been this season.

The latest in a series of incidents involves 42-year-old Minnesota hurler Joe Niekro, who on Monday night was ejected from a game against California for allegedly scuffing baseballs. After reviewing the evidence, which included the baseballs, an emery board and a small piece of sandpaper, American League president Bobby Brown found the accusation to be true, as he handed Niekro a 10-day suspension on Wednesday.

Just what has happened to America's favorite pastime? It seems that people — especially the media — are paying more attention to rabbit balls and such than they are to the game itself. There is the suspicion of cheating in every facet of the game. Pitchers are accused of throwing at batters and batters are attacking the pitchers in return. It is becoming all too common to see an argument or scuffle when one watches a baseball game.

There is one point, however, that many people are missing. These kinds of little acts have been going on since professional baseball threw its first pitch in the late 19th century. Brushing back batters, tampering with baseballs and spicing up bats are as much a part of the game as presidential first-pitches and the national anthem.

There is one difference this year, though.

Mike Dame
HERALD SPORTS WRITER

In that league officials are finally doing something about baseball's side-shows. The suspension of Niekro is definitely a sign that the establishment has had enough, that the players are not going to get away with their trickery any longer.

That message has both its good and bad sides. Yes, something needs to be done to make baseball both fair and safe. Those bats do need to be checked for cork and those pitchers need to quit throwing at batters' heads. But where will this all end? Is America, in this everybody-be-honest, Ollie-North-for-president era, going to take some of the fun out of baseball?

To crack down too hard on baseball's fallacies would be the same thing as taking away the individuality of each and every player. Baseball wouldn't be the same without the sight of Phil Niekro swiftly brushing his hat and uniform before every pitch, when everyone knows that he's got something up his sleeve. The rabbit ball scandal, on the other hand, is a new phenomenon, created by baseball enthusiasts as an excuse for the overabundance of homers being hit this season. Could it be that baseball is simply going through another era similar to that of the fifties and early sixties, when balls were flying all over the park as well? Pitchers and managers alike are going to have to realize that players are getting bigger and stronger every season, and it doesn't take much for a 225-pound man to blast a 92-mph fastball into the bleachers.

And besides, it's fun to see a great hitter such as Don Mattingly break the home-run hitting streak. It's refreshing to see rookie sensation Mark McGuire challenge Roger Maris's season homerun mark of 61. And, although batters may say it is about time, watching Joe Niekro casually flip an emery board out of his pocket in front of umpires, coaches and millions of fans across the country is definitely among the most memorable scenes so far this season.

Please don't get me wrong — I am not at all condoning cheating in professional baseball. I am simply saying that cheating is a part of the game, a part which will never and should never be removed from the game. No matter how many suspensions and fines are handed out, players will continue to do anything they can get away with in order to be that much more effective. More power to ya, Joe Niekro.

Cuba, U.S. Top Pan Am Boxers

United Press International

For all the success United States boxers have had in recent Olympics, they have consistently come up short against Cuban boxers in international meets.

The U.S. boxing team at the Pan Am Games will again go up against an experienced group of Cubans Aug. 13-23. The United States has won just one meet against the Cubans in 11 years, and the Cubans have 28 gold medals in the nine previous Pan Am Games compared to 23 for the United States. U.S. boxers have the edge in overall medals, 66-45.

The U.S. Pan Am team is headed by 125-pounder Kellee Banks, who is 6-3 in international events since 1985 and 2-0 against Cubans. But U.S. Pan Am coach Roosevelt Sanders warns the competition is more than a United States-Cuba dual meet.

"The Cubans have an excellent team but we're not forgetting the Canadians, Puerto Ricans and Dominican Republicans," Sanders said. "We have to be aware of all of those countries."

"We stack up well with the rest of the competition. This team is well-conditioned and I see a lot of enthusiasm and desire. We're a little lax in international competition, but some of those other things will overcome that."

Banks, a 22-year-old from Chicago, was booted at the Sports Festival in July despite winning a gold medal. He says that's because he has been on top a long time and the American public is looking for a new face.

But Banks will get his chance to turn the boos to cheers if he can continue his success against Cubans. Jesus Sollet, the Cuban 125-pounder at the Pan Am Games, finished second to Banks in the 1986 World Championships.

"To beat Cubans, you have to show them a lot of lateral movement," Banks said. "If you stand still, they'll load up with their power hands and nail you. But when you keep moving, using a jab on them.

U.S. Swimmers Go For Gold

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — The United States expects to dominate the Pan American Games swimming competition with a group of third and fourth-place finishers from the national championships.

"I believe we have a very, very good chance of taking all the gold medals on the men's side as well as the women's," U.S. Pan Am men's captain Mike O'Brien said. "One of our goals is to set personal bests in every event and we will break some Pan Am records."

The top swimmers from last week's U.S. national championships will bypass the Pan Am meet and honor a commitment to compete at the Pan Pacific Swimming Championships in Brisbane, Australia. The third and fourth-place U.S. swimmers were sent to Indianapolis.

"This isn't the 'B' team. This is the other half of the best team in the world. If you had held the national meet a week later, the results would have been very different and the teams would have been intermixed," said Carrie Steinseifer, the 100-meter freestyle gold medalist at the 1983 Pan Am Games and co-winner, with Nancy Hoghead, of a gold medal in the 100 freestyle at the 1984 Olympics.

Skip Kenney, coach of the U.S. squad and Stanford's three-time defending NCAA championship men's team, said the difference in the Pan Am and Pan Pacific team can be measured only in 100ths of a second.

"If we had a dual meet with the Pan Pacific team, it would be very, very close," Kenney said. "We have some swimmers here that will produce faster times than the other meet. Being able to swim at home in front of the U.S. people will be a great motivating factor. I don't think we really know how much that will mean."

O'Brien, 1984 Olympic champion in the 1,500-meter freestyle and a 400-meter individual medley bronze winner at the 1983 Pan Am meet, said a split U.S. team only means more gold medals to go around.

"The national team is the national team. We are the top swimmers in the United States and the world. One segment went to Australia and one went here. I believe we are going to dominate both competitions. There is no 'B' team," O'Brien said.

U.S. swimmers have dominated previous Pan Am meets. In 1983, U.S. swimmers won 23 of 27 possible gold medals. In nine previous Pan Am meets, the U.S. squad has won 176 gold medals compared to 31 for the rest of the field.

Kenney said the Canadian team and selected individuals from other nations would provide the stiffest competition for the United States. The top men's competitor from outside the United States is Brazil's Ricardo Prado, the 1983 Pan Am winner in the 200 and 400-meter individual medley.

"We feel this meet will produce some of the fastest times in the world and we feel this meet will produce some future Olympians," Kenney said.

Ten Pan Am men's records and five women's marks were set in 1983.

"It's really difficult to say (how many records will fall)," Kenney said. "We feel a number of established records will fall. We have emphasized team goals of having everybody swim faster than they did at the national championships. If that happens, the records will take care of themselves."

TORONTO WANTS OLYMPICS

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — The head of the group promoting Toronto as host of the 1996 Olympics Thursday night said the Canadian city would "easily" capture the bid were it not for sentiment surrounding the choice of Athens.

Paul Henderson, a former Olympic yachtsman and president of the Toronto Olympic Council, outlined his group's plan to stage the '96 Games at a news conference at the Pan American Games.

The 1988 Summer Olympics will be held at Seoul, South Korea, and the 1992 Games at Barcelona, Spain. Toronto formally entered the 1996 bidding last summer.

Athens, Belgrade, Yugoslavia, and Birmingham, England, are the chief competitors for the centennial Olympiad. The Greek capital is believed to hold the edge because it staged the first modern Olympics in 1896. The selection will be made in 1989.

Henderson said he might expect several other cities to woo the International Olympic Committee for 1996: San Francisco, Nashville, Tenn., Houston, Indianapolis and an Australian city.

"If it wasn't for sentiment, Toronto would win easily," Henderson said.

Viola Stymies Athletics

United Press International In the pressure of a pennant race, Frank Viola has emerged as the ace of the Minnesota Twins staff. The left-hander won for the sixth time in his last seven decisions Thursday night to lift the Twins to a 9-4 victory over Oakland and break a first-place tie with the Athletics in the American League West.

"Tonight I didn't have my best stuff," said Viola, 12-7, who scattered seven hits and three runs in seven innings. "But I tried to make the best of it, and things worked out.

"I was able to get the outs with runners on base when I needed them. It's nice to get off on the right foot on the homestand. We have to make the most of it."

Following a 13-game road trip, the Twins returned home to the Metrodome to tag Dave Stewart, 14-8, with his first loss in his last eight decisions. Kirby Puckett's bases-loaded double sparked a four-run fourth inning.

"That's typical of how we play here — good pitching and timely hitting," Gary Gaetti said after the Twins improved their home record to 34-18. "A lot of teams don't really like playing in an indoor atmosphere. But there's just something about being back in the Metrodome that pulls us together."

Stewart had pinned Viola with a 3-2 loss Saturday at Oakland. "I just didn't have it tonight," Stewart said. "I think I was just a little overconfident I was gonna go out there and beat them. Eventually when you go out there several times in a row, something like this is going to happen. I just wish it hadn't happened tonight."

Minnesota went ahead 7-1 in the fourth after Greg Gagne singled, shortstop Alfredo Griffin mishandled Al Newman's fielder's choice, and Randy Bush walked to load the bases. Puckett's double down the left-field line scored all three, followed by Gaetti's RBI single.

"He (Stewart) got me swinging on two breaking balls in the dirt, so I figured he might throw another one," said Puckett. "I've been struggling, and it was good to see that ball go by (Carney) Lansford."

Mets Outslug Chicago, 7-6

United Press International The New York Mets, plagued by disaster in the first half of the season, now are under attack from the rest of the National League and are thriving on the siege mentality. For the second time in a week Thursday night, Howard Johnson had his bat confiscated by umpires after hitting a home run, but for the ninth time in their last 10 games, the Mets came away with a victory. Kevin McReynolds' bases-loaded single in the ninth inning lifted the Mets to a 7-6 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

With its sixth straight victory, New York remained 4 1/2 games behind the East-leading St. Louis Cardinals.

Howe Called Up By Rangers

ARLINGTON, Texas (UPI) — Reliever Steve Howe, five times suspended from professional baseball because of drug dependency, was called up Thursday by the Texas Rangers and could return to the mound by Friday night.

"Thank God for the Texas Rangers," said Howe, accompanied by his wife, Cynthia Ann, and two daughters at an afternoon news conference.

Team officials said the Rangers had purchased Howe's contract from their AAA farm club at Oklahoma City and that he might pitch Friday night at Baltimore. Howe will be the Rangers' first left-hander out of the bullpen, manager Bobby Valentine said.

Baseball

authority to do anything," Chiles said. "We made no decision. We reached no conclusion (at Wednesday's meeting)."

Stone, who told the Dallas Times Herald on Wednesday there was an "obvious disagreement" between Ueberroth and the Rangers concerning Howe's status, said the Rangers "are conducting our business in accordance with the way baseball rules read."

Rangers General Manager Tom Grieve said the team is prepared to deal with criticism for calling up Howe. "If there's people who don't approve of this decision, that's the way it goes," Grieve said. "He proved to us what he needed to prove."

Open Season On Baseball Bats

NEW YORK (UPI) — Baseball Commissioner Peter Ueberroth and the two league presidents Thursday said managers can ask umpires to impound a bat from the other team at any time during a game, beginning Friday.

The ruling did not take effect in time to avert a controversy at Shea stadium Thursday night. The New York Mets protested the game against the Chicago Cubs when Howard Johnson's bat was confiscated by the Umpires but Andre Dawson's was not.

After Johnson hit his 27th home run in the second inning, Cubs manager Gene Michael asked home-plate umpire Charlie Williams to examine Johnson's bat and the bat was subsequently impounded by crew chief John Kibler, who removed it from the game.

Dawson hit his 33rd home run in the second inning and when he batted again in the fourth Mets manager Davey Johnson had Williams examine Dawson's bat but Williams returned it to the Cubs slugger who then hit his 34th home run and second of the game.

Baseball

to assure that no tampered or altered bats will be used in the major leagues. "The time has come to inspect the bats in addition to the base ball," Ueberroth said. "Our office and the league offices have received indications that bats have been tampered with and there is no room for that kind of conduct in our game."

Managers may ask the crew chief to impound a bat and, if a player is caught using an illegal bat, the player and his manager faces a fine or suspension. Punishment will be determined by the league presidents.

Ueberroth said the statement does not alter or negate any previous announcements made by the leagues regarding tampered bats and balls.

The announcement came one day after Brown suspended Minnesota pitcher Joe Nickro for 10 days for scuffing the ball in Monday's game against California. Last week Giamatti issued a bulletin to all NL general managers, field managers and umpires reminding them the use of an illegal bat could result in fines and suspensions. The action announced Thursday was taken in conjunction with each league's supervisor of umpires.

Barbara Hughes, Richard Gregg Repeat Vows

Barbara Ann Hughes of Sanford, and Richard Lee Gregg of Orange City, were married July 4 at the First United Methodist Church, Sanford. The Rev. Bill Boyer, pastor of Grace United Methodist Church, Lake Mary, performed the traditional double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Frank and Barbara Hughes, St. Petersburg. The bridegroom is the son of Bud and Nina Gregg, Orange City.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows a white organza gown over satin peau fashioned along the Queen Anne silhouette. The fitted bodice featured a sheer yoke defined with a lace-trimmed ruffle, long slim sleeves and a high neckline embellished with pearls and brilliants. The slim, controlled skirt, edged in lace, gracefully cascaded into a chapel train. Her headpiece, a forward halo of baby's breath and pearls, secured her tiered fingertip veil of imported illusion. She carried an arm bouquet of red and white roses interspersed with baby's breath, created by her mother.

Carol McGonigal arrived from Saudi Arabia to attend the bride as matron of Honor. She wore a red dress and carried a bouquet of red and white roses.

Bridesmaids were Paula Fricke, North Carolina, and Shelda Wilkens, Winter Springs. They also wore red dresses and carried roses.

Randy Carroll, Orange City, served his brother-in-law as best man. Ushers were Mike Rush and Sam Tleson. Joey Gregg, 7 1/2-year-old son of the bridegroom, was the ring bearer.

Following the wedding, the newlyweds entertained at an old-fashioned barbecue, complete with a tent, at their home.

Assisting at the wedding and reception were: Jan Tesar, Lake Mary; Louise Nolan, Sanford; Angie Perniclaro, Ocala; Melanie Griffey, Orlando; George Nunery, Chuluota; Mary Beth Salisbury, Kissimmee; Joan Madison, Altamonte Springs; Rae Artman, Winter Springs; and Robin Carroll, Orange City.

After a wedding trip to the Bahamas, the newlyweds are making their home in Sanford where the bride is employed at the Seminole County Agricultural Center as Seminole County Home Economist. The bridegroom is self-employed as a framing contractor, RLG Construction.

Gardening

It's Time To Plan For Fall Garden Bed

Late summer is a good time to prepare your fall annual garden bed. Select varieties of annuals that will endure the heat and long days of summer and fall. Examples of those are marigolds, begonias, gazanias, mossrose, chrysanthemums and salvia.

Here are some tips for fall annual plantings in the garden.

Prepare the annual bed by first removing all old annuals. This helps to prevent the spread of disease and certain insects that infest the soil. Then add some organic matter like peat moss to the soil, or work in a complete fertilizer like 6-6-6 and mix it in well. Level out the soil and you're ready to plant!

When selecting the annuals you want to plant, restrict the number of colors and species that you're going to use. It is more attractive and less expensive to plant annuals "en masse" than to use many different types. Choose annuals that you know do well in Central Florida rather than those you know grow well elsewhere.

Always inspect your new annuals for the presence of insect and disease infestations before you plant.

Above ground problems can be easily seen and controlled right away. Plant 4 inch pot size annuals at a spacing of 6-8 inches apart in each direction. Break up the root system slightly if the plant was pot bound.

Fertilize the annuals every month with a reduced rate of 6-6-6 or a liquid fertilizer. Slow release fertilizers are good for sandy soils and will reduce your maintenance time.

Mulch is the best way to reduce or eliminate weeds and conserve water. If you don't want to use a commercial product, use an inexpensive organic mulch from your yard like grass clippings or pine needles. Pull the weeds as they appear so they won't go to seed and implant next season.

Remove faded blooms before they go to seed as well. This is actually a pruning process in that it encourages more branching and blooms from your annuals. Terminal shoots of young plants may be pinched back to encourage branching before they flower and in the early stages of youth.

Be sure your annual bed receives enough water. Three times per week should be sufficient, but water more if it isn't raining much.

If you haven't got the room in

Celeste White
Urban Horticulturist
323-2500
Ext. 175

your yard for annuals, consider putting them in containers. Annuals grown in pots are easy to care for and fast to perform. They adapt readily to containers provided they do not outgrow the size of the pot.

Select dwarf varieties of annuals like marigolds, zinnias, begonias or dahlias. Other flowers will give you lots of color too, like vinca or periwinkle, mossrose, impatiens and chrysanthemums. The potting soil should be loose and well drained to insure good water penetration and prevent soil compaction. The major requirement of container annuals is plenty of water!

Water them at least three times per week and make sure it runs through the pot. Use a slow stream of water so as not to disturb the soil or shallow roots. Fertilize bi-weekly with a dilute house plant food.

The wide selection of colorful summer and fall annuals will guarantee fun and attractiveness in the home landscaping. Rearrange your container annuals into groupings for a change of pace. Annual flowers reward the gardener who plans ahead with rich and vivid color in the yard, patio, poolside or doorstep.

Marriage Made In Heaven Has Survived 70 Years On Earth

DEAR READERS: Today is a very special day. It marks the 70th — yes, 70th — wedding anniversary of a couple who are very dear to me: my in-laws, Rose and Jay Phillips of Minneapolis.

Theirs was not just a marriage, it was a merger — a blending of beauty, brains, character, talent, ambition, generosity, hard work and mutual love, tempered with a sense of humor.

Their cornerstone: a devotion to their religion, and respect for the rights of others.

Over the years, Rose and Jay Phillips have handled their good fortune with gratitude and humility, and accepted their misfortunes with grace and dignity. They are a credit to their community, a joy to their friends, and a shining example of love and generosity to their family.

Congratulations and God bless you, Mother and Dad.

Love,

ABBY AND MORT

DEAR ABBY: I have a rather touchy problem. Last Mother's Day my husband and I had our 6-month-old daughter christened. Several relatives were present and, much to my surprise, they all brought gifts. While opening the gifts, my great uncle — a very wealthy man who has no children — told me he was going to open a

Dear Abby

"college fund" for our daughter. Then he started explaining the terms of the fund — how much interest it would draw, etc.

After waiting for six months and hearing nothing more about the "college fund," I asked my uncle about it, and he said he was going to go through a large bank in Nashville. (We live in a very small town in Tennessee.)

Abby, it's been over a year, and we still haven't received any information about the gift. My uncle is a very responsible man, and we would like very much for our daughter to have this gift to assure her college education. How should I handle it?

BLUE IN GRAY, TENN.

DEAR BLUE: Being "blue" will not accomplish anything — neither will procrastinating. Remind your uncle of the "college fund" he promised to establish for your daughter. And don't be shy. He offered it.

DEAR READERS: Rollan

Melton, who writes a column in the Reno Gazette, was so taken with a sermon delivered by one V. James Jeffery, rector of the Trinity Episcopal Church in Reno, he shared that message with his readers. I've since discovered that the message in the sermon originally came from Robert Fulghum, a retired Unitarian minister in Edmonds, Wash. Here it is (in part):

"Most of what I really need to know about how to live, and what to do, and how to be, I learned in kindergarten. Wisdom was not at the top of the graduate school mountain, but there in the sandbox at nursery school.

"These are the things I learned: Share everything. Play fair. Don't hit people. Put things back where you found them. Clean up your own mess. Don't take things that aren't yours. Say you're sorry when you hurt somebody. Wash your hands before you eat. Flush. Warm cookies and cold milk are good for you.

"... When you go out into the world, watch for traffic, hold hands and stick together."

"... And it is still true, no matter how old you are, when you go out into the world, it's best to hold hands and stick together."

Thanks, Rector Jeffery and

Robert Fulghum. I couldn't have said it better myself. And thanks to Edna Brigham for introducing me to Rollan Melton.

DEAR ABBY: I'm 35 years old and have been married for 11 years, and I still can't get friends and relatives to call me by my real name! I kept my maiden name when I got married. Still, after 11 years, I get mail addressed to my first name and my husband's last name. I am even introduced that way.

I had mailing labels printed with my full name and my husband's full name and always put them on Christmas and birthday cards. It hasn't helped. I have the feeling that my decision to keep my maiden name makes some people uncomfortable. I'm sorry they feel that way, but I don't regret my decision.

How can I get people to acknowledge my proper name and respect my wishes? I know I'm not the only one with this problem, so if this makes your column, I'll make copies of it and send it to everyone who needs to be reminded.

IRRITATED

DEAR IRRITATED: I think you state your case very well. Here's your letter. I hope it helps.

Heating Pads Cause Poor Circulation Woes

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT — Heating pads come with a warning not to use them if one has poor circulation. Why?

DEAR READER — When heat is applied to a part of the normal body, it causes vasodilation — an opening-up of the blood vessels that carry heat away and prevent tissue damage.

In addition, patients with circulatory disorders may have lost the ability to sense heat in a particular portion of skin.

Heating pads are best avoided by people with poor circulation; they cause more problems than they solve.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I read in your column that someone with polycythemia visited a blood bank. I knew that bleeding was necessary for this disease, but isn't the blood tainted?

DEAR READER — Most people with polycythemia vera (an overproduction of blood cells) are not permitted to donate whole blood for transfusion purposes.

Furthermore, not all polycythemia is of the primary type; some secondary forms are seen — in emphysema, for example.

Therefore, although polycythemia patients may not be able to help others by visiting a blood bank, they may be helping themselves.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My tongue and throat swell up from paint fumes. What future side effects could result from over-exposure to these fumes?

DEAR READER — The swelling of your tongue and throat indicate extreme sensitivity to paint fumes. If you continue to be exposed to these vapors, you run the risk of experiencing a more profound reaction: swelling of the throat to the point where you cannot breathe.

For more than 40 years the 4-3-2-1 point-count has guided us in our evaluation of bridge hands.

player ignoring this sound advice. With the very strong likelihood that South holds at least nine cards in spades and hearts, North can certainly think about a game contract.

Against four hearts, West led the club ace. After his partner's discouraging three, he shifted to ace and a diamond. Later the defense took a spade trick to beat the optimistic game contract.

Iran Fires Missile In Gulf War Of Nerves

MANAMA, Bahrain (UPI) — U.S. radar-jamming planes are conducting a war of nerves with Iranian shore-based missile sites in the Persian Gulf, where Tehran is hunkering an unexpected fourth day of "Operation Martyrdom" naval maneuvers today.

The state-run Islamic Republic News Agency, monitored in Athens, Greece, reported today that Iran test-fired a "shore-to-sea missile" in the Persian Gulf Thursday on orders from President Ali Khamenei. The missile is believed to be a Chinese-made Silkworm.

Gulf shipping sources said the United States plan to re-flag three more Kuwait tankers has been suspended, and the Washington Post quoted Defense Department sources as saying the next convoy has been postponed for up to a week to await the arrival of minesweeping and other military equipment.

U.S. military officials have said the Iranians test-fired two Silkworms in recent months and were believed to have about 18 of them before the "Martyrdom" naval exercises began Tuesday.

The joint staff of the Iranian Revolutionary Guards Corps decided to extend the war games by one day, until midnight tonight, and warned foreign ships and aircraft to avoid Iranian waters in the gulf and the Strait of Hormuz.

IRNA said Khamenei arrived in the Iranian port of Bandar Abbas, in the Strait of Hormuz, Thursday "and immediately inspected the missile unit of the Islamic Revolutionary Guards Corps." Iran has Silkworm launch sites in the Strait of Hormuz.

United Press International has learned that Navy carrier planes are following Iranian attempts to practice targeting American escort vessels in the gulf by jamming the radars of shore-based Silkworm anti-ship missiles. The Reagan administration made no announcement of the activity, but government intelligence sources in Washington said the U.S. defensive maneuvers began three weeks ago and have increased during the Iranian exercises.

One congressional staffer described Iran's probing exercises and the Navy's response, with its most sophisticated radar-jamming aircraft, as "a war of nerves." Iran said earlier this week it had trained Silkworm anti-ship missiles on U.S. vessels from five gulf sites and told the United States it would use them if attacked.

"We regard the Silkworms as a very serious threat," an administration official said. A Pentagon spokesman declined comment when asked about the jamming.

Congressional staffers told UPI that Silkworm radars honed in on the re-flagged Kuwaiti tanker Gas Prince, carrying 40,000 tons of highly volatile liquid petroleum, when it was escorted Monday through the Strait of Hormuz. One source said the radars "illuminated the ship" — considered a pre-firing drill — to obtain "the bearing and distance to the target."

But the U.S. Navy's Prowler jamming planes caused a malfunction in the Iranian electronics.

Stocks Active, Open Mixed

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened mixed Friday in active trading of New York Stock Exchange issues as blue chip issues — near record levels — posted narrow losses.

The Dow Jones Industrial Average, which rose 27.58 to a record 2594.23 Thursday, was down 2.08 to 2592.15 shortly after the market opened.

But advancing issues led losers 455-397 among the 1,338 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape.

Early turnover amounted to about 19,998,000 shares.

Traders attributed the slight losses among blue-chip issues to profit-taking.

Stocks surged to record highs Thursday as a muscular high-technology sector subdued profit-taking and helped propel the Dow Jones Industrial Average to its fifth new high in eight sessions.

Dollar Opens Mixed; Gold, Silver Down

By United Press International

The U.S. dollar was mixed early Friday, falling in New York's morning activity after rising in Japan and trading mixed in Europe. Gold fell.

Dealers in Europe said the potential for greater dollar strength appeared to be limited by the threat of continued selling by major central banks.

The dollar was lower against most major currencies in early New York trading.

In Europe, the dollar began trading lower in Frankfurt at 1.8825 marks against 1.8842 but was higher in Zurich at 1.5620 Swiss francs against 1.5600.

The dollar opened in Paris at 6.2730 francs against 6.2795, in Brussels at 39.23 Belgian francs against 39.22, in Amsterdam at 2.1195 guilders against 2.1175 and in Milan at 1,363 lire against 1,364.80. In London, the pound opened unchanged at $1.5755.

The dollar closer higher in Tokyo, finishing at 151.23 yen against 150.83.

Gold opened in Zurich at $469 per ounce against $469.50 and in London at $468.75 against $469. At the London morning fixing, gold was $464 an ounce.

Earlier in Hong Kong, gold closed at $468.35, down from $469.15 Thursday.

In New York, gold for current delivery fell to $463.70, down $4.30 from Thursday's close. Silver lost 22 cents to $8.04.

July Unemployment Falls

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's unemployment rate fell in July to hit 6 percent, the lowest level in 7 1/2 years, the Labor Department said Friday.

The rate dropped because companies added 470,000 workers to their payrolls bringing the total employed to 112.7 million while the number of people without jobs and looking for work dropped 36,000 to 7.2 million. Both of those figures were adjusted for seasonal factors.

The nation's employment picture has not been this bright since December 1979, when the rate also stood at 6 percent.

As in the past few months, far more service than manufacturing jobs were created: 230,000 for services vs. 74,000 for goods in July, the Labor Department said.

Retail trade provided about a quarter of the new services positions, while health services created 35,000 and the finance, insurance and real estate industries generated about 20,000 each. The rise in manufacturing jobs came despite a 40,000-person cutback at factories that make motor vehicles and equipment.

The typical manufacturing worker's week was unchanged at 41 hours, but the amount of overtime rose 0.1 hour to 3.8 hours. Average weekly earnings dropped 35 cents to $311.85.

She added that mining jobs are up again, but that manufacturing growth overall is still sluggish.

All groups except women saw their jobless rates fall.

...Waller

Lormann, who had been critical of Waller in her evaluation in December 1986, said, "I have had a problem with this from the beginning, the correct way to present a resolution is for all of us to agree and we've never had an individual come in with a resolution for themselves."

Dennis said she was advised by interim City Attorney Ann Colby and City Clerk Don Terry that it was legal for her to do so.

Lormann said, "I'm voting no because I feel Ron Waller is trying to do a good job under under great pressures from the beginning connected with the police station, law suits and sewer problems. Now he's just getting into things and things are moving pretty good. Maybe we should give him a chance to show what he can do."

Myers said he was voting no for the same reasons.

The city commission voted Monday night after city resident Carolyn Emiling read a list of allegations against Gunter and Dennis to get ask the governor's office for an impartial investigation of the charges. However, following Thursday night's special meeting it became apparent there is confusion on exactly what the commission should do.

Myers pointed to a section in the charter that states the commission has the right to investigate charges, judge and remove a commissioner for just cause. However, Smerlison said the commission had voted unanimously to ask the governor's office to investigate. Colby advised that the state law says the commission can't remove a fellow commissioner and state law supercedes the city charter where they conflict.

Members of the audience said a letter has been sent from citizens asking that Commissioners Gunter and Dennis be investigated.

Central American Presidents Consider Regional Peace Plan

GUATEMALA CITY (UPI) — Central American presidents, setting aside a peace proposal by President Reagan, today agreed on the foundation for peace in the region, sources close to the talks said.

"We now have the basis for a document, but we still have many fine points to resolve, mostly on whether the clauses in the Arias plan would be simultaneous as El Salvador has proposed or what the order should be," said a source involved in the marathon meeting that ended early today.

The peace plan was proposed by Costa Rican President Oscar Arias and calls for a regional cease-fire, the cutting off of aid to Contra rebels, negotiations between Nicaragua and the rebels and a reduction of armed forces in the region.

In Washington, House Speaker Jim Wright, D-Texas, said today the Central American presidents approved a peace plan that may lead to a cease-fire in the region within a few months.

Victor Hugo Tinoco, Nicaragua's undersecretary of foreign affairs, told reporters there was "a very good atmosphere" during the two-day presidents' summit, which ends today.

"Where there is good will, good things can happen," Tinoco said.

Wright said he was called at 4:30 a.m. by a representative of Arias and told of the development in the talks.

"It sounds very encouraging," Wright told reporters.

Wright said the five presidents, including Nicaraguan President Daniel Ortega, agreed that a commission will be convened within 15 days to begin work toward a simultaneous cease-fire in Central America within 90 days.

The commission would also work toward agreement by each nation not to aid rebels trying to overthrow Central American governments and prohibiting the use of any country's territory for supporting, overthrowing or undermining another Central American country, Wright said.

The Central American presidents decided against formal discussion of the Reagan administration's new Nicaraguan peace initiative. In a setback for the United States, according to the sources, the presidents decided Thursday to deal exclusively with Arias' peace proposal.

Wright, who took a political risk to support the Reagan initiative when many other congressional Democrats were skeptical, urged the administration to support the agreement reached in Guatemala.

"I can't see the United States upsetting this timetable and do anything but rejoice and cooperate," Wright said.

According to a Central American close to the talks, the main sticking points in formulating a peace plan before today's agreement were defining "democracy" and persuading Nicaragua's Marxist-led government to modify its emergency laws and other measures considered undemocratic by the other countries and Washington.

"One of the main differences is what democracy means, its varied definitions, and that makes discussion very difficult," said a diplomat monitoring the meetings Thursday.

Nicaragua's refusal to accept any negotiations on what it terms "the internal politics of a sovereign nation" is the same issue that has partially stymied other peace talks.

Ortega indicated Thursday that Nicaragua's position had not changed.

In a press conference Thursday, Ortega said, "Democracy in Nicaragua will not be discussed. Internal affairs are not the subject of international negotiations, otherwise we would present our ideas to the United States on how to make their country more democratic."

But Honduran President Jose Azcona said: "We are suffering because of the internal problems of Nicaragua, and that gives us a right to ask them to put their house in order."

board and Weinberg president-elect.

Mason claimed the notice sent to society members should have more accurately addressed the reason for the meeting — that is the recall of "specific individual board members" rather than the entire board.

"There are still some people on the board who are responsible people," said Mason, who speculated the way the notices were written may have kept some society members away from the recall meeting because the members had no desire to oust the entire governing body. He called the notices "an attempt to deceive" by the board's leaders.

The zoo feud has been building with each week. It started back in May when a handful of board members met privately and voted to fire Rozon, who had served 14 years as the zoo's executive director. Conceding notice of the May meeting to all board members was inadequate, the board again met privately in June. The outcome was the same — Rozon was still out of a job.

A dispute continues over whether the board in June agreed to pay Rozon for the two and one-half years left on his annual contract of about $37,500. Morris and other board members claim the panel retained the option to stop the contract payments to Rozon at any time. Mason, in June, called them "a pack of liars" and threatened to sue the board the first time one of the twice monthly payments is withheld.

New issues have surfaced since Rozon's dismissal. Mason and the other critics charge the board's leadership has squandered zoo money, first by relieving Rozon and having to buy out his contract as well as pay for a new director. They also charge the hiring of Bonnie Sharp for public relations and zoo fundraising promotions has been an expensive venture from which few benefits have been derived.

Sharp, who is paid $3,000 a month by the zoo board, "has been a negative line item the past two years," Mason said.

Weinberg, the board's president-elect, countered in a later interview that Sharp has been an asset to the zoo's promotional efforts and that Mason has ignored that profitable months of fundraising are ahead for the zoo.

"See if we don't look good at the end of the year," said Weinberg. "We've got a concert, a golf tournament and other things on the books."

He added that hiring a public relations agency or consultants to do the job Sharp is handling "would cost three times her annual salary."

Thursday night's meeting was less than a half-hour old when it turned heated. The meeting was scheduled to begin at 7 p.m. but was recessed to allow more time for voting society members to show up. At 7:30 p.m., another recess, this one for five minutes was called.

A few minutes later society member Barbara Sanborn moved that the meeting be adjourned. The motion was defeated on a 28-27 vote — of which at least 10 of the 27 voting to adjourn were members of the zoo's board of directors.

After about 10 minutes of arguing, Sutphin adjourned the meeting, saying the lack of a quorum meant there was no reason to continue it.

"A majority of a minority is not enough to remove the board members," said Sutphin before calling an end to the session.

Minutes before, honorary board member Brock spoke to the gathering in an angry tone, saying the meeting was a "self-serving" attempt by the board to deny the will of the society. His voice rising, Brock said, "It's wrong. We're not going to tolerate this sort of thing this evening."

Interviewed after the meeting, Rozon speculated that had a recall vote been allowed, "They (the targeted board members) would have been history."

Martinez, the zoo board attorney, and Weinberg, saw it differently. They contended that an overwhelming number of voting society members gave the board a vote of confidence by not coming to the meeting.

"The people who were not here to vote were voting by their absence," said Martinez.

"Absolutely," said Weinberg in agreeing with Martinez. "We had only 22 percent of the voting membership here tonight and only 11 percent of that wanted the board out."

Cox said she might have had to stop half way across the strait if the Soviets had not granted permission.

Cox has been seeking permission for two years and said she expected the Soviet approval to come just when it did — at the last minute.

The Soviets were unaware of Cox's whereabouts Thursday and sent telexes to two U.S. sports organizations, which then relayed word to Nome, and from there Cox was reached by telephone in the village of Wales.

With Cox are several doctors who hope to learn more about what cold water does to the body and how to rewarm the body. Water temperatures in the Bering Strait are about 40 degrees and Cox estimates it will take her two and a half hours to swim across if the currents are not too strong.

The Coast Guard said someone immersed in water that cold is unlikely to survive longer than two hours without any protective clothing. Cox plans to wear only a bathing suit and cap.

The U.S.-Soviet border and the international dateline run right between Little Diomed and Big Diomed.

Koch Has Relapse

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mayor Edward Koch today experienced a recurrence of the dizziness, nausea and slurred speech that hospitalized him Thursday and was transferred to Columbia Presbyterian Hospital for further tests, officials said.

"At about 10 p.m. last night, Mayor Koch experienced a recurrence of the signs and symptoms he had shown earlier in the day," mayoral spokesman Lee Jones said today.

"For that reason and after consultation with his private physician and Dr. Roger Bonomo, a staff neurologist at Lenox Hill Hospital, it was agreed upon that the mayor should be transferred to the Neurologic Institute at Columbia Presbyterian Hospital for further diagnostic tests.

"The mayor was transported by Emergency Medical Services ambulance to Columbia at 8:40 a.m.," Jones said.

A scheduled 11 a.m. news conference may be delayed, Jones said.

Koch was hospitalized Thursday morning after complaining of slurred speech, dizziness and nausea while riding in his limousine from a forum on AIDS in Manhattan and was raced to Lenox Hill Hospital.

Doctors determined the 62-year-old mayor suffered a transient ischemic attack — a TIA — a spasm of a cerebral artery that diminished the flow of oxygen-rich blood to his brain.

He later was reported in good condition and doctors said he could be released as early as today. The mayor was said to have asked for work last night and was in good spirits.

"I detect no difference in the mayor, except that he's lying down," Deputy Mayor Stanley Brezenoff said earlier.

Doctors had feared Koch might have suffered a minor stroke. But Dr. Anthony Mustalish, chief of emergency services at Lenox Hill, said the TIA caused no permanent disability and Koch's speech returned to normal.

A neurologist, Dr. Roger Bonomo, said people who suffer TIAs "are at somewhat higher risk of having a stroke." Mustalish said the attacks sometimes warn of an impending stroke. Doctors recommend TIA patients take a tablet of aspirin a day.

"A TIA is temporary; it is totally reversible," Mustalish said. "It has no long-term affects" and "may never occur again."

A CAT scan — a series of brain X-rays — revealed no cerebral bleeding and an electrocardiogram and a chest X-ray also showed no problems. Doctors said Koch would undergo another CAT scan and further testing of his heart.

He disputed the FHP's claim that two cases of empty beer cans were found in the vehicle. He said there was one empty case and a full case that the owner of the Bronco was taking home.

Duhart said the group was returning from Tampa where they had gone just before midnight Wednesday to visit Cohen's father. Duhart said she doesn't know if they made the visit, but Armstrong said they did. Duhart said FHP troopers told her the roof of the car was ripped off on impact.

Duhart said her brother, McGriff, was a 1985 graduate of Lake Mary High School and was recently employed in the county's school district as a substitute teacher. He had taught at Hopper Exceptional Student Center and Lakeview Middle School.

She said her brother was "very active in the church. He was a choir member and his hobby was singing. He loved to sing. He wanted eventually to be a school teacher... more than anything in the world."

Cohen, according to Mrs. Lewis, was a 1987 graduate of Lake Mary High School who "pretty much kept off to himself. But he did have a few friends."

Mrs. Lewis said Cohen was scheduled to enter the Navy Aug. 27. He was a member of the LMHS drill team, she said. He was a former employee at Hardee's in Sanford, where Issac and Berkey are employed.

The group left for Tampa after work late Wednesday, according to family members.

An autopsy was scheduled for today on those who were killed in the crash. FHP investigators said the accident was alcohol-related, and that several empty beer cans were found in the car and around the accident scene.

Artistic Touch To Confections

Beautifully Delicious

Story And Photos
By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

You can ice your cake and eat it too.

But if you've put a lot of creative effort into decorating that cake you might wince a bit when you see your work sliced away and devoured.

That's been the fate of Wini Pomeroy who for about a dozen years has been adding an artistic touch to confections and teaching others to do the same.

But Pomeroy, who started decorating cakes when her five children were young, loves to apply her talent and she especially likes to decorate wedding cakes.

She said no artistic talent is necessary to pick up on the techniques of forming roses, sweetpeas and daisies and scrolled borders for fancy cakes.

Those with artistic talent might take the craft a bit further and come up with more complex creations, but all it really takes to start in the art is a few tips and instructions, along with patience mixed with practice. And, a bit of variation in the tips attached to a pastry bag that holds the icing for the cake.

Two of her daughters have followed Pomeroy's lead and are also cake decorators. One daughter, Debi Wright, who works with Pomeroy in the Longwood shop where they teach this craft, enjoys creating "character" cakes, using her mother's collection of pans that are available for rent.

The characters range from Disney favorites to spacemen. Some of the pans are collectors items, because they are no longer being made, Pomeroy said. Pomeroy said she's too much of a perfectionist and puts too much effort into decorating a cake to invest her creative energy into a character cake.

...Confections

Jennifer Russell of DeBary, like many of Pomeroy's trainees, took a cake decorating course about two years ago because she wanted to decorate a cake for a friend's wedding. She has branched out and also creates cakes for other special occasions.

"I had been doing some on my own for a while," Russell said. But the wedding cake for 235 people had to be special. That prompted her to take a six-week series of basic lessons, which cost about $25. Two follow-up, more advanced courses cost $30 and $45, she said.

Wedding cakes are still Russell's favorites. "I like to see the end results. You start out — 'Oh, this is looking terrible,' when you get it all together it looks good."

Russell said only she and another cake decorator were able to spot the flaws in that first wedding cake. The cake lived up to the bride's expectations. That in itself is not always an easy task, Pomeroy said. Sometimes it's hard for a cake decorator to interpret the cake orderer's ideas and some have no idea what they want in a cake.

Russell has only faced one disaster, when her nephew ran his finger along the side of a decorated cake for a flavorful sample. But the art is such that the cake wasn't a loss. The damaged icing was scraped off and the work redone.

Pomeroy said she has also salvaged cakes, where a would-be decorator abandoned hope and turned the job over to her for a professional finish.

Some of her creations have teetered on the brink of disaster, when the table provided by the buyer to display the cake wasn't really sturdy enough to hold a heavy-weight cake.

Although all of her creations begin as edibles, Pomeroy said some get a special acrylic spray finish that transforms them from food into enduring decorations. Some of her most creative efforts go into these works, which are in demand to add a homey look to model homes.

For one such display she created "seashell," cookies. And for others the request has been for rather basic chocolate chip cookies and even wedding cakes.

Pomeroy also specializes in creating and decorating gingerbread houses. She teaches a fall class in that technique and also takes a gingerbread house development program into Seminole County schools.

Youngsters, she said, enjoy seeing her gingerbread houses and one boy suggested that peanut butter might make a better-tasting "cement" than the icing she uses to hold the houses together. Pomeroy said she agreed that would be delicious, but a bit messy.

Some of her students of gingerbread house building have come up winners in area competitions. But with or without prizes, cake decorators usually bask in praise before their work is gobbled up.

Wini Pomeroy's decorated cakes require patience and artistic talent. Tips attached to a pastry bag allow for designs such as the birds and buds on the cake above. These are called "character" cakes and feature well known characters from comics, cartoons and the like.

Psychic Experiences Involve Elvis

By Jim Lewis

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Like the killing of President John Kennedy and the Challenger disaster, Elvis Presley's death prompted reports from apparently normal people of supernatural events involving the tragedy.

Psychiatrist-author Dr. Raymond Moody, author of a book on the reports of psychic experiences with Elvis, expects such reports to continue on the 10th anniversary of the rock 'n' roll king's death, Aug. 16.

"I do think there will be lots of experiences, but that's not a psychic prophecy," said Moody, whose "Elvis After Life" (Peachtree Books, 158 pp., $12.95), includes interviews with:

—Several apparently normal people who said they had premonitions of Elvis's death.

—A woman who said her collection of Elvis records melted on the day he died.

—A woman who said a jacket given to her by Elvis shook itself off its hanger twice.

—A midwestern couple who said they had been out at work all day, and when they arrived home Aug. 16, 1977, a glass enclosed painting of Elvis and a bust of the star both were found broken.

Moody, author of "Life After Life" about near death experiences, said he became interested in the psychic Elvis phenomenon while lecturing on near death after the publication of his book in 1975.

"I talked to 40 or 50 people who had psychic experiences involving Elvis," Moody said.

Moody was asked if he believed these experiences were real.

"This is going to sound like a cop out," he replied. "I'm a clinician. I've been working with near death for 22 years and I've talked to over a thousand people who have had these experiences of being pronounced dead and being resuscitated and brought back from the brink of death. I'm convinced they believe it in their minds, but I am still convinced we can't get any scientific evidence on it. That's just not scientific proof that we live after we die."

"Elvis After Life" also examines cases of psychotic and insane people obsessed with Elvis.

"Even before he died, people with psychotic problems would incorporate Elvis in with their delusions," the psychiatrist said.

Some of the people Moody describes as "these unfortunate individuals who are literally 'crazy about Elvis'" are:

—A woman who at 35 developed a syndrome in which she became convinced Elvis was in love with her. "When he died, she was devastated, she moved to Memphis to live near his grave and still maintains the belief that he was secretly in love with her."

—A middle-aged woman who is chronically psychotic and regularly becomes convinced she is pregnant with Elvis's child.

—A young man who is tormented by a voice in his head — the voice of Elvis. "He cannot escape the voice, he hears it constantly."

Moody, who practices in Carrollton, Ga., says a book similar to "Elvis After Life" could be written about other significant deaths and disasters like the assassination of Kennedy and the shuttle tragedy.

Moody describes premonitions of Kennedy's death and says he has heard reports from two people who said that moments before the shuttle Challenger lifted off they were "seized with an uncanny awareness that the rocket would explode."

Moody said he was a fan of Elvis when he was growing up and kept up with his career after entering professional life.

Dish Up TV

A year and a half ago CBS formed a task force to figure out how to get its programs to people who can't get over-the-air TV

The networks say 1 percent of Americans live in so-called "white" reception areas, places with no commercial stations for hundreds of miles.

But the problem — call it the TV shortage — is bigger than that, so I sent a letter to a CBS vice president, a fellow by the name of Schweitzer, to tell him that lots of other people can't watch network TV

For example, in parts of hilly New Hampshire, where I grew up, people can't get CBS worth a dime. The nearest affiliates — in Boston, Burlington, Hartford — aren't near enough. CBS is on cable, but the signals are weak and cable is limited to relatively populated areas. So lots of people use satellite dishes.

In my letter I suggested CBS continue to let folks with lousy reception watch via backyard dish.

I guess I wasn't very persuasive. Not only did my letter go unanswered, but CBS soon announced it was going to scramble its satellite signals and not let dish owners watch, Nyah!

A CBS press release said it was for the would-be viewers' own good: "Dish owners who intercept the network feed are bypassing the local affiliate and therefore not receiving the benefit of important local programming, especially local news, weather and public affairs programs." Not to mention the benefit of local commercials.

That's thoughtful, but what about people who can't get a network affiliate?

NBC has a solution — of sorts. It just announced plans to broadcast its Denver affiliate, KCNC, via satellite, and sell the scramble service to dish owners with decoders. So far, so good.

However, an NBC spokesman tells me the network won't let just anyone watch. It won't sell the Denver service to people who don't want to subscribe to cable. It won't sell to people who live in valleys or behind tall buildings where over-the-air TV is unwatchable. NBC's satellite service will be limited to people in those "white" areas, out where the tumbleweeds tumble.

Here's where the plot thickens. Two enterprising companies have beaten NBC to the punch: They've put affiliates of all three commercial networks on satellite and are selling the service to anybody who wants it.

NBC has responded with a lawsuit, contending that other companies have no right to distribute NBC programs.

Wait a minute. Why is it wrong for a satellite program distributor to sell network signals to dish owners, when it's perfectly all right for cable program distributors to sell the very same network signals to cable subscribers?

An NBC lawyer responds, rather lamely I think, that cable companies are covered by federal legislation requiring them to pay copyright royalties to program producers. Satellite distributors aren't covered by the law.

It seems more likely, though, that cable operators, commercial networks and pay-TV companies see their pocketbooks threatened by satellite-to-home TV, and they're out either to nip it in the bud or, failing that, to control it themselves.

Did Lauren Hutton Change In 'Timestalkers'?

Dear Dick: I saw "Timestalkers" on CBS. Question 1: Did Lauren Hutton have the space between her front teeth filled? I recall seeing pictures of her with a gap. Question 2: Is there a series or a sequel in the making? I thought it was a great TV movie! — K.C., Globes, Mich.

Dear K.C.: Answer: 1: They made something to fit over her gap, but it was uncomfortable, so she only wore it in close-ups and other shots where her teeth would be visible. The director estimated that she wore it in about 70 per cent of the shots. Answer 2: No.

Dear Dick: Please help me. No one seems to know anything about Truman Capote. I have seen "A Christmas To Remember" on TV twice. I also read a story by him in a magazine. What else has he written? When and why did he die? — Mrs. L.C., Tiltonsville, O.

Dear Mrs. L.C.: The brilliant but eccentric novelist and short-story writer died in 1984. Among his works: "Other Voices, Other Rooms" (1948), "The Grass Harp" (1953), "Breakfast At Tiffany's" (1958) — and the brilliant non-fiction novel "In Cold Blood" (1965). And he wrote for TV, including "A Christmas Memory" (1966), the correct title of the one you saw. He also did a spot of acting, playing a role in "Murder By Death" in 1976.

Dear Dick: My father and I have a dinner bet riding on this. Did Bryant Gumbel of "Today" ever play football. If so, what team did he play for, and when? — B.S., Mattawan, Mich.

Dear B.S.: Gumbel did play some in high school, in Chicago — but he hurt his ribs and had to quit. In college — Bates, in Maine — he tried to play as a wide receiver. But he admits he wasn't very good, and, besides, he broke his arm a few times. He played some baseball, that's all.

Ask Dick Kleiner

Dear Dick: How old is Bruce Willis? Someone told me he is close to 50. I say about 38 or 40. — Mrs. B.H., Norristown, Pa.

Dear Mrs. B.H.: People always seem to overestimate Willis' age, maybe because he is losing a little hair here and there (especially there). But he is only 32.

Dear Dick: I was wondering if they were going to make a "Ghostbusters 2" movie? — B.R., Galema, Kan.

Dear B.R.: Yes, but not right away. The producers and writers are planning it and working on it, but it's a long way off.

Dear Dick: When "Knight Rider" first aired, wasn't the original KITT introduced with a feminine voice instead of the masculine voice now used? If so, why was it changed? None of the "Knight Rider" fans agree with me. — W.Y., Houston, Texas.

Dear W.Y.: Good for them, because you're wrong. William Daniels has always supplied the voice of KITT.

Dear Dick: I remember Beulah Bondi and Ellen Corby from a few episodes of "The Waltons." Are they both still living, and are they both still working? — UNSIGNED, Clinton, Iowa.

Dear Unsigned: Miss Bondi died in 1981. Miss Corby suffered a severe stroke in 1979, and has only worked once or twice since.

Dear Dick: Recently, my sister and I heard the song "Where or When." We know it was in a movie in the early '40s, and remember a man and a woman sang it in a boat. Could you give us the name of the picture and the actors? Would the lady by any chance be Deanna Durbin or Kathryn Grayson? — J.L., Williamsport, Pa.

Dear J.L.: By no chance. That was an old Rodgers and Hart song from their Broadway musical "Babes in Arms." It was introduced on the stage by Miltzi Green and Ray Heatherton in 1937. When that show was filmed in 1939, the movie starred Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland. But that song was sung by two forgotten performers, Douglas McPhail and Betty Jaynes.

Dear Dick: What happened to the house mother on "The Facts of Life," before Cloris Leachman took her place? I've never seen anything in the papers or magazines about it. — J.H., Sterling Heights, Mich.

Dear J.H.: That was Charlotte Rae, who decided not to return. She was, therefore, replaced by Miss Leachman. Officially, she said she just wanted to do something different.

Unknown Takes Star Role

By Vernon Scott
UPI Hollywood Reporter
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — It takes guts, gall and a healthy ego for a virtual unknown to make his acting debut starring in a major motion picture.

Steven Seagal has all three. At 37, Seagal has had no acting experience whatever — not in movies, TV or the theater.

His nearest claim to show business fame is his relationship with actress Kelly LeBrock, who bore him a daughter earlier this year. They plan to marry in September.

Seagal is essentially a businessman with friends in high places.

His pals are agent Mike Ovitz, often described as the most powerful individual in Hollywood, and Warner Bros. bigwig Terry Semel.

Both men are responsible for the ambitious Seagal movie, "Above the Law," which Ovitz packaged and Warner Bros. financed and will be released next year. Seagal brought the story to Ovitz and helped write the screenplay. According to Seagal, he took over as producer in mid-film.

If Seagal has chutzpa, he also has talent in the field of martial arts.

He is the first non-Asian to operate a dojo (martial arts studio) in Japan, where he made his home for 15 years. He claims to have spent considerable time in Southeast Asia among political covert types, which adds a bit of mystery to his background.

"I went to Japan originally to master the martial arts, especially aikido," said Seagal, a strapping man with long, slicked down black hair pulled straight back. He is dark visaged and daunting in appearance.

"I lived in the Orient from 1969 until 1985. My dojo is still operating over there with about 2,000 students. A couple of my black belt associates are running it for me, although I go back frequently."

One reason Seagal returns regularly to Japan is to visit his two young daughters by his ex-wife, a Japanese.

Seagal gives the impression of being disenchanted with the Japanese people, who, he says, discriminate against Caucasians and who resented having an American establish one of the most respected dojos in Japan (Osaka).

"They are very jingoistic," he said, "and like the American South, they have never gotten over losing the war. They like to say — only partly joking — that I am the first and last American who will open a dojo in their country."

The Japanese, however, cannot deny Seagal's expertise. He won his martial arts masters credentials in Japan his country.

The Japanese, however, cannot deny Seagal's expertise. He won his martial arts masters credentials in Japan and speaks the language fluently.

"There are some martial arts action sequences in 'Above the Law,'" Seagal said, disposing of lunch in the Polo Lounge. "But they are secondary to the story. I turned down acting roles in the past because they were in chop sockie films."

Seagal dismisses other martial arts actors as second-raters or worse, excepting the late Bruce Lee. He says most actors make judo and karate fighters look like idiots standing around waiting to get their heads kicked in.

To him, aikido is a sacred philosophical, spiritual and physical exercise. He said he has never been defeated in martial arts competition.

Seagal now makes his home with LeBrock in Los Angeles and has opened a dojo in West Hollywood where some of his students are movie stars and film executives.
