NAVAL PARLEY HOLDS PRIVATE SESSION TODAY

Purpose Is To Smooth Out Features And Makeup Of Committees Decided Upon

LONDON, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Changing its plans over night, the five power naval conference went into executive session at 3:30 P. M. today.

The purpose of the session was to smooth out features of the makeup and procedures of the special committee to draft a new naval power.

In the delegation, the committee on a vote will present to the British government its findings in satisfying the demands of their representative to the conference committee.

Whether the central naval executive will session in place of its regular committee session originally planned was not definitely disclosed.

The only statement offered was that a meeting between the prime minister and the dominion delegations had during the morning settled the question of whether

The ending of the full session was suspended yesterday, during most of which time the committee did not meet. It was announced that Henry L. Stimson, the American secretary of state, would not go beyond the subjects to be considered were the same as those referred yesterday to the new committee.

'DISPLAY' SEEKS TO BREAK MONEY RECORD OF 'ZEV'

FIVE BASKETBALL TEAMS IN SOUTH ARE UNDEFEATED

Iron Horse Of American Turf To Enter Race Next Saturday

MIAAMI, Fla., Jan. 30.—(AP)—Display, the iron horse to American turf, sets forth Saturday in a renewed attempt to shatter the all-time money winning record held by the great Zev. The seven-year-old, W. J. Salmon thoroughbred is slated to make his 1930 debut in the Miami Beach handcap at Hialeah Park.

Should all go well in the Florida features, Display will be shipped west for the oldest prize of them all—the $100,000 Agua Caliente Handicap late in March. Pitted against the best of the winter racers, the son of Fair Play will have a golden opportunity to break the greatest money winning horse of American racing.

More than $90,000 awaits the winner of the rich Mexican stakes. Display closed the 1929 campaign with earnings in excess of $100,000 in native interests plus $20,000 for Harry Salazar's Benito. English thoroughbred is returning. A couple of million dollars at a glance where Display will end up if he wins.

To put such great money was no easy task. Way Enterprises for Seabrook and Crenshaw, the grand old house of the turf, had to battle hard for $10,000. It was first in the French Open at 23 in a record 23 times and third 26 times and got paid for only 19 times out of the money of $25,000 he produced. His last victory was in the Baltimore Handicap at Pimlico in which he beat such topnotchers as Mistral, Dr. Freedland and Sunbeam.

Display will be hardened by the heavy impact of 125 pounds on Saturday, 25,500 feature at Hialeah. This is three pounds more than allotted to A. W. Wentzel's Hasty Law, Gator and Gossamer, assigned to Tuesday, Jan. 29, death American champion which was the victim of the track's last winner. Jan. 26, is expected to be in excellent condition for the imminent working out at mile yesterday in 1:44 under whip.

Mixed Carloads Of Vegetables Being Advocated

Over the hills, there is a movement of vegetable advocates who are educated in the land, who advocate more sales for obtain the best every crop.

Several members made it known that they are some of the older farmers in this section have been sold out after a year with others. They further explained that the reason has come when the greater number have to migrate their crops in order to cultivate the best variety.

Over 500 acres are expected to be cultivated with mixed vegetables next year and two local homes are planned to be built on convenient roads where the vegetables may be harvested from the fields and trucked directly to the cheap. Mr. Brown further advised that the new agricultural situation has between lumber and labor.

He further advised that the new

Richey Revivalist Meet To Continue For Another Week

The Fred A. Richey revival at All Gospel Tabernacle, State Highway and Geneva avenue will continue all next week. With the crowds rising higher and higher, Mrs. J. E. Spaulding, head of a company of revival workers, announced today that there could be no thought of closing this remarkable meeting to a close next Sunday night.

The revival originally was scheduled to run three weeks to a close Sunday, Jan. 26. On invitation of men and women of Sanford and surrounding towns interested in old-time evangelism, Mr. Richey announced a continuation of his campaign until Feb. 2. Now comes the statement that the meeting will run at least another week, probably closing Sunday night, Feb. 9.

In connection with the announcement that the Richey campaign will not close Sunday came the announcement that a large wood-burning stove had been set up in the tabernacle, and that the big building on the highway is made comfortable on cold days. There was fire last night, and the tabernacle was comfortable. The building is warmed for both day and night services. New Smyrna, Orlando and Winter Park as a rule send delegations to the afternoon services. Osteen has good representation in the meeting.

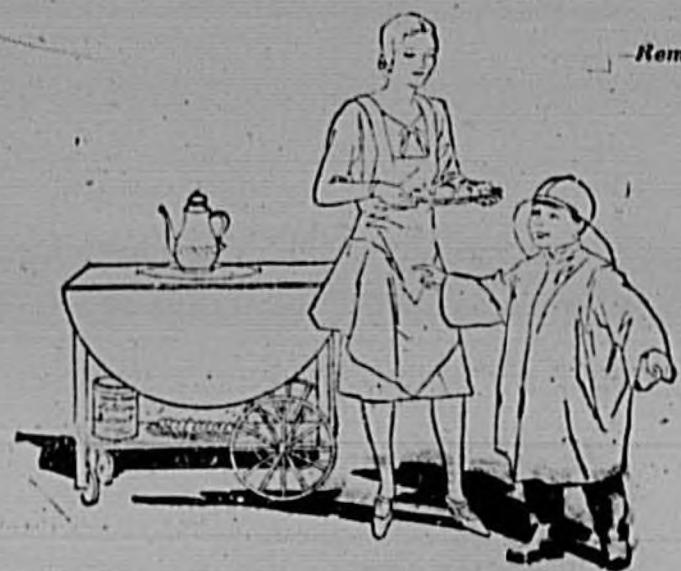

both afternoon and night.

There is old-time Bible reading and salvation preaching with an old-time altar service. There was an impressive altar service last night with a number of persons kneeling in token of surrender to Jesus. Mr. Richey spoke on "The Expectancy of Faith," declaring that God delights in bold asking. He prayed for the Ark Rev. W. M. McPherson, Chattanooga, Tenn., who recently held a meeting in Gainesville, was on the platform, and spoke briefly on the preferred name of Jesus of Nazareth, who he said, "is passing by in Sanford."

SO WING MY THOUGHTS

The birds wing southwards towards the sun
And fragrant isles
Where summer's golden nets are spun
While each day smiles.
Swift southward winging, far behind
They leave the snow,
To seek the sun-sweet lands and kind
Where no storms blow.

So wing my thoughts. They turn to you
As birds in flight;
They seek your smile, your eyes
of blue,
Your glances bright.
So wing my thoughts; they seek your hands,
Your voice, your mouth,
For in my heart's uncharted lands
You are the south!

According to Will Rogers,
"the conference met today and appointed a commission to meet tomorrow and appoint a delegation which will eventually appoint a sub-committee to draw up ways seems to us, is about all there is to most "conferences."

Newsboys in Miami have been encountering some difficulty in the pronouncing the name of Stanley Pray, the so-called "Millionaire Kid," who was recently arrested there for a big New York robbery, and whose name has been appearing with some frequency in late in the headlines. Reminds us of those difficult days during the war when the Russians were besieging the Austrian fortress of Przemysl, which the boy, for the sake of a better word, called pretzel.

Periodically the case of Men-donah appears before the pardon board. This time after serving fifteen years and becoming known as Florida's model prisoner, he might, it seems, be successful, were it not for the women of Florida. It will take a lot of nerve for members of the parole board to be lenient with Men-donah when such leniency is opposed almost one hundred percent by the women of this state, especially now that the women have the right to vote.

"Appalling Frauds!"

About a week ago newspaper subscribers throughout this country read with interest that one, Clarence Hatry, to them probably unknown, but to many a London investor a perfect exponent of crookedness, had been sentenced to fourteen years in prison. We do not know just what Hatry's offenses against the laws of his land were, except that he had engaged in matters of "high finance" which cost those who trusted him about four million dollars.

Justice Avery, in pronouncing sentence, declared, "You stand convicted of one of the most appalling frauds which ever disgraced the commercial reputation of this country, frauds which are far more serious than any great frauds within the last fifty years." Yet we wonder if Hatry's "frauds" were any worse than hundreds of "schemes" which in this country are allowed to go unpunished. Apparently not, for the New York World says:

"Our own financial history is full of stories like Hatry's—up to the latter's denunciation. He had, in fact, patterned his career on the American model in the more frenzied circle of high finance. Mushroom incorporations of assets consisting chiefly of rosette expectations vastly capitalized were Hatry's "dish," as with his American models. But their experience is seldom, almost never, his. Their colossal speculations or swindles sometimes break down or flatten out into widespread losses which the multitudinous losers are left to carry.

"And sometimes the guilty promoters are made to face a criminal prosecution. But that usually does not disturb them much. They only then begin to fight," as they say. And high-priced lawyers equipped with an inexhaustible fund of pettifogging argument and delaying motions and cross-motions do the rest. Pleas of guilty? That for them is to laugh. So the prosecution slowly wears out, the public interest dies and the end is what we quite too often know it to be.

"They certainly do these things more efficiently in England. But we may be able to say something of the sort for America when the Wickesham Commission is through with its job."

The Editors And Prosperity

"Business is essentially sound". This seems to be the consensus of opinion among the leading editors of the country as well as among the big chiefs of Wall Street. Editor & Publisher, well known newspaper trade journal, recently published a digest of the opinions of a number of the editors of reputable trade magazines. All seemed to agree that everything fundamentally is all right, though some varied slightly in their degree of optimism. Briefly their opinions are as follows:

Editor Marcus A. Rose of The Business Week: "Business will be good in 1930 for the lean, hard firms. It will not be good for the fat, soft outfits."

Editor Richard J. Edmunds of the Manufacturers' Record: "I anticipate a gradual but marked improvement throughout the country."

Editor Norman C. Cole of Chilton Class Journal Co.: "Passenger car production will probably be about 17 per cent less than it was in 1929. Motor truck production, we expect, will be slightly higher than in 1929."

Editor Ralph C. Bushy of Indus Rubber & Tire Review: "Distributors everywhere in looking to 1930 have legitimate reason to be conservatively optimistic."

Editor Lester W. W. Morrow of Electrical World: "Electrical manufacturers are in splendid shape, except for an over-production in radio sets."

President Louis Fairchild of Fairchild Publications: "A late Easter is expected to aid sales of men's, women's and children's apparel across the country."

Editor A. C. Saunders of Furniture Manufacturers: "The business valley will not be deep and will be crossed during the first quarter of 1930."

Editor Peter A. Stone of American Contractor: "During the year of 1930 the volume of building construction work materializing will be greater than in 1929."

Editor Samuel O. Dunn of Railway Age: "The railway are planning to invest about $1,000,000,000 in 1930 to help maintain business and show their confidence in the future."

Editor J. S. Warren of Hotel Management: "During 1930 hotels should prosper as a result of the intensified sides of efforts that most manufacturers and others will make, in that more salesmen will be on the road."

Editor Carl W. Stocks of Bus Transportation: "The year looks bright for the industry."

HERE IN GAINESVILLE, the Kiwanis Club is a lively group of business and professional men who are always back of everything that will add to the prosperity and well-being of the city and of Alachua county. Kiwanians are not only an attractive lot but they mix that amount of fun and frolic to their programs that serve to smooth out the wrinkles from furrowed brows and prove that it does not pay to always and eternally take things too seriously. So here's wishing Kiwanis many happy returns and many, many years of continued useful service! —Gainesville Sun.

The World's Window

By Pierre Van Passen

Flemish art circles are gratified to learn that the exhibition of Flemish "Primitives," held in New York at the Kleinberger Gallery, turned into a real triumph. The exposition was gotten together from a number of private collections, and the catalog was composed by no less an authority than Dr. Max Friedlaender. "We must express a certain measure of surprise," remarks Vandang (To-Day), a review of Flemish art and literature, "that many such points and to-morrows leading works which were born in the tranquility of Bruges, in old Louvain or the Antwerp of the sixteenth century have found their way to the roaring cities of the skyscraper, New York, Chicago, St. Louis, Boston, Detroit and Washington." Among the tableau exhibited were twenty Van der Weyden, more than twenty of Memling, a Van Eyck a Van der Gheyn, nine of Dirk Bouts, six of Petrus Christus, Matsys, Mostaert, Veenman and the Masters of the Legend of St. Ursula, St. Lucia and St. Magdalene were also represented. John D. Rockefeller loaned "A Portrait of a Noblewoman" by Roger Van der Weyden. The Van Eyck came from the collection of Julian Hass of Detroit. Jessie Strauss loaned his "Madonna," Julius S. Bachs his "Cathleen Ni Houlihan," which originated under the influence of Van der Weyden. Martin Ryerson of Chicago, E. W. Edwards and many other distinguished Americans yet made possible that the precious treasures of the Flemish spirit were brought together in a quiet spot of the metropolis. It gives Flemings a sense of pride.

said Justice Avery, in pronouncing sentence.

Justice Avery, in pronouncing sentence, declared,

"You stand convicted of one of the most appalling frauds which ever disgraced the commercial reputation of this country, frauds which are far more serious than any great frauds within the last fifty years."

Yet we wonder if Hatry's "frauds" were any worse than hundreds of "schemes" which in this country are allowed to go unpunished.

Apparently not, for the New York World says:

Prof. Hilco To Appear At Milane Tonight In Daring Act Numbers Opening Pictures Of Player Painted At Trial Of Brady

Prof. Hilco, ventriloquist, comedian and former member of the well known team of Ross and Morey, will open the picture show on the Milane stage at 10:30 o'clock in two performances, today and tomorrow.

Prof. Hilco features a unique escape from a straight jacket and a walk down in mid-air, suspended upon an auto tire. This entertainers is said to be the most difficult and skillfully performed act ever formed, the first act consisting of some of the highest and most difficult acts ever done in Broadway.

Hilco has been a member of the United States air force and the undercarriage of a plane flying at the height of 10,000 feet.

Mr. Hilco, a man who has worked with Hilco for a period of over two years, and at present is pasted in his performance, is a graduate of the University of Texas, and holds a degree in electrical engineering. He has also been a student of the University of Texas, and has performed before the members of the Texas legislature.

Hilco was raised in the city of Bucharest, Romania, and has a number of relatives in that country.

The defense rested its case yesterday. E. A. Berry, chief attorney, claimed that he understood whether any further statement was necessary for Brady.
