Temps reach record lows

SANDORD - An unusually strong cold front for late spring across the south and central Peninsula brought record low temperatures to the area last night.

A low of 48 degrees, was recorded as a record low by the National Weather Service observation station at Orlando International Airport, and a low of 45, for Sanford, was logged by the University of Florida Agricultural Research and Education Center, on Celery Avenue. Cool and dry northwesterly wind flow is expected to continue through tonight. A gradual warming of the air mass is expected this weekend with high pressure building over the peninsula. Jobiess rate improves

TALLAHASSEE - Florida's unemployment rate dipped slightly to 8.3 percent in April but remained well above the national average of 7.2 percent, state officials said today.

"We're seeing a slowing in the rate of decline," said Rebecca Rust, bureau chief of labor market information. "We're not seeing positive growth as yet, but we're not seeing the losses we had earlier."

The state jobiess rate fell from 8.6 percent in March but remained well above the 6.9 percent

Of the nation's 11 largest states, Florida's unemployment figure was the third highest. Michigan led with a 9.4 percent rate, while North Carolina continued to enjoy the healthlest standing at 5.4 percent.

Mandatory trash rate hike mulled

Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - County staff are recommending a $14.86 per month rate for garbage collection in the unincorporated areas beginning Oct. 1.

County commissioners will consider the figure in a worksession Monday and Indicate whether to proceed with the program using that figure. The rate will pay for twice weekly collection of unlimited amounts of garbage from each unincorporated residence, once weekly recycling pickups, and once weekly yard waste collection of a maximum of about 17 yard bags.

Garbage-collection customers in unincorportgated areas of the county are currently paying from $11.59 to $12.80 for garbage pickup, depending on which of the five franchised garbage companies collect their refuse. The price does not include yard waste collection, which is $1 per bag, and is limited to collection of two garbage cans twice weekly.

Commissioners crafted the program because many unincorporated residents opposed mandatory collection and the higher prices associated with the new yard Bee Trask, Page 5A

Florida magnet for AIDS therapies

ORLANDO - Florida has the third-highest number of AIDS patients and is prime territory for scams and pitches for exotic treatments, officials say.

"Any desperate illness without a known cure is liable to be marketed by charlatans, quacks and a few well-meaning enthusiasts who kind of get carried away," said Dr. John Renner, who investigates treatments for AIDS.

"We know that some AIDS patients spend an enormous amount of time and money looking for things under the counter," he said.

Among the newest therapies being offered is an African herb treatment being advertised by handwritten signs on telephone poles along an Orlando thoroughfare of nightclubs and heavy Representatives of the group Afrique Hope meet with interested people in restaurants and offer the herb treatment for $20,000, plus travel expenses to Ghana. The first six people who apply get a 50 percent discount.

Kek Brew of Ghana, who is promoting Afrique Hope, refused to say what was in the curative herbs.

Assistant Attorney General Tina Furlough said in Tallahassee that her office will study Afrique Hope's promotion to determine its validity.

Although medical experts say there is no proven cure for AIDS, the U.S. government estimates patients are spending at least $1 billion a year on questionable therapies.

Juvenile crime is at epidemic proportions

Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE - The arrest rates of black teen age boys are six to eight times higher than arrest rates of white teen boys. Tallahassee's police chief said.

The black male youth population in Florida is in very dire, very dire straits." Mel Tucker said Thursday at the start of a state conference on juvenile crime.

"That is a disaster in the making." he said. "It's the kind of thing that is going to make incidenta like ... Los Angeles more frequent in our society.

"It must be dealt with. We cannot bury our heads in the sand and pretend that the problem is not there."

Less than one-third of the population in Jacksonville is black, but two-thirds of the teen-age boys arrested are black. according to Duval County Sheriff Jim McMillan.

"There are a lot of problems there: poverty, lack of hope, lack of opportunity, lack of jobs in our housing developments, in our urban areas," said McMillan.

In a 120-day period, one black teen-ager was arrested eight times, according to a study by McMillan's department.

Just over 7 percent of the 15-17 age group was arrested during that four-month period. but nearly 23 percent of the city's group were arrested. McMillan said.

"That's an alarming statistic when you think about it." he said. "That's 120 days. If you carry it on out through the year. you can see how much at risk our young black males are."

Tucker, McMillan and Tim Moore, commissioner of the Florida Department of Law Enforcement, also talked more generally about teen-age crime.

Last year, more than 94,000 juveniles were arrested. Ten thousand were charged with violent crimes.

Every day and every night local law enforcement officers are "having to pick up the pieces, the exhibits of our system's failure," Moore told sheriffs, police officials and prosecutors from around the state.

Prayer posture complicated

By DAVID BRIGGS Associated Press Writer

It used to be very simple: Catholics kneeled, Baptists didn't.

But like so many other things. the posture of prayer has become so much more complicated in the 1990s. Prominent evangelical pastors are calling their flocks to their knees, while American Catholics are considering a proposal to make kneeling optional.

Even Presbyterians who prided themselves on never leaving their seats have been lifted from them by folk guitar services and the charismatic movement.

'Posture means a lot," said Lawrence Hoffman, former president of the North American Academy of Religion. "Over the centuries, religions developed body postures about what they want to say of themselves and of the world and of God."

In the Gospel of Luke, Jesus kneels down in Gethsemane shortly before his arrest to utter the famous prayer, "not my will, but yours be done." In his letter to the Philippians, the apostle Paul says "at the name of Jeaus every knee should bend, in heaven and on Earth and under the Earth."

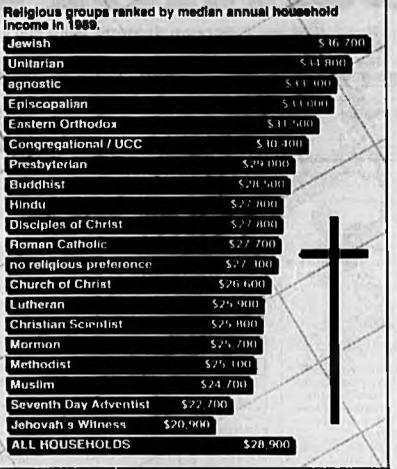

But evidence indicates that while the primitive Christians practiced kneeling as a penitential rite, they celebrated the resurrection by standing with arms outstretched. Until the end of the Middle Ages, seats largely were were reserved only for the minister and the aged or disabled, and kneeling benches were an even later architectural

During the Middle Ages, the church began to emphasize the humility of the individual before God — and kneeling became the vogue. "People felt less worthy. the notion of sin loomed large in their minds," said the Rev. Richard Vosko, a church design consultant based in Albany, N.Y. After the Second Vatican Council. Catholic churches did away with kneeling while recelving communion, in part to emphasize the dignity of the human being before God. But kneeling stayed elsewhere in the Mass, and the U.S. bishops kept the kneeling posture from the beginning of the Eucharistic prayer to the "Great-Amon" at

"In the United States, we kneel more than almost any

That may be changing. In Albany, N.Y., and elsewhere. some Catholic churches undergoing renovations are doing away with kneelers.

The Federation of Diocesan Liturgical Commissions has asked the National Conference of Catholic Bishops' Committee on the Liturgy to consider making kneeling optional during the Eucharistic prayer before communion.

There also is a movement among some Lutherans and Episcopalians to stand. "Kneeling (is seen) as more like a medieval custom that owes more to feudalism than primitive re-ligious practice," said Gordon Lathrop, a liturgy professor at Lutheran Theological Seminary in Philadelphia..

Probably the most striking and winning thing is that people see each other face to face," he

Day of Prayer observed here

SANFORD - Church members and concerned citizens throughout Seminole County gathered together at either their individual congregations or designated meeting places to recognize the National Day of Prayer on Thursday.

A nationwide network of state and local coordinators, along withh clergy and lay leaders in hundreds of churches and synagogues sponsored special services with the theme "Let Us Pray."

A small group of about 30 people met in connection with the National Day of Prayer yesterday. The gathering was held by the flag pole at Memorial Park on the lakefront near the City Hall.

Sarah Krider who attended the meeting said. "It was a small group, and we were only there from about 12:20 until 12:40, but the prayers were strong and well presented." She observed, "First one very excellent speaking man started the public prayers, then one by one. most of the other people took their turn in praying for our nation and its leaders." Krider was disappointed over the small turnout. "But this was the first year we've tried this in San-ford," she said, "and maybe next year it will grow.

National days of prayer have been traditional in the U.S. since the first was declared by the Conti-nential Congress in 1775. In 1988, Congress and President Ronald Reagan signed an act declaring that the annual event will fall on the first Thursday of May.

Tax panel: Politics 'sabotaged tax reforms

By BILL DERESTROM
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE - A state income tax and other changes might have been put to the voters if this weren't an election and redistricting year, some members of the panel reviewing Florida's tax system said.

Most of the pressure to avoid the touchy questions came from lawmakers worried about their own chances in November, two Florida Tax & Budget Reform Commission members said Thursday.

"The income tax would have been on the ballot had the commission not been subject to outside political pressures for that not to occur," said member Tom Slade.

"Nobody wanted to run on the same ballot as an income tax." member Bill Bryant said. "It wasn't the business community, it wasn't the usual lobbyists who sabotaged any possibility of real tax reform."

An income tax might have been linked to a proposal to end many exemptions to the 6 percent sales tax so that rate could be cut. Bryant said.

The group filed four constitutional amendments with the secretary of state's office to put before voters in November. The revisions would:

• Require changes to clarify how tax money is spent, such as a 72-hour review period before final passage of appropriations bills: require a review of state trust funds: and give the governor and Cabinet power to make spending cuts to balance the budget between legislative sessions.

• Require the Legislature to adopt a taxpayers' "bill of rights" outlining taxpayers' responsibilities to government and government's responsibilities to them.

•Let local governments levy an added sales tax of up to 1 percent to pay for local government services, if local voters agree.

 Require businesses that lesse sites from government to pay property taxes, except those paying at a lower 1 percent intangible tax rate under leases signed before the current Constitution was adopted in 1968.

Though not as sweeping as an income tax, the changes would give voters a better picture of how the state spends their taxes, said Slade, a Jacksonville businessman.

"It will be a state far more readily trusted," he said.

The commission was set up by a constitutional amendment approved by voters in 1988. It said a 25-member panel would be established in 1990, and every ten years after that, to review the state budget and taxes.

That timing makes it hard to put tough questions to the voters, said Bryant, a Tallahassee attorney.

School top-job hopeful says open communication is key

By VICKI Describer Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - Dr. Paul Hagerty, superintendent of the Springfield, Missouri School district, chooses his words carefully.

Of course, anyone who is being interviewed by five potential employers in front of a crowd of about 25 potential employees and the press, is bound to be a little hesitant when choosing how to answer complex questions.

Hagerty, the third candidate for the superintendent's job in Seminole County, received a unanimous vote of approval from the selection committee which helped the board narrow the field of candidates from 151.

"Boy, there are no easy warm-up questions," laughed Hagerty yesterday in his easy, mid-western drawl as the questioning began with queries about how he has, in the past, built a rapport with his staff, his principals and his public.

The key to his success, with all parties, he said, was a willingness to communicate openly.

"I want to make myself available to anybody," he said. "To the PTA, to parents, in someone's home, at a school, wherever.'

years he spent as a school board member in the last 1960s to the early 1970s have served him well.

"It adds to my ability to work with the board," he said. "I know what your needs and expectations are."

Hagerty is the only one of the candidates for the superintendency here who has experience as a board member.

He stated that school districts in general, and superintendents in particular, must keep in mind a smart business sense philosphy about running a school system. They are there to serve the taxpayers who, in Hagerty added that the six reality, are the stockholders and owners of the company.

"Who owns the schools?" he asked. "They are investing in this company to be sure we provide a service to their children.

He added that parents' concerns and ideas can not be ignored by those, such as the superintendent, the board and the staff, who call themselves expert.

Parents must be a part of the decision-making process," he

He decried the tendency of some superintendents to "make directives out of the blue." His style, he emphasized, is more laid back. There must be time, he said, for evaluation and discussion.

Hagerty said that Seminole County is the only district where he presently seeking the super-Intendency.

Dr. Phillip McDaniel, superintendent of the Metropolitan School District of Washington Township, Indiana, will be the next candidate to be screened.

He will be touring the district today and meeting with the community in an open reception this evening at Lake Mary High School at 6 p.m. His formal interview with the board will be tomorrow morning at 9 at the district headquarters, 1211 Mellonville Ave., Sanford.

Customized cars shine in show

By MICK PPRIFAUF Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - A special showing of classic and customized cars and mini-trucks will be held in Sanford Saturday night. Up to 40 cars and trucks are expected.

Bill Cox, who heads Cruzin Cuztomz, in Lakeland, explained, "This will be a "Show and shine" invitational meet, with entries from all over Central Florida including Kissimmee and DeLand."

Cox said, "Some of our cars and trucks have neon lights on their undersides, and others even have their back seats set up with nintendo games. They are really something to see."

Cruzin Cuztomz is providing professional judges who will compare the various entries for style, paint, decor, innovation, and other requirements. Prizes will go to first and second places in the various divisions, as well as four best-of-show trophies to be awarded.

The event will take place in the parking lot at Dunbar's Restaurant and Lounge, 3863 S. Orlando Drive in Sanford.

The event at Dunbar's will be held from 6 until 11 p.m. this Saturday, May 9.

Loophole closed

A gaping loophole in American antitrust law has been closed. The Justice Department announced recently that it will begin prosecuting foreign companies suspected of collusion or other anti-competitive activity that harms U.S. exporters.

In the past, the Justice Department's policy was to look the other way at unfair market practices by foreign cartels if American consumers were not hurt directly. The Justice Department was "concerned only with adverse effects on competition that would harm U.S. consumers by reducing output or raising prices." according to guidelines issued by the department's antitrust division in 1988.

Under the old policy, Japanese automakers, for example, were able to agree tacitly among themselves not to use American-made parts. This patently unfair trade practice did not raise the cost of Japanese cars to American consumers or limit the total number available. Consequently, the Justice Department did not get involved.

But the collusion by Japanese car makers did harm the U.S. auto-parts industry. It did deprive American workers of jobs. It hardly makes sense to base U.S. policy only on harm to consumers while ignoring injury to American companies and workers.

Under the new rules, the Justice Department will take action against foreign companies that engage in such activities as "group boycotts, collusive pricing and other exclusionary activities."

The department can sue the American subsidiaries of foreign companies in U.S. courts, even if the subsidiary itself is not engaged in anti-competitive practices. This indirect prosecution is necessary because the Justice Department is not permitted to go after a foreign parent company on its home soil. If all of the state of the soil of the state of the soil of the state of the soil of the state of the st

Fifteen countries, led by Japan, have expressed reservations about the U.S. policy change. In fact, Tokyo went so far as to denounce the new policy as a possible violation of international law.

But if Japanese auto makers stop colluding on auto parts, for instance, they need not worry about running afoul of U.S. antitrust laws. If, however, the Japanese continue anti-competitive practices that hurt American manufacturers and their workers, they deserve to be prosecuted.

Everyone must respect the law

It has come to a point that wherever there is a black community, there are also stories of police brutality. Not all incidents are as bad as a Rodney King incident, however, they are not far from one. Most incidents of police brutality are localized, others, thanks to the media reach the national scene and show the American people that the police are really citizens who have taken off their white sheets and put on uniforms.

With the increase of drugs and violence in our communities there has also been an increase of police brutality. It's understandable that as these problems get worse the police have to adjust their tactics to handle certain confrontations, but is President Bush's "war on drugs" plan drawn up from the philosophy of Malcolm X, "by any means necessary." Because police are abandoning procedure and using excessive force unincreasarily and getting away with it.

The police are expected to enforce the law, within the law, but when the police use excessive force unnecessarily, they are shove the law. And in black, white, hispanic and other communities, the police are using excessive force to restrain suspects. Some of it's in the line of duty, some of it's revenge, anger, or racially motiviated. Whatever the case the police are creating more problems than they are resolving.

Relations between the police and the community are at an all time low. Especially, in the black community. We are losing trust in them and if we can't trust the police, who can we trust?

Everyone in this society has to respect the law and everyone is subject to the same punishment if they break the law. When an individual or a group breaks the law and is not subject to the same punishment as the rest of society, a message is being sent that says enough money or enough power, not enough law.

A split society's violent dividend

WILMINGTON, Del. — A gloriously upbcat weekend whose optimism was reflected two days later in the surprising Pennsylvania primary result, ended tragically on Wednesday, April 29, in an orgy of violence that has left all of us stunned — but a few of us unsurprised.

By stamping an imprimatur on official violence against blacks, a suburban Los Angeles jury with no black members also perversely legitimized the violent black response.

Ironically, the Supreme Court's allegedly black justice. Clarence Thomas, had provided the rationale two months ago for the jury verdict in the Rodney King case. In his dissent in Hudson vs. McMillian, Thomas held that a prison inmate's constitutional rights were not violated, even though he was punched and kicked by two guards while handcuffed and shackled.

The barbaric jury must have saluted that dissent.

Prior to the King verdict, my upbeat weekend began with one of America's most legendary advocates of racial togetherness, James Michener, kicking off the Wilmington News-Journal's Writers Workshop, Michener Inspired an overflow crowd with his enthusiasm about good newspaper writing in this era of videocratic couch potatoes.

In New York City, another overflow crowd attended an equally significant conference:

"Women Tell the Truth" featured a speech by a genuine American

hero, Prof. Anita F.

Two days later. Lynn Yeakel upset the favored Democratic senatorial candidate in the Pennsylvania primary. Her victory was attributed to her television ad featuring Sen. Arlen Specter (whom Yeakel will face in the fall) verbally brutalizing Anita Hill. "Did this upset you as much as it did me?" her ad asked.

you as much as it did me?" her ad asked.
A plurality of Democratic voters responded, "Yes!"

Jury must have saluted that dissent.

When Yeakel won, I thought to myself, "Hey, this country is on a roll." Then that jury verdict sent the nation into a horrifled tailspin.

The barbaric

Still, I wasn't surprised. In fact, I had predicted the jury's verdict in a speech that morning at a suburban private school. "Exonerating the police in this kind of racial violence is normal." I said.

"Indicting them would be abnormal."

By now, it is depressingly clear that this nation has arrived at the racial crossroads. We are in an era of ruptured civility that reached an apotheosis in the senatorial brutalization of Anita Hill. Like Dred Scott in 1856. Anita Hill and Rodney King represent a turning point in our nation's history.

police violence and jury complicity, the question must be asked: Is white racism solely responsible for what happened to Rodney King in Los Angeles and Anita Hill in Washington?

As we try to cling to our civility in the face of Absolutely not, Black people must share in the white racist culpability for the attempted destruction of two black Americans.

"What white Americans have never fully understood — but what black Americans can never forget" — is that Sen. Arien Specter's verbal brutalization of Anita Hill is as destructively racist as the four white Los Angeles policemen's physical brutalization of Rodney King.

In both cases, the majority of blacks did nothing beforehand to show the nation their communal outrage.

Bush camp to pummel Perot

WASHINGTON — According to well-placed GOP sources, the Bush campaign has collected so much negative material on Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton that Bush-Quayle operatives don't know where to begin in selectively leaking stories to the press and turning the information into negative campaign ads. However, secording to these same sources, in recent weeks most of the anti-Clinton effort has come to a screeching halt. These days the "opposition research" effort has only one target: Ross Perot.

Despite any public statements coming out of the White House to the contrary, Bush's campaign planners are very worried about an independent candidacy by the Texas billionaire.

Few in the White House actually believe that Perot, no matter how much he spends, can actually be elected president as a third-party candidate. But what terrifies many in the Bush Camp is that Perot will attract "swing voters" — mainly the so-called Reagan Democrats who first put Ronald Reagan in the White House and then deserted Michael Dukakis for George Bush.

Many have forgotten that Bush's victory was broad, but not really deep. In 1986, 120 of his 426 electoral votes were won by margins of less than 5 percent. It's this lack of depth that scares the Bush strategists.

As they view it, even assuming that Bill Clinton gets no more support than Dukakis did in 1988, he could win in November if a Perot candidacy siphons off 5 percent of Bush's 1988 support in only 12 states: California, Illinois. Pennsylvania, Texas, Michigan, Maryland, Missouri, New Mexico, Colorado, Oklahoma, Tennessee and Louisiana.

So the White House sees Perot as a very real threat, and it is going to go after him in a big way. It will start slowly at first, but then will go full tilt as soon as Perot starts qualifying to actually get on state ballots.

They believe that Perot's main attraction to voters is the perception that he is a conservative outsider who will clean up the mess in Washington. Therefore, the Bush campaign is planning a two-pronged strategy to change this perception. First, it will try to position Perot as just another tax-and-spend Democrat so voters will see him as an alternative to Clinton and not Bush. Second, it will paint him as an inside wheeler-dealer who has made himself rich at the public trough by buying influence.

The Bush forces acknowledge that Perot is an ardent anti-Communist, a super-patriot and a foreign-policy conservative. However, they will portray him as a social liberal, a supporter of abortion, and as a man prepared to sharply raise taxes to support an expanded liberal social agenda.

Mostly, though, they will try to paint Perot as someone who has spent most of his career wheeling and dealing in Washington and buying favors everywhere with huge campaign contributions — often to the Democratic leadership on Capitol Hill.

One example has already been leaked. Last year Congress passed a new transportation bill, a piece of legislation that Perot recently attacked as "all show business and no real merit." But it appears that some language inserted in the bill will actually benefit Perot and his family to the tune of many millions of dollars.

The bill contains $30 million for a new highway interchange and an interstate overpass and connecting road that will necting road that will link Ft. Worth area developments owned by Perot and his family to the Texas interstate highway system. The taxpayer-funded highway improvements will dramatically increase the value of the Perot family's Basswood and Hillwood developments.

Many have forgotten that

Bush's victory

but not really was broad,

deep.

The White House intends to show that Perot amassed much of his fortune through government contracts and through his insider connections. They intend to play up his connection with former House Speaker Jim Wright and to make much of his many political donations.

"I think before too long Mr. Perot's halo is going to be a little tarnished," said one Bush operative. "We are going to show that he supports an activist liberal social agenda and higher taxes to pay for it. In the end it will be Democrate who will want to vote for him and that will mean he will end up taking votes from Bill Clinton."

ALONG THE MEXICAN BORDER — To the untrained eye, they look like only taco stands, restaurants, supermarkets, mobile homes and small dilapidated buildings. Their neon signs flash, "Cambiamos Pesos" — "We exchange pesos." And for years they have provided personalized financial services for residents of border communities.

"There's a need for them." explained one El Paso. Texas, money exchanger. "When people have to exchange their dollars to go buy that special dress or if the y have an emergency and the banks are closed, we are here for them."

But, according to law enforcement sources, many of these one-time more and pop organizations have become the preferred banks for narcotics smug-smugglers.

A recent government study argues that among the estimated 1,000 casas de cambio (the local name for currency exchange facilities) doing business along the border from Texas to California, as many as 80 percent may be engaged in money laundering. One casa alone has been linked to laundering more than $50 million in a six-month period.

They are almost completely unregulated and unsupervised by federal and state authorities. These non-bank institutions are supposed to comply with federal anti-money laundering statutes but many don't and get away with it.

Tragically, those that do often go belly up, unable to compete with the narco-backed casas. The legitimate casas that have survived say the laundering has given their business a bad name, and complain about the belated efforts by authorities to crack down on their crooked competitors.

Casas de cambio became a laundering haven for smugglers after the passage of money-laundering control legislation in 1986. The new law held banks criminally culpable for failing to file reports on cash transactions over $10,000. Drug smugglers who once could waltz into bank lobbies and unload cash-stuffed sultcases with no questions asked now had to look elsewhere.

Unregulated casas de cambio fit the bill. They asked no names, kept few records and filed no government forms.

Some of these institutions filled the void eagerly. Handling the illicit transactions garnered them up to $1 million annually in profits. Their businesses boomed and so did their services. With reserves in local bank accounts, some casas de cambio looked more and more like banks by providing services ranging from check cashing and wire transfer to selling money orders and traveler's checks.

Although they remain clusive to law enforcement, the methods and mechanics driving casas de cambio are well-documented. Senate investigators recently heard how one of the most basic transactions unfolds.

A drug dealer needs to deposit $100,000 into a bank account without arousing suspicion. He brings the cash into a casa de cambio. An exchange house employee then drives the money through Customs across the border into Mexico. Cash amounts over $10,000 leaving the country must be reported—but the law is seldom enforced.

Once the border is crossed, the driver simply makes a U-turn and re-enters the United States.

Only 36,000 of the 48,000 unincorporated homes subscribe to garbage service, said county Solid Waste manager Fred Blakeley this morning.

Commissioners conceeded failure in February and directed staff to craft a mandatory collection rate for all residents. The fee will be billed annually during property tax collection time.

Although all of the potential customers will be participating. which normally would drive the per-customer rate down, two additional factors have driven the cost up, according to a staff

Of the $14.66 monthly rate, the hauler will be paid $11.45 per home to collect the garbage. Another $1.15 will be charged simply to pay for the staff and other expenses to operate the billing program. Billing is now done by each hauler. Another $2.06 will pay the expenses of more than doubling the dumping fee from $18 to $37 per ton.

The dumping "tipping" fee is the amount paid by companies to dump truckloads of garbage at the county dump. The increase was needed so the county can comply with state and federal environmental protection requirements for the dump.

This will be the fourth in the series of Neighbors for Neighborhood park projects undertaken since the start of this year in Lake Mary. Shuttle hurtles to wayward satellite rendezvous

Associated Press Writer

CAPE CANAVERAL - A wayward satellite and the nation's newest space shuttle are hurtling toward a weekend rendezvous today in a bold NASA mission to pluck the satellite from a useless orbit and put it to work.

The shuttle Endeavour, one year off the assembly line, began the celestial chase with a twilight liftoff Thursday from the Kennedy Space Center.

Its target is the Intelsat 6 satellite, which has been orbiting 350 miles above Earth since a miswired rocket failed to boost it to its 22,300-mile-high duty station two years ago.

NASA had been operating its shuttle fleet with only Columbia. Discovery and Atlantis since a 1986 explosion destroyed the Challenger and killed its seven astronauts. Endeavour is the Challenger's $2 billion replace-

After the Endeavour went into a 205-mile-high orbit, engineers at the intelast control room in Washington commanded their satellite to begin a slow descent with the first of four firings from small maneuvering jets. If all works well, the two spacecraft should meet Sunday afternoon. They began their meticulously planned closing maneuvers 8,437 miles apart.

"I think we saw the very best of America," said Daniel S. Goldin, new administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. "I'm just damn proud of America's team.'

Commander Daniel Brandenstein and his crew of six trained more than a year for the weeklong mission, which in-cludes three spacewalks for the first time in the 11-year-old shuttle program.

NASA chose an experienced crew for the demanding mission. Only pilot Kevin Chilton has never flown in space before.

Astronauts Pierre Thuot and

Richard Hieb will venture into the cargo bay Sunday to snag the spinning satellite and attach a rocket: Kathy Thornton and Thomas Akers will go out Monday to rehearse space station construction techniques, and Thuot and Hieb on Tuesday will do more of the same.

Bruce Meinick will operate the shuttle's robot arm when it maneuvers the satellite into the cargo bay and during the construction exercises.

The International Telecommunications Satellite Organisation (Inteleat) is paying NASA 993 million for the rescue of its $157 million satellite. When the spacecraft is fitted with a rocket and released from the shuttle, it will be boosted to its outpost, ready to relay 120,000 telephone and television signals simultaneously.

Pierre Madon, an Intelsat vice president, congratulated NASA on "a perfect job."

"What is this going to do to our wells," said Melanie Gilmartin, neighborhood activist. "Wells have already dried up around some of the pits that are already out here."

The residents are protesting a proposal by White Construction to dig borrow pits to provide dirt for the construction of the Seminole County expressway between Lake Jesup and U.S. Highway 17-92. White has applied to build a pit to dig 173,000 cubic yards of fill for the expressway on state-owned property next to the expressway path west of South Sanford Avenue and south of Pine Way.

Of that amount, 06.3 million will be paid to White to cover the costs of buying dirt. trucking it to the construction sites, unloading and compacting it in place, said Gayle Geddes, expressway spokesman.

White Construction officials have refused to respond to questions about the nearly 2.4 million cubic yards of dirt they will need to build the roadway. But Geddes said White's bid estimated the "in place" cost to buy and place dirt at $2.63 to $2.74 per cubic yard. Geddes said White did not provide a

Unemployment edges down; first decline in nine months

By MARTIN CRUTSINGER AP Economica Writer

WASHINGTON - The nation's unemployment rate thropped to 7.2 percent in April, the first decline in nine months, as the economic recovery finally made itself felt in the labor market, the government said today. The Labor Department said that businesses added 126,000 Jobs during the month, the biggest boost in payroll employment in almost a

The jobless rate had been stuck at a 61/2-year high of 7.3 percent in both February and March. Economists worried that unless businesses started hiring workers soon, the fragile economic rebound that began in January could falter, just as a similar recovery stailed out last year. While welcoming the April drop in the Joblesa rate, analysts cautioned that further improvements in unemployment were likely to be extremely gradual, given what they expect will be the weakest economic recovery on record. That view is also shared by top business executives. The Business Council, composed of chief executives of 100 of the country's largest corporations, issued a new outlook Thursday predicting that the jobless rate could well remain above 7 percent for the rest of the year. For April, the hiring strength came from a 135,000-job surge at department stores, hospitals

That surge helped to offset weakness in manufacturing and construction. Manufacturing jobs posted a small increase of 8,000 last month while jobs in the construction industry actually fell by 11,000. The data on various industries came from a survey of business payrolls while the overall unemployment rate is derived from a survey of American homes. The household survey showed that the number of persons employed rose by 327,000 last month. A total of 240,000 persons entered the labor market during the month and the difference between those two numbers produced a drop of

87,000 persons in the unemployment figure, which stood at 9.16 million persons last month. The increase in employment helped to drive the jobless rates down for all categories. The percentage of whites unemployed dropped to 6.3 percent, down from 6.5 percent in March. The number of unemployed blacks fell to 13.9

percent, down from 14.1 percent the previous

C from food not pills

LOS ANGELES - A new study shows that vitamin C may help people live longer. But it's better to get your dose from five daily servings of fresh fruits and vegetables instead of vitamin pilla, researchers reported today.

Researchers found that taking 300 to 400 milligrams of vitamin C daily may help men live about six years longer than men who don't. For women, the benefits are about one year.

The U.S. government's re-commended daily allowance of vitamin C is 60 milligrams for most adults, and less for children. The study, written by James E. Enstrom, an epidemiologist at the University of California. Los Angeles, was published in today's issue of the ournal Epidemiology.

Congressional probe

WASHINGTON - Congressional investigators will review FBI wiretaps as they probe whether the 1980 Reagan-Bush presidential campaign plotted to delay release of American hostages in Iran, federal law enforcement and congressional sources say.

Attorney General William P. Barr has authorized the FBI to allow the investigators to review the classified video and audio tapes of a surveillance in New York City, the sources said late Thursday.

The tapes will be made available to a House task force headed by Rep. Lee Hamilton. D-Ind., which is investigating allegations that Ronald Reagan's 1980 campaign negotiated with Iran to delay release of 52 American hostages until after the election.

Under that scenario, Reagan campaign operatives allegedly offered the Iranian regime of the Ayatollah Khomeini the opportunity to buy U.S. arms in return for preventing President Carter from negotiating an "October Surprise" release of the hostag-

UN report not good

UNITED NATIONS — Tougher environmental regulations enacted during the past 20 years have failed to stop the relentless decline in the quality of the world's environment, a United Nations report says.

in a state-of-the-environment report released Thursday, the U.N. concluded that one billion people are breathing unhealthy air, that malnutrition and skin cancer are on the rise, and that population growth is spinning out of control.

The report was released as U.N. negotiators were finalizing a global warming treaty intended to be signed in Rio de Janeiro in June as part of the United Nations Earth Summit, the largest such meeting in Negotiators neared agreement on language that would promise efforts to forestall global warm-ing but would fail to set any specific targets or deadlines for he reduction of carbon dioxide and other so-called greenhouse gases that can lead to global warming.

"The environment is now worse than twenty years ago." said Mustafa K. Tolba, head of the United Nations Environment Program, which produced the report. "Time is running out. Critical threshholds may already have been breached."

Tolba said there had been ome gains in pollution reduction in industrialized countries during the past two decades. Energy use dropped by 29 per-cent, for example, and automobiles weigh 25 percent less, making them more fuel

"But that is not the case in the developing countries. It is get-ting worse," he said.

Southern states must work together

JACKSON, Miss. - Southern states, rather than fighting each other to attract businesses, should pool their resources to be competitive in next century's global economy, several speakers told a blue-ribbon

The Commission on the Future of the South, representing 13 Southern states and Puerto Rico, also considered a recommendation to gradually privatize state economic devel-

Economic development policy in the South has too long been an extension of Southeastern Conference and Atlantic Coast Conference football rivalries, pitting state against state," said George Autry, president of the Chapel Hill, N.C.-based Manpower Development Corp., a non-profit think tank.

"Somehow, the South needs to learn from one another, because there's lots to learn." Autry said Thursday.

J. Mac Holladay, former economic development director in Mississippi and South Carolina. said the key to competitiveness was for state economic officials to decentralize and get local communities involved. Cities and counties could eventually form regional development groups, but Holladay said such thinking is not widely accepted.

"I had a state legislator ask me. 'When are you going to stop reorganizing your department?" Holladay said. "I said, When the world economy stops changing."

"We have to realize that government has got to steer the boat planning would not be easy. but it doesn't have to do all the rowing." said Bob Friedman, chairman of the Washingtonbased Corporation for Enterprise Development.

West Virginia Gov. Gaston Caperton, chairman of the Southern Growth Policies Board, appointed the commission earlier this year and assigned it the job of recommending a plan to make the South globally competitive. The interstate board is a public agency based in Research Triangle Park, N.C.

Charlotte, N.C., Mayor Richard Vinroot, a commission member, said decentralizing economic

The Mob

Massive government action fails to curb organized crime gains

By RICK HAMPSON Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK - In the 10 years since President Reagan declared war on the mob — "this dark, evil enemy within" — the government has imprisoned organized crime chieftains of every kind, by the hundreds.

The lineup runs the gamut from "Fat Tony" Salerno to "Little Nicky" Scarfo, from creaky septuagenarian Louis Gatto of Fair Lawn N.J., to 'Crazy Phil' Leonetti, a handsome young killer from south Philadelphia. The government has bugged mob kitchens and bedrooms, clubs and cars. It has taken over union halls, nightclubs and restaurants. It has forced the first fair national Teamsters union elections and cut off the Mafla's cash skim from Las Vegas.

It has done just about everything, in fact, except reduce organized crime.

Across the urban Northeast and Midwest, the foot soldiers bookies, loan sharks, truck hijackers and auto thieves, some with the Mafia, some not haven't skipped a beat, says criminologist Howard Abadinsky. "You wonder if they ever will."

In interviews, dozens of law enforcers and organized crime experts agreed that eliminating the racketeers has not eliminated the rackets. Not even in New York, where most top mob leaders are in jail, on trial, or both. Some examples:

-In 1984, investigators secretly recorded Luchese family boss "Tony Ducks" Corallo acknowledging the mob's monopoly of garbage carting on Long Island. Today, Corallo is serving an unrelated 100-year prison term, but the mob still collects Long Island's garbage and still charges 50 percent over the estimated market price. -in 1965, 13 members of the Colombo family, including its entire hierarchy, were convicted in the first case to target an entire crime family. Investigators created fictional lives for two undercover agents and set up dummy households and businesses. It all took five years and cost the FBI alone $4.8 million in salaries and court costs. Today, the Colombos remain sufficiently viable to wage a major intramural war that has killed a half-dozen mobsters.

-In 1986, the "Pizza Connection" trial resulted in the conviction of 17 men who imported $1.6 billion in heroin. U.S. Attorney Rudolph Giuliani said the trial, the longest in federal history, would "break the control of the Mafia over international drug trafficking." Today, heroin is being amuggled into the country by Asians, Mexicans, West Africans and many others. The Drug Enforcement Administration is discovering record shipments, and drug treatment centers say heroin use is increasing.

In all three cases, mobsters were put away, but organized crime went on.

Even the Mafia, troubled as it is by prosecution, old age and a shortage of capable young recruits, shows no sign of disappearing. The best estimate of its national membership, 1,700, is the same as eight years ago. And it is still active in about two dozen cities, the same as 20 years ago.

"This notion that the mob is dying is a fantasy." says Fred

Martens, a former New Jersey state investigator who now directs the Pennsylvania Crime Commission.

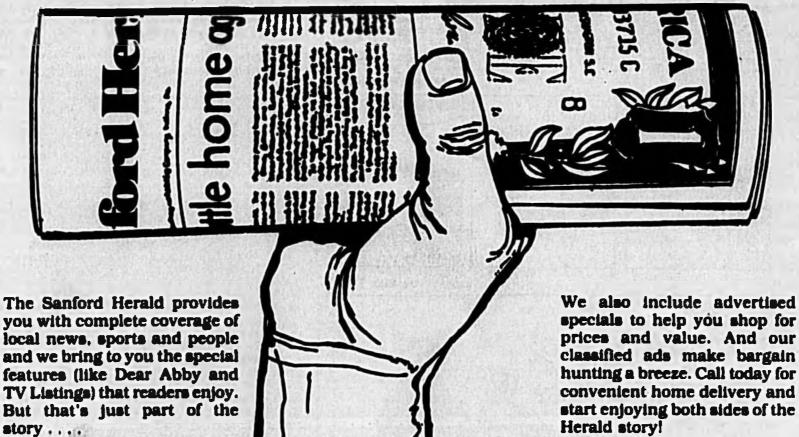

"We jump to conclusions because we look at the body count," he says, referring to mob convictions. "The body count didn't end the Vietnam War, and it won't end organized crime."

Law enforcers have been predicting the end of the Masia for almost as long as they've known about it. In 1963, after Joe Valachi became the first member to testify publicly, Attorney General Robert Kennedy said the mob had been struck "a blow from which it will never recover."

In the early 1980s, however, Reagan ordered "a sustained, long-term war" designed "to break the power of the mob." and this time there was reason for optimism.

Monitoring side effects from gout drug, Indocin advise what effect the drug Indocin prescribed for gout would have on a person with kidney disease.

DEAR READER: Indocin (indomethacin) is one of a class of medicines called non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drugs. NSAIDS - including Motrin, Feldene, Voltaren, Clinoril, Lodine and others -- have similar properties: Although not cortisone (a steroid), they exert their effects by inhibiting prostaglandins, substances (occurring nat-urally in the body) that are crucial to reactions causing inflammation, fever and pain. Thus, NSAIDS reduce these symptoms.

By and large, such drugs are safe. They are very useful in treating many conditions, including arthritis and gout.

The major side effects of NSAIDS are stomach upset, peptic ulcers (sometimes with bleeding), blurred vision, headache, listlessness and tinnitus. In addition, the kidneys may be affected in one of two ways.

Patients will occasionally develop renal toxicity to Indocin and related drugs. This causes blood and protein to appear in the urine and may progress to severe kidney damage, if the medication is not immediately discontinued. Fortunately, this complication usually appears only in patients who consume large doses of the medicine for protracted periods.

The second complication ordinarily occurs in patients with pre-existing renal disease, or in those who have underlying conditions (such as diabetes, heart failure or advanced age). For technical reasons having to do with the effect of prostaglandins on blood flow to the kidneys, Indocin has been reported to cause renal shutdown. Such severe decompensation necessitates aggressive therapy. such as dialysis, and prompt discontinuation of the drug.

In all fairness, I should emphasize that dangerous side effects from NSAIDS are rare. Most DEAR DR. GOTT: Please people can take these drugs with impunity. However, it's important to remember that all drugs, even over-the-counter compounds, are associated with SOME side effects in SOME people, and should be used with caution.

Tribe faces Gibbons in 3A semifinals

By TONY Dobom Herald Sports Editor

BASEBALL CITY - When the Seminole High School baseball team takes the Baseball City Field tonight at 8 p.m. against Fort Lauderdale-Cardinal Gibbons in the Class 3A state semifinals, they'll be treading some new yet familiar territory.

For instance, this will be Seminole's third trip to the state tournament (more than any other Seminole County school). But the last time the Tribe got this far was in 1977.

Over the last two years, Seminole has played a dozen or more games at the Baseball City Complex, but none that will mean as much as their game tonight.

And there are eight members of the Seminole team that played in the Colt World Series last summer. But as Seminole coach Mike Powers pointed out, that's not quite the same thing.

"There's no comparison between playing in the Colt World Series and playing in the state championship," said Powers as he watched Oviedo High School prepare for its Class 4A semifinal against Sarasota-Riverview Thursday night. "This has to be one of the greatest things

Probably the most important of all those previous experiences is the number of games Seminole has played at the Baseball City

"We played here in the fall championship last year," said Powers. "We always try to schedule four or five games here in the summer because the kids like playing here. But we never thought that we'd be playing here on May 8 in the state

While Seminole (28-4) brings in a roster that consists almost exclusively of underclassmen — Anthony Roberts, Demmy Beamon and Quinn Byrd are the only seniors - the fact that they beat Oviedo, a Class 4A semifinalist, twice this season was not lost on the other coaches in the tournament.

Powers shrugs at the significance of those or □See Baseball, Page 2B

Tim Raines is a Sanford native and Seminole High School graduate now playing for the Chicago White Sox. His stats are for the 1992 season in the first column, personal-best season totals in the second column and current career totals (including 1992 games) in the third column.

Raines was 0-for-2 Thursday but did steal his eighth base of the season (and the 690th of his career) and had a sacrifice bunt as the White Sox railled past the Boston Red Sox 7-6.

retired by Lee Reynolds (5-2), the third pitcher for the Lions. But Forde lined a single to left and Wright, who was O-for-5 with four strike outs before this at bat, lined a shot into rightcenter that Todd Bellhorn just missed a diving catch on and Forde motored home from first. Todd Bellhorn had saved the game earlier, when he raced into deep rightcenter to make a diving, over-the-shoulder catch with two on and two out in the 10th.

Sarasota-Riverview, now 27-6 on the season, took the first lead of the night in the third inning. when Rob Rowe and Joe Deout doubles.

But Oviedo (24-9) came back to tie the game in the top of the fourth when Mark Bellhorn reached on an error by the right fielder, moved to second on a sacrifice bunt by Tim Slavik and scored on a single by Kevin Twiggs.

The Lions had several chances to win the game, but were unable to get the clutch hit. They got three singles in the seventh, but a caught stealing slowed the threat. They had the bases loaded with one out in the 10th, a man on third with one out in the 13th and a man on second with one-out in each of the eighth, ninth and 11th innings, but each time the rally went for naught.

All told Oviedo left 13 runners on base. The loss overshadowed an outstanding pitching perfor-mance by Rick Werner. The senior right-hander went the first 10-innings, striking out 17 while walking none. He allowed only six hits and only let a Rams runner past first base twice. Werner was so overpowering that he retired the leadoff batter in each of the 10 innings, the first two batters in the first nine innings and the side in order in five of the innings.

1947 Celery Feds together again

By DORIS DIETRICH Herald Columnist

SANFORD - Classmates came from as far away as Washington state to attend the 45th reunion of the 1947 class of Seminole High School May 1 and 2. Many had not seen each other since graduation, thus the weekend was spent reminiscing over the good old days - the truly great Calling themselves the Celery Feds, classmates and guests began the weekend festivities Friday night with a gala cocktail buffet party at the luxurious home of Betty and Tony Russi. The crowd gathered around the pool area where an elegant buffet was served while many hit the deck to dance to the "golden oldies" tunes played by Nick Pfeifauf and the Starlighters.

The Saturday night dinner dance for 92 was held at Quality Inn North where the Celery Feds occupied 25 rooms for the big event. Earlier Saturday. classmates gathered by the pool and browsed through class memorabilia on display in the Garden Room. Many took a nostalgic tour of a favorite spot during their school days. Sanlando Springs, now The Springs. For 25 cents admission, patrons could romp, play and swim all day back in those days.

At the dinner dance, class President Simon Dingfelder welcomed the classmates and guests following a moment of silence for 18 deceased members. Father Larry Lossing, a classmate from Altamonte Springs, gave the invocation.

Class secretary Myra Southward Doudney introduced the following guests: Nellie and Boyd Coleman, Rebecca Stevens, class sponsor, Mona Mills Walker, reunion coordinator from the class of 1948, and Estelle Gracey Allen. videotaper.

Following the prime rib dinner, Walter Cook presented Certificates of Award to the following: Willa Faye Cherry Manning, for having the most great grandchildren (three) and for traveling the greatest distance from Belivue. Wash.: Janice Cook Revels, the most

The reunion planning committee included: Tony Russi, Clarence Grantham, Myra Doudney, Arthurene and Walter Cook, Helen Hayman Peli,

For her dedication to the event, Mona Mills Walker was proclaimed an honorary member of the class of 1947 by unanimous vote. She was presented a gift of appreciation for her work and efforts as reunion coordinator.

To the delight of the classmates, four class cheerleaders, Simon Dingfelder, Jean Wright. John Brumley, Myra Doudney and Jean Sayer Wright, led the group in singing a class song.

Music for dancing was provided by the Dixie Doctors of Central Florida, which included two classmates who were members of the popular Banana Boys dance band at Seminole High during the 40s, Dr. Neil Powell, Orlando, and Dr. Wayde Rucker, Leesburg.

The reunion planning committee included: Tony Russi,

As the classmates bid their farewells, many with tears in their eyes, it was generally agreed, "The reunion was wonderful." Already, plans are being made for the 50th reunion. And some say, "We can't wait."

Murder trial sparks a write-in campaign in support of doctor to read in the Wilmington, Del., paper that Dr. Jack Kevorkian was ordered to stand trial for first-degree murder for helping two terminally ill women commit suicide in Michigan last

Please send me names and addresses where I may write to protest this injustice and if you feel as strongly as I do in this matter, then please ask your readers to write. Why don't the states go after the drug pushers not God's angels? Thank you.
 CLAIRE M. MATHES,

NEWARK, DEL. DEAR CLAIRE: Letters of protest can be addressed to: Richard T. Thompson, Prosecutor, 1200 N. Telegraph Road, Pontiac, Mich. 48053 - or to the Legislature of the state of Michigan (or both). I'm sure they will be interested in public opinion about a subject in which so many have a passionate and personal interest.

DEAR ABBY: I was delighted to read the compassionate remarks of the New York dentist who said he always tries to work out solutions to financial problems with his patients by either reducing his fee or allowing the patient to pay whatever he can afford over a period of time.

But that's not the way it works in Floridal I am an instructor at Brevard Community College. and just before Christmas I contacted the Brevard County Dental Society, asking that they extend the Christmas spirit to one of our students - a single parent, on the dean's list - who is struggling to become a teacher. She works at home doing electronic assembly so that she can mother her three youngsters. She always amiles, but her wisdom teeth are hurting and she needs to get them out, but hasn't the money to pay "up front," as the dentists here demand. She did offer to make monthly payments.

I explained this to the person who took my call at the Dental Society. An appointment was set up. I was ecstatic!

But when she went there, the dentist noticed that she smoked, so he told her it would cost $1,600 - to be paid in advance!

When she said that she couldn't pay $1,600 in advance, she was told, "If you can afford to smoke. you can afford to pay in advance." What do you think? DEPRESSED IN MELBOURNE, FLA. DEAR DEPRESSED: I think the dentist who decreed that if she could afford to smoke, she could afford to pay her dentist bill in advance, should be hauled up before the county and state dental societies and dealt with accordingly. If there is not a penalty for such unprofessional conduct, there should be.

DEAR ABBY: On behalf of my sister-in-law, Myrtle, I submit the following limerick in retaliation for the one about the old lady named Myrtle who bought herself a new girdle:

There was a fat lady named Who sat on her cute little

DEAR ABBIf: I amiled when I read the letter about the lady who was accused of talking to My mother, may she rest in peace, used to talk to herself. Once I said, "Mom, you're talking to yourself again." She said. "Yes, I know, but I'm the only person I know who won't give me an argument."

IDA IN COGLESKILL, N.Y.

DEAR ABS'T: Your column on forgiveness moved me. It was divine providence that it was printed on my birthday! I have been in therapy for four years, and although many problems have been resolved, I did't realize until I read that column that if I was ever going to find inner peace. I would have to forgive

ENLIGHTENED IN CHICAGO

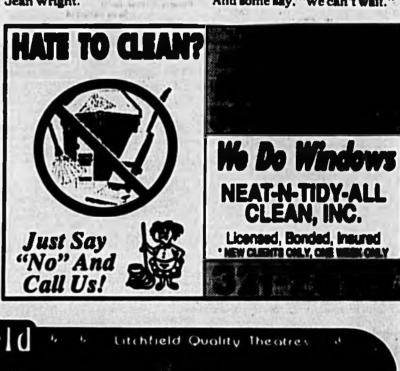

DEAR ABBY: Recently, two teenage sisters in our community were killed in a tragic car accident. Apparently neither speed nor alcohol was a factor the prime factor was unfamiltarity with the road.

It seems there had been a sign to warn motorists of the approaching dead end, but apparently someone decided it was more important to decorate his or her bedroom with that sign that to warn drivers of impending danger.

Abby, please alert parents that by allowing their children to display stolen street signs in their rooms, those parents are condoning behavior that is costing us taxpayers money - but more important, it may also cost us precious lives.

JEANNE M. MURPHY, ST. JOSEPH, MO. DEAR JEANNE: I've been writing this column since Jan. 9, 1956, and yours is the first letter I have received containing this important message. Thank you for a letter that can make the

'Miracle at Medjugorje'

SANFORD - In the small hamlet of Madjugorje, Yugoslavia, a simple rural village of about 400 families in the mountains of a communist-governed country, tourists flock by the thousands every day to learn of the "Miracle at Medjugorje."

They have come to witness the reported daily appearance of the Blessed Virgin Mary, the mother of Jesus Christ, to a group of six young people who live there. It is said that she has been appearing daily to these young people since June 1981, bringing an urgent message to the whole world to reconcile with God now and bring peace to a dangerously troubled

Joe Helow, of Jacksonville, will be at Holy Cross Episcopal Church, 401 Park Ave., on May 15 to speak of the apparition in Medjugorje. Beginning at 7 p.m., the program will include a film and two personal witnesses of the phenomenon. There is no admission and refreshments will be served.

150th Florida Conference set

Planning for the future of The United Methodist Church in Florida and concerns about budget and other financial matters will top the list of agenda items when 2,000 clergy and lay delegates meet in Lakeland for the 150th session of the Florida Annual Conference May 25-28 in the Lakeland Civic Center.

Delegates representing Seminole county congregations in-clude: the Rev. Ken Crossman, of Casselberry, pastor on Native American lands.

Methodist leaders address homosexuality, racism at General Conference in Kentucky

By GEORGE W. CORNELL AP Religion Writer

LOUISVILLE. Ky. - United Methodist leaders are weighing whether to drop the church's condemnation of homosexuality.

Hearings on the matter were to resume Thursday at the church's governing General Conference, attended by nearly 1,000 dele-

A church committee studied the issue for three years. In a report, a 17-4 majority of committee members recommended the 9 million-member church eliminate its condemnation of homosexuality as "incompatible with Christian teaching."

The minority view - that the ban be retained - also is included in the report.

A decision is not expected until late in the 11-day General Conference, now in its fourth

On Wednesday, the agenda was scrapped in favor of a three-hour session on the issues of racism raised by the riots in Los Angeles.

"It is an experience the United States has never before faced," said the Rev. James M. Lawson. "It is not only a disease in the black community but a disease in America."

Delegates voted to create "shalom zones" in selected neighborhoods, beginning in Los Angeles, as models of interracial teamwork. Volunteers will help residents renovate buildings, start businesses and expand social services.

Delegates also set a 24-hour period of repentance and fasting beginning at noon Thursday and asked all church members to fast the weekend of Pentecost. June 6-7. Savings from meals given up will go toward the urban poor.

About 400,000 United Methodists are ethnic

ages, from many denominations, races and affiliations are expected on Saturday. May 23, at 10:30 a.m. to participate in a march around Lake Eola.

The March for Jesus will include representation of more than 30 churches of various denominations and affliations throughout the county. The diverse group of participating churches represent an unprecedented expression of unity among Christians in the Central Florida area, according to Greg Freeman, march coordinator.

The marchers will be organized into groups of 200 and will all be singing the same songs at the same time thanks to a radio broadcast provided by station WAJL 1190 AM. Each group of 200 marchers carrying colorful banners will be preceded by a sound van and a march leader.

The march will culminate at St. James' sports fleid with a program of songs and prayers led by area pastors and officials.

The organizers of the event are praying that some will participate in a greater way by volunteering to serve on one of the many task forces being organized.

The schedule of events is as follows:

Florida. Further, the march celebrates the Easter season and Palm Sunday by paying tribute to Jesus, whose message is still alive in the church today.

By celebrating the public, the message of Christ will be brought out of the church buildings and to Lake Eola.

For more information on how you can participate in the march or volunteer your time and talents, contact the March for Jesus representative in your church, or phone 774-0782.
