Lake County Commission today fulfilled a promise made a few weeks ago in a meeting at Mt. Dora and forwarded a resolution to DOT "that the Bepartment of Transportation is encouraged and requested to improve State Road 46 in both Lake and Seminole County and the County Commissioners for Lake County endorse the proposed imporvements for State Road 46 in Lake and Seminole County and arge the Department of Transportation to consider these improvements."

In the interim, State Rep. E. Pope Bassett, in a telephone call from Tallahassee this morning, breathed new life into the proposed new Osteen Bridge over the St. Johns River. Bassett said he had been advised by Edward Mueller, DOT secretary, that a traffic count will be held on weekends, starting with the upcoming weekend, at the present bridge. More than a year ago, in the winter season, a one-weekend check was held and it indicated a drop of 100 cars per day from a previous count. The new count will be held on several weekends to obtain a more accurate count. (Local residents are urged to drive over the bridge on the next few weekends

The federal government is pushing for a high level bridge. similar to that on I-4 over the St. Johns River, to eliminate a drawbridge. This would necessitate access roads starting several miles north on SR 415 from the bridge, and crossing the marshlands, and starting from SR 46 immediately east

DOT, however, claims the high level bridge would cost more money than is presently available and it will push for a low level draw span. Mueller also informed Bassett that the DOT is increasing the Osteen Bridge allocation in the 1979-71 budget to $120,000 less money already spent, for a preliminary engineering study. design, plus a new, up-to-date study for a high or low level

DOT will set aside $30,000 in the 1973-74 budget for the purchase of right-of-way and will earmark sufficient funds in 1974-75 for actual construction of the bridge.

However, Bassett quoted Mueller, if sufficient demand develops the building project could be moved up to 1973-74. If further demand develops, and depending on studies, the bridge construction could be accomplished in 1972-73.

On the national level there will be the drive of the GOP to get more seats in the Senate and the House of Representatives. There are evidences across the nation that the Republican tide which had been gathering force since President Nixon moved into the White House and Vice President Spiro Agnew moved out with a club in hand to silence critics, has

The concern of every American, however, must be raised high above partisan motivation to that standard in which the good of all -- private citizen, wage-earner, employer, lender and borrower, investor and industrialist - is the goal.

Our economic health is threatened. Remedies must be applied at every level unless more grievous times arrive. In this President Nixon, alone, holds the solution in his decisions and his actions!

Clearer Goals

As a new merchant shipbuilding program comes nearer to reality, the goals it seeks to achieve become clearer and more impressive. Instead of a temporary shot in the arm for an ailing U.S. Merchant Marine, this program holds promise of charting a new course toward U.S.

In the words of A. E. Gibson, Maritime Administrator, "It extends to American shipbuild ers and ship operators the challenge to conceive, build and use a modern, highly productive fleet of ships at the lowest possible cost. At the same time, it will extend to these industries the opportunity to meet these challenges."

The new program brings modern mass-pro-"duction and management techniques to the nation's shipyards and, in substance, is supported by U.S. steamship lines which have fought an uphill battle for a revitalized merchant marine. "However", Mr. Gibson adds, "the improvements in shipbuilding, the new, modern and Nixon program, will all be futile if American to carry their cargoes.

"Building and operating new ships are not the sole goals of the Nixon Administration's maritime program. Rather, this program is designed to help American goods compete more effectively in the world marketplace by making their transportation faster and cheaper. While -every pegment of the maritime industry has an important role to play in insuring the success of President Nixon's program, the most critical -factor, I feel, will be the reaction of American exporters and importers to the new American merchant floet - and their use of it for carriage of the cargoes they control."

The Maritime Administrator expressed his confidence that American shippers will recognize that their own self-interest and that of the country will best be served by the fullest possible support of a strong U.S. Merchant Marine. This is the best way for the U.S. to have a lasting place in the world of international trade
