Ecology Hearing Slated For Bridge

By FRED VAN PELT

Ecological study of the Osteen bridge project has been completed by Winn Lindeman, of DeLand, district environmental specialist for the Florida Department of Transportation, it was reported today by Douglas Stenstrom, chairman of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce long range planning committee for roads and bridges.

The study is being prepared in proper form by the graphics department of the DOT district engineer's office at DeLand, Stenstrom said, and will be forwarded by the end of this month to Tallahassee.

Stenstrom added a public hearing on the environmental study will be held, probably in December at the Seminole County courthouse.

"Much remains to be done to get the Osteen bridge project in shape for a contract letting, before the end of this budget year, June 30, 1972," Stenstrom stated.

A two-lane span, similar to that on Interstate 4 over the St. Johns River, is planned to replace the old bridge on SR 415 over the St. Johns River east of Sanford. South approach to the new bridge will extend from SR 46.

Stenstrom also quotes the DOT district engineer, C. A. (Bill) Benedict, it is expected the low bid of $50,000 will be accepted shortly for the improvements to SR 46 between Interstate 4 and the Wekiva River. The bid was offered by J. W. Conner and Sons, Tampa. Benedict was quoted construction could start within 30 days.

Longwood Losing Mayor, 2 Others

By DONNA ESTES

LONGWOOD — The first distasteful councilman to be elected to the City Council in the municipality's history — Mrs. Sandra Thompson — has announced she will not seek re-election.

Elected by a substantial margin in 1969, Mrs. Thompson in a statement to The Herald Wednesday evening said her reasons for the decision are many, but one "is that I just no longer have the time." She added that a councilman has to be dedicated and cannot be effective if time is spent elsewhere.

Mrs. Thompson said by making the announcement early "possibly others can plan on seeking election."

Three seats are up for election on the City Council this year and a special election is expected to be scheduled in November for the office of mayor.

Mayor Robert Kallunki, the youngest chief executive in Seminole County, is expected to resign within the next few weeks to accept a position in the Carolinas.

Councilman B. L. Helms, whose post on the Council is also up for election this year, said earlier this week he will not seek return to the seat.

Hurricane Edith Whips Louisiana; Main Force Is Aimed At Cameron

CAMERON, La. (AP) — Hurricane Edith's advance winds whipped this virtually deserted coastal town today as the storm aimed its fury at the lowlands of Louisiana's western coast. Nearly all residents of the area had fled. But a small crew of Civil Defense workers stayed on to ride out the storm in a boarded up City Hall.

The main force of Edith was aimed at Cameron, some 25 miles east of the Texas line, and it was carrying sustained winds of 100 miles an hour with highest gusts near the center.

At 8 a.m. the National Hurricane Center located the storm's eye east 23.5 west longitude and 93.5 north longitude — about 25 miles southwest of Cameron moving northeast at 15 to 18 miles an hour.

It was coming ashore at high tide, with water levels approaching 18 to 22 feet higher than normal. A few tornadoes were expected along the coast.

Heavy rain was falling in Cameron, where winds early in the day were hitting 80 miles an hour.

Roland Tronclair, Civil Defense Director for Cameron who was among the officials remaining, said, "Rain is blowing heavy into us, but it is nothing alarming yet."

Contacted by shortwave radio, reported, "We got some water in the street, maybe ankle deep. Most of that is from the rain, however, not tides."

He reported power was out in the area and telephone communications no longer working in Cameron Parish (county), which has about 5,000 residents.

Thousands from the coastal area between Cameron and Morgan City, La., were virtually deserted. So was much of the coastal area to the east and west.

In 1957 Hurricane Audrey killed 309 people at Cameron with a surge of water from the Gulf of Mexico 13 feet high. In this area, barely above sea level, the flooding tides raged inland for miles.

During the night a steady stream of cars loaded with people and trucks loaded with cattle moved along the levee highway which leads north out of Cameron Parish.

The evodus also included thousands from the coastal area between Cameron and Morgan City, La., were virtually deserted. So was much of the coastal area to the east and west.

Hi-Speed Trains Seen For Disney

A State Department of Transportation study released today recommended establishment of service between Tampa International Airport and Orlando, via Walt Disney World.

The three-volume study by Strategy Research Corporation, of Miami, said, "The market potential is sufficient to warrant the initiation" of high speed rail service in the Tampa-Orlando corridor.

The study findings were announced by Secretary of Transportation Edward A. Mueller, during a Transportation Forum sponsored by the Greater Sanford Chambers of Commerce at the Civic Center.

Attending the forum were officials from Tallahassee and DeLand (DOT district headquarters) and from counties and cities along the Daytona Beach-St. Petersburg corridor of Interstate 4. (Related photographs on page 3A.)

The report emphasized that the key to successful train service depends on three main innovations, all of which were incorporated in its proposed "Optimum rail system":

- Use of the sleek, 160-mile-an-hour TurboTrain utilizing special features as business in each car and cocktail service.
- Extending new track directly to Tampa International Airport, Orlando's McCoy Airport and Walt Disney World to avoid the necessity of rail passengers going to and from Disney to transfer to buses.
- This would involve some 41 miles of new track.
- Improve existing Seaboard Coast Line Railroad track, grade crossings and signaling devices to permit travel of more than 100 miles per hour or more.

Anything less than these improvements, the report said, would probably prevent a major expansion of rail service in the corridor from being economically justifiable.

Court Denies Reduction In Clark Bond

By MARION RETHEA

In a motion for a preliminary hearing held yesterday before Circuit Judge Dominick Salfi in the multitudinous cases of Zane Clark, the court found probable cause to hold trial on all charges.

Clark is charged in six separate informations with sale of a narcotic drug; a two-count information on sale and possession of a central nervous stimulant; sale of a narcotic drug in two informations; assault with intent to commit a felony; and sale and possession of a narcotic drug. Clark is scheduled for trial on Nov. 1 on the first four cases, and for Nov. 8 on the latter two.

At Clark's arraignment on Aug. 31, his attorney requested to be heard for bond reduction and the court instructed the attorney then to set up a hearing.

A hearing on the bond reduction was held Tuesday, and was denied by the court. The court, in the ruling denying the motion, found the defendant had a propensity for leaving the jurisdiction of the court and further that the defendant has failed to show good cause why the bond should be reduced. The court also noted that the defendant

Slaying Suspect Arrested

COLUMBIA, Miss. (AP) — A 30-year-old New York state man, wanted in connection for slayings in Florida and Georgia, was held here today pending extradition proceedings against him by state officials.

David Mack Hicks of Elmira, N.Y., was arrested at a farm near Sanford by state and local officials, and transferred to the Marion County jail here Wednesday.

Hicks is wanted in connection with the execution-style slaying of an Orlando Fla., man, the Mississippi Highway Patrol said. He was indicted by an Orlando grand jury for the alleged slaying of Clayton Eugene Walker, 22, last Aug. 17.

An Orlando gun dealer was also indicted in connection with the killing.

Hicks, described by state officers as "one of the most dangerous men in the southeastern United States," was also sought on a federal charge of interstate flight to avoid prosecution.

He was also known under the alias of Paul Burgess, the patrol said. Hicks had been living on the Mississippi farm since mid-August, officers said.

Riot In Orlando Underscores A Basic Need

Cool thinking about the law enforcement facilities which exist in the Central Florida counties awaiting the mixed blessing of the opening of the Walt Disney World has been spotlighted as a MUST. The searchlight which made this only too clear was the rioting which took place in our neighboring city Orlando's Sports Stadium last Friday night.

In itself and in the context of other rioting which has taken place elsewhere, this was not a major happening.

But when the still obscure facts which will disclose the details are clarified by sworn testimony and verified eye-witness accounts, the import of the tragedy which enveloped the stadium, the audience, the intruders and the various law enforcement agencies will remain as a lesson to be pondered by every conscientious citizen.

Inflammatory words, purple phrases and the distorted conclusions of those who were so personally and tragically involved as to have unavoidably warped recollections need to be seen as just what they are, and no more.

Ingredients for a disturbance were, to be sure, present. There was the occasion itself, a rock concert. There was the location of the stadium which was outside the limits of the City of Orlando and thus a sort of "no-man's land."

History of such affairs is, to say the least, emotionally explosive. Thus the preparations which were made by the management of the stadium, which took into consideration these elements, are hard to fault.

Out of the welter of reports which started flooding the air-waves when the disturbance started, continued as the law enforcement agencies entered the picture with results which can only be termed as over-reacting and took front page treatment from the local Orlando newspaper there emerges a startling story.

For this was a test, if nothing more, of the ability and preparation of those law enforcement agencies, charged with the protection of life and property, to react with speed, with skill and effectively when a riot or other disaster occurs.

There is no question but that the area of which

Orlando-Sanford are on the fringe is about to be confronted with challenges by the flood of tourists and those who would prey on them far beyond anything with which they have been confronted.

There is also little question but that some arrangement must be brought about which will mobilize all law enforcement agencies into a task force which can be called into action and take action with intimate inter-communication as a basic operational practice.

If this sounds like another of the logical arguments that point to some sort of consolidated government for these threatened counties, add it to the list.

If it sounds as way-out and visionary, as some have tagged it, then think back a few five years and see if what has actually taken place in these counties would not have been given the same label in 1966.

What now is crying for attention is not the construction of new and improved highways which do not allow action until funds are provided.

But it is even more controversial. It is nothing more nor less than the ability of an area, caught in a growth current of swirling speed, to subordinate the little troubles of little times to the common good of a great time of great deeds.

The Sports Stadium tragedy is, of course, a tragedy to all who were involved and most of all to the families of the two young girls whose car was demolished and they were killed as a law enforcement vehicle answered a call for help and was involved in the fatal crash.

Our sympathy goes out to them and to all who were hurt in the "riot." Yet there can be and should be salvaged from the event more than the headlines and the result of scapegoats.

We believe that the creation of a web of coordinated law enforcement agencies which would include the state, county and municipal forces, is a move which could stem from the event and, in a very important manner, lessen the impact of the tragedy of the present by pointing the way to better results when the next such challenge erupts.

Security Decision

The new U.S. economic policies which are causing consternation in some quarters in Europe should serve to impress on our western European allies the urgent need for them to shoulder more of the burden of their own defense.

About $1.75 billion of the U.S. balance of payments deficit arises from our expenditures in maintaining nearly 300,000 U.S. troops in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

West Germany has offered to increase its payments to the United States of America under its "offset" agreement for NATO support, but its offer falls far short of what the United States has asked.

Clearly, there is no meeting of the minds in western Europe on a formula for distributing the NATO load more equitably.

This imbalance, troublesome under any circumstances, could well turn out to be disastrous in the near future. The Soviet Union, strong in every department of the military art and growing rapidly stronger, is showing some interest in an East-West meeting on the mutual reduction of military forces on both sides of the Iron Curtain.

Nevertheless, with determination rising in the United States to reduce our manpower commitment to NATO and its drain on our dollars, the danger arises that our NATO allies will see a force reduction as an attractive alternative to investing more of their own resources in their common defense.

Without diminishing the significance of the western European nations themselves have made, it is undeniable that the United States has served them as a generous, protective big brother during their period of postwar economic recovery. The recovery period is clearly over.

Western Europe must now face the same fact that the United States has faced for a generation — that security is a dangerous world that can only be bought with sacrifice. It would be a woeful course for our European allies to accept the weakening of NATO as a means of escaping that sacrifice.

"Pretty Please!"

Combat Forces Dwindling

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — There are evidently no more than four clusters of U. S. combat troops left in South Vietnam. Probably they do not total more than 40,000 of the 215,000 military men we still have there. Over long stretches, there are no American combat forces at all.

Up north in Military Region 1, running down from the so-called demilitarized zone, the heaviest U. S. combat troop concentration stands in continuing threat to any major North Vietnamese activity.

Present there are the U. S. 101st Airborne and the Americal (22nd) Divisions. Nowhere else in South Vietnam do we seem to have combat forces in divisional strength.

Northeast of Saigon, the 11th Armored Squadron of the U. S. First Cavalry forms part of the capital's protective screen. That division's First Brigade is stationed northwest of Saigon for similar purposes.

The "combat" troops engage in these days in from defensive positions. They are not conducting offensive missions, but are playing what amounts to a mobile garrison role. We are, in fact, applying the city-and-base enclave tactic which some war critics used to recommend.

Since these forces roam out to intercept enemy marauders when they can, their "combat" capability is deemed essential. The military likes to stress that phrase, inasmuch as the units do not consistently seek combat.

The question for right now: How many of the remaining ground combat troops will be leaving Vietnam by Dec. 1, when the pullout schedule calls for our total forces there to be down to 184,000?

The military will supply no definitive answer. But it is a good wager that some of the 40,000 or more men with "combat capability" will be gone by that deadline. The number of combat pullouts could be sizable, particularly if, as appears likely, the withdrawal pace allows the President to beat his December goal and reduce our

Point Of View

A Lotta Money And Little Work

HOLLYWOOD — The Once-Over: For candor among actors, you have to award top marks to William Conrad, who stars in "Cannon," the new CBS series, as a fat private investigator who hates kids. Why is he doing the job? "At this time in my life," says Conrad, "I'd like to make as much money as possible with as little work as possible, and I found the job."

Eck Haddon, one of the many movie stars going into TV this season, has his own reasons for the move. Says he: "There just were too few good roles for me."

Sheldon Leonard, who has produced his share of TV series winners, has a theory about characteristics on the tube. "After about 15 shows into a series," says Leonard, "the actor's real personality starts to come through. If the people like that personality, the series is a hit."

It's Bill Dana's story and he's been telling it on the talk shows: "The scene is a Roman galley slave ship. The slaves are exhausted after a long voyage. The officer in charge speaks to them, saying, 'Men, I have some good news and some bad news. First the good news—you can all have a full ration of food tonight. Now the bad news—the captain wants to water ski!'"

Hal Boyle Says:

Here We Go, Jumping Again!

NEW YORK (KAP) — Jumping to conclusions: You can tell a man's character by his taste in flowers. For example, if his favorite flower is the rose, he probably is staid, conventional, prosaic and hides his money in a mattress or a hole in the back yard. On the other hand, if his favorite flower is the dandelion, he probably is adventurous, romantic, imaginative, chivalrous and hasn't saved any money at all.

It's all in how you say a thing. Few men like to be praised for their prejudices, but all like to be admired for the strength of their convictions.

Science, which has plumbbed combat pullouts could be sizable, particularly if, as appears likely, the withdrawal pace allows the President to beat his December goal and reduce our

Resources For All The World

By DON OAKLEY
NEA Editorialist

The trouble is not just that the most honest intentions in the world can sometimes be led off onto false tangents by one-sided interpretations of perfectly neutral statistics.

An example suggests itself in the figures we often hear about how the United States, with only 6 per cent of the world's population, is consuming between 35 and 40 per cent of the world's resources and producing 50 per cent of its pollution.

America alone, we are told, consumes 37 per cent of the world's energy, 25 per cent of its steel, 28 per cent of its tin and 33 per cent of its synthetic rubber production.

These and similar statistics are offered as proof that Americans, and a few other fortunate countries, are using more than their "rightful" share of the world's resources and that by so doing are foreclosing the future for millions now living and as yet unborn in the undeveloped half of the world.

In the words of biologist and prominent doomsayer Paul Ehrlich, "Expansive and short-resources are not material; they are socially defined," says Frank Notstein, president emeritus of the Population Council and a member of the board of directors of Planned Parenthood - World Population.

Coal did not become a resource until a few centuries ago, he notes. It is barely 100 years since petroleum had any but medical and magical uses. Nuclear energy is only beginning to become a resource, and it has almost unlimited prospects.

"We talk of diminishing returns with our non-renewable resources, but as far as I know almost materials usually put in that category have declined in relative worth . . . The fact is that basically we have only one non-renewable resource, and that is space. Otherwise, mankind's basic resources are knowledge and skill."

Thanks to the high consumption of the developed world, he says, we have generated the knowledge and techniques that have greatly expanded both the supplies and the reserves of raw materials in the world. There has often been outrageous waste, but on balance, our heavy use is expanding the world's resources, not diminishing them.

The Hoosier 100 mile race from the Indianapolis State Fair grounds in Indianapolis, Ind., took place this last weekend. This mile-long course is a clay or dirt track and this race is possibly the richest dirt track race in the country each year. These cars rocket into the corners at over 100 miles an hour and broadcast, and I do mean broadcast, through each corner.

1970 NFC Champions Expected To Repeat

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — With Washington's dreams of glory as bright as Sonny Jurgensen's arm, Los Angeles' roster a patchwork quilt and Detroit's waning strength, 1971 appears likely to prove an instant replay of the 1970 National Football Conference.

Trevino Scratched From Walker Team

By PAUL LEBAR
Associated Press Sports Writer
ST. LOUIS (AP) — Lee Trevino was on the sidelines for the morning rounds, but American non-playing captain Jay Hebert returned to the tournament on Tuesday.

The race began with Jackie Stewart grabbing the lead but Peter Revson charged after Jackie and passed him early in the race as Stewart was slowed by mechanical problems.

Hanno Sitt of Keokuk, Iowa, won the ARCA Daytona 200 stock car race at New Bremen, Ohio, Sunday.

Frank Gardner drove a new Lola T-200 in the Formula 2000 race at Hockenheim, Germany.

Al Unser had a pretty good weekend this past week. In addition to winning the aforementioned dirt track race he won the Governor's Cup 200-mile late model stock car race.

teams ready for the 1971 campaign. The Sanford Half-Pint, playing under the sponsorship of the Sanford Optimists Club, open their season this Saturday.

Each division has a set of rules and regulations which they must adhere to if they are to continue their program.

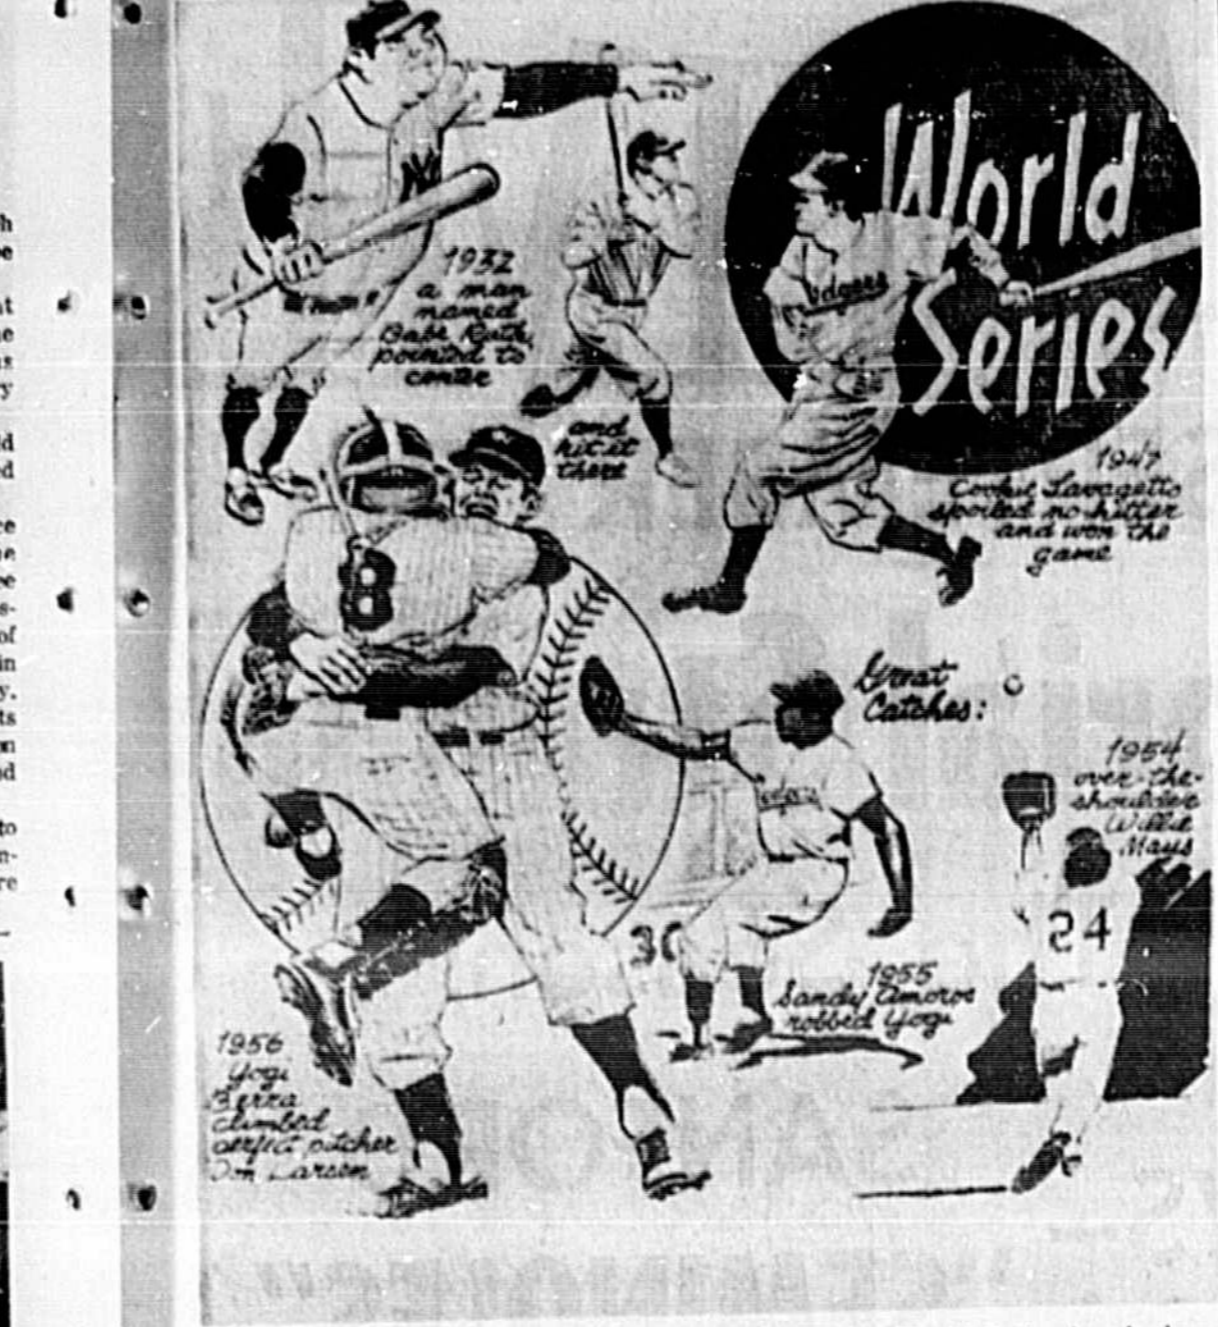

Regular high school football rules will govern all games with the exception that the quarters will be eight minutes with ten minutes between halves.

It is requested strongly that each coach use all boys on the squad as much and as often as possible in each and every game.

Official weigh-in will be held each week at a designated place. Half-pint teams may practice every day until their first game.

MIAMI (AP) — Don Shula doesn't talk about it, but the Miami Dolphins' head coach is Miami's offense was potent, if not overpowering, during a surprising 10-4 season in 1970.

Shula and Colt owner Carroll Rosenbloom are both in the same locker room since the millionaire shirtmaker uttered unkind remarks when Don defected from Baltimore 20 months ago.

Shula produced a vastly-improved offensive line last year in his first season as an assistant coach and his bunch is even more solid now, but lacks depth.

Shula foresees additional pass rush help for explosive Miami Fernandez, mostly coming from gigantic defensive ends Bill Stantitt and Jim Riley.

There won't be any playoff or World Series money for San Diego's Dave Roberts but the Padres coach left handed him as a big man in the National League West pennant race.

While the West race remained unchanged, Pittsburgh took a big step toward the East flag by beating St. Louis 4-1 Monday and opening up an 8 1/2 game lead over the second place Cardinals.

"Nice little bit there, bud," Charles O. Finley smiled, patting Sal Bando on the back. The hit was anything but little, though. It was big in distance—a two-run homer in the eighth inning and big in team victory over the Chicago White Sox Wednesday to give the A's the American League West championship.

Stahl homered in the sixth after the Dodgers had tied it in the second on Sutton's RBI in field angle. Pete Rose's run-scoring triple and Lee Maye's RBI single in the fifth snapped a 1-1 tie and sent the Giants to their third straight loss and 10th in 11 games.

New Action For Freeing U. S. POWs

By KENNETH J. FREED
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon may decide to modify his opposition to the Viet Cong peace talks, a move that would allow for a 1971 American withdrawal deadline, administration sources say, in order to obtain release of U.S. prisoners of war.

They indicated the Paris peace talks are at a full stop on the prisoner issue with each side "waiting for a break" from the other. "My guess is that this break will be that between now and 'day X' Richard Nixon will modify or change his position on the Viet Cong's first point," one government official said.

He was referring to the seven-point Viet Cong peace plan proposed July 1 at the Paris talks. The first point said all U.S. prisoners held in Vietnam would be released "if the U.S. government sets a terminal date for the withdrawal from South Vietnam in 1971."

Nixon has said repeatedly final withdrawal will depend on release of the POWs as well as the ability of the Saigon government to defend itself.

The United States has not rejected the Viet Cong proposal outright, but has demanded clarification, through secret or restricted discussions, of what is involved. The other side has insisted on continuing open talks, a stand U.S. negotiators deplore as a publicity stunt.

The best estimate, according to U.S. officials, is that Nixon may announce in November a substantial increase in the current withdrawal rate, perhaps amounting to virtually a total cutback in troops by spring or even earlier.

"The question then will depend on how or if it is put in such a way" as to bring about a positive response from the Viet Cong and Hanoi, an administration official said.

President Nixon is expected to make the next announcement concerning troop withdrawals about Nov. 15. At present about 215,000 U.S. troops are in Vietnam with the figure set to drop to 184,000 by Dec. 1 under a schedule the President announced last April. At the current withdrawal rate of 15,000 men a month a zero figure would be reached in early 1973.

Nixon Is Supporting Draft Extension Bill

By JOHN CHADWICK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon was reported today to lend his personal support to a bill in the crucial hours before a Senate vote on tabling the draft extension bill, a move he is said to believe would signal a weakness in national defense preparedness.

At a news briefing Wednesday, a White House aide said Nixon, worried over the bill's fate, was considering personally telephoning some senators before the vote on the tabling motion by Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo.

Allott is leading the fight to have $300 million added to the $2.4 billion military pay increase provided in the bill.

Sen. John Stennis, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, admits the bill's chances are dim if the tabling motion carries.

"Let's see if we can't give a little and take a little... and pass a bill that almost everyone thinks is necessary this year," the Mississippi Democrat said the Senate in a last-ditch appeal for support.

Formed out of bills passed earlier by both chambers, the compromise version was passed by the House after a conference committee watered down an amendment by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield calling for withdrawal of all forces from Vietnam within nine months after enactment.

The compromise, urging Nixon to set a date but not requiring one in advance, is threatened by a filibuster on antiwar senators.

The White House gave newsmen copies of a document prepared by its congressional relations staff in cooperation with the National Security Council that said in part: "If the draft bill dies, American military strength will decline dramatically."

"Let's see if we can't give a little and take a little... and pass a bill that almost everyone thinks is necessary this year," the Mississippi Democrat said the Senate in a last-ditch appeal for support.

Nixon Supports Rockefeller Congress Probes Attica Prison Riot

By BROOKS JACKSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has begun probing the bloody suppression of the Attica prison riot amid calls both for reform and criminal investigations. The White House has reiterated President Nixon's support of methods used to quell the rebellion.

Chairman Claude Pepper, D-Fla., of the House Select Committee on Crime, announced Wednesday he and three other committee members will talk with New York state officials and prison inmates to find how to prevent a recurrence of the Attica riot. Hearings will follow, he said.

The 13 black members of the House called on Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell to appoint a special federal grand jury to investigate the "questionable circumstances" surrounding the decision of officials to storm the prison. White House spokesman Ronald Ziegler said the President has not withdrawn his support for New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's handling of the affair, despite subsequent findings that slain hostages were shot to death instead of knifed as previously reported. Rioters were reported not to have had guns.

"The governor had the responsibility to deal with a very difficult situation," Ziegler said.

Pepper, whose committee is empowered to investigate prisons and draw up proposed legislation, announced it already has questioned California Gov. Ronald Reagan on the deaths of three convicts and three guards at San Quentin prison Aug. 22.

The black caucus said available evidence seems to indicate the loss of 42 lives in the Attica riot could have been avoided.

"This incident alone points out the extremely low value life in order to preserve it rather meaningless and shallow law-and-order ethic," the black congressmen said.

The black caucus said outside observers should be allowed inside the prison to investigate reports that many "inmates have been the target of violent reprisals at the hands of prison officials" since the rebellion was put down.

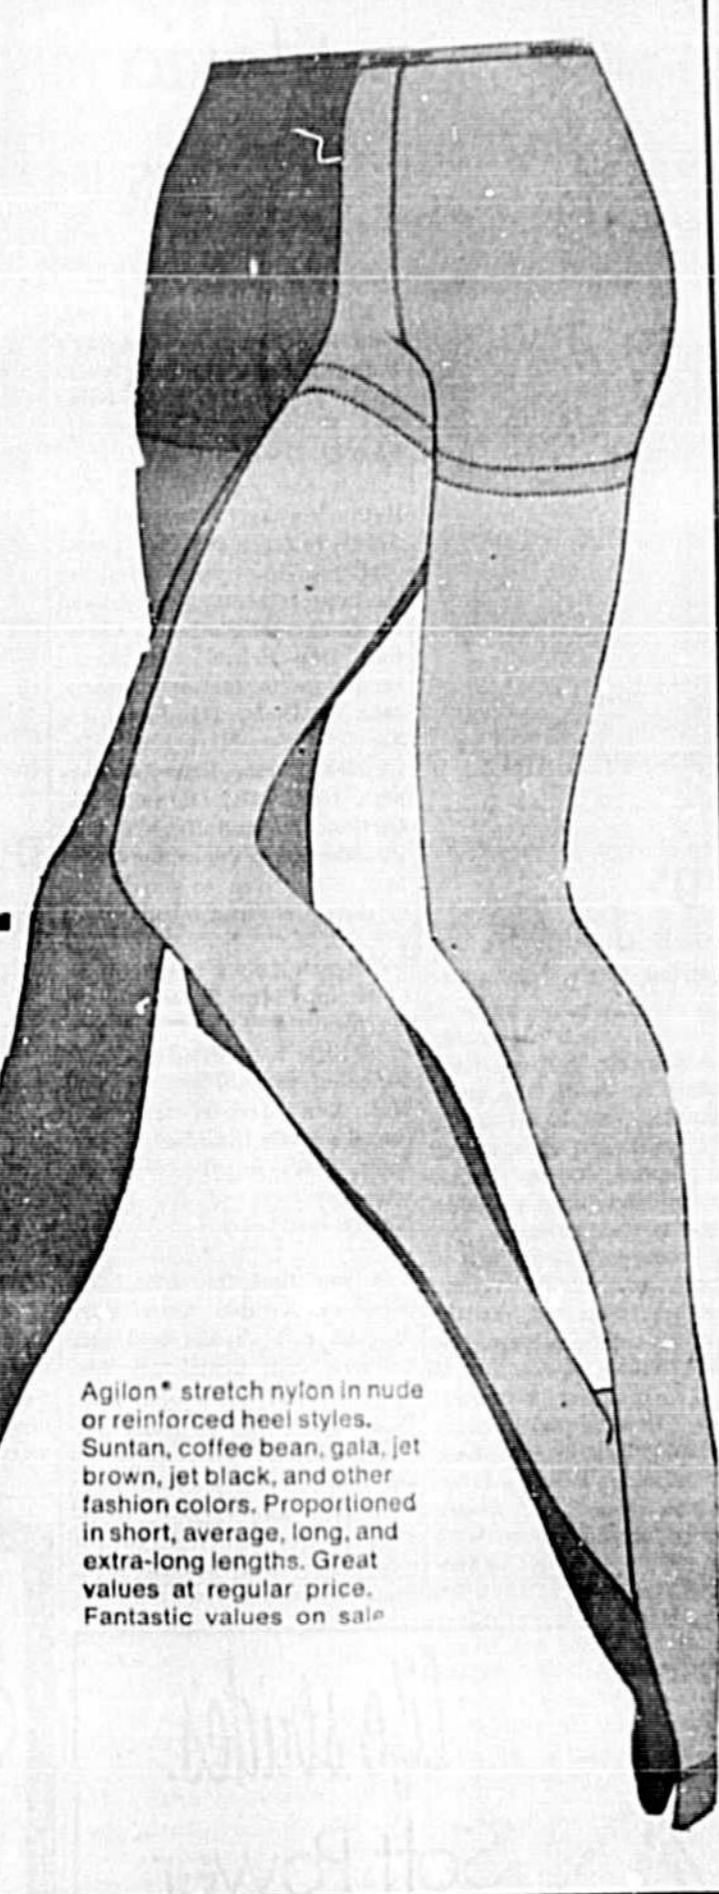

Both Pepper and the black caucus made calls for reform of prison conditions.

Rep. Robert W. Kastenmeier, D-Wis., head of a House Judiciary subcommittee that last spring held hearings on correctional institutions, said he will try to get subcommittee members to tour jails and prisons within 30 days.

Mary Elizabeth Best, M. J. Hartz Married In St. Charles Cathedral

Miss Mary Elizabeth Best, daughter of Capt. Thomas Alderman Best, Sr. (AF retired) and Mrs. M. J. Hartz, was married to Michael Joseph Hartz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Hartz, Sr., Sept. 16 at 10 a.m. at St. Charles Cathedral, Orlando.

Officiating clergyman was Father O'Daugherty at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. A. Farrington, organist, presented appropriate nuptial selections.

Church decorations included two standing basket arrangements of large pink mums, white gladioli and small white mums.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a short length dress of white crepe featuring accented neck, sleeves and puffed sleeves. Lace and velvet ribbon complemented the empire waistline.

Her veil of silk illusion was attached to a white satin cap and she carried a bouquet of white carnations accented with lilies-of-the-valley.

Mrs. Janice Workman, matron of honor, wore a pale pink dress with white lace trim at the empire waistline; scooped neck and puffed sleeves. She carried a bouquet of deep pink carnations.

Bridesmaid, Mrs. John O'fenburger, sister of the bride, wore a dress similar to that of the honor attendant, with headpiece of pink velvet, bow and streamers. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations a shade paler than those of the matron of honor.

Best man was Frederick Ramsey Hartz, serving as usher was brother-in-law of the bride, John O'fenburger.

The bride's mother chose a turquoise hooded knit dress, with white accessories and a white carnation corsage. The groom's mother wore a pale pink crepe dress with sequin trim and a corsage of white carnations.

Grandmother, Mrs. B. H. Williams was a yellow and white two piece ensemble. The reception site was at the home of the bride's parents, in Lake Mary. Floral arrangements included banks of pink mums and white gladioli. The bride's table was overlaid with lace. Floating hostesses were Barbara and Sybil Best. Rice bags tied with pink and white ribbon were given to the guests to show the departing couple.

For traveling Mrs. Hartz wore a plum and white print polyester A-line dress, white accessories and the white corsage from her wedding bouquet. The couple left for a wedding trip to Washington, D.C. and Baltimore, Md. Their new residence will be at Havre de Grace, Md. The groom is serving in the U.S. Navy on the Nuclear powered submarine U.S.S. Daniel Boone and receiving special training at Bainbridge Naval Training Center in Maryland.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hartz, Memphis, Tenn.; Mr. and Mrs. Dan Hicks and Dan Hicks, Jr., Great Falls, Mont.; Miss Ginger Hicks, Dickson, Tenn. and Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Williams, Jr., Rome, Ga.

League Plans Future Meetings

Members of the League of Women Voters of Seminole County got an early start in their program work this year with a Poster Party last week. The group prepared visual aids to be used in the Sept. 21-22 unit meetings to inform members about the Corporate Profit Tax Referendum. Mrs. William Long, state item chairman, and Mrs. William Adams, legislative action chairman, have been gathering information during the summer for the meeting and for a campaign to inform voters about the Nov. 2 referendum. Speakers are available to organizations from the League's Speaker Bureau. The League, whose purpose is to promote the informed and active participation of citizens in government, has been active throughout the summer in its study and action programs. The Human Resources committee met at the Community Action office in Sanford to familiarize themselves with their program and plans. With the renewed funding of the Headstart centers, this committee has worked to get needed playground equipment for the centers. A campaign to acquaint our citizens about the need for welfare reform will begin in September by this committee headed by Mrs. Eli Rubin will be the scene of a membership coffee (Thursday) Sept. 17. It is to acquaint interested women in the functions of the League. Mrs. John Melick, membership chairman, has arranged for those interested to meet at 9:45 a.m. that morning at the Altamonte Community Chapel for transportation to the Club home. Miss Wanda Lou Smith, J. L. Smith Exchange Vows In Double Ring Rites

Miss Wanda Lou Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Smith, Lake Mary and John Leon Smith, son of Dr. and Mrs. Robert J. Smith, 119 New Upsala Rd., Sanford, were united in Holy Matrimony Sept. 18, 1971 at 4 p.m. in Community United Methodist Church, Casselberry.

Rev. William A. Pickett was officiating clergyman at the candlelight, double ring ceremony. Organist, Mrs. Domlene White, presented a program of nuptial selections.

Church decorations included two large candidia and bridesmaids and matrons were flanked by single lighted tapers. Also placed on either side of the altar and extending toward the sanctuary entrance were two large candidia and bridesmaids and matrons were flanked by single lighted tapers.

High-Style Furnishings Go Public

Some of the finest contemporary furniture designs produced by an American designer are expected to be made available to the general public at popular prices.

The designs are those of John Mascheroni who works primarily with tubular chrome and aluminum, as well as with acrylic.

Up to now, his designs have been in limited production and range in price from $25 for an acrylic stacking table to $3,500 for a pedestal base occasional table. Two of his designs are in New York's Museum of Modern Art.

Homemakers Hear Program On Fabrics

Motel Will Be Built Near I-4 And SR 46

By RAY KNIGHT

At Altamonte Council Meeting

City's Total Budget Of $5 Million Is Approved For '72

By MARION BETHEA
ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — City Council has adopted on second and final reading the budget ordinance for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1, and ending Sept. 30, 1972. The general budget is set at $4,428,424; the utility budget is $1,560,000, for a total budget of $4,988,424.

In other business council authorized City Attorney S. J. Davis, Jr., to prepare a swimming pool ordinance for the municipality. This request was made by Supt. of Public Works Donald Bundy who indicated that the request emanated from desired provisions for safety, such as fencing, etc.

Also authorized by council is new bids upon hose and equipment for the fire truck, with alternate individual bids for the hose and equipment separately. All bids which were submitted last week were rejected due to a misconception concerning the hose. Architect Robert Webb submitted a bill for professional services in the design of the new fire truck. Total bill is $4,900, but of this $1,000 has been paid as a retainer. Mayor Lawrence Swafford advised that the council "hold" the bill.

Council was advised by consulting engineer William Palm that the final inspection on the city's new sewer system will be held Sept. 15.

Upon a motion by Councilman Daniel Dorfman, council voted to review the level of the occupational license fees in the city for consideration of making adjustments based upon a reasonable fee.

Councilman Thomas Radloff has been pressing the issue for the past three weeks contending that the fees are excessive and should be rolled back to the 1970 level.

Davis, in a related issue, said that a recent Florida Supreme Court decision stated that there is no provision for the city to collect an occupational tax upon exterminators or pest control companies; that they only pay a tax in the city in which they are based. Davis said that various companies in the exterminating business operating in Altamonte had put the city on notice that they were not going to pay a $25 fee.

Councilman Helen Keyser suggested that the council study a copy of the 1970 fees in comparison with the present. Councilman Keith Nixon injected that 90 per cent of the old fees were $10 and that this "is a gripe I've had for years."

Some question arose that if the fees were rolled back to the 1970 level, if the fee for fortune tellers should remain the same, and council was of the opinion that discrimination agreed, telling an anecdote that an attorney had once referred to the fortune tellers as the poor "man's psychiatrist."

$1.2 Million Lakefront Apartment

By BILL SCOTT
Sanford City Commission has voted to seek two three-way appraisals of the lakefront acreage mentioned as a site for the relocation of the Sanford Municipal Zoo but now being considered as a site for an apartment complex by a group of private investors.

On a motion by Commissioner Gordon Meyer, Mayor Lee P. Moore and Commissioner Julian Stenstrom voted to seek appraisals on seven acres of the 14-acre tract, the entire 14 acres and the second seven acres in separate findings.

This information is needed to place a value on the property for possible sale.

The private investors indicated to Mayor Moore they are interested in only seven acres on which they are proposing to construct a $1.2 million cluster apartment complex of two stories.

In seeking the property appraisals there was no indication from the Commission that the city would be willing to sell the acreage.

To further complicate the situation involving the property, Seminole Zoological Society officials seek to have a letter outlining the intent of the city to give whatever money is obtained from the sale of the property to the zoological society to help fund the relocation of the zoo to a site outside Sanford on a tract expected to be purchased by the County Commission for use as a park-zoo combination.

Commissioner W. Vincent Roberts indicated opposition to the release of funds obtained from the land sale to the zoo society. Mayor Moore said the first proposed giving the proceeds from the land sale to the society and added that absent Commissioner J. H. Crapps had wanted to limit the total city money contributions to the society at $30,000.

PTSA May Be Formed At Lyman

Something new may be added to the name of Lyman High School Parent Teacher Association. If the recommendation of the executive board is approved by the membership at the Tuesday, Sept. 21, 8 p.m. meeting to be held in the auditorium, students will be accepted into the association. It would be the first PTSA in Seminole County.

The members of the board will be introduced and entertainment will be provided by the Lyman Prep Club and cheerleaders.

The new yearbooks designed to inform parents of the full program at Lyman North and South will be available for purchase. Refreshments will be served.

Acquires Park Site
Negotiations were completed whereby Seminole County acquired for $28,000 from William Leffler 20 acres plus for inclusion in Lake Monroe Park West on the lakefront, according to County Attorney Harold Johnson.

Johnson also stated that a county representative now is conferring with the L4 Corporation (the Leffler family) for acquisition of another 65 acres for the park site.

The county had offered the appraisal figure, $141,500, for the 65 acres but, at a Commission session last night, it was brought out the family wants another $2,000.

Grants A Change

By MARION BETHEA
Circuit Judge William Akridge, at a pre-trial hearing, has granted a motion of transfer of jurisdiction to juvenile court in the case of James Leonard, 16-year-old South Seminole youth, accused of being Maitland's "kissing burglar."

Leonard is charged with assault with intent to commit rape in a May 6 incident involving an 18-year-old South Seminole girl, who said she was raped at knife-point in her bedroom at 5 a.m. while her parents were sleeping. She identified Leonard from photographs.

Leonard was initially remanded to juvenile court but at the time there was a question as to whether he should be tried as an adult. County Judge Wallace Hall noted that if the grand jury indicted the defendant he would, therefore, be tried as an adult.

Like Folklore Medicine Business By Thumb Rule

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — The most autocratic and unrealistic rules under which people conduct their financial affairs are the rules of thumb. Like folklore medicine, such rules offer some help but often fail the big test.

While the origins of some rules of thumb may be "se" serving, many people adhere to them as they would hold to a life preserver. As they explain, "They may be poor guides, but what else do we have?"

Twenty-five per cent of net income," he answered. "Impossible," the questioner replied. "Any family capable of saving that much each month or year is either performing a miracle or unecessarily depriving itself of the finer things of life."
