SANFORD LIBRARY ASSOCIATION HELD INTERESTING MEETING

for the Sanford Library Association. That we tender thanks to all who have contributed or donated to the library in any way...

Resolved, That Rev. A. S. Peck, Mrs. A. D. Key, Mrs. M. S. Dickens and Mrs. M. Frank be made life members of the Sanford Library Association.

We desire that these resolutions be published in the Sanford Herald and entered upon the minutes...

Committee: Mrs. A. M. DeForest, Mrs. J. W. Dickens.

A most delightful surprise to the acting librarian followed, when Pres. Walker in gracious words of approval for the work accomplished by them during the past year...

By the request of Pres. Walker the following letters received from Rev. Peck are printed below:

Sanford, Florida, Jan. 30, 1914. My Dear Mr. Walker: I felt at the time and more assuredly so later, that I needed to give you and through you to the others a most humble apology for leaving your interesting meeting for the Library Association...

Ever with kindest regards and again expressing you of my appreciation. I remain, Very sincerely and truly yours, Arthur Seagrave Peck.

To Mrs. May Dickens, Sec'y of the Sanford Library Association: My Dear Mrs. Dickens: May I be permitted through you to convey to the officers and members of the Sanford Library Association my very heartfelt appreciation for your many kindnesses and honors, which I deem them to be, and also gift, extended and given at your annual meeting held yesterday at the Imperial Theatre.

The work of and success of the library are matters of a most strong interest in. In any way that I can be of any service and especially in a material way, I shall be most pleased. While appealing, the thought has come to me, that it might be possible to have under the auspices of the Library Association some large exhibit well worth while, under a general patronage of respecter, native people of Sanford, and for this, if it is desired, I will be pleased to offer the use, gratis, of the newly built dining house, which is now nearly completed. This would likely not be over ever until after Easter, for from Feb. 25th to Easter, is a "closed season."

Again assuring you of my most cordial "Thank you," with large, believe me, Very sincerely for the prosperity of the Library.

Arthur Seagrave Peck. To the Sanford Library Association: We wish to extend our most hearty appreciation of the excellent work and thought expressed to the members of those lovely boys which we presented will proudly wear as a souvenir of the "Cataloguing Mass" of our Library. The work brings its own compensation in a measure, but we hope they are made more happy by this expression of your approval. Your cooperation we count on always. Thank you very much.

M. Key, M. Frank, M. Dickens.

SENSE OF DIGNITY

Something Finer Than One's Normal Self, and More Elevating Than Passion.

By H. M. EGBERT.

"A marriage has been arranged and will shortly take place between Miss Estelle Lambert, only daughter of Rear Admiral Charles Lambert (retired) and Mr. John Hewlett, the well-known senior partner of Hewlett & Mason, 89 Wall street. The news of the engagement has occasioned considerable speculation among the friends of the bride, who—

John Hewlett, seated at his desk in his spacious office, smiled very grimly as he read the fascinating paragraph in the society paper which had been sent to him, marked, by some one who preferred to remain anonymous. It was well that he had done so, for John Hewlett was not a very pleasant enemy and he had been known to reply insulted with good measure on more than one occasion.

But he only thrust the sheet contemptuously into his waste-paper basket, and then, having sorted the correspondence upon his desk, he closed it with a slam. He had arranged his affairs; he had settled his obligations to the last penny; now he was to settle a moral obligation which weighed on him more than the loss of his entire fortune, wiped out in a day by the sensational slump in Hard ware Preferred.

John Hewlett was forty-three. From the age of eighteen to thirty he had worked in a foundry, stripped to the waist, the bully and overlord of a motley crew of hard fighters and hard workers. Then an education, painful, and laboriously acquired by the aid of a few books studied when he should have been sleeping, enabled him to break free from his enslavement. In five years more he was a man of average education and moderately rich; at forty he had entered Wall street, where, during three years, he had become known as the most audacious free-lance in the financial district. He had made millions, had been flattered and courted; then, at forty-three he had fallen in love, for the first time in his life. He had met Estelle's father at his country club, and the old admiral, captivated by the bluff sincerity of the man, had invited him to visit him at his home on Fifty-fifth street. There he had met Estelle, just back from school in France, to take her dead mother's place in the household; and by sheer force of personality he had swept her off her feet with his impassioned pleading.

And now he was ruined and his duty lay clear before him. John Hewlett had never flinched from duty when he was boss of the foundry gang, had hitling, indefatigable, he had gone straight to the point and always carried it. Now his course was clearly defined. He could not give her anything to compensate for what he was taking from her. He must release her from the engagement.

Three-quarters of an hour later he was being ushered into the drawing room of the Lamberts' house. It was a soft summer evening, agreeably cool; the lights were not yet turned on, and the house was almost dark. Miss Estelle was out, the man said, but would return at any moment. Would he wait for her?

John Hewlett paced the room quietly, thinking out the speech that he had prepared. He passed into the ball parlor to the drawing room was a smaller one, the entrance hidden by a Japanese screen. Behind this he heard the murmur of voices. One of them was Estelle's. The other was the softly modulated one of Thea, who was sitting beside her. Hewlett was about to break in on them when something said around his attention, and though he would have scorned to play the spy, he stood as though rooted there, awaiting the opportunity to slip away without arousing detection.

"Yes, Estelle, he's a beggar," he heard Thea say, with a self-satisfied laugh. "Every penny wiped out in the Hardware slump. It's all over the street. Poor beggar!"

"What's your beggar?" asked Estelle. "Because he's losing you, Estelle," Fanning answered, "and that makes him doubly poor. I tell you, when I heard the news my heart got into my throat and stayed there. He's so devilishly pertinacious; that Hewlett fellow; it was half of a mind that he would hurry round and pour some lying story into the old man's ears and somehow contrive to keep his strangle-hold on you. But I guess he didn't have the nerve. Take it from me, you won't see him again, Estelle. He's probably slipped away by now, with all the money that his dupes trusted him with."

In the old days in the foundry Hewlett had been famous for striking before speaking. "It's a word and a blow with John Hewlett," was said of him. Now, hearing this, he felt his temples suffused with blood; involuntarily he put out his hands and the Japanese screen toppled over. Next moment he was standing in front of Estelle and his traducer. All the decorum acquired through years of painful self-mastery had vanished, and he was elemental in his fury. His fists were clenched, his face was purple, and he rocked slightly, like an infuriated beast.

"I heard you," he bellowed. "I heard you! I—I won't hurt you in Miss Lambert's presence. But I'm going to speak to her alone. Get out!"

"Mr. Hewlett!" cried Estelle, springing to her feet, pale with anger, "please remember that you are both my guests."

Hewlett's hands fell to his sides. He felt himself trembling. At that moment Admiral Lambert entered the room quietly, stepped up, and took his place between the men.

"Come, Hewlett, my dear fellow," he began. "What's the matter between you and Mr. Fanning?"

"May I be allowed to speak?" inquired Fanning ironically. He stood up, cool enough, although his hands were shaking. "It amounts to this: That man is a pauper. His house has failed. And I think," he continued, with a little bow, "that he has come here to tell you so."

"Yes, you're right," cried Hewlett, and all his rage came back. Never before had he been balked by circumstances; now he saw everything red; he wanted to use his mighty fists, and not being able to, felt humiliated and impotent. "Yes, I've lost all my money," he shouted. "And I came to tell Miss Lambert so—not you, admiral, but Miss Lambert, because it's her right to know."

"And I think Mr. Hewlett is angry that Mr. Fanning should have told me first," put in Estelle indignantly.

Hewlett looked round at the calm, collected witnesses of his helpless rage. He was very like a bear being baited by hounds. But in that moment a sense of dignity came to him, something finer than his normal self, which lifted him above his passion and left him cooler than all.

"Let's come to the point," he said. "I have asked Mr. Fanning to withdraw. Now I can proceed. I have lost every penny I have, but I've paid my debts and I'm going to start life over again—and win. I've always won, but I've lost one thing. I came to say that I wish to release Miss Lambert from our engagement. It wouldn't be fair."

He stopped and looked from one to another. There was something almost pitiful in his gaze. Fanning snuffed uneasily.

"It's a fair proposition; I will be going, sir," he said to the admiral, and, bowing to Estelle, he went out of the room. Outside he paused and grinned. Success was his now; he had heard enough; Hewlett had hopelessly lost—why the coarseness of the man had shown through the polish like raw wood under a coat of varnish. He chuckled all the way home.

Inside there was a dead silence. Then the admiral spoke.

"Why wouldn't it be fair?" he asked. "Why?" stammered Hewlett. "Why—why?"

Admiral Lambert came forward and clasped the other by the hand.

"I can't speak for Estelle, John," he said, "but I think you are doing us both a wrong. I hope you are. I believe, John, that this misfortune has swept away a barrier—a barrier which was once almost invisible, but has been growing higher and stronger—the barrier that you yourself have opposed to your own happiness. I mean your pride, John, and your self-depreciation. But I can't answer for Estelle. Perhaps she can answer."

He passed out of the room, and Hewlett, not understanding, stood staring after him beside the door. He stood as if in a dream till the rustle of a soft garment at his side caused him to start violently. Estelle stood by him.

"John," she said—and there were tears in her eyes—"John, won't you ever understand? Well, then, I'll have to tell you. I loved you for yourself, my dear, not for your money, not in spite of your roughness, but because of the heart of a man beneath it. There! I've told you and I never dared to hope the time would come. And the tears that fell on his face washed away all bitter memories of the past.

The War Of Business

CLEAR EYE, STRONG ARM, GOOD HEALTH ARE SECRETS OF SUCCESS

The man with the punch, both mental and physical is the big business success of today.

His bodily health is the force behind his business possibilities.

The business world has no time to listen to the grocer story.

Sour stomach, malaria, indigestion, coated tongue and a hundred other bodily ills come from an out-of-order liver.

Calomel used to be considered the only relief. Modern medical science has provided a far milder and more pleasant form of liver relief in Carswell's Liver-Aid, a purely vegetable liquid remedy. A large bottle can be had for 50 cents, at R. C. Bower's drug store, where the purchase price will be promptly returned in case you wish to after trying this wonderful remedy.

TELLS HOW TO MAKE MONEY GROWING FIGS

This book treats this important fruit as completely and thoroughly as it does citrus fruits, etc. There is no section of the citrus or cotton belts in which figs do not thrive. Figs are increasingly in demand and the fruit is destined to become an important commercial factor in Florida and all the Gulf Coast Country. Plant fig trees now.

Diversify in Fruit Growing—It Pays

Even in the heart of citrus Florida it will be found profitable to grow some fruits other than oranges and grapefruit. Many tropical fruits, also figs, Japanese persimmons, plums, pears and peaches should be planted. In many instances these can be interplanted in citrus groves and a good income derived from them without injury to the citrus trees.

Griffings' 1914 Tree Book

This work gives lists of the fruits that can be grown to advantage in any section of the South. It tells which of these may be grown in the same orchards and groves. Griffings believe that diversified fruit growing is as important to Florida as diversified farming is to the whole South and they have developed their nurseries accordingly. Send today for free copy. Nurseries at ten convenient Gulf Coast points.

The arrest of Evelyn Nesbit Thaw in Richmond, where she attempted to pull off some of the spectacular stage stuff recalls to mind the fact that the sympathy of the southern people is with Harry Thaw and his faithful mother, and should Harry regain his liberty which at the present moment is very likely the south would welcome him and his mother.

NOTICE

In making up the tax rolls for the year 1914 the property owners in Seminole county can assist in securing a correct record of every piece of land in the county by having the entries made direct from their deeds. For the year 1913 there were 487 pieces of land in Seminole county entered on the rolls to UNKNOWN. While this does not place a cloud upon the title, still it does not prevent the owner from paying taxes on land that does not belong to him and allowing property to be sold for taxes.

Skin Sufferers—Read!
We want all skin sufferers who have suffered for many years the tortures of disease and who have sought medical aid in vain, to read this.
We, as old established druggists of this community, wish to recommend to you a product that has given many relief and may mean the end of your agony. The product is a mild, simple wash, not a patent medicine concocted of various worthless drugs, but a scientific compound made of well known antiseptic ingredients. It is made in the D.D.D. Laboratories of Chicago and is called the D.D.D. Prescription for Eczema.
This is a doctor's special prescription one that has effected many wonderful cures.
The effect of D. D. D. is to soothe instantly, as soon as applied, then it penetrates the pores, destroys and throws off all disease germs and leaves the skin clean and healthy.
We are so confident of the marvelous power of D. D. D. that we have taken advantage of the manufacturers guarantee, to offer you a full-size bottle on trial. You are to judge the merits of the remedy in your own particular case. If it doesn't help you, it costs you nothing.
D. D. D. Soap is made of the same healing ingredients. Ask us about it.

CHANGED HER MIND

Lover of a Vivisector Is at Last Taught the Lesson of Love.

By HARVEY PRENTICE.

Hamlin sat beside the bed, watching the house surgeon, as he examined the little patient. Three hours before the boy had been brought to St. Mark's hospital, his little body arched like a bow. Nobody had believed a cure to be possible at that stage—until they went for Hamlin.

Hamlin was looking at the boy, who now lay quietly sleeping. The desperately large injection of the serum had saved him, dragged him back from the jaws of death. Twelve days previously, on the Fourth of July, the child had injured his hand while setting off firecrackers; tetanus had developed, and but for Hamlin's serum, a fatal termination would have occurred. Now recovery was assured.

"This must be the hundredth life you've saved, doctor," said the house surgeon.

But Hamlin did not answer, for his words had only deepened the bitterness in his soul. What were those hundred lives saved for the one life lost to him?

It was nearly six years since Miriam Gray had broken their engagement. It had occurred so quickly, with such dramatic swiftness, that he had not even felt the pang till she was gone out of his life irrevocably. Their engagement had been a dream of happiness. During the four short weeks that it lasted Hamlin's soul had seemed as though winged; his work was consecrated now. It had been formerly a vague desire to benefit humanity; now it was for Miriam.

She knew he was a doctor, attached to the institute, but she did not know the nature of his duties. He had told her when three weeks remained before their wedding day. He had told her eagerly, enthusiastically, of his specific researches into the cause and cure of tetanus. There was a serum, he said, but it was, in the main, unsatisfactory. He had improved on it; soon it was to be given to the world and humanity would bless his name. That the fruition of his years of toil, he dedicated to her.

"But, dearest, how does one know that these sera will prove efficacious?" Miriam asked. "Does it not mean the death of many poor people who trust to the hospital doctors?"

"O, no," he answered, patting her cheek and smiling. "We try it on the dog—literally."

"You are a vivisector!" she gasped. "I am," he answered, with proud positiveness. "Why, of course I am! What is the painless death of a few animals compared with the lives of human beings?"

"I won't argue it with you," she burst out, passionately. "But I will never marry a man who tortures animals. You must choose between your tortures and me."

And all his remonstrances failed to change her. She would hear no reason, listen to no appeal. Her mind was obstinately fixed. Either Hamlin must give up his life work or her. And then he knew that his decision was already made—because, to him, duty meant more than anything in the world. So he had left her.

He had never seen her again. But he had heard of her marriage the following year. Her sister Evelyn had told him, meeting him by chance in the street.

"The mother has been outside the ward for fifteen minutes, doctor," said the house surgeon. "Shall I let her come in for one moment? She has her feelings under control. She's a fine woman, that Mrs. Keith."

Keith! That was the name. It had slipped out of his mind, with many bitter memories, but he remembered it now. Miriam had married Abel Keith, a quiet, oldish man; this must be her child, then. It was the faint resemblance to her that had started his thoughts along their old, well-worn channel.

"Walt, Mercer," said Hamlin, rising abruptly. "Tell her she can come in a moment. I don't want to meet her. I know her once. I want to get out of this."

He rose up hastily and passed out through the door at the opposite end of the ward, while the house surgeon looked after him in wonder, scenting a tragedy. But Hamlin hastened down the stairs, heedless of the impression he gave. What an irony, that he should have been the means of saving her child—Miriam's child!

Yet the next morning he found a letter upon his table which set the blood hurrying through his veins. Too well he knew that writing. He opened it slowly, fighting down the impulse to fling it into the fire unread.

"Dear Dr. Hamlin," it began. "I want to see you, to thank you for saving Ronald's life. Will you forget and forgive everything that has passed? I cannot rest until I have your forgiveness. Now all my views have changed."

MIRIAM.

The house of the Keiths was opposite the park—four miles away from the dingy, old-fashioned quarter in which St. Mark's was set. Hamlin had not been near the place for years. Yet that afternoon, being free, he did tramp into the park, and, so tramping through the cool grove that eased the oppression of that fiery July day, he found his footsteps inevitably treading toward the place which had been forbidden him.

And at last, toward the cool of the

The Song Hit "Come Take a Trip in My Automobile," in the Big New York Musical Comedy Success "Seven Hours in New York," at Imperial Theatre, (Matinee and Night) Saturday, February 14th afternoon, he found himself seated upon a bench facing the Keith mansion, dreaming vain dreams. He remembered that spot well; there Miriam and he had sat together when stoned, dreaming vain dreams.

He had been dreaming for half an hour when he was suddenly recalled to himself. A quiet, elderly man was standing in front of him. The face seemed familiar. The man stretched out his hand.

"Are you not Dr. Hamlin, sir?" he asked. "Yes, I was sure I knew your face. My name is Abel Keith. Surely you remember me?"

"Indeed I do, Mr. Keith," said Hamlin, springing to his feet courteously. So, this was Miriam's husband. He could well imagine how the disparity in tastes and years must have weighed on her.

"Miriam sent you a letter yesterday," said Mr. Keith, taking a place beside him. "We hoped that you would call. My wife and her sister will be passing this way in a few moments on their return from the hospital; they always walk through the park. Now, you must stay and meet them—indeed you must, doctor."

I cannot, of myself, thank you sufficiently for having given us back our child. It is our only one," he added wistfully.

"I can't," Hamlin stammered. "I have an engagement."

"Now, my dear fellow," answered the other, smiling, "pray don't be so foolish. I know all about that misunderstanding of yours with Miriam, and I don't say I regret it now, for it gave me a wife. But old friends must not be unforgiving. Stay a while, doctor!"

Hamlin looked at him in disgust. The old doctor! Did he, then, know nothing; immersed as he was in his books—did he know nothing of the intensity of his love for Miriam, that he should seek thus to revive it?

Mr. Keith was prattling beside him, telling of a hundred little things that harrowed Hamlin's heart. He would find that Miriam had not changed in the least, he said.

"I won't deny," continued the scholar, "that when Miriam told me she had changed her views and repented having broken the engagement between you—I won't deny that I did have hopes that things might be adjusted."

dreaming. The old man babbled on.

"I'm going to tell you about my little romance, my boy—for you are a boy in years, compared with me, and I feel that I have you to thank for having given me the most charming wife in the world. You know I was engaged to Miriam, but I always felt she didn't love me. And I offered her her freedom three times, but she refused to accept it. And so things went on until the very day before our marriage. And then I—I wept."

"You what, sir?" exclaimed the other.

"Wept! Made myself scarce. Reflected her. Yes, my boy, I was absent in Europe a year, and when I came back Miriam saw things the same way that I did. And you know it always had been Evelyn whom I really loved. She is older and our tastes are more alike. So that is how I came to marry Evelyn."

"You married—Evelyn?" said Hamlin, choking.

"Indeed I did, and very happily, too," answered the old scholar. "Don't you think Ronald looks like her a little? Why, what ails you, my boy? The heat must be too much for you."

Dear me—let's come into the house. Why, here are the ladies! Evelyn, dear, you remember Hamlin, Miriam! Eh? Why, you seem to remember each other very well!"

Havana's Maine Memorial.

The memorial of the birth of the Cuban republic, to be erected in Havana, is to be a monument composed of the forward turret of the ill-fated battleship Maine, resting on a round stone column supported by an octagonal base of three steps. Out of the smoke of an explosion at the top of the turret will rise the figure in Carrara marble of a maiden representing the new republic and holding aloft the Cuban flag. Two iron muskets will protrude from the turret, as its face will be five reliefs depicting scenes connected with the destruction and raising of the Maine, and below the turret will be a tablet with the laurel entwined American and Cuban shields, and an inscription.

SANFORD SHOE & CLOTHING CO. 105 EAST FIRST ST.

STOMACH TROUBLE FOR FIVE YEARS

Majority of Friends Thought Mr. Hughes Would Die, But One Helped Him to Recovery.

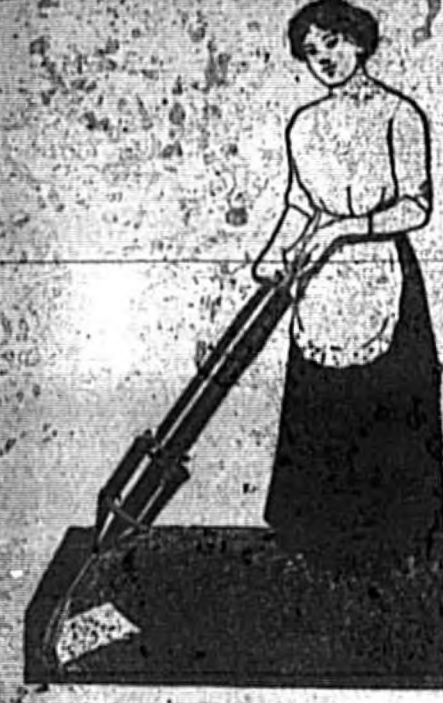

Pomona, Ky.—In interesting advice from this place, Mr. A. J. Hughes writes as follows: "I was down with stomach trouble for five (5) years, and would have sick headache so bad, at times, that I thought surely I would die. I tried different treatments, but they did not seem to do me any good. I got so bad, I could not eat or sleep, and all my friends, except one, thought I would die. He advised me to try Theford's Black-Draught and quit taking other medicines. I decided to take his advice, although I did not have any confidence in it.

I have now been taking Black-Draught for three months, and it has cured me—haven't had those awful sick headaches since I began using it.

I am so thankful for what Black-Draught has done for me."

Theford's Black-Draught has been found a very valuable medicine for derangements of the stomach and liver. It is composed of pure, vegetable herbs, contains no dangerous ingredients, and acts gently, yet surely. It can be freely used by young and old, and should be kept in every family chest. Chinese Paper Money.

Paper money is said to have had its origin in China in the year 806, when the government issued it to relieve a financial stringency, receiving coin in return, which enabled it to pay off outstanding obligations. In the museum of St. John's college in Shanghai is a paper bill worth 1,000 cash, the equivalent of 50 cents American money, which was issued by the first Ming Emperor (Hung-wu A. D. 1368-1399). It is nearly two feet long and one foot wide, printed on mulberry bark paper, and is a dark slate color.—Argonaut.

Tonic Laughter.

There is no spice like laughter at one's meals, the most salutary of all the bodily movements. It involves both body and soul. A good, hearty laugh stimulates the circulation, promotes digestion, and enlivens every vital organ. It is, in short, a sort of shower bath of the spirit, invigorating the whole man, and it is the cheapest luxury at our command. Moreover, cheerfulness is largely a matter of habit, and there is nothing that yields larger returns for the effort involved.

Softening Light for Invalids.

When any one is ill electric light in the room, if very strong, will tend to hurt the eyes and probably induce headache and cause a rise of temperature. A little bag made of green silk, large enough to slip easily right over the light, shade and all, can be fitted on and will look dainty and pretty. Run a drawing in so as to tie it on quickly, otherwise the patient will object to the fuss.

Remedy for Chapped Hands.

Quarter of an ounce of camphor, the same of sweet oil and white wax, place together in a cup to melt until thoroughly mixed. Well wash the hands in warm water and good soap, just before going to bed, rub thoroughly dry, then apply the remedy, rubbing it well in; sleep in loose gloves with holes cut in the palms.

Hard to Get Right Course.

Playfulness is a good means of softening social distances. A stiff, grave man is always in danger of being feared too much. On the other hand, as the softness of many people is suspicious in the extreme, you must expect that your innocent playfulness will often be mistaken for ridicule.—Sir Arthur Helps.

To Clean Ivory.

Make prepared chalk into a paste with sal volatile and olive oil, equal parts of each of the latter; apply the paste with a soft brush, let it dry, then put on another layer; let it remain on two or three hours, then rub off and polish with a soft brush and a duster.

Fixing Their Relations.

Mrs. Jamieson-Smythe (to the maid in her first job)—"You mustn't keep on calling me Mrs. Jamieson-Smythe every time you address me. You should say, 'Yes, mum,' or 'No, mum.'"
Sally—"Oh, I can't call yer mum, becos that's wot I calls me mother, but I'll call yer auntie if yer liket!"

Good Idea.

Organist, (discussing the music for a special service)—"And after that chant I'll put in something lighter, something to relieve the heavy classical style of the Te Deum." Bishop (on the committee)—"Ah, anything to relieve the tedium will be appreciated."—Tatler.

Nature Note.

Little Dorothy had never before visited her grandfather, who lived in the country. The chickens occupied her undivided attention for half her first day at the farm. Finally she sought her grandfather, and shyly asked: "Grandpa, do all hens eat with their noses?"

Coming Out.

"So this is your daughter's coming-out dinner, is it?" a friend said to the debutante's father. "Yes," the stern old man replied, "and if I hadn't put my foot down on that dressmaker she'd have been out even further than she is."

Worth Remembering.

"You have never suffered from financial reverses?" "No," replied Mr. Dustin Stax. "Finance is like dancing. When the market turns around and goes the other way you must reverse with it."

Frugal.

Mrs. Willis—I'm afraid the young man who married our Emma is parsimonious. Mr. Willis—How so? Mrs. Willis—She writes that their honeymoon is scarcely costing over his first ten years' salary.—Life.

Thankful Dray Horse.

"Whew!" sniffed the dray horse, as a smoking motor car rushed by. "I have some faults, I know, but thank goodness, I never learned to smoke!"—Judge.

Daily Thought.

It is indeed a desirable thing to be well descended, but the glory belongs to our ancestors.—Pitarch.

The formal dedication of the new bridge will be a part of the great Gasparilla Fiesta to be given at Tampa February 21 to 24. Tampa is mightily proud of that fine $250,000 bridge and wants all of its friends in Florida to come and take a look at it. It is, without doubt, the best bridge in the state and one of the best in the country.

No fake "concessions" have been sold to take the money of the gullible and furnish cause for offense or scandal. Tampa is not giving the Big Gasparilla festival to make money but as a means of showing the world what there is in South Florida. It pays the expense and invites its friends to come along and enjoy the frolic. A good time for everybody.

New Road Across St. Johns That Will Make Sanford A Tourist Town And Pay For Itself In Three Ways

(CONTRIBUTED)

It has often occurred to the writer during the past few years, when an attempt was made to secure a tourist hotel for Sanford, that we should bethe ourselves of the necessity of supplying the necessary amusements. A town is a tourist town in exact proportion to the entertainment it affords. There are a few cases, such as Jacksonville and Sanford, which have a great advantage over other towns in being natural gateways which the tourist must pass through, many of whom would gladly stop with us if we would only put forth more effort to entertain them. It rests entirely with us whether we will keep them one day, one week or three months. It should not be so much a question of how many stop in Sanford, but how long they stay in Sanford. We are again very fortunate in being able to in-homes and supporting tourist hotels, which of course means enhancement of property values. Imagine Sanford today. If we had "wood and won" five or ten thousand live tourists fifteen years ago. Hotels would have sprung up like magic; our lake shores would now be veritable parks, while the tourist would have joined hands with us in making our public improvements and putting our car and ferry lines and other enterprises on a paying basis. Nor is it my mission to criticize what has been done in Sanford, but rather to point out a way by which Sanford can begin to reap returns from her enormous investments. It is a widely known fact that a "Coney Island" in the rough, with luxuriant hammock timber, artesian water, and affording, as it does, all the necessary amusements it should be to the state of Florida what Augusta, Ga., is to the south—"A place where they love to linger." It is only too well known that the facilities for crossing the St. Johns at this point are unsatisfactory, to say the least. The eastern route to Enterprise through Osteen—some sixteen miles around—avoids Sanford by nearly a mile, while the road to the west of the lake misses Enterprise entirely, and both routes are anything but scenic, traversing as they do some of the most unattractive land in the county, keeping well out of view of the lake, passing through hilly country where road material is scarce and washage enormous; crossing railroads, and if these roads are to be maintained it will necessitate sooner or terest the home seeker in a way not excelled by any other locality, and as tourists frequently turn out to be home seekers it doubly behooves us to exert ourselves to attract the tourist. Be it far from me to say a disparaging word about our friends who are now in the habit of stopping with us, for they have meant a great deal to the life of Sanford, but it must be admitted they are not the class with unlimited means, demanding incessant amusement at any cost, building palatial exceptional protection from cold west and north-west winds and the only natural golf links in this state, lays in Lake Monroe, just three miles northeast of Sanford, and four and one-half miles by land around the eastern shore. It would seem almost providential that this island was placed so convenient to both Sanford and Enterprise and in the most direct route of thousands of tourists who pass through to and from the interior and west coast every winter. It is a most convenient halfway station later a drawbridge at both ends of the lake. The proposition which I wish to present is to construct a road to follow the eastern shore of the lake and cross the river just above where it empties into the lake, and bisect the island referred to; thence along the north shore through Enterprise to DeLand, which according to best information obtainable can be constructed (including drawbridge) for about the cost of the two bridges above mentioned. It will at the same time achieve all the purposes of the other two routes. If this be true, the question of expense has no bearing on the matter—it is simply a question of the best route, and I believe, after due consideration there will not be a shadow of a doubt in any man's mind on this score. Furthermore, the road will pay for itself in three different ways in addition to serving all the purposes of the other roads. First it will pay for itself in upkeep, having less than one-third the mileage, only one drawbridge to run and to maintain; no hills to wash gulches; no railroads to cross; convenient road material and a great saving of time on the traffic. It will also pay for itself by opening up some three thousand acres of the highest type of Florida lands on the north and on the east of the lake and in the vicinity of Garfield on the F. E. C. Ry. This land is ideal for winter homes and truck and fruit farms, and would be a valuable feeder to both Sanford and Enterprise.

The third and best way in which the road will pay for itself is in acquainting the public, as well as ourselves with the beauties of Lake Monroe through a seven mile drive along its most picturesque shores and bringing them through a park where sparkling pools of sulphur water will afford ideal bathing, or where golf, fishing, boating, duck, quail or deer hunting, and even alligator hunting in Lake Bethel may be indulged in. Such a proposition would mean a great impetus to the town of Enterprise, which is more important to Sanford than generally realized. Several hundred people living in Enterprise and shopping in Sanford would stimulate the city business, making possible a less fare and better service between the two towns, the same boat to touch at the island, with say a five or ten cent fare to both Sanford and Enterprise. This would enable our home people to take advantage of the park all year round, and with cottages to let they would be able to take their families for a few weeks' outing during the warm months and attend to business in Sanford by ferry, hundreds of whom will otherwise be denied such a privilege. It is true Sanford has reached a point in road building where any additional expense will be a burden, yet in that very fact lies the greatest argument for the construction of this road at the very earliest date; for by so doing we will bring thousands of autoists through Sanford and along our beautiful lake shore, who at present must be content in passing in view of our "back yard." Many would thus be attracted to Sanford and would be more than willing to help us use our beautiful streets, and incidentally HELP PAY FOR THEM. I would like to see the subject discussed at length through the columns of The Herald, as the practicability of such a plan has long appealed to me, and it will "bear acquaintance." It is certain that if such a plan is ever carried out we must begin now, if not actual construction, to secure the right of way, and withhold any expenditure and permanent improvements on the present route. The following statement is worth the consideration of every citizen of Sanford. If a bridge is ever built on Colery avenue ferry the possibility of a lake shore drive for Sanford is gone forever. C. C.

WOMEN TEACHERS

Whatever preparation the women of Florida wish to make for their advancement in the teaching profession they will find that the Florida State College for Women provides the best instruction that can be secured in the state for any special work.

NO FEES, NO TUITION in our Spring Review Courses.

Board including room, heat and light is only $13.50 per month. Along with the teachers course of the spring term, which offers a review of all subjects necessary for a first, second or third grade certificate there will be classes for those desiring to prepare for the state primary certificate. The course will last three months and the examination will be made at the close of the term. Students will have the advantage of the entire equipment of the college.

To be eligible for this examination teachers must have had three years' experience in regular primary work in a graded school and one year's normal training or they must have had five years' experience in primary work in a regular graded school in this state. Any teachers who cannot attend the course but who are eligible to be allowed to apply for this special examination at the college in June, when they have filed their credentials.

ORLANDO WILL BE BUSY CITY DURING THIS WEEK OF BIG FAIR

MID-WINTER EXPOSITION PROMISES TO BE A RECORD-BREAKER

EXHIBITS ARE IN PLACE

AND DIFFERENT COUNTIES ARE MAKING A MOST CREDITABLE SHOWING OF RESOURCES

Orlando is one of the busiest towns in the Florida map for today the fourth annual Sub-Tropical Midwinter Fair will open to continue through the remainder of the week.

The grounds today the scene has been a busier one, exhibitors arriving and being placed in position, ready for the formal opening on the morrow.

The parade will form at 10:00 at the monument, Main street and Central avenue, move south on Main to Jackson and to Orange avenue, and will wind up in the grounds on the eastern or Occochee entrance to the main building, where a semi-circular array and amid flying music will be furnished by the Grand Chorus Band, The Johnny Hand, and the Plantation Band.

Friday, "Occochee Day," Kosmos and St. Cloud will arrive by Special train. This is also "Educational Day" and among the notables announced for the occasion are Governor Park Trammell, State Chemist Ross, Ex-Senator Charles A. Carson, and commander in chief of the G. A. R., who will be accompanied from St. Cloud by the 66 and drum corps of that place.

More Candidates In this issue of The Herald appears the announcement of E. H. Kilbee for County Treasurer and C. L. Polk for Sup. of Public Instruction.

Another Postmaster Elected A special from Miami says: "Perhaps the first telegraphic primary ever held in the state is credited to Miami in a dispatch from Washington, stating that Frank Brown is to be appointed postmaster in the place of Morgan E. Jones."

Greater New York and its environs are being struck under a layer of snow augmented today by a constant fall. More than ten inches have fallen since the storm began Saturday morning.

It is probable that Mr. Brown will receive his appointment within the next few days.

Florida Vegetables in New York

New York, Feb. 13.—There was a fairly good demand all week for Florida vegetables and anything strictly fancy moved out fast at satisfactory prices. Receipts on the whole were moderate and there were no heavy shipments of any one commodity.

Another Congressman

Mayor Van C. Swearingen may be a candidate for congress in the Fourth District opposing J. Engle, Williams, Fogarty, Chase and Sears for the primary nomination.

Death of Thomas Crigall

Thomas Crigall died very suddenly at his home on the west side, Sunday morning of yesterday.

Mr. Crigall had just a resident of Sanford for many years and was loved and respected for his many good traits of character.

The funeral services occurred from the Congregational church yesterday afternoon under the auspices of the Masons and accompanied by the Odd Fellows, of which orders deceased was a consistent member.

Greater New York and its environs are being struck under a layer of snow augmented today by a constant fall.

It is probable that Mr. Brown will receive his appointment within the next few days.

THE CHARITIES AND CORRECTION ELECTED OFFICERS LAST NIGHT

HELD A VERY INTERESTING SESSION IN THE CITY OF GAINESVILLE

GOV. TRAMMELL HEAD

OTHER NEWS AND VIEWS OF THE STATE AT LARGE FOR BUSY HERALD READERS

The committee on nominations recommended the following list of officers for the Florida Conference of Charities and Corrections at Saturday night's session: President, Governor Park Trammell, Tallahassee, re-elected; vice-presidents, T. J. Sherrill, Pensacola, Mrs. B. H. Watson, Gainesville; P. T. Cummings, Tampa, secretary; Marcus C. Fuge, Jacksonville, re-elected; treasurer, Z. C. Chambliss, Ocala, member of ex-Minor's committee in addition to ex-Members W. G. Ironson, Tampa; Mrs. J. W. McGriff, Jacksonville, Rev. Dr. Widdowes, Palm Beach. The report was adopted. The committee appointed to name the place for next year's meeting recommended that selection be left to executive committee.

West Palm Beach is going to have a federal building in the near future. Representatives have been in Washington recently looking after the proposition and the report brought home is to the effect that the desired appropriation will in all probability be made at the next session of congress.

Additional information comes about the big land sale to the Ohio capitalists, previously reported in your columns. The line contains 400,000 acres, and lies along the Atlantic Coast Line, between Fort Tilden and Nocatee, and known as the Thomas tract.

The Tampa Board of Trade has decided that the time of its president is worth paying for, and will cheerfully hand to Frank C. Bowyer the sum of $2,500 each year.

Thursday afternoon in Palatka the boat house of Capt. J. E. Lucas on the river front, together with a number of fine motor boats, was entirely destroyed by fire, containing a loss of about $10,000.

The Herald every year gives prizes for the big catches raised in the celery delta and this year will be no exception to the rule.

It is probable that Mr. Brown will receive his appointment within the next few days.

Mrs. Robinson Entertains

The attractive home of Mrs. M. F. Robinson was the scene of a very delightful affair, when Mrs. Robinson entertained in honor of her daughter, Mrs. H. M. Upworth, of New York city, who is spending the winter in Sanford, the guest of her parents. The attractive rooms were most artistically decorated with a profusion of southern smilax, star jessamine, red hibiscus and beautiful daturas.

GOOD HORSES AT FAIR

Orlando, Will Be The Scene of Good Races During Fair

Orlando, Feb. 14. Special The racing of fast horses for the Mid Winter Fair is growing daily and the races will be even larger and more attractive than they have ever been before.

At the Florida Stables, in charge of L. Hooker Wilson are the following horses:
