SAIGON (UPI) — The Saigon government charged today that 20,000 Communist-trained officers have infiltrated South Viet Nam since 1959.

A report said the Communists were armed with weapons made in the Soviet Union and Red China.

U. S. Intelligence officials confirmed the South Vietnamese charge and added that the number of Communist infiltrators over the past six years may be closer to 84,000.

South Viet Nam delivered the report in the form of a protest note to the International Control Commission—an agency established in 1954 to police the partition of the two Viet Nams after the French Indo-China war.

North Viet Nam announced that it has asked commission members to withdraw from its territory. The Hanoi regime said it was no longer able to guarantee the safety of commission members in view of the air strikes against North Viet Nam by U. S. and South Vietnamese bombers.

The South Vietnamese report on infiltrators was an attempt to document charges that the guerrilla war in this country is directed and supplied from Hanoi.

"Before being sent south, these troops and cadres receive special training from the central committee for re-education in Hanoi, which works in close co-operation with the North Vietnamese armed forces command and the ministries concerned," the report said.

The report added that the infiltrators receive training in guerrilla warfare, political subversion and espionage. Weapons carried by the Communists included Russian-made Mosin Nagant rifles, Chinese Communist 57-millimeter bazookas and machine-guns and small arms, recoilless rifles and bomb launchers manufactured in Communist East Germany.

The South Vietnamese report said its information came from Communist prisoners of war, defectors and captured Red documents.

U. S. Intelligence sources verified most of the information.

The U. S. Embassy here denied a London newspaper report that Communist Chinese soldiers had moved into North Viet Nam.

Youth Corps Shows Promise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson believes that a pioneering neighborhood youth corps project in Newark, N. J.—the first of its kind—gives hope for a complete victory in the war on poverty.

He made the comment on a report submitted by Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz describing the first results of this phase of the anti-poverty campaign.

The Newark program, which began Jan. 4, now has 318 boys and girls working in the city's schools, hospitals, libraries, museums and other public facilities.

All the youngsters were un-employed school dropouts when they joined the project, Wirtz said.

Field reports indicate the youth corps, a Labor Department program, has encouraged youths to return to school by showing them the value of an education in gaining jobs.

Johnson said more than 180 of the 318 have enrolled in night school classes. Project directors report they have new confidence and determination to succeed.

The President said the fledgling project has encouraged everyone associated with it. He added:

"The war against poverty is, in the last analysis, the struggle for human decency and independence. This report is an early indication that we can succeed in this best of all efforts."

The Newark project eventually will cost $520,000 for 700 youngsters, of which the federal government will pay $465,000 and the city the balance.

Alumni To Fete Honor Students

The Seminole County University of Florida Alumni Club will honor outstanding 11th grade students at its annual business meeting Feb. 25 at the Capri Restaurant.

Dr. J. Wayne Reitz, university president, will speak. The meeting starts at 7:30 p.m.

The UF Alumni group also will award a $250 scholarship to an area high school senior who plans to enter the university next fall. The yet unnamed student will be designated the club's first CLASP award winner in a new program begun by the Alumni Association this year.

CLASP (Co-ordinated Local Alumni Scholarship Program) allows the 49 clubs in the state and nation to select deserving students from local areas as recipients of the cash scholarships to the UF.

Election of club officers also will be held, according to Andrew Bracken, who urges a full attendance. Reservations may be made by calling 322-4362, he said.

President Asks Overhaul Of Plan Of Development

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson is expected to send a special message to Congress this week urging extension of the controversial area redevelopment program but recommending that it be overhauled.

The loan-and-grant plan to help economically depressed areas has been the target of vociferous critics since it was set up about four years ago. It is due to expire June 30.

Congressional sources said that Johnson would request extension of the program and propose a $400 million appropriation to keep it in business.

He also is expected to urge reorganization of the program along lines which, some believe, partially acknowledge the validity of past criticism.

The program is intended to woo job-producing industries to chronic unemployment regions by providing subsidies to build plants, public facilities, and other community improvements.

In 1961, Congress provided $451 million to finance it, but the Area Redevelopment Administration—(ARA), which administers the program, ran out of money last summer.

An attempt to replenish the ARA fund was rejected in the House the year before.

President Johnson said in his economic report to Congress last month that ARA had helped economically depressed areas, but he emphasized that "redirection of this program can benefit from the experience of the last four years."

Giant Saturn Lifts 'Duster' Into Orbit

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — A mighty Saturn-1 super rocket today orbited a bat-like "space duster" satellite with giant wings to measure the hazards tiny meteoroids pose to moonships. The 188-foot booster, America's most powerful, thundered into the sky at 9:37 a. m. in the opener of a two-part nationally televised space spectacular to be followed Wednesday by a Ranger moonshot. About 11 minutes after the fiery blastoff, space agency spokesmen said Saturn-1 had scored its eighth straight success by propelling the heaviest U. S. scientific satellite into orbit.

Pegasus
The spacecraft, named Pegasus after the winged horse of mythology, emerged from the protective cover of a dummy Apollo mooncraft three minutes later. Its 96-foot wide wings unfolded like an expanding accordion under the watchful eye of a television camera and began its sweep for tiny bits of cosmic debris whizzing about space. "We consider that we have the Pegasus meteoroid satellite in orbit," the spokesman said. He said the Saturn's performance was "excellent." Pegasus so big it will look like a bright twinkling star at night, weighs 23,000 pounds with the Saturn's second stage attached for stability. Its 10,000-pound Apollo cover was kicked into a separate orbit. By reporting every hit made by a piece of space dust, Pegasus was expected to tell scientists how much protective shielding large space ships will need — particularly Apollo moon ships.

Saturn
Besides lofting its first scientific satellite, the Saturn was giving engineers further flight data that will help in the development of the larger Saturn 5 rocket that is to send three men to the moon in 1969. The launch, eighth for the big rocket, was delayed more than an hour by ground computer trouble. The 15 million pound thrust booster, which Russia may have passed in power with its recent three-man shot, gained momentum slowly as it roared skyward over the Atlantic ahead of a long column of red-yellow flame and smoke. About a minute later, the Saturn streaked past the speed of sound. A space agency spokesman said "All systems look good at this time."

The First Lady plans to fly to Florida in time for the ceremonies, lunch with the VISTA group and tour some of the on-the-job training sites in St. Petersburg before returning to the capital that night.

General Corp. Distribution Center Here

General Battery and Ceramic Corporation has added another spark to the growing Seminole County economy today when it announced it would locate a distribution center here. The corporation has obtained a long-term lease on the building formerly occupied by the Chemical Corporation of America on Elm Avenue. The 20,000 square-foot site will be the focal point for distribution of the firm's products throughout the state. The Seminole County Chamber of Commerce industrial committee says the company will employ between 15 and 20 persons. Delivery equipment also will be set up here, according to John Krider, Chamber executive manager. The contracts were made by Jack Feinberg, president of Chemical Corporation of America, and his brother, Irving Feinberg, vice president, with the local industrial committee. The local division will be known as the General Battery and Spark Plug Company. Plans are being made to construct a manufacturing facility after the distribution center is set up. General Battery has factories now in Reading, Pa., Frenchtown, N. J., New Philadelphia, Ohio, Greer, S. C., and Frankfurt, Ind.

U.S. Told To 'Get Out'

Russ Demands Forces Leave S. Viet Nam

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin today demanded that the United States withdraw its forces from South Viet Nam. The statement was reported by the Soviet news agency Tass in a message sent by Kosygin to a preparatory meeting of the Indo-Chinese peoples conference in Phnom Penh, capital of Cambodia. "The Soviet Union resolutely demands the withdrawal of U. S. troops and military equipment from South Viet Nam, the cessation of armed provocations against the Democratic republic of Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia and the rejection of any military interference in the internal affairs of Indochina," Kosygin's message said. It was the second time in the past three days that the Kremlin had made such a demand. "INHUMAN" A communique issued Sunday after Kosygin's meeting with North Korean officials during his Asian trip termed the American air attacks on North Viet Nam "inhuman" and called on the United States to pull its troops out of Viet Nam. The Soviet Union and Great Britain served as co-chairmen of the 1954 Geneva Conference which carved up Southeast Asia after the French Indochina war. In a statement earlier this week, the Soviets warned the United States that American attacks against Communist North Viet Nam could lead to a world war. A Radio Moscow broadcast said the United States would be responsible for "the dire consequences."

Arctic Air, Blizzard Cover All Of North

United Press International
Arctic air knifed deep into the Midwest today and sent a freezing chill to the Texas border. Stormy weather that plastered the Rocky Mountain states with blizzard conditions Monday, lifted during the night. The temperature stood at 20 below zero in Minnesota. Ice jams caused the Rock River to flood at Joslin, Ill. The Ouachita River at Camden, Ark., was nearly 10 feet above flood stage. The storm which produced the Great Plains blizzard left half a foot of snow at Denver, Colo., and boosted the snow-pack at Leadville, Colo., to 27 inches. One Yaffie death was blamed on the weather. Forty-mile winds fanned the snow in northeast New Mexico. Winds up to 45 miles an hour carried the storm into Oklahoma. Two section hands were killed near Pastura, N. M., when they failed to hear an oncoming train while at work during the snow storm. Along the eastern seaboard, snow fell from Georgia to Boston. Seven inches of snow fell in Virginia where many schools were forced to close.

Pinecrest Observes Patriotic Program

Students of Pinecrest School will be celebrating "I Am Proud To Be An American" week all this week. Mrs. Alice Williams, chairman of the five-day observance, has announced.

Students participated Monday in a special flag-raising ceremony led by a color guard of U. S. Marines from Sanford Naval Air Station. Students sang the national anthem, pledged allegiance to the flag and later joined an all-school "sing" of patriotic songs.

A film titled "America the Beautiful" was shown today to all grades. Later students listened to patriotic music.

Wednesday fifth grade students will visit each classroom with a replica of the Great Seal of the United States and explain its meaning. Taking part in this demonstration will be Jerome Titshaw, Chip Youngblade, Bobby Carr, Judy Kaye, Melanie Howard, Marvel Ann Gwynn, Abby Waits, Robert Baxter, Ann Smith, Doris Dangleman, Scott Clemmer, Roy Hunt, John Terwilliger and Paul Ballard.

Thursday sixth grade students will present, over the intercom, a short program written by the class, especially for the occasion. Those participating are in Mrs. Ann Reynolds class.

On Friday fifth grade classes of Mrs. Sam Davis will present American scenes in the form of tableaux. They will portray "Bunker Hill," "Lewis and Clark" and "Taking the Oath as President."

A patriotic drill will be given by students of Mrs. Doris Duxbury and Mrs. Alice Williams. Students will be garbed in red, white and blue clothing.

The Friday program which climaxes the week's activities will be given twice—once at 1:30 p. m. and again at 2:30 p. m. Parents are invited to attend the second performance.

During the entire week Mrs. Williams said, contests will be held in essay, poetry and art which pertain to patriotism. Any student can enter any or all categories. Two ribbons will be given in each category in each room after judging by a committee of teachers.

Connie Van Dyke, 18, wearing the black sweater and gold slacks, from Detroit, Mich., probably doesn't realize just how fortunate she is to have Don Elbaum in her corner. Blue Darters Knocked Out By Bulldogs

By Jim Baechus
Herald Sports Writer

The idle Lyman Greyhounds moved into a tie for the Orange Belt Conference lead Monday evening when third ranked DeLand Bulldogs uncorked an upset over leading Apopka Blue Darters.

Lyman and DeLand with 9-3 ratings now lead the OBC while Apopka with 8-3 dropped into second place.

Apopka suffered its first OBC defeat on its own court in five years when DeLand won with the unbelievable low score of 9-6.

The quarter scores read more as a baseball game than a basketball encounter: DeLand 12-0-6 and Apopka 5-2-1-0, for the 9-8 total.

Apopka stands to make it a three-way tie should it defeat Leesburg in the final game of the season.

However, the OBC championship will be decided this coming weekend at Lakeview High School at Winter Garden.

The Lyman Greyhounds are up against the Woodland Wildcats in the opening round Thursday evening.

Spring Practice Set Feb. 27 By Indians

TALLAHASSEE — (Sp1) — Florida State opens spring football practice Saturday, Feb. 27, with some rather large shoes to be filled.

However, the Seminole script remains the same, despite the loss of Steve Tensi and Fred Biletnikoff, the passing combination that produced a 9-1-1 season for FSU last year.

"We're going to work on the passing game quite a bit this spring," says Coach Bill Peterson. "Of course, that means we'll be looking for a passer. We'll also concentrate on defense, particularly in the secondary."

Ed Pritchett, last year's number two quarterback, will miss all or most of spring drills in recovery from a knee operation performed in December. Although it is hoped that the Decatur, Ga. senior will be available next fall, the field is wide open for several young quarterbacks who will get a close look from Seminole coaches this spring.

Tony Gero, a junior from Madison, N.J., is the leading candidate now, with Kim Hammond and Marty Kolbus in line for top consideration. Hammond, from Melbourne, was held out last year, and Kolbus is up from the freshman squad.

The Seminoles return 53 lettersmen from last year's Gator Bowl championship squad, but there are other gaps to be filled. Only two starters return on the offensive line.

"We'll be looking for people to fill those positions, and we'll need a lot of people to give us the depth we need, both offensively and defensively," Peterson says.

Returning offensive starters are tackle Del Williams, guard Joe Avezzano, fullback Wayne Giardino and halfback Phil Spooner. Five of the "Seven Magnificents" defensive line return—ends George D'Allesandro and Terry Garvin, tackle Frank Pennie, middle guard Jack Shinholzer and linebacker Hill McDowell.

Maury Bihent, Howard Ehler and Jim Massey are back in the secondary.

Florida State will practice on Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday with the annual Gator and Gold game scheduled March 27. A week of practice is scheduled after the game.

PALM DESERT, Calif. — (NEA) — You know that Jim Garner you see on the silver screen—suave, diffident, don't give a damn, so calm a rattlesnake could crawl up on his arm and faint in delirium? It just ain't so.

That's the career Jim Garner, relaxed before the cameras. Then there's the golfer Jim Garner. The whirl of a camera rears his motor.

"You're on the backswing," said Jim over a dietrite and lemon at the Bermuda Dunes course here in the desert, "and—wh-r-r—one of those old 1903 camera starts grinding. So do my teeth.

"I used to be known as the Tommy Bolt of the amateurs. Now he's the Jim Garner of the pros. I'm the only guy who threw a club after a practice swing."

Garner: "I'm sure I don't have to tell you what that handsome, black-haired Okie looks like taking his golf seriously, and he's a fine back-swinger."

He plays to a five handicap, belongs to nine different clubs (such is some kind of status symbol in southern California) and admits, with that well-known Garner wink, that he's "hamstringed" — like (A.H.) Headlink. He's actually a 42 Nassau man.

Every big golf tournament has a pro-am event in mid-week, which is an excuse for men of substance to match divots with Arnie Palmer, the same way Gussie Busch likes to go out in the outfield and slug flies with the world champion Cardinals.

Garner makes the scene big in these. He has played in 50 pro-am's since he got rich enough to buy a set of clubs nine years ago. Which brings us to the purpose of this opus. What's it like to let a driver out with Palmer or Jack Nicklaus or the other pros?

"Well, said Jim, "there we were on the 17th hole of the Crosby (Bing Crosby invitation), and Nicklaus shanked his tee shot. And I said to him, 'What goes here?'"

"Then I stepped up and I humbed it, too. We were on national television, of course."

"Otherwise, I like to play with the pros. I play better and I don't feel the pressure. The galleries don't bother me. The pro, they respect him. The amateur, when he hits a bad shot, they laugh

High Scorer On Sidelines

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Veteran Bob Pettit, suffering a knee injury, is sidelined for two to three weeks. It was the third time this season the all-time high scorer bowed to injuries, and his loss is expected to cost the St. Louis Hawks dearly.

The 33-year-old Pettit suffered a "ligament tear" on his left knee late in the third quarter against the Cincinnati Royals.

The Royals won, snapping the Hawks' five-game win streak and leaving them with three games behind the Los Angeles Lakers, leaders in the NBA Western Division.

Double-Header On Tap For Fans

NEW YORK (UPI) — Madison Square Garden announced that Willie Pastrano and Emilio Griffith will defend their respective world championships in a "double-header" at the Garden, March 30.

In the other, Griffith, of New York, defends his welterweight 147-pound title against Cuban Jose Stabile, of Miami, Fla.

Seminole High eaglers will host the Winter Park Wildcats in a Metro conference basketball game in the SHS Fleming gymnasium in a rematch at 8 p.m. tonight.

Coach Ralph Stump's Jay Vees will start the action at 6:30 p.m. when they take on the Baby Wildcats. The starters for Sanford will be Willy Jernigan, Frank Whitman, Paul LeRoy, Greg Shively and Greg Gaus.

The Wildcats have high hopes for another win tonight according to Head Coach Mack Blythe. Blythe said, "Tonight we play Winter Park and we'll really be up for this one because they beat us by six points the last time we played. We'll be ready to give the Wildcats all they want and possibly all they can take."

The starters for the Tribes will be Don Nicholas, Stan Hanson, Frank Murray, Steve Croover and Buddy Stumpf.

About the Bishop Moore game Blythe said, "We're very happy with the great victory over the Hornets. We're especially happy because it was a team victory with every boy on the team contributing to the win. Lamar Oxford did a fine job for us under pressure and Buddy Stumpf played the whole game so our supporters really looked good. Don Nicholas played his finest ball game and we feel that this was what he needed to give him confidence for the rest of the season and next year. Steve Groover played his best ball game making 19 points and getting 21 rebounds which is good against any competition."

According to Blythe the team will miss Gary Loyd, who is sick and out for the rest of the season. Blythe said, "We miss Gary a great deal. He was our best defensive player and free throw shooter. He was especially a good asset to the team because of his great will to win. This will to win is the best I have ever seen in a high school player. Most ball clubs that have lost 19 games will throw in the towel but not these boys. They stuck with us to the end and never quit."

This is the Seminoles' last game of the season so the Seminoles' cheerleaders hope the area fans turn out in force to support the team.

Two of the cheerleaders also will be picked to represent Sanford at the M.A. Clinic in the near future.

Coach Don Pellam is in Sanford both the faculty and the cheerleaders in the game and members of the Braves 1964-65 basketball squad will serve as cheerleaders for the event. The faculty will have its own cheerleaders composed of members of the teaching staff at the school.

The principal of the school, Hugh Carlton, will be the official water boy for the faculty squad.

The half time entertainment will be provided by the junior high faculty and students at the school. The game is slated to start at 7 p.m. in the school gym.

DENVER (UPI) — Millionaire contractors Gerald and Allen Plappa purchased the controlling interest in the Denver Broncos and immediately promised to keep the American Football League team in the Mile High City.

The hard fighting league president, Johnny Jones, George rolled a 6-5 to Jones 6-2. The match between Joe Kern and W. A. Ward ended in a tie as Ward hit 6-3 to Kern's 6-30 total.

Work To Do

One hundred and fifty two thousand population in 15 years.

That's more than double the 71,000 estimated to reside in Seminole County right now.

Imagine, more than twice the number of persons in this county. What will bring them here? What will they do to remain? How will they be housed, fed, clothed, entertained?

Looking ahead 15 years seems like a long time until you compare it with the fleetness of the past 15 years.

And because time does fly, it is imperative that this county begin now to cope with the multitude of problems it will face at that time.

We must prepare for it in many ways. We must attract industry. We must project our housing developments and needs, reserve and develop areas for recreation and the many other phases of normal living.

Fortunately for this county, there are teams at work at present on many facets of this project.

Some of them are the Port Authority committee of the Seminole Chamber of Commerce, the Riverport Marina crews, the Metropolitan Telephone System committee, the Junior College committee and many other subcommittees of the Long-Range Planning committee.

Spearheading all of the projects and giving untiring effort in each are members of our County Chamber of Commerce.

We look to these members for their guidance. But do we offer to pitch in and help?

That 152,000 figure is the population estimate of the East Central Florida Regional Planning Council.

The Council is made up of experts in every phase of its operation. Those range from the physical contour of the earth to the air we breathe and virtually everything between.

So, you see we have work to do. Let's continue working together for a better Seminole County—the best county in the state and the nation.

Reduce The Risk

Citizens of Seminole County, DeBary and Deltona will be well advised to give serious attention to a pamphlet which will be left by the Heart Sunday volunteer who calls this weekend to receive Heart Fund contributions. The pamphlet recommends these six simple safeguards which may help reduce the risk of heart attack:

1. Reduce if overweight
2. Decrease saturated fats
3. Control high blood pressure
4. Stop smoking cigarettes
5. Exercise regularly
6. Shun needless tensions

"See your doctor," suggests the brochure. "Do you have a family history of heart disease? Is your blood pressure too high? Do you know what fats to eat? Consult your doctor about these and other risk factors, and improve your chances for longer life."

With diseases of the heart and blood vessels accounting for 54 per cent of all deaths, and with heart attack alone being responsible for more than 25 per cent of all deaths, the advice should be heeded.

So should the volunteer's appeal for a generous gift to the 1966 Heart Fund.

Thought For Today

In the day of prosperity be joyful, and in the day of adversity consider; God has made the one as well as the other, so that man may not find out anything that will be after him. —Ecc. 7:14.

The people who get on in the world are those who get up and look for the circumstances they want, and if they can't find them, make them.—George Bernard Shaw.

'Positive Thinking'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — his latest press conference as anxiety over the war in Viet Nam has mounted here and abroad, President Johnson has made a point of displaying personal calm in this time of stress.

The President spoke so softly and with such restraint at that reporters found it difficult to catch his words about the Viet Nam crisis. Last week Johnson took correspondents on an impromptu stroll across the White House lawn to exhibit his relaxed though serious demeanor. The second of several reception-briefings the Johnsons are currently giving in honor of Congressmen and their wives was largely given over to displaying the same picture of Presidential composure under pressure.

The President turned his attention to reassuring the rest of the world as to the steadiness of the U.S. Commander-in-chief's hand on the trigger. Unannounced, the President briefly left the Congressional reception in progress at the White House to drop in on the top-ranking party in town that evening, the "Secretary of State's annual white-tie dinner for the chiefs of 113 foreign missions in Washington.

The purpose of this surprise appearance was the same as the other Presidential moves mentioned above. Johnson sought, and by first-hand accounts did, convince these key international diplomats that the President of the United States is sincerely opposed to widening the war in which we are entrapped in Viet Nam and dedicated to that purpose.

The major message President Johnson sent to Congress also seemed aimed to promote positive thinking in places of fear of a larger war.

That message dealt with the long-term task of restoring the nation's natural beauty. The facts the President cited brought out the number of wars remaining to be won at home.

Every major river system in this country is now polluted. The President reminded Americans. Every day almost 350,000 tons of sulphur dioxide and other pollutants are released into the air we breathe from industrial and auto fumes.

Dead-car junkyards and interstate transmission lines mar the landscape.

These and the myriad of other facts Johnson's message cited are hot news. That the President chose to bear down on them in a way reassuring, however. Apparently he is confident that Americans will get out of the Viet-nam crisis with something left to beautify.

'Poverty' Out
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U. S. Information Agency (USIA) has forbidden its employees to speak to foreigners about President Johnson's "war on poverty." A circular sent to all information posts abroad instructed personnel to call it the "equal opportunity program."

Wives, clip out this Case Record and place it beside your husband's dinner plate. For American men often rate only a "D" grade (sometimes an "F") in their love artistry. And many young suitors are as quantitatively-minded as the Indians who boasted of the many scalps dangling from their belts. Send for the sex book-let below.

CASE V-414: Dr. Sam Sheppard was released from the Ohio prison last summer.

And, within a few days, he married an attractive German waitress who had been writing to him for several years.

Her name was Ariane and she explained their romance in a series of newspaper articles.

Therein she mentioned that she sent Dr. Sheppard some bath towels. But when she had mentioned, colored bath towels.

Her intention of mailing him those towels, he asked her to use them herself and then send them to him without having them laundered.

For he wanted to feel the extra closeness of her person by thus having towels that she had personally used!

Yesterday I mentioned the vital role that the sense of touch plays in producing romance, as well as in maintaining it.

For love flourishes on the tactile sense, much as flowers demand water in order to reach full bloom.

Women (as well as children) get a double thrill out of an affectionate pat on the back or a quick hug, or even momentarily to rub cheek against cheek.

Smart husbands learn the vital importance of mixing these gentle evidences of their affection with their daily conversation with loved ones.

But thoughtless males act as voracious in the realm of love as when hungry teenagers sit down at the table and bolt their food in wolfish style, after which they rush away without a single compliment to the cook.

"Dr. Crane," I have often had girls explain, "I'm much rather have a date with an older man than with a boy of my own age."

"For the older men are more artistic in their love making. They will caress you and keep their arm around you but not act as if they are so starved for kisses that they ignore all the nice little evidences of courtship."

"In fact, they whet a girl's romantic interests until she is eager for more."

"But younger men rush in with little finesse or understanding of female psychology. They seem more interested in quick conquest so they can rush on to a different girl."

"And they will often boast about their many previous girlfriends."

"Young men thus seem quantity-minded. They want to add girls to their string of conquests, much as the Indians boasted of the many scalps on their belt."

"But older men are experienced and work up a girl's emotions by tantalizing slowness and caresses. So they make the better lovers."

Men, you better heed those comments for they are the universal remarks of women. Chronic complaints reach me from wives who also lament that their husbands rush into romance with little finesse or prelude.

"They offer us wives no more romantic build-up than they render to a sirloin steak." Is the way one cultured wife describes it.

plation of the Cross State Canal, Sanford can become the shipping point for import and export for the whole of the state, for both agriculture and dry commodities. This smells like green-stuff, but somehow, a lot of people have lost their nose for it. Perhaps it has been so long since the locals smelled green-stuff, they just don't recognize it.

Open the Marina, and with it will come tourists, right off Interstate 4, down 17, off of 96, and God alone knows from what other arteries and veins of land transportation, and up the St. Johns River, to spend time here in our city. This will bring the necessity for hotels, motels, restaurants, drive-ins, and with the tourists, will come the necessity to build bigger play areas. Parks, water sports, fishing excursions, etc. . . . Solidly behind all this will come industry, because it will have outlet for its products . . . and Sanford could be known as the "biggest little city in Florida."

That is what it could be! Any one care to eulogize on what it is?

I say to you Sanfordites: Blame not the City Fathers; blame yourself for not putting out to pasture the old work horse whose grown too tired to work, and now expect him to produce for you as he did when he was a two-year-old.

Seems to me, the people are waiting for the harvest, when they forget to plant. One who believes in our town.

Editor, The Herald:

The only thing between making Sanford into the industrial and transportation center for the whole of Florida, as well as the sports and scenic center for the entire mid-state section is the dilapidation of the people within our city.

There is at this time, a bottleneck on the plans for the Marina, and this lies in the conference room of the City Commissioners. The battle is on once more between change and progress, and the money it will cost for it; or the slow death of the town, because someone doesn't think we should spend to improve what he likes as is, or is just too bullheaded to see the handwriting on the wall.

It isn't his fault! We had the chance at election time to put new and active blood into the City Commission, but too many people just couldn't get interested in their own advantage to spend time on the candidates, and so the same old tired blood still flows in the veins of our town.

Political Notebook

WASHINGTON (NEA) — This capital today is overhung with stale air. It has about it a gray look that winter's overcast cannot account for.

More than ever it is a gathering place of problems. Yet most of them—large, lingering unemployment, educational deficiencies, racial unrest, urban sprawl, rising crime, a deteriorating South Viet Nam—are of the creeping, crawling variety.

Crisis demanding bursts of commanding leadership are missing from the scene. There is no "great occasion" to which a leader can rise. There are simply many small, ordinary occasions, which neither singly nor together seem to draw out extraordinary stewardship.

Taken as a whole, the problems of a creeping nature appear nevertheless to require immense attack. Set in a matrix of unparalleled prosperity, these difficulties are not readily accepted for what they are. Still, they demand attack.

No one in Washington is giving that attack any sense of urgency—if that is possible. President Johnson sends to Congress a cascade of messages calling for action. But a perfunctory staleness surrounds them. They are quickly swallowed up in a city that pours out words by the millions.

The Congress is a glacier of white marble, whose motion is imperceptible in a time when change, driven on by science, whips the nation in daily revolution.

On Capitol Hill the once familiar towering figure is not seen. Not for years has a truly great speech been heard in the two legislative halls.

Congress never has pretended to be a collection of superior men. One young veteran guesses that no more than 100 of 435 House members know well how that body works, and barely 50 do the real labor. Among those 50, as among their counterparts in the Senate, we find no heralded heroes today.

But in earlier years we did. When the great speaker of the House, Sam Rayburn, died in 1961, it was said his like would not be seen again, that the days of the open land which raised him up in Texas were gone forever.

Rayburn grew up in a time and place which could shape granite into men. Today the soft indulgences reach into nearly every corner. The institutionalized society of the 90s molds clay figures. Hardness, toughness and boldness are little heard and felt.

Some observers say further that this nation and this capital have no stunning leadership because society does not want such uncomfortable governing in an age enervated by affluence.

Nonetheless, granite should still, if it is here. Britain after World War I did not "want" Sir Winston Churchill. He spoke to his view of the rightness of things anyway. And suddenly, in 1940, a solitary figure complaining against trends was a nation's champion, turning a strong tide.

Washington, a good window on the country, is a place of problem-solvers. Yet the grasping with problems, while general earnest and sometimes dedicated, is most often unimaginative, unexciting, uninspiring.

If the age is atomic, it would seem the energies of men should at least be electric.

The problems gathered here are taken day by day, in a curiously floating, surface atmosphere. A nation increasingly mobile and rootless as "guided" by men who themselves appear rootless, linked to last week and last month but no more.

February is the month Republicans call up Abraham Lincoln and Democrats speak of Thomas Jefferson and An-draw Jackson. It requires no clairvoyance to forecast that this summoning up of greats will be, as in prior years, perfunctory and unreal.

No American speaks with genuine force and devotion to these heroes—or of Washington, James Madison, John Quincy Adams, the underrated James Polk, the sturdy Grover Cleveland, Theodore Roosevelt, Woodrow Wilson. These makers of the nation are not invoked by today's gray figures, whose vision falters beyond 1960.

Many who watched on their screens the last tribute to Sir Winston Churchill are saying it may have been the final glory of old Britain. But this renewal of human touch with the sheerest greatness was also an embarrassment to Americans. It was a hard reminder of our dull skies and nearly leveled plain.

The problems of an era rushing on heading are ever fresh. Yet the air does not tingle with freshness. We are engulfed in little movements. There is no big motion, and evidently no one in the land to provide it.

NEWEST CLUB at the Sanford Naval Air Station is the Enlisted Men's Wives Club of RVAH-3.

Others elected were Helene Pratt, vice president; Vicki Bower, secretary; Janet Painter, treasurer and Pat Beers, chaplain.

Mrs. E. P. Brown, wife of the commanding officer of the squadron presided over the election of officers.

The new club decided that these officers will serve until June, giving members a better chance to become acquainted with each other.

They also decided to postpone choosing a name for the new group until next month, to give everyone time for thought.

The second Thursday of each month is scheduled as a regular meeting date and dues were set.

Mrs. Checefsky appointed the following committees: telephone, Pat Bernal, Dee Brister, Gloria Kennedy, Nancy Lackland and Jean Morris; refreshments, Nancy Frederick, Pat Moylan and Maxine Scarborough.

Carole Surbrook was named publicity chairman. The Navy Wives meeting room was gaily decorated with orange and white carnations and two walls were replicas of male and female dragons.

A delectable double-Valentine cake, decorated with red roses, centered the refreshment table, (the creation of June Dunham) and two trays of Italian pastry were contributed by Gina Hayes.

Members of the new club were invited to attend a showing of a cancer film at the RVAH-3 EM Wives meeting, at 7:30 p. m. today in the ballroom.

Next meeting of the RVAH-3 wives has been set for March 11, 7:30 p. m. at the NW meeting room.

Members of the new club, (besides those already named as officers and chairmen) include Dee Anderson, Tish Bills, Theresa Britton, Joe Brown, Jo Carmack, Kathy Erhold, Janet Hall, Sharon Hutto, Sandra Moody, Pam Reardon, Arlene Somerville, Sandy Squires, Fletcher Thomas and Jan Turner.

Guest at the meeting was Lucy Perduci.

NEEDY CHILDREN in Seminole County are going to be healthier if the NAS Station Wives Club has anything to say about it.

This group just presented 3,500 vitamin pills to the Seminole County Visiting Nurses Association to be distributed to children who otherwise would not have them.

Mrs. Ruth Swanson made the presentation on behalf of the Wives Club to Mrs. Grace Fisher, head of the VNA, Friday. The pills were purchased at cost by the club used to buy a water cooler which was presented to the Good Samaritan Nursing Home in December. The group plans to keep the VNA supplied with the vitamins as needed and all fund-raising ventures will be aimed toward this philanthropy.

"LAST DAY today for officers wives of RVAH-3 to make their reservations for the luncheon at the Crighton Gardens Restaurant Thursday, admonishes Joan Moore, publicity chairman for Three.

At the recent bridge held at the BOQ Jean Dunn was high, Kaye Richmond second and Fran Hawkins, low. Kaye and Evelyn Fitzpatrick were hostesses and of course, they did a Valentine theme with refreshments and decorations.

CAROLYN LAVENDER has been named new publicity chairman of the Staff Wives club, replacing Jean Ebberts who will be leaving soon.

This was the main item of business at the recent meeting held at the home of Demaria Farrell. The group also heard a report from their NOWC rep, Betty Wilhuck.

Shirley MacDonald, wife of the chaplain was a guest. Next event will be a bridge party at the home of Sybil Dunleavy, Thursday.

Judy Rickey of VAH-1 Tigrettes was honored at a coffee last week at the home of President Elaine Orazi.

Judy, whose husband is leaving the Navy in July will soon be moving to Jacksonville. A pencil with her birthstone on it was presented to the honoree.

A film on cancer will be shown at 7:30 p. m., March 4 at the ballroom and all wives are invited to attend. There is to be a physician present to answer your questions.

TWO NEW families have been welcomed to Sanford by RVAH-13 EM Wives membership chairman Sandy Harrington, publicity chairman Sue Maurer reports.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Sowers have moved here from Memphis and reside at 919 S. Park Ave. The Dewey Wards, who were recently attached to Three have returned here via "B" school in Memphis and are now residing at 121 Hayes Drive.

The club will soon have as a special centerpiece a "Tori," the Japanese style gadget which is used to support the squadrons "bat" insignia. This miniature replica is being made for the wives by Lyle Bramwell and John Mayer. Sue notes that the "Tori" may only be used by squadrons who have been in WESPAC.

At the board meeting held recently the group discussed ways and means of raising money for their club projects and members were asked to put on their thinking caps for the meeting Thursday at 1 p. m. in the Navy Wives meeting room.

"Bring your ideas and your votes," says Sue.

AUDREY REEVES was installed as new president of the CPO Wives Club at a recent dinner ceremony when through the assistance of Gordon Kellett of Liggett Rexall Drugs store in Pinecrest Shopping Center.

Money was raised by the "treasure hunt" sale and other endeavors. And that's not all. Some of this money was also received the gavel from outgoing president Mrs. Ira Jarrell.

Installed to serve with Mrs. Reeves were Mary Wiggins, who was re-elected vice president; Pat Bernal, secretary and Lou Schwere, treasurer.

A silver tray, appropriately engraved, was presented to Mrs. Jarrell as a gift of appreciation for her outstanding service during her term of office. Other gifts were presented to other retiring officers.

Following the dinner and ceremonies, the CPO Wives and their husbands enjoyed dancing.

HIGH POINT winner for the recent RVAH-9 "O" Wives Bridge held at the home of Pat Bureh was Dossie deGanahl with Arvie Atkinson taking second. Special guests were Bea Coffee and Sally Joiner. Friday evening the group will hold a steak cookout at the home of Kathy Henson.

LIBBY COX was hostess to the RVAH-7 officers wives coffee last week, with Mary Elizabeth Dresser as co-hostess. These two also happen to be on duty at the Thrift Shop this month.

Betty Enney presided at the business meeting and the club heard a report from their NOWC representative, Bonnie Denault. Ruth Donaldson reminded the group that bridge is planned now for three times a month, with the next one scheduled at the home of Emily Joyner on Thursday.

Around a centerpiece of orchid staters arranged by Arlys Chapelaine, the hostesses served Danish nut ring, French puffs and cheese and pepper biscuits with ham. Kathy Mantel was welcomed as a new member.

REPRESENTATIVES of all squadrons, both officers and enlisted men's wives gathered at the Navy Wives Meeting room Monday morning to begin planning the decorations and equipment that is needed in order to make it a pleasant and pretty place to meet.

Presiding was Emily Law of the Station Wives. The group plans to ask for trading stamps books to help with purchase of necessary items, as well as donations of eating utensils, lamps and other decorative items.

It was decided that a Tahitian motif would be the central theme of the decorations with everything else, drapes, slipcovers and so forth to follow this theme as much as possible. The group plans to meet again soon, bringing items they have collected and assessing what else will be needed. All will report back to their own club as to progress they are making and what needs to be done.

Two South players chose the old fashioned bid of one heart. In each instance West overcalled with one spade and South failed to get to game. Of course, these two South players also made 10 tricks but they scored 170 instead of 600.

In International Match Point scoring as in rubber bridge it pays to bid even money games and this heart game was almost exactly even money since it depended on the location of the king of clubs.

On the other hand the result here showed the luck in duplicate. The two pairs who missed game lost nine IMPs each. Shift the king of clubs to the West hand and they would have picked up five IMPs each instead of losing nine.

Of course, the loss was their own fault but their opponents picked up the same nine points each for merely sitting at the table.

Dear Abby:

DEAR ABBY: So you say whether contagious or otherwise. It is possible that when you removed two "warts" from the face of your customer one of them may have been a cancer, and the high frequency treatment that you used could have spread malignant cells into the bloodstream.

It is also possible that when you remove blackheads, you are unaware that your customer may be a diabetic or suffer from hemophilia (a bleeding disease). Highly qualified dermatologists require special laboratory techniques before they know whether a scaling of the scalp is ringworm or ordinary dandruff.

So my advice to you is to perfect your skill as a barber, and do not trust even the best-trained surgeon you know to cut your hair. He might get carried away and scalp you!

DEAR ABBY: If your husband, who had always been very conservative, suddenly and for no apparent reason or occasion, give you an expensive monogrammed vanity case, would you be suspicious?

BROWN EYES DEAR BROWN EYES: Not if they were MY initials.

When we did get married, I still couldn't bring myself to tell him the truth, so I gave my age as the same as his for the marriage records. To this day he believes we are the same age. This has bothered me, Abby, because I feel that one day he might find out. Should I let him go on thinking I am five years younger than I really am?

AGE PROBLEM DEAR PROBLEM: Tell him the truth. Deceiving him in the first place was wrong, of course. But any woman who can knock five years off her age and get away with it deserves a little credit for having preserved herself so well.

DEAR ABBY: I was very pleased with the way you answered the young man who insisted that his widowed mother wear her wedding ring, so people wouldn't think he was "illegitimate."

I have been married for four years and have one child and another on the way, but I do not wear jewelry of any kind. Not even a wedding ring. The reason for this is simply cannot stand to have anything on my fingers. It makes me nervous.

When we did get married, I still couldn't bring myself to tell him the truth, so I gave my age as the same as his for the marriage records. To this day he believes we are the same age. This has bothered me, Abby, because I feel that one day he might find out. Should I let him go on thinking I am five years younger than I really am?

AGE PROBLEM DEAR PROBLEM: Tell him the truth. Deceiving him in the first place was wrong, of course. But any woman who can knock five years off her age and get away with it deserves a little credit for having preserved herself so well.

DEAR ABBY: I was very pleased with the way you answered the young man who insisted that his widowed mother wear her wedding ring, so people wouldn't think he was "illegitimate."

I have been married for four years and have one child and another on the way, but I do not wear jewelry of any kind. Not even a wedding ring. The reason for this is simply cannot stand to have anything on my fingers. It makes me nervous.

I know an unmarried girl who has a child. The baby's "Want to wear the newest? Try a nylon "wind famer," a charming, soft and flattering head scarf.

White wool dresses seem to blossom overnight, every woman seems to have at least one. Seen at a glamorous luncheon in New York were several mature ladies in white "popcorn" brocade suits. If, of course, you are overweight—do forget the white outfits. They advance the figure.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been happily married for ten years. We have four lovely children. When I first started dating my husband, I told him I was five years younger than I really was, because he was five years younger than I, and I was afraid he wouldn't continue to date me if he knew it.

So my advice to you is to perfect your skill as a barber, and do not trust even the best-trained surgeon you know to cut your hair. He might get carried away and scalp you!

DEAR ABBY: If your husband, who had always been very conservative, suddenly and for no apparent reason or occasion, give you an expensive monogrammed vanity case, would you be suspicious?

BROWN EYES DEAR BROWN EYES: Not if they were MY initials.

Troubled? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif.

New varieties of zinnias include white called Daisy Mae and a new zinnia with green blossoms.

The ever popular petunia has colorful new names with the King of Diamonds being a bright red. Melody is double pink and White Avalanche is a variety for hanging in baskets.

'Unwanted Children' May Become Adult Foundlings

Unwanted children of today may have unwanted mental problems tomorrow and the "unwanted" are rich as well as poor. These are the observations of Dr. Emanuel K. Schwartz of the Postgraduate Center for Mental Health, a New York training center for psychiatrists and psychologists.

The population explosion and rising costs of governmental aid for dependent children have focused attention on the unwanted child. "But it is a grave error," Dr. Schwartz points out, "to believe that unwanted children are only poor kids in poor families. The 'unwanted' are found in large numbers among the affluent members of our society."

Dr. Schwartz believes that "unwanted children" represent a considerable portion of the future patients in our mental institutions. There is, he says, no adequate substitute for parental love and care. Children who are deprived of such attention may be candidates for breakdowns in later years.

"While they may have nominal parents in childhood," Dr. Schwartz says, "unless they have a feeling of being loved and unwanted, they can become adult foundlings."

"We find in our clinics at the Postgraduate Center that unplanned children are frequently unwanted children. Many parents, however nobly they try to conceal their feelings," says Dr. Schwartz, "unconsciously convey the 'unwantedness' to the child."

"But the traumatic effects are not limited to the children themselves," Dr. Schwartz points out. "Frequently," he added, "the mother and father, as well, are afflicted with emotional disturbances as the result of an unplanned addition to the family."

"Says Dr. Schwartz: 'In an age when science has given us the means for family planning, such as birth control pills and other forms of fertility regulation, it is incredible that we in the U.S. are still producing hundreds of thousands of unplanned and unwanted children every year.'"

Oviedo High School King And Queen Crowned At Sweetheart Ball

By Evelyn Lundy
An evening of enchantment was enjoyed by Oviedo High School students Friday evening as they attended the coronation of Miss O.H.S. and Mr. O.H.S. and the Sweetheart Ball which followed.

The stage was breathtaking in its beauty and simplicity; as the curtains were raised, one saw a gigantic red valentine interspersed with touches of white. Behind the valentine and on either side were placed white wrought iron chairs.

Rex Brooks, master of ceremonies, announced the attendants as they came in. Jimmy Beasley and Hank Tulp, Sophomore boys, walked from the rear of the auditorium to the stage and waited for the Sophomore girls.

Linda Riggs and Gay Stiver, who came from the side entrance and descended the stairs, walked across and then up on the stage. Linda wore a white floor length sleeveless sheath and Gay's gown was a pink satin sheath with large rolled collar.

Next the Junior escorts were announced. Tim Colbert and Wayne Jacobs escorted Joy Walright and Sheril Bullington. Joy's dress was of royal blue satin and Sheryl's was a white sheath. All the girls carried a heart shaped bouquet with red and white carnations.

Senior attendants were Karen Janson and Jimmy Courier.

er. Karen's dress was red and white with empire waistline and she carried a larger bouquet similar to the other girls. The long awaited moment came when Miss O.H.S. and

KING AND QUEEN OF Oviedo High School were crowned Saturday night at the Sweetheart Ball. Karen Jansen crowns the new queen, Marilyn Partin, who will reign as Miss O.S.H., and Jimmy Courier crowns Ted Bellhorn as the reigning king.

Mr. O.H.S. were announced. Popular Seniors, Marilyn Partin escorted by Ted Bellhorn, walked on the stage and behind the large valentine. Marilyn was crowned by Karen with a rhinestone studded tiara. Jimmy crowned Ted with a red and white crown. Lovely blonde Marilyn wore a bluish pink floor length gown of taffeta satin. The sleeveless bodice featured a round neckline which v-ed in the back. Also on the bodice was iridescent sequins, which descended in a scroll effect into the bell shaped skirt. She wore matching pink satin slippers and carried a large heart shaped bouquet of pink carnations bordered with white garlands.

Songs were sung by a group of girls composed of Beth Gore, Karla Anderson, Cathy Rook, Carol Simmons and Darlene Meek.

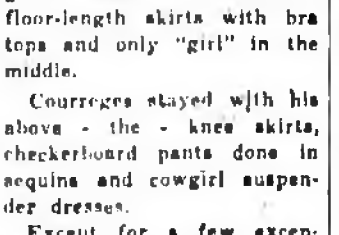

The queen and her court left the stage and went into the cafeteria where Marilyn and Ted led the grand march; after which the first dance was by the queen and her court only. Music was furnished by the "Ice-men".

The cafeteria seemed to have been touched by magic. Shiny red and white streamers were hung from the four corners to the center, from which several large red valentines were hung. Red cupid and red and white valentines hung from the streamers. Card tables were placed around the dance floor and on each one was a lighted red candle.

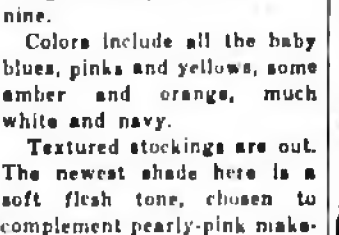

The refreshment table was covered with a white cloth with red paper valentines attached to it and red candles were also used. A large valentine decorated cake and punch were served to students and guests. Talented Marguerite (Mrs. James) Partin was chairman of the entire affair.

Chaperones for the dance were Mr. and Mrs. James Partin and Mrs. B. G. Walright.

Charming Program Outlined To Aid Untidy Teeners

NEW YORK (UPI) — A woman leader in the cosmetics field decries the "general untidiness" of today's teen-aged girls.

Not content with just being critical, however, she is spearheading a national project to put today's teens on their toes in matters of make-up, manners, and grooming.

"The way I feel about it," said Marion McDonald, "teen-agers must realize they're going to have that face around for a long time. They must think, 'what'll I look like at 40?'"

That "general untidiness" frets her, she said. So do bad manners — "there doesn't seem to be much respect for older people," said Mrs. McDonald, who has a married daughter, 24, and a stepson, 19.

She puts part of the blame on parents who have "shirked responsibility and put it all on the school." "To me," she said, "it is not the teachers who should be responsible for how children dress, act, how they come to school."

Some mothers set "deplorable examples" for their daughters, Mrs. McDonald contends, by going to such as the supermarket in curlers.

Add to this, she said, is the fact that today's teenager is more independent of authority than ever before because he or she is affluent as generations before never have been.

Mrs. McDonald is director of beauty and fashion for Du Barry, which working in cooperation with the Ladies Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW) has begun a teen charm program. The auxiliary has 6,700 locals with some 400,000 members. The auxiliary believes it is the first voluntary organization to make such a program available to teen-aged girls.

Mrs. McDonald said in an interview that the "herding" instinct is one of the strongest influences on teen dress and grooming.

"They have the same fads, the same idols, listen to the same music, wear the same camel's hair coats," she said. The course hopes to show the girls that there are things meant for one individual, not for another, she said.

"Long hair may be for this one, but a pixie cut for another. A girl with heavy legs should not be in knee socks."

I asked Mrs. McDonald if she thought the modern teen tried to emulate the Johnson girls in the White House, as their mothers by the millions copied the Jacqueline Kennedy look.

"I don't know," she said. "I do think, though, that the Johnson girls are so nice and wholesome-looking that to copy them would be wonderful."

Girls Will Be Girls Again In Soft Seductive Styles

PARIS (NEA) — Three looks emerged from the Paris spring collections—the body-soft, the little girl and the tough chic à la Courreges. But one message sounded loud and clear. You can pile all your straight up-and-down skirts on the scrap heap. They're OUT.

Casual, soft, seductive, fluttering are the leading fashion directives launched by the men who dictate what women will wear.

Hemlines remain in the knee area for the most part, but skirts swirl with pleats and flounces. Bias-cut, floppy bodices anchor at the natural waistline or just a bit higher. The shift is still favored, but this time a clever bias cut makes it cling softly to the figure. And sleeves are back, always slender, but in varying lengths.

The tempo unleashed in a teacup last year over pants suits for street wear has died down. They have all but disappeared from the scene.

Necklines seldom plunge and when they do, they are veiled in gossamer chiffons.

Jacques Heim still shows pants, but they are either very wide culotte skirts or slick pants worn under a full pleated skirt.

Gerard Pipart for Nina Ricci shuns the "little girl look" in favor of the sophisticated woman. He showed lots of flying panels on skirts and siren shifts for evening, slit to the knee.

Mare Bohan for Dior produced a collection for all ages. There were delightfully jaunty "schoolgirl suits" and tunic ensembles inspired by Indian rajahs, both in line and color. His evening gowns are reminiscent of the Gay Nineties and have a new hemline which stops just above the ankle.

GAY ULREY, ARTHUR EVANS, Judi Monitor and Marshall Lingo.

Talented Music Chairman Entertains Oviedo Women

By Evelyn Lundy
A sparkling Valentine theme prevailed at the Woman's Club Friday when members gathered for their regular monthly luncheon and meeting. Red cupid and yellow rose lilies were attached to the walls and quantities of pink azaleas were used in arrangements. On the speaker's table the arrangement was of scarlet carnations.

Valentine napkins were also used with small paper cups of Valentine candy at each place.

Mrs. Dan Dinda gave the devotion. Mrs. Lynn Mosier, Woman's Club chairman welcomed all members and guests, after which the pledge of allegiance was said.

A delicious chicken and yellow rice lunch was served by Mrs. Emmet Waltz and her committee, Mrs. J. H. Staley, Miss Ruth Davidson, Mrs. T. B. Clonts, Mrs. Robert McCallister, Mrs. Harold Culver and Mrs. Harold Barick.

The very delightful musical program was given by Floyd Eady, Minister of Music from the First Presbyterian Church or Orlando, who was accompanied at the piano by William Bookhart. Eady told of the great work of Dr. John Anderson who is leaving Orlando soon.

The following songs were sung by Eady: "Without a Song," "House by the Side of the Road," "Friend or Two," "Tell Me Tonight," (the became familiar with this song while doing Red Cross work in Australia), "A Pastoral," "Young Tom O'Devon," "Ain't It a Shame."

The Garden Club Announces Plans For Card Party

Members have made and will contribute a variety of prizes for the occasion. Mrs. Hunt said that the winner at every table will receive an award. She added that any type card game may be played as long as those attending bring their own cards.

Refreshments of homemade cookies and sandwiches will be served with coffee after the games are completed.

Proceeds from the evening are earmarked for the general treasury of the club.

Horoscope Forecast

Wednesday, Feb. 17, 1965
GENERAL TENDENCIES:
 From early AM you have a very good chance to get a great deal of value accomplished by the attention you pay to what may appear to be unimportant details. Through them you can round out a sensible course of action and gain the good will of companions with whom it is necessary that you do operate in greater harmony than has been possible ere this.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19)
 Anything connected with business, home, creative fields can be done with dispatch now, so get on the beam early! Regular associates put their shoulder to the wheel, too. Be productive.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20)
 Getting health and charm improved makes things much easier for you later, especially in social matters. Put your finest skills to work. Get in to the type of hobbies that you like.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)
 An early beginning is the best way to handle home affairs and those in the outside world as well. Getting problems solved, finishing tasks brings fine sense of satisfaction. Be happy, accomplish.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21)
 Stepping out early will see that shopping, business, creative endeavor quickly behind you. Bitting down with partners brings better understanding, too. Be of a very co-operative mood.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)
 Getting books in order and planning to increase abundance is fine during the early morning when your head is clear. Analyze position well. Then you know better how to proceed.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)
 Getting personal affairs well catalogued in your mind is fine in AM as well as planning your social life more wisely. Take any treatments you need. See the right persons.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)
 A good day to get your surroundings improved so that all is bright and colorful, in good taste. Give a helping hand to those in trouble. But do something to get own position improved, too.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)
 Fascinating pals can be helpful in relieving tensions today in the outside world. See as many as possible and make new acquaintances at the same time. Be cordial.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)
 You can improve your position now by proving that you are a fine upstanding citizen through some wise act. Higher-up will be impressed. You gain real prestige.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)
 By expressing the right ideas in proper circles you find that you can increase your success appreciably. Make your letters short and to the point. Show that you have a fine mind.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)
 Getting all of your affairs in order requires tact, diplomacy and precision in dealing with others now. Show gratitude for close ties who have been loyal. Do something thoughtful for them.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)
 Impress those with whom you are contemplating contracts, etc. with your fine ideas and practical knowledge. Show appreciation for their alliance. This increases harmony quickly.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY, he or she will be one of those remarkable persons who will see the needs of those about and know just how to satisfy them. Give the finest education possible that is slanted along philosophical lines and much is accomplished either in the field of business or philanthropy. Have many youngsters about early so that dealing with others becomes a very easy matter.

"The Stars Impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Historic Shrine Bomb Plot Probe Continues

TV Cameras Off To Moon

Rookie Cop Foils Plan

Astronauts' Landing Area To Be 'Shot'

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — The United States launched the Ranger-8 television probe on a 65-hour mission to snap 4,000 more close-up pictures of possible astronaut landing areas on the moon.

The 808-pound spacecraft began its journey on the nose of Atlas-Agena rocket that burst into life after a flawless countdown at 12:05 p. m. in the finale of a two-day nationally-televised space spectacular.

The probe first headed toward a 113-mile high "parking" orbit around earth.

Then, after coasting 12 minutes, its Agena second stage was to act as a flying launch pad and shoot Ranger toward the moon.

If all goes well, Ranger-8 will be pointed toward the moon's Sea of Tranquility during a mid-course aiming maneuver early Thursday to see if the vast lunar plain is as smooth as another of the moon's dry seas photographed by Ranger-7 last July.

Scientists need Ranger-8's pictures to help locate suitable landing areas for a surveyor robot late this year and Project Apollo astronauts by 1970.

If the complex guidance maneuvers are successful, the camera craft should complete its 234,000-mile S-shaped voyage early Saturday after flashing its pictures back to a Goldstone (Calif.) ground station.

The butterfly-shaped probe, nearly identical to Ranger-7, followed a Saturn-1 super rocket that orbited a giant battle-like meteorite satellite named Pegasus Tuesday. The Pegasus craft is sweeping around earth, measuring space dust particles that might endanger moonships.

Work will begin some time soon on the addition of five new classrooms at Altamonte Springs and South Seminole Elementary Schools. Su-Jak Enterprises, of Winter Park, was low bidder.

The Sanford Garden Center building is nearing completion. Garden Club members can't quite believe that their dreams are at last coming true. It's likely that all civic groups will be permitted to make use of the building. The landscaping, yet to be done, is where gardeners can really display their creativity.

Jaycees have set April 8 as Navy Appreciation Day and everyone will have much to celebrate this year — with all the expansion plans for the station coming closer to fruition.

Red Warship Destroyed By Vietnamese

SAIGON (UPI) — The Vietnamese air force bombed and sank a 100-foot Viet Cong warcraft 235 miles northeast of Saigon, a U. S. military spokesman reported today. It was the largest naval vessel the Viet Cong were known to have.

The steel ship—about the size of an American submarine chaser—was found moored and heavily camouflaged in a rocky cove on the coast between Nha Trang and Qui Nhon.

Lt. James S. Bowers, of Lyndonville, Vt., spotted it from his helicopter.

The Vietnamese navy dispatched an armed junk to the scene along with a light observation plane. Both counted heavy fire from the Communist vessel and from shore batteries.

Six Vietnamese Skyraiders were called in and sank the vessel.

Official figures released today by the U. S. military command said the Viet Cong killed and wounded more Americans last week than in the first two years of the American buildup in South Viet Nam.

The command said the toll was 35 Americans killed and 126 wounded in the seven days ending at midnight Saturday. Another American was missing.

A newly revised report on last Wednesday's bombing of the Qui Nhon barracks will raise the figure to 37 dead.

In 1961 and 1962, 42 Americans were killed and 80 wounded.

In the My Tho area 35 miles southwest of Saigon a "sizeable" force of Viet Cong attacked a government outpost and heavy fighting was reported continuing tonight.

DISTRICT MEETING of Women of the Presbyterian Church was held today at First Presbyterian Church in Sanford. Taking part in the program were (from the left) Mrs. Carl F. Schilke, local president; Mrs. Abraham Lincoln, of DeBary, district chairman, and Mrs. Edgar W. Smith Jr., local committee chairman. (Herald Photo)

Russians Talk Tough But Fail To Take Action

MOSCOW (UPI) — Diplomatic observers said today the Kremlin, despite tough talk about the Viet Nam crisis, has yet to commit itself publicly to a specific course of action.

The farthest the Russians have gone was a Soviet-North Vietnamese communique in which Moscow announced plans to "strengthen further" the defenses of the Communist regime in Hanoi.

Observers in Moscow felt the Soviet Union might follow up its promise to North Viet Nam by publicly disclosing the aid measures, most likely anti-aircraft weapons and medical reports.

Unofficial reports in Saigon said Soviet ground-to-air missiles already have reached Hanoi.

The information was not publicly confirmed by the U. S. Embassy. But it came from sources just returned from the North Viet Nam capital, and appeared to be unimpeachable.

Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, in a message to the forthcoming "Indo-Chinese peoples preparatory conference" in Phnom Penh, Cambodia, demanded that the United States withdraw its troops from South Viet Nam.

And Moscow Radio warned that the Viet Nam crisis could trigger a world war.

Thus far the Kremlin's denunciations of American retaliatory air raids on North Viet Nam have been milder than those emanating from Communist China.

The Chinese hinted they would like a tougher response from the Kremlin when they called for "decisive" measures against the United States.

LBJ Opens 'Hard Sell' Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson said today the Treasury will issue new rules shortly that will give business a $700 million tax break.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson began today two days of hard selling today to swing the nation's business leaders behind his program of keeping the bloom on the economy at home and the dollar as good as gold abroad.

A speech this afternoon to the National Industrial Conference Board afforded Johnson an opportunity to plug for voluntary restraint by corporations and banks as the key to reducing the nation's nagging balance of payments deficit.

In addition, the Chief Executive urged businessmen to do their part in holding down prices.

About 1,000 business leaders were at today's meeting of the board, an independent, non-profit organization devoted to research in business problems.

Thursday, many of the same businessmen will meet Johnson at the White House to hear more about his program for ending the dollar drain.

Later in the day, industrialists will go to the commerce department and bankers to the Federal Reserve to discuss specifics.

While most business leaders endorse the President's goals, many are skeptical about his means of achieving them.

Last week he asked industrialists and bankers to hold down their investments and loans abroad until the dollar outflow is more under control.

At first, businessmen expressed gratification that Johnson had called for voluntary restraint instead of government controls.

But now some executives are voicing doubts that they can hold down their overseas spending without losing out to European and Japanese competitors.

Some observers, both in and out of the government, are predicting that voluntary restraint will not do the trick.

They say that sooner or later Johnson is going to have to resort to sterner measures.

Side-Line Hecklers Blasted By Truman

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (UPI) — Former President Harry S. Truman, in a rare public political comment, struck out at critics of President Johnson's policy in South Viet Nam.

Truman aimed his barbs at "side-line hecklers" who neither have all the facts nor all the answers.

The 80-year-old former President's remarks were in a two-page document handed to newsmen at his office. He did not appear in person.

Responsibility for the conduct of foreign policy is vested in the President and "information on that situation has to come from him," Truman noted.

"But this, by no means, puts a President above questioning or beyond criticism," Truman said, "and President Johnson would be the first to affirm it."

"But the President is badly advised in his task, as in the nation, by those irresponsible critics, or side-line hecklers who neither have all the facts—nor the answers."

Bank Prexy Says: Keep Politics Away From People's Money

Since bills have been introduced in Congress to reduce the gold reserve requirements, public interest in money and gold has been running high.

T. E. Tucker, president of Florida State Bank, today issued the following statement: "I support President Johnson's proposal to eliminate the 25 per cent gold reserve requirement against Federal Reserve deposits. In my judgment, enactment of the President's proposal will help preserve the strength of the dollar abroad and, if we continue to keep politics away from the people's money, need not lead to inflation at home."

This is because the arbitrary requirement that Federal Reserve deposits and currency be backed by 25 per cent in gold could prevent our money supply from expanding sufficiently to support expanding production and employment."

"Production and employment cannot grow unless the money available to do business also grows. The President has proposed an acceptable solution to this problem by asking
