By ASSOCIATED PRESS
Louisiana State's defensive platoon, which looked so good last week in stopping Georgia, is having considerable trouble solving the tricky, split-T patterns of mighty Maryland.

The beefy Tiger forewall grabbed nothing but ozone too often in yesterday's scrimmage as Freshman Nick Nicolai, representing Maryland's Bob Sieminski, sliced through for long gains.

Ten Simple Rules Given On How To Run Womens Club

By DOROTHY HOE
Associated Press Women's Editor

There are five and a half million women's clubs in the United States.

This is the figure estimated by the General Federation of Women's Clubs as the number of member clubs and affiliated organizations.

This means there are five and a half million women's club presidents in every country.

At least half of these do not know the basic parliamentary rules for conducting a meeting, says Alice F. Sturgis, author of the recently published "Sturgis Standard Code of Parliamentary Procedure."

Under a Guggenheim fellowship, Mrs. Sturgis, a recognized parliamentarian, has been studying the procedure of a group of national organizations. One of the first things that struck her was the astronomical number of groups in the country.

The U. S. A. The next was the need for a knowledge of revised rules of procedure.

As a daughter, wife and mother of lawyers, Mrs. Sturgis has been steeped in legal atmosphere since childhood, and frequently is called from her home in Piedmont, Calif., to act as an arbiter on parliamentary procedure at varied conventions.

She feels strongly that any one who accepts the presidency or chairmanship of an organized group should at least know what is going on in the room.

For the millions of women who this year will preside at meetings of their local clubs, she suggests:

- 1—Be a good chairman: club for your personal glory. If you put the good of the organization first the personal plaudits will follow naturally. Don't take sides with the common mistake of saying: "My name is to be the best in the history of the club."
- 2—Don't keep on being president after your term is over. There should be nothing dearer than a past president. Give the new leader a chance.
- 3—Be sure that you understand the basic policy of your organization and follow its continuity. If you haven't a policy, get one.
- 4—If you have an unpleasant duty to perform, do it outside the club meeting. Don't use the restroom as center for a cat-and-dog fight. Three-fourths of ineffectual club leadership takes place outside the meeting. Work out any imminent problems or clashes ahead of time, to avoid embarrassment. Use

De Bary Doings

By RAY HENNINGER

"There is no royal road to success," said Ray E. Peck, De Bary's first Realtor. "Hard work and perseverance are necessary to achieve one's goal."

Mr. Peck was born in a lumber camp in East Waterford, Pa. He was one of a family of eight children, only three of whom are living today. Both of his brothers are farmers; one in Pennsylvania and one in Iowa. He attended a country school but was unable to go beyond the third grade because of an accident to his father, who was a lumberman.

A falling log injured his father so badly that young Ray, who was then only eight years of age, was compelled to contribute to his own support. He carried water to the men for 60 cents a week. He worked on a farm and then in a steel mill. Thinking he might make more money as an automobile mechanic, he took a course in auto mechanics and got himself a job. He lasted just three days but didn't like the work and went back to the steel mill. Here he secured the job of inspector for the next year.

When he was in his early twenties he was given his first chance at a selling job. For the next five years he sold musical instruments for a firm in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Simple common sense in exercising behind-the-scenes leadership.

- 5—Follow, don't push. Your job is to carry the wishes of all the members, not to bend them to your own will.
- 6—Watch principles instead of technicalities. You need to know the rules of parliamentary procedure, but you needn't use all your knowledge all the time. Remember that the reason for rules of procedure is to facilitate business and insure a fair consideration of every issue.
- 7—Remember that the president of a club is in the position of a judge. Don't take sides with one faction against another.
- 8—Don't campaign for your own election, or you will make enemies before you start. If you have a fight for the chairmanship, you probably are not yet ready for it.
- 9—In presiding, be sure of these points: (A) That there is a quorum present; (B) That everyone understands each motion; (C) That plenty of time is given to discussion; (D) That the vote is taken accurately; (E) That the will of the majority is carried out and the rights of the minority protected.
- 10—Observe the rules of parliamentary procedure, and you will be safe from legal difficulties, avoid lawsuits and misunderstandings.

HOLLYWOOD

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD Oct. 23 (AP)—The men of Hollywood may be happy to know that Denise Darcel is not bitter about marriage.

The French bombshell told me that marriage is a great institution. This despite the fact that her own marital bliss washed away when her mate, Peter Crosby, splashed a glass of whisky in her face in a New York night club. I said I thought it was champagne. "It was not champagne," she corrected. "That shows you how stories can grow. I guess champagne sounded more glamorous. It was plain whisky. We were having one of our many arguments and suddenly I felt whisky dripping down my nose. That was the end of our marriage."

Today, many weeks and a Mezzacord divorce later, she is still melancholy about marital bliss. "I miss married life," she sighed. "It's no nice to be alone with another person and to share all your thoughts. But next time I will take my time about getting married. The French are right about having long engagements. You should have time to learn everything about a person and know if you are going to be able to get along with him."

But she favors American customs in other regards. She agreed with another French girl, Leslie Caron, that American men are preferable to the French.

"The French court a girl in the old style, with flowers and candy and tender words," Denise remarked. "But once they have won her, she becomes very unimportant. Her wishes are not considered."

"But the American men—ah! They make a woman feel as though she is somebody. Sometimes they do not have as much time for women, because they are busy making money to buy Cadillac cars and garbage disposals and other things. But that is all right, too, because they also can buy milk coats."

Denise said she admitted the Nation's Favorite Dish Found To Be Gooey Red Cement

NEW YORK (AP)—Americans are a strange nation of people united by a democratic constitution and a red cement called ketchup.

It is doubtful which has done more to hold them together. Long debates have been held on what is the great American dish. Apple pie? Pumpkin pie? Fried chicken? Turkey with cranberry sauce? The hamburger? The hot dog?

All these have their passionate defenders. But to any one who rarely travels these United States, there can be but one answer. The great American dish isn't a dish at all. It's a bottle, a bottle containing the flavor in which we favor—ketchup.

Ketchup, also known as catchup and catsup, is no more native to these shores than folks named Smith, Jones, Johnson or O'Hullivan. It is an immigrant. It originated in Malay. It was made usually of mushrooms, unripe walnuts and ripe tomatoes, and was used to flavor soups, meat and fish.

Only after migrating to America, however, did ketchup come into its own. Here its ingredients are tomato puree, vinegar, spices and sugar.

And the secret, gooey semi-fluid graduated from a flavoring substance into an all-purpose food. Your favorite ketchup fan today will eat it through a straw. He will pour it on everything from chicken to a hot dog, and only an iron tradition keeps some enthusiasts from using it to cool their coffee.

In times of prosperity the poor man uses it to moisten everything up bottles, and covers the plate of ketchup in the poor man's "stret folder. He can go up to a

County Commission Will Remain Unchanged Until Jan. 1, 1953

Even though Seminole County is now divided into five new county commission districts, the County Commission will remain unchanged until Jan. 1, 1953 when commissioners from districts Nos. 1, 3 and 5 will be seated. Lloyd F. Boyle, county attorney, pointed out today. These will be nominated in the spring primary next year, and will be elected the following November.

Commissioners whose terms will end on Jan. 1, 1953 are H. B. Pope, O. E. Fouraker and W. G. Kilbee.

Nominations for commissioners for the new District 2 in Sanford, and District 4 will take place in the spring of 1954, and following the fall election those elected will take office on Jan. 1, 1953, when the terms of J. F. McClelland and B. G. Dadd expire.

To be eligible for nomination a person must be a resident of the district which he intends to represent.

In the re-districting, a new District No. 2 was created from portions of Districts No. 1, east of Park Avenue, and District 3, west of Park Avenue. District 3 was eliminated by dividing it, the portion north of the Econlockatchee Creek including Geneva going to District 1, and that south of the creek in the Chulucka District to District 4.

District 14, Fern Park, was taken from District 3 and added to District 4. Old District 2, including west Sanford, Lake Monroe and Paola, and minus the portion taken away for the new No. 2 district, became District 5. The Seminole County Farm Bureau, with Leo Butler as head of its redistricting committee, was largely responsible for reviving the issue of redistricting which it had initiated without result several years ago.

On Sept. 11, in a statement to the Herald, Mr. Butler pointed out that the county commission districts were not divided according to population as required by the State Constitution.

Declaring that the districts were out of balance, he stated that No. 1 district had a population of over 10,000, while that in the Geneva-Chulucka District No. 5 had fewer than 1,000.

Mrs. Vera Mendenhall, county registrar, said more than 100 citizens by circulating a number of voters registered in the old districts.

District No. 1, H. B. Pope, commissioner, had 10,000 registered voters. District No. 2, J. F. McClelland, 1,000. District No. 3, O. E. Fouraker, 1,000. District No. 4, B. G. Dadd, 1,000.

An English friar, Roger Bacon, and a German monk, Barthold Schwartz, both living in the 14th Century, have both been credited with the accidental discovery of gunpowder.

If eye-level were 10 feet high, the ocean's horizon would be more than 4 miles distant.

New Commissioner's Districts in Seminole County are indicated on this map as traced by M. C. Hogan, county surveyor, and by assistant, Alfred Doudney. No. 1 District, is more than doubled in size by the addition of half of old District No. 3 east of Lake Jessup and north of Econlockatchee Creek and including the Geneva Area. The new District No. 2, occupying the center of Sanford, has been taken from District No. 1, and the former District 2, which in-

Majority Of U. S. Business Managers Near Retirement

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP)—Want to be a director of a corporation—sit in board meetings, smoke the president's cigars, and help shape the company's policies?

There are about 40,000 directors in the country, the American Institute of Management reports today, and the majority are more than 50 years of age. The institute thinks it's likely that in the next 10 years at least 50,000 new directors will be named. So, you see, you do have a chance at a job on some board.

Stockholders elect directors, of course. But your chances as an outsider of electioneering yourself a directorship by getting the majority votes of the thousands of stockholders who own the big corporations are mighty, mighty slim.

Stockholders pass on slates of directors presented to them. Now and then a group of stockholders may bring up a slate in opposition to management's nominees. But so rarely is management overthrown this way that it makes top news when it happens.

The institute has looked into the ways people become directors on the some 5,000 corporations in which the stock is publicly and widely held. It finds that there are two ways: 1. Buying up a sizable portion of the stock; and 2. Knowing the right people.

Of the first method the institute notes that when a corporation provides for cumulative voting, the purchase of 10 to 20 per cent of the stock will get you on the board. Under cumulative voting you can vote all of your stock ten times for one man or a 10-man slate. Instead of voting your stock once for each of the candidates.

Most corporations, however, do not permit cumulative voting. And in these companies "the acquisition of a large block of stock across trustees on the part of management, and immediately steps are taken to diminish an individual's importance," the institute says. It finds that "many owners of 10 to 20 per cent of a company's stock do not serve on its board of directors." The usual method, the institute

Super-Snooper Used By Police Detectives

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 24 (AP)—If you see a man kneeling before a lock-pick, an officer is trying to get the lock, better call a policeman.

But if the man happens to be a hater pipe in his mouth, for get the whole thing. "Business as usual" is a policeman.

Or a private detective.

The steel rod he's using isn't a lock-pick. It's a camera. A lens on the end of the tube takes pictures, through keyholes.

And that hater pipe actually is a microphone which picks up conversations and broadcasts them to a nearby listening post.

Herbert Hutton, a private investigator, told the Los Angeles Lawyers Club about the new super-snooper devices yesterday at a luncheon.

Hollywood Stripper Is Still Popular After Dressing

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 23 (AP)—The physical assets of Miss Lili Elbe, almost all of "any way, west had on public display last night.

The statuesque stripper, who went into temporary retirement last week after the law accused her of "lewdly exposing her person," reappeared at a midnight night club with a "silder" act.

The waiting patrons were enthusiastic, even though they accused her of "lewdly exposing her person." But two sheriff's officers present in the role of "pat" duties, failed to applaud.

There was, they said, still too much of Lili.

For the sake of sex, and $5,000 a week, Miss Elbe does an act that is simplicity itself. She dresses and takes a bath.

For last night's "silder" version she peeled off her gown and undergarments behind a small screen, a very small screen.

Sheriff's Capt. Walker Hannon said it was too small.

He also said there should be a screen in front of the big champagne glass in which Lili does her scrubbing. With these modifications, Walker and Capt. Pete Sutton said the show could go on.

"But it still looks like a strip."

Nation's Planning For Civil Defense Rapped By Doctor

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 24 (AP)—The nation's medical planning for civil defense is "grossly inadequate," a doctor charged today. Dr. Paul R. Hawley, chief medical director of the Veterans' Administration, said the Army, Navy and Air Force civil defense hospitals are "grossly inadequate."

He called for a halt in the "grossly inadequate" medical support of military personnel. Many patients, now being cared for by the armed forces, should be transferred to VA hospitals, and teaching hospitals, he said.

The VA's offer of 3,000 beds for military patients has gone begging, the doctor charged. He added that Hines Veterans Hospital in Chicago has the world's best facilities for rehabilitation of the blind but that world's best facilities for a cased a single blind veteran from Korea.

A female straggler may lay millions of eggs in a year.

Elks Give Blood

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Oct. 25 (AP)—Elks Lodges throughout the nation will pledge 1,000,000 units of blood for use in the national emergency.

Howard R. Davis, grand exalted ruler of the BPOE, made the announcement here last night at a testimonial dinner in his honor at his home lodge, Williamsport Lodge No. 113.

Davis said he will meet on Friday with Secretary of Defense Robert A. Lovett in Washington to present the official blood donation pledge of the 1,000 Elks Lodges in the United States.

In the brokerage firm, says the institute.

See how simple it is? Either you own a lot of stock, or you convince the right people that you would be a help to them on the board.

NEW YORK.—It is complete in the life of the American office worker until he is dunned by "the collection taker." This is the hand-in-your-pocket individual who comes up to send you out of your spending money for the welfare of some other character in the office zoo.

The contributions usually are for one of the following causes: 1. Old Joe, the office huncher, has just passed on, mourned by his four bookies and a wide circle of distressed bartenders. How about some flowers for good old Joe, even though he would prefer to be buried with a case of bourbon?

2. Susie, varsity stenog, has quit to go home and have triplets. Let's raise a fund to send at least two of the kids through college. 3. Pat, the young and popular stock clerk, has just come down with a bad attack of malaria in the adenoids. Come on, fellows, dig deep—and let's finance Pat to a week on the Beach at Miami. It's the only way to get rid of malaria this time of year.

Everybody sooner or later gets the chore of going around the office and taking up these collections. And it has two advantages. 1. It keeps you from having to do your own work, and if you make the collection nobody knows whether you actually contributed any cash yourself.

Here are some of the worthy causes of the office fund in every office in the land:

1. The miserly, unprincipled grouch—"If I give you a dollar for a funeral, otherwise, count me out."

2. The push-over-to-management advocate—"Why doesn't the firm have a fund for situations like this?"

3. The doleful donkey—he reaches in his pocket as soon as he sees you, and groans, "don't tell me what it's for. Just tell me how much you want."

4. The happy contributor—"Sure put me down for a buck. I'm glad to do it. I don't have it with me—you put it in for me, will you? Two weeks later he comes up and says, "Say, don't you still owe me that I put in for you to buy old Joe those roses?"

5. The coward—he hides out in the men's room every day until noon so nobody can separate him from the wife. His wife gave him for lunch.

6. The empty-pocketed blues-singer—"See, you know I'd like to buy the mortgage on our television set, comes due tomorrow."

7. The cry baby—"Nobody ever took up a collection for me. I could drop dead in my tracks and nobody around here would even bother to send me a get-well card."

8. The cheerful four-flusher—"I can't get in on it right now. But see me Friday for sure. Now don't forget." He stays home from work Friday, figuring by Monday the whole thing will blow over.

9. The Philadelphia lawyer type—"I think you are going about this in the wrong way. How about getting him workmen's compensation? Has anyone written the Social Security Board? How about taking this up with his congressman? Oh, no that's out. He's a Republican, and he's a Democrat."

10. The average guy he puts his hand in his pocket, gives a wry grin, and folks over the dough he'd hoped to buy a few beers with. But he goes home feeling a little warmer in his heart for knowing the people where he works stick together in little ways, in times of happiness and hurt.

To a person standing at the water's edge and looking out over the ocean the horizon is 8 miles distant—assuming the viewer's eyes are 5 feet high.

The Yukon River is navigable by shallow draft steamer for 3,777 miles.

MARCH OF EVENTS
Foreign Affairs More Vital Than Ever to U. S. Citizen
New Responsibilities Weigh Heavy on State Department

WASHINGTON—International affairs headquarters for the American people is the Department of State, situated about half way between the White House and the Potomac river in the nation's capital. And never were problems more immense, momentous, and diverse thrust upon the diplomats of any nation.

Wars begin when communication between peoples breaks down and diplomatic efforts fail to bring about understanding and co-operative action to solve problems. The United States today is leader of the free world's independent nations that are striving to perpetuate civilization's finest heritage of justice and human rights, and to defend them from Communist international conspiracy manipulated from Moscow's Kremlin.

This new responsibility makes our State department a tangible target of attack by propagandists and headline-hunting politicians abroad and in this country. No other agency of our government stands so immediately under the spotlight of world attention.

Let's look at the organization and functions of the State department. The headquarters is only one of some 25 buildings occupied by the department's 7,000 employes in Washington; it is headquarters, too, for the vast Foreign Service whose 18,000 employes represent the United States in about 290 diplomatic missions and consulates scattered over the world.

You may find this vast organization more impressive if you remember that Thomas Jefferson, the first secretary of state, conducted business with a chief clerk, three lesser clerks, and a part-time translator.

THE DEPARTMENT OF STATE was the first executive department created under the United States Constitution in 1789. Today the secretary of state remains the highest ranking member of the President's cabinet. He is the President's chief adviser in making and carrying out United States foreign policy. He is responsible to the President for operations of the State department and the United States Foreign Service.

So immense, complex and important have become our international relations that most of our domestic affairs have their international ramifications. The farmer in the Middle West, the miner of iron ore, coal and other minerals vital to world economy, the industrial plant worker—all these, along with every other American, feel daily the impact of foreign affairs.

Our foreign relations reflect the will of the American people toward the international issues that face this nation. Secretary of State Dean Acheson recently asserted: "Since every one of us exercises some influence on our foreign affairs, we should all understand how our decisions are carried out by the Department of State."

State department responsibilities are widespread, requiring an extensive organization. An under-secretary works closely with the secretary. Two deputy under-secretaries maintain close liaison with other federal agencies, particularly the Department of Defense, and supervise employes in the State department and Foreign Service.

ASSISTANT SECRETARIES head geographical units: Inter-American Affairs, European Affairs, Near Eastern, South Asian and African Affairs, and German Affairs. Other specialized functions cut across geographical borders: Economic Affairs, Congressional Affairs, Public Affairs, United Nations Affairs and International Security Affairs.

The State department has its legal adviser, its special assistant for intelligence, a counselor, a special assistant for press relations and an ambassador-at-large. Experts in many fields are required: economists, lawyers, educators, librarians, newspapermen, engineers, clerks and stenographers.

United States interests throughout the world are served by these State department and Foreign Service men and women who consult directly with the officials of other nations. Their duties range widely: operating Voice of America and other "campaign of truth" efforts to get American information to peoples behind the Iron Curtain; getting technical know-how to peoples in underdeveloped areas; negotiating treaties; bringing foreign students to study American ways first-hand; issuing passports, and attending each year nearly 300 international conferences.

Hamsters, small mammals widely used in laboratory research, are members of the mouse family.

The production of hams in the United States alone each year exceeds a billion and a half pounds.

The Plantation Estates Gleo Club was started two years ago with Mrs. Walter Taylor as President and Romeo Pajilero as Director. During the first year the dramatic committee of the club put on two amateur theatricals, the second an elaborate Girly Girly Show, with an all male cast, written and directed by Madge Tom, which was a huge success.

This year the officers are Milford Leonard, president; Roy Miller, vice-president; Lol Banks, secretary and Margaret Huck, treasurer. The accompanist is Mrs. Milford Leonard and Mrs. Harry Whitaker, who had been head of the Music Department of the Bay Ridge High School in New York, is the Director. The first meeting of this season was held on Wednesday evening, Oct. 16 and to celebrate the occasion coffee and cake were served to the more than 50 people attending.

Mrs. W. Pugh has moved into her new home on Maple Street and Lake Monroe with the help of her daughter-in-law from New York who is spending a week here with her.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Staer, sister and brother-in-law of Mr. Sal Dilucian are spending a week at his home on Lake Monroe. Mr. Dilucian is on the high seas returning from a vacation spent with a brother in Argentina.

A nursery school for pre-school children has been started in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Gureharr on Enterria Road. Mrs. Eric Blumson is directing it. There will be a community Halloween party for the people of Plantation Estates held at the Club rooms in the Mansion on Tuesday evening, Oct. 30 at 8 P. M. Mrs. George Griffin, president of the recreation committee and her committee will be in charge of the games, prizes and refreshments. We hope to see some of our Navy families there.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bonker of Columbus Road are entertaining Mr. and Mrs. James Murphy of Long Island at their home here for a week.

The 51-12 Canasta Club met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gibbs of Sixth Street on Thursday night. Mr. Aaron Dungan received news that his brother William's wife had passed away at their home in California.

On Friday night Mr. and Mrs. William Toms entertained Mr. and Mrs. Frank Turner and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Withers at a Canasta party after the group had a red snapper dinner at Herbolds in DeLeon Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Gibbs are settled in their new home on Naranja Road and Larg Linda. Mrs. Jean Mortensen has been made happy by a visit from her son Elmer of Hartford, Conn.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Frostcher have as their house guest, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Taylor of Hollywood, Cal. Mrs. Taylor is Paul's sister. Miss Lois Campbell of DeBary

9-Year Old Girl Is Saved From Kidnaper

BOSTON, Oct. 25.—(AP)—A nine-year-old girl—a doll in her arms and a wedding band on her finger—was brought back yesterday from Dubuque, Iowa, where she was taken by a cab driver who faces kidnaping charges.

Little Carol Ann Fowler of Amesbury was quoted by federal officials as saying the gold wedding band was purchased by Clarence L. Dansau, 21, also of Amesbury, before they left the Massachusetts city with another couple Sept. 21.

Asst. U. S. Atty. Edward D. Hassan said Dansau will be charged with kidnaping when he is brought back here, possibly today. The little girl, Dansau, Daniel R. Trafford, 23, and Miss Marjorie Robinson, 17, a waitress, all of Amesbury, were arrested in a motel near Dubuque two weeks after their disappearance.

Iowa deputy marshal Albert J. Halbach said the child and Dansau shared one room and Trafford and the Robinson girl another room.

Hassan said Trafford intended to divorce his wife in Las Vegas, Nev., and marry Miss Robinson. The Fowler girl and Dansau were taken along as traveling companions. The quartet left Amesbury after a birthday party at the Dansau home in the little girl's honor, Hassan added.

dropped by accident near her campsite. Among those participating were Mr. and Mrs. Barney Anderson of First Street, Mr. and Mrs. William Munroe of DeBary Drive, Mrs. Lillian Dee, and Mrs. Bess Patterson.

Mr. and Mrs. William Breyer have moved into their new home on Valencia Circle.

A number of DeBary men had supper with the Men's Club of the Enterprise Methodist Church on Tuesday night. Mr. Kenneth Lindsay has arrived with her little granddaughter to join her husband at their home on Alleano Road.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Thind have arrived at their home on Maderia Road after spending a summer in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. George Skinner and Mrs. Mathilda Germaine all of Naranja Road have taken a motor trip to Cleveland, Ohio to visit family and friends.

Sturgeon meat is usually smoked. From an airplane a mile high, the ocean's horizon would be just 25 1/2 miles distant.

State's Watermelons Loom Large In Sales

JACKSONVILLE, Oct. 25.—(Special)—More than a third of the watermelons sold through the nation by A&P Foods Stores during 1951 were grown in Florida.

A. M. Smith, of Jacksonville, President of the Southern Division of the food chain, reported today that A&P paid more than a million dollars to Florida farmers for 1,078 carlots of watermelons during the past Spring and Summer, as compared to a total of 3,229 carlots purchased throughout the remainder of the melon-producing states.

The 1951 Florida purchases represented an increase of almost 800 carlots over 1950. Atlantic Commission Company, fresh fruit and vegetable buying affiliate of the food chain bought the melons and distributed them to A&P stores in 2,480 cities and towns in 33 states.

When preparing the exterior of a structure for painting, it is important to clean out crevices and cracks around windows, door frames and chimneys with a knife followed by a stiff white broom.

There is an increasing demand for refrigerators and other kitchen appliances in the same color as kitchen walls. Some people are sending appliances to automobile body shops to have them sprayed.
