Three Costly Errors By Locals Aid Azalea Club

Dutch Schneider Touched For Nine Hits By Palatka Crew; Herb Thomas Leads Hitters With Four

Behind three-hit ball by Frank Corley, the Palatka Azaleas blended nine hits off Dutch Schneider with three costly errors and walked off the Municipal Athletic Field last night white-washing the Lookouts by the tune of 6 to 0.

Corley, on the hill for the Thomas outfit, was pitching his greatest game of the season as he held the locals at bay throughout the entire tilt and not one time did he have any trouble.

He fanned a total of eight Lookouts, walking two. He hurled five hitless innings of baseball which were broken in the sixth, when, with two men out, Bob Pitman of the Sanford outfit singled to right field. Not again until the eighth did the Lookouts get another blow as Pitman came up with his second hit of the night, a double to the right-center field wall.

Billy Moore secured his only hit of the night in the ninth when he singled to left.

The Azaleas got to Dutch Schneider of the Lookouts for nine hits. However, the hits were well scattered. Costly errors put the Dutchman in the hole numerous times during the game. Schneider walked four of the visitors while fanning a total of seven.

The Azaleas started scoring in their half of the third inning when Oechialini singled, went to second on a short single to right by Thomas, who was the hitting star of the tilt with four singles

Roosevelt Says Same

Lays Cornerstone For Fair Building

States Western World
Concerned In Controversies Elsewhere

NEW YORK, June 30.—(AP)—President Roosevelt declared on the World's Fair grounds today that the American republics believe the good neighbor policy could succeed on the rest of the globe "if the spirit which has behind it were better understood and more actively striven for."

The President chose the laying of the cornerstone for the fair's federal building to make his new declaration against war and to stress the importance of good neighborliness.

"All of us realize of course," he said, "that affairs of many parts of the world are, at this time, somewhat distraught. Such conditions necessarily accompany wars and rumors of wars."

The President noted that "we in this hemisphere are happily removed, in a large measure, from fear and from the controversies which breed it. In larger measure, however, we cannot remain so, especially because we are so friendly and so good relations with all nations."

"With that in view, the President urged extension of the westward hemisphere spirit to the rest of the world."

"We are against war and have signed among ourselves quietly to discuss differences in such way that possibility of war has become remote. That policy involves also matters of trade and matters affecting the interchange of culture."

He said the World's Fair here and the one at San Francisco would do much toward encouraging world peace.

From the cornerstone ceremony the President went across the fair grounds to the educational building where he was to address the closing session of the National Education Association convention.

Ambassador Takes Issue With Article In Weekly Periodical

NEW YORK, June 30.—(AP)—Joseph P. Kennedy, ambassador to Great Britain, yesterday announced a "complete and unqualified" denial of an assertion in a current magazine article that James Roosevelt, son and secretary to the President, helped get him his ambassadorial post and helped him as well to become "the premier Scotch whisky salesman in America."

The article, by Alva Johnston in the Saturday Evening Post, dealt mainly with young Roosevelt and his career as an insurance salesman.

Kennedy commented on the story as he sailed for his London post.

Reading the section applying to him he commented with a grin: "I admit I am the ambassador. I deny that I am the premier Scotch whisky salesman in this country. I do like, however, to be the best in everything."

Control Group Cites Defects In Market Pact

Committee Believes Improvements Will Result From Ex- periences Of Season

The celery control committee today released a compilation of the defects and the difficulties which in its opinion have hindered the efficient operation of the celery marketing agreement during the past season.

There appears at first glance to be a formidable list of troubles but the committee believes that the lessons of this season's experience will reflect improvements in the future, the report said.

H. F. Steele, in charge of the local control committee office since Secretary J. C. Leticie left to take over other government duties, stated that the committee would later release a list of recommendations for remedying these difficulties.

The lack of a stated shipping policy was listed as the first defect. It was pointed out that a fairly uniform policy had been followed but the lack of a pre-season statement had left many shippers and growers in doubt as to what to expect.

Late organization was also listed as a difficulty by the committee. The committee was organized in January, which, it was pointed out, was too late to get planting schedules established of free procedure and train personnel.

No full accounting of the available celery was given by shippers. The system of reports from ship and growers only the bare necessities of allotments and assessments, but did not account for all celery. Therefore, a check on individual growers, intra-state shipments, and abandoned fields was impossible. It was pointed out also that a few delayed reports hampered seriously the work of the committee.

City To Ask Bids For Two Wells In Fort Mellon Park

Commission Discusses Erection Of Traffic Light On 13th Street

The City Commission last night instructed City Clerk Frank S. Lamson to call for bids for two artesian wells in Fort Mellon Park and gave him authority to accept the lowest and best bid.

The meeting might have been held from Monday night due to the absence of Mayor Higgin and City Clerk Lamson who were out of the city on official business.

Members of the commission examined erection of a stop light at the intersection of Thirteenth Street and French Avenue. The intersection is declared to be a dangerous one and the Commissioners voted a stop light was necessary but the point was brought out that when the stop light buses, cars might start across the railroad track when a train is approaching.

At the last meeting it was suggested that in order to prevent such an occurrence, some arrangement be made with the railroad officials. Mr. Lamson wrote to George Rollins, superintendent of the Atlantic Coast Line, to ask for suggestions. Mr. Rollins replied that large signs placed 300 feet on each side of the intersection might help. The Commission felt that this would not be entirely satisfactory and decided to ask Mr. Rollins to (Continued on page five)

New Cage Constructed For African Leopards At Zoo

Excitement prevailed at the Municipal Zoo this morning when the two African leopards were turned into their new cage.

The cage is 16 feet high and inside there is an oak tree with part of the limbs lopped off. This provides a home for the big cats much like their native habitat. It is built on a concrete base and has an entrance to a smaller one on the outside. The larger cage is covered with a concrete wall on the top as well as the sides.

This morning the zoo attendant, pulled the partition between the two cages but the leopards were rather wary and hid. Their food containers through the opening several times, but they were not leaving from the feeding pan to the top.

After about five minutes, the female slipped into their new home and began to explore, and in a few moments her mate followed.

They seemed bewildered by their new surroundings and eventually snuffed at the corners as they made their way around the cage time after time.

Presently they began to grow used to the situation and the female playfully nipped her mate and he retaliated with a snarl.

Earthquake, Deluge Kill 100 In Japan

Hurricane Is Reported Headed For Islands From China Sea In Wake Of Disaster

297,379 Homes Are Destroyed

Chinese Believe Jap Forces Are Prepar- ing For New Thrust

TOKYO, June 30.—(AP)—A typhoon howled toward Japan's islands in the wake of two days of horror in which at least 100 persons were killed and 200 others were missing.

Tokyo was virtually isolated by the heaviest deluge of rain in Japan's recorded history and by an earthquake which leveled houses and disrupted rail and wire communications.

The central meteorological institute warned all cities in southern Japan to be prepared for a tropical hurricane blowing northward across the China Sea.

The police survey showed 297,379 homes destroyed or damaged throughout the nation and 104 lodges shown. Isolated reports from the north indicated there had been a second earthquake and a total of at least 147 fatalities.

Most of the deaths were in Tokyo and Yokohama. Many rivers burst their banks. Many victims were women and children whose homes were in China fighting with the Japanese invaders.

A typhoon more than 12 inches across fell between dawn and midnight Wednesday.

A cliff behind the Tokyo mansion of Baron Takahira Mitsui crashed down on 12 houses burying 10 persons, 10 of whom were known to have been killed.

Ten others were killed similarly in Yokohama and in Kanagawa prefecture. 70 deaths were reported in scattered regions.

The deluge broke every record since Japan's meteorological observatory was established 80 years ago. Police said 160,000 homes in Tokyo alone were inundated with the water level in many reaching to the second floor.

Emergency calls were broadcast mobilizing thousands of rescue workers from servicemen's societies and other organizations.

In China Chinese military authorities expressed belief Japan was preparing for a new thrust into the heart of China south of the Yangtze River to cut the main line of communications linking Hankow, the provincial capital with the outside world.

He admitted that the Matowchen boom defenses herring Japan's advance advance some 175 miles below Hankow might soon give way under the relentless pounding of Japanese air bombers and gunboats.

As the Matowchen boom, a barrier of junk punks, was being shelled blasted away, Chinese expressed growing apprehension that the Japanese planned an overland offensive below the Yangtze toward the important Hankow-Canton railway.

The Chinese suspected the invaders were planning to cut the railway, source of supplies for the outside world through Canton, at Changsha, in Hunan Province about 250 miles south-west of Hankow.

It was pointed out the steady rise in the level of the Yangtze made the Matowchen boom more vulnerable and brought nearer the time when Japanese gunboats may pass it.

Furthermore the Chinese virtually admitted the mud forts about the boom, mounting old guns, were inadequate to halt Japanese warships once they get within close range.

THE RUSTLE OF A WING

Life is a narrow vale
 Between the barren peaks
 Of two eternities.
 We strive in vain to look beyond
 The heights
 We cry aloud and the only answer
 Is the echo of our wailing cry.
 From the voiceless lips
 Of the unreplying dead
 There comes no answer.
 But in the night of death
 Hope sees a star
 And listening love
 Can hear the rustle of a wing.

 Feed me till I want no more.
 Open thou the crystal fountain,
 Whence the healing streams do flow;
 Let the fiery, cloudy pillar,
 Lead me on my journey through;
 Strong Deliverer, be thou still my Strength and Shield.

The Old Complaint

Statistics show that an average of four pairs of shoes are sold annually to every individual in the United States. On that basis, 40,000 pairs of shoes should be marketed in Sanford every year, but our merchants tell us that not half that many go over the local counters every twelve months.

The obvious conclusion is that 50 percent of the local shoe business goes elsewhere, a large portion of it to Orlando. Now the reasons for this are several, most of them not valid, but nonetheless destructive to the economic welfare of our city and retarding to its progress.

The first complaint voiced is that "I can't get so and so in Sanford." To that statement, there is no answer except: "Have you tried?" If a person has honestly made an effort to satisfy his desires locally then no one will blame him for trying elsewhere. But the truth of the matter is, as numerous instances have proved, that many persons are shopping in Orlando first and Sanford second.

We have had our attention called to specific cases where women have gone to Orlando and bought shoes, returned to a local store and evinced surprise that the identical shoe could be bought here at a lower price. The same thing has happened to other merchants. We know of a case, absolutely authenticated, of a man who bought a suit in Orlando and gave as his reason that he couldn't buy the same thing in Sanford. We know for a fact that the same suit was for sale in our local stores at the same price.

It has been pointed out to us that in many cases women are influenced to buy their clothes in larger towns by the somewhat silly reasoning that it adds distinction to their attire. In other words, to be specific, a dress bought at Bickersstaff's in Orlando, but made by Brad's, is somehow better than the same dress, made by the same company, but sold in Sanford. Somehow we can't get that reasoning.

We have heard the complaint that the local stores do not carry large enough stocks. How can they, when they are not patronized for what they already carry? As a matter of fact, if every house-wife who trades in Orlando would direct her dollars locally, our merchants would double their stocks, remodel their stores, and the city would enjoy a boom.

Last week was the eighty-eighth birthday of Daniel Carter Beard, affectionately known as "Uncle Dan," who, after a fruitful life as an engineer, illustrator, author, teacher and editor, became America's number one outdoorsman and venerated pioneer in the building of the greatest boys club in the world—The Boy Scouts of America. He received birthday greetings from the President of the United States, and other eminent persons from all over the world—a worthy tribute to the father of American Scouting.

A great love for the out-of-doors, as well as for boys, eventually led to his leadership in developing the Boy Scout movement in America, one of the greatest character building institutions, and of no little consequence in the accomplishment of conservation and wild-life preservation.

It is not only a tribute to Dan Beard, but to the nation also that 1,125,000 American boys troop to the colors of the moral code, "On my honor I will do my best to do my duty to God and my country and to obey the Scout law. To help other people at all times. To keep myself physically strong, mentally awake and morally straight."

Distribution Of Canned Orange Juice Increased

LAKELAND, June 29.—Distribution of canned Florida orange juice has become almost as extensive as that of canned grapefruit juice in central states, L. W. Marvin, advertising manager of the Florida Citrus Commission, said today upon his return from that territory.

"In a survey of a number of Chicago grocery stores during the early part of June it was found that 21 percent of them had stocks of canned Florida orange juice," he said, "while last year less than half of them were selling any. Everyone of these stores had supplies of canned grapefruit juice."

A display of canned Florida citrus products at the 11st annual convention of the National Association of Retail Grocers in Cincinnati from June 20 to 23 attracted wide attention, Mr. Marvin reported.

Need a hurry-up meal? Combine all your left-over vegetables with a savory cream sauce. Add some grated cheese and heat. Serve the combination on mashed potatoes (fashioned into cakes or pour it over crackers or toast. You can add a little left-over gravy, too, for flavor.

The oldest part of North America, the first to be elevated above sea level, is the northeastern section.

Blended Florida orange and grapefruit juices," Mr. Marvin said. "About half of those with whom we talked preferred sweetened grapefruit juice, the others liked it un-sweetened. "We talked to many hundreds of independent grocers who came to the convention from all parts of the country. All agreed that canned citrus products are rapidly becoming big sellers. Most of them said they had found that their customers like the Florida products, too."

Mr. Marvin said that the independent retail grocers, as well as their national organizations, are giving growers splendid support in promoting the sale of both fresh and canned Florida citrus fruits.

The garbage can needs special care in summer. Wash it once a week with scalding water and soap suds. Rinse it thoroughly and then air it in the sun. (You'll find a hose or long-handled brush helpful in cleaning.) Line the pail with papers and always keep the lid tightly in place.

U. S. Follows Middle-Of-Road Foreign Policy

Mystery Injected By Uncle Sam In Attitude Toward Others

By MORGAN M. BEATTY
WASHINGTON, June 23.—There's international dynamite behind nearly every headline you read over a foreign news dispatch these days. Examples: the headlines reciting the bombings of Canton and Barcelona, and the Czechoslovak mobilization of troops in the face of Nazi threats. What are Uncle Sam's views about that dynamite? You can get some idea by reading current news stories. For instance, Secretary of State Hull has repeatedly warned against international anarchy. Also, though it got hardly a flicker in the papers, a Senate resolution condemned the Japanese and Franco air raids on defenseless cities. And there's the New York indictment, with the State Department's consent, of high German government officials—it is unusual to say so forthrightly that officials of a friendly power have been spying.

But you've got to go behind the scenes to piece out of the significance of these foreign events and domestic declarations. A recognized American expert on foreign affairs will sum up the international situation something like this: Japan is moving rather frankly on the international chessboard toward domination of what she calls Eastern Asia, from India on the south, to the Siberian coast on the north. Germany is openly undertaking to restore herself to the role of Colossus in Central Europe. Their objectives represent half of the population of the world.

This summer is the logical time for Japan and Germany to consolidate their gains in their respective world spheres for, by next year, the rearmament of Great Britain, the United States, and other "like-minded nations," may be too far along for comfort. Meanwhile, the war news from the Orient and from Spain, especially the stories of air raids, are goading American public opinion into alertness.

The American government is responding to the increased interest of citizens by changing the pattern of its foreign policy to include more show of backbone, and a new element of mystery. Secretary Hull calls it the middle-of-the-road policy. It is definitely not a chip-on-the-shoulder, fight-at-the-drop-of-a-hat policy. Neither is it a peace-at-any-price policy. The main idea is to keep our powder dry (represented by a big navy) and keep aggressor nations dark about what America may or may not do in the future.

Here is the way the men who make our foreign policy have analyzed the international picture:

The most powerful nation in the world cannot afford to say at this critical hour in world affairs that she will not fight for freedom of the seas or any other principle. Neither can she risk a war by keeping her rifles pointed at anybody else's head, and threaten to fire, for Americans actively oppose war.

On the other hand, the men in high places know what American public opinion can do when it gets stirred up. They know what happened in World War days. They recognize that Wilson's ultimatum against the submarines in 1915 was ultimately the piece of paper that drew us into war.

They know that the statements of the world blundered after the war when they strangled Central Europe in an economic vice, until Germany and her sympathetic neighbors were driven in desperation to retaliate.

They feel that America can offer to the world a program of economic freedom, and fair treatment to all, but that she must also stand for the principles laid down in treaties such as the nine-power pact which Japan is now ignoring.

Kennedy Denies James Roosevelt Got Him His Job

he added he never had bought "one-cent's worth of insurance from Jimmy Roosevelt." He had needed nobody's help in getting public positions, he said.

"Kennedy," he said, "is able to get along pretty well without help from anyone."

The Johnston article, he went on, "tries to make me out a phony, but if all of it is as true as the part I have read about myself, it is a complete, unadulterated lie."

The ambassador said he had been amused to hear that press servers had a difficult time in reaching him with papers in a $1,000,000 suit brought against him and others by J. Edward Jones, an oil man, remarking "the papers reported every day exactly where I was."

He added his counsel had been served with a summons on his behalf. Jones claims damage to his business by the securities and exchange commission, of which Kennedy formerly was chairman.

These millions or that fleet will do in a pinch.

The men reason that Germany's advances in Central Europe, and Japan's conquests in the Orient, however justified they may seem, could lead to the formation of a tremendous bloc of nations—nations that would put up "no trespassing" signs on great sections of the world's oceans.

Such a state of affairs, they argue, would inevitably run into America's century-old stand for freedom of the seas. In the event of incidents, American public opinion would flare up as it has in the past.

So the strategy of the moment is to delay the advances of Germany and Japan as long as possible until those nations themselves make up their minds. (1) that world opinion and (2) the fleets of other nations should not be tempted too far. At the same time, America, whatever else happens, must still avoid entangling alliances.

That's why the element of mystery—that business of keeping the other fellow guessing—has been injected into our foreign policy. The men who mold that policy see signs of increased interest in foreign affairs. They feel justified in stiffening our diplomatic tone. They want Germany and Japan to see our millions standing together, plus a tremendous battle fleet, when they look over Uncle Sam's shoulder—and they don't want anybody to know exactly what
