Mayor Joins Church In Drug Prevention Effort

Sanford Mayor Bettye Smith will join members of the Grace Apostolic Temple congregation in hosting a community drug prevention seminar.

The seminar is scheduled for 7 p.m. July 8 at the Westside Community Center on Persimmon Avenue, Sanford.

City commissioners offered unanimous support for the meeting on Monday night and also named July 7-13 Drug Awareness Week in Sanford. Proposal for the special week was made by Commissioner Dave Fart.

The July 8 meeting may serve as a "grass roots" beginning for the formation of a drug task force to provide support, and possible professional counseling, for drug abusers and their families, Mayor Smith said. The session is open to all city residents, she said.

Sanford police Chief Steve Harriett said he has contacted a number of local drug abuse counselors and invited them to the meeting. Harriett also said he hopes to work out an arrangement where these individuals would be willing to provide free follow-up counseling.

The meeting and possible subsequent counseling "would help those people who are at a point where they want assistance and support," Harriett said. "We're saying the avenue to accomplish this is there for them.

However, "The real desire and ability rests with the person who is using these drugs." Harriett said, "If they've really determined they want to change, then it (the meeting) will demonstrate to them there is a better and different way."

Planning for the meeting began last week when

Mayor Smith was approached by Apostolic Temple member Willie Pearl Daniels.

Mrs. Daniels said she "wanted to do something to fight drug use by our young people" and thought an effective tool would be a self-image talk she heard the mayor give five years ago.

The mayor's talk "always stayed with me," she suld. "It made a big impression and helped me realize my own self-worth. I think her message is an important one: something our young people should hear and benefit from."

The mayor will give her talk at the meeting. following the showing of a graphic film depicting the affects of drug use. The film is being provided by the Sanford Police Department.

Mayor Smith's "eagerness" to join and assist the black congregation for the session "proves black, white or any color are no barrier when it comes to people honestly being concerned and wanting to accomplish something." Mrs. Daniels said. "The bottom line is the community coming together against drugs. This kind of thing is what we want our young people to see and pick up on."

"Too many small kids on drugs" is what propried Mrs. Daniels to consider "a plan to show young people that people care about them: that they don't have to throw their lives away,"

Mayor Smith said her supported for the session is founded in the fact that "many young live are being ruined by drugs and much of the city's crime is related to the drug problem."

Sanford Commissioners Approve

New Plan Offers Tax Cut

By Karen Talley Herald Staff Writer

Sanford commissioners have endorsed decreasing the city's property tax rate by 20 cents next year, from $4.38 to $4.17 per $1,000 assessed valuation.

The $4.17 rate, proposed by City Manager Frank Faison and City Clerk Henry Tamm Monday, can be adopted without sacrifice to any of the 1986-87 department and service expansions that were called for under Falson's $15,948.543 budget proposal and expanded upon by commissioners during four days of budget review. Commissioners' $84,646 in additional allocations brings Sanford's tentative budget for next year to $15,996,109 under the $4.17 rate.

The financial formula enabling this was developed by Tamm and Faison during the interim between the commission's budget review on Wednesday of last week and the final session held Monday.

Public hearings on the budget will be scheduled later this summer. It will be adopted on Sept. 22, after a final public hearing that night, and take effect Oct. 1.

The tax reduction is supported through a combination of the $47,566 new construction will generate under the lower rate and the $30,646 expected to be saved by financing next year's acquisition of a public works mower/tractor, rather than purchasing it outright as originally proposed by Faison. These funds are further supplemented by the $6,435 that became available last week, when it was learned they had inadvertantely been included in the administrative services department's budget proposal.

Commissioners on Monday also unanimously endorsed a six percent merit raise for Falson, a new expenditure he said can be incorporated into the buget without affect to the rollback tax rate he and Tamm came in Faison said the approximately $3,000 allocation for the raise will be covered with a firming up of certain round figure estimates contained in his budget proposal.

Commissioners cited the six percent merit increase as being on a par with salary increases all department heads qualify after a year of service. It will be added to Faison's salary in addition to the four percent cost of living salary increase all city employees will receive next year. Falson joined the city in May of 1985 at a $52,000 annual salary.

Commissioner Dave Farr had opposed the six percent merit increase when it was

Games Host Dies At 87

John "Jack" Harrison, a former official host and executive committee member of Sanford's Golden Age Games, died Monday in a Baltimore, Md., nursing home at the age of 87.

Harrison and his wife, Edith, traveled coast to coast spreading the word about the senior citizen games. After seven years in Sanford, when the Harrisons left in 1981 to live in Baltimore closer to their son. John Jr., the 1981 Games were dedicated to the popular pair. They had been married for 65 years.

The Harrisons had been sailing for seven years when they dropped anchor at the Monroe Harbour Marina. They lived on their houseboat at the marina for two years before moving to a mobile home park here.

Jack Horner, president of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the Games, remembers Mr. Harrison as one of the pioneers of the Games and a gentleman in every respect. Horner said Harrison was a retired engineer and made a lot of beneficial suggestions. "When we got the first medals for the Games," Horner recalled. Search Continues For Chamber Chief

The executive committee of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce is continuing its push to find a new president to fill the vacancy that will be created June 30 with the retirement of chamber president Jack Horner.

The committee met for about an hour and a half Monday to briefly go over the six applications it has received to date, and set a deadline of July 31 for receiving additional applications, according to Shirley Schilke, committee chairman and chairman of the chamber's board of directors.

Of the six applications received thus far, one is from a Sanford city commissioner and one from a member of the city's planning and zoning commission. Monday, the committee also formulated a job description containing a variety of specific duties and requirements. and set a salary of $30,000 a year, plus an annual amount for auto allowance, and outlined other fringe benefits.

The latest applicant for the job is William Kerns of Sanford. In addition to Kerns, other applicants are Sanford City Commissioner Dave Farr, Sanford P&Z member Brent Carli, John Boyce of Orange City, Verlin "Vic" Arnett of Sanford and currently assistant to Horner; and David Chacey, also of Sanford and former Longwood city manager.

Kerns is the nephew of former Sanford police chief Roy G. Williams and has a doctorate in social work. He is a recent resident of the city.

Starving Horses Prompt Abuse Probe By Susan Loden Herald Staff Writer

A Seminole County Humane Socicty investigation continued today into the apparent abuse of two horses found starving in Geneva on Monday.

One of the horses, a 4-year-old gelding, was put to death at the scene Monday afternoon by Dr. Hank Kornick of Lake Mary. The other horse has been surrendered to Seminole County Animal Control.

Kornick said today that both animals were "basically starving to death." The horse that was killed was "unsalvagable," he said. And the three-year-old mare may not horse will live.

Humane Society Investigator Barbara Woodall said today that Sylvia Wells of Geneva, owner of the horses, signed both over to Animal Control. The horses were found on Ms. Wells' property off Osceola Road, cast of Sanford, after neighbors reported to the Humane Society that the horse that was killed had been lying in a pasture since Thursday. Kornick said.

Horses, he said, don't normally lie down. The animals were in a field and had nothing to graze on but weeds. The gelding had caten more sand than even a Florida horse would normally eat and that damaged its bowels, Kornick said.

Both animals were "very wormy," Kornick said. He had been told that the owner brought the animals from out of state to Geneva. They were reportedly in bad condition then and the owner apparently did nothing that would improve their condition. The animals, Kornick said, had been starving for well over a month.

Kornick, who doesn't normally treat horses, said he hasn't seen any worse cases of neglect, although he does see a lot of animal neglect.

"It's like child abuse, it's amazing what some people will fail to do to keep their animals healthy," he said.

The mare, Kornick said, has a fair chance of survival. If it lives, Ms. Woodall said, she will seek a home for that animal.

NATION IN BRIEF

O'Neill Refuses Reagan Speech For $100 Million Contra Aid Push

WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Reagan, turned down by Speaker Thomas O'Neill on his request to make a personal appearance, is sending a written message to the House urging passage of a $100 million aid package for the Nicaraguan rebels.

Deputy press secretary Larry Speakes said that Reagan was "deeply disappointed" that he could not make the speech in person and surprised that his request was rejected. He said Reagan would send a written message to Congress by mid-morning today.

The request was relayed by telephone Monday through White House chief of staff Donald Regan.

O'Neill immediately released a statement calling Reagan's request improper and said he suggested to Regan that the president follow the usual custom and address both chambers at the same time. He said Regan flatly rejected the offer.

The White House did not say in its original statement that O'Neill had offered Reagan the alternative of appearing before a joint session of Congress.

Speakes later acknowledged that O'Neill had proposed that Reagan speak to a joint session of Congress, but he said the president did not want to interfere with a scheduled Senate vote on the tax reform bill.

Cohn Disbarred For Misconduct

NEW YORK (UPI) - Roy Cohn, the pugnacious attorney who prosecuted the Rosenbergs, pursued communists with Sen. Joseph McCarthy and defended mobsters and celebrities alike, has been disbarred for "inexcusable" misconduct.

Cohn. 59, who had been indicted and aquitted three times on criminal charges, was banned from practicing law in New York Monday by a unamimous ruling of a five-judge panel of the Appellate Division of the state Supreme Court.

Because the vote was unanimous, the ailing Cohn would need the consent of the Court of Appeals, the state's highest court, to appeal. Cohn's lawyers said they would study the ruling before deciding whether to pursue an appeal.

The four cases the panel cited in disbarring Cohn involved his procurement of a codicil to a will from a half-blind, dying 84-year-old multimillionaire; his failure to repay a 90-day. $100,000 loan to an elderly divorcee for 18 1/2 years: his misstatements on an application for admission to the Washington, D.C., bar, and his violation of a court escrow order.

Claiborne Impeachment Possible

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Impeachment articles before a House panel today say federal Judge Harry Claiborne, who is in prison for tax evasion but refuses to give up his post. is guilty of misbehavior in office and should be removed.

The Judiciary subcommittee on courts, civil liberties and the administration of justice was expected to send a recommendation to the full committee that may reach the House floor Thursday.

Claiborne, 68, has refused to relinquish his appointment to the bench since his conviction for tax evasion in 1984 and still draws his $78,700 annual salary, prompting the subcommittee to move ahead with impeachment proceed-

If impeached by the House, Claiborne, who serves as a U.S. District judge in Nevada, would face a Senate trial to remove him from the office and could become the first federal judge removed in 50 years.

Judge OKs Woman's Death Wish

TOMS RIVER. N.J. (UPI) - The New Jersey Supreme Court, which allowed relatives to remove a comatose Karen Ann Quinlan from a respirator, will now be asked to decide if a fully conscious woman can order her own life-support system turned off.

Kathleen Farrell. 37, a mother of two who is dying of Lou-Gehrig's disease, received a judge's permission Monday to end her pain-ridden life by having her respirator

A judge authorized the woman's husband to disconnect the respirator on his wife's command, but immediately stayed his order until it is reviewed by an appellate court.

'Kathleen Farrell's mind, soul and spirit are imprisoned in a dead body," Superior Court Judge Henry Wiley said in rendering his decision. "To force her to continue this would be cruel and unusual punishment.'

Weinberger Fights For Star Wars

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger has accused Congress of trying to kill "Star Wars" defense research in its infancy because of cuts in the Pentagon's request for $5.4 billion for the program next

The attack on the budget proposal for the Strategic Defense Initiative, as "Star Wars" is known officially, "Is an excuse, really, for avoiding serious thought concerning the strategic problems of our time." he said Monday.

In an address to a largely sympathetic audience at a Capitol Hill conference of the Colorado-based U.S. Space Foundation. Weinberger sought to clarify the administration's SDI goals while scolding members of Congress for 'seeking to denature" the vast project "through anemic funding levels."

Air Safety:

Is The FAA Losing Control?

By Timothy Beanon
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Stung by a 1981 training scandal, the FAA's air controller school faces new allegations of irregularities. which include boosting of grades and cheating on tests, a federal inquiry and documents obtained by United Press International show.

The allegations are surfacing as the Federal Aviation Administration and its training academy in Oklahoma City face ever-increasing pressure to graduate student controllers into the system, crippled by the 1981 controller strike.

FAA Administrator Donald Engen said in an interview that the restaffing effort is on track, along with a plan to hire an additional 1,000 controllers in the next two years.

Agency officials challenge the findings in an unreleased Transportation Department report, which alleges FAA instructors have awarded grades higher than merited on critical course work, allowing undescrying student controllers to graduate from the academy.

Morris Friloux, superintendent of the academy in Oklahoma City, dismissed as "inconceivable" the possibility that security breaches allowed academy test materials to fall into the hands of student controllers.

UPI obtained copies of two sets of academy tests that sources said were intended to be passed among students at the academy and new enrollees to the school seeking to fill an entry-level, $21,000-a-year controller position.

UPI's inquiry into the agency's restaffing effort and practices at the training academy

-There is new evidence, in the Transportation Department inspector general's report, that FAA instructors have graded students too leniently during critical training phases that measure aptitude in controlling air traffic.

-Despite elaborate precautions, there have been disclosures of academy test materials that allegedly have been passed among students.

-The FAA has miscalculated both the numbers of academy students who will graduate and the retirement rates of veteran controllers, errors that could further crimp the post-strike rebuilding effort.

The draft inspector general's report concluded that FAA academy instructors have "overgraded" students on laboratory simulation problems.

The simulations are a segment of the academy's training that account for 60 percent of a student's total score.

Documents included in the draft report were reviewed by Rep. Gary Ackerman. D-N.Y., chairman of a House Post Office and Civil Service subcommittee on human resources. The panel is examining the adequacy of FAA staffing policies.

Quoting comments by inspector general's office investigators. Ackerman said:

"We believe this (inflated grading) has placed an additional burden on FAA efforts to return the air traffic control work force to full strength and has increased the cost of operating this (training) program.

Ackerman said the documents show instructors overgraded air traffic control laboratory (simulation) problems, "allowing some students to undeservedly pass their academy training."

In the simulations, students are given a set of air traffic situations - such as weather conditions: the number of airplanes landing, taking off or in-flight; and the speed and direction of those aircraft. Then they issue commands to pilots, roles played by other students. The simulations are tape-recorded and later scored. After the grading, the tape is replayed for the student, and errors explained. John Clabes, a spokesman at the FAA academy, said the inspector general's report contains inaccuracies, and Robert Buckhorn, a spokesman at the agency's Washington headquarters, said the report reaches conclusions not supported by evidence.

Buckhorn said that rather than showing grades were padded, the investigators' reviews of the taped simulations indicate instructors did not catch all student errors.

Friloux said he could not comment, other than to say the academy will respond to the report. Although the breadth of the alleged grade inflation is not known, it appears to replicate, in part, irregularities discovered by congressional investigators in 1981.

Then, House Post Office Committee investigators acting on an anonymous tip. found that grades for 14 students, all of whom came within two points of graduating from the academy, were revised upward. above the graduation threshold, by an FAA academy official. Scores on final written examinations were changed for seven students; scores on laboratory excercises, such as the simulation problems, were revised upward to achieve an overall passing grade for another seven students.

Reagan Receives Gorbachev Letter

WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Reagan had a "positive" meeting with the new Soviet ambassador, Yuri Dubinin, who had a special delivery for Reagan which he is now studying - a personal letter from Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev.

The White House declined to reveal the contents of the message on grounds that such communications are confiden-

Gorbachev's letter apparently was in reply to one Reagan wrote several weeks ago urging the Soviet leader to consider holding a second superpower summit this fall in Washington.

An aide said "we view positively" the meeting Monday between Reagan and Dubinin, who presented his diplomatic credentials.

During their 40-minute talk in the Oval Office. Reagan and Dubinin "covered a lot of issues," the aide said. A White-House release termed the meeting "cordial and businesslike."

The two did not discuss a possible date for a second superpower summit, the aide said, which Reagan would like to schedule before the end of the year, nor was a date discussed for a pre-summit meeting between Secretary of State George Shultz and Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Schevardnadze.

In a high school graduation speech he delivered in Glassboro, N.J., Thursday, Reagan urged Gorbachev to give the go-ahead for a Shultz-Schevardnadze meeting.

In recent days, Reagan has made a concerted effort to ease U.S. Soviet relations, which have been strained by his highly criticized decision to abandon the unratified SALT 2 arms limitation treaty.

In his Glassboro speech. Reagan made the first response to a new arms offer made by the Soviets during talks in Geneva, calling it a serious proposal that could be a "turning point" in relations. He added, however that changes would have to be Reagan told The Los Angeles Times in an interview Monday that he was still studying the Soviet proposal, which he says he agrees with in principle since it also calls for arms reduction.

Reagan also told the Times he believes U.S-Soviet relations are "on a more solid footing than they've been for a long time.'

"I think we've made it plain to the Soviet Union that we are realistic," he said. "We see them and what their goals are, and we're not deluding ourselves in any way."

South African Clergy Refuse To Evict Black Refugees

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) - Clergymen defled police orders to evict more than 100 squatters who fled the battle-ravaged Crossroads shantytown and took refuge in a mosque and church in white-only areas of Cape

The refugees are among an estimated 70,000 blacks left homeless by bloody battles between rival conservative and radical black factions. At least 65 people were killed and some 8,000 shantles burned in the battles during May and

Police Monday ordered two clergymen to evict black refugees - mostly women and children - from a church and a mosque in white sections of Cape Town. But the elergymen refused, paving the way for a possible confrontation.

The Rev. Geoff Quinlan said police came to his Anglican All Saints Church Monday in the white Cape Town suburb of Plumstead, where he has given sanctuary to one man and between 60 and 80 women and children.

"The police are trying to put the onus on me to move these people out, and I am not going to do it." Quinlan said after the eviction notice was served.

Quinlan said he consulted the refugees and all said they would like to remain at the church.

"I am not going to do anything," Quinlan said. "I am not going to move the people off."

British Minister To Meet Tambo

LONDON (UPI) - In an unexpected about-face, Britain has invited African National Congress leader Oliver Tambo. whom Pretoria regards as a terrorist, to meet with a member of Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's Cabinet.

The invitation to the acting ANC president was made by British Minister of State Lynda Chalker. A government spokesman said the meeting was scheduled for Wednesday but that Tambo had not yet responded to the invitation. which was sent Friday.

"It will be the first ministerial contact with the ANC," the Foreign Office said in a statement released Monday. "We shall use the opportunity to impress on the ANC that negotiation and dialogue should go forward."

Thatcher previously refused to allow any ministerial contact with the ANC until It renounced violence as a means of ousting South Africa's white minority govern-

But her insistence that the ANC renounce violence was abruptly dropped in the wake of Pretoria's imposition of a state of emergency June 12 that has led to widespread arrests, beatings and news censorship in South Africa.

AIDS Vaccine Progress Reported

PARIS (UPI) — Doctors told a conference on the acquired immune deficiency syndrome progress is being made on a new vaccine against the deadly AIDS virus that has infected up to 10 million people worldwide.

The vaccine was developed by Dr. S. L. Hu of Scattle and has been tested on rabbits, guinea pigs and mice. In some cases it has produced immunity to the disease through the formation of antibodies, the doctors said Monday.

But they cautioned that no results were available yet on testing of the vaccine on chimpanzees, the only animal other than man known to contract AIDS.

"It's a first step," said Dr. Simon Wain-Hobson of France's Pasteur Institute, one of the sponsors of a three-day conference on AIDS that entered its second day today. "This is not to say that it will prove protective. But there are necessary steps to take, and this is one of them." The next step is to see if chimpanzees can reject the virus," said Dr. Luc Montagnier of the Pasteur Institute. "We will probably have the answer by the end of the year. If it works, it will tell us we have to work in the same

Police Thwart Ulster Sit-In

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) - Police stormed the Ulster Parliament early today and dragged out 20 shouting Protestant politicians, thwarting their sit-in against Britain's closing of the advisory assembly.

Shortly before the 2 a.m. raid, nine policemen were injured in clashes with about 500 stone-throwing Protestants trying to force their way into the building to support the sit-in, officials said.

The flery Rev. Ian Paisley led the protest and after he was dragged out, he bitterly attacked police officers, telling them. "If your homes are attacked, don't come crying to me. You'll reap what you sow."

Dozens of policemen's homes were firebombed and police patrols came under attack earlier this year by Protestant hardliners angered over last year's Anglo-Irish agreement which gives Ireland a say in the British-ruled

Trial Begins For Reputed Mob Boss

TAMPA (UPI) - The federal of them were identified by the racketeering trial of reputed underworld boss Santos Trafficante and co-defendant Vincent "Jimmy East" Ciraulo began in U.S. District Court Monday, more than three years after they were indicted.

He also denied a second motion to delay jury selection until the 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeal rules on an emergency motion filed today appealing the denial of the mental exam.

Pretoria's Chaotic March

By imposing an unprecedented nationwide state of emergency to head off black demonstrations to commemorate the Soweto slaughter 10 years ago, the South African government only increased the likelihood that the violence to come would be even bloodier than the earlier incident. It's further confirmation of the unwillingness of the white government to deal with the country's worsening racial crisis by any means other than the application of brute force.

Rounding up hundreds of dissidents, among them church, student and labor union leaders and leaders of the United Democratic Front anti-apartheid coalition, exacerbated an already violent situation. Giving police even more arbitrary authority almost guaranteed they would take the fullest advantage of expanded powers to take whatever action they deemed necessary against those suspected of "endangering public order." The inevitable result will be more bloodshed and further polarization, not only between whites and blacks, but, as indicated by the murderous clashes within the last few days at the Crossroads settlement near Cape Town. between rival black groups.

President P.W. Botha's provocative action underlines the truth in a report issued a few days ago by a group set up by the Commonwealth nations. That commission found South African policies self-deluding. "unrealistic and wholly unreasonable" and dangerously out of touch with the feelings of the overwhelming majority of black South Africans.

The report stopped just short of endorsing international economic sanctions as a means of persuading South Africa that its present course is fatally flawed.

Others, including the United States, should no longer take such a reserved position.

Sanctions against an international outlaw regime have rarely if ever proved effective, out mainly occause they have never been joined in by all major economic powers.

That's why it was incumbent on the Reagan administration to abandon its wellmeant but failed policy of "constructive engagement" by which it has sought to interpose a moderating force between thw two sides in South Africa.

Events have overtaken that approach, and the dangerous drift toward a major bloodbath imposes on the community of nations the obligation to try harder to force a change of course in Pretoria.

That means a serious attempt by Washington to persuade Britain, by far the largest international investor in South Africa. to join in a concerted and rigorous set of

But the greater risk is that what's left of the spirit of moderation and compromise among both black and white leaders in South Africa will be overwhelmed by the growing militancv at the extremes.

God Bless, Kate

When she died recently at age 79, Kate Smith was an invalid who weighed less than 140 pounds. But millions of fans recall her as the large, lively woman with an even larger heart, who epitomized the spirit of patriotism during the Great Depression and World War

Her tireless efforts led her around the globe to entertain troops and sell a record $600 million in war bonds. Thus, it was fitting that when President Franklin Roosevelt introduced her to visiting King George VI of England, he said: "This is Kate Smith — this is America."

She will ever be remembered because of her stirring rendition of "God Bless America." which was her stylistic signature for nearly half a century. The immensely popular radio and television performer had no formal musical training. Nevertheless, her vibrant voice mesmerized network audiences during three decades and brought goose bumps to battle-hardened GIs.

This marvelous singer was truly an American institution: a unifying thread that helped the nation through some of its darkest days. To the very end, she remained the unassuming Southern songbird beloved by millions of music lovers.

Ted Roosevelt's Imperialism - And Ours

I am reading Edmund Morris's remarkable to "American energy - continually demanding biography. "The Rise of Theodore Roosevelt." The Roosevelt era is a relevant time as we move to the Fourth of July Statue of Liberty centennial celebration and try to divine some meaning from the occasion.

In 1893, seven years after the statue was unveiled in New York harbor, there was a World's Fair in Chicago. That fair commemorated the 400th anniversary of the landing of Columbus in the New World.

There were great displays and celebrations. But perhaps the most important event in Chicago was the exposition of an idea, delivered by a young historian named Frederick Jackson Turner in an address entitled "The Significance of the Frontier in American History.'

Turner's thesis was that the American frontier - vast, almost limitless, suffused with energy and expansionist fever - had shaped the American character. Turner then looked at some census reports and highlighted a buried fact: that the frontier was, by then, pretty well settled. Turner asked a key question that remains with us to this day: What would happen

a wider field for its exercise?" What, in short, would happen to what was then called "manifest destiny?"

There was, however, an inner frontier to absorb that energy, and that was symbolized by the Statue of Liberty. Almost 20 million immigrants arrived in the United States from 1880 to 1920, most of them passing under the Lady's shadow. They weren't able to get free land in the West, but they got freedom of a sort that did not exist in Europe. They too shaped the American character. There turned out to be as much energy, drive, individualism and pride in the American ideal in the teeming ethnic urban slums as in the roughhouse open West.

The idea of "manifest destiny" - of defending, expanding and exporting the American ideal - lasted beyond the era of the frontier. Morris describes and explains Teddy Roosevelt's passionate, near-religious views on "Americanism." and notes that TR would spout forth endlessly on the topic at the drop of a hat. Morris notes: "There is no doubt that on this subject Theodore Roosevelt was one of the bores of all ages."

But Roosevelt's Americanism took him up San Juan Hill to liberate Cuba from the Spaniards, to the Panama Canal to link America's oceans. America took over the Philippines. Roosevelt was the most ardent supporter of a big modern navy. Critics said we had become imperialists, no better than the other colonial powers. There was some truth to that, but Roosevelt's braggadocio about Americanism was never just about land. TR's imperialism, and manifest destiny, and what we're all arguing about today. doesn't just concern turf - It concerns an idea.

The idea is elemental: that America represents a new world, or as TR's cousin Franklin Roosevelt would say later, a new deal for people. The idea is that people are free, that they can forge their own destiny, and no king, dictator or general secretary will run their lives.

That idea, nurtured by the frontier and by the immigrants who sailed in awe past the statue, is the real manifest destiny. There are those of us who believe that it is more important today than it was even in the days of Theodore Roosevelt.

ANTHONY HARRIGAN

It's A Silent Invasion

In viewing the range of problems the nation will face in the years ahead, none looms more ominously than that of illegal immigration. It is likely to reach frightening dimensions even before the end of the decade.

Evidence of the human wave problem threatening the United States across its southern border is the burden placed on hospitals from El Paso, Texas, to San Diego, Calif. They are being swamped with patients who are illegal immigrants. These medical institutions lack the funds to provide care for people who aren't citizens of the United States.

People in the East. South and Middle West aren't fully aware of the scope of the problem. It was graphically described recently by Alan E. Eliason, chief U.S. Border Patrol agent in San Diego. "You ought to see the border on a Sunday night," Mr. Eliason told The New York Times. "When you see 4,000 people standing on the border, getting ready to cross, it will amaze

The statistics give perspective on Mr. Eliason's remark. In April. arrests of illegal immigrants averaged 2,800 per day. He estimated that no more than half of those trying to enter the country illegally are caught.

The tide of illegal immigrants is rising. If the Mexican economy continues to deteriorate, as seems likely, one can be sure that the human wave will grow stronger.

The so-called Sanctuary Movement in certain churches encourages illegal immigration. Fortunately, a federal jury in Tucson has convicted a number of church workers in this illegal movement. It is to be hoped that the federal jury verdict will deter this form of law-breaking. The United States cannot afford to provide an open door to all of Latin America. The United States would be swamped by people from Central America.

Especially disturbing is the news that among the illegal immigrants are people from the Middle East. Hong Kong, Korea and other countries. Their numbers are increasing. They enter Mexico with the purpose of accomplishing an illegal entry into the United States. They ignore the established, lawful quota system for newcomers. There already is speculation that Middle East terrorists may be entering the United States across the easily penetrated southern border.

This silent invasion is an economic and a cultural invasion and, ultimately, a political invasion.

The McCarran-Walter Act, passed in 1952 over President Truman's veto, lays out dozens of reasons for denying visas to potential visitors to the United States. Many of these reasons are obvious and not at all controversial — an applicant's criminal record, health reasons and the talsification of a passport or a visa application.

But other McCarran-Walter prohibitions are much more controversial. Entry may be denied to homosexuals, to applicants who 'advocate the overthrow of an established government" or to applicants who have been members of a communist or communistaffiliated group. A visitor's entrance to this country can also be denied for reasons as seemingly obscure as "activity subversive to the national security" or for holding beliefs that "may be prejudicial to the public

More and more the Reagan administration is using these vaguely worded sections of the McCarran-Walter Act to deny visas to controversial figures who seek to speak in this country even when the subjects they are speaking on seem rather innocuous.

There is a long list of foreign speakers denied entry to the United States on the basis of their beliefs in the last four years. It includes actors and actresses, poets, filmmakers, writers, professors, scholars and political leaders.

In January, Secretary of State George P. CHICAGO (UPI) - Uncle Joe is Jolly and talkative one minute and then grumpy and silent the next. Some of the relatives fear he is manic-depressive, but hope he will snap out of it soon.

This is a perception the psychiatric community would like to change.

"We really want to bring to public awareness the fact that the course of (manic-depressive) episodes is much more severe than previously believed." says Dr. Martin Keller, an associate professor of psychiatry at the Harvard Medical School.

Manic-depression, or bipolar illness in the official nomenclature, is not the day-to-day mood swings everyone experiences, nor is it likely to go away quickly. Keller says. A manie depressive can remain manie for weeks at a time, or be depressed for months, or experience both simultaneously for more than a

The point, Keller says, is "somebody who has a loved one or family member like this needs to be prepared for the long haul."

Keller, director of clinical research at Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston, has been working with the National Institute of Mental Health, investigating more than 1,000 cases of bipolar tilness in an attempt to track down a cause, or at least, an effective treatment.

One of the recent findings, reported in the Journal of the American Medical Association, is that the type of bipolar episode a person exhibits - mania, depression, mixed or cycling - is an important indication of how long the episode will last and whether it will return.

Manic episodes were found to be relatively short-lived, lasting an average of five weeks after admission to treatment. Depressive episodes averaged nine weeks under treatment, with mixed or cycling episodes lasting 14 weeks.

The same trend was found in the prognosis for the disease. A person experiencing a manic episode has only a 7 percent chance of remaining ill for a year, compared to 22 percent chance for depressive episodes and 32 percent chance for mixed or cycling episodes.

Keller says the outlook for people with mixed episodes was "worse than even we had imagined," probably because of the psychological trauma of swinging from one extreme to the other.

World Bank Helping Indonesia

By Jack Anderson Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON - Every time we rattle the cages at the World Bank, top officials of the bank are outraged - but staff-level experts who know what's going on applaud. The high muckamucks draft and re-draft letters to the editor, and the working stiffs slip us more inside informa-

Here's the latest chapter:

In his latest attempt to stifle the "winds of freedom" that President Reagan's speechwriters detected in April. Indonesian President Suharto has embarked on a massive colonization scheme to solidify his control over disputed border areas. Grandly titled "Transmigration," the costly program will approof as many as 4 million Indonesians - including soldiers, veterans and their families and ship them from overpopulated Java to such outposts as the border area between the Indonesian state of Irian Jaya and independent Papua New Anti-Suharto rebels, opposed to Indonesia's determined colonial ambitions, have been infiltrating the jungle border areas, and retreating into Papua New Guinea when attacked by Indonesian troops. The soldiers and pensioned veterans who will be "transmigrated" into the area will presumably put a stop to this trans-border traffic by Suharto's enemies.

This dubious exercise in expansion of a military dictatorship is being financed in part by seven World Bank loans to Indonesia, totaling $600 million - a large part of which is guaranteed by American taxpayers. Although the World Bank loans currently amount to only about 10 percent of Transmigration's cost, they make it much easier for Suharto to get the rest of the financing he needs.

World Bank officials say the loans will help ease unemployment and overpopulation on Java by moving people to the outer regions.

The underlying military motive behind Transmigration was revealed at a closed meeting of Indonesian and foreign officials on March 20, 1985, in Jakarta, Indonesia. World Bank and International Monetary Fund officials were present, as well as ambassadors from a dozen Western nations, including the United States. Our associate Donald Goldberg has obtained a transcript of the meeting, which was called by the World Bank's member nations.

Indonesian Minister of Transmigration Martono explained the rationale of the military-based "Sapta Marga villages" this way: "Sapta Marga is the doctrine of our armed forces, showing that, in addition to being members of the armed forces they are also people who are fighting for the country. They are the front of the country."

After this flight of gobbledygook. Martono explained the roles of the active-duty soldiers and the pensioners under Transmigration: The active members are to guard the area (they are experienced in this job), the pensioned do work making the area productive for agriculture or industry."

Thus the World Bank is underwriting Suharto's plan to make Indonesia's border area secure from native rebels who resent the forced "Javanization" of their homeland. Indeed, according to internal World Bank documents, $14 million of the bank's latest loan of $160 million is earmarked for aerial photography of the Irian Jaya-Papua New Guinea border area - an obvious help in the anti-guerrilla effort.

Moose No-Hits Ball; KOC Drops Kiwanis

By Sam Cook Herald Sports Editor

The Sanford Junior League played two games at Chase Park Monday night. The playing site, however, was all the teams had in common.

●In Monday's second game, firsthalf champion Moose and improving Ball Motor Line hooked up in a classic pitcher's duel. Ball Motor's David Roberts gave up just one hit — a fourth-inning double to Tony Pritchard - but his effort wasn't good enough as Moose received a combined no-hitter from Harvey Clinger, Pritchard, Tony Chavers and ace Mike "Dr. K" Merthle to pull out a 7-6 victory.

Ball Motor pushed across four, second-inning runs to erase a 3-0 Moose lead. Eight consecutive walks accounted for the runs as Sedaren Halgler, Mike Hartman, Tony Reno and Carlos Smith picked up the ribbles.

Moose bounced back to tie the game in the third but Ball retook a 5-4 lead in the fourth when Shawnle Riggins walked and scored one out later when Roberts reached on an error.

Moose picked up two runs from Ray Lewis and Julio Ramos in the fourth and pushed across the deciding run in the fifth. Jeff Byrd was hit by a pitch and came around on a wild pitch and two errors.

KOC, meanwhile, used an eight-run second inning to turn back Kiwanis. Coffeld and Wiggins highlighted the frame with two-run doubles. The Knights put the game out of reach in the last two innings with seven more runs. Tim Thomas, Wiggins and Howard all supplied two-baggers

Injury Sidelines Jones Until Fall

Seminole High School's Alvin Jones reinjured his hamstring in the Junior Olympic meet held at Showalter Field and will not compete again until he enrolls at Princeton University this fall. Jones, the only high school athlete to ever win both the long jump and triple jump in the Florida Class 4A State Track and Field meet, said the pulled hamstring has been a problem all

Bias Needed Help 30 Minutes Sooner

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (UPI) - Maryland basketball star Len Bias needed medical attention as long as 30 minutes before roommates called an ambulance on the morning he died, a prosecutor said in announcing a grand jury investigation.

Arthur Marshall, the state's attorney for Prince George's County, said at a news conference Monday there is "a period of time from the onset of what would have appeared to have been some type of complication setting in to the time that the medics were called. We're talking. 15, 20 (minutes), a half an hour. Something like that."

Bias. 22. suffered an apparent cardiac arrest in his dormitory room Thursday. He was pronounced dead at Leland Memorial Hospital after doctors tried for two hours to revive him.

Marshall also said cocaine apparently played a role in Bias's death, and the person responsible for supplying the two-time Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Year with the drug could be charged with manslaughter.

A plastic bag of white powder that police removed last Friday from Blas's newly leased sports car "tested positive for cocaine." Marshall said.

Hearns Bops Medal, But Thinks Of Hagler

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) - Every time Thomas Hearns hit Mark Medal Monday night, he thought of Marvin Hagler.

Hearns stopped Medal in the eighth round to retain his World Boxing Council 154-pound title and cap a closed circuit TV triple header.

More importantly, Hearns hopes, his victory will lead to a Nov. 6 rematch with middleweight champion Marvin Hagler.

"For the first time, I was looking ahead," Hearns said. "When I found out how easy it was to hit Mark Medal, I started to think ahead more.

"My mind shifted from Mark Medal to Marvin Hagler."

Hearns had a flashback to Hagler in the second round when he felt pain in his often-broken right hand. The last time Hearns's hand was broken was in the first round of his three-round knockout loss against Hagler April 15,

"I did not break my hand." Hearns said. "It's just a little swollen. "I wanted to save it for a very important person. If I'm going to break it. I'm going to break it on Marvin.

"I thought my performance tonight should have a great affect on Marvin." Hagler planned to announce Tuesday if he will fight Hearns Nov. 6 or accept Sugar Ray Leonard's challenge, but postponed his announcement because

Emanuel Steward, who manages Hearns, said he is getting tired of walting for Hagler to announce his intentions. "I have no idea where he is and I'm tired of talking about him." Steward said. "I wash my hands of the whole thing. Tommy can make money on other fights."

Hearns dropped Medal in the first round and shut his left eye in the second before turning into a boxer in the third

In other featured bouts, Steve Cruz lifted Barry McGuigan's World Boxing Association featherweight title with a shocking 15-round unanimous decision. and Robbie Sims scored a split 10-round decision over three-time champion Roberro Duran in a middleweight bout.

Thomas Hearns works out. Hearns stopped Mark Medal Monday night and is looking for a rematch with Marvin Hagler next.

CRUZ DETHRONES MCGUIGAN

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) - If Barry McGuigan came to the United States just to earn money, then his latest trip here was a success.

But if McGuigan really wanted to prove himself a great champion, he failed. Steve Cruz, an apprentice plumber from Fort Worth, Texas, took McGuigan's World Boxing Association featherweight title Monday night in the Irishman's first defense in the United States.

McGuigan earned $1 militon for the fight, but spent the night at Valley Hospital after getting knocked down three times. McGuigan underwent a CATscan after complaining of head-

In other opening round play Monday, defending champion Becker and the English weather lived up to expectations. The 18-year-old West German scored a straight-set victory over Eduardo Bengoechea of Argentina, then rain postponed 46 of Monday's 64 scheduled matches.

Becker, the tournament's youngest defending champion at 18, won 6-4, 6-2, 6-1 and said his return to the All England Club was an emotional one.

Dark skies threatened until midafternoon Monday when light rain began, making the lawn courts slippery and unplayable. Eighteen matches were halted in progress, with only the Center Court confrontation between No. 2 seed Wilander and Davis being resumed, the Swede winning in three sets.

Becker, who admits he has thought of Wimbledon every day since his victory last July, described his return as "one of the best feelings I ever had, when I stepped on Center Court. It was good."

With a break in the ninth game of the first set, Becker served out, despite problems with his groundstrokes. Midway through the second set, Becker, seeded fourth, found his rhythm and won 11 of the final 12 games from his opponent, ranked 105th in the world.

Expos Derail Mets In 10; Martinez Smacks First Hit

NEW YORK (UPI) — Montreal manager Buck Rodgers knows his second-place Expos cannot make up nine games on the New York Mets all at

"We have a plan," Rodgers said, "We hope to nibble away at the Mets in the next 50 games and if we're five games back on September 1st, then you can say there's a race going on.'

Rookie Andres Galarraga hit an RBI single in the 10th inning Monday night to lift Montreal a 5-4 victory, its third straight triumph over the Mets.

Montreal leftfielder Tim Raines, who is hitting .322, missed his third consecutive game with a sprained wrist. An Expo official said Raines' status is a "day-to-day situation" and he may play tonight.

'We've taken three out of four," Montreal shortstop and former Met Hubie Brooks said. "We'd like to keep beating them and hope the other teams can beat them a bit. I don't think they can keep playing .700 baseball. They will level off, and they have already to a degree.'

Mets ace Dwight Gooden surrendered four runs in eight innings and did not figure in the decision.

"Things will get better, I'm sure of that," Gooden said. "I could not get in a groove or a rhythm all night but I'm sure things will get better.

Montreal took a 1-0 lead in the first when Mitch Webster walked, stole second, advanced to third on a flyball and scored on Wayne Krenchicki's

"When he walked Webster, I went out to him and said 'Be yourself, Doc," Mets catcher Gary Carter said. "There's nothing wrong with him. He's 21 years old. Some of this may mature him. Things are just not going exactly perfect for him as they did in the past."

Montreal catcher Mike Fitzgerald, who had two hits and two RBL saw a technical problem with Gooden's pitching.

"There's nothing really wrong with him, but right now he does not have a consistent point of release for the ball," Fitzgerald said, "That's why he has a control problem." Herm Winningham led off the Montreal 10th with a single to right off loser Jesse Orosco, 3-4. Winningham was sacrificed to second by George Wright and went to third on a flyball by Fitzgerald. Galarraga then delivered his first game-winning RBI of the season. Tim Burke, 5-2, the third Montreal pitcher.

went two innings for the victory. The Mets had tied the score 4-4 with a three-run fifth. Howard Johnson, playing his first game since coming off the 21-day disabled list, hit his second consecutive home run. Kevin Mitchell singled to short and Gooden walked. After Len Dykstra sacrificed, Mitchell scored on an infield out by Wally Backman and Gooden scored on a wild pitch. In the second, the Expos made it 2-0 on a double by Wright and a single by Fitzgerald.

New York pulled within 2-1 in the second when Johnson hit a 420-foot homer to center field. The Expos scored twice in the third. Hubie

Brooks reached on an error and Tim Wallach walked. Winningham sacrificed and reached on an error by third baseman Johnson. One out later, Fitzgerald lifted a sacrifice fly and pitcher Floyd Youmans singled home a run. PHILLIES RAP 11 DOUBLES IN 19-1 ROUT

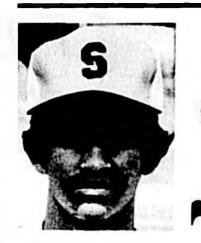

The San Francisco Giants scored a National League season-high 18 runs Monday. Hours later, it wasn't a season high any more.

At Philadelphia, Juan Samuel hit two home runs and drove in six runs to lead a 20-hit attack, and Shane Rawley pitched a six-hitter to power the Phillies to a 19-1 shellacking of the Chicago

Earlier in the day, the Giants pounded the San Diego Padres 18-1 at Candlestick Park. Philadelphia, which snapped a three-game losing streak, set a club record with 11 doubles.

Samuel hit a three-run homer in the first inning off Chicago starter Jamie Moyer, 1-1, and another in the fifth off reliever George Frazier, giving him five homers for the season.

"I'm just trying to stay back, wait and get on top of the ball." said Samuel, who also hit a home run in his last at-bat on Sunday.

Rawley, 10-4, allowed the Cubs only a Steve Lake single through the first six innings, but lost his shutout in the seventh when Ron Cey doubled with two outs and scored on a single by Leon Durham. Rawley, who won his sixth straight decision, walked one and struck out two in his seventh complete game of the season.

'All year long, he's obviously been our best pitcher," Phillies manager John Felske sald. "He's throwing well. We were on a three-game losing streak but the whole team was loose tonight. I think that's because they knew he was going to pitch." Casselberry's Dave Martinez drilled his first major league hit against Rawley in the ninth inning. The former Lake Howell High standout grounded a single through the left side against

Rawley, a lefthanded thrower. Mike Schmidt and Milt Thompson also hit home runs for the Phillies. Rick Schu had four hits and four RBL and Schmidt. John Russell and

Thompson drove in two runs apiece. At San Francisco, Mike LaCoss drove in four runs in addition to pitching a three-hitter. The Giants ripped 21 hits off four San Diego pitchers. including outfielder Dane lorg. The victory was the fifth in a row for the surging Giants, who swept into first place in the National League West by beating the Houston Astros four straight during the weekend.

"I think after all we went through the last three days with Houston, we can beat anybody now."

said LaCoss, who hit his first major-league homer, a three-run shot in the eighth off lorg.

At Houston, Glenn Davis hit a two-run homer with none out in the ninth to help the Astros snap a four-game losing streak. Larry Andersen, 1-0, pitched 1-3 of an inning and earned the victory. Ted Power, 3-5, took the loss. Cardinals 2, Pirates 1

At St. Louis, Tommy Herr went 5-for-5 and drove in two runs, including the game-winner with a bases-loaded single in the bottom of the 11th inning, to lead the Cardinals, Reliever Todd Worrell, 5-7, squashed a bases-loaded rally in the 11th by inducing Sid Bream to hit into an Braves 6, Dodgers 5 Ted Simmons, batting .333 as a pinch-hitter this season, drilled a one-out, tie-breaking single in the eighth to rally the Braves, who won despite tying a National League record by stranding 18 baserunners. Los Angeles, which led 4-0 after four innings, has lost four straight games.

Rochester Draws Record Crowd

PITTSFORD, N.Y. (UPI) — A record number of spectators attended the $255,000 LPGA Rochester International this weekend despite the absence of 13 of the top 20 Tour money winners and competition with a "nude piente".

A final-day turnout of 30,650 people on Sunday pushed the total to 86,536 for the tournament, in which Judy Dickinson carned $38,250 with a one-stroke victory over defending champion Pat Bradley.

"I'm just delighted," tournament chairman Barry York said. "And here we were up against a nude picnic."

Upstart Belgium Surprises

MEXICO CITY (UPI) -Belgium, a team that came to the World Cup having lost to Albania and practiced against Mexican auto workers, needs just two victories to capture the most coveted title in international sports.

"Yes, the Argentines are favored by many." midfielder Frank Vercauteren says. "They have (Diego) Maradona, who is one of the best in the world. But I think we have as good a chance as Argentina."

The Belgians, the startling survivor of the World Cup, meet Argentina Wednesday in the semifinals at Mexico City's Azteca Stadium. In the other semifinal at Guadalajara, France faces West Germany. The final is Sunday at Azteca.

Belgium's success is remarkable in that the team was ravaged by soccer scandals several years ago. In its third World Cup qualifying game in 1984 it was blanked 2-0 by Albania.

The first round in Mexico provided a close escape. The Belgians finished third in their group before delivering the big blow in second round, a 4-3 victory over the Soviet Union. They beat Spain on penalty kicks in the quarterfinals.

The Belgians were to train today at a General Motors plant in Toluca, where before the tournament they worked out against Mexican auto workers. The Argentines, meanwhile, are led by the great Maradona and have the look of a luxury model. "I think that if we can beat these two teams (Soviet Union and Spain) we can beat Argentina," Belgian captain Jan

Ceulemans said. Belgium is well organized on defense, anchored by fullback Eric Gerets and goalkeeper Jean-Marie Pfaff. It likes to counter-attack and strike from a defensive position.

Said Maradona: "We must be cautious with the Belgians as they have managed to eliminate all the favorites.

France is coming off impressive victories over Italy and Brazil. The West Germans have been plodding in their advance but nonetheless have managed to survive. They edged Mexico on penalty kicks in the quarters.

blocks of one of the world's most expensive shopping districts. Art galleries and such shops as Gucci, Chanel and Giorgio reportedly lost up to $2 million in sales for the day.

First lady Nancy Reagan was staying in the Beverly Wilshire Hotel about two blocks away and a spokesman said she was aware of the unfolding drama.

Police, summoned to the scene by a silent alarm about 10 a.m. negotiated with the gunman by telephone, describing his mood as "up and down." At one point they delivered food to the front of the store but no one ever came out to get it.

Several nearby shops were evacuated. A hairdresser from an evacuated salon finished cutting a customer's hair in an alley.

The suspect told UPI he had walked into the store, robbed it and then taken the hostages when he spotted police outside.

"My intention was to take jewelry and leave, with nobody hurt," he said. "It didn't work out that way.'

In a phone conversation with the Mutual Broadcasting System, the gunman said he had planned to rob the store because he thought the jeweler had cheated him.

"Van Cleef & Arpels cheated me out of some jewelry a long time ago," he said. "They gave me fake jewelry, you know, and I tried to return it and they wouldn't accept it. So I got very irritated and I went back here to collect.

sioners on June 10, the $39,000 public works department mower/tractor was to have been an outright purchase. Faison also recommended the city maintain its present $4.38 per $1,000 assessed property valuation tax, having worked up the budget prior to receiving word of additional anticipated revenues through taxation of new city construction.

Faison's $15.948,543 budget proposal also increased last year's budget by $2.5 million. He cited a combination of revenue increases as enabling this. and commissioners began their budget review on the same day word was received about additional revenues from taxation of new city construction.

Commissioners $84,646 of budget supplements during three days of review last week went for departmental requests Faison deleted in his budget proposal.

The proposed capital improvment fund was amended on Monday to reflect the $30,645 difference between financing and purchasing the mower/trator. The fund now comes in at $944,740. Capital improvement projects will be paid for through a combination of anticipated gas tax accruals and unexpended funds brought forward from the 1985-86 budget, Faison said.

With commissioners' $6,435 amendment to administrative services funding, the department's budget is now proposed at $510,368, rather than $516,803 as originally pres-

Commissioner's budget supplements involved $47,946 for the parks and recreation department, bringing its budget to $1,053,333; and $5,7000 to the fire department, bringing its hudget to $1,773.836.

Commissioners also added $31,000 to the police department budget to cover the difference between Sanford Police Chief Steve Harriett's request for $130,000 to outfit his tactical patrol unit and what Faison had recommended to fund it.

The additional expenditure brings the police department 1986-87 budget to $2.890.756.

Commissioners have left intact Falson's budget proposals of $1,222,580 for the refuse department, $$1,497,232 for the public works department. $4.855,633 for the utility department. $494,503 for the engineering department. $299,998 for the sinance department, and $90,000 in contingency funds.

Also untouched are Faison's general fund budget proposals of $102.239 for the city managers office, $55,753 for city commissioners and $43,738 for legal

In addition to the capital improvement budget allocations for scenic improvement projects. the fund provides $280.532 for roadway repaving. $270,000 for drainage improvements. $170,000 for finance department computer equipment, $86,207 for additional public works department machinery and equipment. $35,000 for a fire truck to equip the planned fire department in western Sanford. $12,000 for equipment adoption to Seminole County's new emergency communications system, $16,000 for rehabilitation, including air conditioning and roof repair, at the Sanford Chamber of Commerce.

Zambia's President: A Dash Of P.T. Barnum

LUSAKA, Zambia (UPI) — În the Zambian capital of Lusaka everything K.K. is OK.

President Kenneth Kaunda's picture gives a pleasant, toothy grin from the wall in every bar. hangs in the corner of every sausage and chip shop and is present in all public rooms except the men's.

Swathed in toga-style national dress. Kaunda waves from simple murals painted on walls all over his clean and tidy capital. "K.K., Saviour of Zambia." runs the caption.

Kaunda. 62. has been presiding paternally over the affairs of his 6.5 million people for all of its 22 years of independence. He blends stern, one-party authority with a touch of Barnum and Bailey-style showmanship.

He is also probably the most polite and personable leader on the continent.

Correspondents invited to hear his views on South Africa's recent air raid on Lusaka were treated to a dose of pure K.K.

With profuse apologies and much shaking of the hands of startled writers, he broke off the interviews and breezed out of his wood-lined study onto the sunlit front lawn.

There, suddenly, was an 'impromptu'' student demonstration - complete with Zambian TV crew - chanting Zambian TV crew — chanting "one Zambia, one nation, K.K., STOCKS K.K."

Heraldie flag snapping overhead in the breeze, the president went into his irresistible, churchy routine. A stirring mid-morning today. Inter-dealer markets party number followed by the change throughout the day. Prices do not national anthem - sung in an African "round" built to match his curiously hoarse, leading falsetto — and a simple speech.

Then back into the study and that explained everything. his interviews, heartfelt and painstaking.

K.K. can be so talkative his press people tell visiting journalists to cut him short and keep him to the point.

For most of his 22 years in power, Kaunda - now Africa's most senior statesman - has been making the same speech.

"The reckoning is coming for racialism in South Africa," says. "and a horrisc butcher's bill will be paid unless there is change."

His trademark handkerchief. carefully folded with three tucks. goes to his eyes. He weeps down his pin-striped safari suit over his own prediction, slumped in his chair like man shaking off a bad dream that has come true.

A committed Christian, religious metaphors litter Kaunda's monologue. He told one interviewer, who seemed to question the moral standing of the Lusaka-based African National Congress, that its leader. Oliver Tambo, was a man of principle.

"He visits my home. We cat together. He says grace or I say grace." Kaunda shot back, as if greens with heaps of droppings.

In a way it does. Kaunda, free of the taint of corruption, tribalism and nepotism which surrounds so many African leaders, has built up a moral authority which makes even the politically calloused lend an ear to what he says. '(South African President) P.W. Botha cannot bomb the idea of majory rule from black heads," he said.

"South African is strong economically and militarily stronger than all of us. We are no match, even all of us together. But we have purity.'

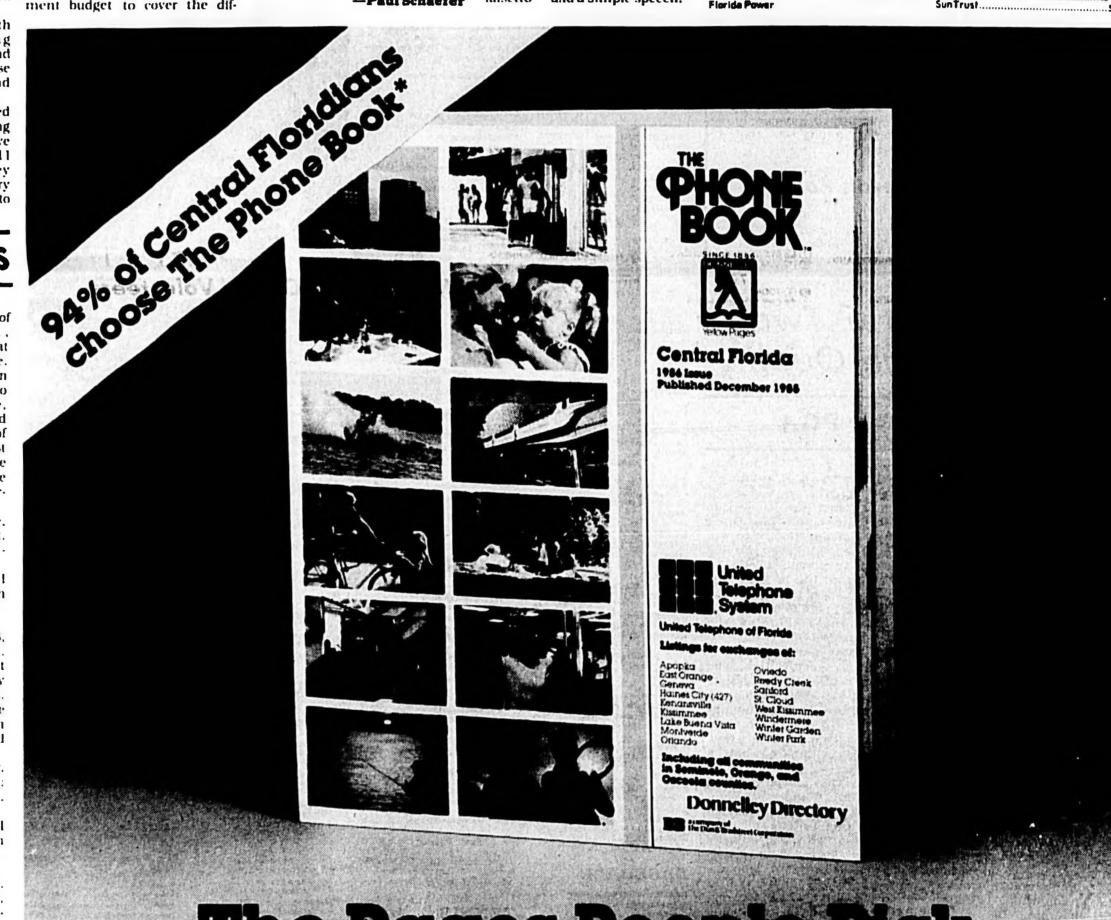

State House basks peacefully in the Zambian sunshine. Kaunda is still talking rapidly and non-stop in his study. His British-born secretary says he works too hard and only once a week can she drag him out to the 18-hole golf course that surrounds his magnificent, British-built official residence.

Showing scant regard for K.K., father of the nation with a better-than-average 15. handicap, a herd of impala grazes over the fairways and blobs the smooth, presidential

Donation of Child's Organs Ruins Marriage

DEAR ABBY: I am a young mother of a 3-year-old child who was recently killed by a hit-and-run driver. "Tammy" was a beautiful, healthy child. When she was pronounced dead. the doctor asked me if we would consider donating her organs, as they were healthy. My husband wanted to choke the poor doctor for even suggesting it! Well. Abby, I thought long and hard about all the children who could benefit from Tammy's organs, so I signed the consent form without my husband's knowledge or permission.

As of this day my husband has moved out of the house. He said he can't stand the sight of me anymore. He said I "ruined" our daughter's body and our marriage! Abby, was I wrong to put the welfare of some stranger's child ahead of my husband's wishes?

I am only 21. I thought I loved him, but now I don't know if I ever knew him at all. What do you think about what I did? This is tearing me apart. I loved did, but she was dead, so I gave had a chance to grow up to be a healthy child. Was I wrong? CONFUSED

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I work very hard at highpressure lobs, and one of our pleasures is eating out in the evening, trying to unwind and relax.

Lately, more often than not, our meals have been ruined by noisy, screaming, bratty kids whose parents have no business dragging them to nice restaurants in the first place. These kids are either too young to understand, or too poorly behaved to be out in public. Why do parents bring them along?

Recently, printed on a menu in a Southern restaurant was this Tammy as much as her father message: "Please keep your children quiet and in their her organs to a sickly child who scats." I wish all restaurants would print that on their menus. SICK OF BRATS

Buying A Car?

Get The Jim Lash Blue Book Car Treatment

Who knows better about used cars than someone who has been specializing in them all his life?

That's right - not a hobby, a sideline or a "get rich scheme," but a career in selling clean, quality, late model cars and trucks.

Jim Lash has been serving the car needs of Central Florida for over 30 years in the same location, and in Sanford since 1966. You won't see Grand Opening today and gone tomorrow from this dealership. However, you will see many of the same helpful people that have served your car needs over the past years.

At Jim Lash's Blue Book Cars, he and son Steve, the general manager, use their knowledge and experience to hand pick each vehicle. This helps the customer take the guess-work out of purchasing a used car or truck.

Other comforting notes are that each unit is inspected through Blue Book Service Center, Jim Durs, service manager, and his staff use their skills and latest equipment to bring each vehicle to optimum mechanical condition. This is why Blue Book Cars can offer a 30, 60, or 90-day free service agreement, while most companies either do not offer them, or they are charging for a warranty today,

Also important is a large inventory selection to choose from, giving you a price range or payment to fit your budget needs. They also offer direct Barnett Bank financing with preferred customer rates and on-the-spot delivery. Another important point is the clean fresh

American Ice Cream Takes A Licking In Canton, China

HONG KONG (UPI) - Chinese customers are getting their first licks at American ice cream with the opening of an outlet by Beatrice Cos. in Canton, the company's marketing agent announced Monday

"Customer response to this prototype franchise operation has been so positive that plans have been accelerated to open additional stores," said a statement by Landor Associates of San Francisco, which has its regional headquarters in Landor official Akka Ma, whose company was charged with developing a store design and marketing plan to introduce American ice cream to the Chinese, said the Beatrice-led joint venture now hopes to open franchises throughout China.

"We had to communicate the attributes of fresh American-made ice cream with a full rich flavor previously unknown in China, and a large variety of flavors and portion sizes," he said.

Ma said Landor gave the new product a brand identity that bridges language barriers by placing large, colorful posters throughout the store "and especially at children's eye level to aid selection and encourage impulse sales."

Greyhound Dismisses Nearly 3,000 Employees In Terminal Conversion

PHOENIX (UPI) - Greyhound Lines said Monday it will pay out about $15 million in severance pay and expenses for the dismissal of nearly 3,000 employees affected by the conversion of company-operated terminals to independently operated businesses.

John W. Teets, chairman and chief executive officer of Greyhound Corp., the bus line's parent firm, said the company has reached agreement with unions that will enable it to convert 96 of 127 terminals to independent commission agen-

Greyhound officials, as part of a plan to improve profits, announced plans earlier this year to turn over most of its terminals to independent

Teets said the company will take a secondquarter after-tax charge of about $15 million one-time severance pay and expenses relating to the release of employees who worked at the

'We estimate the average payback period on this program at Greyhound Lines will be approximately 12 months inasmuch as the conversion program relieves the company of very significant ongoing fixed costs for terminal operations," Teets said.

Teets also announced that the April 15 sale of its ConAgra Inc. holdings resulted in an aftertax gain of about $87 million.

In another matter, Teets said the board of directors of Greyhound's Pine Top Insurance Co. voted to place the company under control of the Illinois Department of Insurance for orderly rehabilitation. Teets said efforts to sell Pine Top were not successful and that an increase in Greyhound's investment to the subsidiary did not appear to be in the best interest of the stockholders.

As a result, an after-tax charge of $12 million will be included in Greyhound's second-quarter results to provide for anticipated losses resulting from this action. Teets made the announcements in conjunction with finalization of an application to list its common stock on the London Stock Exchange.

Mariott Takes Control Of Food Service Rival

By Vincent Del Giudice

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Food and lodging giant Marriott Corp. said Monday it has assumed control of rival food service company Saga. purchasing 97 percent of Saga's outstanding stock at $39.50 per share.

Marriott's coup ends a campaign to control the food service company that started in May with a tender offer of $34 a share and grew to the latest offer that was approved by Saga's board of directors. 'We're certainly in control now and we're moving expeditiously to effect the merger," Marriott spokesman Robert Sours said from the company's headquarters in suburban Bethesda. Marriott also said Saga Chairman Charles

Lynch will resign June 30 "to pursue other Interests" and Marriott Executive Vice President Francis Cash will assume charge of Saga, which will operate as a Marriott subsidiary. As of Friday, Marriott had purchased 11,057,067 Saga shares and "an additional 1,258.710 had been tendered under guarantees of delivery." a Marriott statement said.

"As a result, assuming proper delivery of the guaranteed shares. Marriott will own a total of approximately 97 percent of the outstanding Saga shares," the statement added.

Saga, based in Menlo Park. Calif., and established in 1948, reported sales of $1.3 billion in fiscal 1985 and employs 60,000 people across the United States.

It is particularly dominant in the business of running college and university cafeterias.

Marriott, established in 1927, reported sales of $4.2 billion in 1985 and employs 154,600 people. It operates hotels, restaurants and catering services for hospitals, airlines and airports. Souers said mass personnel changes are not a part of Marriott's initial plans for Saga, even though the companies do have some redundant services in the food service and restaurant field.

"Our position is to make the merger happen and take a look at what they've got," Souers said,

"We've got 97 percent of the shares and we'd like to pick up any shares out there we can to make this completely clean." Souers said.

A Different Diva

By Frederick M. Winship UPI Senior Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) -When Kathleen Battle of the Metropolitan Opera sang a nationally televised "command performance" for President and Mrs. Reagan this month, she received the ultimate accolade as America's finest young lyric coloratura soprano.

"I chose to sing an aria and a spiritual." said the pertly attractive Battle, discussing the "Kraft All-Star Salute to Ford's Theater" in Washington, D.C., which was taped by CBS and will be relevised by the network Wednesday. June 25 (WCPX-Channel 6). She came to Washington from Paris for the event.

"Before the concert. there was a reception at the White House and it was quite a thrill. I've never been there before, although I've been invited several times. One time I couldn't go because I was getting an honorary doctorate at the University of Cincinnati. Battle, 37, was born in Ohio and received her musical education on scholarship at Cincinnati University's College-Conservatory of Music. Shetaught music for several years in Cincinnati public schools before the late Thomas Schippers. director of the Cincinnati Symphony, launched her on a concert Gircer.

Last season at the Met, her radiant voice with its crystal overtones and her enchanting characterization of Susanna was the only triumph enjoyed by Jean-Pierre Ponelle's controversial new production of Mozart's "The Marriage of Figaro." She also brought her beguiling Sophle in Richard Strauss' "Der Rosenkavalier" to the

Met for the first time. Critics now call her a diva, a title the 5-foot-3. 120-pound singerfrom Portsmouth, Ohio. carries rather uncomtortably. She has a reputation for temperament when determined to get her own way, but aside from that there is nothing grandiose about her personality. Diva or not. Battle does not hesitate to recall her humble origms as one of seven children of a steelworker and to pay respect to her black cultural heritage by including several spirituals on her concert programs. Among her favorites are "He's Got the Whole World in His Hands and His Eve Is On the Spar-TON

I often use spirituals as a closing group." she said over a diet lunch at a trendy Italian restaurant near the Riverside Drive apartment where the unmarried singer lives alone, "It is important music or I wouldn't sing it. It has less to do with my heritage than with its importance."

Battle did not make her professional debut (Brahms' "Requiem" at the Cincinnati May Festival) until 1972. She is a part of the second generation of black singers to find success on the operatic stage, the way having been smoothed by Marian Anderson. Leontyne Price, Shirley Verrett, and Grace Bumbry.

"I haven't encountered any problems and have no ax to grind, but I think black men still have difficulty getting the roles they want in opera." she said. "It isn't all as it should be, and anyone who says it is doesn't face reality: But you'll have to go to the source for first-hand information. After the Ford Theater event. Battle returned to France to sing at the St. Denis Festival, then will go to Vienna to do a recital with James Levine. musical director of the Metropolitan, as her accompanist. She is a Levine protege, having made her Met debut in 1977 only a few years after he began conducting with the company "I met Levine, who is from Cincinnati. through the Cincinnati May Festival and he took me to the Ravinta Festival, where I was in residence for several seasons, growing up in oratorio, opera in concert, and recitals. He has been my advisor and mentor. "I could go to him and ask advice on taking roles and whether the place and the time was right. He also helped me with recitals and program-bulding. Not every young singer can have such advice. so I was very fortunate.

"Ilis advice concerning my career was always 'Patience'. That meant to pass up things that aren't right for me at the moment even though it might seem like a once-in-alifetime opportunity. He taught me how to be strong about these things

Battle came to New York in a Broadway production of Scott loplin's "Treemonisha," after garnering a considerable reputation in opcratic productions at Gian-Carlo Menotti's Spoleto Festival in Italy: "Treemonisha" was a showcase for her exceptional singing and acting talents and brought her to the attention of Julius Rudel. director of the New York City Opera, who signed her for Sus-

DEAR DR. GOTT — Will lecithin help the cholesterol in one's blood? Some people claim it brings the count down.

DEAR READER - Unfortunately, there are no valid scientific studies supporting the claim that lecithin lowers serum cholesterol. Lecithin and cholesterol often coexist naturally. However, the only effective ways of lowering blood cholesterol are to reduce dietary fat and, in some instances, to use medication to reduce intestinal absorption of cholesterol.

DEAR DR. GOTT - Is ultrasound safe to use in treating muscle spasm? Under what contitions, if any, might such treatment be harmful?

DEAR READER - Ultrasound consists of the administration of high-frequency sound waves to tissues. If the bounce-back is recorded, a sonogram picture can be obtained. This test is particularly useful in the evaluation of pregnancy, cysts and gallstones. When the soundwaves are beamed into a spastle muscle (and no bounce-back is recorded), the ultrasound may produce muscle relaxation. Therefore, the technique is a useful adjunct to other methods used by physiotherapists.
