"MATER" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world on Sunday, March 22.
The Golden Text is: "The fashion of this world passeth away" (1 Corinthians 7:31).
Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "I made me great works; I builded me houses; I planted me vineyards, and I planted me oliveyards, and I planted me trees in them of all kinds of fruit: then I looked on all that I had labored to do, and behold, all was vanity and vexation of spirit, and there was no profit under the sun" (Ecclesiastes 2:3-11).
The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures": "Nothing we can say or believe regarding matter is immortal, for matter is temporal and is therefore a mortal phenomenon, a human concept, sometimes beautiful, always venereal" (p. 171:19-21).

Rev. Madzen Tells Of Holy Week Services

Holy Week services, which are to be held this year at the Congregational Church south morning between 8:30 o'clock and 8:55 o'clock, are being arranged by Rev. B. A. Madzen of College Park, Md., who is spending the winter in Sanford.
Mr. Madzen is completing a list of speakers for the week, and the names will be disclosed soon. Plans made for the Easter Sunrise Service to be held at the handball, include the appearance of the Seminole High School Glee Club, and the singing of familiar hymns.
"We are in the midst of the Lenten Season and envision again the scenes enacted in the unfading light of the Gospel narrative," Mr. Madzen said.
"The sacred page becomes alive again with its all-pervading glow of spiritual-light so that we can sense the presence of God and catch the Spirit of Him who is the light of all our seeking, the strength in all our weakness, the comfort in our deepest sorrow and the joy and hope in all our existence."
"Our deepest need is met in facing with courage and abandon the Master's 'follow me.' We seek in penitence the renewal of our spirits and will go with Him all the way—through the garden to the winding to Calvary and to the crucifixion."
"In keeping trust with Him and submitting to His Holy Will, His Last Week will reveal an exaltation of spirit, a tranquility of heart, that will ever be an unfailing source of joy and blessedness."
"From the 'Crucifixion' to 'Conquest' will be the title of the series of Meditations on the last seven days of our Lord's career on earth.
"Beginning with Monday, the subject considered will be 'Christ Cleansing the Temple'; Tuesday, 'Teaching of Humility in Service'; Wednesday, 'Silence and Decision'; Thursday, 'Communion of the Upper Room'; Friday, 'Of the Royal Way of the Holy Cross'; Sunday, a sunrise service culminating in the crowning glory of His Resurrection, for which the Sanford Ministerial Association has made a thoughtful and earnest preparation," Mr. Madzen concluded.
The cards game of cribbage is an outgrowth of a similar game called "Noddy."

People who are anxious to know should remember that it is more important to know how it is going to end.

Some folks complain about the inefficiency of the 31-a-year men than paying the same folks $10,-

The rubber shortage may work advantage of the situation by some real advertising to ac-

Opportunity In Bees

While people are being urged to plant defense gardens they are being cautioned not to start anything they are not prepared to see through. If they are going to allow their gardens to grow up in weeds or their vegetables to be devoured by bugs, it would be better not to waste the seeds.

As much might be said for those enterprising citizens who are planning to beat the sugar shortage by securing a hive of bees. Honey is certainly an excellent substitute for sugar and as prospects loom for a rationing system which may give one person less than half a pound a week, a nearby bee hive operating around the clock without time and a half for overtime, is not to be sneezed at.

We'll say it is not to be sneezed at, and it is not to be treated in any other discourteous manner either. If you do not know your bees and how to handle them, you had better buy your honey from those who do for there is nothing so admirably adapted to undermining the nation's war effort and filling the hospitals of the country with badly swollen and mangled victims as mistreated bee hives.

Florida already has 6,000 beekeepers who know what it is all about and can walk right into a batch of a thousand bees without benefit of headgear or risk of their lives. Some of them keep as high as a thousand colonies and together their income is estimated at over a quarter of a million dollars a year. This year all previous records will be exceeded as the nation prepares to satisfy its sweet tooth around the honey jar.

State Plant Board Apilist Foster says that the coming Spring finds millions of bees eager to go to work on Florida's citrus trees, just now bursting into bloom, and on Tupelo trees, gallberry, blackberry, chinquapin, palmetto, sunflower, and goldenrod as their seasons approach throughout the summer and early fall months. Some of the best honey in the country is made from the blooms of these Florida plants and trees.

But as we said in the beginning, don't fool around with bees unless you know what you're doing.

To End The War Quickly

The worst suffering is emotional, not physical, and physical reality, no matter how devastating, is never as unpleasant to endure as the terror of the unknown which precedes it.

That statement, made by the noted psychologist, William Moulton Marston in an article in Your Life Magazine, sets the pace for his contention that, from a psychological standpoint, the worst of the war is over.

Quoting a discovery of William James—"We do not run away because we are afraid, we are afraid because we run away"—Dr Marston pleads for all-out-participation in the war that, with the attack on Pearl Harbor, was thrust upon the American people. He says:

"Let's quit running away from war, its consequences and its inevitable sacrifices. There's no longer the slightest hope of escaping war. But we still have our choice between fear and courage, reluctance and bold resolution, shrinking futility and fierce exhilaration. Since we have to fight, let's enjoy fighting!"

To end the war quickly, Dr. Marston suggests: "Realize that you are afraid only when you run away, stop trying to escape mentally from the war and its consequences.

"Stop waiting for national danger, it's here! Start attacking, mentally, emotionally and physically, the attackers of America.

"Realize that the worst of this war is over, psychologically, we're no longer defending ourselves against a shadow but attacking a real opponent who is ripe for a licking.

"Expect setbacks and they won't trouble you.

"Protect your mind from insidious assault. Reject enemy news bulletins, propaganda, rumors, defeatist suggestions and attempts to ferment confusion and discontent.

"Give all you have to the fight and in your giving share the triumph of victory.

Travel Note

In less than seven weeks following the attack on Pearl Harbor, some 600,000 troops were moved within the boundaries of the United States. That fact is unparalleled in the history of the country—and, as David Lawrence writes, it "must be credited to the railroads of America, their executives and their workers."

Nearly all of the railroads, involving more than 200,000 miles of track, were used. Seventy-five percent of the soldiers actually had sleeping accommodations, and the remainder traveled in day coaches, so not a single company had to be moved in freight cars, as was the case in the first world war.—Key West Citizen.

It is a favorite theory that man's first arrival on American shores came from the Euphrates valley by way of the Behring strait and that they were the forebears of our Indian tribes; that they wandered down into Mexico, Central America and Peru, building up great civilizations. On some of the Southern Pacific islands are great monoliths, crude representations of some ancient god or ruler; Zoulographic magazine for March pictures similar monuments, grotesquely carved with shell tools—they had none of iron—in the Honduran province of Central America. Archaeologists say they were erected about 2,000 years ago.

Somebody once said that money was a coward and at the first alarm ran to cover. The market price of stocks is crested by the dividends they pay. A few years ago the stock of the American Can Co. sold at $120 per share. The war demands for metal restrictions has driven the price to less than 900 per share. Last year it sold $4.45 per share.

It took but a few lines to announce to mere men that his new trousers would be cutless and his coat minus neck, belt and patch buttons. The war demands for metal restrictions has driven the price to less than 900 per share. Last year it sold $4.45 per share.

Tough Colonel Teaches Marines Points Of Hand-To-Hand Fighting

By JOHN GLOVER
 WASHINGTON, Mar. 22 (AP)—When the Marine Corps wanted to teach its toughest troops the finer points of hand-to-hand killing, America's deadliest great-grandfather was called back to active duty.

Col. A. J. Drexel Biddle, M. D., doctor of mayhem, is teaching this war's crop of leather-necks the three B's—bayonet, bowie knife and bowie knife technique. "Very discouraging a cut throat," the colonel explains, "is a faster-than-eye flip of a Grade-A ventilating job."

"It comes out easily if it's held flat," he tells his boys. "If you hold it upright, it sometimes sticks between the ribs. Very meany."

This Col. Biddle is a many-armed man. He springs from an aristocratic clan that practically invented staid old Philadelphia. He was a sparring partner of Heavyweight Champion Bob Fitzsimmons. He's one of the few men alive who knows the famous Fitzsimmons shift and solar plexus wallop. Ruby Robert Biddle Sealara, was every inch a gentleman. Whenever he put a man in the hospital, he always sent flowers and a nice note.

The colonel learned his flun after he was 50. He's an authority on Cosset, Spanish and other knife techniques, but thinks Col. Bowie of American frontier fame evolved the best method.

crowds of such capacity that manager Earl W. Brown announced plans for its enlargement this summer.

Personalities of Today

Franklin Roosevelt, Winston Churchill, King George VI, Sir Stafford Cripps, Josef Stalin, Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, W. I. Mackenzie King, John Curtin—all representing one side of the war, and Adolf Hitler, Hermann Wilhelm Goerring, Benito Mussolini, Vittorio Emanuele III, Emperor Hirohito, Premier Hideki Tojo and Saburo Kurusu all representing the Axis—all will go down in history for their famous acts good or bad of the present time. Already these famous men have assumed themselves a place in the twentieth century epoch of the history of the world.

Mr. Roosevelt, the 32nd president of the United States, will live in the mind of the people of the world not only as a great President but as a humanitarian in the highest calculation of the word. He will remain as a pillar to future leaders of the nation for his genius in the running of a government. He will be patterned after by leaders of other nations for his superb way of controlling a country successfully "the democratic way." His name will be uttered years upon years after he is gone. Why? He has been an outstanding man using outstanding methods for outstanding reasons. He has, in behalf of the American people, answered the call of the WORLD for help.

Mr. Churchill, Great Britain's indomitable prime minister, will live along with the annals of world history for the way he guided the English people into realizing what responsibility they had assumed when they declared war on Germany. His record as prime minister in conjunction with England's other great ally, almost at the top, King George VI, although politically weak as the ex-hereditary monarch of the British Empire. His human characteristics displayed on this war will always remain a credit to his Majesty. Also among the British notables is Sir Stafford Cripps, possibly successful to Churchill in whom and if "Winnie" ever steps down. Mr. Cripps, influential in Russian and India, has skyrocketed to prominence in high official circles of Britain since Russian entered the war and since then became a doubt as to why their India could not be along with Britain in the war. Douglas MacArthur, our hero in American history, defeated the Japanese in the Philippines, is truly "The Man of the Hour" in the present conflict.

Josef Stalin, dictator of All Russia, matched wits with Adolf Hitler and thus became the center of attraction just before the United States entered the war. Stalin's shrewdness will predominate in write-ups about the Red dictator.

Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, leader of India and successor to Mahatma G. Gandhi, holds much of the strength left in the world that is needed to stop Japan and other Axis powers. Nehru's influence with the Indian people could easily bring India actively to the great conflict and when Nehru could be persuaded to fall in line.

Prime Ministers William Lyons Mackenzie King of Canada and John Curtin of Australia are undoubtedly great personalities. Mr. King and Mr. Curtin have both placed their nations effectively behind the Allied cause.

Adolf Hitler, scrupulous, brutal, cruel, yet shrewd master of Continental Europe, represents the opposite side. Hitler because of his unbelievable political and armed conquests will stand out as a remarkable person in this world of ours. This former paperhanger did almost everything which was believed impossible (excluding the Russian incident).

Premier Benito Mussolini, stooge of Hitler, will be remembered for the "stab in the back" he gave France. King Vittorio Emanuele III of Italy and his cowardliness in not standing up for the United Nations against Mussolini and his Fascist party.

Emperor Hirohito of Japan, because of his failure to use what influence he had in Nippon, will be listed with the ones having a "shot" by their names. His militaristic premier, Hideki Tojo, is not a head of state but a leader of gangsters in the simplest interpretation of the phrase. Emperor Kurusu, "Peace Envoy" to Washington, might not be spoken of, but for his many infamous acts in "fooling" the United States, he will find a spot in the history books. Thus our little review is concluded. By reading of the activities of these personalities, one can almost predict what the future days will bring forth and what the destinies of the great nations of the world will be.

Japanese Land, Air Forces Stage Heavy Attacks In Bataan

Corregidor and U. S. Positions Raided, Sharp Encounters Occur On Ground

The Associated Press
A heavy bombing attack on the Corregidor fortress and American positions in Bataan by 54 Japanese heavy bombers of a new type was reported today by the War Department, which said only slight damage was inflicted.

Several sharp encounters occurred in Bataan as fighting was resumed there, the Department added. Three of the enemy bombers were shot down by anti-aircraft fire.

American artillery laid down a heavy fire on enemy positions in Bataan, and Japanese losses are believed considerable.

The Japanese continued heavy attack in Burma, according to British military spokesmen, but land action was limited to patrols operating in the Toungay sector.

A considerable Japanese advance against the Chinese held left flank of the Allied lines in Burma was acknowledged in a Chinese communique reporting "vigorous fighting" only seven miles from Toungay, one of two key points in the British-Chinese position.

The first major land battle for central Burma was being fought along the Pyu river 35 miles south of Toungay on the Rangoon-Mandalay railroad. British and Chinese troops made a junction in that area last week and an initial sortie the Chinese threw the Japanese.

Initial reports of the battle, published in a Chinese army communique here, said it was still in progress. The Chinese troops employed were a shock force armed with United States battle equipment. It was assumed that they were part of the crack fifth and eighth armies, commanded by Lieutenant General Stilwell.

At the outset, the Japanese appeared to have won the advantage in the battle for air superiority over Burma. The Allies were reported suffering from a lack of heavy bombers.

On the Kwangtung front in South China the official announcement said heavy fighting was in progress near Chungsha, west of Hongkong, following a new Japanese landing on the coast.

Hotelmen Hike Price; Negotiations Dropped

MIAMI BEACH, Mar. 21 (AP)—H. Gen. Ralph W. Weston said yesterday the army air corps has dropped negotiations for the establishment of a replacement center here because of five hotel owners' bid their price at the last minute.

They had agreed originally to a price for housing personnel, he said, then unexpectedly asked two as much.

"The Japs and the Germans are not waiting for hotel men to make up their minds as to what they are going to do," General Weston said.

Later, Miami Beach hotelmen unanimously passed a resolution agreeing to lease their facilities to the Army on the Army's terms.

There was no immediate indication that the Army would resume negotiations.
