I-4 lane closing for tonight

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — The right, outside lane of eastbound traffic on Interstate 4 between State Roads 434 and 436 will be closed tonight from 8 p.m. until 6 a.m. Friday morning. Road crews are placing beams over the interstate for the Central Parkway overpass.

Black figures pulled from shelves

FAIRVIEW, Ky. — Until Wednesday, a state-operated gift shop at Jefferson Davis birthplace was offering souvenirs in the image of plantation slaves.

The salt and pepper shakers, bells and spoon holders were mostly cast in the stereotypical figures of 19th century black women — heavy-set, with red bandannas around their heads and floor-length aprons.

There is a growing market for such reminders of America's racist past, and antique figurines that portray black people stereotypically have come to fetch premium prices. Bill Cosby, Whoopi Goldberg and Oprah Winfrey are among the buyers of black collectibles, and there is a magazine devoted to them.

But at least one prominent black official in Kentucky criticized the gift shop at the Jefferson Davis Historic Site, which marks the birthplace of the Confederacy's only president.

If a store is supported by taxpayers, "everyone has a vested interest in what it projects," state Sen. Gerald Neal of Louisville said.

Networks mark historic tie

NEW YORK — CBS, ABC and NBC all won the July ratings "sweeps." The tie is unprecedented, according to CBS.

Each network averaged an 8.7 rating and a 17 percent share of the audience in the battle, which showed a marked summer appetite for two news programs — "60 Minutes" and "20-20" — as well as a continuing drop in network viewing.

During television's four-times-a-year sweeps periods, the audience is measured and the results are used to set local advertising rates. The networks often put on major movies and other blockbuster programming to get big ratings.

According to A.C. Nielsen Co. estimates released Wednesday by CBS, that network's "60 Minutes" and ABC's "20-20" tied in the ratings and were the period's most-watched shows. Each averaged a 13.3 rating.

Farmers Market repaired

Construction contract goes to local firm

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — A $500,000 renovation project is now underway at the Sanford State Farmers' Market. Bulldozers are busy ripping up a parking area along French Avenue.

The actual work got under way last Friday. The market is located at 1300 South French Ave. It has only been during the past few days that the actual results could be seen by passers-by, with much of the initial work toward the rear area of the property.

The current project involves renovation and repairs in the parking lot. Market Manager Wendell Springfield said, "Over the years, trucks have cracked much of the surface, and the entire front area is being repaved."

The money was appropriated for the market project by the Florida Legislature, and included in the 1988-89 State budget. The time since then has been occupied with obtaining various permits and state approvals, as well as planning. See Market, Page 5A

Medical Society awards Luis M. Perez scholarship

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Joyce Tullis, a graduate of Lake Brantley High School, was this year's recipient of the annual Luis M. Perez, M.D. scholarship. The award is presented by the Seminole County Medical Society.

The medical society makes an award of $2,000 each year to a Seminole County student who is interested in pursuing an education in the sciences. Miss Tullis, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Tullis of Altamonte Springs, plans to attend the University of Florida in Gainesville, majoring in psychology.

This year, the society received 21 applications from seniors throughout the county, all of whom were described as excellent students.

Applicants are required to achieve at least a 3.5 grade point average, and have done well in at least five science courses during high school. In addition, they must submit a transcript of their grades and write an essay limited to 300 words, about why the pursuit of scientific study is important to the individual. See Medical, Page 5A

Kirchhoff land considered for bridge

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Several acres of land owned by former Seminole County commissioner Bill Kirchhoff and his family may be bought by the Florida Department of Transportation to build the new U.S. Highway 17-90 bridge over the St. Johns River and to replace wetlands damaged for the project.

Kirchhoff said Wednesday no sale agreement had been reached but negotiations must be complete by mid-October to avoid condemnation.

Fred Virate, an FDOT project development engineer in Sanford, said the $10 million construction of the new bridge expected to be underway next summer will require about three acres of wetlands owned by the Kirchhoff family on the south bank of the St. Johns River.

The three acres of wetlands are located in about 51 acres Seminole County has identified for potential acquisition under the county's environmentally-sensitive land purchase program. See Bridge, Page 5A

McCarthy freed after five years

British journalist handed over

Associated Press

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — British journalist John McCarthy, freed today after being held hostage in Lebanon for more than five years, said his fellow hostages, including American Terry Anderson, had given him the strength to survive his ordeal.

McCarthy, 34, who was turned over to the British ambassador in the Syrian capital a few hours after being freed in Beirut, told reporters at Syria's Foreign Ministry that "my heart is very grateful" to those who worked for his release.

McCarthy, a television journalist, was clean shaven and did not have the gaunt, sickly look of hostages who had been released previously. He said he had recently seen U.S. hostages Anderson and Thomas Sutherland.

"I am happy to be able to tell the families of the American hostages Terry Anderson and Tom Sutherland and or my fellow Briton Terry Waite that when I left them two days ago they were in good health and good spirits," McCarthy told reporters at the Foreign Ministry in Damascus.

"And that our living conditions recently are tolerable and you could call them good," he added. The Shiite Muslim group Islamic Jihad, in the statement announcing his release, said McCarthy was carrying a message for U.N. Secretary General Javier Perez de Cuellar. He confirmed he was carrying a message, but said little about its contents.

"I understand that the letter seeks the secretary-general's help in arranging the release of all prisoners. See Hostage, Page 5A

County won't act on referendum request

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County commissioners won't act on a request by Hispanics to hold a single member district referendum.

"I don't plan to bring it up," said Fred Streetman, chairman of the county commission. "I think the Charter Revision Commission will meet next year. If they want to bring it up, that would be the correct forum."

This week, the county received a request from the Seminole County chapter of the Florida Hispanic American Voters League to hold a referendum before 1992 to have voters decide whether county commissioners should be elected solely from within their districts or at-large, as they are now.

Edward Martinez Jr., Seminole County chairman of the Hispanic voter's league, said he was disappointed by Streetman's comments but vowed to pursue the issue. The commission to review potential changes to the Seminole County Charter won't meet until Nov. 1993.

"Right now, it's a mute point," Martinez said. "I don't think there's one district that has such a large constituency that we could make a difference. But down the road, maybe by next year or the year after, maybe we can make a difference. See Voters, Page 5A

FLORIDA BRIEFS

AT&T to boost directory assistance rate

TALLAHASSEE — American Telephone & Telegraph can raise its rates by a nickel for directory assistance calls within Florida, the Public Service Commission decided.

AT&T sought the rate increase from 35 cents to 40 cents, the first since November 1989, to keep pace with competition in the long-distance trade, company officials said.

The 40-cent rate applies only to directory assistance within Florida, and compares with a rate of 60 cents a call charged by U.S. Sprint and 24 cents a call levied by MCI, state records show.

PSC analysts said the increase will net the company an additional $630,000 a year.

Unaffected by Tuesday's decision are rates charged for directory assistance outside Florida. AT&T and U.S. Sprint charge 60 cents each for these calls, while MCI charges 55 cents a call, records show.

Report issued on Trump estate

PALM BEACH — Donald Trump's plan to subdivide his Mar-a-Lago estate would destroy its historic integrity, but the 17-acre property is a good candidate for a more modest breakup, a town consultant says.

The report issued Tuesday calls for fewer, smaller homes arranged along the north and south boundaries to protect ocean and lake views but accepted the subdivision idea.

Trump proposed carving out eight 1 1/2-acre lots and retaining the former Post cereal family mansion on about four acres, but consultant Howard Decker said eight is too many.

Decker recommended leaving undisturbed a nine-hole golf course, an underground tunnel from the mansion to the beach, a free-standing garage, at least 40 percent of the tree canopy and three entry structures.

Peer counselor won't be expelled

FORT LAUDERDALE — The Broward County School Board has voted against expelling a 17-year-old who took a gun from a troubled classmate while acting in his capacity as a peer counselor.

The principal and a hearing officer had recommended expulsion, saying the school district's rigid gun policy was violated since officials weren't notified quickly enough. But board members said Ryan Goldstein's case was different.

"If the student had not been acting in the role of peer counselor, he would not have had any contact with the gun," board member Don Samuels said.

Tuesday's vote was 5-1, with Board member Karen Dickerhoff casting the lone vote the other way.

Escapes back in custody

APALACHICOLA — An escapee is back in custody after showing up at the home of strangers who gave him a cigar and fed him a rib dinner before sheriff's deputies took him away.

Robert Webb, 62, a retired Florida Power Co. lineman, and his wife, Paula, were watching television Monday when the escapee, James Allen Head, 31, came to their living room window and asked for a cigarette.

Webb had none but gave Head the cigar instead. His wife called police and warmed up some food for Head, who said he hadn't eaten since escaping from the Franklin Work Camp five days earlier. He had hidden out in a swamp while on the loose.

Graham works as bagger

PACE — One of Florida's U.S. senators bagged groceries and the other visited a display of Jewish culture on separate visits to the Panhandle.

Democratic Sen. Bob Graham worked as a bagger Wednesday at the Winn-Dixie store in this Pensacola suburb where he hoped to meet workers affected by the Social Security earnings cap that he wants repealed.

Social Security recipients lose 81 of benefits for every 82 of earned income in excess of $9,720 a year under existing law. Graham said he supports a bill by Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kansas, to phase out the cap by 1996.

Meanwhile, Republican Sen. Connie Mack visited the Mosaic exhibit of Jewish culture and history Tuesday at the T.T. Wentworth Jr. State Museum in Pensacola and Wednesday spoke with groups in Fort Walton Beach, Panama City, Bristol and Quincy.

Park superintendent to vacate post

EVERGLADES NATIONAL PARK — Park Superintendent Robert Chandler says he will vacate his post in mid-October to become superintendent at Grand Canyon National park.

Chandler said his wife Mitzi's health was the motivating factor in his transfer request.

"She has an arthritic condition," he said Tuesday, adding that South Florida's humidity was aggravating the problem.

Park spokeswoman Pat Tolle said it was unclear whether Chandler's replacement would come from another park or within Everglades National Park.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Economy: Consumers skeptical

Associated Press

GAINESVILLE — Florida consumers are skeptical about the long-term strength of the U.S. economy, a University of Florida economist says.

The Florida Consumer Confidence Index, derived from a random survey of 384 adults in the state, dropped three points in July to 83, said Dave Denlow, a research economist with UF's Bureau of Economic and Business Research.

"The recovery of the 1990-91 recession is shaping up as the weakest in several decades," Denlow said. "Our survey confirms other indicators that the rest of the year will bring sluggish growth."

"In March 1991, confidence soared 12 points to 89, correctly foretelling that a recovery would begin in the next month or two. But every survey since March has registered slightly below the one before."

The recovery of the 1990-91 recession is shaping up as the weakest in several decades.

-Dave Denlow, economist

While the index has not dropped back into the recession range, clearly consumers are not buoyant.

Forty-seven percent of the respondents in July said they expected the national economy to be worse in 1996 than today. In June, 42 percent predicted a long-term worsening of the economy.

Correspondingly, 31 percent in July, compared to 39 percent in June, said they expected the economy to improve in five years.

A national consumer poll taken by the University of Michigan showed that 49 percent expect good times nationally over the next five years.

Respondents in the Florida survey were more optimistic about the state's economy than the country's.

Forty-seven percent of the respondents said Florida's economy was in better shape than the nation's, while 25 percent said the national economy was stronger.

But only 35 percent of the respondents, down from 55 percent in June, said they expected "good times" for the state during the next five years. Forty-eight percent said they anticipated bad times.

Fewer people in July's survey, 11 percent, said they planned to buy a car during the coming six months. In June, 13 percent said they would buy a car soon.

But the number of people who said they planned to buy a house rose from 6 percent in June to 9 percent in July.

Gov. Chiles completes health tests

By CURT ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. Lawton Chiles is optimistic that medical test results expected Friday on his inflamed colon will show nothing seriously wrong.

"They're saying now that it'll probably be sometime late Friday before they have all the results. We'll have to hear about that. I think everything's fine," Chiles said Wednesday after returning from the Mayo Clinic in Jacksonville.

The 61-year-old governor underwent nine hours of tests over three days to determine the cause and possible treatment of a narrowing of his large intestine.

"You know, they just gave me every kind of check in the world," Chiles said. "I feel great."

Chiles has a 1 p.m. appointment Friday with his doctors at the clinic, said Press Secretary Julie Anbender. She repeated that there is no evidence thus far of cancer or another serious illness.

"I don't want to predict what it might be, that's up to the doctors," she said.

It wasn't clear Wednesday whether surgery might be necessary.

School choice tax policy eyed

Associated Press

FORT LAUDERDALE — The commission looking for ways to overhaul Florida's tax system has asked its staff to check into two proposals that would ask Florida voters to legalize a personal income tax.

The Florida Taxation and Budget Reform Commission also heard a briefing Wednesday on a Michigan business tax system that may provide ideas for changes in Florida business taxes.

In subcommittee meetings Tuesday and a full commission meeting Wednesday, the group also discussed proposals such as direct lottery financing to school districts that let parents choose their children's schools.

The commission is considering possible constitutional amendments to change the tax system, and has until May to decide which, if any, amendments to propose to voters in the November 1992 election.

One income tax proposal was in a series of recommendations by member Tom Slade of Jacksonville, who also proposed changing the homesteaded property tax exemption from a 100-percent exemption on the first $25,000 of taxable value to a 50-percent exemption on the first $50,000.

Slade would ask voters to approve lifting the state's constitutional prohibition on a personal income tax.

But a variation also was proposed, by Commissioners James Bax, Allan Katz and Parker Thompson, that would go further, asking the public to directly recommend an income tax.

The commission's staff was asked to examine both proposals, executive director Larry Durrence said.

The proposed amendment on lottery funds for schools was recommended to the full commission by a 7-3 vote of a committee on Tuesday.

ACLU fears checks would hurt hiring applicants with records

Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — Minorities could be hurt most if job applicants face tougher record checks after an appeals court approved a $2.5 million award to a woman stabbed by a delivery man, the American Civil Liberties Union said.

Business groups said the ruling could add to costs for pizza-delivery, appliance, roofing, lawn-service, carpet-cleaning and other companies that decide to do criminal checks on workers they send to customers' homes.

Attorney John Cooper, whose client, Elizabeth Holland Har-riison, was stabbed 25 times by a furniture delivery man who hadn't been interviewed or filled out a job application, said urging tougher checks was "sound advice."

The 1st District Court of Appeal last week upheld a Leon County jury's $2.5 million damage award to Harrison in 1989. She sued Tallahassee Furniture Co. Inc. for negligence after being stabbed by John Allen Turner.

Associated Industries of Florida, which joined the furniture store's appeal, urges employers to run criminal checks on anyone they hire who enters a customer's home, said the group's general counsel, Richard Davis.

"I'd be scared to send anybody into anybody's home without having made some kind of record search," Davis said.

That may make employers avoid applicants with arrest records but no convictions, as well as those who have been convicted, said Robyn Blummer, executive director of the American Civil Liberties Union of Florida.

"There's no question that a policy such as that will have a chilling effect," Blummer said.

Minorities would be affected most because a disproportionate number have been arrested or convicted, she said.

Man tangled with suspected serial killer

Associated Press

DAYTONA BEACH — Robert Copus said he thought he was simply picking up a disabled motorist, until suspected serial killer Aileen Wuornos threatened to kill him when he declined her offer of sex for money.

Statements filed in circuit court here Monday indicate that Ms. Wuornos cursed and threatened to kill Copus after he picked her up hitchhiking in Polk County last November.

Ms. Wuornos, 35, is charged with killing five middle-aged men in four Central Florida counties.

After he turned down her offer of sex, Copus said Ms. Wuornos began cursing him. She allegedly said he would not be the first "old bastard" she had killed and would not be the last.

He got away unharmed, but court records did not state how.

Copus' age and address were not given in the court records.

Other court documents indicate Ms. Wuornos has talked to several Volusia County jail officers about the slayings.

Corrections officer Susan Hansen said Ms. Wuornos talked about the killings for two hours Jan. 18, when she was in a cell in the medical clinic.

At one point, Ms. Wuornos described how one of the victims said, "I'm going to die. Oh, my God, I'm dying."

According to Ms. Hansen, Ms. Wuornos said next: "I figured if these guys lived, and I got fried for attempted murder, I thought I might as well get fried for murder instead."

Corrections Officer Marjorie Bertolani said Ms. Wuornos told her on Jan. 18 that she wanted to get some things off her chest and go to heaven.

"She said, 'I killed six. I did not kill 10,'" Ms. Bertolani said.

Prosecutor David Damore said in a notice filed Monday that he plans to present evidence from slayings in Citrus, Dixie, Marion and Pasco counties during Ms. Wuornos' trial in Daytona Beach, scheduled to begin Sept. 9.

In most of the cases, middle-aged motorists were robbed and shot repeatedly. Their bodies, either nude or partially clothed, were dumped in remote woods.

The Volusia trial involves charges that Ms. Wuornos fatally shot a 52-year-old Clearwater man and dumped his body in woods north of Ormond Beach in December 1989.

Men turn themselves in Timothy Kevin McLaughlin, 29, 180 Pinecrest Drive, Sanford, turned himself in at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility Tuesday. McLaughlin was being sought on a warrant charging him with violation of parole, connected with a conviction of trafficking in cocaine.

Also Tuesday, Robert Joseph Taylor, 23, of Winter Park turned himself in at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility. He was wanted on violation of parole following his conviction on a charge of possession of a controlled substance, cocaine. He is being held without bond.

Accident leads to DUI arrest

When Lake Mary Police investigated an auto accident at the 98-mile marker on Interstate 4 Tuesday morning, they found a blue Toyota, upside down in the east bound lane, blocking traffic. After the accident investigation ended, police took the driver of the vehicle, Eric Lloyd Mallion, 28, of Clearwater, to the Lake Mary Police station to conduct a criminal investigation, when an odor of alcohol was noted.

Following testing, Mallion was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol, in addition to the accident related charges. He reportedly told officers he was en route from Clearwater to Miami at the time of the accident. He was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility.

Home burglary reported

Susan A. Bush, 776 Silvermith Circle, in Sheffield in the Crossings, near Lake Mary, reported early Tuesday that her home had been burglarized. Seminole County Sheriff's officers discovered entry had apparently been made by breaking open a window in the kitchen. An amount of jewelry, a VCR and a compact disk player plus a number of disks were reportedly taken. The sheriff's office is continuing an investigation into the case.

Handgun reported stolen

Garry Lee Toone, of Casselberry, reported a handgun was taken from his booth at Flea World. Although the report was made to the Seminole County Sheriff's office on Tuesday, the theft reportedly took place on Saturday. The gun was described as a .25 caliber automatic. An investigation into the matter is underway.

Officer recognizes offender

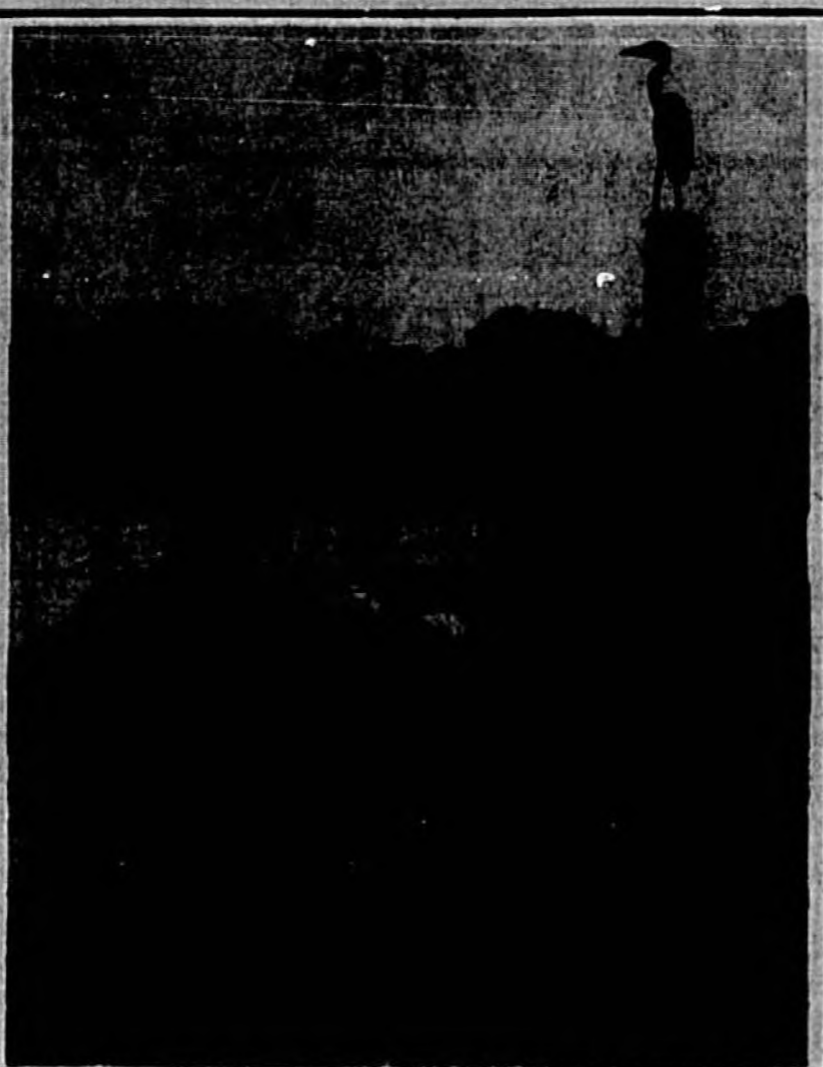

A Sanford police officer conducted a traffic stop near 110 North French Ave. Tuesday. According to the report, he stopped the vehicle because he recognized the driver from a previous case. Alan Glenn Tye, 28, 1807 Landing Drive, Sanford, was found to be operating a motor vehicle with a suspended driver license. The officer reported Tye's license had been suspended on six separate occasions.

Outstanding warrant arrests

The following people have been arrested on outstanding warrants:

• Patrick Anthony Parker, 19, 210 Scott Drive, Sanford, was charged with dealing in stolen property at the Seminole County jail Monday.

• Mark Anthony Helms, 29, 387 Georgia Ave., Longwood, was charged with violation of probation for a grand theft conviction.

Protest against drugs march set in Midway

By VICKI BOGGS
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Cynthia Oliver, chairman of the education committee at St. Mathews Missionary Baptist Church on Main Street in the Midway section of Sanford, is organizing the people of that community to march through the streets this Saturday in protest against drugs.

"It's not enough to just say no anymore," she said. "That just doesn't work."

In an effort to bring more attention to the drug problem, Oliver has organized the anti-drug march that will begin at Midway Elementary School on Jitway at 10:30 a.m.

Plans call for the group to walk down Spies Avenue, an area known for open drug sales, and to Main Street where St. Mathews is located.

Oliver said that her committee has sent letters to all the churches in the community and they have received positive responses from "most" of the parishes.

"We are also looking for individual people to join in the march," Oliver said.

This march marks the second time that the community has rallied around the anti-drug cause in a march through the streets.

"We did it a while ago," she said, "but it has not been an annual event. We think we might try to do it regularly now, until we no longer have to do it."

Oliver said that the march is a part of a weekend-long event at her church.

The youth revival will include not only religious instruction but also education in the areas of drugs, sex and the importance of completing ones education.

"Telling them to say no doesn't work," she said. "We have to get them to do the right thing."

Doing the right thing is the theme of the event.

Rev. Ron Ellis is coming from Tampa to speak to the youngsters.

So far, of the government officials Oliver invited to participate in the march, only City Commissioner Bob Thomas has responded, saying that due to previous commitments he will send his daughter in his stead.

"Last time a lot of them showed up without calling," Oliver noted.

"We don't expect any problems," Oliver said.

SEMINOLE COUNTY, FLORIDA
COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT BLOCK GRANT PROGRAM
PROGRAM YEAR 1991-1992

FINAL STATEMENT OF COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT OBJECTIVES AND PROJECTED USE OF FUNDS

This Final Statement of Community Development Objectives and Projected Use of Funds is to advise the United States Department of Housing & Urban Development (HUD) of the general objectives the County will pursue with their allocation of Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) funds, and of the specific projects which the County intends to undertake with those funds. The County has been advised that its 1991-92 grant amount is $1,846,000.

The County has an approved Housing Assistance Plan, a Community Development Plan, a residential antidisplacement and relocation assistance plan, with which to effectively administer the CDBG Program. Seminole County will make every effort to minimize the displacement of households and businesses when implementing its housing and community development activities.

- COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT OBJECTIVES
- To use CDBG funds in a manner which benefits low and moderate income persons. To alternatively use CDBG funds for the elimination or alleviation of slums or blight, or for an urgent community need (if necessary).
 - To improve the quality of life in Seminole County by providing infrastructure improvements, public facilities, parks and recreation improvements, housing assistance and other activities which are related to neighborhood/community improvement.
 - To concentrate the use of funds in identified low and moderate income neighborhoods and communities in order to stabilize and improve those neighborhoods.
 - To provide for long-range community improvement by assessing current conditions and planning long-range improvement programs.

The Community Development objectives of Seminole County are fully consistent with the national objectives as established by the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974, as amended, with a major emphasis on meeting the needs of low income persons and a lesser emphasis on eliminating slums and blight. Of the anticipated $1,846,000 in available funds for FY 1991-92 all are expected to benefit low and moderate income persons within Seminole County. Seminole county received project proposals totaling over $5,000,000 during the planning period and citizen participation process for Program Year 1991-92, which far exceeded the anticipated grant funds. The County utilized an extensive citizen participation process to insure fairness and accountability in allocating the available grant funds.

Limits needed on weapons sale

Representatives of the five permanent members of the United Nations Security Council met in Paris recently to consider ways to curb arms sales to volatile regions of the world, most notably the Middle East.

On the day the conference convened, Iraq finally acknowledged what it long has denied — the existence of its extensive program to build nuclear weapons. Baghdad's admission is only the latest example of the dangers inherent in the transfer of Western arms technology to Third World aggressors.

The participants in the Paris meeting — the United States, the Soviet Union, China, France, Britain — are together responsible for about 85 percent of the globe's weapons exports. Although the end of the Cold War has left many military contractors in the industrialized world looking for export opportunities, the Persian Gulf War has dramatically underlined the need for restraint.

Consequently, there is a broad consensus that limits are needed on the sale of weaponry to the Mideast. The first step should be a ban on shipments of ballistic missiles and components used in the production of chemical and biological arms.

In addition, international efforts must be redoubled to prevent the spread of nuclear arms, as already spelled out by the Nuclear Nonproliferation Treaty. Iraq's atomic program illustrates the failure of existing international safeguards.

American intelligence experts believe that, before the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait, Saddam Hussein had secretly enriched enough uranium into weapons-grade quality to build one or two crude atomic devices. Had Iraq acquired the capability to mount a nuclear warhead atop a Scud or other ballistic launcher, the wartime risks posed by Baghdad to the unstable zone between the Mediterranean Sea and the Persian Gulf would have been cataclysmic.

One potential way to impose a ban on shipments of ballistic launchers and sophisticated guidance systems to the Mideast is to strengthen and expand the existing Missile Technology Control Regime. At present, that international agreement has been signed only by Western nations, including the United States, Britain and France. Its objective is to slow the spread of missiles in the Third World.

Two of the globe's biggest exporters of ballistic launchers, the Soviet Union and China, have not signed the agreement. Moscow has shown, however, a willingness to consider new limits on missile exports. The Soviets were the suppliers of the large arsenal of Scuds used by Iraq against Israel and Saudi Arabia.

Beijing has resisted any limits on missile exports and has provoked international condemnation with its recent plans to sell ballistic launchers to Pakistan and Syria. But China's decision to participate in the Paris conference may be a promising sign that it at least is willing to entertain restrictions on the transfer of missile technology to Mideast countries.

A complete ban on weapon shipments to the Mideast is not likely to be achieved anytime soon. But the five permanent members of the Security Council have ample reason to act promptly to stem the flow of dangerous ballistic missiles and other weapons of mass destruction before the next Mideast conflict erupts.

Witch hunters can thrive in Florida?

In a state where witch hunters continue to torch the First Amendment, the residents of Florida might well consider postponing the celebration of this year's 200th anniversary of the Bill of Rights. Floridians may not have any less respect for the First Amendment than the residents of other states; they just seem to abuse it more often and more capriciously.

It is no mere coincidence when a single state's law-enforcement agencies are responsible for so many actions that subvert at worst and weaken at best the First and Sixth Amendments.

First, the sheriff's office in Broward County arrested the rock group 2 Live Crew for an allegedly obscene performance, but turned the other cheek when there were equally obscene performances by white entertainers. 2 Live Crew was found not guilty.

Second, Palm Beach law-enforcement officers, aided and abetted by a salivating media and a constitutionally questionable law, have gutted the Sixth Amendment rights of William Kennedy Smith to a fair trial.

Third comes the arrest of Pee-wee Herman, a popular star with children, for allegedly masturbating in a porno theater whose only raison d'être is to show dirty movies.

Many critics raised questions about the racial selectivity factor in the arrest of 2 Live Crew by Broward County sheriff officers. White rock groups were singing equally salacious lyrics, but were ignored by the Broward County sheriff's office.

The case of William Kennedy Smith disturbed many civil libertarians because of the circus-like atmosphere in which the investigation and arrest were made. It totally negated the common-law canon innocent until proven guilty. And a constitutionally suspect state law permits the introduction into evidence of other crimes, in the case of Smith, crimes for which he was never charged!

The arrest of Pee-wee Herman is especially troubling and sad for little children to whom it must — and should — be explained why he is no longer on television. Coping with a truth can be traumatic for children, and explaining can be difficult for parents since what Herman was arrested for is something that when done privately is not a misdemeanor. But honesty and affection can strengthen them against the idiocies of adults.

So why was Herman arrested? Well, apparently, the police officers in Sarasota County have nothing better to do, are bored or have latent emotional tendencies that are not totally alien to some of the impulses of the miscreants.

In an interview with Philadelphia Daily News columnist Dan Geringer, a spokesman for the Sarasota County sheriff's office confessed that undercover porno work is "something we do when we have no high crimes to keep the officers busy."

But the candor of the sheriff's office spokesman may explain why one of his detectives completely disrobed with two prostitutes (as reported in the Sarasota Herald-Tribune) and allowed one of them to touch him in an orally sexual manner in order, he claims (don't laugh, now), to arrest her!

Taxes raised, popularity lowered

SACRAMENTO (NEA) — What does a conservative Republican governor and presidential hopeful do after forcing through one of the largest tax increases in his state's history? If you are California's Pete Wilson, you call yourself a "compassionate conservative."

Wilson has just signed into law California's largest budget. For the fiscal year that began July 1, the state will spend a record $55.7 billion — an increase of 4.8 percent over last year. The record budget is balanced, as required by state law, and includes a $1.2 billion emergency reserve for unforeseen contingencies (i.e., natural disasters).

Some here believe that Wilson and the Democratic leadership in the state legislature performed something approaching a miracle in passing a balanced budget. When Wilson took office in January the first news he received was that he faced a deficit in excess of $1.5 billion.

The process has been bitter and protracted. In the end, Wilson slashed $3.1 billion from programs — including a 4 percent across-the-board cut — $1.3 billion from public education, $204 million from higher education, $183 million from homeless programs, $85 million from welfare grants, $35 million from welfare cost-of-living increases and $30 million from local government support.

Fiscal sleight-of-hand was also important: $3.6 billion was obtained by a variety of bookkeeping changes that are only good for a single fiscal year. Then, in a controversial move, $1.6 billion was obtained from excess funds in the State Public Employees Retirement Fund.

However, the most controversial aspect of Wilson's budget plan was taxes. The new budget contains tax and fee increases of $7.52 billion, including a $3.5 billion sales tax increase and a $2.3 billion income tax increase aimed mainly at the state's top earners.

Conservatives around the state are angry about the tax hikes, and most are venting their anger on Wilson. When Wilson ran for governor last year he said that he could never support an income tax increase.

How is Wilson explaining away what he has done? First, he argues that he inherited the budget mess. Then he points to cuts he made in state programs and argues that most of the state's budget he approved goes for things like education, law enforcement and local government aid — programs that a wide majority of people support. Then he argues that, as a "compassionate conservative," he had to protect the safety net of programs aimed at those who are not able to fend for themselves, especially poor children.

Finally, when all else fails, he falls back on comparing himself to Mr. California Republican himself — Ronald Reagan.

"This is hardly the first time a conservative California Republican governor has had to raise taxes to close an inherited budget deficit," Wilson told reporters. "I vividly remember another when I first came to the Assembly in 1967. Then Gov. Reagan signed a tax increase that was proportionally twice as large as the increase we have been forced to impose."

But this has not placated many state conservatives. In fact, Wilson is facing what could be revolt from the right of the state GOP at a time when the party is already badly split over redistricting and the 1992 U.S. senatorial races. Both of these issues are shaping up as classic conservative vs. moderate confrontations.

State GOP chairman Jim Dignan is trying to downplay any serious split in the party while also trying to refute analysts of the budget debate, which concluded that GOP conservatives have lost power within the party.

While saying that he knows "a lot of Republicans are very angry," Dignan also says, "I'm hopeful people will have a better understanding of the true nature of the crisis that faced Wilson and the fact that he was not responsible for the massive deficit."

How Wilson fares is of more than local interest. He is already widely viewed as a major contender for the GOP presidential nomination in 1996. This explains his all-out attempt to keep from being branded a "moderate" — a seeming kiss-of-death in national Republican politics.

Recently, at the 50th anniversary of Stanford University's conservative think tank, the Hoover Institution, Wilson told the gathering that a "compassionate conservative" believes government must have a role in helping those unable to help themselves.

"We must reject the flawed straw-man characterization of conservatives by liberals as uncaring," said Wilson. "We need an honest characterization that fairly and accurately portrays our approach of compassionate creative conservatism."

Letters to the editor are welcome. All letters must be signed, include the address of the writer and a daytime telephone number. Letters should be on a single subject and be as brief as possible. Letters are subject to editing.

Military misses in cost-cutting

WASHINGTON — The Pentagon is struggling to cut costs in the post-Cold War era by closing military bases and cutting jobs. But a multimillion-dollar operation, which has almost nothing to do except tend obsolete equipment, has been saved from the ax.

The treatment of this dumping ground for outdated machinery shows that the Pentagon is willing to make dozens of communities around the country suffer by closing their hometown military bases, but isn't willing to cut obvious fat.

The agency that won't die is the Defense Industrial Plant Equipment Center in Memphis. It was created in 1983 to manage the stockpile of machine tools from all branches of the military. Obsolete and surplus low-tech equipment is sent to DIPEC to be kept in reserve just in case anyone wants it. Hardly anyone in the new, high-tech military ever does. But that hasn't stopped the Pentagon from spending millions of dollars a year on 545 employees who repair and keep watch over the stockpile, occasionally auctioning off pieces or giving them to vocational schools.

Now the Pentagon brass has ruled that DIPEC will stay in operation, despite a report from three branches of the military that says they could save $20.5 million a year by closing it. There is some evidence that the person who saved DIPEC from the ax may never even have seen that money-saving report.

Last year, some Pentagon officials decided it was time to rethink DIPEC's mission and they came to the logical conclusion — it had no mission. The Army did a joint study with the Defense Logistics Agency — DIPEC's parent and the supply store for all the services. But after that study was over, DLA wasn't convinced, as was the Army, that DIPEC's mission was as obsolete as its equipment. So DLA did another study.

The Army officials saw the handwriting on the wall and figured DLA would recommend the preservation of the agency. So, the Army, Air Force and Marines experts wrote their own report that concluded that DIPEC's number was up. They said the Defense Department could save more than $100 million over the next five years by closing DIPEC and letting each of the individual services handle their own equipment.

As expected, DLA issued its report recommending that DIPEC not only be preserved, but that its duties be expanded.

But sources close to the debate told our reporter Larry Mastbaum that McMillan never saw the disbanding report, or the statistics about how much money could be saved by closing the obsolete agency. A spokesman for DIPEC told us that the report was sent to the Pentagon, but McMillan's office refused to tell us whether it ever got to him.

The "new and improved" DIPEC will have total centralized control over procurement of machine tools for all the services, meaning all branches of the military will have to buy through DIPEC whether they like it or not. And, under the new arrangement, DIPEC will have even less equipment to watch over. Under the old system, DIPEC was responsible for equipment worth more than $5,000. Under the new system, the minimum value of equipment under DIPEC's jurisdiction will be $15,000, which will cut the current stockpile from about 7,000 pieces to about 4,000.

Less than 10 years ago, DIPEC's warehouses had a stockpile of more than 28,000 pieces of equipment. Some of it dates back to World War II and is still sitting around waiting for someone to need it. In the meantime, it is getting the best care the taxpayers can provide.

The agency that won't die is the Defense Industrial Plant Equipment Center in Memphis.

County fire-rescue impact fees may soon be raised

By J. MARK SANFORD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County fire-rescue impact fees may be increased next year to pay for increased costs of building fire stations and purchasing rescue equipment.

The current fee of $112.91 per new home could be raised to $210 by next April following a 90-day committee review beginning in September.

County commissioners will consider ordering the updating process Tuesday.

The county fire impact fee, first imposed on unincorporated areas in 1987, is used to build and equip new fire stations to meet the demands of population growth. The fee is only charged for new homes and businesses in the areas outside cities.

County capital projects planner Pam Hastings said the fee is based on the cost of construction and the cost to equip them. The current $112 fee is based on an average of $150,000 to buy the land, $410,000 to build a two-bay station and $236,000 for each fire engine. Hastings said.

Since the last fee update in 1989, Hastings said the actual cost of building a fire station has risen to $800,000 and the cost of a fire engine has increased to about $250,000. The cost of land has stayed about the same, she said.

At the current rate, growth is no longer paying for itself. Hastings said investment interest on the fees have been able to pay for the increased costs. Hastings said.

Market

The construction is being done by Wharton Smith, Inc., of Lake Monroe. Springfield was pleased to obtain the local contractor. "When we first started this," he said, "I was hoping to get someone in this area to do the work, so we could keep the money in the Sanford area."

He explained, "Hiring the local firm helped put at least $300,000 of the money back into the local economy."

As for the work currently underway, Springfield said, "All four of our major buildings will be renovated. The main building which houses retail marketing, truck and produce brokers, will have new siding installed, plus repainting and a repairs."

The restaurant, on French Avenue at the corner of 13th Street, is presently closed and also under repair. The building is part of the market complex.

Following its complete renovation, it will be reopened to serve as a family type restaurant for both truckers and the general public. The operator of the restaurant will be announced at a later date.

Springfield said he does not expect any interruptions in the regular service at the market. "Things will operate just as close to normal as we can make them," he said. "There is a possibility we may have to close the truck scale for only one day, but we're trying our best to prevent any inconvenience."

The entire reconstruction and refurbishing project is expected to last at least several months.

and hostages being held in Lebanon, and for those held in Israel," McCarthy said. "I cannot say any more about that now, as the letter is clearly for the secretary-general's personal attention. It would be better for him to make any comment."

McCarthy credited the Americans and British hostage Terry Waite for helping him to endure his long captivity. Waite, the envoy of the Archbishop of Canterbury, was abducted Jan. 20, 1987, while on a mission to try to free the hostages.

"The (British) ambassador kindly mentioned my strength of character," he said. "I will refer back to the two Americans and to Terry Waite and say that whatever strength I have had to endure the past five years has really come from those men," he said, standing under a portrait of Syrian President Hafez Assad. It was the first release of a Westerner held in Lebanon in nearly a year. Brian Keenan, who was taken hostage April 11, 1986, was freed on Aug. 24, 1990.

Islamic Jihad is known to hold Anderson, 43, chief Middle East correspondent of The Associated Press and Sutherland, a 60-year-old American educator. Both were kidnapped in 1985 and Anderson is the longest-held hostage.

A total of six Americans are held captive in Lebanon.

Islamic Jihad had said in a statement released Tuesday afternoon that it would send a special envoy to Perez de Cuellar within 48 hours in an bid to end the hostage deadlock. That statement followed an Iranian newspaper report that two hostages — an American and a Briton — would be released by week's end.

An envoy from the secretary-general, Giandomenico Picco, was reported in the Middle East prepared to accept the message.

Previously the kidnapers demanded the release of hundreds of Shiite Muslim prisoners held by Israel in south Lebanon and Israel in exchange for the Western hostages.

Israel, in a statement after McCarthy's release was announced, said no prisoners would be freed until it obtained assurances through the International Committee of the Red Cross that seven military men missing in Lebanon would be freed, or their remains turned over.

McCarthy, 34, spoke to reporters for only about a minute and refused to answer reporters' questions. "Later," he said.

At one point he smiled brightly, and appeared to be overcome with emotion.

"I would like to thank all the people who have done so much on our behalf over the past five years — my family, my friends and colleagues, and all of those people who supported those campaigns," he said in his brief statement.

"Many of them I don't know, but I know that thousands have taken part and my heart is very grateful for all those efforts," he said. "I appeal to all these kind people to keep up their efforts to end the ordeal of my fellow hostages and all those who are held in similar conditions in the region."

The United States had expressed optimism that an American hostage would be released and said Wednesday it was assembling medical experts in preparation for that possibility. A State Department reception team also was organized.

But there was no word in Islamic Jihad's brief statement, released a few minutes before noon, about freedom for any other hostage.

A spokeswoman at the British Embassy in Germany, speaking on condition of anonymity, said she had been told that McCarthy would fly directly from Cyprus to a Royal Air Force base in Great Britain.

In the United States, Anderson's sister, Peggy Say, expressed sadness today that the anticipated release of her brother had failed to occur. But she was pleased about the freeing of McCarthy.

"I'm keeping on keeping on," Say said on "CBS This Morning." "I'm disappointed that it isn't Terry."

Say said she believed the further release of hostages would depend on Israel releasing its Palestinian prisoners.

In an interview with The Associated Press before the broadcast, she said, "If there are no further releases today, I'll go to John." It is believed that they had been held together.

She said she had sent a congratulatory message to McCarthy's family.

McCarthy was kidnapped on April 17, 1986, on his way to Beirut airport after a six-week temporary assignment in the Lebanese capital as a producer for Worldwide Television News.

No group had claimed to hold McCarthy or made any demands for his release.

Nothing was heard about McCarthy until April 1988, when released French hostages confirmed he was alive.

difference."

The county has rebuked previous efforts to switch to single member districts. In 1988, a petition drive was begun in order to force commissioners to place the issue on the ballot after commissioners refused the request of Sanford lawyer James Sweeting III to place the issue on the November 1988 ballot.

The petition drive failed to receive the required 10 percent of all registered voters in the county.

According to the 1990 Census, there are 18,606 Spanish-heritage residents living in Seminole County, representing about 8½ percent of the 287,529 residents. Martinez said there are concentrations of Hispanics in Casselberry and Sanford, but not enough to sway a district vote.

Elections supervisor Sandra Goard said she does not keep separate race listings for Hispanics, but at the request of Martinez, she is modifying voters computer programs to include a "Hispanic" category. She said she will prepare a form that Martinez can use in advertisements asking any voter who wants to be listed as Hispanic can complete and send to her office.

Martinez said if the county doesn't respond to the request, the group may challenge the county's commission elections in court after the number of Hispanic voters increase.

"We want people to know we are here," Martinez said. "We are part and parcel a part of central Florida. We are not asking for handouts. We don't want welfare. We want our people to have the same opportunity as everyone else."

gram.

Virnie said the St. Johns River Water Management District will require FDOT to replace the wetlands before it will allow the road agency to destroy them. As part of tentative negotiations, Virnie said Kirchhoff has agreed to sell 16.7 acres on a 250-acre tract owned by the family about a mile east of the Central Florida Zoo.

The 250-acre tract is also listed on the county's potential acquisition list.

Virnie said FDOT will build a dirt or clay road through the property from U.S. 17-92 to the 16.7-acre site to enhance it for environmental reasons. The property would then be protected with a perpetual conservation easement, Virnie said. Kirchhoff would have use of the road to use his property. Kirchhoff said he has no plans to develop the wooded tract.

As part of the arrangement, Kirchhoff has also tentatively agreed to donate a 500-foot deep strip of land along the 1,800-foot width of the 250-acre tract to the road department.

Federal judge strikes down strict Louisiana abortion law

By KEVIN McCALL
Associated Press Writer

NEW ORLEANS — Louisiana's strictest-in-the-nation abortion law moved further up the legal pipeline toward the U.S. Supreme Court after a federal judge struck down the measure as unconstitutional.

U.S. District Judge Adrian Duplantier reluctantly declared Wednesday that the Supreme Court's 1973 Roe vs. Wade decision recognizing the right to an abortion is "still the law of this land."

The law, which was scheduled to take effect next month, would allow abortions only to save the life of the mother and in promptly reported cases of rape and incest. Doctors who perform illegal abortions could get up to 10 years in prison and a $100,000 fine. Women would not be penalized.

The law's supporters said it didn't matter which way Duplantier ruled because their goal was to get the measure before the Supreme Court.

"It prepares us for the next leg of the race," said state Rep. Sam Theriot, the Democrat who wrote the bill.

Louisiana Attorney General William Guste said he would file an appeal today with the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals and also ask the Supreme Court to bypass the appeals court and take up the case itself.

A much less restrictive Pennsylvania law is further along in the federal appeals process. But legal experts said the U.S. Supreme Court could decide it narrowly, avoiding the question of whether abortion is a constitutional right.

Utah and the U.S. territory of Guam have adopted laws similar to Louisiana's in the past 15 months, although they allow abortions when the mother's health is gravely threatened, a broader exception. However, Guam's law, which was suspended by a federal court, carries a penalty against the women.

In his ruling, Duplantier said he personally agreed with Justice Byron White's dissent in Roe vs. Wade. White held that the court was interfering with matters best left to the states.

But Duplantier said: "It matters not what my personal opinion may be. ... I am bound by my oath of office to decide that under the existing Supreme Court interpretation, the Louisiana statute is unconstitutional."

Shirley Pedler, director of Louisiana's chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union, said the ruling was "a limited kind of victory."

"The only relevant ruling is the one coming down from the United States Supreme Court," Pedler said.

The law was enacted June 18 over Gov. Buddy Roemer's veto. Roemer had argued that the requirement that rape victims seek medical attention within five days of the crime and report it to authorities within a week is too strict.

The governor said Wednesday he still believes the bill was badly drawn, but added that Louisiana's attorney general has a responsibility to defend the law.

Deliveryman slain in front of an audience

By LARRY ROBERTAL
Associated Press Writer

WATERBURY, Conn. — Five teen-agers were charged with murder in the ambush-slaying of a Chinese food deliveryman shot in front of a small audience invited to watch the robbery, police said Wednesday.

"A group of youths hatched this plan, others heard about it and just kind of hung around and watched," Capt. Robert Moran said.

The holdup late Monday went away when the 19-year-old deliveryman, Yeung Fai, refused to give up the $18 worth of food, Moran said. Yeung started backing away and was shot once in the chest, he said.

The boys scattered, running off with the food and abandoning their plan to steal the deliveryman's money and car, police said.

A 13-year-old who had borrowed the .22-caliber weapon from his mother's gun collection returned it, then several of the boys sat down at the food, Moran said.

The teen-agers range in age from 13 to 18. "It's a kind of like murder is now in the arena of spectator sport," Moran told The Hartford Post on Tuesday. He said none of the spectators was charged.

Asthma drug may increase death risk

Associated Press

NEW YORK — A study has found that excessive use of the most widely prescribed anti-asthma drug may increase the risk of a fatal asthma attack. The New York Times reported today. Officials of the United States subsidiary of Boehringer Ingelheim GMBH of Germany, which manufactures the drug and sponsored the study, told The Times that it recently had notified the U.S. Food and Drug Administration of its findings. The pharmaceutical company identified the drug as Beta-2 agonists, which is often dispensed in inhalators.

The study conducted in Canada found that asthma patients who used two inhalers a month — the recommended dosage is one a month — faced a risk of death or near-death that was double that of patients who used only one a month. The Times said.

The study also said, however, that further investigation is needed to tell whether the drugs or other factors caused the fatal attacks.

Spokesmen for the companies that make the drugs said they are safe when used as directed. The Times reported.

Dr. Walter Spitzer of Montreal's McGill University, who directed the study, said: "We don't want people stampeding off the medicine, but they have to be much more alert as to what the side effects may be."

An official of the U.S. subsidiary, Boehringer Ingelheim Pharmaceutical Inc. of Ridgefield, Conn., was cautious about the study's findings. Dr. Edward Hughes, the company's director of clinical drug safety, noted that patients taking the greatest amount of the drug might also be those with the most severe asthma.

The study included a review of 12,300 patients in Saskatchewan treated for asthma from 1978 to 1987. About 44 patients in the study group died from asthma attacks and 85 others had near-fatal attacks. The Times reported. The results first were disclosed in the July 27 issue of New Scientist, a British science magazine.

Anderson's sister is confident about rumored hostage release

By PHIL WEST
Associated Press Writer

CADIZ, Ky. — Probably for the first time since her brother Terry Anderson was taken hostage six years ago, Peggy Say is confident he would be released.

That's because the State Department, for the first time, was keeping her posted on developments, she said Wednesday night from her home.

"This one is different," she said. "Nobody's trying to give me the business."

Anderson, 43, chief Middle East correspondent for The Associated Press, was kidnapped in Lebanon by Shiite Muslim extremists on March 16, 1985. He is the longest-held Western hostage in Lebanon. Five other Americans are being held.

Reacting to the release early today of British journalist John McCarthy, Say said, "If there are no further releases today, I'll go to John."

"It'll take him a while to recover," she said of McCarthy. "He doesn't even know his mother has died."

She said she had sent a congratulatory message to McCarthy this morning.

Say spoke earlier outside her home as diplomats in the Middle East, Europe and the United States kept watch early today, hoping for a hostage release in Europe.

Say said that she had no assurances her brother would be freed but that the State Department was keeping her informed and she was pleased with the government's efforts.

"It's wait and see. There seems to be a 99 percent certainty, but nobody has a name, nobody has a time," she said.

"We're all pulling together now. Instead of butting heads, we're working together."

Major Western embassies in Beirut — including the U.S. and British missions — were on alert.

Anderson's photo was released Monday with a statement from the pro-Iranian faction Islamic Jihad. It said a special envoy would deliver an "extremely important message" to the U.N. secretary-general on the hostage stalemate.

Britain's Independent Television News reported that Sunny Mann, wife of kidnapped Briton Jackie Mann, was told by a British diplomat in Lebanon that hostages likely to be released would be Anderson and Briton John McCarthy.

The Tehran Times, a newspaper close to the Iranian leadership, later forecast the possible release this weekend of an American and a Briton held in Lebanon.

"On a scale of 10, I'd have to give the accuracy of this report a 9 1/2," Say said.

Behemoth Florida cockroach top bug in national competition

By CATHERINE O'BRIEN
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES — A 1.87-inch roach from Florida and a beach-going cousin from Hawaii were top bugs Wednesday in a competition for biggest and most creative cockroaches in the nation.

Roaches came from across the country to take part in the Combat Cockroach competition at the County Natural History Museum. Some lounged on beaches or sang on stage. Others rode tanks into battle against Saddam Hussein.

Fortunately, all had long since met the fate desired by the bug-killing company that sponsored the event.

"The competition was stiff this year," said Judge Arthur V. Evans, a museum director, as he delivered a $500 check and trophy to creative winner Susan Starrett, 40, of Hawaii.

Gesturing to a roach sprawled on a beach towel in her exhibit, Starrett said, "I found Fred in the shower and some of these others around my farm."

"This was a way for me to relieve tension. I work at the city morgue," she said.

Four roaches dressed in bright pink and black trunks enjoyed a sandy island, complete with palm tree and a thatched-roof tower while another caught a wave on an orange surfboard in the winning entry for creativity.

A fifth roach snoozed on a hammock under a copy of "Play Roach."

A competitor in another display, Evil Knievel roach, wearing black cape and sunglasses, revved his motorcycle next to an "Elvis Lives" roach strumming a guitar.

Roaches in combat fatigues manned American tanks charging across the desert to fight Saddam.

The annual contest, sponsored by Combat Roach Control Systems, "is just a fun way to talk about a serious topic, the disposal of roaches," said Michael Bohdan, Combat field director.

Finders of the largest American roach among more than 2,000 entries were awarded $1,000. The big bug, which came from Florida and measured 1.87 inches, was placed on a golden throne.

"We found it in our classroom," said Patty Rosenblum, a building supervisor at Orange River Elementary School in Fort Myers.

"We threw a cup over him and hoped he didn't jump on us," added her co-winner.

NAACP to suspend branch

Associated Press

COMPTON, Calif. — The NAACP will suspend its local branch for endorsing President Bush's nomination of Clarence Thomas, a conservative black judge, to the U.S. Supreme Court, a spokesman said.

The Compton chapter is the only branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People to favor Thomas. The Baltimore-based national organization opposed Thomas' nomination.

"Any branch that goes out against the national branch will be suspended" as a matter of policy, NAACP spokesman William H. Penn said from Maryland. Penn said an investigation of Compton's stance was under way.

The NAACP said it disagreed with Thomas' opposition to affirmative action. However, Royce Esters, president of the Compton chapter, said his members voted 32-0 in favor of endorsing Thomas.

"He is talking about self-help and I don't see anything wrong with that. We made a decision and we're sticking with it," Esters said. Esters said he will fight any attempt to suspend the chapter or its members.

Let's call it a season

H.D. Realty takes care of business

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — All any league organizer can ask is that the championship be decided in the final game of the season.

That's exactly what happened Wednesday night at Pinehurst Park as H.D. Realty used a five-run first inning to knock off Bikini Beach 9-4 and claim the Sanford Recreation Department Wednesday Night Men's Slowpitch Softball League championship.

In other games played Wednesday night, Ed Bussard's Pro Base Guide Service rolled by the Wrecking Crew 16-7 and Regency Mazda rallied past Enaley Inc. 5-2.

H.D. Realty finished the spring/summer season with an 11-4 mark ahead of Bussard's Pro Base Guide Service (10-5), Bikini Beach (9-6), the Wrecking Crew (8-7), Regency Mazda (7-8) and Enaley Inc. (0-15).

The evening began with the mathematical possibility of the regular season ending in a three-way tie. All that had to happen was for Bussard's to beat the Wrecking Crew and Bikini Beach to knock off H.D. Realty for the top three teams to finish 10-5.

Bussard's took care of its share, scoring four runs in the top of the first inning and exploding for seven more in the seventh to put away the Wrecking Crew.

Calvin Bryant led a Bussard's attack that feature 30 hits (28 singles), going 5-for-5 with three runs scored. Duane Goembeh contributed a double, three singles and two runs scored while Ed Bussard added three singles and three runs scored.

Also chipping in were Tim Wilks and Reggie Robinson (each with three singles and two runs scored), Bill Roscoe (double, two singles), Jeff Bergman (three singles), Ray Roscoe and John Wilks (both with two singles and one run scored) and Rick Roscoe and Steve Bussard (both with one single and one run scored).

Providing the offense for the Wrecking Crew were Tim Winkle (three singles, two runs scored), Steve Cooper (two singles, three runs scored), Bill Marino (double, single), James Stern (single, run scored), Pat Rupp (two singles) and Heath Short and Ronny (one single each).

Once Bussard's had upheld the possibility of a three-way tie, attention turned to Enaley Inc.'s attempt to avoid going through the season winless. It's been a frustrating season for the Enaley Inc., who have

Regulators, DCC come up victorious

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — All the schedule juggling being done by the Sanford Recreation Department to get in the necessary games of its spring/summer adult softball leagues has turned things into a variation of an old Abbott and Costello routine.

Who's in first?
 What's this week's schedule?
 I don't know.
 Why?
 Because.
 Tomorrow? Today?
 I don't give a . . .

Actually, things aren't that bad. It only seems that way because the rec department is making up games whenever it can. For example, Wednesday night's schedule at Chase Park featured two games from different leagues.

In a Tuesday Night Men's League make-up game, the Regulators outlasted the Kokomo Recyclers 13-12. That was followed by DCC picking up a 7-0 forfeit win over Hall's Stucco in a Wednesday Night Men's League contest.

With the win, the Regulators (10-4) maintains its mathematical chance of tying Beer:30 (11-3) for second behind league-leading State Market Restaurant (12-1). The Kokomo Recyclers are currently tied for fourth with Kinco (both 3-11) while Monroe Harbour Marina (3-12), which has completed its season, is sixth.

Beer:30 still could tie for first, but for that to happen, it must win its one remaining game with the Regulators and hope that State Market Restaurant loses both its games with Kinco and the Kokomo Recyclers.

With its forfeit win over Hall's Stucco, DCC (11-3) is only a half-game back of league-leading Florida Manor

Regulators	720	301	0	13	13
Kokomo Recyclers	202	110	0	10	10

(11-2). Hopkins Meats (8-6) is third ahead of Hall's Stucco (8-9), Smitty's Plumbing (3-10) and the Sanford Police Benevolence Association (2-10).

In the only game played Wednesday night at Chase Park, the Regulators scored seven runs in the top of the first inning, then withstood a strong Recycler comeback.

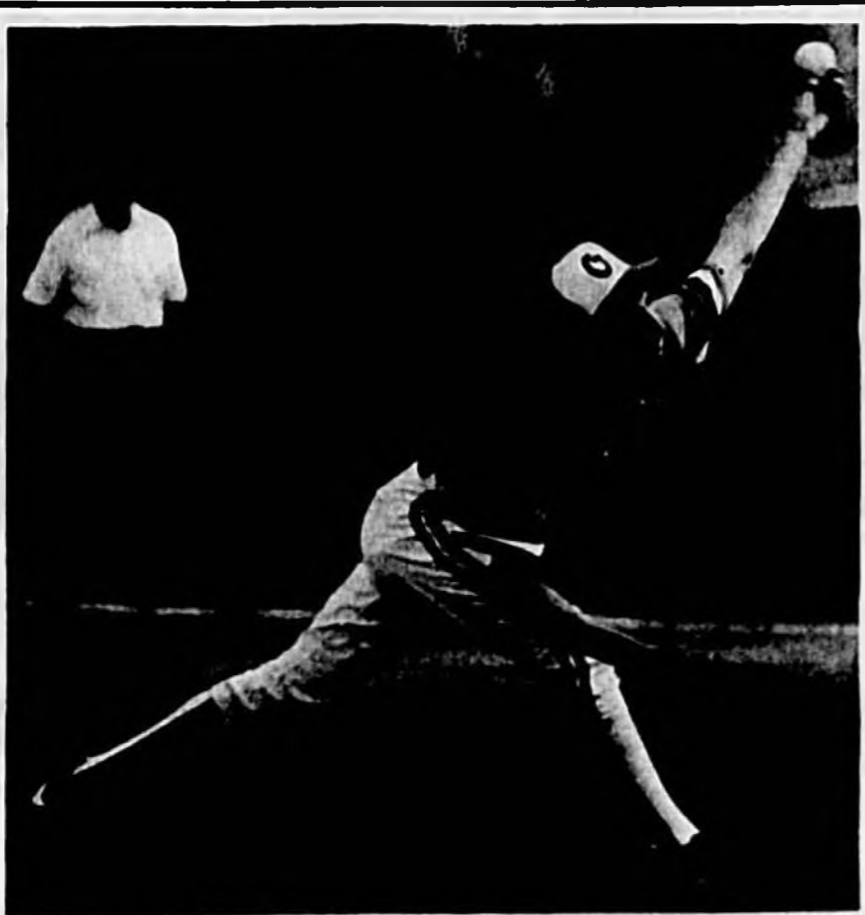

Trailing 13-7 going into the bottom of the sixth, the Kokomo Recyclers scored five runs to close within one, 13-12. The Recyclers, who left runners on first and second base in the sixth, had the potential tying run get as far as third base in the seventh inning but couldn't come up with the last big hit.

Scott Murphy led the Regulators' 15-hit attack with a double, single and three runs scored. Brian Curtis added a double, single and two runs scored.

Also chipping in were John Keiger, Jeff Kruger and Frank Randolph, who each hit a pair of singles and scored a run. Brad Kruger doubled and scored a run while Cary Keefer, Randy Middleton and Bob Keefer each singled and scored a run. Dan Shifflet hit a single and David Goldstick scored a run.

Keith Acree had a triple, two singles and a run scored to pace the Kokomo Recyclers. James Bell contributed a double, single and two runs scored. Jerry Herman, David Graham and Milton Smith each hit two singles and scored a run while Aaron Johns and Arthur Barnes both hit a single and scored two runs.

Other contributors included Bert Herring and Nate Murphy (one single and one run scored each) and Eric Luco (one single).

Twiggs gets full ride

Greg Twiggs, a 1990 graduate of Oviedo High School, has accepted a scholarship to play baseball at Brewton Parker College, a NAIA school in Mount Vernon, Ga. Twiggs, 5-0 in the Central Florida League this summer, spent one semester at Wabash Junior College last year.

Penn. state champion to play in Rotary Bowl?

By TONY DeBORMIER
 Herald Sports Editor

LONGWOOD — It appears the Rotary Bowl, a 17-year Central Florida high school football Thanksgiving tradition, is going national.

In a story published July 24 in The Morning Call (Allentown, Pa.), two-time Pennsylvania state champion Bethlehem Catholic High School has received permission from the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Activities Association to make the trip and participate in the game.

Larry Cowart, a member of the Southeast Seminole Rotary club's selection committee, would not comment on the story, saying only that a press conference had been scheduled for the club's breakfast meeting this Friday morning at Maison Et Jardin, a restaurant in Altamonte Springs.

The only thing that might stand in the way of the Bethlehem Catholic Golden Hawks participating in the game would be getting the approval of the Florida High School Activities Association. But that should prove to be nothing more than a formality, the FHSAA By-Laws allowing for both bowl games and inter-state play.

Generally played the night before Thanksgiving, the Rotary Bowl is the primary fund raiser for the Southeast Seminole Rotary Club. In the past, the club's selection committee has tried to match the two top Central Florida teams that didn't qualify for the FHSAA state playoffs.

Last year, in the only Rotary Bowl ever played on Thanksgiving Day, the Dr. Phillips Panthers edged the Lake Mary Rams 21-19.

Every Seminole County team has played in at least one Rotary Bowl with Lyman having appeared in four games. Lake Brantley has made three appearances while Oviedo and Lake Mary have each played in two. Lake Howell and Seminole have both played in one Rotary Bowl each.

Only once in the Rotary Bowl's history have two Seminole County teams faced each other. That was in 1982, when Oviedo defeated Lake Howell.

The team with the most Rotary Bowl appearances is Evans High School with five. Edgewater, Winter Park and Oak Ridge have each played in two.

Beck to speak to Woodmen

The Rev. Dr. Bill E. Beck, director of the Southeast Region of Heifer Project International, will speak to the Woodmen of the World fraternity, Lodge 625, on Monday, August 12, at 6 p.m. He will present a slide or video show to illustrate how Heifer Project provides livestock to small farmers as a multiplying source of food and income. Each recipient passes on the gift by sharing offspring with others in need. HPI also provides education about the root causes of hunger and poverty.

Beck most recently helped lead a work-study group in the Dominican Republic. While there, the group, working with Dominican farmers, painted a school, constructed a hog barn and visited farmers who had received livestock.

The Rev. Dr. Bill Beck

Long distance affair ends at altar

DEAR ABBY: In December 1987, I sent Christmas cards to all six of the addresses you had in your Operation Dear Abby III column. I received three responses — one was from a Ken Castaneda, serving on the USS Coral Sea. (The others were nice letters, but Ken's was special.)

When Ken received my Christmas card, he was on a Mediterranean cruise, and we corresponded until his ship pulled into Norfolk, Va., in March of 1988. Ken went on leave to his hometown of Brighton, Colo., and we talked for the first time when he called me in my hometown of St. Charles, Mo. He decided to drive from Colorado through Missouri to meet me on his way back to Virginia. (We still joke that if it hadn't been "on the way" we would not have met.)

To make a long story short, we had an awesome time together

ADVICE

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

— and we have had a long-distance relationship since then. But now, we are making our dream come true, as you can see from the enclosed wedding invitation. How can I thank you?

TONJA DILLON

DEAR TONJA: You just did, and when this goes to press you will be Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Castaneda. Congratulations and all good wishes to you both.

DEAR ABBY: I can't believe you let the woman who didn't know whether to tell her son that his dad is in jail get by with such flippancy about the nature of his crime. Driving drunk is a violent crime. On at least three occasions he could have killed people, and if her big city is like ours (Houston), it's unlikely that he was caught every time he broke the law, and likely that he was completely over the edge before the police noticed. That she dismissed his level of wrongdoing by saying, "My husband didn't steal anything, nor did he commit a violent crime," indicates that she still doesn't get it.

I'd rather have a role model for my child who stole to feed the family, than one who takes others' lives in his hands so casually and without redemption.

DEBRA DANBURG,
STATE REPRESENTATIVE
AUSTIN, TEXAS

DEAR MS. DANBURG: The mother wrote asking whether she should tell her 6½-year-old son that his father was in jail for a year for driving drunk — or would it be better to say, "Daddy is away on business and he may be gone for a long time"?

I advised her to tell her son the truth: I didn't think it was necessary to rub salt in her wounds by reiterating that driving drunk is a very serious crime. She already knows that.

CONFIDENTIAL TO CHARLIE IN CINCINNATI: Samuel Johnson said, "Every animal revenges his pains upon those who happen to be near." Man is no exception.

(Problems? Write to Dear Abby. For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dear Abby, P.O. Box 60440, Los Angeles, Calif. 90068.

Listen to Sunshine

The Sound of Sunshine Chorus, 1991 Championship Chorus for the state of Florida, has performed a number of times recently to various audiences, including Disney Village three times with one more engagement on August 11, 7 and 8 p.m. They have also performed at the Orlando Healthcare Center, Eustis Shopping Center and the Masonic Lodge in Sanford. For more information on Sound of Sunshine, call Judy Sorg at 695-2728.

Obtain a stress test for chest pain

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've experienced discomfort in my left chest for more than a year. A chest film was negative and my doctor cannot find a reason, yet the problem persists. It often increases in intensity after eating or exercise. Do you have any suggestions?

DEAR DR. GOTT: In my practice, the two most common causes of chest pain are heart disease and upper intestinal disorders.

The first takes priority because anginal chest pain may be the harbinger of more serious future events, such as a heart attack. Therefore, I routinely investigate the heart first.

The fact that your chest discomfort is worsened by eating and exercise is consistent with angina, heart pain resulting from an inadequate supply of oxygen to cardiac muscle. If you haven't had one already, I urge you to have a stress test. During this examination, a cardiogram and your pulse/blood pressure are recorded while you exercise on a treadmill. Should you have angina, the exercise will precipitate pain, cardiographic changes and/or alterations in your vital signs. Sometimes, patients have a stress test using thallium; this radioactive material increases the accuracy of that test.

If your stress test is normal, your doctor will probably devote attention to your gastrointestinal tract. An upper GI series of X-rays might show a peptic ulcer or a hiatal hernia; both conditions can cause pain that is related to eating and exercise. Also, a gallbladder ultrasound examination would indicate the presence of gallstones, another possibility to be considered.

Although your chest discomfort might reflect other, less serious conditions, such as muscular strain, you really need the tests I mentioned to make sure that a more hazardous affliction is not present. Badger your physician to complete the diagnostic picture.

To give you more information, I am sending you free copies of my Health Reports "Hiatal Hernia," "Help I - Physical Illness" and "Gallbladder Disease." Other readers who would like copies should send $1.25 for each report plus a long, self-

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder
Basically, bridge is a simple game. Although it takes longer than a lifetime to learn everything, most hands are readily solvable. However, everyone has a blind spot occasionally.

Take today's hand, which was board eight of the 1991 Epsom Worldwide Pairs. Cover the East-West cards and plan the play in three no-trump on the lead of the spade six.

North's double was negative, in principle promising 4-4 in the majors. (He decided to lie a little.)

The Epsom is an annual tournament held in clubs throughout the world. After playing 24 hands, every contestant receives a booklet containing an analysis of the deals. This year's booklet states that if South is in three no-trump, he will probably be lucky, because West will lead the diamond king rather than a low spade. This implies that a low spade lead is fatal to the contract, but the commentator overlooked the exact spade spots.

On the given auction, West is unlikely to have five spades, so his fourth-best lead means East has the spade four, three and two. There are two critical situations: West has either four spades to the A-K or four spades headed by the ace or king. With the A-K, he is likely to lead a top honor rather than a low card. Therefore, East probably has the spade ace or king. So there is no point in putting up dummy's spade queen at trick one. It is far better to duck and play for the spade suit to block. Indeed, as you can see, it does.

However the defenders play, West must win the fourth and last defensive trick with the spade 10 or eight. Plus 400.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
Aug. 9, 1991

Two acquaintances who had little constructive value to you will fade from the scene in the year ahead. They'll be replaced by new friends with whom you'll have much in common.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If your ego is allowed to govern your motives and behavior today, you could be asking for trouble. Vanity mustn't be gratified at someone else's expense. Get a jump on life by understanding the influences governing you in the year ahead. Send for Leo's Astro-Graph predictions today by mailing $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Guard against inclinations today to underestimate your abilities while overestimating those of associates. The truth lies somewhere in the middle.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be realistic regarding your financial position today. If the money isn't in the bank, don't kid yourself into believing that it's there.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) There is a possibility you will be a trifle unreasonable today, which could create problems for you in your relationships, especially with authority figures. Lighten up.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Even though you feel very strongly about certain views, you'd be wise to keep your opinions to yourself today. Someone looking for an argument might take you on.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Funds you've earmarked for necessities shouldn't be squandered on frivolous expenditures today. Later, when you need them, you could find yourself in a tight squeeze.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Making decisions for your mate today when your better half isn't present could create complications. Your partner's point of view might be diametrically opposed to yours.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You may make an emotional judgment in a situation that calls for a logical, objective assessment today. If your heart is ruling your head, you've got the wrong organ thinking for you.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be on guard in social settings today; someone who likes to take potshots at others could have you in sight. And this individual knows how to magnify small faux pas.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be sensible and safety-minded about your driving habits today. Being a few minutes late is much better than courting a mishap en route to your destination.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You're not likely to have much luck today trying to sell others on ideas you're not completely sold on yourself. To be effective, your presentation must be sincere.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you are contemplating investing in a new enterprise, proceed cautiously at this time. Don't let your enthusiasm urge you to take shortcuts that could prove costly.
