CLOTH MANUFACTURERS MUST CUT WAGES DEEP OR CLOSE DOWN MILLS

Public Demands Cheaper Goods and Will Have Them

NEW READJUSTMENT

REFUSAL OF PUBLIC TO BUY MORE HIGH-PRICED GOODS HAS CURTAILED PRODUCT

BOSTON, Dec. 10.—Speaking of the contemplated wage cut in all the textile mills of New York and New England states as outlined in the despatches of yesterday and manufacturers that represent 75 per cent of the industry think the employees will see their side of the story and be willing to accede to the cut instead of having all the mills shut down which they will be forced to do under the present slump in buying.

The contemplated cut would bring wages back to the basis that existed about a year ago and would leave the wage standard generally more than double those of 1915. The present stagnant condition of the clothing industry made consideration of a wage reduction necessary, it was stated.

After explaining that all sections of New England as well as New York state were represented by the manufacturers who took part in the conference, the statement said:

"It is evident from what has transpired in the past few months that there has been an insistent and compelling demand on the part of the public that the cost of living should be lessened by a readjustment of the prices of commodities entering into the expense of daily life. This demand has been and is country-wide, and it becomes the duty of all those interested in industry which affects immediately the cost of living, to give serious consideration to this subject.

"Refusal of buyers to purchase goods for the past four or five months on a high basis of cost has led to a stagnation of market upon which the manufacturers depend so that at the present time many of the textile mills in New England have been obliged to shut down; many more are working on short time and unless something is done to remedy these conditions unemployment will be increased and continue.

"It is obvious that no one will buy the product of mills until the various factors, including labor, entering into the cost of production, have been reduced to a point which represents to the purchaser of the mills' product a safe basis for doing business.

"In order to stabilize conditions so that goods can be purchased and business be done, it is indispensably necessary, unfortunate though it may be, that there should be some wage reduction."

California Gets Idea On Hanging

TAKES OUT THREE MEN ACCUSED OF MURDER—HANGS THEM IN CEMETERY

(By The Associated Press) SANTA ROSA, Calif., Dec. 10.—George Boyd, Terrence Flitts and Charles Valente, accused of killing three officers were taken from the county jail early today and hanged by a masked mob. Men identified by women as members of gang who attacked them. All three ex-convicts. Armed men surrounded jail and forced guards to turn over keys, took prisoners from cells, carried them in autos to cemetery and hanged them to trees by lights from automobiles. Mob quietly disbanded.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Fetter of Michigan are in the city for a few days en route to Cuba. Mr. Fetter has many friends in Sanford where he has spent some time each winter on business connected with the Armour Car Lines in the refrigerator car business.

ECONOMIC BLOCKADE WOULD WHIP ANY NATIONS INTO SUBMISSION

(By The Associated Press) GENEVA, Dec. 10.—Machinery for putting economic blockade into effect intended as weapon against offending state discussed at assembly of League of Nations. Report as adopted provide for international blockade committee of eight members appointed by League Council to study subject of application of blockade and report to Secretary General of Council. Report then considered by Council and all League members informed.

Rhoda Royal Circus Here With Fine Show

WELL-KNOWN CIRCUS THAT HAS PLEASED SANFORD PEOPLE FOR MANY YEARS

Another circus is here today and while all of them are alike in a way Rhoda Royal is different and has a show that pleases the young and old alike and there are none so old and none so young that they cannot in some degree enjoy a circus and Rhoda Royal caters to the people who want a real circus with all that goes with it.

And the public can always count on Rhoda Royal having acrobats, trained animals, plenty of funny clowns and all of it in a big ring where you can see it without any confusion and see it all from the seats. All under a waterproof tent on the lakefront.

The Rhoda Royal circus goes in for animals—trained animals especially—and here they can be seen in all their many and varied acts showing almost human intelligence in their strict obedience to their masters.

"Of all animals that are trained for circus performances, the elephant is the most intelligent."

The above statement was made to a Herald reporter this morning by Rhoda Royal, of Rhoda Royal's gigantic three-ringed circus, menageries, hippodrome and trained animal exhibition, combined with the Old Buffalo Bill Wild West, which will give afternoon and night performances in Sanford today.

Rhoda Royal ought to know, for he has been an animal trainer ever since he was a boy in his teens, and ranks as the most proficient and expert trainer of animals in the United States. Among other interesting things Mr. Royal said:

"Elephants learn with phenomenal quickness and they do not show that aversion to their tricks that the animals of the cat family exhibit. I have seen elephants practice difficult tricks voluntarily—when they didn't know that anybody was around."

Speaking of "cat animals," Mr. Royal said:

"About seven weeks are required to teach a trained lion or bear a trick, while a little longer time is necessary to teach a leopard or a tiger."

It is the opinion of Rhoda Royal that the above-named animals have even more capacity for learning than the horse. He said that, while a tiger can be taught to walk upon its hind legs in three or four months, it will require a much longer period of time to teach a horse to do the same trick.

If you cannot go this afternoon be sure and go tonight and take the children.

MARTIAL LAW IS PROCLAIMED IN IRELAND

IN CERTAIN AREAS, PREMIER LLOYD GEORGE ANNOUNCES IN HOUSE OF COMMONS

(By The Associated Press) LONDON, Dec. 10.—Martial law will be applied in certain areas of Ireland, Premier Lloyd George announced in house of commons. Said proclamation be issued demanding all arms and uniforms surrendered within prescribed areas and unauthorized persons possessing arms be treated as rebels, liable to death penalty on conviction by military court.

Greece Has Invited Constantine to Throne

TO TAKE THE THRONE AND WILL CAUSE COMPLICATIONS

(By The Associated Press) PARIS, Dec. 10.—Greek Government has decided to invite Constantine to throne, said Athens despatch.

Other nations of the entente have said that in the event of Constantine taking the Greek throne they would withdraw their financial aid and support from Greece and his accession to the throne will cause many international complications.

CANNOT HOLD AUTOS UNDER SECTION 3450 OF REVISED STATUTES

(By The Associated Press) JACKSONVILLE, Dec. 9.—In eleven libel cases against automobiles seized by Federal officers in connection with liquor seizures, Judge R. M. Call today rendered an opinion sustaining exceptions to the libels on the ground that the Volstead act repeals section 3450 of the revised statutes, and, therefore, vehicles cannot be seized and forfeited under section 3450 for transporting distilled spirits, and must be held under the Volstead act.

"RODEOS" FULL OF INTEREST

In the vicinity of the Kobuk river, Alaska, 50 miles north of the Arctic circle, there are held annual "rodeos," which for picturesqueness, skill of exhibitions, and in popularity are comparable to the "roundups" of the western part of the United States—yet there is not a single horse or steer or saddle or "six-gun" within hundreds of miles of the scene.

These rodeos are conducted under the auspices of the United States bureau of education for natives of Alaska, for the advancement of the reindeer industry. There are 150,000 reindeer in the territory, according to Popular Mechanics Magazine.

At the fair all matters pertaining to reindeers are discussed, and the herders come to an understanding regarding grazing ground rights and similar matters. Government representatives give talks on reindeer breeding and offer scientific guidance for the development of an improved stock. Recently serious consideration has been given to a means of exporting the growing thousands of surplus deer to the United States.

Within the next year or two, it is anticipated, a market for distributing the meat will be established in the United States. It costs less than $3 per head to raise deer, which will dress 150 pounds of choicest meat.

Beecher's Denial of Silly Story. Another characteristic story of Henry Ward Beecher, the great preacher, written by Edward Bok, is:

"There was in circulation during Henry Ward Beecher's lifetime a story which is still revived every now and then, that on a hot Sunday morning in early summer he began his sermon in Plymouth church by declaring that 'It is too d-d hot to preach.' Bok wrote to the great preacher, asked him the truth of this report, and received this definite denial:

"My dear friends: No, I never did begin a sermon with the remark that 'It is d-d hot,' etc. It is a story a hundred years old, revamped every few years to suit some new man. When I am dead and gone it will be told to the rising generation respecting some other man, and then, as now, there will be fools who will swear that they heard it."

MILLIONAIRE'S WILL IN COURT AGAIN

(By The Associated Press) CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—Fight to probate alleged second will of James C. King, millionaire lumber man, failed again. Circuit Court judge sustaining Probate Court decision that will is a forgery.

R. A. Kennison of Orlando was in the city today looking over his property, the old fiber factory on the lakefront. He is anxious to sell this property for a yacht club or boat building factory or something of that sort.

Results of Hybrid Mating. Here is a strange set of facts, proven by three different investigators in three different parts of the world at three different times.

In matings of so-called "pure" races, that is to say, Englishman with English woman, Frenchman with French woman, German with German woman, etc., 104.44 more males are born than females.

In hybrid matings, that is to say, of different nationalities, there is a more significant excess of male over female births.

In matings of United States whites the ratio is about the same as that of European hybrids.

In matings of United States colored folks there is a significant excess of females over the ratio of British West Indian colored who are relatively pure bred.

Slept Thirty-Two Years.

Surely a subject for the speculative psychologist is the record sleep indulged in by Caroline Ohlson, a Swedish girl. In 1875, when only a child of fourteen years, she fell into a long trance in the island of Okuko, in the Baltic, and remained unconscious for 32 years. Food was administered to her, although she seemed quite unconcerned. Nor did she respond to any inquiry during that long time. Then suddenly she awoke, no longer a girl, but a middle-aged woman, and the most careful examination could not reveal the slightest weakness or mental effect. After coming out of her long trance Caroline enjoyed very good health.

Earth Not a Perfect Sphere.

The diameter of the earth from pole to pole through the equator is shorter than that at the equator. Though in popular language the earth is said to be round, like a ball, it is really an irregular sphere, slightly flattened at the poles. The slight departure from roundness is accounted for by the rapid motion of the earth while in a more plastic state.

The great trouble with the world's idlers is that they are all more or less cracked.

Chautauqua in Sanford For An Entire Week

REDPATH HAS BEEN BACKED BY SANFORD CITIZENS FOR WEEK'S ENGAGEMENT

Sanford is a city that appreciates the finer things in the way of amusements as well as it does shows and carnivals and while the city has been having plenty of all kinds of amusements this season there has never been a time here in the past ten years when a Chautauqua seemed to be needed badly enough to make it pay.

This was not altogether because Sanford does not appreciate the finer class amusements but probably on account of the fact that the people have never entered into the Chautauqua spirit as evidenced by other cities and those of our citizens who want a Chautauqua think that Sanford should have a week of this sort and that when a week is given to the people with the best of everything in this line that the idea will become popular enough to have a Chautauqua every season.

Imbued with this spirit the Redpath Chautauqua has been contracted for a week here either the last of March or the first week in April and as the weather is ideal at that time and many of the winter visitors have not gone North and many of those farther South are journeying North by easy stages and stopping over in Sanford en route North the Chautauqua will be liberally patronized by many out of town people. Twenty public spirited citizens have signed the contract for this week's engagement of the best that Redpath puts out and the Chautauqua will be put on and given a thorough trial and with Dr. George Hyman as publicity man, assisted by all the other pastors in the city, backed by the Chamber of Commerce and every other organization in the city the Chautauqua should prove a big success and bring many people to Sanford for that week. Later announcements will be given in the Herald and everybody is expected to get behind this movement for the public good and assist these twenty men in putting it over.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION

For the information of those who are planning to join the Woman's Club before the annual ball, names must be presented and properly indorsed to the membership committee, Mrs. Geo. Fox, chairman, before the 18th, as the last meeting of the year of that committee will be held on that date and no names will be considered subsequent to the 18th until the January meeting.

Mrs. Waters Howe Had Trying Experience On Train

WELL KNOWN HERE

WIFE OF CASHIER HOWE OF ORLANDO STATE AND COUNTY BANK

FORT THOMAS, Ky., Dec. 10.—Mrs. Waters Howe of Orlando, Florida, had hair clipped from head by thief who stole three hundred dollars cash and jewelry while asleep in Pullman car of Louisville & Nashville Railway.

Mrs. Waters Howe is well known here being the wife of Waters Howe for many years cashier of the Orlando State Bank and residing in Orlando with his family. The details of this daring robbery are not given in the brief despatch given above but it is supposed Mrs. Howe was chloroformed before being robbed.

CATTS SUSPENDS SCOTT AND THUS WIPES OUT OLD ROAD DEPARTMENT

(By The Associated Press) TALLAHASSEE, Dec. 9.—Governor Catts today suspended Ed Scott of Arcadia, from the office of member of the state road department from the First congressional district. The order for removal, filed in the office of the secretary of state, assigns as the cause for the governor's action that Mr. Scott in incompetent to rightfully perform the duties of the position, and recommends that the senate at its session concur in said suspension and removal.

So far as could be learned here the governor, who is out of the city, has not named Mr. Scott's successor.

With the dismissal of Mr. Scott from the road department the governor has accomplished the wiping out of the old membership of the department, and he has done it by letting one member out at a time during the past three months.

Christmas Seals Are On Sale Now

FOR THE ERADICATING OF TUBERCULOSIS AND SHOULD BE PURCHASED BY ALL

Christmas seals of the National Tuberculosis Association have been put on sale in Sanford and posters advertising them are appearing in various shop windows.

In order to clarify peoples ideas about the sale of these seals, formerly called Red Cross Christmas Seals, a letter has been issued by J. L. McMellin, manager of the Southern Division of the American Red Cross, briefly explaining in effect that the seals are no longer handled by the Red Cross but by the National Tuberculosis Association not through a lack of interest of the A. R. C. in the work of the Tuberculosis Association, but because of the confusion in the public mind, which seemed inevitable so long as the old arrangements prevailed.

The work of the National Tuberculosis Association has been of inestimable value and the American Red Cross thoroughly approves its campaign and sincerely hopes for its success. Under the auspices of the National Tuberculosis Association the seals are being placed on sale by organizations and individuals everywhere. In our own town, the campaign is under the direction of Mrs. W. L. Morgan, president of the Woman's Club, and a competent committee, selected from the club membership. Buy a seal and help a good cause.

LAKE WALES HIGHLANDER OLD TO JACK WORTHINGTON

E. Worthington, who has been managing editor of the Times for the four years and connected with paper since December 12, 1911, when he first came to Florida from Michigan, has bought the Lake Wales Highlander and, severing his connection with the Times, will move to Lake Wales to assume charge of his property soon.

Mr. Worthington had been in correspondence with Mr. Gann, the late editor of the Highlander, since they met at the press association meeting at Pensacola in May. Realizing the physical condition, Mr. Gann sold the paper recently. Lake Wales is one of the liveliest towns in Central Florida, in the heart of what will be the greatest citrus section of Florida. The Highlander ought to be a stable institution. Mr. Gann built it up from small beginnings to one of the best small town papers in the state and any man who follows him will have his work cut out.—Tampa Herald.

CHARGED WITH DESERT SAND

What is Known as the "Red Wind" Makes Life Miserable Along the Mediterranean.

Sojourners in the Mediterranean for any length of time see the red wind as well as feel its oppressive influence. It blows from the deserts of Africa and derives its name from the particles of red sand with which it is charged. Should rain descend while this wind prevails, the sand becomes mud, and thence arise the "mud showers."

In its dry state it is more oppressive by far than any other wind known to the Mediterranean, not excepting the black "sirocco." Its effects are in many ways remarkable. The sand, of excessive fineness, enters between your eyelids and your eyes; it gets into your nostrils and down your throat; it adheres to your skin and works itself into your watch; it increases the annoyance of mosquitoes, and it is so dry that, as you write or read, the paper curls up as if exposed to fire-heat. Tables and chairs of seasoned wood and of old manufacture, crack with a report almost like a pistol-shot, and no quantity of drink has much effect on your raging thirst. All this time your skin is hard and dry, and without the relieving influence of perspiration.

Collecting Truffles.

"Truffles?" said the boy. "Why! They're a sort of mushroom that don't come up." Accurate enough, excepting that truffles are not mushrooms. However, they are fungi (and are cousins to the mushroom) and they taste and look (inside) a good deal like mushrooms. The best truffles in the world grow in France. Other species grow in Italy and Spain and even in England.

Truffles grow underground, much like potatoes, except that they grow individually and not on the roots of a plant. In appearance they are globose, bright brown and black, and are covered with polygonal warts, not so very unlike the eyes of a potato. Their flesh is a blackish gray, seamed with white veins. They smell mighty good when they are ripe—something like crushed strawberries. Later the smell grows stronger, but it doesn't recall the perfume of the strawberries then—far from it.

There is nothing but trouble ahead for the woman who marries a man she can not love, and the man who loves a woman he can not marry.

His Own Boss Came First.

A boy dashed into a broker's office with news bulletins. As he turned to leave a member of the firm called out: "Here, you seem to have some pep. Get me a box of cigars in the lobby and keep the change."

The boy hesitated, although a $5 bank note was thrust into his hands. Finally he stammered: "I would like to get you cigars, but we are short of boys, and I have a big route to cover. I'll come back when I deliver these bulletins." With that he left the office.

"Are you going to wait until he returns?" asked a customer.

"You bet I am," replied the broker. "In these days it is a pleasure to meet a boy who works for his boss first. Furthermore, I am going to put him on the payroll."

And he did.—Wall Street Journal.

Sold His Business.

Beggar—Please, ma'am, give it to this 'ere chap; I've sold him my business, and am now introducing him to the customers.—Edinburgh Scotsman.

FLYING FISH NOT A MYTH

Denizen of the Sea Known to Be Really Capable of Sustained Flights Through the Air.

Does the flying fish really fly? Or does it merely leap out of the water and glide through the air?

This is a question that has been much disputed; which is rather odd, considering how many people have had opportunities to watch at leisure the aerial "stunts" of the funny species in question.

The fact, as asserted by eminent naturalists, is that the flying fish does fly. In flight it will sometimes turn at right angles, or even at a very acute angle. Nay, more, it is occasionally observed to turn about swiftly and come back in a direction opposite to that in which its course was begun.

From the bow of a ship one may see the wings of flying fishes flap as they hurry to get out of the way. When in full flight the outlines of their "wings" are blurred to the eye, so rapid are the flappings.

They sometimes fly 150 or 200 yards without rising more than a couple of feet above the surface of the sea. Often they are observed to rise over the crests of waves and sink into the hollows. These performances could not be accomplished by mere leaping and gliding.

Flying fishes are able to rise to a considerable height, and often come on board of large steamers. Such a vessel is as high above the water as a tall house. When they arrive upon the deck they cannot rise and fly away; but the same is true of many sea birds.

The Successful Speculator.

The conversation around the ticker had turned to the question of financial courage and the small proportion of speculators who are able to "make a heap of all their winnings" and risk it on one turn of pitch and toss. "And one trader said:

"Has it ever occurred to you that exactly the same qualities are needed for successful speculation as for command of an army? Your big speculator must be a man not only of keen judgment but of quick decision, and he must be big enough to change his position on the instant with fluctuating market conditions. He must never let himself be taken by surprise. He must, if suffering from immediate loss, be able to put that behind him and plan to snatch victory from defeat. Finally he must have the supreme quality of the soldier—courage. Perhaps this is why there are so few really successful speculators."—Wall Street Journal.

LONELY MAN DIED BELOVED

Hermit of Grubb Street Had Kindly Qualities That Endearred Him to Many Who Never Knew Him.

Usually when one hears of a hermit it is to associate him with the wilderness of some desolate place, where, surrounded by wild nature, he passes his time like the beasts of the field, depending upon the fruits of an untilled earth for his sustenance and to a cave in the rocks for his covering at night.

But the story of Henry Welby, the hermit of Grubb street, as told in a curious old work published in the seventeenth century, is of a man possessed of wealth who retired to his mansion owing to the bad treatment of a younger brother, and who for forty years was seen by no one; neither did he leave his house until his death, on Oct. 29, 1836, when he was borne on the shoulders of the men who carried him to his grave.

On his retirement from the world he took a very fair house in the lower end of Grubb street, and had it prepared for his purpose and in such a way that the three rooms in which he lived enabled him to eat, sleep and write without ever being seen by his servants. His food was of the simplest character, and when his bed was making he went into his study. In all of these years he tasted neither flesh, fish nor wine.

On Christmas his table was loaded with great cheer, but of it he never tasted, sending it to the poor of the neighborhood. His benefactions to the needy were great, and his death was sincerely mourned by many who had never seen him.—Chicago Journal.

Advice to pugilists—when in doubt put on the gloves.

HIS TIME ALL TOO SHORT

Dying Profiteer Could Not Make Complete Confession of Iniquity in One Brief Day.

Armin W. Riley, head of the "flying squadron" that hunts down profiteers for the department of justice, told a profiteer story at a Washington reception.

"A sick profiteer," he said, "was told by his physician that he had only a short time to live. Accordingly, he expressed a desire to confess his sins, and a divine was sent for.

"The divine entered the dying profiteer's chamber and the door was closed. An hour, two hours, three hours passed. Nothing was to be heard by the attendant nurses and physicians outside in the corridor save the steady, monotonous flow of the profiteer's confession, punctuated at brief intervals by exclamations of horror and indignation on the part of the divine.

"Lunch was sent into the sickroom, and the confession went on. The afternoon waned. The sun set. Night fell. The divine's dinner was carried to him. And still the profiteer continued to confess.

"Haggard and unstrung, the divine at last tottered forth at daybreak. "Our unfortunate friend," he said, "is no more. He worked very, very hard; but at the time he passed away he had only carried his confession through the first year of the war."

ANCIENT RACES PLAYED BALL

Tossing the Sphere Is Supposed to Have Had Deep Symbolic Meaning Centuries Ago.

Although it is a proven fact that the game now designated baseball is of modern and purely American origin, the use of a ball in ceremonies and games goes back many centuries.

Four thousand years ago, in the twelfth Egyptian dynasty, a Coptic artist sculptured on the temple Beni Hassan, human figures throwing and catching balls. A leather-covered ball used in games played on the Nile over 40 centuries ago, has a place among the many archeological specimens in the British museum. It has a sewed cover and is in a remarkable state of preservation.

The game of ball was prized by the Greeks as giving grace and elasticity to the human figure, and they erected a statue to one Aristonous for his proficiency in it. Ancient medical practitioners were wont to prescribe a course of ball playing, where the modern doctor would order a diet of pills.

It is supposed that ball tossing had a deep symbolic meaning when played in the spring of the year; and that the tossing of the ball was intended first to typify the upspringing of the life of nature after the gloom of winter. And, whether this was the case among the people of antiquity or not, it is a remarkable fact that the ecclesiastics of the early church adopted this symbol and gave it a very special significance by meeting on Easter day and throwing a ball from hand to hand, to typify the Resurrection.

"TOTEM POLES" TELL STORY

Are Historical Records, and Not, as Many Supposed, Idols to Be Worshipped.

An art in sculpture not resembling any other art in the world, unless possibly that of ancient Mexico, is found highly developed among the aboriginal natives of the northwest coast.

Their material is always wood, and is furnished by huge trees from the forest, which are carved into the most fantastic shapes. In this style are sculptured the so-called "totem poles," which, often of great size and height, astonish the observer by the intricacy of their workmanship and the weird imaginativeness of their complex designs.

Early missionaries in that part of the world mistook the totem poles for idols. As a matter of fact, they possess no such significance, being merely heraldic columns. Each tribal clan has its own traditions and myths, which takes the place of history, and these are symbolized by the extraordinary birds and other animals, sometimes human faces or figures, carved on the totem poles.

Thus the Bear clan will have its heraldic column topped by the sculptured figure of a bear. The raven shows up conspicuously as the totem or crest of the Raven clan; the whale for the Whale clan, and so on.

To the uninitiated a totem pole would have no significance beyond its queerness, but it is in reality a whole story carved in wood.

Wasn't Addressing Tramp.

On her way downtown the other morning the woman stopped to see a sick friend, who lives on the first floor of a remodeled private house with a bedroom overlooking a nice old-fashioned back yard. The window was open and suddenly a loud voice broke the calm of the sick-room.

"You dirty bum, that's what you are," said the voice. "Of course you'll be comin' home now for your breakfast—and look at you, covered with dirt. It's a bum you are and not a drop of blue blood in you. Quit your whinin'; you hungry stayout. Me lookin' in and waitin' for you last night and worryin' about you! And now I suppose you want to sleep all day and rest up for another night. You're just like the rest of your kind. It's a bum you are and nothin' else."

The woman leaned out of the open window that she might see the wreck of humanity the trade had visualized. And there was the comfortably built, immaculately clean janitress letting in her prize-winning Angora cat. Dough-bro had come home for breakfast.—New York Sun.

Japan's Sulphur Baths.

At the foot of the volcano Asamayama in Japan there is a combination of hot sulphur and cold mineral springs.

The bathing house consists of three or four substantial wooden bathing tanks, into which the hot water flows, and a wooden platform running around the room with cupboards and shelves where the people dress.

Benches hold across the bathing tanks divide them into little squares, a square for each person.

The duration of the time bath is regulated with great precision by the head attendant, and during the bath from 150 to 200 half litre scoops of hot sulphur water are poured over the end of the bather.

There is nothing but trouble ahead for the woman who marries a man she can not love, and the man who loves a woman he can not marry.

Postoffice receipts for November, 1920, in the city of Tampa, showed an increase of $13,200 over those of November, 1919, in spite of the various factors tending to hold down the figures on all fiscal records.

SOCIAL CALENDAR FOR THE WEEK.

Saturday—
Cecilian Music Club at 3 o'clock in the Studio of Mrs. Fannie S. Munson.
Cecilian Music Club at 3 o'clock in the studio of Mrs. Fannie E. Munson.
Mr. and Mrs. Clark and Miss Marion Clark arrived in Sanford Wednesday, coming by motor from their home in Stubenville, Ohio. They will be in Payola for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Torrey of Jacksonville were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Langley for last week-end. They enjoyed several motor trips while here.

RECEPTION FOR MRS. FRANK LEE WOODRUFF, JR.

The home of Mrs. Frank Lee Woodruff was the scene of a beautiful reception Thursday afternoon, given for the recent bride in the family, Mrs. Frank Lee Woodruff, Jr.

The rooms of all the lower floor were thrown together and were most beautifully decorated with a profusion of roses and ferns. In the back parlor were arranged several tables with the wedding gifts which were very beautiful, there was a great deal of handsome silver, cut glass and linen.

About one hundred and fifty called between the hours of five and six.

The guests were received at the door by Mrs. D. L. Thrasher in an orchid georgette gown and Mrs. W. E. Watson in brown satin and georgette.

The receiving line made a very beautiful picture, having the four young brides of the summer. Mrs. Woodruff was beautifully gowned in old blue and black lace. Mrs. Woodruff, Jr., was in black satin and lace. Mrs. Morris Spencer in her wedding gown of white satin and pearls. Mrs. Robert Hines in apricot satin and silver. Mrs. Reginald Holly in silver and lavender tulle.

The dining room was very attractive, Mrs. R. J. Holly and Mrs. H. B. Lewis poured coffee at each end of a beautifully decorated table in pink roses and ferns and pink streamers fastened the four corners of the table to the chandelier which had covered lights. The young girls who served were: Miss Marie Figue, Miss Lettie Caldwell, Miss Fern Ward, Miss Florence Henry and Miss Agnes Dumas.

Music was played all through the afternoon by Mrs. Hattie Weaver. Others assisting in caring for the guests were: Mrs. E. D. Brownlee, Mrs. C. C. Woodruff, Mrs. P. M. Elder, Mrs. Henry McLaulin and Mrs. W. M. McKinnon.

D. A. U.

Mrs. B. A. Howard delightfully entertained the D. A. U. Bridge Club and an extra table of guests, Thursday morning.

The club prize was won by Mrs. Morse while the guest prize, a handkerchief, was won by Mrs. Schultz.

Delicious refreshments were served at the close of the game. The guests were the club members and: Miss Lober, Mrs. Schultz, Mrs. Symmes and Mrs. George Morse of Honduras.

BRIDGE LUNCHEON CLUB

The Bridge Luncheon Club was most charmingly entertained Thursday by Mrs. E. F. Householder.

A sumptuous luncheon preceded the game which was played by the club and Miss Lee as the only substitute.

Beautiful guest towels were presented to Mrs. Galloway and Mrs. Connelly for making high score.

NOTHING LOST BY COURTESY

Yet It Is a Somewhat Humiliating Fact That Comparatively So Few Practice It.

Whether in a letter or face to face, there is nothing in the whole big wide world that does so much to make a good impression on either stranger or acquaintance as simple, elemental, everyday courtesy. It is surprising, with courtesy so valuable—and so absurdly cheap—that more of it isn't used, writes Fred C. Kelly in Leslie's. If I'm on a train, let me say, and the man ahead of me at the ice water tank insists on my drinking first, or hands me the little paper drinking-cup he was about to use himself, I thank him. I don't merely grunt my thanks, as if I thought he had given me no more than I had coming to me. I thank him out loud, so that he can hear it. And at the first opportunity I try to get right back at him by doing some little favor for him. If I haven't a cigar to give him, I at least show that my heart is in the right place by offering him a match.

If a stranger comes to my office for a conference, I pull up a chair for him with my own fair hands. When he gets ready to go, I accompany him to the door. Thus his last recollection of me is my courteously bowing him out.

If you haven't a lot of acquaintances I feel sorry for you. The fault is probably your own. There must be people all about you who would enjoy knowing you as much as you would enjoy knowing them. As a sporting proposition there is nothing to equal the fun of seeing how many people you can make your friends. They're valuable, tangible assets. If I were called upon to give good advice in few words, I would say: "Know a lot of folks."

CALL FOR UNWRITTEN BOOKS

Public Libraries Give List of Works Reading People Would Seem to Appreciate.

The Publishers' Weekly has collected from public libraries a list of unwritten books that should be available. Included in this list is a book on cookery practice, an illustrated monograph on cameos or a history of Moslem art, an up-to-date, comprehensive American book on iron and steel metallurgy.

Histories of Armenia and Oregon are alike demanded. A book on cobblestone fireplaces, with dimensions and drawings, is wanted, and another on European peasant costumes.

Enough is said on the lack of a new etiquette book when it is stated that the latest good one is dated 1913.

A work to "prevent amateur gardeners from pulling up a plant instead of a weed" would be as useful as an index to essays or a treatise on septic tanks. The field in concordances is enormous.

Anyone with ten years to spare can start a Browning concordance at once. "A history of the novel from the very beginning and in all countries" is a rather more ambitious proposal, preparatory reading for which might occupy a few decades.

Balzac's phrase for books he dreamed some day of writing, made familiar by Stevenson, was "enchanted cigarettes." Here are enchanted cigarettes by the gross for publishers. We may hope that some of the needed books mentioned by the libraries will be supplied.

Or will authors persist in writing the books they want to write instead of the books that are needed?—New York Evening Post.

Vaudeville.

The word vaudeville is a corruption of Vaue de Vire, the name of two picturesque valleys in the Bocage of Normandy, France. The name was originally applied to a song with words relating to some story of the day. These songs were first composed by Oliver Basselin, a fuller living in Vire. They were popular and soon spread all over France, and were called by the name of the place where Basselin composed them, namely Vaux de Vire. As the origin of the term was lost sight of it at last took its present form, vaudeville.

Vaudeville is now properly used to signify a play in which dialogue is interspersed with songs incidentally introduced but forming an important part of the drama.

In and About The City

Summary of the
Floating Small
Talks Spectacularly
Arranged for
Herald Readers

Cheers in town today and the parade and the music brought many people to the city.

Dr. W. F. Blackman was in the city today from the Wekiwa ranch on the St. Johns and states that his cattle are in fine shape and doing exceedingly well.

D. M. Trout, circulation manager of the Reporter Star at Orlando, was in the city today looking after the circulation of the big Sunday Reporter Star. Mr. Trout paid the Herald of an appreciated visit.

George Wright, the well known aviator, is in the city the guest of Albert Dorner and while here will do some stunt flying and will also take up passengers. He will bring his machine here in a day or two.

Mrs. A. D. Parrish of Tampa is in the city the guest of Mrs. H. R. Stevens. Mrs. Parrish has been visiting home folks in North Carolina and is returning to her new home in Lakeland where A. D. is back with the A. C. L. Ry. at his old job of dispatching.

Get your typewriter at the Herald office. A first-class machine, brand new at $65 and one that you will like for the rest of your life. No need to pay any more for a real typewriter. The Mollie is not only a standard machine but is so arranged that you can carry it around with you.

Harry B. Lewis is happy over the arrival of his father. Dr. Lewis is from Defiance, Ohio, and he will be here all winter. Dr. Lewis has been coming to this county for many years in the winter and owns orange grove property near Geneva. The doctor's many friends are glad to see him again.

From Cold Spring Harbor, N. Y., to Cocoa, Florida, in a twenty-foot boat, drawing only twenty-six inches of water. This is a trip that very few people would like to make and few have made. Mr. and Mrs. William Archer are the voyagers who have just arrived in Cocoa on board this small craft.

UPSALA AND GRAPEVILLE

We are surely blessed with perfect days at this writing.

Sunday-school will meet at 2:30 for the winter months. A warm welcome for everybody; we were glad to have with us a number from First street last time.

Jesse Lee and wife and little ones were visiting at the home of his parents on Sunday.

Roy Lee has taken the place of his brother on the school bus while Jesse is employed again at the market in Sanford.

Some sneak thief stole a bicycle out of the garage of Andrew Barthson last week.

The young folks of the High School from this section enjoyed an auto trip to Eustis to witness the basketball game 'twixt Eustis and Sanford on Friday.

Mrs. Austin Williams was visiting Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Volle Williams.

We are so glad to hear that the danger is passed in Mrs. Villen case and she is slowly recovering. Her daughters, Mrs. Kenneth Robbins and Miss Olga, have been with her as much as possible.

Miss Olga Bellen spent the weekend in town with her sister, Mrs. Dan Hedges.

Mr. and Mrs. Ehrensperger and Miss Olga Bellen visitor with relatives at Fort Christmas, Thanksgiving Day.

Dr. Conway of Orange City preacher for us last Sunday on "Faith." We shall be glad to hear him again. Rev. Albertson's voice went back on him for the day, but he taught the class for us.

Mrs. T. O. Tyner and son, Elmer, and Mrs. Mabel Krell and little Dorothy spent Monday with relatives at Windermere, going and coming in their auto.

FINE STATIONERY

The Herald office is headquarters for fine stationery of all kinds from the printed letter head to the beautiful stationery in boxes that is so dear to the ladies' hearts. ### AIDED ITS BLIND COMPANION

Australian Stockman Tells of Bullock That Took Care of Another Which Was Sightless.

Peter S. Mitchell, a stock raiser from Melbourne, Australia, says that the cattle business is at present the best in the history of Australia. He says that his people are hard at work restoring the country to normal and that they are very anxious to get the world trade back to pre-war conditions.

"My father was first to bring the Black Poll cattle into Australia 40 years ago," said Mr. Mitchell at New York, "and they have developed to be the best for our section. They are hardy, flourish on ferns, tree leaves and bark, where other cattle would starve, and they grow to great size, with weight evenly distributed, and the fat running in hair lines through the rump steaks even. There is a quick market for anything on the hoof that is fairly fat, and prices are very good."

"We discovered a blind bullock in one of the herds that came in, and another bullock had adopted it and fathered it all the time. It was found to be blind only when we noticed that its companion signaled to it constantly and led it to water, through gates and narrow runs. If at any time it got lost its friend would never rest until he had located it."

"None of the other bullocks paid any attention to the blind one and the protection the foster parent gave to the unfortunate bullock was a never ending source of comment and speculation. When both, fattened after 18 months on our place, were driven to the shipping station 60 miles distant the blind one was led through the difficult places by his friend and generally cared for day and night."

WANT LANGUAGE UP TO DATE

Common Sense Behind "Literary Revolution" That Is Now Prevailing in China.

What is termed the literary revolution in China aims at a reform of the language used in books, magazines, newspapers and public discussion. The outsider will jump to the conclusion that this means an attempt to encourage a phonetic substitute for ideographic characters. Not at all. There is a movement to supplement ideographs with phonetic signs to show their pronunciation, the aim being quite as much to standardize pronunciation as to make it easier to learn to read. But this movement arouses no such interest and excitement as the literary revolution.

The latter is an attempt to make the spoken language the standard language for print. Literary Chinese is as far away from the vernacular as Latin is from English, perhaps further. It is a speech of 2,000 years ago, adorned and frozen. To learn it is to learn another language. The reformers were actuated by the practical impossibility of making education really universal when in addition to the difficulties of mastering the ideographs, children in the elementary schools are compelled to get their education in terms of a foreign language.

They are actuated even more by the belief that it was not possible to develop a literature which shall express the life of today unless the spoken language, the language of the people, is used. Apart from the employing and enriching of the vulgar tongue it is not possible to develop general discussion of the issues of today, social, moral, economic.—New Republic.

To Develop Wild Pears.

The world's largest stock of pear seedlings of a wild, blight-resisting variety found in Manchuria, is located on the Loma Rica ranch near Grass Valley, Cal. The young trees are from seeds brought directly from China and number about 100,000.

Three pomological experts from the United States Department of Agriculture, Professors Allison, Wright and Kingsman, recently inspected the stock and approved the experimental work.

The original trees, known as the Pyrus usuriensis, are found growing in the ancient burying ground of the kings of the Manchurian dynasty, and it is only since the overthrow of the dynasty that the seeds became available. The tract is said to be vast and to be grown to trees of immense size.

By grafting the commercial varieties of pears upon this stock good results are expected to be obtained.

Pyrenees Put to Work.

Efforts to harness the water power going to waste in the Pyrenees and transform it into electricity are being intensified.

Engineers have surveyed entire mountain ranges and have succeeded already in controlling many torrents and making them furnish power. Altogether 200,000 horsepower now is furnished and capital amounting to 300,000,000 pesetas have been invested.

Every day sees additions to the amount of power available, and engineers employed in the work estimate that in a few years Catalonia will be able to do without coal.

A Charge of Calling.

"You are going to have some sad disillusionments," said the mysterious Egyptian.

"I've already had one," said the client.

"How is that?"

"When this carnival company came through here last year you were selling 'hot dogs' and pink lemonade."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

"The Store That Is Different"

"RODEOS" FULL OF INTEREST

In the vicinity of the Kobuk river, Alaska, 50 miles north of the Arctic circle, there are held annual "rodeos," which for picturesqueness, skill of exhibitions, and in popularity are comparable to the "roundups" of the western part of the United States—yet there is not a single horse or steer or saddle or "six-gun" within hundreds of miles of the scene.

These rodeos are conducted under the auspices of the United States bureau of education for natives of Alaska, for the advancement of the reindeer industry. There are 350,000 reindeer in the territory, according to Popular Mechanics Magazine.

At the fair all matters pertaining to reindeers are discussed, and the herders come to an understanding regarding grazing ground rights and similar matters. Government representatives give talks on reindeer breeding and offer scientific guidance for the development of an improved stock. Recently serious consideration has been given to a means of exporting the growing thousands of surplus deer to the United States.

Within the next year or two, it is anticipated, a market for distributing the meat will be established in the United States. It costs less than $3 per head to raise deer, which will dress 150 pounds of choicest meat.

TO GROW OLD GRACEFULLY

Desirable Condition That Greatly Depends on One's Habits of Mind Formed in Youth.

The most inevitable—and one of the easiest—of the things we do is to grow old. Yet what a difference there is in the way different people do it!

You probably know, for instance, some little old lady who, although she tries not to be troublesome or unreasonable to those around her. Or rather, she does not have to try, for it is characteristic of elderly human beings that they seldom try very hard to form new habits. Youth is the period of endeavor, and old age of results. This is the reason for the futility of young folks' displeasure at their parents' "old-fashioned" ideas. Such ideas are fixed; they will not change.

Yet not all elderly people are age-bound in their thoughts; many can be tolerant of innovations, and a few can even adopt them. Such a flexible condition of the elderly mind is, like the rigid, intolerant sort, a product of earlier life and habits; it is not likely to indicate any particular good or evil trait in the person possessing it.

If the young man or woman who feels impatient at the old folks' notions will cease to shrug a shoulder and exclaim: "I hope I'm not like that when I'm old," and will turn his attention to the younger generation, starting with himself, he is likely to do much more for human progress. When he himself has reached the age of fixed ideas his character will depend on his previous habits of mind; if he has kept himself free from prejudice and cocksureness and has been always willing to learn better ways of thinking and doing, he will be likely to remain correspondingly more rational with advancing years, and will, in truth not be "like that" when he is old.—Pendleton East Oregonian.

TRIESTE: A PLUM OF THE ADRIATIC DISPUTE

Trieste is one of the major Adriatic plums in dispute between Italy and the newly-formed Jugo-Slav state, the kingdom of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes.

Though Trieste was Austrian, except for a brief interval from the fourteenth century until the World war dissipated the Austrian empire, the city has had a marked effect upon Italian history. Its chief importance to Austria was commercial, for it was the dual monarchy's only great seaport.

Tired of a double allegiance to Venice and to Aquileia, Trieste requested that she be annexed to Austria in 1882. Leopold the plums was on the Austrian throne. He was a rival to King James of England in being "the wisest fool in all Christendom." Though he expanded his territory elsewhere, the only acquisition of consequence was that of Trieste, won through no effort on his part. Thus Austria gained what was destined to become not only a seaport of importance, but also a channel for exerting frequent influence upon the affairs of Italian towns and their rulers.

The city is situated on the Gulf of Trieste, 367 miles southwest of Vienna by rail. It lies on the seaward slope of the Karst, or Carso, a strip of limestone hills extending inland from 60 to 90 miles, furrowed with ravines and pierced by caverns, into which many small streams disappear.

Not far from Trieste, at Brisicci, is the Grotto Gigantea, a stalactite cave, where tourists throng to see the "Great Dome," spreading over a subterranean cavity nearly as long as the United States capitol and a hundred feet higher than the capitol dome.

Despite its inclusion in Austrian territory, Trieste's population and architecture are Italian. It was the Terzite of Roman history, and today the walls and pillars of a Roman temple may be seen encased in the cathedral of San Giusto, a highly composite structure which also has built into it three adjacent structures of the sixteenth century—a Christian basilica, a baptistery and a Byzantine church. Traces of Trieste's early history were to be found before the war in the Museo Lapidarie, which contains many Roman antiquities from the vicinity.

SAN SALVADOR: DEFIER OF EARTHQUAKES

San Salvador, scene of recent earthquake shocks, is the capital of the smallest and most populous of Central American republics. The city is no stranger to the twin terrors of earthquake and volcano.

Within ten seconds an earthquake all out destroyed it in 1854, another laid it low in 1873, and that of 1917, when millions of dollars' worth of property was destroyed, is still remembered.

In spite of these fateful blows from nature, and devastating waves of man-made revolutions, San Salvador today is reckoned among the important cities of the mid-continent. It has a population of 60,000; its manufactured products include soap, cigars, candles, cotton cloth and spirits; and its compulsory education laws, university, theaters and scientific institutions attest its regard for culture.

Izalco, perhaps the most famous volcano of the San Salvador republic, belched forth from a fine old hacienda in 1770, and ever since has tirelessly thrown aloft its mighty volume of ashes and gases. With the regularity of a mammoth natural timepiece it is said not to have missed a rumbling, luminous explosion within any half-hour for a century and a half; hence its nickname, the "Lighthouse of Salvador."

Of San Miguel, occasionally active, the writer said, after seeing the eruption of 1848: "It is difficult to conceive a grander natural object than this volcano. Its base is shrouded in densest green, blending with the lighter hues of the grasses which succeed the forest. Above these the various colors melt imperceptibly into each other. First comes the rich amber of the scorlae, and then the silver tint of the newly-fallen ashes at the summit; and still above all, floating in heavy opalescent volumes, or rising like a plume to heaven, is the smoke, which rolls up eternally from its incandescent depths."

There is a lake in the republic, Popango, supposed to lie in the bed of an old volcanic crater. Out of this lake a volcanic island arose to a height of 150 odd feet 30 years ago.

Though in no single instance, perhaps, was a great city buried, the constant exhalations of Salvador volcanoes and infolding processes of its earthquakes gradually submerged remains of a pre-Columbian civilization. These traces just now are beginning to reveal to patient students fascinating facts about this ancient "New World."

Curious pyramids and ramparts betoken a civilization known as Mayan, even before the region was settled by the Pipiles, an early Mexican speaking people. From such slender threads as the fact that steps of these prehistoric temples are higher than they are wide, must science piece out the relations of the various ancient states and cities that flourished on this continent during the halcyon days of Egypt, Phoenicia and China, on the other side of the globe.

RHODESIA: THE LAND OF MEN, WILD BEASTS AND NATURAL BEAUTY

Africa, not so long ago regarded, for the most part, as a "sepulcher of the world's most daring explorers," now engages the attention of the world because of its vast natural resources and its industrial possibilities.

Material furnished the National Geographic society by R. D. Parsons, is the basis for the following description of Rhodesia:

"Interior Rhodesia must be traversed by native carriers over mountains, through primeval forest, across rivers, through almost impenetrable jungle and underbrush, in peril from elephants, lions, leopards, hyenas, serpents, the tsetse fly, wild men as well as wild beasts. Each carrier has a mail bag of 50 pounds. On an average carriers make 25 miles a day, and even on runs of 6,000 miles, from Broken Hill to Abercorn, they are seldom more than an hour behind schedule time and generally only half that. They make better time in the wet season than in the dry as, in the wet, they travel in bare feet, while in the dry the earth is baked, the ground is hot like 'The Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes,' and they are compelled to wear sandals.

"There is one great drawback to the wet; no material has yet been produced that can resist African rain. It laughs at the average rubberized fabrics. One of the few partly successful materials is a peculiarly woven canvas made in England, and even when mail bags of this material are opened, the contents are simply pulp-valueless, and frequently undecipherable. Glazed paper suffers most; why, I do not know. I suppose it is the combination of heat and water.

"The plunge of Victoria Falls on the Zambesi is three times that of our Niagara; the roar is heard for 10 miles, and the column of vapor is miles high. In the dialect of Mashonaland and Matabeleland, its name means 'the water that smokes.'

"From Kasempa to Livingstone (Victoria Falls) is 580 miles, from Livingstone to Bulawayo 290, and from Kasempa to Cape Town 2,290 miles. The fauna of Rhodesia is wonderful; think of 17 kinds of antelopes!

"Although the tsetse fly is an abominable pest, it takes second place as a destroyer of property value to our American pest, the boll weevil. A singular peculiarity of the first named consists in its habit of biting human beings, horses and oxen on the feet. When animals are shipped from Cape Town to North Rhodesia, the shipping is done at night, because, unlike the mosquito, the tsetse fly works only in the daytime. It prefers to work on the legs, and in case of horses these are done up in paraffin and cloths. It should be understood that this foe to man and beast is confined to certain districts."

HOW ARMAGEDDON PROFITED PERSIA

That exceedingly ill wind, the World war, blew much good to one nation, Persia, for the higher price of silver doubled her capital, made her raw materials sought after by the world, and removed her from comparative isolation to a place among commercial nations of high importance. Writing to the National Geographic society concerning this rejuvenated ancient land, Ella C. Sykes says:

"Persia is one of the oldest empires in existence. It has been a kingdom for 25 centuries—ever since Cyrus the Great, about 550 B. C., conquered Media and united the country to his under the name of Persia. It has had many glorious episodes in its long history; has produced the great teacher Zoroaster; such world-famous poets as Firdaws, Omar Khayyam, Saadi and Hafiz, and such great soldiers and rulers as Darius I, Shapur I and Shah Abbas.

"Again and again the empire has been a prey to anarchy; again and again conquering hosts have swept through the country, Alexander the Great having many a successor, the most destructive conqueror being Genghis Khan with his hordes of savage Mongols—a leader who boasted that he had slain thirteen millions of his fellow creatures.

BOLIVIA SOURCE OF COCAINE

South American Country Produces Supply of Anesthetic That Fills Recognized Place in World.

The most profitable agricultural product of Bolivia is the coca plant, from which the anesthetic cocaine is derived. The world depends mainly for its supplies of coca leaves upon that South American country.

The Bolivian natives commonly chew it for its narcotic effect. It enables the Indian burden bearer to go without food for a long time, and to work long stretches without rest. Unfortunately, its continued use is injurious to the nervous system, and is supposed to have much to do with the degeneration of the native race of the Bolivian plateau.

The coca plant is a shrub three or four feet high. Its leaves are of an oval shape and light green. The shrub is grown on terraces built on the hillside. These terraces are about ten inches wide and are protected by ramparts of earth faced with stones or cement. The terracing prevents the heavy rains from washing the whole plantation down the mountain side, and also holds the moisture about the roots of the plant.

Young shoots are grown under a cover of dried banana leaves, and when sufficiently advanced are transplanted to the terraces. The plants begin bearing when two years old. After the leaves are picked they are dried in the sun on a floor made of slabs of slate. They are then pressed into bales weighing fifty pounds each, and wrapped in banana leaves and burlap to protect them against weather and rough handling, and carried to La Paz by mules. In La Paz they are at present worth 47 cents gold per pound.

Bolivia manufactures no cocaine. The leaves are exported to other countries for the extraction of that active principle.

PART OF RELIGIOUS WORSHIP

Decorative Church Windows Have Long Been a Form of Ornamentation Beloved by the Faithful.

The art of glass decorating is not a modern Bohemian accomplishment. The Roman cathedral of Prague contained in 1270, two windows which were decorated with Old and New Testament scenes. Decorative windows soon became a favorite form of church ornamentation. Asares Stylus, who subsequently became Pope Plus II and incidentally was a very close student of contemporary affairs of Bohemia, records that the churches of the Czechs possessed many "high and wide windows which were brightly and artistically decorated, and such style of decorating was not confined to the churches in the large cities and towns, but even the distant hamlets prided themselves on churches containing windows ornamented in a similar fashion." The curriculum of the division of technical arts of the University of Prague included courses in painting, wood carving and glass ornamentation. No degree was ever conferred on a student unless he could exhibit sufficient aptitude as a "glass man" or qualify in "glassery," a practical demonstration of the high esteem in which this branch of the arts was held.

The Last, Best Hope. Edmund Burke called the American Constitution "an event as wonderful as the appearance of a new star." William Gladstone called it "the greatest political instrument ever struck off by the unaided genius of man." Lincoln called this republic "the last, best hope of the earth." The American system of individual ownership of property. Now and then an anarchistic individual has misused his gifts, exploited the resources of nature, oppressed the workers. Now and then an engineer fails; shall we give up the locomotive and go back to the mule and two-wheeled cart? Now and then a farmer fails. Shall we chop down all orchards? To give up this system . . . and go over to socialism is like exchanging wheat bread for a chunk of fog bank or an electric light for a tallow candle.—Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis.

Banish Melancholy. Following is the quotation which was Sidney Smith's remedy for melancholy: "I once gave a lady two and twenty receipts against melancholy: One was bright fire, another, to remember all the pleasant things said to her; another, to keep a box of sugar plums on the chimney-piece and a kettle simmering on the hob. I thought this mere trifling at the moment, but have in after years discovered how true it is that these little pleasures often banish melancholy better than higher and more exalted objects, and that no means ought to be thought too trifling which can oppose it either in ourselves or in others."

Adhesive From Snails. Many of the larger snails have, at the extremity of their bodies small white bladders filled with a gelatinous substance. The Scientific American claims that this is the strongest adhesive known for the repairing of porcelain, glass, etc. The substance is applied thinly to both sides of the fracture and the broken pieces tied firmly together so that all is held in place. A rather longer time for drying should be given than in the case of ordinary adhesive so as to allow the natural glue to acquire the greatest degree of strength.

CIRCUS TODAY

Many people were down near the freight depot this morning, early in the wee hours, where everything was hustle, bustle, as the Rhoda Royal Big 3-ring Circus trains were being unloaded, and the big vans and cages of show properties we hauled to the river front lot in the rear of the court house.

Everything moved along with mechanical swiftness and quiet discipline that is characteristic of the circus. The many fine horses were among the prettiest that have ever been seen in Sanford with any show, and the many cages were well filled with different specimens of wild animals. The Rhoda Royal Circus ranks well with the large ones that come to Florida, and the several large tents cover all the vacant space on the river front.

A fine street parade passed over the principal streets about 12:30 and as we go to press a large number of people are witnessing the afternoon performance, and there is sure to be a large crowd tonight.

WORLD'S MOST LONELY SPOT

Not a Desolate Island Nor the Center of a Crowded City, but the Unfriendly Heart.

Asked to name the loneliest place in the world, a traveler once answered, "The island of Tristan d'Acunha, far off the coast of South America. Its population is 76, and it is visited by a vessel only once in two years."

But the traveler was all wrong. Isolated, remote, limited in society, the island may be. But why lonesome? The last thing we heard of it was that all the inhabitants were working together to fight a dangerous plague of rats. When people can get together for a common purpose they aren't lonesome.

A man told us the other day that the loneliest place he ever found was New York city, where he didn't know a soul and his being there didn't matter to anyone. And he was right, but he set about changing that condition, and he didn't find even New York lonesome very long. For the loneliest place is no question of geography or population or economics. The loneliest place is always the human heart which hasn't learned how to reach out to other human hearts in the sure knowledge that there will be something in common, that if it has affection to spend, and loyalty and truth and friendliness, there are these things in return waiting to welcome it.—Milwaukee Journal.

"INDIAN SUMMER" NOT A MYTH

Pioneer Settlers Heard the Expression With a Thrill of Apprehension Easy to Understand.

"Indian summer" owes its name not to any poetic fancy, but to the painful experiences of early frontier settlement. During the long-continued Indian wars the settlers enjoyed no peace except during the winter, when, owing to the severity of the weather, the Indians were unable to make any raids. The coming of winter was therefore hailed with delight by the backwoodsmen, who until then had been cooped up in their little uncomfortable forts. They removed to their cabins on the farms with the exhilaration of prisoners released from confinement. Sometimes, however, it happened that, after the apparent beginning of winter, the weather became warm again. This was the "Indian summer," because it afforded the Indians another opportunity of visiting the settlements with their destructive warfare. In his "Notes on the Settlement and Indian Wars of the Western Parts of Virginia and Pennsylvania," published in 1824, the Rev. J. Doddridge remarks that in his own day a backwoodsman seldom heard the expression "Indian summer" without feeling a chill of horror, because it brought to his mind the painful recollection of its original sense.

The Clear Thinker.

They say of a man, "He is a clear thinker." A clear thinker is one who is honest with himself. Scorning everything but the truth, he is able to arrive at correct and definite conclusions because his mental vision is unobstructed. He is able to accomplish things because he thinks in a straight line.

Most of us say certain things cannot be done because the doing of them entails some little sacrifice or hardships on our part. We know in our hearts that these things can be done, yet we say "no" because we are not honest with ourselves—because we refuse to think clearly.

No one can achieve success unless he be a clear thinker; that is why so many of us start out in life with great promise and later find ourselves shunted into the siding of mediocrity, or the junk yard of failure because we have allowed our minds to become encrusted with barnacles.—From Franklin's Key.

If a man does wrong he thinks he is doing right to keep it a secret.

MEMORIES CLING TO CHAPEL

Old House of Worship in Santa Fe, New Mexico, Worthy of Reverent Attention.

The chapel, in Santa Fe, N. M., is one of the oldest in the United States, and is fraught with quaint, old-time legends, interwoven with tales of the padres' trials with the Indians in days long past. To enter, one rings a large, old-time bell, which clangs out harshly. An aged man appears in answer to this summons, and leads the way into the dim, whitewashed chapel. Great wooden beams bear testimony to the solidity of building in those days, one bearing the date 1710, this being the date of its restoration after having been badly wrecked by the Indians, who preferred their "Great Spirit" to the white man's religion, and too-officious padres. On both sides of the altars are ancient paintings, faded now and worn, but one may decipher on one the date, "1287." This church also has a huge old bell, said to have been cast in Spain, the tones of which are clear and very loud. The adobe walls, at least four feet in thickness, bear evidence of the time when even the churches must be so constructed as to stop the flight of arrows and bullets. San Miguel carries one from the present into the far-off past, when roads were trails and danger was near.

Condor's Method of Killing.

Up among the cold white peaks of the Andes, higher than human foot has had the daring to tread, is sometimes seen a dark speck slowly circling in the clear air. The speck gradually descends, and we see that it is the largest bird of the air, the condor. Its flight is swifter than the eagle's. Nothing but the distance could have made the condor of the Andes seem small and slow on the wing. Swiftly descending, cruel, hungry, he fastens his eye upon some luckless lamb or kid. Rarely it is able to escape; successful resistance is impossible.

The condor cannot carry off its prey in its talons, like the eagle, for it has not the eagle's power of grasp, and the sharpness of its claws is in time worn off on the hard rocks which are its home; so, standing on the struggling animal with one foot, the condor kills the poor thing with its powerful beak and his other foot.

No Self Starter.

A wealthy New Yorker invited a party out to his summer home at Great Neck, Long Island, to see his horses and go for a ride. One of them, a banker, though dressed for the part, knew nothing of horses, had never been on one.

Having been properly mounted, with the assistance of a groom, the banker took the reins as per direction and sat motionless. He did not know how to start; still, he realized with embarrassment that his inaction was attracting the attention of the other riders.

"Well," he said to the horse, with some irritation, "commence!"—Saturday Evening Post.

Johnson's Thwarted Ambition.

Andrew Johnson, after his term in the White House, returned to Knoxville, where, as an ex-President, he lived for six years in democratic simplicity among his old neighbors. With a farm, a mill, a country store and other interests, he managed to keep himself sufficiently occupied. But he had an ambition to get back into the political game, and after one or two unsuccessful attempts managed to obtain an election to the United States senate. He died less than a year later, having served only a few days of an extra session.

GLORY BELONGS TO PIONEER

Man Recognized as the First to Do Things Is Sure of Recognition of Posterity.

Adam's glory was in being the first man, and Eve's in being the first woman. They have been talked of through all the centuries for nothing except that they were the first to live, the first to be tempted and the first to fall.

And so it is with many other persons and events that find their places in history. Always it is the beginnings of things that shed glory on the participants. Christopher Columbus has just been honored again because he was the first to discover America, and the landing of the Pilgrims is celebrated because they were the first to colonize Massachusetts. Harvard rejoices in being the first institution of learning in what is now the United States and having set up the first printing press. The first settlers of any community are always persons of prime interest, and the first man to wear pantaloons or carry an umbrella, if he were living today, could coin money by putting himself on exhibition.

If one wants to be remembered one has only to pick out the spot where a great city is to be built, or connect himself with an industry that is bound to grow, or do something that is bound to become the fashion. He is at once immortalized. Generation after generation will speak his name and on anniversary occasions orators will sound his praise. He may be individually no greater than thousands who have come after, but the glory of having been the first will be upon him forever and a day.—Columbus Dispatch.

FINE STATIONERY

The Herald office is headquarters for fine stationery of all kinds from the printed letter head to the beautiful stationery in boxes that is so dear to the ladies' hearts. You can get this stationery and have your monogram printed on it, making the nicest Christmas gift that you have ever seen and one of the best. Want a typewriter? The Herald has the agency for the best $65 typewriter that has ever been put on the market and we will have a shipment of new machines the last of this week. If you are in the market for a typewriter see us before you buy. Herald Printing Co.

Diplomacy is the art of getting what you want by pretending you don't want it.

Ride a Bicycle

A BICYCLE is a thoughtful, sensible gift for everyone. For grown-ups, it brings independence of hot, crowded street cars—a wealth of healthful enjoyment and outdoor pleasure. For children, it brings the best of childhood sport, a sure, certain way of building health and strength and good times all the time. We have models for men and women, girls and boys. Come in and let us show them to you.
