

John Kimbrough, Football Star, Likes Army Life

CAMP ROBERTS, Calif., Oct. 5. (WW)—Jarring John Kimbrough, ace of Wallace Wade's Western All-Army football team, likes military life so well he's applied for a permanent commission and intends to stay in service after the war.

Kimbrough, former all-America fullback for the Texas Aggies, was the offensive back-field standard for Wade's gridgers in their series of games with professional squads.

Kimbrough says this football assignment was a pleasant intermission in the still army training course he was taking at Camp Roberts. "But that's all it is. The Army is my circle now and football is just a sideline."

Jim and I have asked for service with the Air Corps. I sure hope we can get together again. Jim is Jim Thomason, Jonn's blocking back at Texas A. & M. where they were inseparable pals. Army's football program re-united them. Both are infantry lieutenants.

"Playing football for the Army is a lot like playing for the Texas Aggies," said John. "If anything, the Army boys probably have more of what we used to call the old college spirit. They sure pull for their team."

"There's just as much competition and team spirit among the players as on a college team. That boy there isn't a coach in the country, college or professional, who wouldn't give about half of his life to have a title to this squad for a couple of seasons. What a team we would have!"

American Soldiers Pride Themselves As Good Marksmen

CAMP LEE, Va., Oct. 6. (WW)—The American soldier prides himself on being the finest rifle marksman in the world, and his careful training has paid dividends on the world's battlefield ever since Bunker Hill.

New America needs riflemen again. Lieutenant Jerome Roth and Sergeant James Monteperto of Camp Lee's 81st Quartermaster Training Regiment agreed something was also needed to supply quickly the training Americans hadn't received in two decades of peace.

They went to work and produced this whizbang. It's an ingenious device which simply and accurately tests a soldier's sighting, aiming and trigger squeeze, the all-important basis of marksmanship.

The soldier sights along his rifle until the sights are properly aligned with the far target. The instructor then adjusts the small movable target, mounted on the base-board, until the small pointer is perfectly aligned with the bull's-eye on the target.

The instructor then throws the gun off the target and orders the soldier to put the gun "on the target" again. The pointer instantly indicates whether the soldier is sighting perfectly — and the kind of errors he makes.

Blandish Men Are "Tandem" Dancers

CAMP BLANDING, Oct. 6. (Social)—Tandem dancing has solved the problem of too few girls for too many soldiers at Camp Blanding's Service Club dances.

Ingenuous soldiers devised the method whereby one girl dances with at least six men in the course of a jitterbug number, something possible because all jitterbugs know essentially the same steps whether they come from the north, south, east or west.

In some respects, the jitterbugging is a vigorous version of the Virginia Reel in which partners are exchanged several times during a set.

The "tandem dance" is generally staged in a corner of the dance floor where one couple starts the number, picks up the rhythm, dances a few feet, and then are cut by another and other soldiers until the music stops. In that way each soldier dances a few feet in a few seconds.

Jitterbugging is vigorous to say the least—but at no time do the participants forget they are ladies and soldiers. In fact it is the kind of dancing you would expect from men who train hard and naturally play hard. And the young misses seem to be just as hardy because weeks after weeks they keep coming back to dance with the soldiers in uniform.

Reds Wipe Out Nazi Wedge Northwest Of City Of Stalingrad

Report Crushing Of 10 Attacks Along 40-Mile Northern Barrier At Front

(By Associated Press) Hitler threw fresh masses of troops into the water of blood and flame that marked the 44-day-old siege of Stalingrad but the Russians declared today they had virtually wiped out a German wedge in the northwest suburbs and crushed a series of ten assaults along the 40-mile northern barrier.

Red Army reinforcements were reported to have moved up during the night to meet the swelling Nazi siege forces.

Dispatches from the Red Star said a dangerous situation developed as the Germans reached the depth of an industrial settlement, evidently in the northwest suburb where the main battle raged, but said heavy Soviet counter-attacks had cleared much of the district and elite Russian guardsmen were driving invaders from the streets, houses, gardens and orchards.

Many civilians were reported among the casualties and the settlement was pictured as blasted by incendiary explosive bombs.

Now a full week since Hitler boasted in Berlin that Stalingrad's fall was inevitable, there is still no sign of the Nazis doing any better than holding their own.

While in Washington, last night the United States and Britain pledged anew to continue giving aid to Russia in the form of military supplies and in the form of both President Roosevelt and British Minister Churchill will refrain from any public discussion of second front possibilities.

Whether this meant that a second front was imminent or would not be opened until the somewhat distant future was a question that remained unanswered.

The United States, Great Britain and Russia signed a protocol covering the delivery of military equipment, munitions and raw materials to the embattled Soviets. This gave formal sanction to agreements already in effect, providing for the carrying out without interruption of the supply program laid down at a Moscow conference a year ago.

Signers of the protocol were Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state of the United States; Sir Ronald Campbell, British minister, and Soviet Ambassador Maxim Litvinov.

At a press conference Tuesday President Roosevelt was asked for comment on Wendell Willkie's recent demands for a second front to be broken out within ten days with a remark that he had noticed the headlines, but had not thought it worth while to read the stories.

He also had a comment on member Joseph Bailey's recent letter to Henry Cassidy, Associated Press Moscow correspondent, calling on the Allies to "fulfill their obligations fully and on time."

In London, Prime Minister Churchill, confronted with questions in parliament on war relations with Russia, strongly advised the house of commons at a period which is certainly significant.

At Moscow, Admiral William D. Stowey, U. S. ambassador, disclosed that he would journey to Washington soon to try to get additional help for the Soviets, but Roosevelt minimized the significance of this development.

Several news agencies disclosed that Joseph Bailey's recent letter to Cassidy, calling on the Allies to "fulfill their obligations fully and on time," was a result of the fact that Bailey had been told that the United States had no intention of opening a second front until the Soviet Union had been liberated.

(By Associated Press) Strong force British bombers struck at the German industrial railway town of Osnabueck and lost six planes today. The British announced the loss of 1,082 bombers over northern Europe in the nine months ending Sept. 30. Meanwhile the Germans tightened their rule over Trondheim and Norway areas, executing 10 prominent Norwegians.

The executions took place less than 24 hours after the Germans had proclaimed a state of emergency in a 400-mile strip of territory along the sea, and just a few hours after Nazi Commissioner Josef Terboven arrived in Trondheim to take personal charge of energetic measures to suppress sabotage.

The 10 persons executed, it was reported here, were accused of "endeavoring to sabotage food producing factories."

The men who faced the firing squads were described in Norwegian papers in London as being patriots of Trondheim, Bross and Orkanger. Among them were a bank director, an editor, two lawyers, a civil engineer and a building contractor.

Terboven, commanded by Berlin to suppress the mutinous spirit of the Norwegians in the strategic coastal region by force of arms, was accompanied by the chief of German police in Oslo, Redess.

The police chief announced by radio that the property of the men executed had been confiscated. He indicated also that more than sabotage of food supplies was involved, and implied hostile action had been directed against German armed forces.

The Stockholm radio reported that one of the immediate reasons for imposition of the state of emergency was the discovery of preparations to "damage the Trondheim-Mosjoen railway."

It is time to make a complete clean-up of all dangerous elements, said the German controller of Oslo radio. "While the German army is fighting head-to-head battles its enemies, who are also spies, are using agents to create disorder in the country."

Redess issued an order saying, "every attempt to disturb public peace and security, above all every plot against peaceful citizens and every attempt to hinder supplies, transport and the information system will be punished."

Japs Lose 22 Planes To Allies' One In First Month Of Aleutians Battle

(By Associated Press) British patrols raided and destroyed a garrison at an Axis strong point in the Egyptian desert while R.A.F. bombers maintained their attacks on shipping and port facilities in Tobruk and Bengasi.

American pilots in the Aleutian Islands won their first month of fighting the Japanese with a remarkable record of 22 enemy planes shot down for every one American lost.

In the Eastern Pacific advancing Australian troops in the Owen Stanley Mountains found a number of dead Japanese who had been there for a week or more. They were believed to have died either from illness or starvation after being cut off by the Allied advance now in its fourth month.

The strategy of the Japanese seemed to have been heightened by the presence of a Japanese navy which American bombers caught Monday night and shot down from Buna. It was not clear immediately whether this convoy was withdrawing forces from Buna or had attempted to reinforce them.

Australian dispatches from New Guinea said that American forces had climbed up the last steep grades in the Owen Stanley to the 6,000-foot high peak through the rugged mountains. They thought the Japanese had a position of 1,000 feet above a large river which formed one of the greatest obstacles between them and Buna.

There was a possibility that the Japanese might make a stand at Kokoda some 20 miles from Buna. But the speed of their headlong flight raised the question here that they might be a beating their retreat in the face of a drive from the north.

A U.S. correspondent broadcast from an Australian base said the future of operations in northern New Guinea where the Japanese have bases at Salamaua and Lae as well as in the south may depend on the outcome of whether the convoys attacked Monday had tried to land reinforcements or was evacuating them from Buna.

Monday's attack on the convoy which consisted of two destroyers and a large transport, was but one phase of Allied aerial operations in which the Japanese were pounded all the way from Rabaul New Britain to the north.

Two formations of American bombers the same day B-25 that raided Tokyo attacked 11 Japanese ships but the pilots did not observe the results. They reported that Japanese Zeros were shot down and one of the bombers was lost in this engagement.

Willkie Says China Colonial Days End

CHUNGKING, Oct. 7. (AP)—Wendell Willkie told the Chinese people in a broadcast last night that "the old colonial days are past" and "I've no doubt that when this war is over China will become one of the great industrial countries of the world."

Willkie, who spoke extemporaneously with an interpreter translating, said America had the duty of seeing that China's duty was greater than a contribution of arms and armaments to you people who have fought five devastating years.

On his trip through northwest China he said he saw signs of the coming industrial greatness of China—"waterpower sites and great irrigation projects."

"I expect to dedicate the rest of my life to helping the world to see that the war on a basis where all men can be free and with governments of their own choosing," he concluded.

Increase In Food Production Asked

Facing increased war demands for food, the Agriculture Department says its legislative production plan for 1943 calls for an output of farm products than in 1942.

The plan calls for the possibility that the labor shortage may prevent farmers from meeting new output next year, the department said in a plan 70 pages long today.

Fort Mellon Park Swimming Pool Plans Will Be Submitted To WPA

Plans for a new swimming pool to be constructed in Fort Mellon Park will be submitted today to the WPA office in Orlando for approval, City Clerk E. M. Sayer announced this morning.

These plans which were prepared by City Engineer Fred T. Williams, have been approved by the State Board of Health, and by the City Commission, Mr. Sayer added.

The project includes a concrete swimming pool 65 by 164 feet, which will make it adaptable for national swimming meets; a wading pool 35 by 40 for children; two 2-inch diameter wells to supply water; also laying of pipes for supplying the drainage water from the pool. Included in the construction of a concrete walk from the street to and around the pool, grading eight acres of park, and covering it with six inches of muck and setting with grass, and planting of 80 palm trees; also 50 oak, magnolia and cedar trees.

The total cost of the project is estimated to be $49,585, of which the City's share will be $15,000 and the balance of $34,585 to be appropriated by the WPA, according to Mr. Sayer.

About 800 tons of broken rock and brick have already been placed on the site, and will be used in making concrete for the project, Mr. Williams stated. Use of critical materials such as iron and steel for concrete reinforcement, have been eliminated from the specifications as much as possible, Mr. Williams added, in order that the project may be approved by the government.

Celery Feds Have Tough Workouts, Getting Ready To Meet Daytona

Friday night, Sanford's High School's football squad will play Daytona Beach here.

The Celery Feds have been going through some pretty stiff afternoon workouts lately. Last Saturday afternoon included, according to Assistant Coach Dick McLaulin, who has been directing them during the absence of Coach Leonard McCas, who is in Jacksonville undergoing treatment for an eye infection.

Coach McLaulin stated that he had been putting in first and second string outfits, known as the A and B squads against each other, and giving the boys some real practical experience of changing passing and formation practices under real game conditions.

A new ball prospect who may be introduced in the game Friday evening is Buck Hask, a likely fast stepper, but from a Kentucky Coach McLaulin said, adding that all the boys appear to be in good condition, and indications are that they will give the boys from the coast a good hard battle.

The problem lineup will be announced later. Coach McLaulin said, but indications are that will be the same as last week.

Jax Navy Team Plans To Use All Reserves

Praising the showing made by Vic Faria, Lou Campbell and Bill Ponce in last week's victory over the University of Miami, Coach Adams said:

"These men were put in under pressure and they did a noble job. Against Spence and Florida State I plan to continue giving them a chance. We may find a few more good boys this way."

Tampa U, Miami U, Young Colleges, To Clash Saturday

CORAL GABLES, Oct. 7. (Special)—Two of the nation's younger universities engage in what is the longest consecutive series for both when the football teams representing University of Miami and University of Tampa clash in the Orange Bowl Saturday afternoon, Oct. 10.

Miami was organized in 1926 and Tampa a few years later. Their football teams have been meeting since 1933 when they played a scoreless tie. Tampa got an early edge in the series, winning three and tying two but Miami has taken the last four to lead 4-3 with two ties.

The two teams are heavily to the good services but both did a good job of rebuilding. Tampa, expected to lose by an even greater margin than the 4-0 score, actually held Florida 26-0 and the Gators had to cash in on two bad punts and a costly fumble to gain its victory margin. A scrappy tie and the turning of Paul Straub for Tampa made the game interesting.

Miami with 11 of its 1941 sophomores and juniors now in the service, tumbled itself into defeat against Jacksonville Naval Air Station 14-0. Miami stumbled once on the Jax goal line and again on first down on the Jax 15, losing the ball both times. In the third quarter Jax back, who had missed a tackle, and was found to have grabbed a fly from the Miami back who had missed a tackle. The team lost. The final tally came after a last minute pass was intercepted by the Miami 17.

Miami has in Guard William Dixon of Warren, Ga. a sensation guard, and in George Gallagher of Jeanette, Pa. and Alfred Adler of East Bank, N. J. two great tackles. The team has plenty of good backfield material and will go to town in games come Bob Douglas of Beckley, W. Va. the team's best back, will be ready for Tampa after missing the Jacksonville game. The Miami offense, a fine punter in Al Kautsky of Hazelton, Pa. He averaged 48 yards from the scrimmage line in a bout. One kick went 72 yards but counts as 0 in the statistics as it barely trickled over the goal line. My Meal (sniff) into my nose.
