Alcohol Is Cause Of Liver Damage. DEAR DR. LAMB—About a month ago I had a complete physical, the first one I've ever had and I'm 72 years of age. When the results came back, the doctor asked me if I drank, as alcohol showed up in my liver. I never, never, never touch that poison. I never have nor will I ever. His question really hurt me and I was so mad that I could hardly see straight. Now they want me to go through another test of the same kind. Please tell me how it would be possible for alcohol to show in the liver when I never drank or smoked, I'm still hurt and confused over what he said. DEAR READER—Perhaps you misunderstood your doctor. You probably had some blood tests that related to the function of your liver. These tests may have been abnormal. One of the common causes of damage of the liver is alcohol. But other things, including old infections or reactions to gallbladder disease and even as a complication to longstanding heart failure. It would be natural for your doctor to ask you about alcohol if your tests suggested that you have liver damage. He would need to know that fact and wouldn't know without asking you. Since you've never used alcohol, it's clear that if you do have any abnormality in the function of your liver, it's in no way related to alcohol. These tests are very tricky and sometimes you have abnormal tests and still have a normal liver. That's why he wants to repeat the tests. To give you more information about the liver, I am sending you The Health Letter Number 74, Living With Your Liver. It contains information that you want this issue can send 75 cents with a long stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Teachers, Schools Reach No Decision On Hurricane Day. The union representatives argued that the day for both students and teachers to be in school should be written off, because the teachers had to work on their own time to get grade reports in. There were added that this action has been taken throughout the state except in Seminole County. School officials said earlier that they would not discuss a matter until after the school board had met. The new plan is to return to school on Monday, Nov. 19, and to return to school on Monday, Nov. 19, and to return to school on Monday, Nov. 19.

EPA Tells Sanford: No $5,000 Fine For Abuses. A threat by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to fine the city of Sanford $5,000 because it used a banned chemical to kill weeds in long ditches of a drainage canal 18 months ago has been withdrawn. The city commission Tuesday authorized Mayor Lee P. Moore to sign a consent agreement and final order proposed by EPA admitting the chemical was used and promising it won't happen again. In exchange, EPA is agreeing to waive any penalty. A close analysis of the charges reveals that we were technically in violation of federal law, said City Attorney C. Vernon Mize Jr., said, urging the city to approve the agreement. Mize said the city, in preparation for an appeal against the fine, had raised the defense that the spraying with the banned chemical occurred on a drainage ditch rather than a bank of a stream. The city has contended that the law forbids use of the chemical on the banks of a moving stream, and since a ditch is not a stream, the city had not violated the law. Mize said it is in the best interests of the city to approve the consent order to avoid the possibility of a fine and future attorney fees and other expenses. The EPA complaint charged that on May 30, 1978, the city sprayed the banned weed killer to drain ditches at the Scott Avenue crossing and 28 hours later a minor fish kill was reported in the ditch and culvert. The threatened $5,000 fine was determined by placing the city in a category with entities having $1 million or more revenues annually, according to EPA complaint served on the city in June. Mize told commissioners that while he was in preparation for a hearing before the EPA administrative judge appealing the threatened EPA fine, he received a telephone call from Bruce R. Granoff, attorney for the Enforcement Division of EPA. Granoff stated that after further consideration, EPA was willing to forego a civil penalty if we would enter into a consent agreement admitting the facts alleged in the complaint and assuring EPA we will comply with all existing federal and state pesticide laws and regulations in the future. He stated that this proposal was being made in consideration of the fact we did not have a previous record of violations, Mize said. A city manager Warren Knowles said the banned weed killer was used by mistake — and only once.

Downtown Plans Finished; Cost Estimate: $179,000. Construction plans for the city's portion of the Sanford downtown revitalization project have been completed, but there has been no meeting to discuss the project. The meeting is to be held in the city commission room at 8 a.m. Construction time is estimated at nine work weeks but could run as long as 12 work weeks, Knowles said. There are presently 74 parking stalls in the area. Originally plans were to reduce the number of stalls to 41. The new plan is to retain 46 stalls. Not included in the plans are a fountain and brick pedestal, removed from original plans by common consent. ### UCF Iranian Students Beginning To Worry

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter today froze $5 billion deposited by the Iranian government in U.S. banks and declared the hostile relations between the two countries "a national emergency." The move followed by hours an announcement by the government in Tehran that it planned to withdraw $12 billion from American banks. But the Federal Reserve Board said such deposits total only $5 billion. The order to U.S. banks and their foreign branches was the third major step taken by Carter in recent days to deal with the Iranian crisis. Carter said the move was necessary to protect U.S. interests in Iran from nationalization by the Iranian government. "The purpose of this order is to ensure that claims on Iran by the United States and its citizens are provided for in an orderly manner," said the White House in a brief statement on the freeze. The Treasury Department said it was flooded with calls from irate Americans demanding that the freeze be ordered. The White House said plans for the freeze were personal in the works, contingent on any attempt to withdraw the funds. Carter earlier ordered a cutoff of Iranian oil shipments into the United States and deportation of Iranian students in the United States who have violated their visa status. "This order is in response to reports that the government of Iran is about to withdraw its funds" from U.S. banks, the White House said. The Iranian government claim that it has $12 billion in official assets in the United States is "grossly exaggerated," administration sources told UPI. "They have no more than $5 or $6 billion." The sources also said Carter was forced to block the assets before Iranian officials sent official word to U.S. banks to close out their accounts and transfer the money abroad. "It would have been too late if the Iranians had asked for too late. The banks would have had to give it to them," one source said. White Carter said the order does not affect funds held by private Iranians in American banks and their overseas branches, the move is obviously aimed at the possibility that Iran might nationalize all U.S. assets in that troubled country. And Iran has also deposited some $300 million in U.S. accounts to pay for spare military parts it contracted to buy. Shortly after the embassy takeover began last week, the Pentagon froze all shipment of those parts to Iran.

Quake Kills Hundreds In Iran

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — An earthquake shattered at least 14 mud-brick villages in rural northeastern Iran today and killed hundreds of people, officials reports said. The government says news agency said 242 people were confirmed dead and 72 injured and two other sources said at least 500 were feared dead. Survivors immediately began rescue attempts and relief teams sped to the area, about 550 miles northeast of Tehran.

They're Off And Running

The longest-running political tease in American history ended the other morning in Boston's Faneuil Hall when Edward Moore Kennedy, the senior U.S. senator from Massachusetts and heir to the legends of Camelot, at last declared himself a candidate for the presidency.

Nevertheless, it appears likely that Sen. Kennedy faces a far more difficult fight than might have been forecast just a few months ago. Ronald Reagan's chief political advisor, John Sears, put his finger on the reason during a recent interview. Sen. Kennedy's emergence as an official candidate, said Sears, will help shift the focus of public attention away from Mr. Carter's obvious deficiencies as president.

That may be Mr. Kennedy's strategy but its success hinges in large part on President Carter's cooperation — a most doubtful prospect.

What we can anticipate, then, is a fratricidal primary campaign in which the Kennedy camp paints the president as a faltering, inept leader while the White House more or less openly questions whether Sen. Kennedy possesses the moral authority indispensable to the presidency.

Some critics of technological progress deplore the impact of modern machines and modern methods upon the agricultural community, citing the decline of farm families from 40 percent of the population in 1920 to a mere 3 percent in 1970.

Even the most sophisticated equipment and pesticides, which help the United States in feeding the world, have failed to produce such a dramatic trick.

WASHINGTON — The coming of the nightmare, when militaristic devices and nuclear weapons, is commonly seen. Secret intelligence estimates warn that Brazil, the largest dictatorship in the western hemisphere, is preparing to test a nuclear device in the near future.

WASHINGTON — On Oct. 17 at the nuclear waste management plant near Barnwell, S.C., a car going at least 50 miles per hour smashed through a metal pipe entrance, struck a metal sign post and 10 pine trees and then rolled over.

Other auto accident victims, like the 50,140 killed last year, have not been so fortunate. For the fact remains that more than 20 years after the first patents for air bags were issued, more than 10 years after auto industry engineers first approved to DOT that they work, and more than 5 years after General Motors promised to make them standard equipment on all its cars, you cannot buy one anywhere.

You can buy stereo tape decks. Air Conditioning. Tinted windshields. Whitewall tires. Automatic transmissions. Vinyl roofs. But you cannot buy the most effective crash protection device available.

Just two months ago, industry lobbyists' campaign in which the Kennedy camp paints the president as a faltering, inept leader while the White House more or less openly questions whether Sen. Kennedy possesses the moral authority indispensable to the presidency.

Another Golden Age Olympics has come and gone and soon the members of the executive committee will be looking for a venue to host this year's event and suggest ways in which next year's olympics can be made even better.

The usings heroine of the Golden Age Olympics is Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce secretary Virginia Longwell, who somehow manages to stay calm and cheerful in the midst of chaos.

Long distance swimmers never seem satisfied to rest on their laurels and Stella is eyeing another swim from the Bahamas to help get in shape for another shot at the English Channel. In spite of exhaustion and physical, emotional and mental pain and nausea, "you have to keep going," she says. "Your sinuses go first and you bleed from your nose," she added. Why would anyone put themselves through such punishment? "If I didn't have a goal I'd never swim," she explained. It would seem it is more like an addiction.

"I can't say enough for the American Red Cross," said Chamber Executive Manager Jack Horne, "they provided first aid as well as coordinating all the swimming and boating events. We are constantly trying to improve the Golden Age Olympics. There are those highly competitive athletes who come to win and there are those who come for the fun of it, but the ocean denominator is good fellowship.

Two of the more competitive gold medalists Quentin Bittle of Winter Park and Dr. Merle Parker of Sanford have proposed a 20 mile endurance bicycle race open to men and women 16 and over next year with riders permitted to choose their own bikes. Bittle also expressed concern over the safety on the present route over city streets. It has been suggested by some bike racers be held at Seminole High School next year.

Suddenly almost everyone, with the notable exception of the Soviets, wants to get into the rice bowl.

A score of international agencies are competing for an air-ear lift of emergency food.

Thirty-one of the United Nations have pledged more than $200 million for relief supplies.

The American deputy president — Rosalynn Carter — is personally on the scene. Even the previously implacable regime in Phnom Penh has yielded to the extent of opening the port of Kampong Som and the Mekong River to relief shipments.

This burst of activity is not only welcome, it may well be essential if Cambodians are not for all practical effect to be extinguished as a people. The magnitude of the disaster that has overtaken them is matched in recent history only by the Jewish Holocaust.

Some estimates, up to half of Cambodia's pre-conflict population may already have perished and many or most of the survivors may already be beyond saving.

Who is to blame for this tragedy? Most immediately Cambodians themselves — the two regimes, both pledged to the Marxist cause, savaging each other for control of a country that could well stand up without people.

The real villain, however, is politics, the politics of power that have motivated and manipulated all the parties to this disaster. And although real is on the way — although it may yet prove both too little and too late — we are not done with them.

The United States and Soviet Union together might mount an effective relief operation that would assist both Cambodian people, but are unable to coordinate efforts because of continuing divergent interests.

The quickest and most effective means of moving relief supplies in large volume into Cambodia would be by truck across the border, but Phnom Penh will not agree to this because of the likely greater benefits to its opponents.

The United States is reluctant to channel all aid through Phnom Penh controlled by Phnom Penh because of the benefit this might represent to Vietnamese-Soviet cooperation.

And so it goes. Politics, as Cambodia is so tragically demonstrating, can be not only hazardous but potentially fatal.

Congresswomen Accomplished Something For Cambodians

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — A delegation of U.S. congresswomen won a moderate success in getting Phnom Penh to accept more Western aid for Cambodia — a nation depicted by its former ruler as "truly on the road to extinction."

Even as the women prepared to depart, more than 10,000 Cambodians, fleeing a new outbreak of fighting in their homeland, streamed across the border at Sam Laem to join the 300,000 refugees camped in Thailand, official sources said.

The success was Cambodian Foreign Minister Hun Sen's agreement to take a delegation of U.S. congresswomen to Phnom Penh to see the situation on the ground.

Phnom Penh with Rep. Holtzman were Lindy Boggs, D-La.; Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo.; Margaret Heckler, R-Mass.; Barbara Mikulski, D-Md.; and Olympia Snowe, R-Maine. Rep. Millicent Fenwick, R-N.J., suffered a slight illness in Bangkok and did not travel to the Cambodian capital.

The Cambodians told the Americans what they saw in Phnom Penh was the "leftovers" from the destructive heritage of Pol Pot who assumed power in 1975.

Reporters accompanying the delegation walked through the once graceful streets of Phnom Penh now piled with rubble on every corner. Cars lie rusting on pavements, shops and once lovely villas are gutted and empty.

Laetrile Supporters Lose In Supreme Court

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Laetrile supporters lost another round in the Supreme Court Tuesday in their battle to give cancer patients access to the controversial substance.

The justices let stand a California Supreme Court decision upholding the conviction of a doctor for prescribing and conspiring to sell Laetrile, derived from the pits of apricots and peaches.

Last June, the high court ruled that terminally ill cancer patients are not exempt from the government's ban on interstate shipment of Laetrile.

The case the court acted on today involved the December 1975 conviction of Dr. James Privitera Jr. for prescribing and selling Laetrile, which is not an approved drug under the California health and safety code.

Privitera, 38, who practices in West Covina, Calif., prescribed Laetrile to cancer patients, then referred them to his associates who imported and supplied the substance.

His felony conviction was reversed in 1977 by a state appeals court which held the California Health and Safety code violated state and federal constitutional rights of privacy for patients and physicians.

The appeals court also held the code is not reasonably related to the legitimate government interest of preventing fraud.

The state's supreme court reversed the decision on March 15, 1976.

Privitera, who faces a six month jail sentence and five years' probation, appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court. His lawyers argued there is a "fundamental right of privacy or personal liberty" involved in "an informed individual's right to choose a particular course of medical treatment."

First Tie Vote in History

Stargell, Hernandez Co-MVP's

By MIKE TULLY, UPI Sports Writer. NEW YORK (UPI)—Even Keith Hernandez agreed choosing between the league's top run producer and the leader of a championship team was no easy task for those selecting the Most Valuable Player in the National League.

"I figured the year I had was worthy of the MVP," said Hernandez, who Tuesday was named co-winner of the award with Willie Stargell. "But Willie also had a good year and he's such a leader. It's a once in a lifetime thing, if that many. It's a great honor."

Stargell, the 38-year-old first baseman for the champion Pittsburgh Pirates, had also won the playoff and World Series MVPs. "I'm happy to receive this award," Stargell said.

"Willie's such a great man. I felt we were both deserving but I just believe Willie was the highest in the major leagues. Another alumni who will add local flavor to the contest is Greg Robinson. After starting at S.C.C., Robinson went to Birmingham Southern and has returned to Seminole County to become head basketball coach at Lake Howell.

Dawkins Smashes, Crashes But Philly Falls 110-103

By United Press International. Philadelphia's Darryl Dawkins may just make the dent in the backboard that he has in the Guinness book of records.

The 6-foot-11 Dawkins ferociously slam-dunked the ball through the hoop less than a minute into the second half of Tuesday night's 110-103 victory by Kansas City, then headed for cover when the backboard burst into pieces, spraying chunks of glass all over the court.

That prompted a delay reminiscent of the days when Johnson hauled many a game by shattering backboards with his head, arms and shoulders as a player with the Baltimore Bullets.

Smith, Butler Hope To 'End' Title Tie

MORGAN SMITH

Stopping 'Tony C' Seminole Game Plan

By SAM COOK, Herald Sports Correspondent. "You can't keep a good man down," said Brock-Boll star Eddie Money. No, he probably didn't have Jerry Posey in mind while crooning these lyrics, but it does apply.

That figures into a healthy 31-11 mark. Now, though the health is falling. The Seminoles are staggering along with a 4-5 mark and in need of a remedy. Last year the Patriots romped 31-6. Can the fallen warriors come back? Or CAN you keep a good man down?

Along with Constantine's arm, much of the Big Blue's success must be attributed to its beefy front line, which averages 210 including 240-pound tackles.

Tennessee's Majors Picked As UPI Coach Of The Week

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Johnny Majors, who, in the third year of a rebuilding program at Tennessee brought his Vols back from a humiliating loss to Rutgers to defeat Notre Dame Saturday, was selected UPI's national coach of the week.

A capacity crowd of 86,489 fans tore down a goalpost after the Vols' 40-18 victory over the Fighting Irish.

Majors has proved himself as a rebuilder of dying programs, turning both Iowa State and Pittsburgh into winners before returning to his alma mater in 1977. In 1978, he led Pittsburgh to a 12-0 record and the national championship.

"It's very pleasing to hear," Majors said of the award. "I'm delighted and very pleased on behalf of the fine performance of our team and the assistant coaches. I don't get any plaudits unless they do their job."

Majors admitted it was "ironic" the win over the Irish would come just one week after Eastern Independent Rutgers shocked the Vols, 13-6. But Majors refused to take anything away from Rutgers.

"We've been beaten by worse teams since I've been here," Majors said of Rutgers. "They are 6-2 now."

The Vols have been on a steady upward course since the

Final Bowl Bid Week Means Big Anxiety

By United Press International

This is "White Knuckle Week" in college football. It's a time of great anxiety for those college football coaches whose teams are good enough to be considered for post-season bowl invitations.

It is, of course, more interesting when two teams are fighting for one big invitation and this is precisely the case at Ann Arbor, Mich., Saturday when Michigan plays host to third-ranked Ohio State.

More than likely, the winner of that game will represent the Big Ten Conference in the Rose Bowl.

Michigan has beaten Ohio State three years in a row and the Wolverines are 1-3-1 at Ann Arbor, Mich., against the Buckeyes since 1967. We like the Wolverines to snap the Buckeyes' perfect 10-0 record and earn that trip to Pasadena.

Here's how we see the major games across the nation:

The East
Temple 21 Penn State 18 — Owls have waited a long time for this.

The Midwest
Pittsburgh 35 Army 0 — Panthers could nail down a Gator Bowl bid.
Rutgers 27 Villanova 6 — Scarlet Knights are hoping for something better than the Garden State bowl.
Syracuse 33 Boston College 8 — Orangemen wind up a very successful road show.

The South
Alabama 20 Miami (Fla.) 13 — Injuries have left the Tide mighty low.
Auburn 21 Georgia 14 — Tigers, riding out probation, salvage season by spoiling Bulldogs' Sugar Bowl hopes.
Tennessee 27 Mississippi 13 — Vols climax comeback season by earning bowl bid.
Florida St. 30 Memphis St. 8 — If Georgia loses, Seminoles a likely Orange Bowl pick.

The Midwest
Michigan 13 Ohio St. 10 — Wolverines snare after Big Ten game.

The Far West
Stanford 31 California 27 — The "Big Game" should be a real shoot-out.
UCLA 20 Oregon 20 — But Bruins still can't reach Rose Bowl.

The East
Indiana 23 Purdue 21 — Hoosiers drink champagne from Old Oaken Bucket.
Minnesota 28 Wisconsin 10 — Gophers go for .500 season.

The Midwest
Nebraska 23 Iowa St. 10 — Always take Redwine with you.
Oklahoma 24 Missouri 20 — Tigers always give the big boys trouble.
Kansas 17 Colorado 12 — This is a year Chuck Fairbanks will leave out of his memoirs.

Oklahoma St. 26 Kansas St. 15 — Cowboys won't even need their spurs.

The Southwest
Arkansas 20 Texas A&M 14 — Razorbacks are now the favorite for the Cotton Bowl in the SWC.

Texas 29 TCU 10 — Longhorns keep SWC title hopes alive.

Texas Tech 26 SMU 18 — Red Raiders have edge in experience.

Baylor 16 Rice 6 — After Arkansas, this is the week to watch.

The Far West
Stanford 31 California 27 — The "Big Game" should be a real shoot-out.
UCLA 20 Oregon 20 — But Bruins still can't reach Rose Bowl.

Gator-Seminole Kickoff Set For 12:07 Friday

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — The University of Florida confirmed reports Tuesday that the Florida-Florida State football game, originally scheduled for Nov. 24, will be moved up to Friday, Nov. 23, so it can be televised nationally by ABC-TV as part of a Thanksgiving double-header.

Kickoff is set for 12:07 p.m. The Houston-Texas Tech game, which also was originally scheduled for Nov. 24, will follow at 3:00 p.m.

"We would hope that ABC's decision to showcase this game as one of the nation's finest rivalries will lead to its becoming a television tradition that the cameras follow," said Florida State athletic director Bill Carr, told a sportswriter's luncheon.

FSU, an independent, will receive $200,000 for the television rights while Florida will get $60,000 in share of the money, which, under SEC rules, is divided in equal amounts among all the SEC member schools.

The UP Athletic Department announced it will refund the price of game tickets to anyone returning their tickets to P. O. Box 14498, Gainesville, Fla., 32604 by next Monday. Carr said the refunds would be mailed out in 30 days.

Vancouver Tops Flames 5-3 In N.H.L. Action

By United Press International

Tuesday night, the Atlanta Flames dropped a 4-3 home-ice decision to the Vancouver Canucks and Coach Al MacNeil, was quite upset.

"They outplayed us in our own building," said MacNeil. "That to me is unacceptable. I can't accept that."

Kurt Frazer scored twice in the third period to help lead the Flames to their second home-ice loss of the year. The triumph was Vancouver's third in nine road games.

"The team worked just great," said Frazer, who scored only his second and third goals of the season. "We've been really playing well lately. I may not get the fastest goals but they all count."

With the game tied, 3-3, Frazer scored his first goal at 1:51 of the final period on a rebound of Rick Vachon's shot.

Then, at 8:34, Frazer put another shot past Atlanta goalkeeper Dan Bouchard to give the Canucks a 4-3 lead. Atlanta made it 4-4 at 10:33 of the third period on Bill Clement's second goal of the year. The Flames took 18 shots at goalie Glen Hanlin in the third period but Rick Vachon closed the scoring with an empty-net goal with 17 seconds left, extending his goal-scoring streak to five straight games.

Don Sedlman and Chris Oatkinson also scored for the Canucks while Ken Houston and David Staal had the other Atlanta goals.

In other games, the New York Islanders blanked the New York Rangers, 10-4. Edmonton defeated Washington, 3-1. Montreal beat St. Louis, 5-2, and Los Angeles stopped Colorado, 4-

Bulldogs Have Plenty At Stake Despite 5-4 Record

By United Press International

The Georgia Bulldogs have a chance to make history Saturday.

No other team in college football has taken a 5-4 record into a game with as much at stake as the Bulldogs will have when they host the Auburn Tigers.

If Georgia, a 1-point favorite, wins the Bulldogs will be assured of at least a tie, with nationally top-ranked Alabama, — for the Southeastern Conference championship — and a berth in the Sugar Bowl.

Lose and the Bulldogs come empty-handed.

This unique situation came about because the Bulldogs, despite losing all their non-conference games, are 4-1 within the SEC and don't play Alabama this season. A share of the conference title sends them to the Sugar Bowl under the SEC's last-appearance rule since the Crimson Tide played there last season.

All the pressure will be on Georgia since Auburn (7-2) is on NCAA probation and can't win either the SEC crown or go to a bowl this season.

"This would be a tough assignment for us under any circumstances," said Georgia

Coach Vince Dooley. "It's very natural for spirits to be high when you are playing for the championship, but what this Saturday boils down to is the fact that we will be playing the best team we have faced all year."

"They are very experienced offensively," said Dooley. "They don't have a sophomore or freshman on their starting offensive unit. And they have the best two running backs — James Brooks and Joe Cribbs — I've seen on any one team in all the years I've been coaching."

Brooks and Cribbs have a good shot at becoming the first two runners on an SEC team to both gain 1,000 yards in the same season. Brooks, a 197-pound junior who missed seven games last season with a broken foot after a brilliant start, is only 47 yards from that goal and Cribbs, a 190-pound senior who gained 1,205 last year in 139 away.

Last year, Georgia, far better off overall when it wound up 9-1-1, faced the identical situation so far as the SEC race was concerned when it played Auburn (7-2) at the time, the Bulldogs refused to gamble on a two-point conversion with about five

City Condemning Building

The Sanford City Commission has begun the legal process to force demolition of the two-story factory building at First Street and Palmetto, razed by fire Sunday.

The commission Tuesday night, on recommendation of building official Bill Braceland, set a public hearing for Nov. 28 to begin condemnation procedures on the structure.

Fire Chief George Harriett said Tuesday the walls of the building are in a weakened condition and might fall.

City employees will have Thanksgiving and the following Friday off for a holiday as well as Christmas and Christmas Eve.

S. Joseph Davis Jr. is trustee of the property. In other business, the commission unanimously approved an 8-mile bicycle route through the city as requested by the Sanford Women's Club. The club offered to pay $1,335, the full cost of providing bike route signs, posts, direction arrows and street messages along the route and feeder routes.

Jim Jernigan, the city's director of recreation and parks, said the loop concept for the bicycle route is functional because it serves the downtown, four public schools, two private schools, shopping centers, the hospital and major parks system.

"The loop is designed to direct bike traffic off the main arterial routes which are heavily traveled by autos," Jernigan said. "Noting that children, young adults and senior citizens are biking more than ever, Jernigan said whether the city has bike routes or not bikers will be on the streets in increasing numbers."

"The advantage in establishing bike routes is to direct the bike traffic to certain routes and make motorists aware of their presence through proper signs and traffic messages."

Longwood Plant To Stay

On the recommendation of City Administrator David Chacey, Longwood City Commissioners voted Monday night to keep the Skylark sewage treatment plant where it is instead of moving it to a proposed new site on Grant Street. Cost of moving the plant had been estimated between $40,000 and $60,000.

The city is looking into the cost of installing an alarm system in case of a malfunction at the plant.

Her Interest In Nutrition Results In Home Garden

By TOM NETSEL, Herald Staff Writer

Marie Cushing bit into an apple and it tasted funny. Carrots had a bitter taste and fruit she bought was not ripe.

Advised by doctors to eat more fresh vegetables and fruits, Mrs. Cushing was not satisfied with the produce available at local supermarkets.

Fertilizers and pesticides sprayed on the food while it was growing concerned the mother of two who lives at 111 East Jenkins Circle in Sanford. "It made me angry," she said, after returning the bitter fruit to the market.

Purchasing fresh vegetables from farmers in an attempt to obtain the freshest food with the least amount of additives, Mrs. Cushing decided to go one step further and started her own garden.

"I got some good old books from the library," she said, and to get her garden prepared she "shoveled horse manure and lugged it" into her back yard.

Working patiently as a hair stylist at Reflections of Beauty and keeping house for her family which includes two cats and a dog have left little time for being a backyard farmer, but in the interest of nutrition Mrs. Cushing is working on a green thumb. "I've got lettuce, eggplant, peppers, tomatoes—I'm going to try a little of everything—onions, squash, parsnips—to see what problems I'll have."

Aphids on her tomatoes were controlled by washing the leaves with a mixture of Ivory soap and water prepared in her electric blender.

"The interest in nutrition has caused Mrs. Cushing to reach a turning point in her thinking about what she and her family eat. The garden may not solve her problems but she expects to give it a good try."

As a hair stylist she has noticed a person's health is reflected in hair. She said she can tell the difference in the hair of women who grow and eat their own vegetables — it is healthier.

While waiting for the garden to grow, Mrs. Cushing has already started looking for more nutritious meals using natural foods that are tasty as well as being healthful.

Mushrooms Give A Meaty Quality To Stretch Beef

By GAYNOR MADDOX, Special to The Herald

Beef is an American passion. That being an accepted fact, what are we going to do about the continuing upward movement in its price?

It is certainly difficult to alter our eating habits. But we may have to if beef prices continue to rise.

Three to four ounces of beef should be our limit per day. Nutritionists say that would provide us with sufficient protein.

There are other good protein foods. Poultry and chicken are plentiful and are less expensive than beef.

Eggs are always available and are high in protein. They are also versatile; you can eat them alone or as ingredients in baked goods, puddings, meat loaves and so on.

The Agriculture Department predicts that beef prices will be slightly higher during the first half of 1978. It also says pork and broiler-dryers will be more plentiful.

If you are lightening up on beef, try using a little mushroom strategy.

BEEF AND MUSHROOM BURGUNDY
2 pounds beef, bonedless beef shoulder or chuck, cut into 1/4-inch cubes

1 cup chopped onions
1 clove garlic, minced
1/4 cups water
1 cup burgundy wine
1 bay leaf
1 teaspoon thyme leaves, crushed

By BERNICE BODIE OGOL

For Thursday, November 15, 1979

YOUR BIRTHDAY November 15, 1979

This coming year you may note a continual improvement in matters relating to your career or finances. Some of this will be due to persons behind the scenes lending you assistance.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 23) Take the time today to mull over things deep within yourself, as you Scorpios are able to do so well. You'll come up with a couple of revealing thoughts. Find out more of what has ahead for you in the year following your birthday by reading the report in the Astro-Graph Letter, Mail #1 for each in Astro-Graph, Box 400, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10101. Be sure to specify birth date.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) A new relationship, a talk with some pals will give you some fresh ideas that could prove extremely helpful. Get a group together for lunch.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You're much admired by one who is carrying lots of things about you to others. You'll be quite flattered when you learn of this today.

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19) There's a link or a human matter that may need discussion or reflection today before success can be attained. Take the needed time. GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Stopped out important matters with a close friend today. There is something quite notable you can learn from this person through conversation.

CANCER (June 21-July 23) You won't enjoy just raking on your laurels around the house today. Instead, you'll get your head to work on finding ways to enhance your surroundings.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 23) You're a coming-of-age mood today, but don't waste your time on idle chatter. Associate with individuals who have worthwhile things to say.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A number of your family could be in the hot today. You're a coming-of-age mood today, but don't waste your time on idle chatter. Associate with individuals who have worthwhile things to say.

Low Blood Sugar Has Many Causes

DEAR DR. LAMB—Two months ago I had a stroke. The findings were that I had a mild case of low blood sugar. Could you please give me some information on this and what causes it? Can it be cured and how do you handle yourself with it? I have been on a diet for two months and I have improved but I still get attacks every so often. I would like to understand my problem better.

DEAR READER—Low blood sugar, which we call hypoglycemia, merely means that someone has observed a low level of glucose in your blood. This can occur in normal people who have no symptoms at all.

Much confusion occurs because you can pour out adrenaline because of a lot of other situations. It's the fight or flight hormone. And if you're stressed for any reason, you'll pour out extra adrenaline which can cause exactly the same symptoms.

As the Health Letter I'm sending you explains, you can have a low blood glucose level from many different things. Some people have this while they're fasting. In these instances, it may be caused by such things as a tumor of the insulin producing glands in the pancreas.

The Health Letter I'm sending you will explain more about what to do with your diet. A good way to get glucose without having such major swings in the blood level is to use raw fruits, such as apples, and vegetables. Because they contain both they are slowly absorbed into the bloodstream, as opposed to concentrated sweets such as sugar and sweet drinks.

spades wound up making 10 or 11 tricks. Note that this is one time when it is definitely correct to play second hand first. That jack is worthless unless it can lead the first trick.

Our choice for unblock that player is the West who opened the queen of spades rather than his fourth best. This lead should have costed South's success, but it didn't.

South just won that trick with his king and led a heart toward dummy. West looked up with his ace and played his ace of spades but East, who had been sitting on his ace, failed to drop the 10 and the defense just got three tricks.

Incidentally that queen of spades lead is not an important one in this situation. It isn't too good because it can only gain 1 trick. The ace and partner holds the 10. A better unusual lead would have been the ace with the ace-king jack appearing in dummy. West would continue low and clear the suit if South started with king and one.

In this charity-games lead, South should have led three times, mostly headed at three trump, either West or dummy. West would open with one spade. West opened a spade, and three hearts played but was right up with dummy's jack of
