Home at last

Spec. Frank Hartle III, who served with the First Armored Division in Operation Desert Storm, will finally be arriving home on Monday.

Hartle, a 1987 graduate of Seminole High School, is the son of Lorraine and Frank Hartle Jr. of Sanford.

Hartle's father said that the young soldier was among those who fought the Iraqi Republican guard. He said his son saw eight battles in four days of fighting.

After leaving the Persian Gulf area, Hartle spent some time in Germany.

The Hartles are planning a party for their son on Monday to which they are inviting all their friends. The party will be at their Sunland Estates home.

After a 30-day stay in Sanford, Hartle will go to Ft. Stewart, Georgia.

Alleged armed robber is boy

BALTIMORE — A 10-year-old boy has been accused of armed robbery for the second time since May, this time for allegedly pointing a gun at an 8-year-old and making off with his yo-yo, police said.

The younger boy and a friend were walking together Thursday when the 10-year-old pulled out a small-caliber handgun and demanded they put their hands in the air, police said.

The boy allegedly took the yo-yo and ran away, said Sgt. Anthony Rinaldi. The 8-year-old ran home and police were notified. The 10-year-old's name was withheld because of his age.

Police arrested the boy May 17 for allegedly robbing a 9-year-old boy of his beanie after holding a .22-caliber revolver to his head, police said.

Maid of honor wins mud match

MILWAUKEE — Bride-to-be Katie Schloegel couldn't decide which friend should be her maid of honor Saturday, so Ramona "Slammin'" Pam and Heather the Leather Magnet grappled for the honor in a backyard mud-wrestling match.

The loser got a melon and the runner-up title, bridesmaid.

Emily Post would have been appalled. After three two-minute rounds of shrieking, mudslinging madness, Heather Abrich emerged from the wading pool muck with the intimidating grimace she used to pin down her victory.

"I practiced faces in the mirror to scare her," she said, laughing as she handed a garden hose to her opponent and friend Pam Wright.

Pam, an electrical engineer from Boston, said she was disappointed but content to be a bridesmaid.

Heather, a sales assistant at a Milwaukee television station, wallowed in her victory by pulling the bride into the mud and the three Marquette University alumni hauled it up for a video camera, which captured the event from the ceremonial mud-blessing to the bride drinking.

The groom, Sheldon Rusch, a writer and producer for a Milwaukee advertising agency, wasn't invited to the bachelorette match. He had his own bath to bathe.

Realtors like Sanford

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Over 50 realtors from south Seminole County toured Sanford Friday. "It couldn't have gone better," said Billy Higgins.

Higgins chairs the newly formed Sanford Committee, a group of local citizens and city leaders dedicated to promoting all aspects of Sanford life and living. The committee arranged for the group of Winter Park area Realtors to tour the various areas of the city, in an effort to improve their conceptions of the Sanford.

Higgins said, "This effort is to show realtors the investment potential in Sanford for both home owners and commercial property investors. Investment potential requires good schools, clean neighborhoods, low crime rates, and friendly people. All of these are available in Sanford and we're working to spread the word."

The tour started with breakfast on board the rivership Grand Romance, and official welcomes from Sanford Mayor Betty Smith and Chamber Executive Director Dave Farr. The Realtors were then taken by bus through Sanford's business and residential areas. They were given tours of school areas as well as a number of residential communities, with Farr guiding the tour information. It concluded with a luncheon at the downtown Sanford historic home of committee member Joyce Malone, catered by Christo's Restaurant. Malone said, "We believe we have much to offer here in Sanford and this tour is intended to be informative as well as show some of Sanford's old fashioned hospitality."

As for the Sanford Committee's future plans, education chairman Cliff Miller said, "Recently we have been working very closely with Dan Pelham, Sanford Middle School Principal, to help showcase the new facilities, excellent curriculum and faculty at Sanford Middle School."

Andrea Farmer (dark shirt to the left of Maude, the elephant, leads large group in singing Happy Birthday to the 17-year-old pachyderm at the Central Florida Zoo in Sanford on Saturday.

Several hundred well-wishers sing, 'Happy Birthday, Maude'

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Her skin is a little mottled and wrinkled and she has a few pounds on her, but all in all the birthday girl looked lovely.

Unlike most 17-year-olds, Maude the Elephant wasn't interested in much of the celebration surrounding her birthday. Swallowing her cake in a single bite, Maude, who lives at the Central Florida Zoological Park in Sanford, waved to friends and well-wishers and went to work giving youngsters rides.

A crowd estimated at close to 1,000 pushed their way toward the pachyderm and the heavily frosted birthday cakes donated by Publix in her honor.

Others sat on nearby benches and watched. Some youngsters had pictures painted on their faces. Felt elephant tails were pinned to children's shirts and a coloring contest occupied some of the little ones.

Andrea Farmer, marketing coordinator at the Central Florida Zoo, led the assembled crowd in singing "Happy Birthday" to Maude.

Lawrence, 7, of Sanford, said he thought elephants were "neat" and wanted to come see one in person. "I've never been to the zoo before, but since it was Maude's birthday, my mom and my brother to see her," Lawrence said.

Stan, Chris' four-year-old brother, summed up his impression of the party and the guest of honor in a single word.

"Wow," he said, pointing at Maude from a safe distance and behind his brother.

Clinging to her mother Lane Sanders, 3, of Altamonte Springs squealed as Maude passed by on her way to the area where she would give rides.

"She wants to ride the elephant, but she doesn't want to go near her," Sandy Fletcher, Lane's mother said.

Latoya Corbett, 7, traveled from Orlando on a Tri-County Transit bus as a part of the Super Saturday program.

Barely looking up from the hand puppet she was creating from a paper bag, Corbett said she wanted to see the monkeys, but she'd wait until after the elephant's birthday.

"I want the cake too, so I can wait," she said.

And now, it's time for Q&A Question: In one of your earlier columns about Sanford having one of the if not the largest ice plants in the world it seems to me that there was another ice plant on Sanford's eastside.

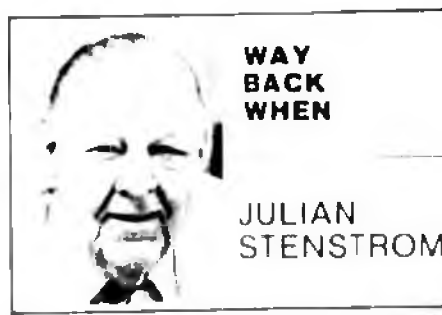

Answer: You're right. According to Ned Yanay, former Sanford city commissioner, Chase & Company had its own ice-making facility in the Midway area. The Chase complex had its own wash house, packing house, pre-cooler and ice plant. This was, of course, during times before mechanical refrigeration.

Q: Most old time Sanford baseball fans can remember when Sid Hudson of Sanford's Florida State League team jumped from Class D professional baseball to the major leagues in 1940. However, who was the manager of the Washington Senators that year who gave Hudson that once-in-a-lifetime opportunity?

A: His name was Buck Harris.

Q: Did you ever find any other people whose birth certificates were signed by H.C. Haskins, father of Mrs. J. Lee Stenstrom?

A: Not as many as you would think.

WAY BACK WHEN

especially since Haskins was the Seminole County registrar for so many years. Carolyn Jones Odum, granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. B.F. McWhorter, has a birth certificate signed by Haskins. So does Grace Mae Stenroper, a Seminole High School teacher on leave. Grace Mae is the daughter of the late Martin and Marie Stenroper. Just offhand we can recall two Sanford couples more highly respected than the McWhorters and the Stenroperes.

Q: In your recent article about the 1925 train wreck near Matland, you had a couple of questions. You said you could not find the name of the Negro fireman who was killed in the accident. You also mentioned that you had no information about Patsy Bandy, daughter of the Atlantic Coast Line locomotive engineer. A P. Bandy who survived the wreck, then, you had one.

Rainfall replenishing underground reservoir

By J. MARK BARFIELD

SANFORD — Water supplies in Seminole County continue to rebound, according to the St. Johns River Water Management District.

District data shows rainfall recorded at Central Florida Regional Airport in July was double the normal amount of rainfall for that month. A total of 16.09 inches were recorded in Sanford. The historic average for the month of July is 8.84 inches, according to a monthly district rainfall report.

The entire 19-county district remains under year-round water restrictions. No lawn watering may be done between the hours of 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. each day, although car washing is allowed anytime. Hand held hose watering is allowed anytime, as well.

Solar Sanford has received 19.74 inches above the average annual total rainfall and 27.17 inches above the average total for the last six months.

In fact, Sanford has received more rain in July than any of the 19 counties monitored by District statistics.

Only two other sites recorded greater than normal rainfall for the year.

The rainfall bonus resulted in improved underground water supplies and less demand for water by residents of two Seminole County water utilities tracked by the district.

A monitoring well in Geneva reached 21.17 feet above mean sea level in July, only 0.17 feet below the highest point the well reached during the last nine years, which occurred on Nov. 28, 1987. The level is 4.11 feet above the lowest level it reached on May 31, 1990.

A monitoring well in Longwood reached 43.65 feet in July, still 12.45 feet below the highest point it reached during the last 40 years (records have been kept). That level was reached on Sept. 30, 1960, two weeks after Hurricane Donna slammed into Seminole County with 120 m.p.h. winds. The level is 9.36 feet over the lowest level it reached on April 30, 1989.

As the rains continued, thirsty residents — and lawns — demanded less water, although district water

Two injured in 'hate' attack

ST. PETERSBURG — Police are treating the shooting of two men near a waterfront park as a hate crime against homosexuals.

"The suspects perceived these people were homosexuals," said Maj. Rick Stieljes, "and their crime was based on that perception."

Christopher Scott Morris of St. Petersburg was being held in the Pinellas County Jail on $40,000 bail. He is charged with two counts of aggravated battery in Wednesday's late night shootings of a 30-year-old Tampa man and a 24-year-old Los Angeles resident.

Both men suffered small puncture wounds in their arms and chest when they were hit with buckshot fired from a 12-gauge shotgun, according to arrest records. The men refused to be taken to a hospital for treatment.

Report: Nurses gave baby to abductor

HOLLYWOOD — Nurses at Memorial Hospital gave a baby to a woman who then abducted the child, according to a police report.

Tanya Register posed as the aunt of 18-day-old James Parker III to get hospital employees to let her hold the child, the report said of the Aug. 9 abduction.

Another hospital employee saw the woman wrap the baby in a towel and look around cautiously before hurrying into an elevator with the infant, the report said. The sick baby was still attached to intravenous lines on a portable stand.

Computer realigns first new districts

TALLAHASSEE — The first county redistricting map to pop out of the Legislature's computer fashioned one congressional district ideal for advancing Senate President Gwen Margolis' political career and another with a black majority.

The Dade County map already is making the political rounds, but legislators emphasized the draft was just a first sketch in a process that will be decided by the Legislature next spring.

Using her redrawn map, Margolis said she and U.S. Rep. William Lehman could run for different seats.

"That could work," she said. "You don't protect incumbents. You just do your best."

John Scheible, a Lehman spokesman, said the nine-term congressman hasn't seen the map but said Lehman's office had been consulted.

Hundreds of child abuse reports falsified

FORT MYERS — Hundreds of child abuse reports were falsified over the last six months to make state workers look more efficient, a newspaper reported Saturday.

State Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services officials were trying to find out if any of the altered reports jeopardized the welfare of the children, the Fort Myers News-Press reported.

"We haven't found any cases where any of the falsifications affected the outcome of the case," said HRS chief investigator David Sherwin.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Bob upgraded to a hurricane

By CATHERINE WILSON
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI — Hurricane Bob, packing winds near 75 mph, was upgraded from tropical storm status Saturday and forecasters posted warning for the North Carolina coast.

"It could skirt the outer banks (of North Carolina)," said Bob Ebargh, a weather service specialist with the National Hurricane Center in Coral Gables.

Hurricane Bob was predicted to move north-northwest, take a turn to the north and skirt the North Carolina coast and then continue north.

Although the storm was expected to increase its forward speed over the next 24 hours, where it will hit cannot be pinpointed with accuracy, Ebargh said.

"It's a matter of watching and waiting, and seeing that it does," Ebargh said.

At 6 p.m. EDT, Bob was located near latitude 29.9 north and longitude 77.5 west, or about 380 miles south of Cape Hatteras, N.C. The hurricane was moving toward the north, northwest near 9 mph and was expected to turn toward the north with an increase in speed Sunday.

Bob gained tropical storm status Friday in the Bahamas.

A hurricane watch was up from the southern border of North Carolina to south of Virginia Beach, Va., including Pamlico and Albemarle sounds.

Residents near Cape Hatteras may be more prepared than most for a hurricane because they're used to big storms, forecaster Max Mayfield said.

"They know what it's all about, but there's a lot of tourists out there," he said.

Storm-force winds of at least 39 mph extend about 100 miles east of the center and 80 miles west.

Bob was gaining strength in the warm waters of the Gulf Stream, the current that flows out of the Gulf of Mexico around the Florida Keys and northward up the East Coast.

Mayfield warned Cape Cod and points north also could get a glimpse of Bob, adding, "We're still not out of the woods even after it passes North Carolina."

Bob is the second named storm of the 1991 season. The first, Ana, formed in early July and died in the North Atlantic without touching land.

Man denies he fed gator that bit him

Associated Press

INVERNESS — A 7-foot alligator that chomped down on a man may have been biting the hand that feeds it.

Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission officers said 71-year-old George Blinn has thrown food to gators that swim in the canal behind his home.

"We just wanted to vindicate the gator," Lt. Gary Richardson said Friday. "He was domesticated by man's hand and was coming around for a handout. He wouldn't have been there if he hadn't been domesticated."

Such feeding, which is illegal, could explain why the reptile was near a canal dock Wednesday when Blinn slipped into the water, authorities said.

Blinn, who fought free from the gator by jabbing his thumb in its eye, remained hospitalized Saturday with a cut hand, a broken index finger and several scratches. He denied regularly feeding the gators.

"I've thrown in a couple of squirrels," he conceded. "That's all."

Game officials, who brought in a trapper to kill the gator, said anyone who intentionally feeds an alligator is guilty of a second-degree misdemeanor.

Pig out on elephant cake

Halham Aly, 21 months, Winter Park, found fingers work as well as forks to finish every crumb of his piece of birthday cake, honoring Maude the elephant, who turned 17 at the Central Florida Zoological Park Saturday. Halham's dad, Ibrahim, holds the empty plate.

Best beaches in U.S.

Some visitors worry fame may spoil Florida's showcase

By BILL KACZOR
Associated Press Writer

GRAYTON BEACH — The quiet, secluded setting of Grayton Beach helped the state park rank as the continental United States' best beach in a survey of geologists and coastal experts.

Some visitors, however, are worried that new fame from the survey will erode those qualities by attracting too many people, said Carl Keen, manager of Grayton Beach State Recreation Area.

"Their statement is 'I saw it in the paper and that's going to ruin it,'" Keen said. "People are stingy when they find a little piece of heaven."

There are no hotdog stands, T-shirt shops, miniature golf courses, water slides or condominiums in or near the park.

It is pretty much the way nature made it: sugar-white sands, rolling dunes, sea oats, tidal lakes teeming with fish and crystal-clear waters of the Gulf of Mexico.

Relatively few people knew about this Florida Panhandle paradise until Stephen P. Leatherman, director of the University of Maryland's Laboratory for Coastal Research, released his survey last month.

The park had only 60,000 visitors in the year that ended June 30.

The blue-green waters that gave Walton County beaches and those in neighboring Okaloosa County the Emerald Coast nickname were an important factor in Grayton's ranking, Leatherman said.

"It's really surprising how clear it is," Leatherman said. "From an airplane you can see porpoises playing in the shallows."

Grayton's fine, white quartz sand that it shares with other Panhandle beaches was another contributing factor.

"It's probably the whitest sand we have in the country, short of places in Hawaii," Leatherman said.

Although tops on the continent, Grayton finished second nationally in Leatherman's survey to Kapalua, Hawaii, on the island of Maui. Panhandle beaches, however, claimed four of the top seven spots on the survey to only two for Hawaii.

Perdido Key State Recreation Area near Pensacola was third, St. Joseph State Park southeast of Panama City came in fifth, and Eastern Perdido Key, part of the Gulf Islands National Seashore near Pensacola, finished seventh.

Rounding out the top seven were Hapuna on the Big Island of Hawaii, fourth, and Bahia Honda State Recreation Area in the Florida Keys, sixth.

Thirty-two of the top 50 spots went to Florida beaches. Ranking behind Florida and Hawaii, in order, were North Carolina, New York, California, Texas, Delaware, Maryland, Alabama and Virginia.

Classical music video to give MTV competition

By CAROL PUGH
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI — Look out Madonna, Beethoven is finally catching up to the MTV generation.

Bill Patterson, a Tampa violinist, has been pecking away at his 3-year-old idea of combining the concepts of MTV with classical music in a videocassette called "Tropical Sweets."

"I think that Madonna needs a lot of competition," Patterson said. "It's really sad the most sensational message is the most available."

Ludwig Van Beethoven's "Moonlight Sonata" with the video's sequence of Apollo space mission film, deserves the same, if not better, billing as the head-banging or sexually explicit music videos now shown, Patterson said.

The 38-year-old thinks the music that has entertained for more than 100 years shouldn't disappear simply because the music was written before the advent of television.

"I was really concerned about classical music's survival in the contemporary world with so much visual music available," Patterson said. "It just seemed logical to me to bring classical music to the video medium."

The 40-minute videocassette uses classical music to set a mood of Florida serene sunrises, crashing ocean waves and graceful birds.

The entire video was filmed in Florida, including underwater scenes from the Florida Keys and NASA footage from several Apollo space missions.

POLICE BRIEFS

DUI charged

Mark Joseph Callahan, 30, of 229 Acorn Pine in Longwood was arrested on Thursday and charged with driving under the influence of alcohol.

Sheriff's officers pulled him over on County Road 419, just north of State Road 434 after he was observed weaving on and off the road and between lanes, the arrest report said.

Deputies also said that he failed to stop when police attempted to pull him over, but rather he ran off the road and then stopped.

He was transported to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility where he was held in lieu of $500 bond.

Man brought from Orange on warrant

Lamar Leon Mills, 36, of 1771 Burrow Lane of Sanford, was arrested on Thursday.

Mills was arrested in Orange County with an active warrant issued for his failure to appear in Seminole County Court for sentencing on other charges, the sheriff's office report said.

The report did not give details of his previous arrest. He is being held at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility without bond.

Fugitive from Michigan arrested

Lydia Dorcas Bradley, 35, of 414 Editha Circle in Sanford was arrested on Thursday.

Bradley was a fugitive from Michigan on three felony charges of writing worthless checks, police said.

She was arrested at her home and transported to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility where she is being held without bond.

She will be extradited to Michigan to face charges.

Traffic stop leads to arrest

Michael Ray Allen, 27, of 2890 Garden Dr. in Sanford was arrested on Thursday.

He was charged with driving with a suspended drivers license, with being a habitual traffic offender. A computer check revealed that there were also two active warrants for writing worthless checks, police said.

He was transported to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility where he is being held without bond.

Drug charges filed

Jeffrey Cardell Butler, 28, of 2751 W. 18th St. in Sanford, was arrested on Thursday.

He was charged with possession of a controlled substance, with resisting arrest without violence and with drug-related loitering.

Arrested in the area of Southwest Road and 18th Street, Butler had in his possession a pill bottle containing items which resembled crack cocaine, but which was not, police said.

He was transported to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility where he was held in lieu of $1,000 bond.

Warrant arrests

Robert Allen Keller, 21, of 232 Needles Tr. in Longwood, was arrested on Thursday.

He was arrested for violating his probation on charges of alcohol by an underage person, possession of cannabis and possession of drug paraphernalia, police said.

He was originally stopped by police for speeding.

He was transported to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility where he was held on $500 bond.

Gregory A. Dillard, 22, 108 Willow Drive, Lake Mary, was arrested Wednesday by Longwood police near the intersection of County Road 427 and Shoemate Drive. He was wanted for driving with a suspended license. Arrest reports show his license was suspended two times in June for failing to pay fines.

John Murphy Rowe, 29, 174 Lakeside Drive, Sanford, was arrested at his home Wednesday. He was wanted for failing to appear at a court hearing to answer to driving with a suspended license charge.

Phillip Wayne Hamlin, 34, 2017 Hibiscus Court, Sanford, turned himself in at the Seminole County jail. He was wanted in Volusia County to face grand theft charges filed in June.

Midway multi-rape case still under investigation

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Prosecutors at the Seminole County State Attorney's Office have not completed their review of the Midway gang rape case four weeks after a Sanford woman reported she was assaulted by 15 men.

"We have the reports and we are reviewing the case," said assistant state attorney Jack Scalera. "Of course, we want to do it as quickly and as thoroughly as possible."

Scalera refused to comment on whether they would ask a grand jury to review the evidence against four black men identified by the white victim as rapists. There are no other charges pending, Scalera said, but an investigation is continuing.

It was July 21 when the woman reported to Seminole County deputies she had been forced by a black man who wielded a knife into a car driving alongside her on Palmetto Street and taken to an unknown place where she was forced to have sex with up to 15 men.

The woman told deputies a woman helped her escape through a back window of the home and she fled to State Road 46, where another woman drove her home.

Sheriff Don Eslinger ordered a raid on the building, a boarding house on Sipes Avenue, Monday afternoon and about two dozen deputies and agents swarmed into Midway with the victim riding in a car with darkened windows. From her obscured vantage point, the victim identified four men she said assaulted her.

Robert Lee Williams, 47, William Henry O'Neal, 20, Joseph Watkins Jr., 20, and a 16-year-old youth, all of Midway, were arrested and charged with sexual assault, as a result of the victim's identifications.

The raid and arrests caused an uproar in the low-income black community. Residents asserted Eslinger wouldn't have staged the raid if the woman was black. Many questioned whether the incident occurred as the woman said it had.

Apparently not entirely. On July 23, the woman failed a question on a polygraph test given her by sheriff's investigators, said spokesman George Proechel. Proechel said the lie detector indicated she was not telling the truth when she said she was abducted. She had gone willingly with the two men, apparently to buy drugs, Proechel said.

Reclaimed water gains popularity

SANFORD — Construction in the city's reclaimed water distribution system continues. The latest project is underway at Kaywood Subdivision.

The program which takes low cost, highly treated wastewater to utility customers primarily for irrigation, began early this Spring with those interested customers who live along or across from the 16 mile main distribution loop.

According to the city's Program Coordinator, Bill Marcous, "We had a very strong response from this area when we originally sent out our questionnaires on the matter in Spring of 1989." He added, "We used these results to basically dictate where we would begin the reclaimed water distribution."

In addition to Kaywood, located in the extreme western section of Sanford on S.R. 46 A, the current program expansion also includes the neighborhoods of Mayfair Villas, Idyllwild, The Oaks, and Country Place.

Subterfuge

All the credit that South Africa's white-ruled government has built up by systematically stripping away racist laws and moving toward reconciliation with the black majority has been jeopardized by revelations that security forces secretly have financed the more conservative of the country's two major black political organizations. Repairing the damage won't be easy. Still, it must be done quickly if the reconciliation process is to continue.

President F.W. deKlerk admits that security forces secretly funded Inkatha, the black political faction whose most militant adherents have been waging a virtual war with the rival African National Congress but says he knew nothing about it.

He also concedes that the government tried to influence the 1989 election in neighboring Namibia, governed until then from Pretoria, by funding moderate groups against the African nationalist party that narrowly won. DeKlerk says covert financing of black groups has stopped, and he has demoted the two Cabinet ministers mainly responsible.

These are positive steps, but the revelations tarnish, to say the least, the statesmanlike image that the president has acquired abroad since he took office two years ago. Not surprisingly, anti-apartheid forces long skeptical of the government's motives say that their suspicions have been confirmed: the ANC now demands the government's resignation and the appointment of a caretaker administration while constitutional talks proceed.

That's not going to happen, as ANC leaders know. And however justified their sense of betrayal is, the likeliest alternative to dealing with deKlerk and his government — even more violence — would be far worse. The embarrassment caused by this incident puts the regime on the defensive and makes it more likely, not less, that it will seek to demonstrate its sincerity by negotiating seriously to give blacks equality.

Even before this incident, deKlerk had reduced the size and political influence of military and police forces, and removed them from most areas of tension. His demotion of the defense and police ministers may be a damage-control exercise, but it also may be another step in this process.

In the circumstances of the moment, that conclusion requires a certain leap of faith, but in the context of South Africa's recent history, it's a leader who, certainly compared with his predecessors, deserves another chance to prove that his intentions are as honorable as they still appear to be.

Berry's World

"I would like to marry you, but I'm already married — to my JOB."

Bookertown: a family community

Bookertown is a proud community of African-Americans nestled west of Interstate 4 next to Lake Monroe. The streets that comprise the perimeter of Bookertown are: Dunbar on the east, Halsey on the west, Orange Boulevard on the north and Richard Allen on the south.

Bookertown is a family community because over 95 percent of the inhabitants are related by blood or marriage. They value the tradition started by the first settlers of Bookertown who settled here during the last quarter of the 19th century. They were principally farm and railroad workers. They possessed great love of God, the land and the desire for home ownership. They envisioned a community of families who owned land and kept the land within the family for generations.

Religion was very important in the lives of the Bookertown residents. Any student of African-American history will affirm the salient role the Black Church has played and continues to impact the lives of their constituencies. The Providence Missionary Baptist Church was organized in 1917, with the Reverend Henry Manning as the guiding force. The church edifice was erected in 1937 during the pastorate of the Reverend D.S. Session. Some of the members of Providence Missionary Baptist Church left and formed the Rose Hill Missionary Baptist Church in 1930. Both churches continue to serve the community.

GENEVA SPANON

LURLINE SWEETING

Bookertown was named for Booker Taliferro Washington, the founder of Tuskegee Institute in 1881. Washington's life is an inspiration to any poor (economically) youngster with a thirst for knowledge and burning desire to share that knowledge with others. Educated at Hampton Institute in Virginia, Washington was firmly committed to the work ethic. He indicated that one of the greatest lessons he learned at Hampton was to "love labor for the independence and self reliance which the ability to do something which the world wants done, brings." At the turn of the twentieth century, Washington was the foremost African-American spokesman. Industrialists and presidents sought his advice, among them were Andrew Carnegie, John D. Rockefeller, Theodore Roosevelt and William Howard Taft.

Critics of Booker T. Washington often cite his address at the Atlanta Exposition in 1895 as an endorsement of the separate but equal philosophy that prevailed in America during that time. However, the contributions that he and Mary McLeod Bethune made to the education of students of African descent was phenomenal. Mary McLeod Bethune founded Bethune Cookman College. Both Tuskegee and Bethune are still educating many students of all races.

It was proper that a community of hardworking people would be named Bookertown. The community exemplified the work ethic to which Booker T. Washington subscribed.

According to Carlton Edge, President of the Bookertown Civic Association, they have approximately 125 households and 400 residents. Some of the families that have been here for generations are the: Sessions, Holts, Freemans, Williams, Kettis, Bradwells, Scotts, Thompsons, Cains and Edges.

It has been customary for the children to grow up and remain in the community. The families reject the idea of selling the land to an outsider. However, Edge indicated that there are about ten families living in the community who rent their houses. For the past two years I have had a tutoring project at the Bookertown Civic Center and have come to know and respect the families who live there.

JACK ANDERSON

Veterans fight for their day in court

WASHINGTON — American veterans are learning a painful legal lesson at the hands of the U.S. government: Any man who represents himself has a fool for a client. In this case, the clients are the nation's veterans, who are increasingly finding themselves outgunned and outmaneuvered when they seek redress from the government agency created to champion their cause.

When the original Department of Veterans Affairs was created after the Civil War, legislators envisioned a haven of justice, without the often costly and unscrupulous intrusion of lawyers. The Board of Veterans Affairs within the Veterans Administration would serve as the supreme court for all disputes between veterans and the agency.

Congress established the Court of Veterans Appeals (COVA) in 1968 to give disgruntled veterans a vehicle for appeal of decisions impacting on their benefits. More than 80 percent of those veterans who come before COVA represent themselves. There they are pitted against seasoned VA attorneys in "adversarial" proceedings.

Most cases before the court are decided solely on the basis of written testimony. The average veteran is ill-equipped to draft legal briefs. Those briefs are vital because the court considers only prior evidence and has heard oral testimony in a mere 49 out of its first 2,900 cases. "They are totally at sea," said COVA Chief Justice Frank Q. Nebeker, "which (causes) hardship all the way around."

The complexity of the law and the low profit margin in representing veterans has discouraged many attorneys from taking on these cases. Veteran groups try to fill the void but can only help in around 10 percent of the cases, and even then the assistance is provided usually by non-lawyers.

Thus, there is a colossal mismatch in most veterans' disputes: The resources of the Goliath VA bureaucracy and its attorneys vs. the Davids of the veterans' community. Even when a veteran pulls an upset with a mere alinghot, often the VA doesn't comply with COVA rulings, sources told our reporter Larry Mastbaum. Moreover, the VA often fails to disseminate court rulings to its regional offices, which make preliminary decisions regarding veteran benefits.

One internal VA document notes: "None of the (agency's) services have made any procedural or regulatory changes as the result of COVA decisions (and) not all services report they are receiving information on COVA decisions or reviewing applicable decisions."

It all adds up to the fact that veterans are finding it ever harder to get their day in court.

DEJA VU ALL OVER AGAIN — It was a decade ago that the seeds of the savings and loan crisis were sown. Powerful thrift lobbyists scored one of the biggest political coups ever on Capitol Hill when they won the passage of the Garn-St Germain bill. It virtually deregulated the nation's thrifts, allowing them to invest and speculate in areas they had been barred from for more than 50 years. They weren't rolling the dice with their own money, but rather with federally insured deposits. Ten years later, taxpayers are forced to foot a $500 billion bill for the excesses.

Is history repeating itself? Some financial sources believe the answer is yes. Congress is now considering greatly relaxing the regulations governing the nation's 15,000 commercial banks, tearing down the walls separating banking from other forms of commerce.

ELLEN GOODMAN

George and the talking house

BOSTON — Those of us who live outside of Our Nation's Capital have long regarded Washington as a sort of surreal place where all the buildings talk. The most garrulous of these structures, by far, being the White House.

Reporters are constantly leading their stories with the straight-faced remark that "The White House said today...." Even Marlin Fitzwater is routinely described as a White House spokesman. Poor thing, is he the medium for the mansion?

This reaches heights of absurdity when the Bushes go north. The dateline now is Kennebunkport, Maine. But the lead is still "The White House said today." Why not at least, "the rambling, shingled summer house by the ocean said today"? There is however, a nugget of truth in this linguistic ailment. Wherever the president goes, so goes his office, whether it's Oval or recreational. Like the 300-pound gorilla who sleeps wherever he wants to, the president can work wherever he wants to.

In this, I like to think that Bush is indeed the leader of the free world. The free work world.

He is the most visible model for the concept called "flexi-place," the recognition that work isn't limited to one site and neither should workers be. As Paul Rupert, associate director of New Ways to Work says succinctly, "More and more of what we do can be done anywhere."

Fewer Americans make widgets or grow corn. Our work is more dependent on information that can be picked up and sent off from virtually anywhere. Even home.

The best available figures count about five million Americans in addition to the First Man now telecommuting from home one or more days a week. If "telecommuting" elicits images of a computer, that's not the only tool. The essential link is actually the phone and its youngest offspring, the FAX machine, and voice mail.

Not all workers carry a little doomsday box in their briefcases when they move from one site to another. But it's estimated that as many as 20 million Americans could work at home at least part of the time. The advantages are obvious. You save time: commuting time, dressing time, meeting time, wasted time. You save money: gas, workclothes, lunch.

But the biggest plus says the San Francisco-based-but-roaming Rupert, "is the remarkable amount of uninterrupted thinking time. Getting work done in the office is pretty much like trying to get well in a hospital." The real healing happens when you're released.

No one is pleading to close down the office and turn it into a friendly phone bank. The most fervent fan of flexi-place acknowledges that if people aren't in the office with some regularity, they lose the connection, the face-to-face contact that produces a sense of joint enterprise. They can become invisible.

People also go to work for what was called by an erudite researcher, "the schmoose factor," being with and talking with people they like.

But the resistance to working at home usually comes on other grounds. It comes from managers who worry about the body count. If they can't see an employee, they ask, how do they know he or she is working?

When Rupert hears this, he replies carefully, "If the only way you know they are working is if they are there, your systems of managing aren't, uh, very precise."

Which brings us back to George and Barbara and the talking summer house. The president is both Chief Executive Officer and in democratic theory, the Chief Employee. As CEO, when he embarks on Kennebunkport, those around him — from staff to reporters — pick up their flexi-offices and go where he goes.

As CE, however, the public sometimes behaves like wary managers. Last summer during the Iraqi crisis, Bush felt compelled to leave Maine and return to Washington on at least three occasions. This August, he proves that he's on the job and constantly "in touch" by giving interviews from the golf cart. Talk about flexible work: Wearing one glove, he looks like a cross between Michael Jackson and Arnold Palmer.

But for those of us still toiling away in the office instead of on the green, there is a delicious precedent in the presidency. Now all we need is a new dateline. Kennebunkport, Maine: The Flexi-Office said today....

Wearing one glove, he looks like a cross between Michael Jackson and Arnold Palmer.

 additional information?
 As Yes. First about the name of the Negro fireman killed in the wreck. We had four calls but believe it or not we got four different names.
 We had one report that his name was Richard Austin. Next we were told that while they didn't know his first name, his last name was Cagle.
 We also had a report that his name was Rodman Williams. Finally, former ACL locomotive engineer Bob Futrell, 86 and now retired, called to say the fireman's name was Ed Johnson.

As for Patsy Bandy, Sanford old timer Eunice Horton informs us that Patsy is now Mrs. Tom Anderson. She lives at 925 North Wild Olive Avenue, Apt. 5, Daytona Beach.

Some time ago you did some very interesting articles about various Sanford families — especially those which a large number of children. Do you plan more?

As Yes, we do. We have so many of them we don't know where to begin. There's the Benton family, then the Biggers family and then the Coleman family. So let's mention the C.E. Benton family today.
 He and his wife, Minnie Belle, had six children — all boys. They were Herbert, Julian Kenneth (better known as Buck), Morris, Truett and C.E., Jr., better known as Edgar.
 Today only Edgar and Morris survive. No set of brothers ever had finer parents than the Benton boys. The senior Benton at one time operated a livery stable in downtown at the east end of First Street when it stopped at Sanford Avenue.

 Now, before we hear from dozens of you folks telling me that the livery stable referred to was the one belonging to E.E. Brady let us assure you that there were two livery stables there.

It's no secret that Sanford once was known as "The Celery City." And, it's no secret that Sanford is officially known as "The Friendly City." But did you know that at one time Sanford was once known as "The City Substantial?"

As Not until we got a call one day from folks down at the Senkarik Paint & Glass Company on Magnolia Avenue between Second and Third Streets.

So we went and took a look for ourselves. Sure enough, there was a sign about two feet square that proclaims Sanford as "The City Substantial."

And while we're talking about the Senkarik's, how many of you can recall the five sons of John and Katherine Senkarik.

They are John, Jerry, Joe, Dan and Eddie. Of the five, two are retired. That's John, who now resides in Sebring, and Joe, who lives in Marianna where he was in the publishing business.

Dan has a battery business in Lakeland. Jerry and Eddie are still in Sanford where they operate the Senkarik business here.

By the way the Senkarik's had two girls. Edna, who is the wife of Bill Southward, and Anna, now deceased.

And it wouldn't be kind to close this article without letting you folks know that Jerry and Eddie have served the local community in many ways for numerous years through Jerry's membership in the Sanford Kiwanis Club and Eddie's membership in the Sanford-Seminole Breakfast Kiwanis Club.

Water

 ing restrictions have been eased.

The city of Sanford reported pumping about 5.4 million gallons a day for residents during July, only slightly less than June, but nearly 5 percent less than May. The city's highest demand for water came in May 1990, when the city pumped an average of 6.7 million gallons per day from the ground.

The demand for water also declined in Oviedo. The city pumped an average of 1.6 million gallons each day from the ground, more than 21 percent less than the month before.

 the businesses of the area could total $3 million this year.

"One of the reasons behind the many years of success we've had with the games," Jernigan said, "was through donations and volunteer work obtained from the many civic, social and fraternal clubs, as well as the support we've had from many businesses in the area."

The actual games will begin with the official opening ceremonies on the north lawn of the Civic Center on Sunday, November 3. "Jernigan said, "The Torch lighting will take place at 1 p.m. that day, and we'll introduce local dignitaries, and our honorary chairman." While he would not reveal the identity of the man he is hoping to obtain to serve as honorary chairman, he said, "I guarantee you, if we can get him to be at our games, he will spur a great many additional people to visit the games and attend the ceremonies."

 Darlene Boyle of Deltona said she came to the party because it was her 17th birthday too.

"It was too cool to have a celebrity with the same birthday," she said. "I couldn't let this opportunity pass without coming to her party."

Farmer said that the crowd was as good or better than she expected.

"I'm really happy with the turnout," she said.

nia." The person selected has always been prominent in the sports world, especially in the areas of Olympic competition.

Advance registration is meeting expectations. Since registration opened in May, over 100 persons have already signed up. Jernigan expected participants from possibly as many as 37 states, plus some from England, Canada, Puerto Rico, and possibly New Zealand.

A sign-in registration area will be set up at the Sanford Civic Center for one week prior to the beginning of this year's games, but advance reservations are already being accepted.

In describing the history of the games, originally called the Golden Age Olympics, Jernigan said, "When we started working on this, 18 years ago, we had several missions to accomplish. Sanford was starting to become a center for seniors who were retiring and moving here. It was becoming a tourist place rather than the farming community of years ago."

He continued, "Another fact is that between Labor Day and Thanksgiving, it's practically dog days for merchants, and we wanted something to help keep the Sanford economy going. Thirdly," he added, "we wanted to perpetuate a program that would effect and impact a quality type of physical fitness and a mental outlook."

Among the dozens of events for competition during the games are sailing and various types of boating, tennis, bowling, swimming, checkers, billiards, basketball, badminton.

He continued, "Our committee has produced a pamphlet about the school for distribution to anyone interested in relocating to northwest Seminole County." Miller said the committee is also working on a similar publication dealing with Seminole High School, expected to be completed before the start of this fall's 1991-92 school term.

All of Friday's events including the bus tour and luncheon, were financed through contributions by local private and business organizations.

Subway intends to expand

ORLANDO — Fred DeLuca, the sultan of subs who parlayed a $1,000 investment into the nation's largest submarine-sandwich factory, said he intends to add 2,500 Subway Sandwiches & Salads outlets by 1995.

Today, there are 5,450 little yellow subway franchises, in every U.S. state and Canadian province, Aruba and Australia, the Bahamas and Bahrain, Saudi Arabia.

But DeLuca, 43, isn't ready to rest on his subway buns quite yet.

At a convention of subway franchisees that ended here Tuesday, DeLuca told The Orlando Sentinel for today's editions he expects to add 2,500 Subway outlets by 1995.

McDonald's, the nation's largest franchised restaurant, has more than 8,000 locations.

Subway, started when DeLuca was just 17, is running neck-and-neck with Burger King as the third- and fourth-largest restaurant chains in the country. DeLuca said he expects Subway's saturation point to be about 10,000 locations.

Ace Hardware's new garden center open

SANFORD — Ace Hardware, 205 E. 25th Street in Sanford, has now opened its new garden center. Although a center has been operating at the rear of the building for several months, the area has now been doubled in size and completely redesigned.

Bob Parsell, owner of Ace Hardware said, "We were able to complete this expansion because the people of the area have been very good to us in our business, and we wanted to do whatever we could to improve our product offerings."

The new garden center is covered. It has special flower beds for displays, trails and comfortable benches. Parsell indicated it has not only been designed for sales, but for relaxation during shopping.

"We have a special truck load of plants coming in for a special Labor Day sale," Parsell said. "We'll have over one thousand crotons, hibiscus, heather, and other plants."

Ace Hardware will observe its 13th year of operation in Sanford this November. It started with a 2,400 square foot building on Sanford Avenue, and is now located in a building with over 20,000 square feet.

Hewlett-Packard unveils new computers

Associated Press

PALO ALTO, Calif. — While IBM founders, Apple Computer Inc. shrinks and Unisys Corp. bleeds, Hewlett-Packard Co. is on a roll this year.

First, it unveiled computer workstations that provide the highest performance for their price in the industry.

It followed with a calculator-sized computer that packs the power of an early IBM personal computer and contains a built-in version of the popular 1-2-3 spreadsheet program.

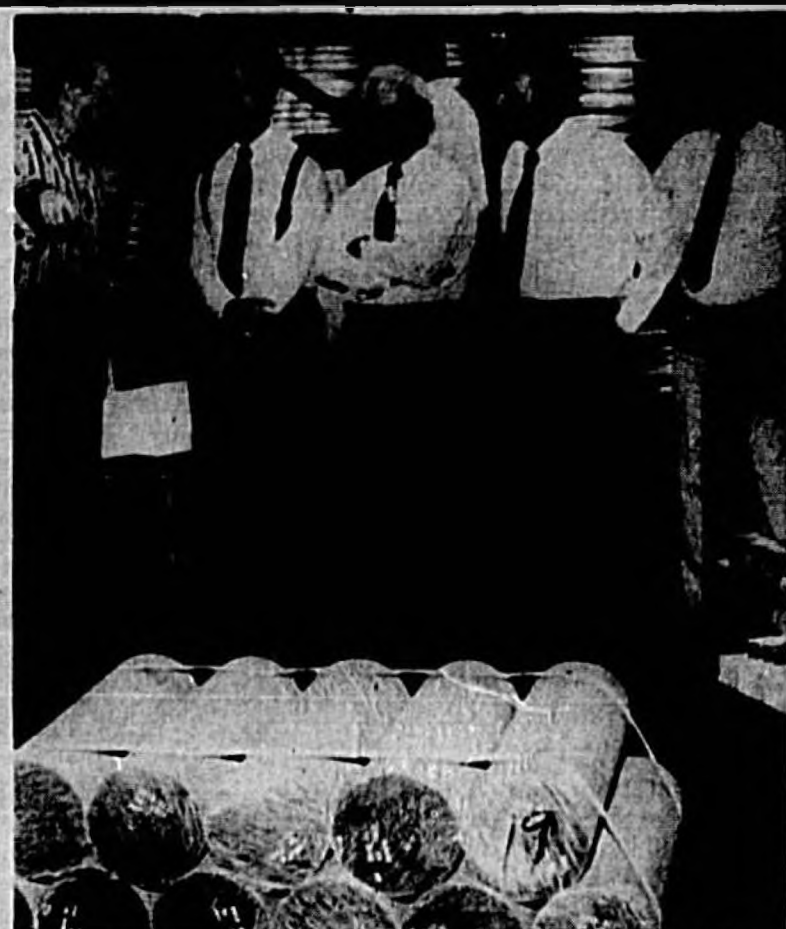

Recently, HP announced a series of minicomputers that boast the same industry-leading performance as the smaller-sized workstations.

All along, the company's financial results have remained strong — in sharp contrast with many other computer makers, which are resorting to layoffs, plant closings or other cutbacks to contend with sickly sales and profits.

Not bad for a company that analysts were criticizing a year ago for sluggishness.

Back then, HP seemed to be losing its touch. It was behind in the fiercely competitive market for workstations, the desktop machines that resemble

So How Do I Pay For It?

I used to think our two-seater was the perfect way to go. But not anymore. Now we need a family-size car.

And I couldn't be happier. The only question is, how do I pay for it!

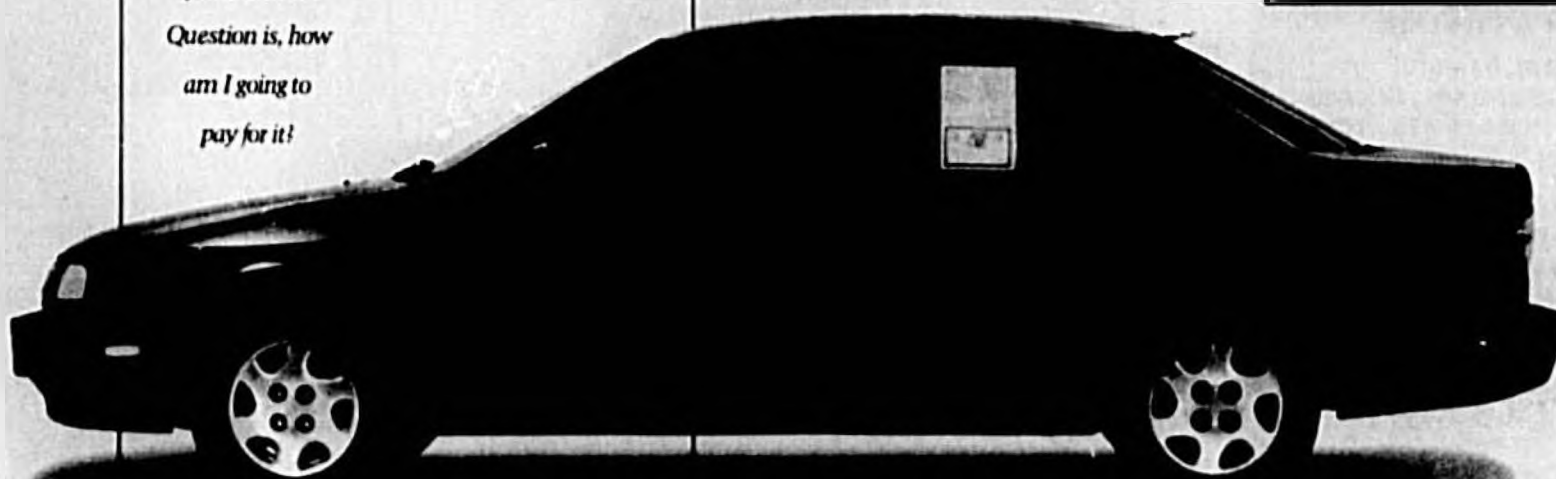

I need some adventure in my life. Maybe a four-wheel drive. I could run it down to the lake. Or go all out through the mud. Come to think of it, I could take it anywhere! Now how do I pay for it!

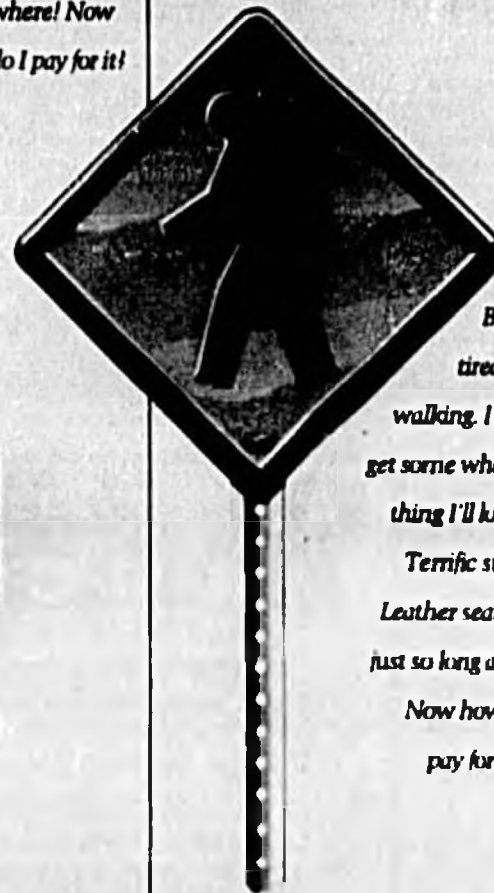

But how alternator. Now am I going to pay for it!

First it was an oil leak. Next came the transmission. Then the battery's dead. I think it's trying to tell me something. As in 'time for a new car'!

It's perfect. The right style. The right color. It gets great gas mileage. Has plenty of trunk space. I love it. Question is, how am I going to pay for it!

Just Ask.

Boy, I'm tired of walking. I've gotta get some wheels. First thing I'll look for! Terrific stereo. Leather seats. Well, just so long as it runs. Now how do I pay for it!

AUTO RACING

Wallace hopes to continue rally

BROOKLYN, Mich. — Rusty Wallace's voice has been barely audible to the leaders in the NASCAR Winston Cup standings this season.

Wallace, who only two years ago won the series title and was considered a major threat in every race, had a mediocre 1990 and started slowly this year with a new team formed by Wallace, Roger Penske and Don Miller.

Going into today's Champion Spark Plug 400 at Michigan International Speedway, Wallace is eighth in the standings, trailing leader Dale Earnhardt by 472 points with 11 races left.

But there has been a definite uptick for Wallace and his team since a 17th-place finish here June 23 in the Miller Genuine Draft 400. He has had one win, two other top-five finishes and three other top-10 finishes.

Wallace, who qualified 23rd for the June race, took the ninth spot in today's 40-car field and heads into the 200-lap race on the high-banked two-mile oval trailing Ken Schrader, seventh in the standings, by 71 points.

A fall full of activities

Sanford Recreation Department to offer something for everyone

By DEAN SMITH
Herald Sports Writer

SANFORD — "Rain, rain go away come again some other day."

That could have been this summer's theme song of the Sanford Recreation Department, which had more than its share of problems coping with Mother Nature.

But with all the summer leagues finally completed and despite a short off season for the recreation staff, preparations for the fall seasons are in full swing with athletic diversions available for everyone.

GIRLS' SOFTBALL

As reported earlier, the Sanford Recreation

Department will offer softball for girls between the ages of 9 and 16 for the first time in the fall. The league will feature two divisions, the Juniors (for girls 9-12) and Seniors (for girls 13-16). This will be the first time that 16 year olds have been allowed to play in the girls league.

Play is set to start Saturday, Sept. 14. All girls who register will make a team.

ROAD RACE

Also coming up next month will be the annual Sanford Lakeside 8K Road Race, scheduled to be run Saturday, Sept. 21, starting at 7:30 a.m. More information about the event will appear next week.

FLAG FOOTBALL

Jim Schaefer, athletics supervisor for the Sanford Recreation Department, has announced that registration for the Youth Flag Football League is being accepted at this time.

The flag football league is set to begin play on Saturday, Sept. 14, at McKibbin Park, which is just off West 25th street at the end of Chase Ave.

There will be two divisions, the Junior Boys (ages 7-9) and the Senior Boys (ages 10-12). The length of the season will depend on the number of teams that make up the league, but the season should run from six to eight weeks. It will cost $6 to register and proof of age will be required. All boys who register will make a team.

The league is seeking for sponsors for the teams at a cost of $75 each. The league is also looking for individuals who would be interested in coaching a team this fall.

Last year there were four teams in each league but Schaefer is confident there could be more this year.

"We lose the kids that were 12 last year," said Schaefer. "But with the kids that will move up" See Recreation, Page 3B

All's fairly quiet on the prep coaching front

By ROBBIE STOCK
Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — The winds of change have missed Seminole County's athletic programs.

Due to a number of reasons — including recent budget cuts — few coaches have switched schools, leaving squads with a solid foundation for this upcoming year. In fact, Lake Brantley and Lake Mary made more changes last year than the entire county did this one.

"There's not a whole lot in the way of teaching (positions)," said Seminole athletic director Jerry Posey. "Plus, if a coach wants to move to a different school, there's not much of a chance of that. It's that way everywhere."

At Seminole, the only major coaching change is Bill Klein taking over the boy's varsity basketball team. Klein replaces Greg Robinson, who moved to an administrative position at Jackson Heights Middle School. Klein coached the squad for one year before Robinson got the job.

Oviedo leads the county in changes with six. The fall sports were hit the hardest: athletes in volleyball, swimming and cross country will line up under new direction this season.

Dale Reichard will instruct the Lion boy's volleyball team. He will be assisted by Tim DeZego. Trying to revamp the Lion's swimming program will be Mark Hartman (who will coach the boy's team) and Deborah Jepson (who will coach the girls). Tom Smith and Jay Getty succeed longtime cross country coach Ed Bolton.

Varsity girl's soccer coach Gene Lescalette will double as the girl's tennis coach while Robert

One of the few changes among the Seminole County prep coaching ranks has Doug Peters retaking the reins of the Lake Mary wrestling program after a one-year hiatus.

Gustafson, who coached both the boys and girls last year, will concentrate on the boy's team.

Oviedo has yet to name a replacement for retired softball coach Jackie Miller.

Lake Mary, which had a county-high 10 changes last year, came back with just four this year. Current head football coach Doug Peters will once again lead the Ram wrestler as they try to regain the SAC title, which they lost for the first time last year. Varsity boy's soccer coach Larry McCorkle will help Peters with the football team this year. And Willie Calloway looks to keep the boy's track team running in the right direction as he succeeds Harry Nelson, who retired. See Coaches, Page 3B

Sanford Officials Association grows along with city

By DEAN SMITH
Herald Sport Writer

SANFORD -- This weekend, Sanford played host to a group of men and women who are spending several hours in the classroom, taking tests and running around in the hot sun to join an elite association of the most hated people in sports.

They were learning to be umpires.

The 20 to 30 men and women in attendance went through a four-hour rules clinic, eight hours of on-the-field work on mechanics and then took a certification test to see if the prospective umpire is cut out for the job.

All of this hard work for a hobby that puts one in a no-win situation.

Get the call right, no matter how tough the call is, and no one thanks you because that's what you get paid to do. Get a call wrong and it seems like the whole world is against you.

And getting a call right is no guarantee that you will be respected because even a right call can be bad to 50 percent of the players involved.

The Sanford Officials Association conducted an Amateur Softball Association (ASA) umpire clinic to certify the group as ASA officials. The ones who pass the test will join 57,000 other ASA umpires, the largest umpires' association in America.

While the Sanford Officials Association's main efforts are geared toward softball, the group also works several other recreational sports.

"While we do supply the umpires for the Sanford adult softball leagues, we also supply umpires to the Sanford Church League, the Sanford Recreation Department Girls Softball League, the Sanford Recreation Department's Little Major, Pee Wee and Babe Ruth Baseball Leagues, as well as other leagues throughout the county," said Sanford Officials Association President Duane LaFollette.

In addition to the baseball and softball leagues, the association also supplies referees for the Sanford Recreation Department's Youth Basketball and Flag Football Leagues.

The amount of work the association is getting and the number of officials involved is amazing considering that just four years ago, only five people were working with the Recreation Department as officials.

"Actually, there were just three of us," said LaFollette. "A change in the paper work and some of the requirements of the city made it almost impossible for part-timers to work."

"But even after the idea of an association was started there were only about 10 of us doing all the work. Rocky (Sanford Recreation Superintendent Ellingsworth) coming here made all the difference."

"His initiative and know-how got us over the edge and the association has been growing ever since. Rocky takes a lot of his personal time to teach these guys what it takes to be a top umpire. He also teaches them how to umpire and also

Hurricanes, Seminoles help lead college football in a new direction

By ROCK WARREN
AP Football Writer

Miami is in the Big East and Notre Dame is on NBC. Florida State is in limbo and a better bowl system is on the way.

Welcome to the brave new world of college football, where new conferences, new TV deals and new alliances are shaking up a sport that has long prided itself on tradition and stability.

The Big East, which rose to prominence as a basketball league, makes its debut as a football conference this season with such marquee members as Miami, Pittsburgh and West Virginia. Although everyone won't play a full league schedule until 1993, the team with the highest national ranking at the end of the season will be crowned conference champion.

"You give us five years and I think we will have the same impact as the SEC, the Pac-10 and the Big Ten," West Virginia coach Don Nehlen said.

While the Big East begins, Arkansas bids farewell to the Southwest Conference and Florida State and South Carolina play their final season as independents. Arkansas and South Carolina will join the Southeastern Conference in 1992, while Florida State becomes a member of the Atlantic Coast Conference.

The SEC and ACC are part of a groundbreaking alliance designed to improve bowl matchups and increase the chances of a clear-cut national championship game, beginning with the 1992 season. The coalition includes four major bowls (Orange, Cotton, Sugar and Fiesta), five conferences (SEC, SWC, Big Eight, ACC and Big East) and Notre Dame, the only team with its own national television contract.

Starting this season, NBC will televise all Notre Dame home games for the next five years. The Fighting Irish angered other members of the College Football Association when they broke away and negotiated their own $30 million deal with NBC, thus reducing the value of the CFA's contracts with ESPN and ABC by about $50 million.

By adding the CFA to its Big Ten-Pac 10 deal, ABC has become the dominant network for college football. So dominant that the Federal Trade Commission considers it a virtual monopoly that limits the number of games available on national television.

An administrative judge dismissed the FTC's antitrust suit against ABC and the CFA earlier this month, but the agency is appealing the decision. A ruling is expected by early November.

Not all changes in college football are happening off the field.

In an effort to reduce the number of chip-shot field goals, the distance between the goalposts has been narrowed by 20 percent — from 23 feet, 4 inches, to the NFL width of 18-6. It will actually be harder to make field goals in college now because the hash marks are wider than in the pros, meaning kickers will be forced to kick from sharper angles.

"Sometimes, with the old uprights, you could kick it bad and it would still squeak through. I don't think that's going to happen anymore," South Carolina's Marty Simpson said. "But if you kick the ball good, it shouldn't make any difference."

While kickers adjust to new goalposts, 16 Division I-A teams must adjust to new coaches. The most noteworthy name is Jackie Sherrill, who was lured out of coaching exile by Mississippi State.

Sherrill was a big winner at Pittsburgh and Texas A&M before leaving the Aggies under a cloud of controversy after the 1988 season. Now he will try to turn around a sagging program in Starkville, where the Bulldogs have had only one winning season since 1981.

"We've got all the ingredients for success," Sherrill said. "Mississippi State is a sleeping giant."

Giants such as Florida State, Michigan, Penn State, Miami and Notre Dame are almost always awake. Once again, they're among the leading contenders for the national title, along with Florida, Washington, Georgia Tech, Houston, Oklahoma, Tennessee and Texas.

Penn State and Georgia Tech meet in the season-opening Kickoff Classic on Aug. 28 at the Meadowlands in East Rutherford, N.J. The following night, Florida State plays BYU in the Pigskin Classic at Anaheim, Calif.

Florida State has finished in the top four the past four seasons, but never No. 1. A lot of people expect that to change this season because the Seminoles have almost everyone back from last year's 10-2 team plus a great group of freshmen.

"I would like to win a national championship real bad, but not enough to cut my wrist," coach Bobby Bowden said. "I'm just not obsessed with it. But please don't tell my alumni."

Oklahoma, Houston and Florida are out of postseason prison after being barred from bowls last season because of NCAA violations. Minnesota and Oklahoma State are the only schools ineligible to play in a bowl this season.

"It's good knowing that life exists after the regular season," Houston coach John Jenkins said.

Not, alas, for the All American Bowl, which folded after 14 years. That still leaves 18 bowls, including eight on New Year's Day.

In recent years, the bowl selection process has turned into a chaotic mess, with officials brazenly ignoring the bid date in a scramble to get the best teams. To cut down on the blatant cheating, bowl officials have instituted fines of up to $250,000 for any bowl that closes a deal before the Nov. 17 selection date.

In another postseason change, all bowl teams must have at least six victories over Division I-A opponents, a rule that would have prevented North Carolina State from playing in the All American Bowl last season.

The All American Bowl is gone, but Heisman Trophy winner Ty Detmer is back. The BYU quarterback needs 426 yards to become the NCAA's career passing leader and has a chance to become only the second player to win two Heismans. Ohio State's Archie Griffin did it in 1974-75.

"Winning two Heismans would be a great accomplishment, but I haven't thought about it much," Detmer said. "This is a new year and a new team. A lot of things can happen."

It was just four years ago that the Sanford Officials Association was only of Duane LaFollette (left) and two others. Now the SOA consists of 32 full- and part-time members.

Officials

how to umpire and also how to look like an umpire."

Ellingsworth, who will be umpiring in his fourth ASA National Tournament next month, said he was proud of the growth of the group.

"Since I came here, the size of the association has tripled," said Ellingsworth. "And it looks like we might get another 10-20 into the association this weekend. The guys have worked hard to make themselves good umpires."

Ellingsworth has invited Reggie Sigmon, who runs the Red Bug Recreation Facility for the Seminole County Recreation Department, as guest instructor this weekend. Sigmon is an ex-major league umpire who has worked six ASA national tournaments.

Both men are members of the National Indicator Fraternity, the second highest level that an ASA umpire can achieve, and just came back from umpiring in the ASA Class "C" State Tournament in DeLand last weekend.

Jim Moses of the DeLand Recreation Department, and tournament director last week, was so impressed with Ellingsworth and Sigmon's work that he sent 10 to 15 umpires from DeLand to the Sanford clinic.

The Sanford Officials Association currently has approximately 20 full time members with a total of 32 people on the books.

"Our group includes two men who come down from Indianapolis to work the winter circuit and three women," said LaFollette. "They come from a wide range of jobs. Some are mechanics, school teachers, law enforcement officers, business owners, to just mention a few."

While umpiring is a good way to pick up some extra money it is not the main reason most of these people umpire, said LaFollette.

"Most of them are in it for the fun, recreation and enjoyment they get out of it," said LaFollette, who gave up coaching to become an umpire four years ago. "Some work one night a week while others work three and four nights a week. Some even donate their pay from umpiring to their church or other charities and a lot of them umpire charity games and tournaments free of charge."

The Association will also take on the added task this year of supplying sporkkeepers for the various leagues.

The only cost to association members is for their umpiring equipment and ASA license. One reason the group is sanctioned by ASA is that along with the license comes insurance that covers you should you be injured while coming to a game, working a game or commuting home after the game.

Any man or woman who is interested in becoming and umpire or a scorekeeper should contact Rocky Ellingsworth or Duane LaFollette.

Ellingsworth can be reached at the Sanford Recreation Department 330-5697 between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 6 p.m. Monday through Friday. LaFollette can be reached at 322-8028 during evening hours.

from the Juniors and new registrations. I feel confident that we will have more than eight teams this year."

ADULT SOFTBALL

The fall softball leagues are also taking registrations and Schaefer is ready for expansion in both the men's and women's leagues.

"We won't have baseball tying up Chase Park part of the week like during the summer," said Schaefer. "So we can have up to two leagues a night, five nights a week, if we have enough teams register. It also looks like we might get enough teams to add a second league for the women."

If expectations hold true, the Sanford Recreation Department could support eight men's leagues and two women's leagues, which would mean 60 teams (48 men's and 12 women's) worth of players could be involved.

This year's Spring/Summer leagues had 28 men's teams and six women's teams. That is still a huge growth over the six men's teams and four women's teams that were in the Sanford leagues just three years ago.

The Recreation Department will hold an Adult Softball League organizational meeting this coming Wednesday night, Aug. 21, at 6 p.m. at the Downtown Youth Center, 300 N. Park Avenue, first floor Sanford City Hall. This meeting will allow coaches of teams to get information about the leagues as well as how the leagues will run and under what rules they will play under.

Cost of the fall softball leagues will be $240 per team with games starting the week of September 16.

Returning teams will have until Friday, Aug. 30, to get in their fees and rosters to reserve a spot in the fall league.

If returning teams do not register by Aug. 30, they will be considered a new team and will be taken on a first come, first served basis. New teams must have in fees and rosters by Friday, Sept. 6.

Prior to the start of the fall leagues, the Sanford Recreation Department and Braxton Recreation will hold the Summer Blowout Softball Tournament, a double-elimination tournament scheduled for next Friday to Sunday, Aug. 23-25, at both Chase and Pinchurst parks.

The tournament will be played under Amateur Softball Association (ASA) Class "C" League rules and will be open to league rosters plus two pick-ups.

Cost will be $110 per team and two ASA regulation softballs. Deadline for entry is Thursday, Aug. 22, at 5 p.m. with the draw at 6 p.m. on the 22nd at City Hall.

Sponsor trophies will be awarded to the teams that finish first, second and third. Individual bat bats will go to the championship team, with the runners-up receiving individual trophies. A Most Valuable Player award will also be given out.

For information on any of the fall Sanford Recreation Department offerings either come by the Downtown Youth Center, first floor of Sanford City Hall, 300 N. Park Ave. or call 330-5697 between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 6 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Will there be any repeaters?

Last December, Sanford Recreation Supervisor Rocky Ellingsworth presented league championship trophies to H.D. Realty's Chris Dapore (above, right) and Penny Pennington (below, right) of First Baptist Church. This fall, the recreation department hopes to have 60 teams playing in 10 leagues.

Coaches

The Rams have not selected a new gymnastics coach.

Assistant Principal Bill Moore offered another reason as to why there are few coaching switches this season: the schools are happy with their staffs.

"Most of the county has had successful years in the past two or three years," said Moore.

"People are happy with what they have."

At Lyman, Christy Tibbitts takes over the girl's volleyball and softball programs in the only major change.

Lake Brantley reported no new varsity coaches and are adding just one or two assistants. No information was available from Lake Howell.

Band to strut stuff at SHS camp

By VICKI BUCHHEIM
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — With a lot of oom-pah-pahs, hard work and laughter, the annual Seminole High School Band Camp is getting ready to start at the school.

Beginning at 1 p.m. tomorrow all returning and new band members will report for vigorous training, band director Jeff Jordan said.

"This is going to be a really intense week," he promised.

Jordan said that the seven and a half hour days will include some marching drills, some music instruction and some music theory.

"A little of everything for our musicians," Jordan said.

Jordan said that the band camp is something that the students look forward to every year even though it is a lot of work.

"They enjoy the challenge," he said.

The dance team will also attend the band camp to work with the band on routines on the half time show that will be presented during football games.

"We'll be re-learning our marching techniques," he said.

"And teaching it to the new band members."

Jordan said he hopes the thunderstorms will hold off until after dark so that his troops can practice their marching outside in the relative cool of the late afternoon and early evening.

"We'll try to do inside things during the hottest part of the day," he noted.

The camp is scheduled for the afternoon rather than the morning, Jordan explained, because teachers will be involved in pre-school planning each morning next week.

"As a teacher," he said, "I have to be there in those meetings. So I had to move the camp back."

Because the field at Thomas E. Whigham Stadium is off limits to everyone, including the football team, until the opening of the interscholastic football season next month, Jordan said his band members will have to practice their fancy footwork on the hot asphalt on the parking lot adjacent to the stadium.

"But they're tough," he said.

"They can take it."

Jordan is expecting about 75 band members and 41 dancers to attend the camp this year.

He said that there will be about 100 musicians and dancers who will make the final cut to perform on the field this year.

the remainder will be able to perform in the stands and in other capacities.

Lake Mary High School band members took part in a band camp last week. The Seminoles will get their camp underway tomorrow afternoon.

There is no fee for the camp. The cost is included in the $75 annual band participation fee. "We intend to have a lot of fun and do some intense work," Jordan said.

Get the facts of breast cancer

This is the first of two articles. Cancer continues to be a puzzling plague, especially for American women. One out of every 10 American women will get breast cancer, and of those that do one out of four will die of it.

Years ago the discussion of breast cancer was rather taboo, but now it is widely discussed. Many celebrities, a breast cancer hall of fame, have stepped forward to demystify the disease and soften its stigma, beginning with people such as Shirley Temple Black, Ingrid Bergman, Betty Ford, Nancy Reagan and Gloria Steinem.

Lesions on cancer detection and the importance of mammograms are the subject of elaborate public information campaigns. More important the surgical and postsurgical options have multiplied in recent years. Twenty years ago if a woman had breast cancer it was an automatic radical amputation of her breast and part of the muscles of the chest wall, leaving the patient rather ghastly deformed and somewhat debilitated. Nowadays there are two accepted surgical methods of treatment, that is the modified radical mastectomy in which the entire breast tissue is removed, including the lymph glands in the axilla or armpit or wide local excision of the tumor, removal of the lymph nodes in the axilla or armpit and postop radiation therapy to the residual breast tissue. In either case are the muscles of the chest wall or arm interfered with, and in either case breast reconstruction can usually be done efficaciously and sometimes even at the time of the primary surgery.

In addition, the use of adjuvant chemotherapy has drastically improved in the past few years.

The success rate for treatment of cancer is up, not as dramati-

"Breast cancer is far more common in American women than in other parts of the world."

-Thomas L. Largen

cally as one would hope, but nevertheless up. Nowada, a 76.6 percent of breast cancer patients survive five years after surgery and 63 percent are alive 10 or more years later. Twenty years ago the five-year survival rate was approximately 68 percent.

There is bad news, however, about breast cancer. The number of cases continue to soar. According to the National Cancer Institute, the United States incidents increased 32 percent between 1982 and 1987. Only lung cancer is rising faster. Cancer is the leading cause of death for women age 35 to 50 and breast cancer is the most common malignancy in this age group. Part of the increased incidents can be attributed to earlier detection of tumors by means of mammography. The widespread use of this tool, a low dose x-ray of the breast has meant that more women are discovering their tumors in the early stages before a lump can be felt and markedly increasing their chances of a cure.

Breast cancer is far more common in American women than in other parts of the world, and it suggests that there is some facet of the American lifestyle that contributes to this fact. Many factors have been considered. Could it be the birth control pill? Probably not, since dozens of investigations failed to show a clearcut involvement. How about smoking? Again, there is no clear connection. Alcohol? Drinking seems to raise the risk of the disease slightly, but the association is too weak to account for American's prodigious rate. What about the widespread use of estrogen therapy following menopause? Studies show only a mildly elevated risk.

Researchers are beginning to point to another component of the western way of life, and that is a diet rich in fat. United States, Britain and the Netherlands have some of the world's richest diets. And they also have the highest breast cancer rates. In comparison to countries such as Japan, Singapore and Romania where the diet is very lean the instance of breast cancer is 1/6 to 1/8 the United States rate.

Doctors have long been convinced that some people are genetically predisposed to develop breast cancer. A woman whose mother or sister had the disease before menopause has 5 to 8 times the usual risk of developing it. If either one had the disease in both breasts, then the woman's risk is 5 to 10 times the normal. It has also been shown that when Japanese or Italians move either to the United States or to Australia the previously low breast cancer mortality rate rises to match the higher rate of their adoptive country within a generation or two as diet and lifestyle change.

Researchers are still studying the estrogen or female hormone connection. Why do childlessness, late menopause, early onset of menstruation and delayed childbearing all increase the risk of breast cancer? One suggestion is that they all involve a prolonged uninterrupted presence of high levels of estrogen, and female hormone in the bloodstream. It has also been noted that women whose ovaries were removed before age 40 rarely ever get breast cancer. It is now becoming widespread knowledge that estrogen is not only produced in the ovaries, but also in fat cells. Obese women have higher levels of estrogen than thin ones, a probable factor in their greater risk of breast cancer after menopause. It has only been in the last five years that researchers have found a link between estrogen levels and fat in the diet. Women who eat lots of hamburgers, thick shakes and other fatty foods have higher overall levels of estrogen and especially large amounts of the "biologically active" form.

Next week: Dr. Largen will elaborate on the diagnosis and treatment of the disease.

Thomas L. Largen, M.D., F.A.C.S., is a general surgeon with an office at 819 E. First St., Sanford. The health column is provided as a community service by the Seminole County Medical Society. Inquiries may be directed to the medical society.

Summer filled with learning

By LURLEEN SWEETING
Herald Columnist

SANFORD — Thirty-two children decided they could make good use of summer by learning new things. They registered for the Bookertown Tutorial Program.

Twenty-three children from pre-kindergarten through 11th grade attended full-time.

Basic reading and mathematics skills were the focus for children in the early elementary grades.

The other students followed a different agenda: current events, Afro-American history, and mathematics.

The salient concern of the Bookertown Tutorial Program is to engender in each child a thirst for knowledge and love of learning. Participants in the program were Cocoa Bailey, Gardale Blake, Leonard Blake, Lamar Blake, Tashia Blake, Traci Blake, James Bradwell, Jason Bradwell, Caneshia Brown, Charles Brown, Danyiel Brown, Andrew Grant, Audrey Grant, Tiffany Grant, Catarria Hill, Tekia McGriff, Terica Payne, Kelvin Rushing, Sam Rushing, Cornelius Stokes, Jerry Williams and Yolanda Williams. Yolanda attended summer school and once that was over she didn't miss a day coming to tutoring.

The program could not have taken place without the volunteer efforts of the staff members. All of the staff members except for the teenagers are certified teachers. Mrs. Dru Swenson, second grade teacher, Wilson Elementary School, brought members from the Sanlando United Methodist Church. Volunteers from Sanlando were: Mrs. Tommie Gornlan, kindergarten teacher, Bear Lake Elementary School; Barbara Dixon, private pre-school teacher. Student volunteers were: Pam Swenson, Lake Mary High School; Stacey Carter, Teague Middle School; Jodi White, All Souls School; Jan White, Lakeview Middle School. Regular staff members who served from September 1990 to May 1991 were also there as their schedule permitted. They are Mrs. Diane Hanberry, fourth grade teacher and Miss Bernita Charlton, kindergarten teacher, Wilson Elementary School; Mrs. Annie Williams, assistant director and Lurleen M. Sweeting, director, initiated the Tutorial Program last summer. The program will resume in September, 1991.

The program received support from the Sanlando United Methodist Church's Fellowship Sunday School classes. This support was to

DISTINCTIONS

Tour professional honored

A Central Florida area dining attraction executive has earned the designation of Certified Tour Professional by the National Tour Association.

In gaining the title, Nanci Yuronis, president of the Rivership Grand Romance, has achieved the highest level of professional recognition in the escorted tour industry. Yuronis is chief executive officer for the St. Johns River dining cruise ship, operating out of Sanford.

The CTP program distinguishes those candidates who earn academic credits and provide service to the industry and the National Tour Association. Currently, more than 800 are enrolled in the special program.

"This has been a demanding but very satisfying personal challenge for me," Yuronis said.

They're home all over the world

By ANDREA BEHN

SANFORD — Crank the heat in your house. Turn the oven on full blast. Let all four stove burners rip. Stand there until thoroughly heated.

Flip the thermostat switch to cold air. Swing open your refrigerator door. Pull open the freezer door. Stand there until sufficiently cooled.

Perhaps this exercise, hopefully performed only in your mind, approximates the environmental extremes one might experience all in the name of serving our country. Although few doubt the cause, it is rare to realize upon enlisting, that not only are you expected to meet certain human health and physical requirements, but also chameleon-like characteristics.

But there always has to be a few million bodies on hand. Staff Sergeant in the Air Force, Chuck Futrell, son of Rose Futrell, Sanford, and Futrell's wife, Jessica, both 28, are two ready, willing and able bodies, serving the United States while living abroad. Before the Gulf crisis, Jessica had a taste of the Saudi life as a teenager. Her stepfather, Jerry Everhart and her mother,

Jessica, Alan and Chuck Futrell

Sandra, lived in Jidda, Saudi Arabia while he was working for the United States Geological Survey. Jessica was 17 at the time. Just as she was stepping out into womanhood in America, she expected to step back in Saudi.

She says, "My stepfather told my mother she'd have to walk four steps behind. He was kidding, it's not that bad."

The Futrells blissful beginnings go back, Futrell recalls, to when they were both 15 and both living in Central Florida.

"I saw her when I was 15 and was in love, then. After she returned from Saudi Arabia, I was stationed in Little Rock, Ark. and I would make trips to Texas where she then lived with her family," Futrell said.

The couple was engaged ten months later. They've been married for six years.

The Futrells also have a 5-year-old son, Charles Alan Jr. — referred to as Alan.

Each remember some embarrassing, if not eye-opening, experiences while living in Saudi, both independently and together.

Jessica says, "My favorite story was when I was dating an American over there and we were out in a Suk, which is like an outdoor mall. His sister was with us. We were shopping for a boom box for myself, when we were approached by a member of the royal family. I don't want to blow this out of proportion because he was a prince and there's so many over there."

The prince approached Jessica's date and asked how much he could buy her for.

"At first, it felt great for the ego, but then it was like, 'What do you mean, buy me?'" Jessica said.

Futrell interjects, "That's what I knew would be different."

Futrell says he feels an American male is treated better than a Saudi female in Saudi.

He says, "My favorite story of when Jessica lived there was when she went out and played softball against some local

Licit drugs can help childrens' problems

DEAR MARY: My son will be in second grade this fall. I can't go through another school year like we had last year. The teacher was calling me practically every day to complain about his behavior, and he began to hate going to school because he feels like nobody likes him. I know he doesn't want to get into trouble at school; he just can't sit still and listen like other kids.

His doctor and the people at school think he might benefit from being on Ritalin, but I really hate the idea of putting him on a drug so young. I'm afraid it might make him want to use other drugs when he's older.

SAD MOM
DEAR SAD: Many parents, especially of little boys, share your concern about giving their children this kind of medication. I can only give you my opinion, while acknowledging that other professionals disagree.

I am very grateful for the availability of licit drugs for legitimate physical and emotional problems. I would not withhold medication from my child that is necessary for his/her healthy and appropriate functioning. Ritalin and the other drugs in this category need to be carefully monitored when they are used, but in my experience, the doctor, school staff, and parent all observe and share input as to the effectiveness of the medication's dosage, side effects, etc.

I would certainly try this intervention for a period of time before my child was placed in a special program. Remember, the licit use of legal drugs under appropriate supervision is NOT drug abuse.

ENGAGEMENTS

Dona Jean Marshall and James Dowling

Marshall-Dowling

SANFORD — Clayton and Elaine Marshall of Sanford announce the engagement of their daughter, Dona Jean, to James Gene Dowling, son of Walter and Paula Dowling of Sanford.

Born in Miami, the bride-elect is a 1987 graduate of Lake Mary High School where she was a member of FBLA. She is a 1990 graduate of Daytona Beach Community College where she made the President's List and the Dean's List. Ms. Marshall is presently employed as a cosmetologist.

Her fiancé, born in Miami, is the maternal grandson of Gene and Kitty Sunday of Winter Springs and the paternal grandson of Autrey Lee Dowling of Dawson, Ga.

Dowling is a 1987 graduate of Seminole High School and is presently attending Seminole Community College. He is president/owner of Hydro-Port Inc.

The wedding will be an event of November 9, 1991, 6:30 p.m., at the Community United Methodist Church, DeBary.

'It feels wonderful to be 80'

Some may scoff at becoming an octogenarian, but not Betty Landgraf Robison who celebrated her 80th birthday in the parish house of Holy Cross Episcopal Church on July 28.

"It feels wonderful to be 80," Betty said. "I am having a wonderful time."

A registered nurse, Betty was born on the eastern shore of Maryland, July 26, 1911, and graduated from St. Joseph's Hospital in Baltimore in 1932. She moved to Sanford in 1936 and got her start at the Fernald Laughton Memorial Hospital. She was later to become the office nurse of Dr. Charles Park Sr. for 25 years.

After 40 years in the nursing profession, Betty retired but "I am still caring for those who need help," she said.

Betty added she was an "old maid" until she married Revel Robison in 1971. Today, along with caring for others, Betty enjoys gardening and needlecraft.

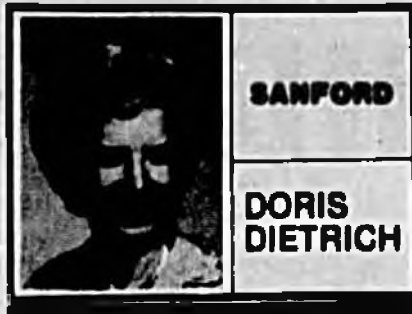

Her family includes a son, Ronald Robison, his wife Margaret and three grandchildren, Ronald, Robert and Mary Helen, all of Alexandria, Va.

The afternoon birthday celebration was "lovely," Betty said. Sure, she knew that a party was in the making, "but I did not realize it would be so elaborate," the excited honoree said.

Given by her family assisted by Jan and John LeRoy as hosts, the party attracted over 100 well-wishers during the hours, 2 to 4 p.m. A red and white color scheme was carried out to Betty's delight since red is her favorite color. She wore a lovely red dress enhanced with a white corsage.

Guests were served a variety of finger foods, punch, coffee and birthday cake from beautifully appointed tables decorated in red and white. Entertainment was provided by Don Pate at the piano.

Arriving from Jacksonville to attend the festivities was Betty's sister-in-law, Roma Dean. Several guests also attended from Georgia.

Assisting the Robisons and LeRays were Lois Roe, Glynnia and Kevin Hood, Pat and Powell Austin and Mildred Nicholas.

Birthday calls for reunion

The Summerail and Shirley families reunited at the Sanford Shrine Club on Saturday, Aug. 3, for a very special occasion — to celebrate the 85th birthday of the oldest grandchild, Katie Corley.

Family members poured in from Tampa, Jacksonville and Lake City to the tune of about 125. They were served a barbecue chicken meal complete with all the fixings plus two big birthday cakes, from 1 to 3 p.m.

Sanfordite Ocky Clark helped the U.S. track team regain its pride with a victory recently when he ran in the 800 meters during the 11th Pan American games. His winning time was 1:46.93.

Speaking with his family who are indeed very proud of this great guy, Ocky had read about the Cubans dominating the Pan Am games. He knew that this was the night that the United States needed a hero. Clark proudly stepped forward. Clark was ready because the U.S. was taking a beating on the track. Clark won the gold for the team. He was favored in the competition and said he never wavered despite a surge by his opponent. In the final turn after keeping a comfortable distance, Clark went ahead with winning on his mind. He was very confident he could win.

Ocky Clark, a graduate of Seminole High School, was raised in Sanford (Bookertown) area, Lake Monroe where he would be seen running daily. He recently came home to visit with his family, the Bradwells, before he left from Tampa to run in the U.S.-Pan Am Games in Cuba.

He owes his running success to his very good friend and coach, Charlie Harris, who constantly encourages him to reach for the goals he wishes to reach. Clark now makes his home in Modesto, Calif. where he trains daily and lives with his wife.

Music day presented

The Music Department of the St. John Missionary Baptist Church presented a Day of Music on Sunday, Aug. 11, at the 11 a.m. and 4 p.m. services.

The afternoon worship was the presentation of the Friendship Missionary Baptist Church Mass Choir of Daytona Beach. In concert, the spirit and message of the Master was indeed in the church as the sounds of praise were rendered.

Special honor was given to two outstanding musicians and pioneers of the music world in Sanford and the area. Gertrude McKinney Woodall has touched the lives of many a Sanfordite with her musical talent. She played for choirs of the following churches: St. John Missionary Baptist, St. Luke Missionary Baptist, New Mt. Calvary Missionary Baptist, and First Shiloh Missionary Baptist. She presented many musical recitals and was the music instructor of many a person young and old in this community. Her daughter, Zilla Mae Liggins, grandsons Claude Liggins, John H. Liggins, and granddaughter Mary Liggins Debose, are carrying on the musical talent which is so much a part of this family. We salute Gertrude Woodall for her contribution to the field of music. Her award was received on behalf of the honoree by her daughter and granddaughter.

The second honoree of the evening in the field of music was Mary H. Whitehurst who still gives of her special talent, the gift of music. She has played for the St. John Missionary Baptist Church of Sanford for 10 years. She serves as musician of Choir

Reunion meeting scheduled

The Crooms High School Class of 1968 will hold their reunion meeting today at 8 p.m. at Trinity United Methodist Church, Sanford Ave. and 6th Street. For information, contact Yvonne McClain Grey or Sandra Mitchell Gaines.

Anniversary coming

New Bethel Missionary Baptist Church, 618 East 10th Street, will celebrate their 52nd Church Anniversary, Aug. 25, at the 11 a.m. and 3 p.m. worship services. At the 11 a.m. service, the Rev. A.L. McWhorter, associate minister of St. John Missionary Baptist Church, Orlando will deliver the message; at the 3 p.m. service, the Rev. Theodore Smith, pastor of Faith Temple of Christ Church, Orlando.

The fellowship dinner will be held at the church after the morning worship service.

Deacon Sammie Harkness is chairman; Sister Sylvia Bodison, publicity chairman, and the Rev. William Lewis, pastor.

Drummer driving force

Orlando is fortunate to have one of the greatest jazz drummers as a resident. Don Lamond was the rhythmic driving force behind the great bands of Benny Goodman, Harry James, Charlie Barnett, Count Basie, Artie Shaw, Doc Severinsen and Woody Herman, to list some. He also played and recorded with small jazz groups including Red Norvo, Stan Getz, Charlie Parker, Dizzy Gillespie, Lester Young and, again, the lengthy list reverts completion.

Don is that "rare bird," a true jazz drummer who is the complete professional, having been in demand not only for jazz gigs but as the drummer for innumerable recording dates and TV shows. Another "shortened" list — Fred Allen Show, Bob Crosby Show, Dinah Shore Show, Perry Como Show, Sid Caesar Show, Ed Sullivan Show (you get the picture) — he did it all!

On Sunday, Aug. 18th, the Don Lamond Quintet will be presented by the Central Florida Jazz Society at Chris's House of Beef. Featured along with the quintet, on vocals will be Don's wife, Terry, who also has had a substantial career in music.

Terry is a favorite of CFJS members who have enjoyed her stylish singing at Jazz Society concerts (it's been too long). Rosie O'Grady's, "Once Upon A Stage" dinner theater, the Villa Nova and the Langford Hotel.

Ms. Lamond is also a graduate of the Big Band era, having sung with the Bands of Benny Goodman, Woody Herman, Artie Shaw and the Gramercy Five and Buddy Rich.

Being propelled by Don at the drums will be swinging tenor saxist John Orsini, Joe Perkins on cornet, Chuck Lawson on bass and Warren Parrish on piano.

Come on out to Chris's on Sunday, August 18th, 2 p.m., and hear these real pros performing jazz the way you like it. This will be a wonderful concert you won't want to miss!

The reunion and birthday celebration was hosted by Katie's three children and their spouses: Daughter Anna Herrline and husband, Donald, Tahlequah, Okla.; Son Joe (Buddy) and Kitty Corley, Sanford; and Daughter Irma Jean and Kenneth Fields, Sanford. There are five grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

"We had the best time," Katie said. It was a fun thing, a real sweet thing."

Born Aug. 3, 1906, in White Springs, Katie moved to Sanford in 1918. She attended local schools and after high school, she entered nurses training school at St. Luke's Hospital, Jacksonville. Shortly after graduation, she was swept off her feet by Joe Corley, whom she married. Katie still lives in the 61-year-old home she moved to as a bride.

Vivacious Katie has a zest for life and loves people. "I have so many sweet memories watching children grow up. They have a special place in my heart," she said.

Katie has left her mark on the Sanford community. She is a member of the First Presbyterian Church where she has served as president of the Women of the Church. She is also a past president of the Seminole High School PTA and a past worthy matron of Seminole Chapter Order of Eastern Star.

Other activities include: Mother advisor to the Rainbow

Girls, an honorary member of Beta Sigma Phi and a member of the Sanford Garden Club.

Katie is still active in her church and enjoys sewing and visiting the sick.

"I have been blessed with extra good health," she said, "and I love people."

California trip 'beautiful'

Leslie Pauline and her daughter, Shannan Flynn of Satellite Beach, have returned from San Francisco where they spent six glorious days. They flew out and rented a car to explore the picturesque countryside.

"It's an entirely different world out there," Leslie said. "I just love it!"

The two had breakfast at The Cliff, a famous eatery that was established in the 1700s and visited Golden Gate Park, Fisherman's Wharf and M.H. deYoung Memorial Museum.

Among their other travels was a tour of the Napa Wine Valley and a trip to Lake Tahoe where they attended the family show, "A Night at the Follies with Ziegfeld."

Benefit cruise coming up

It will soon be time to cruise down the river on a Sunday afternoon.

The St. Lucia Festival and the Sanford Historic Downtown Waterfront Association are planning the annual fund-raiser on Sunday, Sept. 22, from 5:30 to 8 p.m. aboard the Rivership Romance.

The fun benefit, which sold out early last year, will feature heavy hors d'oeuvres, a cash bar and music for dancing and listening by Nick Pfeiff and his Starlighters. The tab is $16.50 per person.

Proceeds will go to the SHDWA for lighting in downtown Sanford and the Sanford Marina, and to the St. Lucia Festival for free entertainment to the public during the December event.

Jones displays art

During the month of August, the works of Ashby Jones will be on display at Senkark's Paint and Glass.

Ashby took up painting at age 50 when he entered art classes at Seminole Community College. Since then, there has been no slowing him down.

He also studied under Sanford Artiel Edmund B. Stowe, Judy Maloney, portrait painter, and Ralph Begley, teacher and art show judge of Winter Park.

In the Sanford area Ashby has been the recipient of several awards. He has also displayed his works at shows in Daytona Beach, Albany, Ga., Macon, Ga. and Memphis, Tenn.

His most popular works are sand dunes, sea oats and the ocean around Daytona Beach, inspired by his love of the seashore.

Before his retirement in 1985, Ashby was administrative assistant to the Seminole County Clerk of the Circuit Court where he worked with budget and county commissioners for 24 years.

He and his wife, Clayda, make their home in Sanford where he teaches an art class.

Unwelcome guests are given reasons

DEAR ABBY: The letter signed "Frustrated in Florida" really burned me up. "Frustrated" had a married stepdaughter who lived out of state, and this nifty young woman invited another married couple and their two children to accompany them to their home for six days!

Well, I have some suggestions for "Frustrated" if that stepdaughter should show up again with or without her friends:

1. Have soiled sheets on the beds.
2. Have the fridge very low on food — no snacks.
3. Undercook the eggs.
4. Scorch the beans (use an expendable pot).
5. Burn the potatoes.
6. Intrude on their private talks.
7. Bone up on some polite (?), classical insults including references to moochers and deadbeats.

ADVICE

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

8. Get rough bathroom tissue.
9. Put out a short supply of cheap (very cheap) towels and washrags.
10. Lock the good sheets and towels away or "store" at a good friend's for a few days.
11. Don't wash the dishes; next mealtime exclaim, "Oh my, the dishes aren't washed. You ladies will have to help me do them!"
12. Have the TVs out for repair.

His first experience, Futrell said was when he was told to get rid of a Coke he was drinking.

"That was because of the boycott against Coke for selling to Israel. It's hard to imagine, but they will die for their religion," Futrell noted.

Then, the seasons changed. Five months ago after war had thankfully ended, the Futrells were sent to Iceland, a chilling experience, to say the least.

The Futrells live in Kellavik, a city formed from lava — actual volcanic eruptions. There is no pollution or smog to speak of.

Futrell says, "We walk around in awe."

By Bernice Bede Oost YOUR BIRTHDAY Aug. 18, 1991

You may have to take some calculated risks to advance your self-interests in the year ahead. But if you take purely financial gambles, it could be another story.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're a marvelous catalyst today for generating fun. This will be apparent to you as your friends begin to cluster around you, waiting for direction. Leo, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for Leo's Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't be overly concerned today as to how a particular situation in which you're not directly involved is going to work out. The end results should please you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) This is a good day for you to catch up on your homework: clear up old correspondence or make those phone calls you didn't get around to last week.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your financial prospects look rather encouraging at this time, provided you do not spend money on frivolous things. Wait until you find something you really want or need.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your ability to do things at your own discretion will be of considerable importance to you today. Avoid individuals who might want you to participate in things you find restrictive.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It's not what you do for yourself, but what you do for others that will afford you the greatest satisfaction today. Temporarily shelve selfish interests.

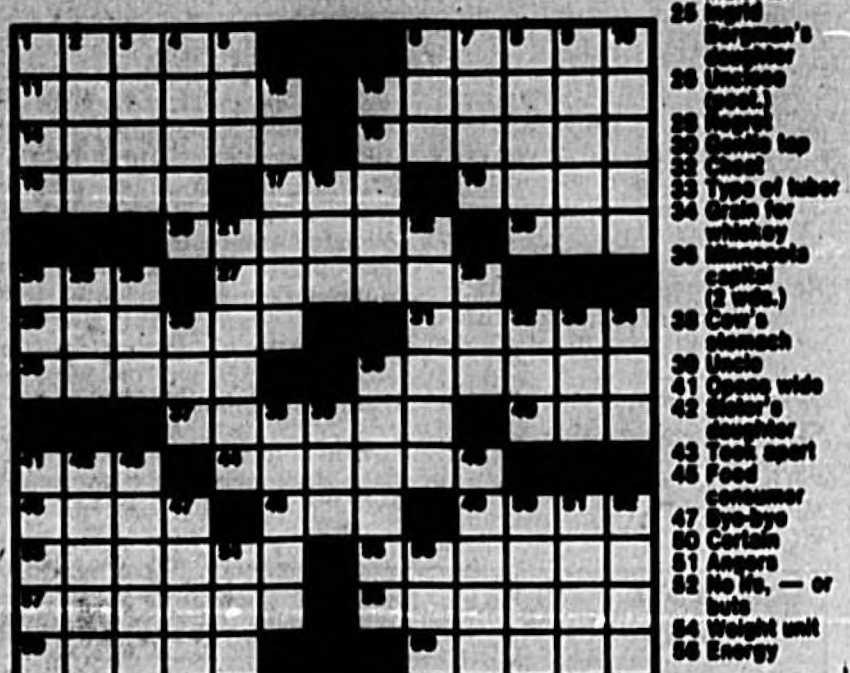

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You could be quite lucky today regarding intangible things. But if you focus your efforts on what the material world has to offer, this might not be such a nifty day.

friends is at a high point at this time and still ascending. What you do today will enhance your image further.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Conditions in general should be rather smooth for you today, but should you incur a disruption, treat the development philosophically. All's well that ends well.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If you have a strong hunch regarding something you can do today that could make or save you money, by all means explore this matter further.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) It looks like someone you recently met, with whom you already have a strong affinity, is going to play a significant role in your life. Verification of this may begin today.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) There isn't much you can't accomplish today within your purview once you set your mind to it. Thanks to your cleverness and Lady Luck's aid, objectives are achievable.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You need some type of social diversion today to get the week off on the right foot. Do something fun, but limit it to just a few hours with a few friends.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Meaningful changes that could have a positive influence on your financial affairs might take place today. However, you may be totally unaware of what transpires.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You could be rather lucky today where legal agreements are concerned. If there is a big deal you've been wanting to negotiate, do what you can to get it moving.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) The possibilities for increasing your resources look rather hopeful today. You may get only a small stipend from one source, but the yield could be significant from another.

By Bernice Bede Oost YOUR BIRTHDAY Aug. 19, 1991

Your sphere of personal influence is likely to be expanded considerably in the year ahead. In the social world as well as in the commercial world, Good things could happen in each area.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Companions can't resist responding warmly to you today. You'll know how to treat them sincerely while saying all the right things to buoy their spirits and elevate their aspirations.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Let events run their own course today. To your delight, you may discover that those with whom you're involved will be looking out for your interests better than you can.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) This could be a most opportune day to have a meeting with someone with whom you've been wanting to discuss an important endeavor. This individual should be receptive.

you see for your side? How do you envisage the defense proceeding?

South's bidding actions are unusual. Once a player has pre-empted, he is supposed to leave any further move to his partner. South's bidding suggests that he has a strange hand — or that he thought West bid six hearts so confidently that the slam was sure to succeed.

From the bidding, South rates to have eight spades, so there is no point in trying to give partner a diamond ruff — he has nothing to ruff with. And if West is void in trumps, those diamond winners in the dummy might be about to provide four discards. There is one sure way to defeat the slam: Ruff the heart lead with the spade ace and cash the club ace. Any other defense lets six spades doubled make.

When you see that you can defeat the contract, should you just cash your tricks? Or, if you can see a possibility for two down, should you hold back and play for the extra undertrick?

The simple answer is to play for the extra undertrick if there is no chance of the contract's making when you don't cash out.

True, sometimes it won't be clear whether your apparently sure winner might disappear. If you are in any doubt, settle for one down. There is nothing more embarrassing than watching a contract come home when you could have defeated it — by taking a winner early in the play.

To test yourself, conceal today's West and South cards. Against six spades, your partner leads the heart ace, playing ace from A-K. How many tricks do
