

Wynn Named SHA Chairman

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

His predecessor "was the authority's worst critic," according to Alexander Wynn, the new chairman of the Sanford Housing Authority. Wynn was unanimously voted into the slot Thursday night, to fill the vacancy created when A.A. McClanahan resigned from the authority earlier this week.

The vice-chairmanship held by Wynn went to Robert Frazier, again by unanimous vote.

Velma Williams and William Long round out the board, which awaits a city commission appointee to bring it to full membership. Wynn said although McClanahan's resignation on Tuesday "surprised" him, "I think it will all work out."

"I'm looking forward to making sure we do what we're here to do," Wynn said. "And I want us to do it right."

The ex-chairman's "personal motives" detracted from the authority's efforts, according to Wynn, who said McClanahan's dual role as authority chairman and Seminole Self-Reliant Housing director "created a lot of conflicts of interest. He said we were against him, but he was against us. He was the authority's worst critic."

Wynn also took issue with McClanahan's recommendation that the authority be expanded to enable more representation from the business community. McClanahan was the board's only white member and, according to Wynn, the proposal "was his way of saying 'You don't need so many blacks on the board.' How many black businessmen are there in Seminole County?"

McClanahan has denied his recommendation was racially motivated.

County Mum On Sanford Allegations

By Sarah Nunn
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County officials have declined to comment on allegations that they violated the law when they purchased property at Yankee Lake for a regional wastewater treatment plant.

County Attorney Nikki Clayton said the county will be filing a response to charges leveled by the City of Sanford this week that the county abused its citizens' rights and violated the state's open meetings law when it negotiated and agreed to a $7.5 million contract with Jeno Paulucci for the land, although she would not say what that response would include.

Sanford brought the legal action against Paulucci agent Nicholas Pope and the two banks which hold liens on the property seeking to obtain the land for its own sewage management program. The county was not named in the lawsuit but entered a notice of appearance in the condemnation proceedings because it agreed to purchase the land.

The county has until Feb. 1 to file a response to the allegations which Sanford attorneys filed Wednesday as amended pleadings in the city's condemnation suit.

Ms. Clayton said the charges would be reviewed by Ross Stanton and Howard Marsee, two trial lawyers the county hired to help defend its interests in the Yankee Lake lawsuit.

She would not comment on what she called the "merit or lack of merit" regarding Sanford's charges against the county but said the county did not "find anything of substantial concern" in the allegations.

Furthermore, because the Yankee Lake matter is in litigation, Clayton said she has advised her clients, including county commissioners, not to talk about the proceedings.

County Commission Chairman Bob Sturm said he would reserve comment on Sanford's charges until he had time to study them, and Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff also would not comment on the matter.

Ms. Clayton said the county will prepare its own motions responding to the city's charges by the Feb. 1 deadline, when the county's position would be made known.

Sanford has alleged a lack of "public benefit" that resulted when the county bought the property from Paulucci to provide sewage treatment for his Heathrow development and other development in the northwest area of the county.

Sanford attorneys said the city's $5.5 million appraisal of the property would be used to support the city's claim that the purchase was unconstitutional.

The lawyers also charged that county commissioners and county staff members violated the Florida Government in the Sunshine Law when they allegedly met for private discussions on the land purchase while contract negotiations were going on.

Commissioners voted to purchase the property sometime after 2 a.m. during their Nov. 5 meeting, and Sanford says the public was not given proper notice of what was to be discussed at the session.

Ms. Clayton maintains the county's view is that Sanford is liable for any attorneys' fees accumulated by the county, a defendant in the condemnation suit, as provided by law in eminent domain proceedings.

Stanton and Marsee have not yet submitted bills for their services, however the attorneys' fees could be brought before the county commission Jan. 28.

Getting The Giggles

Rachel Peters, 8, clutches her Cabbage Patch doll as clown Joe Wessen's leadings only lead to laughter for her and schoolmate Beth Sprinkles, and Wessen's colleague Carry Blackwell. Wessen, a teacher of clowning, has recruited, along with a Longwood business partner, "the most creative, professional clowns in America" for a permanent touring show. The clowns were giving a sample performance at Brantley Square Mall, Altamonte Springs, Thursday, when they captured the attention of Rachel and Beth, both of Longwood. The show, Clowns On Parade, will offer to make up children and families as clowns and present twenty-minute acts. Thomas said he plans to take profits from the shows to create a Clowns Hall of Fame.

It's Official—English Spoken In Lake Mary

"English spoken here". That's what the sign would say if one were hung in front of Lake Mary's quaint wood-frame city hall, the result of action taken Thursday by the governing body of the city of 4,100. Apparently, city fathers want to avoid problems created by the language issue after observing the issue heat up in Miami, a city of more than 350,000 citizens.

The city's commissioners approved a resolution declaring "the adoption of English as the official language will reaffirm that we are truly One Nation... Indivisible...."

In related whereases, the resolution states: "...there are immigrants from certain nations in sufficient numbers that there are arguments in favor of creating a bilingual society," and "there are reasons to believe that a bilingual society is not in keeping with the 'melting pot', well assimilated foundation of the United States of America...."

All five commissioners went on record as supporting the resolution in a roll-call vote.

Mayor Dick Fees quipped after the meeting that the thought occurred to him that one of the commissioners might have answered the roll call in the affirmative by responding "si"

Lake Mary Rejects Time-Save Ideas

By Paul Schaefer
Herald Staff Writer

After a 10 minute break due to the length of their meeting, Lake Mary's City Commission spent 25 minutes discussing possible ways to make them shorter — then rejected them.

Ultimately the panel killed the proposed rules resolution which would have provided for workshop sessions to be held in advance of the regularly scheduled meetings to address items requiring lengthy discussion and further research. Commissioners discussed the resolution for 25 minutes before rejecting it.

"Tonight's meeting is indicative of the need for workshop sessions," commissioner Buzz Fetuses, a proponent of the resolution said. "Questions were raised tonight (on issues) we could have voted on," if a workshop session had been held in advance.

The proposed workshops were to be held earlier in the week, prior to the twice monthly commission meetings, but commissioner Russ Megonegal said, "I question the timing. We need a week to notify the public (of a workshop), and they should be held a week in advance," of the regular meeting.

Commissioner Paul Tremel agreed. "I support the concept of workshops, but they need to be held a week before" a regular meeting, he said.

Tremel also said he was against the proposed five minute time limitation on citizens who wish to address the body. "I don't want to be the one to tell a citizen he's out of time, when we take up so much time."

"I don't think we should have a workshop unless it's absolutely necessary," Commissioner Ken King said.

"We need to realize we do represent the people of the City of Lake Mary, but to hold a workshop two days prior to our regular meeting is not enough time" to research information on issues that are on the Thursday night agenda, said Commissioner Charlie Webster.

Megonegal added, "If a workshop is needed, we should call one."

Libya's No. 2: '10,000 Set For Suicide Squads'

BENHAZI, Libya (UPI) — Some 10,000 people have offered to join suicide squads to defend Libya against a U.S. attack, Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafy's No. 2 man said.

"No force on earth can liquidate the revolution, even if it liquidates individuals," Maj. Abdul Salaam Jalloud said Thursday. "No force, even (President) Reagan, can defeat us psychologically. We will never retreat an inch."

"We have received letters from some 10,000 young Arabs and Moslems asking to be trained for suicide missions if America goes to war with Libya," Jalloud, Khadafy's second in command, told a news conference in Tripoli.

He said a war with the United States would be "comprehensive" rather than "limited."

"We are not Christians. We don't turn the other cheek and don't think we're handcuffed when Reagan wants to do something," he said.

"Reagan's terrorist administration is wrong to think its struggle is only with Col. Khadafy," Jalloud said. "Khadafy is part of a new generation of revolutionaries in

County Allows Sludge Dumping

Sludge from the Iron Bridge wastewater treatment plant is being spread at the Seminole County landfill on a temporary basis this week, and some residents are complaining about the situation.

Normally the sludge is sprayed on agricultural and pastureland in east Seminole and Orange Counties with state Department of Environmental Regulation approval, County Administrator Ken Hooper said.

Unusually heavy rains last week which left water standing on the land, however, prevented spreading there, so Orlando asked Seminole County if it could spread the sludge at the Osceola landfill, and the county and DER agreed, he said.

The Seminole landfill was chosen because it is closer to the regional sewage plant than the Orange County landfill, Hooper said, adding that sludge has been discharged at the landfill in the past. He said the material will only be spread there for a four- to eight-day "emergency" period, just this week.

At least one Seminole County resident has voiced concern over the dumping, which Hooper said amounts to some 200 tons per day.

Gladys Graham of Geneva said residents there are afraid the sludge will contaminate the area's underground water supply. She also complained that tanker trucks are "running constantly" in the area.

Tom Lothrop, wastewater bureau chief with the city of Orlando, estimated trucks have been making up to 40 trips per day along Alafaya Trail this week carting sludge from the sewage plant to the landfill. Hooper said that spreading sludge at the landfill presents no danger to the area's water system because the landfill does not drain off site and that there are no wells at the landfill.

Also, the sludge, which is the normal byproduct of wastewater plants, must go through a treatment process which sterilizes and stabilizes the material before it can be released for spraying on land, Hooper said.

He compared the sludge to normal fertilizer in that it is high in nutrients and often used in place of fertilizer as a soil enricher.

Hooper said he has received complaints about the traffic generated this week by the sludge hauling.

Both Seminole and Orange Counties, and some area cities, treat their sewage at the Iron Bridge plant.

Judge Denies Link To Sturm Campaign

Seminole County Judge Fred Hitt has denied a report he would attend Thursday's fundraising breakfast for the re-election campaign of County Commission Chairman Bob Sturm.

A press release by a Winter Park public relations firm listed Hitt as one of the dignitaries that would be attending the event yesterday at the Altamonte Springs Hilton.

Hitt said he had no intention of attending the political function and as a judge he is forbidden by the canons of judicial ethics to do so.

He said he is not connected with the Sturm campaign at all.

IN BRIEF

Bus Driver Admits Killing Woman Who Once Spurned Him

SEATTLE (UPI) — A city bus driver admitted he stalked and stabbed to death a shy, beautiful woman passenger who had spurned him earlier and unsuccessfully sought help from police when he harassed her.

Robert Dennis Turner, 42, pleaded guilty Thursday to first degree murder before King County Superior Court Judge Frank J. Eberharter. Sentencing was set for Feb. 19.

Turner had earlier pleaded innocent to the fatal stabbing Sept. 9 of Ela Sundby, 40, a frequent passenger on his bus.

Prosecutors will seek a sentence of 26 years and eight months, the maximum under the state's sentencing reform act, said spokesman Dan Donohoe.

Turner told investigators he was mentally distressed when he followed Sundby and attacked her in her apartment building, according to court documents.

Sundby, an employee at the Boeing Company, had told friends days before her murder she was concerned about a bus driver who had been attempting to date her for several months. Prosecutors said she received a threatening letter from Turner after turning him down for a date.

She had telephoned police on four separate occasions in the days before she was killed to complain that he was harassing her. But police said Sundby did not indicate she was in immediate danger and that she hung up when asked to wait until a police operator could call her back.

The last call came three days before she was killed.

Charges Against Goetz Dropped

NEW YORK (UPI) — Attempted murder charges against Bernhard Goetz were dropped by a judge who urged that a third grand jury decide whether the subway gunman acted in self-defense when he shot four teenagers and "galvanized the world."

In dismissing the counts, state Justice Stephen Crane Thursday refused to throw out weapons and reckless endangerment charges handed down against Goetz by the first grand jury to examine the shootings aboard a city subway train.

AIDS Vaccine Step Closer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Scientists have identified the molecules that bind the AIDS virus to cells of the immune system, a finding they believe will help in the development of a vaccine.

A team from the national Center for Disease Control said Thursday the molecules are in a protein on the envelope of the virus and what is known as the T4 area of certain disease-fighting white blood cells called lymphocytes.

In Atlanta, Federal health officials reported an 84 percent increase in AIDS cases in the United States last year and said "we don't see any peaking of the epidemic."

The national Centers for Disease Control also reported Thursday that despite recent blood screening programs, the number of AIDS cases related to blood transfusions jumped from 56 in 1984 to 171 last year.

Armed Convicts Release Hostages

YPSILANTI, Mich. (UPI) — Two convicts armed with knives ended a 30-hour siege at a maximum-security state prison by releasing their final three hostages unharmed in return for the promise of a transfer to a federal facility.

Columbia Delayed Again

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — Shuttle Columbia's luckless crew, setting yet another record of frustration, was ordered to stay aloft one more day today when bad weather blocked a second Florida landing try, threatening to delay the ship's next flight.

NASA mission managers decided to go for broke with a third landing attempt Saturday in Florida to avoid wrecking the ship's schedule for takeoff March 8 on a showcase voyage to study Halley's comet that must take off near its planned launch date.

The weather forecast for Columbia's planned 7:31 a.m. EST landing Saturday called for more marginal conditions, promising another cliffhanger for Columbia and its seven-member crew, including Rep. Bill Nelson, D-Fla., whose district includes the Kennedy Space Center.

If the third try is not successful, the ship will be diverted to Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., Saturday. Because of the time lost ferrying Columbia back to the cape, a California landing would represent a six-day delay getting the ship ready for its next flight.

Reagan To Propose Health Care Cuts

By Elaine S. Povich

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan will submit his fiscal year 1987 budget to Congress next month. Under the pressures of the Gramm-Rudman balanced-budget law to get the of next year's health budget showed Thursday.

Reagan will submit his fiscal year 1987 budget to Congress next month. Under the pressures of the Gramm-Rudman balanced-budget law to get the deficit down to $144 billion from the current red-ink level of more than $200 billion, Reagan reportedly plans to submit as much as $50 billion in cuts overall.

The draft budget for health programs was drawn up in December but is unlikely to change very much by February, congressional sources said.

The draft budget proposes to: —Increase the amount Medicare recipients pay for doctors' care to cover 35 percent of the cost of the program by 1991. It now covers 25 percent.

—Limit federal Medicaid costs by turning the bulk of the program over to the states.

—Freeze hospital insurance payments, or at the most grant a 2 percent increase — not enough to cover inflation.

—Institute a Medicare "voucher" system to allow recipients to purchase individual health insurance and to delay eligibility for Medicare until the first full month after the recipient's birthday.

The draft also includes a previously unsuccessful proposal to limit the costs of the Medicaid program by reimbursing states only for "medically necessary services," limiting the federal payment for educational and vocational services for the mentally retarded and requiring a second opinion on surgery.

All of the recommendations were included in Reagan's fiscal 1986 budget but practically none was adopted by Congress, partially because lawmakers failed in the last days of last year's session to pass a huge package of Medicare spending cuts that included several of the changes.

Most of the Medicare savings in the failed bill would have been made through limits on reimbursement to doctors and hospitals.

Instead, Congress merely extended through March 15 the existing freeze on Medicare reimbursements to hospitals.

"What the administration is proposing is to shift these costs to the elderly under the mistaken notion that old people can absorb these costs," said Rep. Henry Waxman.

Waite To Continue The Hostage Talks

LONDON (UPI) — Church of England envoy Terry Waite will return to Beirut "in due course" to resume negotiations for the release of four Americans being held captive by Muslim fundamentalists, his office said Thursday.

The Americans were kidnapped more than 18 months ago by militant Muslims in Lebanon who are believed linked to the mysterious Islamic Jihad, or Holy War, terrorist organization.

In exchange for the four Americans, the Muslim kidnappers have demanded the release of 17 Shiite Muslims jailed in Kuwait for bombing attacks on U.S., French and Kuwaiti facilities in 1983. Kuwait has refused to negotiate and has turned down a request by Waite to mediate with Kuwait officials.

"Mr. Waite plans to return to Beirut in due course," a Church of England spokeswoman said. "He has not yet indicated when he will be returning. It will not be within the next week."

"An announcement will be made by Mr. Waite when a date has been arranged," she said.

Waite has previously served in the role of hostage negotiator and secured the release of several captives, including an American in Beirut last September.

Waite has repeatedly visited Beirut and made personal contact with the Muslims holding the four Americans since Archbishop of Canterbury Dr. Robert Runcie launched the mission last November.

Runcie appointed Waite as his envoy after receiving a letter from the four hostages — Terry Anderson, bureau chief of the Associated Press in Beirut; the Rev. Martin Jenco, a Roman Catholic priest; and two American University of Beirut officials, hospital administrator David Jacobsen and dean Thomas Sutherland.

Two other Americans kidnapped in Lebanon in 1984 — William Buckley and Peter Kilburn — are still missing and feared dead.

The Islamic Jihad said last year it killed hostage Buckley, 56, Medford, Mass., a political officer at the U.S. Embassy in Beirut, who was kidnapped March 18, 1984, outside his apartment in west Beirut. No body has been found, however.

As for Kilburn, U.S. officials have said a group other than the Islamic Jihad may be holding the 60-year-old librarian from the American University of Beirut. A native of Los Angeles, Kilburn disappeared Nov. 31, 1984.

UnDisaster Day Declared

The Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce building will be converted into a disaster shelter — complete with simulated sights and sounds — on Wednesday, Jan. 22 as part of the Central Florida Chapter of the American Red Cross' observance of UnDisaster Day.

The local chapter will join hundreds of Red Cross branches across the country holding similar events to call attention to the unprecedented number of disasters which have plagued the United States since Labor Day 1985.

Beginning at 11:30 a.m. and running until 1:30 p.m., Red Cross volunteers will simulate a real shelter operation, complete with emergency radio communications, first aid and nursing stations, sleeping and mass care areas and other typical disaster functions.

Local government officials, representatives of the health care industry, business and community leaders and members of the media have been invited to eat a typical disaster shelter lunch and observe a shelter operation in action. They will also see a simulated emergency operations center, which in an actual disaster would support Red Cross disaster efforts throughout Central Florida.

Other shelters will be set up in Orlando and Kissimmee as part of the three-county drill and will also be connected with operations center.

The Red Cross, which depends entirely on the public for support, has spent nearly $50 million since July 1985 providing food and mass care to more than 4 million persons as a result of a series of natural disasters, according to Red Cross spokesman Kay Merrill. This figure does not include the people who are assisted locally on a daily basis as a result of single family fires or other crises.

"In a typical year," she explained, "the Red Cross will spend approximately $29 million on disaster relief for the entire year. With the fiscal year only half over, the $50 million expended for disaster relief has depleted disaster reserves, forcing Red Cross to borrow against other Red Cross programs to ensure continuing disaster assistance for Americans in need."

Carl Franzan, chairman of the Central Florida Chapter, said it is critical for community leaders, news media and potential contributors to understand what Red Cross does for disaster victims and how the organization must prepare to meet future natural disasters.

"We'll be on the job — through disasters and 'undisasters,'" Franzan said, "but we're calling on the community to participate in this UnDisaster Day and help us create a greater awareness of Red Cross disaster activities. After all, as we often say as we speak to the public on disaster preparedness, this could be the year."

New Russian Arms Proposals Receiving Careful Study

GENEVA (UPI) — U.S. negotiators are carefully studying the fine print in Moscow's proposal at the resumed arms talks to rid the world of all nuclear weapons by the end of the century.

The latest round of talks began Thursday with the Soviet side presenting the sweeping proposal by General Secretary Mikhail Gorbachev.

Gorbachev's three-stage proposal starts with 50 percent cuts in nuclear arsenals by the two superpowers and would lead to elimination of all such weapons by all nuclear powers by the end of 1999.

Bank Makes Bucks By Borrowing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The World Bank, chief lender to the world's cash-strapped nations, posted a record income of $695 million for the second half of 1985, partly by borrowing an unprecedented $6.8 billion.

"The progressive strengthening of the bank's credit standing in international financial markets has enabled us to borrow the largest amount ever raised by the World Bank in any six-month period... and to do so at the finest spreads ever in relation to the cost of government obligations," Senior Vice President Moeen S. Qureshi announced at a news conference Thursday.

Libyans Perplexed By Politics

BENGHAZI, Libya (UPI) — Ordinary Libyans seem baffled by President Reagan's imposition of an embargo on Libya, the accusations he levels against Moammar Khadafy and his Middle East policies.

Farmers, shepherds, workers, students and officials interviewed in recent days reacted with astonishment and disbelief to what they viewed as contradictory U.S. policies.

Reagan last week ordered all U.S. commercial links with Libya cut. He froze Libyan assets in the United States and ordered an estimated 1,500 Americans in Libya to leave.

Famine Is Over, Reforms Needed

A year ago, in the cold dawn in Korem, Ethiopia, the stretchers would go out daily from the relief camp to collect the wasted corpses of those for whom the world's generosity came too late. Today, children play outside the camp's empty morgue. The great African famine, which killed hundreds of thousands, is, if not vanquished, at least tamed.

The relief effort that saved the lives of those children and nearly 8 million other Ethiopians, was one of the great success stories of this or any other year. More than $1 billion worth of humanitarian aid, private and government, and more than 1 million metric tons of food poured into Ethiopia in 1985, a response to the newspaper stories and television images of shriveled children lying listlessly, and dying, in their mother's arms. At least as much went to other famine stricken countries elsewhere on the continent. This outpouring of help, and the return of the rains to the hills and plains of Africa, has surmounted the immediate crisis. Hunger has not disappeared, but mass death has been held at bay.

Now comes what will be, for both Africa and the West, the more difficult challenge: shaping policies to see that famine does not return.

For the West, it means putting aside what it does best — open the granaries overfilled with surplus, load the ships and planes, deliver food to the needy. Food relief is no longer the top priority. According to U.N. agencies, the food emergency has ended in 16 of the 21 African nations affected by 1985's famine. With improved harvests, Africa now has enough food to feed Africans. What is now needed, U.N. experts say, is cash to buy food from African farmers for delivery to those regions where local conditions still make it scarce. Though it would be cheaper to send our surplus food, huge imports of Western grain would lower local grain prices, undermining the African farmers on whose energy and skill the continent's future depends.

For African governments, the challenge is to end policies that make it the only continent where population growth outpaces agricultural production. From the Sudan to Angola, war drains the resources needed for economic development. Across the continent, governments keep food prices so low that farmers do not have economic incentives to produce for the marketplace. Africans can eliminate the conditions that create famine, if their leaders will let them.

Nowhere is the onus on leaders greater than in Ethiopia, where the suffering has been harshest and the threat of mass starvation remains closest. While the world has fed its starving citizens, the pro-Soviet government there has poured its resources into a war against secessionist rebels in Eritrea and Tigre, at times even using starvation as a tactic. Despite pressure from international institutions, it has refused to alter farm policies so punitive that farmers do not grow except to feed their own families. It is cause for rejoicing that the world's generosity has depopulated the feeding camps like Korem; it is cause for anger and despair that cruel and shortsighted leaders seem so determined to fill them again. The food has gotten through, but the message hasn't.

DICK WEST

Current Congress Cold To Cudgel Control

WASHINGTON — The Justice Department estimates that weapons other than guns and knives, such as sticks and stones, were used in 13 percent of the violent crimes committed in a 10-year period ended in 1983.

Maybe that explains what happened to me one evening in 1979.

As I was walking along a Capitol Hill street, I was accosted by two young men, one armed with a tree limb and the other carrying a large rock.

"Are you a senator?" asked the branch-toting footpad.

"Sticks and stones may break my bones but names will never hurt me," I answered, poetically.

"Very well, then," said the rock-carrying evildoer. "Your money or your metatarsus?"

"Take my money," I replied. "I'm saving my arches for Miss Pringle's Jazzercise class."

I reported the robbery to the police, of course, but don't expect the second session of the 99th Congress to enact stone control legislation. The National Boulder Association simply is too powerful.

Every time a measure of this nature reaches the hearing stage in either the House or Senate, the association sends up lobbyists who tell congressional committees:

"Rocks don't break people's metatarsi; people break other people's metatarsi."

It is difficult to quarrel with logic of that sort.

It may be true that anyone off the street can climb a tree and obtain a limb to serve as a cudgel. And some streets are lined with trees.

Moreover, some unpaved roads, particularly in rural areas, have their own boulders.

You never hear a congressional witness testify that "potholes don't ruin automobile tires; drivers who don't avoid potholes ruin automobile tires."

Cities seeking federal funds to fill potholes also are too powerful. Yet, to me, that argument is as valid as the one advanced by the National Boulder Association.

I was talking the other day with an opponent of rock control laws and he said the U.S.

Constitution gives citizens the right to carry sticks and stones.

"The swinging of clubs is deeply rooted in the American character," he insisted. "Why, Congress itself contributes to the tradition by providing a ceremonial staff for certain events."

"Are you trying to tell me a legislative body that approves of ceremonial staffs should outlaw cudgels. It just doesn't make sense."

It is, however, the National Boulder Association's account of this country's westward movement that wins over most converts.

"Every covered wagon crossing the amber waves of grain had stones hidden in the back," a spokesman will tell you. "They gave the pioneers something handy to fling at the Indians in event of hostile attacks."

Such arguments even outweigh the danger that one's skull will be split with a tree limb or of having an arch flattened by a rock dropped on one's foot.

As yet, nobody at the association has thought of arguing that if sticks and stones are outlawed only outlaws will brandish sticks and stones.

Summit Spirit Vs. Reality

By Norman D. Sandler

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The atmospherics of the superpower summit soon may collide with the cold, hard realities of the 40-year-old nuclear arms race with the resumption of arms control talks between U.S. and Soviet negotiators in Geneva.

Thursday marked the start of the fourth round of negotiations that began last March 12 and became stalled in short order over what has become the intractable issue of President Reagan's commitment to his "Star Wars" missile-defense program.

And as the pleasantries give way to discussions in earnest, U.S. officials will scrutinize the talk from the Soviet side for any sign that the good will of the November summit has translated into give at the bargaining table.

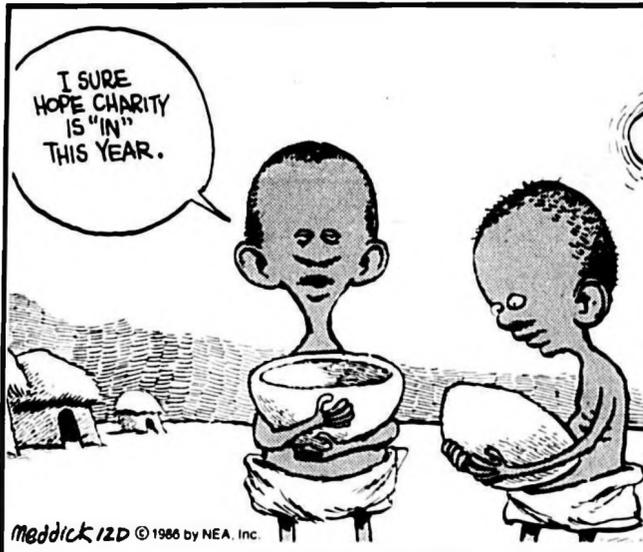

The arms control talks will serve as the first real litmus test of the "fresh start" in superpower relations proclaimed by a triumphant Reagan as he reported to the American public less than two months ago on his meeting with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev.

Although the two leaders left Geneva with a joint commitment to add impetus to the negotiations, even Reagan sounded a note of impatience — imbued with pragmatism — when he said, "The world is waiting or results."

The summit failed to narrow the chasm between the U.S. and Soviet approaches to arms control, staked out with extraordinary public fanfare and detail in the public relations blitz that led up to the November 19-21 summit in Geneva.

The "measure of progress" hailed by Reagan on his return had as much to do with form as substance. There were hints of movement toward an agreement to divorce the contentious status of intermediate-range nuclear missiles from that of long-range strategic arms, but little more than a reinforcement of disagreements on "Star Wars."

Just as it took Reagan four years to meet with his Soviet counterpart, so too might it take weeks or months to learn whether the spirit of Geneva represented, in Reagan's own words, merely "cosmetic improvements that won't stand the test of time" or a major step toward what he called "real peace."

SCIENCE WORLD

Voyager Near Uranus

By Al Rossiter, Jr.
UPI Science Editor

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — After eight years and 3 billion miles, a television robot on a grand tour of the outskirts of the solar system is approaching a bizarre world enveloped by a greenish haze, ringed by black particles and patrolled by icy moons.

The American Voyager 2 spacecraft has set its sights on Uranus, a planet half the size of Saturn and twice as far from the sun.

At 1 p.m. EST today, the probe will cruise within 50,000 miles of the Uranian cloud tops, radiating back the first close-up pictures of the seventh planet out from the sun. It will scout the planet's five big moons, examine its rings and sail on to an even more distant rendezvous with Neptune in 1989.

The spacecraft already has spotted a sixth moon, much smaller than the five previously known satellites, and more such finds are anticipated.

Voyager 2, which left Cape Canaveral in 1977, already has a rich history of exploration. The spacecraft and a twin surveyed giant Jupiter in 1979 and found three previously unknown satellites, active volcanism on another and thin rings of dust and ice encircling the planet.

They then went on to explore ringed Saturn where they discovered additional moons. Voyager 1 swung by the big satellite Titan and found an atmosphere made up largely of nitrogen, like Earth, and containing organic compounds that may be precursors to life.

Both Jupiter and Saturn, however, had been thoroughly studied by telescopes from Earth and by the pathfinding Pioneer spacecraft a few years earlier. Uranus has never before been visited by a man-made probe and even the largest telescopes are unable to see much of the distant planet.

"As a result, the opportunities for discovery and surprise are even greater," said Voyager chief scientist Edward Stone, who will be monitoring Voyager's 2 agonizingly slow radio reports at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory control center.

Burton Edelson, associate NASA administrator for space science, could not predict what will be found at Uranus, but said, "We do know it will be different than anything we've seen so far."

Uranus is so difficult to study from Earth that scientists do not even know the length of an Uranian day. Estimates vary from 12 to 24 hours but many astronomers believe it is roughly 16 hours.

In the six hours when Voyager will be closest to Uranus and its moons, scientists expect to learn more about the planet than has been learned in the 204 years since musician William Herschel in England discovered it, for which he won an appointment as court astronomer to King George III.

JEFFREY HART

Bishops Echo Red Gospel

Egad, there are times when you wonder whether Nietzsche wasn't right when he characterized Christianity as a slave religion. He had in mind the stuffy, restrictive Christianity of the 19th-century European middle class, but things are getting worse. In their statement on nuclear weapons, the American Catholic bishops, after a good deal of hemming and hawing, admitted that the United States has a right to exist, that is, to deter a nuclear attack upon it. And every time the Catholic Bishops open their mouths they make it more difficult for many Americans to attend mass.

But the bishops of the United Methodist Church are about to go the Catholics one better, or worse.

The Methodist bishops are about to issue a pastoral document that condemns nuclear deterrence as something that "cannot receive the church's blessing."

Well, Ronald Reagan might agree. After all, when he proposed the SDI, or Star Wars, he argued eloquently that a balance of terror, in perpetuity, is morally unacceptable. Of course, we have to get to there from here, and until we develop a reliable Star Wars defense there is no alternative to deterrence.

When the Methodist bishops use strong language about the "blasphemy" of nuclear weapons, and about how they threaten the very existence of the planet and God's Creation, you might reasonably expect them to support on both practical and religious grounds President Reagan's proposals for a defense against them. That would be a reasonable expectation. But we do not live in an age of reason but in an age of junk thought. The Methodist bishops at one and the same time condemn both nuclear weapons and the effort to defend against them, which, if their wishes were followed in the real world, would leave the United States with... exactly nothing.

It is becoming a seriously discussable question whether organized Christianity, as presently constituted in the United States, is not a moral and political threat to free men everywhere. Large sectors of organized Christianity, as Nietzsche intimated, seem to be at least tacit allies of slavery, as well as slaves themselves of junk thought and the waning liberal Zeitgeist.

Khomeini's Reach Extends Into U.S.

By Jack Anderson
And Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — Fanatical Shiite Muslim terrorists, ready to die for the Ayatollah Khomeini, are in position in the United States, hoping to make 1986 the year when Middle Eastern terrorism strikes on this side of the Atlantic.

In fact, the FBI has been concerned for some time about the underground Iranian network of potential murderers and saboteurs that is being built up in this country. The G-men know there are already at least 100 trained Khomeini agents in place — a far greater danger than anything Libyan dictator Muammar Khadafy presents, for all his bluster.

In addition, a recent highly sensitive intelligence report indicates that 100 or more Khomeini agents have entered the United States during the past year alone by way of Mexico, and possibly Nicaragua.

Iranian-controlled terrorists have already demonstrated the virulence of their hatred for Americans: At last count, Khomeini's minions were responsible for the violent deaths of at least 264 Americans in the Middle East.

That's what lent added urgency to a highly confidential message sent out last Nov. 15 to U.S. airport security offices and Federal Aviation Administration regional divisions. The bulletin, not publicly reported until now, warned:

"Information has been received that approximately 400 individuals, of various Middle Eastern nationalities, have been training in hijack operations inside Iran."

"There were indications that Iranian authorities were seeking passports in preparation of a hijack operation. The Iranians obtained 176 Algerian passports for use by these persons ... who are reportedly to undertake a hijack late in November or December 1985."

"It is unknown at this time where the hijacking will take place or what airliner may be involved."

(It's possible that the intelligence information that led to this warning actually foretold the recent Rome and Vienna terrorist attacks, which were intended to be hijackings. The terrorists were trained in Isfahan, Iran.)

U.S. intelligence agencies know the Shiites' orders to begin operations in the United States this year come right from the top: the Supreme Council of Islamic Revolution, formed by Khomeini in September 1981, to oversee some two dozen terror organizations.

One of the council's key components is the Committee for North America, which has operational centers in this country and Canada. Our sources say one of its members, Sheikh Majdaddin Mahalati, arrived in the United States last summer. Mahalati's terrorist pedigree includes the executions of hundreds of followers of the late shah in Shiraz during the 1979 revolution.

Khomeini has allocated millions of dollars to build up a Shiite terrorist organization among the more than 60,000 students from Islamic countries who attend U.S. universities. Recruiters are reportedly paid $1,200 a month to sign up potential assassins.

Even before the Iranian revolution, Khomeini's recruiters were proselytizing black militants in U.S. prisons, under the guise of teaching them about Islam. One recruit, David Belfield, was charged with killing anti-Khomeini exile leader Ali Akbar Tabatabai at his home in Bethesda, Md., in 1980.

Within hours of the shooting, Belfield had been spirited to Canada, provided with a fake passport by Iranian diplomats, and flown to Zurich and then Tehran. Today, calling himself Daoud Salsuddin, he is an adviser to Khomeini's terrorist plotters. He serves as liaison between the Khomeini regime and Iranian-backed underground networks in the United States, organized under the Assembly of United Arab Movements.

Once before, in November 1983, the FBI and other agencies learned of plans by the Khomeini underground to conduct terrorist operations in this country. The information was regarded as reliable enough to require defensive measures. Concrete barriers and other security devices were installed outside the White House and the State Department. They are still in place.

Trucker Charged In Race

The driver of a truck that whizzed past an Altamonte Springs police car was charged with fleeing and attempting to elude an officer and running a red light after the officer and a deputy stopped the truck.

According to an Altamonte Springs arrest report, he and another officer were in a patrol car traveling eastbound on State Road 436 when a Ford pickup truck passed them speeding. The incident occurred Thursday at 12:53 a.m.

The officer increased his speed from 35 mph to 65 or 70 mph and followed the truck which ran a red light at Palms Springs Drive. The truck, traveling 60 to 65 mph turned right and southbound on Longwood Avenue and was stopped at Ballard Street with the help of a sheriff's deputy.

The truck then backed towards the sheriff's car but stopped just before hitting it. The driver was then pulled from the vehicle, searched for weapons and arrested.

An Altamonte Springs woman was arrested on a charge of writing a bad check to the Seminole County tax collector.

According to tax collector Troy Ray, a check for $46 written by the woman to him bounced.

Arrested at her home Wednesday and charged with obtaining property with a worthless check was Lynn Kurtz Barker, 28, of 229 Loraine Drive. She was released from the Seminole County jail on $50 bond.

DUI ARREST

The following person was arrested in Seminole County on a charge of driving under the influence:

—Norman Maurice Soper Jr., 51, of 951 Wedgewood Drive, Winter Springs. He was arrested Thursday at 1:25 a.m. on Tuskawilla Road and Lake Drive. He was released on $500 bond.

PHONE THREATS

A Fern Park woman reported to the sheriff's department that she has received threatening phone calls.

The young woman said a man has called her at work and at home threatening to kill her.

The latest incident was reported Tuesday.

VITAMIN PICKUP

An unemployed Sanford woman was arrested on a charge of retail theft after being accused of taking vitamins from a drug store.

According to the assistant manager of Eckerd Drugs, 3611 S. Orlando Drive, a woman tried to leave the store with two bottles of vitamins in her purse.

The electronic security system, however, sounded when the woman reportedly tried to leave the store. The incident occurred Tuesday at 4 p.m.

The vitamins were valued at $20.

Charged was Isabel Rivera McCauley, 55, of 2816 S. Sanford Ave. She was released on $100 bond.

CAT DEAD, DOG BLINDED

An incident of possible animal cruelty is being investigated because a South Seminole County woman told a deputy she thinks a neighbor poisoned her cat to death. In a second case, a dog was beaten into blindness apparently after being caught in an occupied chicken coop.

The woman, who said she thinks the same person damaged her mailbox, said she noticed her cat was acting strangely Tuesday around 2:30 p.m. She said the cat acted sick and was turning blue. She took the animal to a vet where it died.

The vet believes her cat was poisoned.

The event is under investigation.

In the second case, a Sanford woman accused a neighbor of shooting her dog.

The incident occurred Wednesday between 4:30 p.m. and 5:06 p.m.

The suspect said he didn't shoot the dog but rather beat it with a stick when he caught it in his chicken coop. He said he found seven chickens dead and four maimed.

According to the deputy's report, animal control officials said the dog was all right but the officer noted the dog appeared blind in one eye or perhaps both from the incident.

SUSPECT IN BURGLARY

A south Seminole County man told deputies he believes his home was burglarized by a man who he believes was in his house once before.

Richard Blanchard, 23, of 2543 Eastbrook Blvd., said the incident occurred between 7 a.m. and 2 p.m. Wednesday.

Missing from the home is a $339 stereo, a $200 tape deck and a .22-caliber rifle valued at $69.

Blanchard told a deputy that he suspects a man who he believes was in his house before, though he did not report the purported previous incident.

Verdict: Guilty Of Attempted Murder

A Casselberry man was found guilty Wednesday of trying to kill a Maitland man while at a the Casselberry home of a friend.

Elmo Dean Goodson, 23, of 900 N. Triplet Drive, could receive a life sentence when sentenced Feb. 26, though the recommended sentence is between 17 and 22 years.

The jury deliberated less than 30 minutes before finding Goodson guilty. Goodson has had four prior felony convictions, according to court records.

On Aug. 11, Casselberry police responded to a reported knifing at 146 Southcot Drive at about 9 p.m. Michael W. McFarland, 24, of that address, told police two men, who had left his home, had been in-involved in a dispute and one had stabbed the other in the chest.

Police said they saw blood on the floor and found a paring knife in the kitchen sink, which McFarland said had been used in the attack.

The victim, Phillip Andre Harrison, 29, of 186 Southcot Drive, was found nearby by police at 790 Sandpiper Apartments in Casselberry. He was transported to Florida Hospital — Altamonte where it took 150 stitches to close his wounds.

According to testimony, the altercation occurred after they had been drinking and using cocaine.

Harrison said at the trial that he has had $15,000 worth of plastic surgery stemming from the incident.

'Sore' Loser Says She'll Sue

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A 52-year-old nurse who "won," and seconds later "lost," $3 million in the California Lottery's Big Spin last month is going to sue the state, her attorney said Thursday.

Doris Barnett of Los Angeles spun the lottery's wheel of fortune during taping of the televised show Dec. 30 and watched the ball land in a $3 million jackpot slot — only to discover to her horror that it had bounced out seconds later into a slot worth $10,000, the minimum prize.

In the confusion, "Big Spin" host Geoff Edwards congratulated Barnett as a sign flashed across the screen declaring her a $3 million winner and Barnett's overjoyed family rushed onstage to celebrate.

But moments later Edwards, muttering "this may be the worst moment of my life," told Barnett that the ball had not stayed in the big-money slot long enough. Lottery officials determined the ball had stayed in the $3 million spot less than three seconds. Instead of the five seconds required by game rules.

Ironically, lottery officials later speculated that the vibration from the jumping up and down of Barnett and family members who rushed onto the stage with her may have dislodged the ball.

Lawrence Sperber, an Encino attorney representing the Barnett family, said he plans to file suit against the lottery demanding that the $3 million jackpot prize in the lottery's "Sky's the Limit" be awarded to his clients.

The suit will be filed in Los Angeles Superior Court within the next two weeks, he said.

"They were legitimate winners and have a right to recovery of the $3 million," Sperber said.

Sperber called the lottery's five-second rule "arbitrary."

"The ball landed in the $3 million slot and was there long enough for them to be declared winners," Sperber said. "They have been very emotionally upset."

"We're mad. I can tell you that," said Wesley Brown, Barnett's husband.

Lottery Commission spokesman Bill Seaton said officials were only following the rules when they downgraded Barnett to a $10,000 prize.

"Our rules are quite clear," Seaton said. "When the wheel stops, the ball has to remain in the slot for at least five seconds."

"You can't go by Edwards getting carried away and declaring her a winner. That is not enough. We regret what happened. We're in this business to give money away."

The five-second rule was approved by the Lottery Commission, he said, "as sufficient time to make sure the ball is really staying there." A stop watch is used by operations manager Hal Diaz to determine winners.

Lottery officials reviewed a tape of the show immediately after Barnett's spin and determined that the ball had not stayed put long enough, he said.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Husband, Wife Get 20 Years For Beating And Burning Kids

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — A couple who claimed "evil spirits" inflicted wire brush beatings and stove element burn marks on their young children have received 20-year prison terms for child abuse.

The sentences they received Wednesday are four times the state guidelines for similar offenses.

Leon County Circuit Judge J. Lewis Hall cited the emotional trauma and "permanent scarring and disfigurement of their tiny bodies" suffered by two of the couple's six children — a 6-year-old girl and a 4-year-old boy — as his justification for exceeding the state sentencing guideline of 5 years.

A lawyer for Frank Hall, 28, a landscaper, and his wife, Eddie Mae Hall, 25, said the couple were borderline mentally retarded and deserved mercy but Assistant State Attorney Jack Pottinger said, "What we have in this case are two uneducated, rural sadists."

Frank Hall later confessed he and his wife beat the children every time they urinated without telling them, about five times a day. Pottinger said metal bristles imbedded in the girl's skin probably came from a beating with a wire brush, and medical examiner Dr. Sam Moorer said circular scars on the children's buttocks were probably caused by forcing them to sit on hot stove burners.

Anti-Abortionists To Bury Fetus

PENSACOLA (UPI) — Anti-abortionists in northwest Florida plan picketing, a rally and the "Christian burial" of a fetus to mark next week's 13th anniversary of the Supreme Court decision legalizing abortions.

In Fort Walton Beach, 40 miles to the east of Pensacola, a ministers' association plans to hold a march and rally Saturday. Organizer Jim Mohr, who said the purpose is to "heighten" awareness of abortion, said protesters plan to gather at city hall and march to Jet Stadium for a rally.

In Pensacola, anti-abortionists led by John Burt, 46, plan to mark the anniversary of Roe vs. Wade with two separate events on Wednesday.

Burt, who runs a home for unwed mothers, said a "mass picket" and prayer service would be held near the Ladies Center, one of three clinics damaged in the Christmas Day 1984 bombings, and following the picketing, a five-inch fetus he has used as a "counseling tool" since last March will be buried at a cemetery in Milton.

"Charlie, in his death, has saved lives and changed peoples' minds," Burt said Thursday, but admitted he could not recall specific examples of any changes of heart.

When Burt first got the fetus, he said it would get a "Christian burial" in a month. Instead, he's kept it in a jar of formaldehyde and has changed his mind on several occasions about plans for its disposal.

"I would very much like to have another one," said Burt, who once tried to show the fetus during a live television interview.

Executions Set For Cop Killers

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Florida prison officials have set Feb. 18 as the day convicted cop killers Edward Dean Kennedy and Paul Beasley Johnson will go to the electric chair.

Gov. Bob Graham signed death warrants for the two inmates Thursday. The Florida Supreme Court has reviewed and affirmed the convictions of both Kennedy and Johnson, and the U.S. Supreme Court has refused to review their cases.

Kennedy was sentenced in the shooting deaths of state trooper Robert Patrick McDermott and McDermott's cousin, Floyd Cone, Jr., during an April 1981 escape from the Union Correctional Institution near Raiford.

Kennedy was under a life sentence at the time for killing a Miami motel manager during a robbery. He escaped the death penalty in that case when he told the judge he had "closed the door on my past" and wanted to do something good for society.

Johnson was sentenced in the January 1981 murders of Polk County Deputy Sheriff Theron Burnham, cab driver Wilham Evans and Darrell Beasley.

Jailers Charged With Torture

MARIANNA (UPI) — An investigation of the Jackson County Jail has led to felony child abuse charges against four jail guards for allegedly torturing young inmates by hanging them handcuffed from the ceilings of their cells.

A misdemeanor charge was filed against a fifth guard, and five additional jailers may face felony charges, authorities reported Thursday.

Jim Dunning, assistant state attorney for the 14th circuit, said guards Dale Sims, Gordon Hartley, Freddie Roulhac, and Richard Powell, all of Jackson County, were arrested Wednesday night and charged with child abuse or aggravated child abuse.

The inmates, some of whom were under 18, said the jailers handcuffed their hands behind them and then hung them to the ceiling with chains attached to the handcuffs. The stories prompted an investigation by the state attorney's office and the FBI.

Graham Protests Customs Cuts

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Gov. Bob Graham has joined U.S. Customs Service officials in protesting a proposed 40 percent cut to a program that monitors airspace along the nation's borders for drug smugglers and other intruders.

Graham said the $31.7 million cuts to the Customs Service's air program "would send a dangerous signal to drug traffickers that we are not serious in our war to stem the relentless flow of illegal drugs into our country."

"Border security should be an integral part of our overall program for national defense," Graham said in a letter to President Reagan on Thursday. "Planes that infiltrate our national borders because of weakened defenses could be carrying drugs or they could be transporting terrorist bombs."

The cuts would take effect in fiscal year 1987, which begins Oct. 1. The New York Times reported this week. Five percent of the budget was cut for the current fiscal year.

Also, SHA Attorney Ned Julian told the board Central Florida Legal Services expects payment for the lawsuit that the legal aid agency filed against the authority. The attorneys' fees cover the time that CFLS put into the suit it brought against SHA commissioners after they barred the agency from conducting free legal clinics on housing property. Although the board reversed its decision last month, "we still want payment for the time that went into the suit," CFLS Managing Attorney Treena Kaye said.

When the action was filed in December, she estimated these costs at $3,000. Commissioners are expected to receive an itemized bill for the time next week.

McClanahan cast the sole vote in opposition of the clinics' discontinuation and cited the issue as one of the reasons for his resignation.

Redding Gardens maintenance supervisor William Ashford "is a blessing" according to the authority's new vice-chairman.

"I hope all of you appreciate him," Frazier told tenants at the meeting. "He's there for you 24-hours a day."

According to some tenants, however, Long's services don't justify the rent he pays. The complaint prompted a CFLS probe in October, and a rebuttal from Ms. Williams Thursday night.

"It's not anything unusual," according to Ms. Williams, who said the state Department of Housing and Urban Development, "allows it for maintenance supervisors."

Ms. Williams also contended that CFLS misrepresented itself when asking for Ashford's records on behalf of the Seminole Joint-Tenants' Council.

"I talked to some of the tenants," Ms. Williams said, "and they told me they never asked (CFLS) for the information."

According to Ms. Kaye, however, the inquiry was prompted by tenants' council members' complaints regarding the "preferential treatment" Ashford seemed to be receiving.

Redding Gardens resident Irene Reynolds sided with Ms. Kaye, "and would do it again."

Mrs. Reynolds said she turned to CFLS after she "couldn't buy food for three months" because the authority denied her request for a rent waiver.

The refusal, she said, "was a dirty thing to do. You pay Ashford to work for you and you say he only has to pay $59 a month. But you won't help me."

"We didn't do it," said Wynn. "The rent was set in May when we weren't here."

"Well, (Executive Director Elliot) Smith was here, he was here while my neighbors had to help me eat," Mrs. Reynolds said. "I went to them (CFLS) for help, and I'll do it again."

the Arab world and Africa."

The major said the CIA was training assassins in Sudan and sending them to Libya to kill Khadafy.

"The American attempt to isolate Libya is not working. It is the United States that is isolated," he said.

Jalloud warned that Libya would "direct its trade from the West to the Soviet bloc" if Europe joined the U.S. embargo against Libya.

The major also said the U.S. sanctions "will only make Libya self-sufficient."

"Economic sanctions cannot hurt us," he said.

Jalloud said Libya's People's Congresses would decide if Libya would freeze U.S. assets in the country in retaliation for a similar action by Washington.

The congresses — formed from local councils — were established to create what the Khadafy government refers to as a "direct democracy."

Grateful Donna Knows About Love

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Felipe Garza, the lovelorn teenager whose last wish was fulfilled the day after he died when his heart was transplanted into his former girlfriend, showed "how people can help each other," she says.

Donna Ashlock, 14, recovering at the Pacific Presbyterian Medical Center, received the heart of Felipe "Peno" Garza Jan. 5, less than a day after the apparently healthy 15-year-old boy had died of a brain hemorrhage.

She was not told of his sudden death or that he had donated his heart to her until two days after the surgery.

In a statement she wrote Thursday, Donna said, "I hope what Peno did shows how people can help each other. I was surprised when Dad told me about Peno and what he had done for me. I felt very sad, but thankful for what he did."

Doctors said Donna might go home next week to Patterson, a farming community 70 miles southwest of San Francisco, where she and Felipe had dated until last fall.

This week, Donna passed her first test to determine whether her body was rejecting the new heart. Another test is scheduled next week.

Donna learned in December that she was suffering from degeneration of the heart muscle, and doctors said she would not live long unless she had a transplant. When Felipe found out about her condition, he told his parents he expected to die and asked that his heart be given to Donna.

He died a few weeks later, and his family arranged for the transplant.

In her statement, Donna recounted her experience and thanked her doctors, her parents and a girlfriend, Jennie Chavez, who has been with her in San Francisco since the operation and slept in her room after she left intensive care.

"I was scared, but it had to be done, so I did it," Donna said. "After the operation I was pretty sore and tired, but I'm feeling a lot better now. I've been going longer and longer on my exercises, and they've told me that after six to eight weeks I can play sports again."

"I can't wait to go home to Patterson, especially to see my friends."

Donna's mother, Mary Ashlock, said Felipe was "a hero who taught me something about the importance of organ donation."

"I've just got a handful of organ donor cards from the Northern California Transplant Bank here, and I'm taking them to my friends and family, and I've signed one," she said.

Adams Arrested In Corruption Probe

ORLANDO (UPI) — The roundup of suspects indicted in a probe of public corruption in Orlando concluded with the arrest of Shelton Adams, a former city council member and candidate for mayor.

Adams, 40, surrendered to state Department of Law Enforcement officials Thursday and was released on $5,000 bond. He had no comment on the charges.

A nine-month investigation by state and federal officials led to indictment Wednesday of five public figures. Adams was the last suspect to be arrested. The four others also are free on bail and all are scheduled for arraignment Jan. 31.

The indictments stem from alleged illegal campaign contributions and payments made to public officials by Champ Williams, who for decades has held a monopoly on lucrative food and beverage sales at Orlando International Airport.

Williams, 72, was indicted on 32 counts of racketeering in violation of Florida bribery statutes.

Indicted for perjury before the grand jury were former city council members Don Crenshaw and Arthur "Pappy" Kennedy and Hugh Buford, an associate of Williams who once managed one of Williams' restaurants.

Adams also is charged with lying to the grand jury authorized by Gov. Bob Graham when Williams' son, Bruce Williams, made public accusations that his father bribed public officials to maintain his hold on airport concessions.

Each perjury charge is punishable by up to five years in prison. Racketeering carries a sentence of up to 30 years in prison.

The indictments charge Williams violated election laws by making illegal contributions to six candidates from 1974 to 1982. He has denied the accusations.

Although Williams is accused of illegally contributing to the campaigns of Rep. Bill Nelson, D-Fla., and former Lt. Gov. Jim Williams, neither Nelson nor Jim Williams is suspected of wrongdoing, said Steve Kunz, assistant state attorney.

Dogs Cause Bike Mishap

A 5-year-old Sanford girl was treated at Central Florida Regional Hospital after the bike she was passenger on swerved to avoid some dogs and hit a car.

Linda Scott, daughter of Cynthia Comer, 1801 Tangerine Ave., was checked over for a bruised shoulder and released, a spokesman said. The minor accident occurred around 3 p.m. Thursday on W. 13th St., about one-half block from Oleander Avenue in Sanford.

According to Sanford Police, Linda was riding with Kercher Newman, of 1515 14th St., when two dogs started to chase the bike. Kercher turned away from the dogs and struck the front end of a car throwing both kids.

The tykes were riding home from Goldsboro Elementary School, W. 16th St., at the time.

While Kercher wasn't injured, Linda complained of a sore shoulder.

The mishap prompted a spate of emergency help including Sanford police, fire rescue, Rural-Metro Ambulance and since the incident was just outside the city, the Florida Highway Patrol. She also was held and comforted for a while by Janice McDonald, a substitute teacher at Goldsboro and the girl's neighbor.

After an initial check by paramedics, Linda, apparently more scared than hurt, was transported to the hospital by private vehicle.

No charges were filed against the driver of the car, Walter Johnson, of 1407 W. 14th St., Sanford.

Foreigners Join Tribe-Rams Fray

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

Seminole and Lake Mary get together tonight at Lake Mary High School in what will be the first round of the annual "Sanford Shootout."

There's just one thing wrong with this year's intense rivalry. It has a couple of foreigners competing.

And we're not talking about foreign exchange students either. The annual showdown for basketball bragging rights usually consists of 10 Sanford athletes going full tilt for 32 minutes.

Usually this time of the year, Lake Mary coach Willie Richardson is scouring the halls, looking for Sanfordites to throw into tonight's Seminole Athletic Conference fray.

This is the third game. At least until tournament time. Hometown vs. Hometown. Lake Mary's Lincoln Heights and Academy Manor areas vs. the rest of Sanford's Seminole.

Enter Kelly McKinnon and Eric Czerniejewski. These two starting Rams not only don't live in Sanford, but they are residents of Longwood. The neighborhood, nevertheless, has no reflection on their talents.

McKinnon, just a sophomore, is a pure shooter with the height (6-3) to also be a factor on the boards. He had back-to-back 20-point games in the first Central Florida Classic. Czerniejewski, a junior, started half the time last year as a sophomore. He has nice size (6-1) for a point guard and he is an excellent penetrator, passer and rebounder.

Wouldn't it be something if a non-resident decided the annual Lake Mary-Seminole blowout? It could happen. Both McKinnon and Czerniejewski will make their presence felt tonight when the team tip off at 8 before a packed Lake Mary gym.

If past history repeats itself, Lake Mary, despite its 2-7 record, has an edge. The Rams have never lost to Seminole at home. In the initial Dec. 6 contest during the 1983-84 season, Lake Mary pulled out a 58-57 decision on a Darryl Merthie free throw.

That victory, however, upset coach Chris Marlette's Seminole, Willie Mitchell, Jimmy

Henderson, Wright Eat Steaks, Want Lamb Chops Tonight

Knowing what is in store for Rod Henderson and Mike Wright tonight at Lake Mary High, the Sanford Optimist Club invited the two Seminole High basketball players to its afternoon luncheon Wednesday at Western Sizzlin' for a little extra protein.

Both, of course, ordered the biggest steak on the menu although they said lamb chops would be on the menu tonight when the Seminole invade Lake Mary to battle the Rams in the county's fiercest high school rivalry. Tipoff is 8 p.m.

"We want to beat them twice this year," Henderson, a junior forward, said. "We split last year and when we'd run into them around town nobody could really say anything. It was kind of frustrating."

A sweep by either team is big news in Sanford. Three of Lake Mary's starting five — Ray Hartsfield, Chris Jackson, Osear "Big O" Merthie — live in Sanford and they want to win as badly as Henderson and Wright.

The Seminole are hot. They've won eight of the last nine and as coach Bill Klein points out, "That's eight in a row against Florida teams." The loss was to powerful Hempstead, N.Y., which won the Central Florida Classic and is No. 1 in its class in New York.

Wright, a senior guard, said inexperience cost the Seminole three games early in the season. "We've got a pretty young team except for a couple of us," Wright said. "But we've got it together now. We're really looking forward to Friday."

Along with the two eagers, the Optimists invited Seminole athletic director Jerry Posey in to say a few syllables. Posey applauded the Optimists on the work they've done with the county's youth and remarked that "The Optimist Creed" was a new addition to the room.

"It's amazing the things you can get done now that you're got a guy toting a gun as president," Posey laughed. Sanford police officer Greg Harrell replaced Ernie Butler as the club's president this year.

Posey's biggest news, though, was that Seminole High would hold an invitational track meet on April 4. Since the Optimists always sponsored the county meet until the Seminole Athletic Conference was formed, eliminating the necessity of a county meet, he wanted to see if the county's most-dedicated young club wanted to get involved with the new meet.

It took a quick motion by Dale "Distinguished" Coppock and a quicker second by Bob "More Distinguished" Howe to make it official.

Which brought a smile for Posey. "The Optimists actually resurrected the county meet about 10 years ago," Posey said. "The least we've ever made from it was $300 and that's without charging an entry fee. That's a lot of money for the track budget."

Coach Bill McDaniel, who hasn't lost a game in a couple of years as Lake Mary's junior varsity football coach along with Charles Reynolds, said the Rams' weightlifting season will begin Jan. 29 at Lyman.

The Rams muscle it up with Lake Brantley, state power Spruce Creek, Seminole and Lyman and Lake Howell before the SAC meet on March 8. That's at Lyman, too.

Wes Rinker, who operates Sanford Memorial Stadium, said the best-aged steaks in town are still cooked Friday nights at the Dugout Club.

Yes, Dugout Club members, it's safe to return. Wes no longer gets behind the charcoal. Call for reservations at 323-1046. Or don't call and surprise him.

The Florida High School Activities Association news letter arrived Thursday. This thing is pretty interesting. Remember coaches, read it, initial it and pass it on.

Bradenton Manatee and Bartow kept the Panhandle from sweeping the state football crowns this year. The Panhandle took all four titles last year but maybe that extra classification was good for something. Although I haven't met a coach who liked it yet.

Manatee surprised Pensacola Woodham in the AAAAA. Then coach Don Sharpe surprised Woodham and resigned. Bartow whipped Starke-Bradford in AAA. Pensacola Escambia (AAAA), DeFuntak Springs Walton (AA) and Baker (A) took the rest.

Who said three football classes per day can't produce a state championship? That's one for varsity, another for JV and a third for freshman. Until someone puts a stop to the Panhandle's "approach" to the state's most popular game, most of the titles will find their way back north.

Did you know, DeLand is the ninth biggest high school in the state? That's based on boys and girls in the upper three grades after the end of the first month of school. They are 2,481 Bulldogs.

Here's a look at some more: Oak Ridge, 11th (2,420), Winter Park 12th (2,390), West Orange, 16th (2,307), Lake Brantley, 39th (1,812), Lake Mary, 47th (1,753), Lyman 62nd (1,595), Lake Howell 66th (1,558) and Apopka 67th (1,535).

Down the list is Oviedo, 112th (1,301) and Seminole 114th (1,297). Miami Mueller is 446th with eight.

Luis Phelps, an all-stater at Seminole Community College a couple years ago, is the leading shot blocker in the Trans America Athletic Conference. Phelps, who plays for Hardin-Simmons is averaging 1.8 per game. He is 10th in rebounding with 6.9.

Also in the TAAC, Stetson's Hatters and coach Glenn Wilkes announced Martin Jenkins, a 6-6, 210-pound forward, has enrolled and will play for the Hatters next season.

Basketball

Whyte's FTs Nip Seminole, But Not Controversy

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

When Seminole High and Lake Mary High get together on the basketball court, the first three quarters are usually just a preliminary to the final eight minutes. Thursday night was no different as the last quarter packed as much excitement in it as the previous three combined.

The Lady Rams of Lake Mary used the clutch play down the stretch of Tonya Lawson, Karen DeShetler and Teri Whyte to fight off a tremendous Seminole comeback for a nailbiting 58-57 Seminole Athletic Conference victory before 201 fans at Seminole High's Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium.

"I told the kids that we might jump out by 20 or they (Seminole) might jump out by 20 early, but it's still going to go down to the end," Lake Mary coach Bill Moore said. "And that's exactly what happened."

The Lady Rams, who have won nine of their last 10, now stand at 11-2 overall and 2-0 in the SAC. Seminole fell to 8-5 overall and 2-2 in the conference. Both teams have nonconference games Monday as Seminole is at Daytona Beach Mainland and Lake Mary at Eustis.

Seminole, behind Catherine "Kitty" Anderson, rallied from a nine-point deficit with four minutes left to take the lead with two minutes remaining. Lake Mary then got consecutive baskets by Lawson and DeShetler for a 56-53 lead. For DeShetler, who got an offensive rebound and put in the followup. It was her only two points of the game.

Temika Alexander came back to hit a jumper from long range with 49 seconds left that trimmed the Lake Mary lead to 56-55. Lake Mary then tried to call a timeout but the inbounds pass was still thrown in and Anderson picked it off for Seminole and made the layup for an apparent Lady Tribe lead.

One official first said the basket was good, but then, after a conference with the other and a third person out of the stands, said Lake Mary had called the timeout and nullified the basket. The officials then gave the ball to Seminole but the Lady Tribe couldn't retake the lead.

The officials were Jim Crawford and Bill Leedy. The fan from the stands was Rick Crawford, son of Jim Crawford and also an official, though not involved with this game. Moore and Seminole coach Charles Steele both said they couldn't understand what Rick Crawford was doing on the floor.

"That was nonsense. Rick Crawford convinced them to not count the basket," an irate Steele said. "They need to get those Mickey Mouse referees out of here. There was no whistle on that play and if he (official) said there was he was lying."

"That was real cheap the way the officials took away the game like that after we worked so hard to get back in it."

Basketball officials have a self-imposed "gag rule" and won't comment on game decisions.

Seminole would have two more chances to retake the lead but couldn't convert. After Kim "Big Wheel" Johnson missed a jumper with 12 seconds left, Whyte grabbed the rebound and was fouled. The 6-4 sophomore, showing composure beyond her years, hit both free throws to sew up the victory.

"I was just thinking that I had to make those shots," Whyte said. "I wasn't really worried about it because I was pretty confident I could make them."

Whyte was a terror inside Thursday night as she hit 11 points, pulled down seven rebounds and blocked seven shots.

Lawson, a junior guard, scored nine of her career-high 21 points in the fourth quarter including a big three-point play with 2:36 left to play that erased a 51-49 Seminole lead. Both live in Sanford.

"We really wanted this game," Lawson said. "Coach (Moore) told us the game would get real tight. If I would have made that layup a little earlier, it would have been over much sooner, but we just hung in and pulled it out."

Cynthia Patterson was in foul trouble much of the game but she contributed 11 points on 9 of 11 free throw shooting and pulled down 10 rebounds. Gina Dawson, a sophomore forward, did an excellent job filling in for Patterson and Whyte as she added six points and five rebounds.

For Seminole, Anderson, a senior forward, was almost un-

Payton Captures Bell

Football

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The record shows Chicago Bears running back Walter Payton has missed one game in his 11-year career, but he doesn't agree.

Payton, named Thursday as winner of the Maxwell Club of Philadelphia's Bert Bell Award, given annually to the NFL player of the year, is proud of the length of his career, and of the success he's experienced.

"A lot of those games I've had to play with pain," he said. "I've been very lucky. I have a very, very high tolerance for pain."

"That one game I missed, it was not because I couldn't play," he added, referring to a contest in his rookie season. "It was a coach's decision. I don't feel like I missed any games."

Payton, the NFL's all-time leading rusher, was an overwhelming choice for the award over running backs Marcus Allen of the Los Angeles Raiders and Roger Craig of the San Francisco 49ers and Miami Dolphins quarterback Dan Marino.

The 34-year-old Payton rushed for 1,551 yards and scored nine touchdowns during the 1985 season, and was the third leading rusher in the league, behind Allen and Gerald Riggs of Atlanta.

He credited Chicago coach Mike Ditka with giving him a chance to play in the Super Bowl, an opportunity it appeared he might be denied as the Bears struggled for most of his time with the team.

"I looked at it and said maybe it's not going to be because it took 10 years to get where we were last year, to get to an opportunity to play in a championship game," he said.

23 Checkered Flags Wave Bright Future For Sanford Phenom

It became a common occurrence last year to see Sanford's Casey Hawthorne take the checkered flag at New Smyrna Speedway. The talented Seminole High School graduate won 23 Street Stock features in 1983. In that amazing total was a streak of 10 in a row.

Hawthorne drove a 1970 Mustang, powered by a 351 Cleveland Ford motor, built by his father Jerry and himself. Helping Casey on his Saturday nights at the races are pit crew members Andy Wall and Bob Courtney.

Hawthorne said he needed and received much sponsorship assistance. "I would like to thank my sponsors, Kar Supplies of Sanford, AA Auto Recycling of DeBary and Jerry Wilson Construction for their help," he said. The youngster knows the value of the sponsors and is quick to give them a plug.

In the four years Hawthorne has been racing, he has grown from being a baseball star in the Seminole Pony League to the top Street Stock driver in Florida. In his first full year he won six features and was voted the 1984 Rookie of the Year.

In 1985, at age 19, Hawthorne had a year that some drivers never have in a whole life time of racing. Beside the 23 features he won the 1985 Armed Forces 50 and the very prestigious 1985 100-lap Florida State Championship. He was voted the most improved Street Stock driver in Florida at the awards dinner this year in Daytona, the "Birth Place of Speed."

What does 1986 have in store for the popular driver? "I'm building a new car to run in the Thundercar class," Casey said. "It will be a 1985 Thunderbird that dad and I hope to have it finished next month."

The new car will not be ready in time for Speed Weeks but Hawthorne has been contacted by a top car owner about the possibility of driving for him during the Feb. 7-15 event.

As is usually the case in auto racing, it is a family affair with the Hawthornes, as besides father and son, mom Mazie, sister Kelly and a new member to the family — Casey's wife Theresa — who he married in October, never miss a race.

"I want to run one point season in Thundercars and then move up to Late Models," Casey said. "My Late Model will be a Ford as we think we can be very competitive against all them Chevys."

Hawthorne said some day would like to make a living driving race cars. One day a few years down the road, Sanford might see one of its own running Daytona and the other NASCAR tracks in a Grand national Car because Casey Hawthorne's ambitions can go that far. He's that good.

Miller High Life will sponsor Bobby Allison and Bobby Hill on the NASCAR Winston Cup circuit this year with both teams competing on teams owned by industrialists Bill and Mickey Stavola.

Hillin will continue to drive for the existing Stavola Brothers Racing Team. A separate team will be developed for Allison.

"This arrangement will give the Miller American Racing Team a good one-two punch in NASCAR," Sam Balnavis, manager of Miller's sports marketing department, said. "Bobby Allison is a proven quantity and still is the most popular racer in the country."

Lyn St. James from Dania, recently set a new world speed record in a Ford Mustang at Alabama International Speedway. St. James set the new world record for women at 204.233 miles per hour as she became the first woman in the world to exceed 200 miles per hour on a closed course.

"The 200 mile per hour club" St. James said. "Now I un-

Four-time winner Hurley Haywood and two new Jaguar XJR-7 GT Prototype cars are the first entries for the SunBank 24. The cars, entered by Group 44 of Winchester, VA, will be part of the 77-car field.

Jacksonville's Haywood, the all-time leading Daytona sports car winner with 12 victories has four 24-hour wins in 12 starts while Brian Redman his co-driver has two victories and a second place in 10 previous 24-hour races at Daytona.

Bears Have Flu 'Butt' McMahon Has A Pain

Super Bowl

URBANA, Ill. (UPI) — The Chicago Bears, battling the flu and a variety of injuries, are working on getting healthy before they leave for New Orleans and Super Bowl XX.

Coach Mike Ditka's starting quarterback, Jim McMahon, has a badly bruised buttock and several players, including defensive end Richard Dent, are battling the flu.

"We've got a couple of guys with a touch of the same thing I've got," Ditka said following Thursday's practice. "So we've got a few guys who aren't feeling real well, and we've got to be careful with that."

The Bears, 17-1 and unscathed upon in two playoff games, will practice Friday and Saturday under an inflatable bubble at the University of Illinois' football field in neighboring Champaign.

The club is to leave early next week for New Orleans and Super Bowl XX against the New England Patriots. Ditka said the team plans to run through its entire game plan before leaving central Illinois.

McMahon did not practice Thursday because he still is sore from the NFL title game against the Los Angeles Rams. Also sitting out were running back Matt Suhey and defensive tackle Steve McMichael.

"We explained to them (that) it's not life or death," the coach said. "If they don't feel well, stay off of the knee this week and we'll get back on it next week. Three or four days can make a lot of difference."

Ditka said he is concerned about the flu that hit Suhey and Dent, but says he won't have the other players take flu shots.

"I don't like it. I don't feel good myself, so I can imagine how they feel. I know I couldn't practice," Ditka said. "I think we'll shake it, hopefully."

McMahon said he was hurt by an illegal hit after sliding feet first against the Rams.

"He's got a bad bruise," Ditka said. "I doubt that he'll work this week at all. He threw the ball. There's no problem throwing the ball. He just can't move around."

"But you know he's had those kind of things and he's bounced back. If the game was Sunday I would be concerned."

McMahon, who sat out the end of last season and part of this season with a shoulder injury, said he has a little trouble walking.

"I got a serious pain in the butt right now," McMahon said. "It's really bothering me. ... I'm not walking real well. This hurts."

Patriots Are Loose And Focused

NFL Roundup

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) — The New England Patriots regard their trip to Super Bowl XX as a beginning, not merely an end.

"All season, (coach) Raymond Berry has talked about what it takes to become a championship team, not just what it takes to get to the Super Bowl," said running back Craig James. "You could just be fat and happy about getting there, but our goal has never been just to be there. Our goal has always been to win it all."

Berry, in his first full season as head coach, frequently told his players he wanted them "to know what it is like to be part of a championship team."

When he took over in mid-season 1984, he knew the talent existed on the team, but wasn't sure how soon it could be unified.

"I'm not surprised it happened," Berry said. "It wasn't a matter of 'if,' but of 'when.'"

"One of my major jobs was trying to get the whole organization going in the same direction. It's really something when people understand the kind of power which is released when everyone's capabilities are maximized in the same direction."

After three days off, the AFC champions began practicing Thursday for their Jan. 26 showdown in New Orleans with the NFC champion Chicago Bears. The atmosphere was loose, but very focused, quarterback Tony Eason said.

"Some people think that just because you're relaxed, that means you're being lazy too," Eason said after the 80-minute workout. "But we are relaxed and intense, there's a big difference. Believe me, we are intense."

The unusually long layoff is a result of Berry's belief that a team can never be too rested for late-season games. James said the mini-vacation was necessary.

"I really needed the time off," he said. "My legs were really hurting after the Miami game. Those days gave me the chance to get my legs under me and feel fresh again."

James gained more than 100 yards in the last two playoff games against the Dolphins and Los Angeles Raiders.

OILERS' TIMETABLE RUNS OUT
HOUSTON (UPI) — Houston Oilers General Manager Ladd Herzog's timetable for naming a new head coach runs out today.

Herzog had said the decision on whether Jerry Glanville, Paul Hackett or Dick Coury would get the job would come Wednesday at the earliest and today at the latest.

Glanville met with Herzog and Oilers owner Bud Adams Thursday afternoon, but left the team offices and no announcement was made. There were reports the announcement might not come until Monday.

A 12-year coaching veteran in the NFL, Glanville was the Oilers defensive coordinator until he was named interim coach for the final two games of the season after Hugh Campbell was fired. The Oilers lost both games under Glanville.

Hackett, who coaches the quarterbacks and receivers for the San Francisco 49ers, has five years of NFL experience.

Frieder Forecast Hits Mark, Minnesota Upsets Michigan

At the beginning of the week, Michigan coach Bill Frieder looked at his club's upcoming schedule and said he doubted the No. 2 Wolverines could remain undefeated. It took one game to prove him right.

Frieder ripped into his players following a pair of lackadaisical victories over Illinois and Purdue last week. With the heart of the Big Ten schedule approaching, Frieder said the Wolverines would have shape up for consecutive road games at Minnesota, Iowa and Michigan State.

The Wolverines did not heed the words, and Thursday night were surprised by Minnesota, 73-63, to fall from the unbeaten ranks.

Michigan, 16-1 and 4-1, suffered its first Big Ten defeat since a loss to Illinois last January, a span of 19 games. "This is the greatest victory I've been involved with as a collegian," said Minnesota senior Marc Wilson, who scored 22 of his 24 points in the second half and was 8-of-9 from the floor.

"At halftime, we had a great deal of confidence. We knew if we played hard for 20 more minutes, we'd have the upset of the year."

The Gophers contained Michigan center Roy Tarpley, who entered the game averaging 16 points but finished with 8. That, combined with 17-of-37 shooting from the field by the Wolverine guards, contributed heavily to the loss.

"When you bottle up Tarpley and our guards don't shoot well, we're in trouble," Frieder said.

Basketball

The Gophers scored 8 straight points on three baskets by Wilson, including a 3-point play, and a basket by John Shasky to open a 53-43 lead with 8:42 remaining.

Wilson scored 11 points during a four-minute span in the second half, capped at 6:36 with a basket that made it 59-47.

Minnesota improved to 11-6 overall and 1-3 in the Big Ten. Gophers coach Jim Dutcher said his club may have caught the Wolverines off guard.

"I know the coaching job Bill was facing — here's Minnesota, 0-3. Here we are 16-0. It's hard to get a team ready after the game has started," Dutcher said. Michigan has dropped six of the last 10 games it has played at Minnesota's Williams Arena.

"I don't know — maybe we needed this," Michigan guard Antoine Joubert said. "It's going to make us come back that much harder."

Elsewhere in the Top 20, No. 3 Duke clobbered Wake Forest 73-63, No. 10 Nevada-Las Vegas beat Santa Barbara 79-65, No. 12 Alabama-Birmingham fell to Western Kentucky 75-72 in overtime, No. 17 Purdue pounded Northwestern 85-64, and No. 19 Bradley smashed West Texas State 78-53.

At Durham, N.C., David Henderson scored 17 points to lead Duke, 16-0 and 4-0, over Wake Forest, 6-10 and 0-5, in an Atlantic Coast Conference game. All-America guard Johnny Dawkins added 14 for Duke. Mark Cline led the Deacons with 15 points.

At Santa Barbara, Calif., Anthony Jones scored 31 points and pulled down 9 rebounds to power UNLV in a Pacific Coast Athletic Association game. Jones scored 19 points in the first half, and his 12 points in the first 4:30 of the second half broke open the game, enabling the Rebels to improve to 16-2 overall and 5-0 in the conference.

UCF ENDS SKID, 79-62
In Orlando, the University of Central Florida snapped a 10-game losing streak with a 79-62 victory over Armstrong State. UCF improved to 2-12 with the victory. The Knights' other win was a one pointer over Georgia Southern on Nov. 30.

...Foreigners

Gilchrist and Bruce Franklin helped the Tribe sweep the next three games of that season. The Noles won, 73-63 on Dec. 22 at SCC in the Ovidio Outlook Tournament, 65-60 on Jan. 20 at Seminole, and 70-63 in the district semifinals on Feb. 22 at Seminole.

And, when the Seminoles held off the Rams, 50-45 on Dec. 18 of the season at Seminole, the winning streak jumped to four consecutive. Lake Mary, though, back in its friendly confines pulled out a 56-52 win on Feb. 1 when a five-minute scoreless streak at the end of the game cost the Noles.

So the series stands, 4-2, in favor of Seminole entering tonight's game. Seminole, despite Lake Mary's homecourt advantage, has to be the favorite. The Tribe has won eight of its last nine games to improve to 9-4. It is 3-0 in the Seminole Athletic Conference while Lake Mary is 1-0.

While McKinnon and Czerniejewski will pump a different look into tonight's clash, 80 percent of the bodies on the floor will be from Sanford. Senior guard Ray Hartsfield, senior forward Chris Jackson and junior center Oscar "Big O" Merthie are locals in the Lake Mary lineup. Sanford sophomore Terry "The Cat" Miller is the Rams' sixth man.

Richardson will be facing a new adversary on the coaching sidelines in Seminole's first-year boss Bill Klein, who replaced Mariette. Klein has a starting five of 6-3½ junior forward Rod Henderson, 6-7 sophomore center Craig Walker, 6-7 senior forward Rod Fossitt, 5-10 sophomore guard Andre Whitney and 6-0 junior guard Jerry "Stuck" Parker. Senior guard Mike Wright provides the perfect spark off the bench Juniors — forward Joe Holden, 6-8 center Brad Baird and 6-4 forward Steve Hathaway — add even more rebounding strength.

Richardson said he likes his chances — but in the next breath he is brutally realistic. "We will try and control the game by playing (a slower) tempo," he said. "We want them to take the outside shot and we want to neutralize their big people. We'll run when we can but we must be patient."

Richardson said he hopes Seminole doesn't have "a super night." If the Tribe does put it together, though, he said look out. "If we continue to play the way we've been playing and they don't have a super ballgame, then we'll be in it," he said. "If they play up to potential, we won't have a prayer. We're hoping that their inexperience will hurt them."

Inexperience has just about been Seminole's lone weakness. The Tribe lost three games early by close margins. It was blown out by Hempstead, N.Y., but then everybody in the Central Florida Classic was blown out by the powerful New Yorkers.

The Rams, too, lost all close ones early in the season. They weren't too close to Mainland at the end but they came back last Saturday and bopped Ovidio, which impressed Klein — to an extent.

"They looked good against Ovidio," he said. "But Ovidio played poorly. Of course, that could have had to do with how Lake Mary played."

Klein said the biggest factor in his team's turnaround has been the inside improvement of Walker and Fossitt along with the developing consistency of Whitney. "Our inside game is stronger and the scoring has been better, too," Klein said. "If Walker and Whitney both play to potential, then we'll be in fine shape."

Both coaches said they have a "given." Richardson said he knows Hartsfield, a three-year varsity starter, will be on Klein said the same of Henderson, who started last year as a sophomore and has been Seminole's most consistent player.

Richardson, though, points to Jackson as the key — and to Parker. "I honestly don't know how Chris will play," Richardson said. "If I did, I'd predict the winner right now. If he plays to potential, we will be in great shape."

Although the Rams are 2-7, a victory tonight would make them 2-0 in the SAC. Seminole would improve to 4-0.

GREYHOUNDS NEED LAKE MARY WIN

A team closely watching the outcome of this game is Lyman mentor Tom Lawrence. His Greyhounds, 9-3 overall, stand 2-1 in the SAC. They host Lake Brantley tonight and Lawrence said another loss would put his "Hounds in bad shape if they want to catch the Tribe."

Lyman will open with 6-5 Ralph Philpott, 6-3 Brett Marshall, 6-3 Craig Radzak, 5-11 T.J. Scaletta and 6-0 Vince Florence. Robert Thomas is the supersub and Matt Fitzpatrick lends depth at guard.

LIONS TRY TO REGROUP AT HOME

Tonight's third game is an Orange Belt Conference meeting between the Ovidio Lions (4-6, 1-0 OBC, 0-4 SAC) and Osceola at Ovidio High. Coach Dale Phillips' Lions are trying to rebound from one of their worst efforts of the year against Ovidio.

One-two scoring punch of Allen Unroe and Robb Hughes carries the offense. Sophomore Garth Bolton has taken over the point while Randy Ferguson and James Walker complete the starting five. Mark Stewart, a 6-4 forward, is working himself back into shape after an injury. Terry Campbell lends depth at guard.

Phillips said Bernell Simmons, a speedy guard, is no longer with the team.

Mets Peddle Futures, Acquire Twins' Teufel

United Press International

Billy Beane and Chris Pittaro were labeled promising players when they were drafted. That promise, however, took too long to develop.

Beane, drafted by the New York Mets in the same round as Darryl Strawberry, was traded Thursday to the Minnesota Twins for second baseman Tim Teufel.

The 23-year-old outfielder was touted a future star when the Mets claimed him with the 23rd pick of the 1980 free agent draft. The Mets even considered taking Beane, a power hitter from Encinitas, Calif., ahead of Strawberry, the No. 1 pick in that draft.

Pittaro, hailed last year by Detroit manager Sparky Anderson as one of the most promising infielders in baseball, was sent to Minnesota with Alejandro Sanchez for catcher Dave Engle.

The sixth player chosen in the 1982 draft, Pittaro was handed the second baseman's job last spring. Lou Whitaker, the All-Star second baseman, would move to third.

When Whitaker balked at the change, Anderson placed Pittaro at third. Pittaro, 24, failed to produce and the Tigers sent him to Nashville of the American Association, where he hit .194 in 60 games.

Baseball

The Twins are desperate for infielders, so Pittaro should receive a good look, probably at second.

Beane enjoyed his best season last year at Tidewater of the International League after five mediocre seasons in the low minors. He hit .284 with 19 homers and 77 RBIs.

With the Mets are overloaded with outfielders, Beane became expendable. The 6-foot-4 right-handed hitter has a shot at left fielder's job with the Twins.

The Mets also sent backup catcher Ronn Reynolds and minor league pitcher Jeff Bittinger to Philadelphia for pitcher Rodger Cole and first baseman Ron Gideon.

In other transactions, the Kansas City Royals signed shortstop Buddy Biancalana to a one-year pact, the Tigers waived third baseman Marty Castillo and Texas signed free agent pitcher Mickey Mahler to a one-year contract.

During the World Series, Biancalana, a weak hitter, batted .278 and outshined St. Louis shortstop Ozzie Smith in the field.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Tubbs Puts Unbeaten Mark On Line Against Witherspoon

ATLANTA (UPI) — World Boxing Association champion Tony Tubbs, who weighed in at a rotund 244 pounds, puts his undefeated record and heavyweight title on the line tonight against Tim Witherspoon in a scheduled 15-round bout at The Omni.

The bout marks Tubbs' first title defense since he won the heavyweight crown last April 29 by beating Greg Page in 15 rounds. The fight will be telecast by Home Box Office at 10 p.m.

Witherspoon, who has a 23-2 record with 16 knockouts, last fought Oct. 12, when he knocked out Sam Scaff in the fourth round.

Tubbs, 27, of Cincinnati, signed an agreement to fight for boxing promoter Don King in September 1984, and won the title just seven months later.

"Who could ever imagine that I could sign with Don in September and be the champ by the following April?" Tubbs said earlier this week during his final preparations for Friday's bout.

Most people recognize Michael Spinks as the true heavyweight champion of the world since he defeated Larry Holmes for the International Boxing Federation title.

Masters: Top Seeds Falling

NEW YORK (UPI) — Much to the dismay of the people who tout the $500,000 Masters as a super championship, Boris Becker stands as the last big hope to inject a ray of excitement.

With the quarterfinal round not even complete, four of the top five seeds are gone, and it is left to Becker to provide the drama of forcing a challenge against top seed Ivan Lendl in Sunday's final.

Becker disposed of the No. 3 seed, Mats Wilander, 6-4, 4-6, 6-3, in a well-played match Thursday night to reach the semifinals in his first appearance in the Masters.

Andres Gomez, a last-minute fill-in for No. 4 seed Jimmy Connors, who called in sick on Tuesday, also made it to the semis with his second straight upset, 6-3, 6-2, over Johan Kriek.

The semifinal pairings will be completed tonight when Lendl faces Tim Mayotte and Brad Gilbert plays Anders Jarryd.

Worcester: Top Seeds Breeze

WORCESTER, Mass. (UPI) — Most of the top-seeded players, including No. 1 Martina Navratilova and No. 3 Pam Shriver, breezed through their opening matches Thursday in a $250,000 women's tennis tournament.

But fourth-ranked Claudia Kohde-Kilsch had it easiest. The West German drew a first-round bye and advanced to the round of 16 when her scheduled opponent, Leigh Thompson, was forced out by flu.

Navratilova and Shriver won easily while second-seeded Hana Mandlikova struggled for a victory after a month-long layoff.

Navratilova routed Rafaella Reggi of Italy 6-1, 6-2; Mandlikova beat Melissa Gurney 6-4, 6-7 (4-7), 6-1, and Shriver eliminated Sandra Cecchini of Italy 6-3, 6-0.

In the only upset, Dianne Fromholtz Balestrat of Australia, making a comeback at age 29, ousted No. 5 Manuela Maleeva of Bulgaria 7-6 (7-5), 4-6, 6-1 in a second-round match.

Pony Baseball: Saturday Signup

The Seminole Pony Baseball League will hold a registration for the spring season Saturday at the 7-Eleven convenience store at the corner of U.S. Highway 17-92 and State Road 419 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Players age 6 through 14 are eligible.

Mike Black, league spokesperson, said 7-Eleven will give away a Big Gulp drink to every player who registers. The fees for the season are $35 for T-Ball/Pintos and $40 for Mustangs, Broncos and Ponies. There is also a family plan available which discounts the fee by $5 for each player.

A parent or guardian and a birth certificate should accompany the player. For more information, call 327-2198.

Next Saturday, Jan. 25, will be the final registration at the complex on State Road 419.

Hankins' 25 Lift Lady Hawks To 10th Consecutive Victory

By Chris Pieter
Herald Sports Writer

Erin Hankins poured in a career-high 25 points Thursday night to lead Lake Howell's Lady Silver Hawks to their 10th straight victory, 58-48, over Orlando Luther's Lady Crusaders at St. Luke's gymnasium.

"I never would have believed at the beginning of the year that we would have a 10-game winning streak," Lake Howell coach Dennis Codrey said. "The girls have worked so hard to keep it going and they've put a lot of pressure on themselves. They really haven't had a chance to relax the past three or four ballgames."

The Lady Hawks now stand at 11-3 overall and return to action Monday at home against Spruce Creek. Lake Howell returns to Seminole Athletic Conference play (1-1 record) Thursday when it hosts Seminole.

Lake Howell got off to a rather slow start as it led by just four, 8-4, after one quarter but went on a second quarter surge in which it outscored Luther, 28-17, for a 36-21 halftime lead. Luther got no closer than the final score the rest of the way.

Behind Hankins, who hit 9 of 9 from the free throw line, for the Lady Hawks, Kellee Johnson tossed in 10 points, Jolee Johnson added nine and Tammy Lewis contributed six.

Lady Lions Clip Osceola

After three quarters in hibernation, Oviedo's Lady Lions came out blazing in the fourth period and outscored Osceola's Kowgirls, 15-2, to claim a 28-22 Orange Belt Conference victory Thursday night at Kissimmee.

Oviedo, which now stands at 3-11 overall and 3-1 in the OBC, returns to Seminole Athletic Conference play Monday at home against Lake Mary. The Lady Lions are 0-2 in the SAC.

"Things looked pretty dim there for a while," Oviedo coach John Thomas said. "But we made some changes in our defense and started pressing and came back in the fourth quarter."

Oviedo took an 8-4 lead after one quarter but Osceola rallied to tie it at 12-12 at halftime. The Kowgirls outscored the Lady Lions, 8-1, in the third quarter to take a Stephanie Nelson scored six of her game-high 11 points in the fourth quarter and Cindy Wood hit three clutch free throws as Oviedo pulled out the come from behind victory.

Oviedo managed the victory while shooting just 20 percent (10 of 50) from the field.

"The second and third quarter have been our worst all year," Thomas said. "If we can go into the fourth quarter and not be down by 15 or 20, we have a chance. But I'd like us to play better all four quarters."

Dieback Most Common Problem Affecting Trees

At this time of the year, when most of the leaves have fallen from our trees, we begin to notice all kinds of problems affecting them. One of the most common is dieback.

Dieback is a process of decline which causes trees to give up a portion of their leaves and branches. It usually occurs as a result of some severe stress to the tree's root system. There is a delicate balance between a tree's roots and the number of leaves it can support. However, this process doesn't happen overnight.

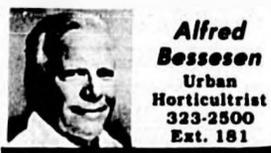

Visible dieback of a tree takes time — often quite a long time from the date the root system was injured. The larger the tree, the longer it takes for this stress to show up. With older trees, it could easily be a year or more before dieback is observed. Also, the larger the tree is, the less disturbance it can tolerate in its root system.

A small tree will adapt to almost any growing condition. On the other hand, a mature tree is "set in its ways," and can't respond favorably to changes in its environment. What can be done to prevent dieback in old trees?

Probably, the first thing we need to realize is that trees, like all living things, have a natural life expectancy. Sometimes, no matter how careful you are not to disturb a tree's environment, dieback will occur. Each year, trees grow new bark. This becomes more difficult as the tree gets older. At some point, the tree won't be able to grow enough replacement parts for those it's losing. Once a tree begins this period of decline, there's nothing you can do for it.

It is possible to extend a tree's natural life expectancy and delay this inevitable period of decline. The most important thing you can do is to protect its roots. A wound that goes deep into a tree will expose the interior to all sorts of wood-rotting fungi and boring insects. All wounds should be treated promptly to encourage rapid healing.

Be sure you keep your trees pruned away from utility lines. If you don't, the power company will and you may not be happy with the results. Always be cautious concerning the danger of electrical shock — it could be deadly! If in doubt, hire a competent expert to do the pruning for you.

Be very careful when you use weed killers in your landscape.

Some herbicides can damage trees if you apply them within 20 feet of the trunk. If you must use a herbicide, be sure it's one that is designed to kill green growth only.

One of the worst practices you can do is to start excessively fertilizing an old tree. You may think it will stimulate the tree and extend its life. In most instances, it will simply cause more problems. An old tree doesn't need an over-abundant crown. It doesn't have the root system to support this excessive growth, and the tree will become top heavy.

When the leaves of trees have fallen, it's common to see large amounts of ball moss growing, particularly in oak trees that are declining. Many people assume the moss is responsible. Not so!

Ball moss is an epiphyte. And, is in the same family as Spanish moss. Each plant is a tuft of leathery, thread-like leaves that grow one to seven inches long. The leaves are covered with silver-gray or brownish scales. Pale violet flowers grow on short spikes.

Research has shown that ball moss is not parasitic on the host plant. It receives its nutrients and moisture from the air. There have been suggestions that ball moss causes oak trees to decline simply by shading out sunlight. However, ball moss grows deep within the tree canopy where it causes very little shading of healthy tree leaves.

There is a remote possibility that ball moss could indirectly cause thinning of a tree canopy. When rain passes through a tree's leaves, it can wash away nutrients. Normally, these fall to the soil where the tree's roots take them up again. If there is enough ball moss growing, it might intercept the nutrients before they could be recycled. If this happens, the nutrient loss could cause some amount of decline.

Having your tree sprayed to kill the moss isn't necessarily the best way to deal with the problem. Just give the trees enough fertilizer to offset the nutrient interception, allowing the tree canopy to grow thicker and gradually reduce the amount of ball moss without chemical sprays. If you regularly fertilize your lawn, it will usually provide enough nutrients for a mature tree to remain healthy.

So, ball moss is not a parasite on trees and shrubs. It shouldn't cause any problems for otherwise healthy trees. If it shows up, you don't have to worry about it. Take good care of your trees! It takes a good generation for a tree to develop a cool, shading canopy. You'll want to retain yours for many years to come.

Happy gardening!

Former Teachers Don't Enjoy Playing Students' Name Games

DEAR ABBY: I am a retired schoolteacher who would like to get an important message across to the general public. Please do not walk up to a former teacher and say, "I'll bet you don't remember me."

The chances are that the teacher will not remember you because you have changed a great deal since you were a student.

First say, "Hello, I am John Jones." (Or Mary Smith, or whatever your name is.) If you are a married woman, use your maiden name. It would also help if you mentioned the year you were in his or her class.

I have had at least 10,000 students in my classes, so please cut out the guessing games and give us old schoolteachers a break.

P.S. 26 in N.Y.C.

DEAR P.S.: Schoolteachers aren't the only ones who are irritated when someone comes up to them and says, "I'll bet you don't remember me!"

If the answer is no, the only appropriate response would be, "You're absolutely right. I'm sorry. I don't."

That precludes the guessing games in which there are no winners.

DEAR ABBY: I know you must have advice in the form of a letter to "the other woman," telling her of the harm and hurt she is causing. I would like to send such advice to the woman who is interfering with my 24-year marriage, but I have trouble expressing myself without showing my anger and bitterness.

Our three children are extremely hurt and resent all the lying and deception that's been going on for nearly two years. They are 17, 20 and 22 — old enough to understand, but they are hurting and confused as I am. Awaiting your reply...

THE WIFE HE PUSHED ASIDE
DEAR WIFE: Sorry. A letter from the wife to the other woman wouldn't justify the price of postage. Don't humble yourself hoping she will see the error of her ways and send her married lover back to his family. Deal with your husband directly. Unless he was hypnotized or kidnapped, he's a free agent and an equal partner in their illicit relationship.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: Please help me! I'm really scared. I'm bulimic and I'm on the pill. I've been trying real hard to control my bulimia and have been doing real well. But I'm scared because I don't know if it lessens the effect of the dosage when I force myself to vomit.

I take my pill just like the doctor told me — I never skip a pill and I take it as directed. I can't have you answer me at home because my parents open my mail, and if they find out I'm on the pill, they'll disown me. I'm 21 and plan to get married next year, but my parents would never understand.

SCARED

DEAR SCARED: Bulimia is far more serious than you realize. You need to talk to a physician about this. You are 21, and old enough to make your own decisions with regard to birth control.

DEAR ABBY: "Stumped in Baltimore" seems upset when people ask her if her baby is her grandchild. She is 45 years old.

Our last child was born when I was 51 and my wife 42. This little boy was a much-wanted child, and when people would ask, "Is that your grandson?" I would answer in the affirmative, "Yes, he is my grand son!" (With the accent on the "grand".)

That was 23 years ago, and believe me, he is still my grand son — even though I'm not his grandfather!

C.L. CONCKLIN, M.D., CORPUS CHRISTI, TEXAS

CONFIDENTIAL TO ENGAGED TO BE MARRIED IN

BELLEVILLE, ILL.: Yes, I wrote a booklet titled, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," but the best advice I can offer a bride is: See your doctor (and preferably a gynecologist) for a physical checkup and authoritative answers to all your questions before marriage.

If birth control is desired, it should be planned before the wedding. This includes Catholic girls, too, as the rhythm method should be clearly understood to be successfully practiced. (Too many young wives, who had planned on working for a few years, discover to their horror that they got pregnant on their honeymoon.)

Many couples experience shock and grief on learning that they are unable to consummate the marriage due to some slight physical abnormality that could have been easily corrected by minor surgery.

Motherly advice from Aunt Liz or "tips" from one of the girls are fine, but before a bride keeps her date with the preacher, she should keep one with her doctor.

(Do you have to write letters because you don't know what to say? Thank you notes, sympathy letters, congratulations, how to decline and accept invitations and how to write an interesting letter are included in Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Send your name and address clearly printed with a check or money order for $2.50 and a long, stamped (39 cents) self-addressed envelope to: Dear Abby, Letter Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.)

Check Your Attic And Closets

Yesterday's Castoffs Are Today's Collectibles

By Susan Loden

All that glitters isn't gold. Sometimes it's glass. And for the collectors of depression era glass the sparkling items that have caught their fancy were giveaways or could be had for pennies in their initial marketing.

But some of those pieces of kitchenware glass and pottery that might have been given as premiums at gasoline stations, movie houses or with food products in the 1920s and '30s, are worth hundreds of dollars in today's collectibles market.

But those who want to break into glass collecting shouldn't lose hope. There may be a stash of collectible glass tossed from mom's or granny's kitchen and stored in your attic. Or you may have inherited a few pieces and have been using them as dishes to feed Fido, without realizing how stylishly he dines.

Good glass is rarely found at flea markets or garage sales, where you might expect to pay a fraction of their value to take them home. If they had been offered for cut-rate sale a savvy dealer or collector would likely very quickly snatched them up. Occasionally bargains can be found, but collectors say your best bet for buying glass is at a collectors' show or through trade publications.

The way to find out if you already have the beginnings of a depression era glass collection, according to Altamonte Springs collector Benita Craig, is to scout around at glass and antiques shows, or to pick up a book or two on glass and pottery of that era.

...Glass

Mrs. Craig realized what she had, a clear blue bowl with a cherry blossom design, a pink floral adorned bowl and a pair of candlesticks, which had been her grandmother's, after she went to a Sanford glass show and saw similar items.

That whetted her appetite as a collector who was for awhile content to collect cookie jars in the transparent, colored, machine-made glass, known as "depression glass," labeled for the era when it added a bright touch to tables where there often was a shortage of food.

Initially dime store bargains or the containers for store-bought cookies and crackers, Mrs. Craig said that today these cookie jars are worth about $30 each, and that there are a couple of rare ones valued at $1,000.

"I don't have the two that are quite rare," she said.

However, Mrs. Craig's collection has gone beyond her grandmother's hand-me-downs and cookie jars, to include examples of other glasswork from the depression era. However she shuns carnival glass, which is an iridescent, colored glass — the poor man's attempt in the early 20th Century to imitate the metallic look of expensive Tiffany pieces.

Carnival glass is a bit flashy for Mrs. Craig's tastes, but she is drawn to the baskets and tableware made of depression glass and has further expanded her interest to include kitchen pottery with brightly painted fruit and floral designs.

"There's a lot of variety in the pottery. I like the pretty colors," she said. And Mrs. Craig has a few pieces of Fiesta Ware, heavy pottery dinnerware, characterized by its bright colors. Fiesta Ware, produced first in 1936 is enjoying a revival in popularity, which Mrs. Craig said is spurred in part by the fact the even if the pieces are of varied colors a collector can acquire an interesting and servicable set, which can stand up to use.

Collectible American glass of the depression era, remains functional and can be washed and used as it was in its heyday, Mrs. Craig said. However collectors are likely to show great caution with their prized pieces and usually have security systems in their homes to protect their treasures from thieves.

Bret Keiffer, the 25-year-old president of the Central Florida Depression Era Glass Club, said the treasures not only have to be protected from pilferers but buyers must also beware of reproductions.

In many cases, Keiffer, who started collecting depression glass about seven years ago after picking up a green, cameo dinner plate for 75 cents at a yard, said what seems to be depression era glass is really a reproduction.

In some cases it's hard to tell the difference, because makers have gotten their hands on original molds. But some reproductions can be singled out because of a variance in color, or there may have been minor changes in the design, Mrs. Craig said.

For example a cherry may be missing or added to a design. The contemporary glass may also be thicker.

It takes a bit of research, experience, comparison or assistance from a collector or dealer, sometimes to pinpoint if the glass is authentic, she said.

Experts also say that usually old glass will have scratch marks on the bottom surface, etched in during years of use, which new pieces won't have.

To learn more about depression era glass, to find out what it really is and if you already have the makings of a collection you might check out the Central Florida Depression Era Glass Club's seventh annual show and sale is scheduled for Jan. 25 and 26 at the Sanford Civic Center in Sanford.

The show is open to the public, with admission to the preview on Friday Jan. 24, being $5, and entitling the buyer to visit all three days of the show. Admission on Saturday and Sunday will otherwise be $2.50 for each day.

Thirty-four dealers from across the nation are scheduled to display their glass, offering some for sale. Included will be Heisey, Cambridge, Fenton and Forstoria glass, as well as collectibles and pottery.

Special guests will be Gene Florence, author of several depression glass books and Nora Koch, editor of a glass trade publication, The Daze.

The local glass club meets the first Thursday of each month at 8 p.m. at the Altamonte Springs Community Chapel, on State Road 436, just north of U.S. Highway 17-92 in Altamonte Springs.

Do Theme Songs Create Hit TV Shows?

By Dick Kleiner

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Is there a connection between the theme music of television shows and the success or failure of those shows?

I think there is.

It seems to me, for example, that one big reason for the success of "Simon & Simon," the CBS series starring Jameson Parker and Gerald McRaney, is its driving, catchy theme.

There have been several other private-eye series as good, maybe even better, than "Simon & Simon" from the standpoint of dramatic content, acting skills and production values. But they didn't have that theme (by Barry DeVorzon and Michael Towers) that grabs the viewer by the ears and drags him back to the set week after week.

Top-rated "Miami Vice" has a hit theme song backed by its own video recording. And the popularity of the fast-paced police series is a key reason behind the increasing use of rock music on TV programs.

Elsewhere, the theme of "Airwolf" is head and music above the themes of competing action-adventure shows. "Airwolf" made it; the others didn't.

"Murder, She Wrote" is another hit, and another show that has a theme that immediately captures the viewer and almost commands his attention.

Steven Gottlieb thinks I'm wrong.

Gottlieb is a 28-year-old whiz, a lawyer who decided he'd rather make records. The first product of his brand-new career and brand-new company is a two-record set, "Television's Greatest Hits," containing 65 theme songs from TV shows of the '50s and '60s.

And Gottlieb's position is that much of the new album comes from shows that were not hits and yet produced music that has become memorable.

"One of the greatest TV themes of all," Gottlieb says, "was 'Secret Agent Man' for the 'Secret Agent' series. That was a show that did not do well. 'The Jetsons' was another one that had a fairly short life as a program, but the song has hung around. 'Gilligan's Island' has been a big success in syndication, but it wasn't a big success when it was aired originally. Yet the music has long been a hit."

Gottlieb and I differ on one show, whose theme is included on the record. That show is "The Patty Duke Show."

"That program has been off the air for years and years," Gottlieb says, "and it is a show that is not in syndication. I cannot remember ever seeing it while I was growing up. I'm 28, and it ran from '63 to '67, so I was under 10 years old when it was on."

"I don't have any clear recollection of the show, but I know the lyrics to the theme song by heart. I can barely remember the premise of the show, but I believe that today you could walk into almost any college dormitory and you will find people who can sing the Patty Duke theme song — even though they may have never seen the show."

My position is that I remember the show clearly, but I cannot remember the theme song at all.

Maybe that's the difference between someone (Gottlieb) whose life is music and someone (me) who thinks music is nice stuff to have in the background.

Still, I think shows that have catchy, memorable theme music stand a much better chance of survival in the ratings jungle than those that don't.

Gottlieb may eventually prove my point, because he says he is going to continue putting out records of TV themes. In fact, he is currently preparing "Television's Greatest Hits, Volume 2," which will have 65 more themes, these from the period up to '73. And then, in a year or so, there probably will be a third volume, with themes from the late '70s and the '80s.

"Candidly," says Gottlieb, who evidently lives in the TV past, "I am not well versed in the themes between '75 and the present — except for one of my favorites, 'The Rockford Files.' So when it comes to Volume 3, I will have a lot of homework to do."

He says he doesn't even remember how the theme song to "Simon & Simon" goes. He believes Volumes 2 and 3 will find an audience, but, to him, they will never equal Volume 1.

What the first volume is," he says, "is a statement of TV history. It is a vital part of the shared American experience. Those shows whose themes are on this record were part of our childhood games and our national idiom. It's much more than just TV shows. It was our life."

Country Just Like Cornbread

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Ricky Skaggs, the Country Music Association's Entertainer of the Year, says no matter what he sings, he's going to sound as "country as a piece of cornbread."

The talented musician contends that he could play anything from rock to jazz, but he's firmly committed to the traditional sounds of country music.

Skaggs was to embark on his second tour of Europe in eight months on Jan. 16. The schedule includes 15 dates in Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Holland, Belgium, West Germany, France, Ireland, Northern Ireland, Scotland and England.

Skaggs said the tour is important to the industry and he's making it because he's dedicated to country music.

"I think if someone of my stature had gone over there (to Europe) four or five years ago knowing they were not going to make any money, it would have made my job a lot easier," Skaggs said in an interview at his Nashville office.

The Kentucky native said his tour last May in Europe "planted the seeds" for his latest project.

"We're probably not gonna make any money this time. The Lord willing, we're still gonna go. As long as we can break even and pay our bills, we're okay."

"They're begging us to open up the market. My tour last

May rejuvenated interest in country music in Europe. They hadn't had it in so long. A lot of the records are not even released over there. They have to beg, borrow and steal the records.

"They like the traditional kind of country music. They don't know the pop-oriented acts. They don't acknowledge them to be country. They consider country (to be) Ricky Skaggs, Reba McEntire, George Strait and The Judds."

"The European fans look on us as a symbol — heroic and special. I do clean country music, not pushing the cheating and drinking songs. They like a variety of bluegrass, rockabilly, gospel and western swing."

Hill Street Blues Has Macho Buntz

By Vernon Scott

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Cops in TV series are most often presented as real sweethearts, public spirited angels of the streets serving and protecting citizens from the bad guys.

Their image is part of a great American tradition which reflects the constabulary as knights in black and white cruisers, a thin blue line between anarchy and civilization.

Kids are told to find a policeman when they are in trouble. There's the tradition of New York for the bluff Irish cop pinching an apple from the neighborhood fruit vendor?

The cops in "T.J. Hooker," "Cagney & Lacey" and other weekly shows are pillars of rectitude and virtue.

Then there's Lt. Norman Buntz of "Hill Street Blues," the archetypal macho, swaggering, chauvinistic bully.

Buntz is the sort of cop law-abiding citizens fear will pull them over to the curb for a traffic violation. No mercy from this mean-faced, power-crazed minion of the law.

There's a latent brutality about Buntz that suggests most citizens might be more safe in the hands of a mugger.

On the other hand, those of a felonious persuasion would think first of Buntz when it comes to proposing a bribe.

Until Buntz came along, "Hill Street's" nearest thing to a crooked cop was Johnny LaRue, played by Kiel Martin.

Actor Dennis Franz plays Buntz with uninhibited delight. He's known cops like Buntz and isn't too fond of the bull-necked, heavily muscled stereotype, one of whom can be found in almost every police department.

Balding, barrel-chested and mustachioed, Franz, even out of character, is a menacing sight.

A Chicago native who served 11 months in Vietnam, Franz has appeared in such movies as "Body Double," "The Fury," "Remember My Name," "Dressed to Kill," "Blowout" and "Psycho II," mostly in villainous roles.

"I've met many cops like Buntz in Chicago," Franz said during a recent lunch break at the studio. "They have an attitude that I try to convey based on intimidation when need be. (They're) confrontational."

"I suppose a lot of people's hearts sink when a guy like Buntz flashes his badge."

"The producers brought him into the series for his abrasiveness that contrasts with the smooth-running system in the precinct. There's a tendency among the other cops not to like him because he's fairly bigoted and a womanizer."

"But he's a tough guy physically and the other cops respect him."

Buntz is actually a resurrection of sorts for "Hill Street." Franz first appeared on the show in 1982 as Bad Sal Benedetto, a vicious narcotics cop who eventually committed suicide.

"Benedetto lasted five episodes," Franz said with a grin. "He didn't endear himself when he punched out one of Hill Street's favorite cops, Andy Renko. Benedetto was really bad news. He was mixed up in a drug scam and killed people. The writers really had to kill him off."

"I'm surprised how few viewers have complained about or even reacted to the fact that Sal Benedetto has been revived in another character. I guess enough years have passed that most people have forgotten about Benedetto. Those who remember are probably glad Benedetto is back in another role."

"To be honest, I couldn't believe they killed him off in the first place because he was such a fascinating character." Last year, when the producers felt the show needed some new directions, "they brought me back as Buntz," said Franz. "He's the last cop a criminal would like to encounter and maybe the first one a person in trouble would want to see."

"But in the context of the precinct, Buntz represents some bad blood who gives the other characters an opportunity to play off."

"The series had been criticized in the past for the buddy-buddy relationships among the policemen on the show. The group needed an odd nickel, and Buntz is that guy. It's forced me to go to some dislikable extremes as a lout and a brute," Franz said.

"The rest of the cast has been together for six years, but I am happy that they've made me feel welcome and at home as a permanent fixture. That's a big change from just being a guest star or recurring character."

"Not that friendship and warmth would mean all that much to Buntz."

Glen Campbell, "It's Just A Matter Of Time"
There is some excellent music on this latest Glen Campbell album, including the title song, "It's Just A Matter Of Time." Most of the selections are downbeat and show the reflective side of Campbell. Perhaps the best cut is the haunting "Wild Winds." In this same vein are "Rag Doll" and "Call Home." Special mention should be made of "Cowpoke," the only cut approaching upbeat on the album. It's a tribute to cowboys and includes a fine singing performance by Campbell. Glen Campbell fans should be ready for his serious side when they listen to this album. (Atlantic America 90483-1)

We are desperately searching for the name of the dog on the TV series "Petticoat Junction." There are about 20 trivia fans here in western Nebraska waiting for the answer. Thank you so much, it will give us all a good night's sleep again. — C.R., Gering, Neb.

Nothing silly or trivial about the name of a dog on a long-gone TV series. After all, what could possibly be more important than that? I called my friend June Lockhart, who was on the show, and she said that the dog never did have a name. It was just Dog or "the dog." She says it was like the robot on her other show, "Lost In Space," which was just Robot or "the robot." In real life, the Petticoat Junction dog was called Higgins, and later when he became a movie star he changed his name to Benji.

Dear Dick — I've watched "Knots Landing" for a while, and I wonder if Tonya Crowe was the original Olivia Cunningham. I think so, but I'm not sure. Am I right? — E.Y.S., Knoxville, Tenn.

Yes, you are. Tonya has played Olivia on the show, since it began in 1980.

Dear Dick — My friend and I have a disagreement about something. Could you please clarify it? Is the car on "Knight Rider" a Pontiac Trans Am or a Chevrolet Camaro? — A.T., Houston, Texas.

Ask Dick Kleiner

It's a Trans Am and it has always been a Trans Am, and the people at "Knight Rider" tell me that even the next generation car, which is in the works, will be based on the Trans Am.

Dear Dick — This is important to me. Nancy Ferman has been on the "Today" program for many years. She is pretty, has a nice speaking voice and a nice personality. Yet, in all that time she has never had anything to do but say something like, "And, now, back to Brian," or some such filler. I am wrong — once she did conduct a short interview and, incidentally, did very well with it. But how come they don't have her do more? — J.R.E.M., Santa Maria, Calif.

The "Today" people say you are wrong about Nancy, that they utilize her talents — and they agree with you about her talent — considerably. She does feature pieces — recent examples were a story about setting holiday tables and Christmas toys — and they consider her a top feature reporter. She is not a journalist so she doesn't do news stories, but she has her niche and fills it well.

Dear Dick — Please help! Do you know if Eve Plumb, of "The Brady Bunch," is dead? If she is, how? And when? And how old was she? — V.W., Houston.

The actress is still living.

Dear Dick — Please put my mind at ease regarding the following questions: Was Barry Fitzgerald any relation to Arthur Shields? Is Patrick Swayze any relation to ex-newscaster John Cameron Swayze? Is Guy Stockwell any relation to Dean Stockwell? Is John Stockwell any relation to Dean Stockwell? — J.L.G., Grand Rapids, Mich.

Fitzgerald and Shields were brothers, and so are Guy and Dean Stockwell. Patrick is no relation to John Cameron. And I never heard of John Stockwell. So I have put most of your mind at ease.
