Fighting French Seal Trap Around Rommel's Troops

Montgomery's Guns Shower Havoc On Nazis, Despite Rain, Sandstorms

(By Associated Press)

Secretary of War Stimson said today fighting French troops had made contact with other French legions in a flanking movement around the southern end of Mareth line in Tunisia, thereby sealing the trap on 250,000 Axis troops under Marshal Rommel.

A bitter struggle appeared in the offing as the British eighth army made exploratory attacks at Rommel's Mareth line in Tunisia.

Rain and sandstorms prevented large scale operations but General Montgomery's big guns were reported raining havoc on Mareth defenses.

The fighting French captured Mezaouel, 25 miles southeast of Gafsa, apparently clearing the way for the Allies to drive to the Gulf of Gabes behind the Mareth line. All Allied communications said Allied troops repelled an attack yesterday west of Sedjenane in the northern sector and repelling continued in the central sector.

In Washington, Secretary of War Stimson said the Allied Tunisian forces "had struck the key of the fighting last week" although losses on both sides "have been substantial." He said more than 1,000 Axis prisoners have been taken.

Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's British Eighth Army began testing Marshal Rommel's crippled land forces yesterday by attacking a "bottle-neck" position in which Montgomery promised to give the enemy a "safety zone" if they did not "surrender like a rat in a trap."

French troops were manning Rommel's western flank between Tebour and Gafsa, and Allied pressure also was directed on the Axis lines of Col. Gen. Jürgen von Arnim in the north.

Allied patrol also were "extremely active" in the southern Tunisia where the British First Army is stationed, particularly in the Sedjenane area, a high command communique said.

Standley States Aid Opinion Was Personal View

U.S. Lend-Lease To Other Nations Is Over Nine Billion

WASHINGTON, Mar. 11, (AP)—Sumner Welles, acting Secretary of State, today said Ambassador William Standley had made clear in a report to the State Department he was speaking in a personal capacity when he told correspondents the Soviet people were being kept in ignorance of American aid.

Admiral Standley, conferred with Foreign Secretary, Molotov yesterday afternoon at the Kremlin, who days after his complaint at a press conference that American aid to Russia had not been sufficiently acknowledged.

There was no immediate indication whether Standley had sought to explain his complaint, made at a press conference at the embassy.

Newly arrived from a visit to Kulybster, Standley had awaited a conference with Molotov, and it was understood, with Marshal Stalin, premier, even before his press conference statement.

WPB Considers Tackling Labor Problems On Regional Basis

WASHINGTON, Mar. 11, (AP)—"Concentration" of civilian industries is at a virtual standstill and WPB officials are seeking other answers to manpower, transportation and material shortages, it was revealed today.

Authorities are considering tackling the problem now on a regional basis by halting less essential industries where manpower is urgently needed for war work. While letting the same kind of civilian plants operate in areas of less severe labor shortages.

However, labor turnover, not absenteeism, is the most serious problem of the moment, Dr. William Haber, director of the Bureau of Program Planning and Review of the War Manpower Commission, said in New York before the American Public Welfare Association at the Hotel New Yorker.

The labor turnover in war industries varied from 8 to 10 percent monthly," Dr. Haber said. "Labor pitting is the principal cause and we are attempting to stop this practice by setting up employment stabilization agreements between employers and labor."

Under stabilization agreements employers agree to cease pitting workers from other war industries and workers agree to stay with their jobs.

"Absenteeism is an important problem, of course," he said, but not nearly as dangerous as the high turnover rate. Normal absenteeism was from 2 to 4 percent, but now it has jumped to as high as 15 percent.

"We must add approximately 4,000,000 persons to the war industry and change over 10 million of the civilian work force. Another 1,000,000 men will be inducted into the armed services."

"However, the man-power problem is not going to be solved by adding up totals and citing figures. It will no longer exist only when every essential industry has the right man at the right place and at the right time to do the necessary job."

Dr. Haber said this problem will be met "by various devices and processes" in December, 1942, only 38 percent of the persons asked by the United States Employment Service to switch to war work did so, he said. He said many office and industrial workers may be asked to work on farms during their vacations.

He received his regiment in June 1918 and served at the front until the Armistice was signed and then with the Army of Occupation in Germany until April, 1919.

For military merit Commander Boyle was awarded the Purple Heart medal by the United States Government and the Croix de Guerre by the French Government.

He served as commander of the local post of the American Legion in 1928 and 1927 and at present is service officer of the legion.

Commenting on the Lanham act, Mr. Lawrence stated that it was a real, necessary act, the purpose of which was to enable as many mothers as possible to engage in war work. The more mothers that work the more men may be released for war service and the more children can work," he said.

Daytime Nursery For Children Is Subject Of Meet

Stressing the necessity of continuing services for pre-school children whose mothers are employed in war industries, Mrs. Marion C. Dodge, nursery school specialist of the State Department, addressed a meeting of city and civic leaders and members of the Seminole County Defense Council, and a representative of the Sanford Air Station, Tuesday afternoon at the hotel.

Mrs. Dodge outlined a plan whereby funds may be secured by the County for this purpose, as embodied in an amendment to the Lanham act, whereby $300,000,000 has been appropriated by the government to meet needs for children's services, especially in war areas.

An application will be made by the County School Board in order to secure funds for these services, she added.

Prior to making this application a survey will be made of the county to determine the number of mothers gainfully employed, and the number of children in need of pre-school services, Mrs. Dodge stated.

This survey, according to Supt. W. F. Lawton, will be made by the Sanford Air Station, and the local post of the American Legion in 1928 and 1927 and at present is service officer of the legion.

Commenting on the Lanham act, Mr. Lawrence stated that it was a real, necessary act, the purpose of which was to enable as many mothers as possible to engage in war work. The more mothers that work the more men may be released for war service and the more children can work," he said.

"It is hoped that eventually we may be able to have care of all school children up to 12 years of age during out of school hours, he added. "This will be one of the means by which we help solve the child laboring problem."

Red Armies Capture 44 Towns On Central Front In Russia

(By Associated Press)

Narrow Corridor Remains Only Nazi Means Of Escape Toward Smolensk

Soviet headquarters today declared the Red armies on the central front had captured at least 44 towns and villages, crushed stiffening German resistance and advanced to within 80 miles of Smolensk.

Dispatches said the Russians had all but completed the encirclement of Vyasma, leaving the Germans only a narrow corridor for retreat toward Smolensk. Red columns were reported driving forward with utmost speed along the broad front with the Germans resisting bitterly.

The Germans claimed their forces had driven closer to Khar'kov, destroying two Soviet regiments, and Rostov, said a "ferocious engagement" was developing south of the city.

The Russians earlier today said they might also punched new holes in Nazi positions below Lake Iznia on the front north-west of Moscow, capturing several more localities on the approaches to Sluzka Russia. Nazi 10th Army headquarters, a midnight bulletin disclosed.

German recovery of approximately 100 miles of strategic territory in the Ukraine around Khar'kov, admitted by Moscow Tuesday night, had threatened to over-shadow the continuing Red Army successes on the central front, but the latest bulletin indicated the Russians now were holding firm there.

South and southwest of Khar'kov, said the communique, recorded by the Soviet Monitor, "our troops repulsed fierce attacks of enemy tanks and infantry. The capture of Ilyan on the central front put the Russians 70 miles northwest of Vyasma in a further flanking position that would surround Nazi eastern positions. Vyasma itself was impelled by Russian columns driving close to the town from the east and north. The midnight bulletin said these latter columns had "overwhelmed the enemy's defenses" and captured scores of families on the approaches to Vyasma.

Russian advances in this area made it likely that the Germans soon would abandon Vyasma. Reports the Russians announced the capture of Rely yesterday in a special communique. Berlin already had acknowledged its loss, saying it was evacuated "according to plan."

Only 180 miles west of Moscow, and the Soviet's ultimate goal on this front is Smolensk. The central front yesterday had 230 miles west of the Soviet capital. Marshal Timoshenko's continuing drive to the northwest would surround Rostov. It was said to have resulted in the capture of 18 towns, 12 military, 66 machine-guns, 1,900 rifles, 12,000 grenades, 1000 machine-guns, and other material during the last two days.

Congress Ignores President's Cradle-To-Grave Security Plan

Pepper Says No Site Chosen For Naval Hospital

WASHINGTON, Mar. 11, (AP)—Senator Pepper (D-Fla.) today said Congress had ignored President Roosevelt's plan to provide cradle-to-grave security for all.

Pepper said the plan, which would provide for the care of all children from birth to death, was a "noble precedent" and one for which the OPA should be highly commended.

Lancaster, he said, would work in conjunction with the State Chamber of Commerce, the Florida Economic Advancement Council and other organizations.

It also recommended that labor be assured its "essential safeguards of democracy"—collective bargaining, fair wages and hours, healthy and effective working conditions and "responsibility in organization and sharing in management."

For the farmer it recommended "measures to maintain the fair share of the farmers in the benefits of the expanding economy with opportunity for higher standards of living and greater security."

Doctors Say Madame Chiang Needs Rest

NEW YORK, March 11, (AP)—Madame Chiang Kai-shek's physicians announced Wednesday that it was essential that her proposed transcontinental tour be curtailed as well as postponed.

Postponement of her appearance in Chicago, the coming week end and subsequent scheduled appearances in San Francisco, Los Angeles and Ottawa was announced last night.

Madame Chiang's physicians issued the following statement: "Madame Chiang Kai-shek, since her discharge from the hospital three weeks ago, has carried out an extraordinarily heavy program of activities. This has naturally interrupted her convalescence and has decreased her narrow margin of reserve strength. Madame Chiang's physicians, therefore, consider it essential that she postpone and curtail her tour to the west."

There was no implication of how long the postponement was to be nor how the trip would be curtailed.

Mme. Chiang underwent an operation shortly after her arrival in the United States Nov. 27.

Since 1906 the British infant mortality rate has fallen from 184 to 53 per thousand.

Moscow Misunderstanding

Solomon remarked that "he who would have friends must show himself friendly." And military alliances, no less than personal friendships, should be based on this principle.

Admiral William H. Standley, American ambassador to Moscow, has brought a serious problem into the open. Premier Stalin has complained much about not receiving more help from Britain and America, and seems to assume that Russia is fighting alone against the common enemy.

It has always been less than they wanted to do, because of the difficulties encountered, but a large stream of war supplies, including food as well as munitions, has been going to Russia.

It is right that a nation should be proud of its own achievements. But is it really necessary, as the ambassador expresses it, that the Russian government should give the Russian people the impression that they are pulling themselves up entirely by their own boot straps?

Historic Bones: In China both historians and everyday folk collect dragons' bones. The average man thinks these bones (which of course never belonged to dragons, but to cattle of many centuries ago), when pounded into powder, possess medicinal properties good for what ails you.

On such bones the Chinese man of 3,500 years ago wrote questions on which he wanted advice from the gods. The cracks which appeared when the bones were heated were supposed to show the gods' replies.

Now the war has put a stop to Prof. Creel's labors. All who are curious to know what occurred in ages past will hope that in the next year or two all these historic bones will not be ground to powder by seekers for medicine.

Buffet Service: No longer will most of the favorite restaurants serve in the former style. The dash with which the favorite waiter lifts the silver bell from the steaming plate, the gesture with which he gives the hungry diner a whiff of the glorious aroma, and the glance at the beauty of the garnishings before he begins to serve, will soon be gone for the duration.

Buffet service is the order of the day. It grows and spreads from restaurant to restaurant. It's cafeteria style nowadays, and let the diner carry his own tray, and if he forgets the salt he has only himself to blame.

Most Americans are good sports. Once they realize the necessity for doing things for themselves they rather enjoy it—and enjoy the knowledge that all the pioneering skills are not lost. They like the feeling of spending easy money when they have it, but they also enjoy being competent and bragging about it.

Outnumbered: Before the fall of Manila a Jap officer, harassed by a marring sharpshooter on top of a steep hill, dispatched his entire platoon to knock off the leatherneck Shorty, the platoon returned, minus several men and also minus the marine.

"Why have you come back?" the officer demanded. "So sorry," spoke up a Jap noncom, "but there were two marines."—Yank.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

There is an old gag about the W-1 in those various agencies which have to do with motor transportation and manpower.

It's the farm population variation of running down to the corner grocery or drug store—only sometimes it's ten, 15 or 20 miles, instead of a few blocks.

Farm production and farm economy these days are built on the idea that spare parts, the freight car, the grocery store, and so forth are only an hour or two away, at the most.

The same holds for family entertainment. Farm sales, socials, dances, movies, county meetings and such aren't just around the corner as are their counterparts in the cities.

Some officials are beginning to wonder if a little extra gasoline poured into the farm stream might not turn the outgoing tide of farm labor.

Officially, it isn't being publicly discussed yet, but off the record, you can get several answers.

In the first place the limitation on motor fuel (and especially in those sections where the sure driving is banned) is playing havoc with farm life, social and economically.

Hired hands and youngsters, particularly, have an added incentive to leave farm jobs and go either into the armed forces or the high-pay wartime industries which provide urban diversions as well as the money to indulge them.

From the lower-income brackets come numerous reports of farmers being urged by their families to desert the land simply because farm isolation is too great a bore or too much of an economic sacrifice.

It's apparent that the farm gasoline situation is rapidly shaping into a social problem that goes much deeper than just keeping the essential tractors and other machinery sufficiently fueled.

HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, Mar. 11, (WW)—A pretty little lady who won two Oscars and ran away from Hollywood is back on our town.

Lula is in the kind of role that won her two academy awards in her three years here before if you saw "The Great Ziegfeld" or "The Good Earth" or even some of the pretty awful later pictures that drove her away from M-G-M and Hollywood—you'll remember Lula.

The small, dark-eyed, the wifely heart-shaped face, and the haunting quality that was part gamine but mostly pure soul.

Lula even today won't say that it was the bad pictures which caused her to throw up her picture career. But in her still-lit-up eyes you can see the pain.

Let me tell you first about the picture I first met, the intense little unknown who was first from Europe, dewy with the urge to act for its own sake—"To give and give and do the most beautiful thing I can do." Lula is trying to do it.

"I was identical, naive," she says today, "and I must have an amazing amount of people when they said to me, 'meet you and we'll see what you can do.'"

She's been away too long—five years—but now she's back, steady in a movie about the Czechoslovakian underground, "Hostages." Sergeant Bish's Sole Job In Army Is Meeting Girls

AP Features KEARNS FIELD, Utah, Mar. 11—This is the Army—with variations, and Tech. Serg. Elbert Bish loves it. Sergeant Bish's sole duty is to meet girls. He makes the rounds of soda fountains, movie houses and other public places in Salt Lake City just to meet girls. His approach sounds like the old come-on: He offers them a good job.

Bish is no wolf. He's honestly looking for girls to fill scores of positions open at the basic training center of the Army Air Force technical training command here.

The idea of tagging girls in public places came to Bish after girls stayed away in droves from the employment offices. His superior officers gave in after remembering he is a married man and a father.

So far civil service has employed more than 100 stenographers and clerks to whom the sergeant spun his lies. Bish estimates he has approached more than 300 and only one took him to be a "crab guy." He dissolved her suspicions so quickly that she was one of the first to take a job at Kearns under the Bish go-getter plan.

Positions for girls at the field pay from $1,200 to $2,600 per year for a 40 hour week. And there's always the free soft drink Sergeant Bish is glad to buy for his prospects.

Hillsborough Leader Rules On Absenteeism

TAMPA, Mar. 11 (FNS)—Absenteeism reared its ugly head in the Hillsborough county school set-up last week and county school superintendent E. L. Robinson ruled that "The death or illness of a mother-in-law" is not grounds for an "absent with pay" claim of a school teacher.

Existing school laws of the state, Robinson explained, allow a teacher to be absent five days a year without loss of compensation in the event of illness of the teacher, or illness or death of a mother, father, brother or sister, son or daughter.

The ruling was no reflection on "mother-in-law" but there are cousins and uncles and aunts, and the line simply must be drawn somewhere, he explained.

Florida railway officials state that troop and civilian travel by Pullman has reached an all time high. Pullman Company estimates indicate that approximately one billion passenger miles were traveled by sleeping car during the month of January.

AMERICAN PLAN

TOPEKA, Kan., Mar. 11 (AP)—"It," wrote a prisoner to Jail Keeper S. R. Purdue, "it offends me definitely to say that we haven't been getting quite enough to eat, etc., etc." The captain checked over the recent menu "It," he replied, "it offends me definitely that you are in jail and that the taxpayers have to feed you at all. We did not invite you to stay with us and hope that in the future you will register at some other hotel."

Seventy-one per cent of British children under five are provided with fruit juice and cod liver oil by the government.

TRIPPING THE LIGHT FANTASTIC over the "balanced beam," these girls are undergoing the course of commando training which will ready them for the WAVES, WAACS, and SPARS. Part of the course at New York City College's School of Business, the training comprises discipline, drill and classroom periods in history and theory. (International)

"Plant Every Seed To Grow" Is Good Motto Of Victory Gardeners

By HENRY JOHNSON

Victory gardeners by the thousands are being planted this year, in both town and country, as people realize the seriousness of the food situation and desire to insure themselves and their families an ample supply of delicious vegetables. The idea is a good one, and public agricultural agencies are doing everything possible to help gardeners succeed.

When foods are scarce, however, materials for producing them are none too abundant. Seeds, fertilizers, and insecticides, necessary to successful gardening, are limited in quantity and must be used to best advantage so that every ounce of seed, every pound of fertilizer, every quart of insecticide will do its full duty and none will be wasted. Wastage of these are only result in less food being produced and possibly in disappointment with the garden.

Agricultural workers are suggesting a motto for home gardeners: "Plant Every Seed To Grow." Every seed to grow, every ounce of fertilizer to be used, every quart of insecticide to be used. The following are suggestions for the home gardener:

1. Use more than customary care in spacing seeds correctly in the row.

2. Cover seeds carefully and firm the soil to insure good germination and keep ants from carrying away the seeds.

3. Use more than customary care in spacing seeds correctly in the row.

4. Cover seeds carefully and firm the soil to insure good germination and keep ants from carrying away the seeds.

Bedrock Wartime Economy Plan Gets Chorus Of Gasps

By HERMAN ALLEN

A chorus of gasps went up from American throats with disclosure of a "bedrock wartime economy plan" outlined by the Office of Economic Stabilization, tentatively, levels of civilian consumption of goods and services in the event of a long war. Not an invasion of the United States or a state of siege—just a long war.

The report stated certain percentages of peacetime consumption based on 1937 or 1941 in most cases. It sounded pretty grim, but I talked with a couple of fellows in OCS and Jimmy Byrne's Office of Economic Stabilization, which asked OCS to prepare the report, and they cleared up two important things:

1. As it stands, the "plan" isn't a plan at all, but a starting point for study which may finally result in a plan. It is not a recommendation for action.
2. If a "bedrock" plan ever is put into effect, it probably will be a lot grimmer in most respects than the schedule now under consideration.

Actually, a good many of the provisions of the present proposal already are in effect. The reason is simple. The plan was gotten up in fairly much of a hurry—and pretty much in the dark in some respects—and there wasn't time to work out a really bedrock figure for all items. Nor was Byrne really concerned about getting an absolutely final figure on what consumption would be.

"All we wanted," a spokesman for his office told me, "was something that we could pass around among all the agencies involved and say 'What do you think of this?' Lately as not, they'll disagree but that's just what we want to know. We want to get them started thinking about it and working on it. We're just giving them a starting point for their figuring."

In the case of non-durable toys and recreation equipment, for instance, the tentative bedrock estimate was more than most people think. OCS just took the present situation, as reflected by WPI orders stopping or cutting production of recreation equipment, figured in manpower conservation and transportation restrictions, and came up with 31 1/2% of 1939 consumption, which they figured about equalled present rate of consumption of recreation equipment.

With that percentage as a starting, the agencies involved will work out the percentage of normal consumption of toys and recreation equipment they think we must have even in the event of a long war. That is, they will try to calculate the point at which the morale value of toys and recreation equipment will offset the savings of material and manpower which could be brought about by further cuts in production.

NAVY HOSPITAL SITE

OCALA, Mar. 11. (FNS)—A 300-acre site, lying between Ocala and Silver Springs, is being considered by the Federal government for the establishment of a naval hospital to serve the southern states, provided Navy requirements make such a hospital necessary, it was announced last week by Congressman R. A. Green.

Medium tanks require 500 pounds of rubber, while large bombers need more than 1,200 pounds.

Lord Halifax And Stettinius Reveal Lend-Lease Facts

NEW YORK, March 11 (Special)—The Bill Hottel and Mary Jones, the millions of men and women who are dependent on Lend-Lease, are largely responsible for our current food shortage. This is no reflection on them, but Lend-Lease Administrator Cordell H. Stettinius says it's true. And the British Tommy's John Bull, not our own Uncle Sam, is directly responsible for putting our vast war production program into high gear at an early date. This is no reflection on Uncle Sam or American war workers, but Lord Halifax, British Ambassador, says it's true.

These two statements, based on the disclosure of new facts on vital aspects of our war effort, were given today by Lend-Lease Administrator Stettinius and Lord Halifax in signed articles in The American Magazine.

Point Rationing

AP Features

There's no ration on home-canned foods. So plan to can pickles, brine, kraut and dry every bit of fresh food you grow in your Victory garden, except what you need for day-to-day meals.

That's the best way you have to stretch those ration points, using them only for foods you can't preserve.

Don't pour ration points down the drain! Every drop of vegetable liquid can be used in gravies or soup stock. The syrup or canned fruits are delicious when used in place of water in gelatin desserts.

Before you buy, make sure there isn't something else in the store that would take less points. For example, a twelve ounce package of frozen peas goes just as far as a twenty ounce can of peas. Each will serve four helpings, yet the frozen peas cost 10 points and the canned 16. The same is true of other canned and frozen foods.

Meals that came right out of the war were never the ones that were talked about! You can make them more interesting and stretch your points too by combining canned vegetables with fresh. A can of tomatoes, for example, baked in a casserole with white onions is much tastier than served alone, and goes twice as far.

Here are some points to save:

- Plan your meals ahead of time.
- Pick out a weekly shopping hour, when the store isn't crowded.
- Make a list of the rationed foods you have to buy, and alternate for each, and be sure you're not using more points than allotted for that week.
- A family of four has 48 points a week to spend.
- Never buy a processed food

Pigeons Still In

when the same thing is on the fresh fruit and vegetable counter. Segregate the rationed, fresh unrationed, know what the total points is and have your coupons ready when you pay for the groceries. Be careful to give exact number of points called for, as your grocer can give no change in points.

Don't miss a chance to use ration points for breakfast. Use the orange squeezer instead. Fresh apples are usually available, so make apple sauce instead of buying it in cans.

Get acquainted with fresh vegetables you've never tried before. How about chard, collards, escarole, kale, kohlrabi, okra, parsnips, or rutabagas? Every one of them can add vitamins and minerals to your meals.

Paint is now being packed in specially-treated paper containers, because of the metal shortage.

TABLE SUPPLY

WHITE BREAD

Stettinius declares that our beef "has gone largely to our armed forces at home and abroad, and to those (chiefly war workers) who have more money to spend than in previous days. All the great bulk of Lend-Lease foods which we shipped in 1942 was made up of pork, milk products, edible fats and oils, and eggs." Stettinius disclosed that in 1942 we shipped 1,112,000,000 pounds of pork to our Allies. That was 10 percent of our American supply, and is a really big bit of pork.

Stettinius reports that we Lend-Leased 23 percent of our continued and expanded 17,000,000 pounds of our butter, 10 percent of our eggs, 7 percent of our fish, and about 1 percent of our vegetables to the Russian army. "Why such luxury for the Russian army?" Stettinius asks. "The fighting the bloodiest battles in history to have an American butter on his black bread once a week, instead of lard or linseed oil. That is not luxury."

All told, Stettinius reports, we shipped to our Allies in 1942 "less than 6 percent by value of our total food supply, but still it was a great amount, and was of incalculable value to the Lend-Leased Allies in a critical year. Stettinius warns that the armed forces and Lend-Lease may each take about twice as much in 1943 as they did in 1942, but adds that Americans will still have the most nutritious diet of any people in the world."

Lord Halifax, also writing in The American Magazine, declares that the British Government, through the expenditure of $1,200,000,000 in America since the outbreak of war in September, 1939, made possible the early expansion of our factories, and the early designing and quantity production of airplanes, tanks, machine tools and merchant ships. "British expenditures with the American aircraft industry total some $1,750,000,000," Lord Halifax reports. "While this may seem like a staggering sum in the light of subsequent Congressional appropriations, it means that America had an airplane industry built up and operating when she realized her potential industry that would have taken a much longer time to build up, had it not been for Britain's aid."

Lord Halifax asserts that while we think of "the finest tank in the world—the M-3 General Sherman"—as an American product, it is in one sense "a joint Anglo-American enterprise." After finding their tanks useless for the British, they were purchased quantities of our General Lee tanks. "Perhaps you can imagine our dismay, in those dark days after Dunkirk," Lord Halifax says, "to discover that the General Lee had all the faults and weaknesses of our own tank."

The result was that British and American experts, Lord Halifax reports, worked together, and eventually produced the General Grant and then the General Sherman.

Through Great Britain's program of "flat orders" in American industry, a pool of standard machine tools was formed and the volume of our machine tool industry rose from $250,000,000 a year in 1935 to $750,000,000 yearly at the time of Pearl Harbor, Lord Halifax reports.

"Two of the shipyards now achieving production miracles were built with British money," he says. The British Merchant Shipbuilding Mission came to the United States in September, 1940, and being unable to find facilities to build merchant ships fast enough, selected and purchased sites for new yards at Richmond, Calif., and Portland, Ore.

"Two brand-new American companies were formed to build the yards and the ships," Lord Halifax writes. One of these, the Todd—California Shipbuilding Corporation, at Richmond, had for its president Mr. Henry Kaiser, no until that moment had never built a ship.

"The incident is noteworthy for two reasons: First, because it introduced a new plant in the world of production. Mr. Kaiser, who continues to utilize his British-financed experience to turn out ships faster and faster for the U. S. Maritime Commission, to which the British yard was sold. And, secondly, because it standardized a type of cargo ship for the United States."

About 75 percent of the lawn mower industry has been converted to war production.

British - Americans Beat Off 3 Nazi Blows In Tunisia

Allied Fighters And Bombers Begin Softening Mareth Line For Big Offensive

(The Associated Press)

Bitter fighting raged deep behind the southern end of the Mareth line in Tunisia as Marshal Rommel struck out against the flanking British 8th Army forces near Ksar Philane and the first official account said the Germans had suffered another heavy blow.

British and American ground forces beat off three attacks in north Tunisia near Tamera, seven miles west of Sidi Barrani, with the enemy suffering considerable losses, field accounts said.

Allied bombers and fighters began softening Rommel's Mareth positions and struck again at the Akcha lanes, downing 12 planes while losing seven.

The R.A.F.'s giant bombers returned to the assault on Germany last night, heavily pounding the rail center of Stuttgart while Nazi raiders bombed and machine-gunned the suburbs of London.

The British 8th Army threatened to turn the southern flank of Marshal Rommel's Mareth line in Tunisia has inflicted "heavy casualties" on attacking Axis troops, and the fight is continuing around the wreckage of many enemy vehicles, a supplementary Allied communiqué said last night.

This was another Rommel attempt to push back an Allied ring around the wreckage of many enemy vehicles, a supplementary Allied communiqué said last night.

"In attacks on our forces near Ksar Philane heavy casualties were inflicted on the Germans," the communiqué said.

Farmers Plan Meeting On Prices Ceiling

Opposition Voiced To Placing Of Ceilings Over Prices Charged On Fresh Vegetables

A five man committee, representing local growers and shippers, the Seminole County Farm Bureau and the Agricultural Committee of the County Chamber of Commerce, will leave for Pompano Tuesday, March 16, to confer with OPA officials in regard to proposed price ceilings on vegetables.

J. E. Watten of American Fruit Growers, will head this committee. It was selected at a meeting of the Chamber Agricultural Committee, Wednesday noon at the Hotel Wainwright, held for the purpose of continuing discussions regarding vegetable price ceilings, which were started at the meeting of growers and shippers Tuesday evening at the City Hall.

The other members of the committee will be Leo Hutter, president of the Seminole County Farm Bureau, John Brunley Jr., Mayor Edward Higgins and County Agent, C. R. Dawson.

This committee met yesterday afternoon with Mr. Watten at the office of the American Fruit Growers Inc. in order to complete information relative to costs of growing vegetables over a period of years, to be submitted to OPA officials.

The committee said Mayor Hutter is confident in accord with a declaration by Nathan Mayo, Florida commissioner of agriculture that the principle of living ceilings on perishable fresh vegetables is "fantastic and impossible especially in view of natural hazards such as freezes, floods, storms, droughts and insects."

The opposition to vegetable price ceilings was also voiced by Leo Hutter at the Tuesday meeting of growers and shippers. At that time it was stated by Henry Thurston that if the OPA did insist on vegetable price ceilings, they should be put high enough to give farmers an incentive to keep on growing these products.

Air Raid Siren Will Be Tested Tomorrow

A test of Sanford's air raid siren will be made tomorrow at noon, James Galt, executive officer of the Seminole County Defense Council, announced today.

Last Saturday's test was interrupted when a storm broke over the city during the noon hour.

The test signal will be sounded at 12:00 o'clock and will consist of one long blast lasting for two minutes. Exactly at 12:10 P.M. the red signal will be sounded and will consist of a series of short blasts.

The signal is merely a test of the siren, Mr. Galt explained, and the public is not expected to get off the streets, "It is just to let the people know what it sounds like," he said, "and there will be no all-clear signal."

Mayo Urges Abandonment Of Ceilings On Vegetables

TALLAHASSEE, Mar. 12. (AP)—Nathan Mayo, Florida's commissioner of agriculture, today urged the abandonment of vegetable price ceilings.

Mayo, in a letter to the OPA administrator, said that the principle of living ceilings on perishable fresh vegetables is "fantastic and impossible especially in view of natural hazards such as freezes, floods, storms, droughts and insects."

"With existing conditions of war limitations on all necessary elements for production combined with the usual natural hazards such as freezes, floods, storms, droughts and insects, a fixed maximum price will destroy the farmer's incentive to produce," he declared. "In the absence of the government guarantee an average yield, it is manifestly unfair to fix a price on production under the present handicaps of restrictions and natural hazards."

Assuming that a basic period of five years might be used upon which to fix a ceiling price, Mayo pointed out that the farmer is not fortified with strong resources and a substantial investment.

Red Cross Blood Plasma Saves Life Of Victim Of Bombing Raid

CAMP BLANDING, Fla., Mar. 12. (AP)—"I felt my arms getting numb—like my skin riled up and there was a lot of smoke. I tried to get my gas mask on but it was no use. The Bomber's smoke saw what happened and got all the stuff off of me and took me over to the first aid station. After the attack was over, they took me over to the hospital ship. The doctor gave me a shot of that blood serum. I want to thank all those people who gave blood to the Red Cross. They saved my life."

These dramatic words, spoken by a Seaman First Class of the U. S. Navy after the attack on Pearl Harbor, point to the pressing need of continued blood donations by both civilians and the military so that the Red Cross plasma bank can be enlarged to meet the needs of all our armed forces, declared Gen. L. A. Kuntz, commanding officer here.

"We must all remember," he continued, "that every time a civilian gives his blood at a Red Cross Donor Center, he may be giving life to a wounded soldier. The doctor gave me a shot of that blood serum. I want to thank all those people who gave blood to the Red Cross. They saved my life."

Civilians desiring to give blood will find that donating a pint is a simple, easy task, requiring about 45 minutes, including time for rest and refreshments. Red Cross Blood Donor Centers are located in many key cities, and there are also mobile units operating out of many centers. A new call to the nearest Red Cross office will secure all information needed by potential donors.

2 Pounds A Week Will Be Ration On Fresh Meat

WASHINGTON, Mar. 12. (AP)—The meat ration, pending the new program to begin on Monday, Mar. 29, will be 2 pounds a week of beef, pork, lamb and mutton, and 1 pound of chicken, turkey, duck and other edible fowl, according to the government official announced today.

No coupons will be necessary in restaurants. Every person will be issued a coupon for 2 pounds of meat per week to start with. This does not include meat eaten in restaurants, where ration coupons will not be necessary.

There will be an addition to the meat ration, pending the new program to begin on Monday, Mar. 29, will be 2 pounds a week of beef, pork, lamb and mutton, and 1 pound of chicken, turkey, duck and other edible fowl, according to the government official announced today.

Use Point System

When these details are announced, however, it is expected that the actual situation will be that every person will be given an allotment of points covering meat, fats and oils, cheese and canned goods, as a group, and there will be free choice on the spending of these points on any of the list of items, in much the same manner as the present processed food ration coupons may be used to buy any of the long list of fruits and vegetables on the ration list.

The same point system will be used, and in fact, the same ration book No. 2 are used for processed fruits and vegetables, the red stamps in the ration book will cover the group of foods listed today by Wickard.

Masses Average

Agriculture department officials explained that the estimate of two pounds per person per week of meat means only that that much, on the average, will be available. Actually some people will be able to get more or less meat, depending on whether they want to cut down on butter and cheese, for instance, and also depending on the types of meat they want to buy.

Under the point system, steaks probably will cost more coupon points per pound than hamburger or spare ribs, for instance.

The meat rationing will apply to all products of cattle, calves, sheep, lambs and swine, including not only the ordinary cuts but also the so-called variety meats such as liver, heart and sweetbreads.

Germans Announce Evacuation Of Key City To Smolensk

Work Commences On Construction Of New Air Field

(The Associated Press)

The German high command today announced the evacuation of Vyazma, a key city 120 miles west of Moscow, while in the south a bloody third battle for Kharkov reached a critical stage as the Germans threw in masses of fresh reserves and gained new ground.

The evacuation and their troops were already fighting in the area around the "Soviet Pitzhulig" which the Red forces occupied last Feb. 18.

The Red Army said the German evacuated Vyazma after virtually losing the town off the map. It was the last major defensive battle in the area, the result of the capture of Napoleon's "fortress" city.

The German high command said that the evacuation of Vyazma was a tactical move to concentrate the forces in the Kharkov Donets area, but it had the northern and southern edges of the key Kharkov triangle, which the Red forces had captured.

Work on the new air field will be completed by the end of the month, according to the German high command. The new air field will be located near Osecola 12 miles away.

Practice Field Will Be Located Near Osecola 12 Miles Away

Work began Monday on the satellite field near Osecola which is being constructed under the direction of Gen. G. J. Zwargen. It will be a practice field for the Luftwaffe, and will be used for the purpose of continuing discussions regarding vegetable price ceilings, which were started at the meeting of growers and shippers Tuesday evening at the City Hall.
