Oviedo Marine One Of Dead In Beirut

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

An Oviedo Marine who had been missing in action in the aftermath of the Oct. 23 terrorist bombing in Beirut, Lebanon, has been identified as one of the dead.

The parents of Lance Corporal Jack Lee Martin, 21, James and Linda Martin of 144 Roann Drive, Oviedo, were notified by a Marine captain who came to their home shortly before 8 a.m. Sunday that their son was among the 225 Marines killed in the attack. It had been a long, difficult week for the Martins, who had gotten word on Wednesday afternoon that their son was among the missing.

"We had hope to the very end," said his mother.

"There was always a chance, but the longer time went on, we knew there was a chance he could be dead."

"The Marine captain brought a chaplain with him and they were very kind. They had prayer with us before they left," said Mrs. Martin.

"They told us he had been identified through his fingerprints and they are shipping the bodies home 15 at a time," she added.

"They said they will let us know later when to expect our son's body. We appreciate the fact that it is a trying time for them as well as us. We haven't made any funeral arrangements yet as we don't know when they will be shipping him home."

"I just pray that some of the parents will be more fortunate and will get word that their sons are alive," said Mrs. Martin.

"We appreciate our neighbors and friends, who shown us so much compassion and kindness."

In addition to his parents, young Martin is survived by three brothers, Jimmy Jr., Joe, and Jeb; a sister, Jill, all still at home; grandparents, Henry and Doris Lee, New Smyrna Beach, and Lillian Martin, Willacoochee, Ga.

Despite their personal tragedy, Mrs. Martin said she and her husband are behind President Reagan's decision to keep the Marines in Lebanon "100 percent."

Two cousins of the fallen Marine have also served with the Marines in Beirut. One, Johnny Cornelius, Titusville, was scheduled to go back to Beirut but was sent to Grenada instead. The other, Jerry Reed, Ormond Beach, is scheduled to go back to Beirut, but is now recuperating from an auto accident.

Before moving to Oviedo the Martins lived in Osteen and Jack attended Deltona Junior High School and DeLand High School before graduating with the Lake Howell class of 1979. He attended Seminole Community College and worked at Scotty's in Altamonte Springs.

Auto Train's First Run 'Wonderful'

By Michael Beha
Herald Staff Writer

It was overcast and rainy in Sanford today but that didn't stop it from being a "wonderful" day.

Amtrak's first Auto Train pulled into Sanford at 9:17 a.m., 13 minutes ahead of schedule and "wonderful" was the favorite one-word description passengers and crew used to sum up their feelings on the inaugural run.

Officials from Sanford and Seminole County had eagerly awaited the restoration of the economic connection which was severed in 1981 when the Auto-Train Corp. went bankrupt after 10 years of operating on the 900-mile rail link between the Washington suburb of Lorton, Va. and Sanford.

When the train pulled in at the station, Sanford Mayor Lee Moore, County Commissioner Sandra Glenn, Sanford Commissioners David Farr and Ned Yancy and representatives from Winter Springs, Longwood, Lake Mary and the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce stood by to greet the 500 who were able to book passage on the first train.

"It was wonderful," said William G. Robertson Jr. of Baltimore. "It was a wonderful ride. It was comfortable, the food was super and the service was great."

Robertson and his wife used the old Auto-Train for several years on their way to their winter home in Naples. For the past three years, they've driven their car the 1,100-plus miles to Naples. "We're certainly glad Auto Train is back," Robertson said.

David and Edith Harris of Cape Cod, Mass. also were regular users of the original Auto-Train who switched to riding the autobus car ferry in 1981 to get to Sarasota.

"There's no comparison to this. Everything was so nice. The attendants are all young and happy and eager to serve you. It's a lot nicer than the original Auto-Train," Harris said.

W.S. Dampier of Silver Springs, Md. said he has come to Florida for the first time in four years because of Auto Train. "It's just wonderful."

Bruce Norton, of Marietta, Va., one of the attendants who worked on the inaugural run was smiling as he left the train.

"Before Auto Train, I'd never considered trains a feasible way to travel," he said. "But on a training ride Oct. 16 I got to be a passenger and watch the scenery. It's beautiful."

Norton added that the service is pretty good, too.

Today's run went without a hitch, according to Amtrak officials, although some travellers weren't sure how to get where they wanted to go once they got off the train.

But Chamber Of Commerce Director Jack Horner stepped in to give directions to many people as they waited for their cars to be unloaded.

And the other local officials beamed as they talked to the travellers waiting for their cars.

"This is great for Sanford and for Seminole County in terms of employment with Auto Train and various spin-off industries," said Farr. "A lot of the things they use on the train will be made in Sanford."

About 70 of Auto Train's 175 employees are stationed in Sanford.

Dennis Courson, Chamber president, agreed that Auto Train will be an economic boon for the area. "The tourism we get and the advertising we get through Auto Train are invaluable."

"It puts Sanford on the map," said Mrs. Glenn.

Trains will leave Lorton each Wednesday, Friday and Sunday at 4:30 p.m. with scheduled arrival in Sanford at 9:30 a.m. the following day. Trains will leave Sanford every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at 4:30 p.m. with scheduled arrival in Lorton at 9:30 a.m. the next day.

One way tickets are $200 for cars, $130 for adults, $98 for children, $225 for a bedroom and $100 for a small room. Auto Train information is available by calling the Sanford terminal at 323-4800.

Cause Of Paint Plant Blaze Still Undetermined

From UPI and Local Reports

The fire that leveled a paint products plant in west Sanford may have caused $2 million to $3 million dollars in damage, a fire investigator said today.

"That's a rough, preliminary estimate," said Bob Christian, investigator from the State Fire Marshall's office, as he surveyed the charred debris at the United Solvents of America plant at Airport Boulevard and McCracken Road.

"We don't know the quantity of chemicals that was destroyed yet," said Christian.

He said the cause of the fire is still undetermined. "We're still going through the debris, looking for the cause," he said.

He said eight firefighters from the Sanford fire department were injured "very slightly" by the Saturday morning blaze, when they suff. red skin irritations from the chemicals.

"We plan to be back in full operation within 90 days," said Doug Gondera, plant manager for United Solvents. Gondera said the firm had just begun work on a 44,000 square-foot plant expansion when the fire occurred. The expansion facility located near the old facility was not damaged by the blaze.

Meanwhile, Gondera said his firm will use the facilities of some other firm's plants in Central Florida to keep their operation going. He said his firm will replace some destroyed tanks soon and will probably "eventually" rebuild all the storage area that was destroyed.

The entire plant was destroyed by a fire that started about 5 a.m. Saturday and ripped through the facility destroying fuel tanks and barrels of petroleum products.

Investigators from the Sanford and Seminole County fire departments and the state fire marshal's office started their investigation on Sunday, probing through the mangled steel and smoldering rubble.

The blaze was completely extinguished by 4 p.m. Sunday.

"I just thank God nobody was hurt," said Sanford Fire Chief W.C. Galley.

Girl, 16, Killed Crossing 17-92

A 16-year-old Sanford girl was killed when a car struck her as she was crossing U.S. Highway 17-92 about a half-mile south of Airport Boulevard late Saturday.

Lisa L. Williams of Mariners Village Apartments was pronounced dead at Central Florida Regional Hospital in Sanford about an hour after the 11:30 p.m. accident, a Sanford police report said.

The victim was crossing the highway near the Cavalier Motel when she was struck by a south-bound car driven by David Cauthern, 29, of Sanford, the report said. The investigation is continuing and no charges have been filed, a police spokesman said today.

Art Show Draws Praise

"It was a wonderful show," said "Fall for Art" chairman Jane Vance Patterson, of the Sanford-Seminole Art Association's annual sidewalk art show held this weekend on the Sanford lakefront.

"It was the biggest crowd we ever had and the weather was perfect," she added. "I've never seen so many happy artists, they were pleased with the judges, the location and the weather."

Mrs. Patterson said she received good comments that it was "an ideal location," "better than the Winter Park show," and about "the overall good quality of the art." This year the location of the art show was moved from First Street in downtown Sanford to the lake front area around the Sanford City Hall and Seminole County Courthouse.

"We also had some exciting entertainment," she added.

Report Due Mid-Nov. In Mayor Probe

A two-member Lake Mary City Commission committee is continuing its probe into allegations charging Mayor Walter Sorenson with a "breach of the public trust" and plans to give a report to the City Commission at its Nov. 17th meeting.

Commissioner Burt Perinchief, who with Commissioner Ken King has been conducting the investigation, said today the probe is about one-third complete and six to eight persons, including Sorenson, will be interviewed during the next few days.

He said he and King talked to half a dozen persons so far including city hall staff and former-Commissioner

Ray Fox, who charged Sorenson with nine counts of wrong-doing on Sept. 29, four days before he left office, having completed two terms.

"Those we have talked to so far have been extremely cooperative and very candid," Perinchief said.

He said Fox offered to help the committee find evidence to support his charges in city files.

Fox charged Sorenson with impropriety in his use of a city vehicle, city hall telephones for long distance calls and city office space for personal business. In addition, Fox said that Sorenson failed to inform the commission when city funded facilities were being used improperly; purchased items of furniture specifically forbidden in the 1982-83 budget; refinishing that furniture at city expense; failing to inform past city councils and the present commission about known discrepancies in a city employee's job application; granting time off and a subsequent salary advance of $451.25 to a city employee who worked for the city less than 90 days and hosting a breakfast for real estate developers at city expense.

Sorenson on Oct. 4 denied wrong-doing in office. "I am not guilty of anything illegal, immoral or fattening," said Sorenson, who is serving his fifth consecutive two-year term in office.

NATION IN BRIEF

Reagan Signs Huge Social Spending Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan, who constantly talks of the need to cut domestic spending to curb huge budget deficits, today signed a huge money bill for social programs that exceeds his requests by billions of dollars.

The $104.4 billion bill covers the Departments of Health and Human Services, Education and Labor. Its passage 11 days ago marked the first time in five years that Congress has been able to send the president a formal appropriations bill for the departments.

The measure provides an increase of $477.9 million in overall program funding from fiscal 1983, which ended Sept. 30.

Previous efforts to pass an HHS-Labor appropriation have been frustrated by fights over federal funding of abortions for women on welfare and other sensitive matters. Programs covered by the bill have operated under temporary stopgap funding bills since 1978.

Among the newest provisions of the bill is the addition of $41 billion for research on Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome, the disease known as AIDS. The measure contains what has become an accepted ban on the use of federal money to pay for abortions, except where the woman's life is in danger.

Man Steps Out Of Plane

MIDDLETOWN, Pa. (UPI) — Officials say they may never find the body of a man who quit his job with a commuter airline, boarded one of its planes and calmly stepped out of an emergency door at 3,000 feet, leaving only a sneaker behind.

About 75 police and volunteers during the weekend centered their search for the body of Wilmer Stillman, 26, of Middletown, Pa. in a wooded area east of where the flight originated.

None of the other 26 passengers or three crew members aboard the aircraft were endangered, he said. The aircraft normally flies at 8,000 feet and was not pressurized because of the low altitude.

Flu Shots Available

The Seminole County Health Department is offering flu shots to Seminole County residents.

The shots are recommended for people 65 years of age or older and for those suffering from chronic diseases.

Medical personnel will visit area nursing homes and senior citizen clubs and dates for flu shot clinics should be set as soon as possible.

Cost of the shots will be based on a sliding scale based on patients' ability to pay.

Information may be obtained by calling the Seminole County Health Department's Sanford or Longwood clinics at 322-2724 or 831-4117 respectively.

NATIONAL REPORT: Temperatures in the teens froze the Northeast today and dense fog combined with light rain to reduce visibility in parts of the Missouri Valley to the length of a football field. Storms that poured as much as an inch of rain on the Pacific Northwest earlier in the weekend continued from Washington to northern California. Two-thirds of an inch of rain fell on Eureka, Calif. Rain also was reported farther inland in northern Utah and northeast Nevada. Unseasonably warm temperatures pushed the mercury to record-setting levels in the northern Plains Sunday. In Great Falls, Mont., a high of 72 degrees broke a record for the date set in 1962. In Pennsylvania, the temperature fell to 18 degrees today in Bradford County. Concord, N.H. reported a reading of 20 degrees. The most hazardous fog conditions were reported along the Iowa-Missouri border.

Run For The White House

Jackson Counting On 'Rainbow Coalition' For Success

ATLANTA (UPI) — The Rev. Jesse Jackson ended months of speculation with an announcement that he will seek the Democratic nomination for president on a "Rainbow Coalition" of blacks, Hispanics, women and senior citizens.

"Yes, I am going to be running," Jackson said Sunday night after a sermon at the Elizabeth Baptist Church in Atlanta.

And he said his running mate definitely will be a woman.

Jackson, president of Chicago-based Operation PUSH, appeared on a prelude segment for CBS's 60 Minutes program earlier in the evening. When asked if and when he would announce for the office, Jackson replied, "Thursday in Washington, D.C. at the convention center."

It was the first time that Jackson said he will in fact be a candidate for president. He will join seven other announced Democratic candidates and become the first black man with national recognition to run for the office.

After Jackson delivered his sermon, a group of ministers in the audience pledged $10,000 to his new candidacy.

Jackson said he will spend the next few weeks forming a campaign organization and raising funds. In an emotional sermon, Jackson said blacks "must form a new covenant with the Democratic Party.

"We never again should vote for an all-white slate. If blacks are going to get in bed with the Democrats, then when the ticket comes up it should be black AND white. We want our respect."

And again, Jackson was met with the chant that has followed him on his travels: "Run, Jesse, Run."

Some black leaders and prominent blacks, among them Atlanta Mayor Andrew Young and Coretta Scott

King have said a Democratic candidacy by Jackson would split the party and assure a win for Reagan.

Jackson vehemently said no.

"It will not split the party," he said. "Since most of black voters will be voting Democratic, it will expand the party, not split it."

For several months Jackson has been traveling across the country urging blacks to register to vote.

He said his next few weeks would be tied up with fund-raising and "the bringing together of the Rainbow Coalition" — a grouping of blacks, Hispanics, women and older Americans — those he says are not properly represented in the federal government.

Jackson was asked on the CBS program about the lack of support for his candidacy by black mayors and other prominent blacks.

"What the polls show is that the vast body of the 18- to 24-year-old group is very inspired by the candidacy," he replied. "Twenty-five percent of all the eligible black voters are between the ages of 18 and 24."

"What's key to us is that there are 10 million black voters — 18 million eligible, 10 million registered. And if we move to get another 3 million on the books by next November, we will have changed Democratic options in the primaries."

Port Authority, Utility Reach Compromise On 300 Percent Rate Hike

By Michael Beha
Herald Staff Writer

Officials from the Seminole County Port Authority say they're happy with a compromise on a 300 percent rate hike reached with Lake Monroe Utilities just moments before a state Public Service Commission hearing late last week.

The agreement allows LMU to continue charging rates which were approved by the PSC and went into effect in September while the PSC monitors LMU's operations for a year.

The new rates are about 300 percent higher than previous rates and was the utility's first rate increase since 1972.

Two commissioners from the PSC had come to Sanford from Tallahassee Thursday to hear protests from the Port Authority and the Holiday Inn on Interstate 4 west of Sanford about the rate hike. The Holiday Inn and nearby Days Inn use more than 50 percent of LMU's water and sewer capacity.

But prior to the start of the hearing, PSC attorney Dave Smith and Port Authority attorney William Hutchison discussed the case and came up with a compromise.

"Obviously I like it," said Hutchison. "I suggested it. We got pretty well what we wanted."

Under the agreement, the PSC will keep tabs on LMU's operation during the next 12 months. If revenues exceed projections, the rates will be reduced and refunds will be given, Smith said.

The Port Authority's executive director, Dennis Dolgner, said the compromise also contains an important clause which will allow several consumers at the Port's industrial complex west of Sanford to reduce the size of their meters and thus, the size of their water and sewer bills.

"Under the new tariff there is a base charge on the meter size," said Dolgner. "But we've used the largest size meter we ever expected to be needed."

Dolgner said the Port's administrative office will receive a meter half the size of its present one. That change, from a 1 1/2-inch meter to a 3/4-inch meter, will cut the office's base charge to $13 per month from $75 a month.

The PSC will review the base facility charge and the reduction of meter size in six months to see if any problems have been caused for the utility or the consumers, Dolgner said.

LMU's owner, Winter Park dentist J.W. Hickman, was unavailable for comment on the compromise.

U.S. Troops Capture Leader Of Grenada Coup

BRIDGETOWN, Barbados (UPI) — U.S. troops have captured a man identified as Gen. Hudson Austin, the leader of a military council that seized control of Grenada during a bloody coup, prompting last week's invasion of the Caribbean island.

Austin was the second ranking Marxist government official captured over the weekend as the invasion force sought to wipe out resistance to its occupation of the tiny Caribbean island and moves to install a democratic government.

The seven-nation invasion force, including 5,900 U.S. troops, continued to be the target of intermittent sniper fire Sunday, military officials on Grenada said.

The Pentagon raised the American death toll from the invasion to 16 dead, three missing and 77 wounded.

In Cuba, President Fidel Castro's government mobilized forces in the capital as part of a giant welcoming ceremony for 59 wounded Cubans and an unknown number of dead who may arrive home from the island of Grenada today.

A Swiss Air Jet chartered by the International Committee of the Red Cross in Geneva landed at the Barbados airport early today to conduct the evacuation, the airport control tower said.

The ICRC was "asked by the governments concerned to intervene as a neutral intermediary to repatriate the Cuban wounded and dead."

The Barbados-owned Caribbean Broadcasting Corp. reported Austin had been captured Sunday by U.S. forces and the Pentagon confirmed a man matching Austin's description had been caught.

"We have information that units from the 82nd Airborne Division... have captured and detained an individual who claims he is Gen. Austin, fits the description of Gen. Austin and was carrying identification to that effect," spokesman Maj. Bob Shields said.

The officials gave no details of the capture or information on the hostages Austin had been reported to be holding.

Austin was the leader of the Revolutionary Military Council that took control of the island following the overthrow and the Oct. 19 execution of Marxist Prime Minister Maurice Bishop.

On Saturday, U.S. servicemen captured Deputy Prime Minister Bernard Coard, suspected of masterminding the coup, in a hamlet some five miles from the Grenadian capital along with his wife, Phillis, and two of his top associates. His whereabouts were unknown.

A military official on Grenada, 1,900 miles south of Miami, reported some incidents of sniping from forces refusing to surrender to the invasion troops, which landed on the island last Tuesday.

Much of the sniper fire was believed to be coming from Cubans fleeing north into the forested mountains that comprise much of Grenada's 133-square-mile surface.

"They're still shooting at us out there," said Maj. Mike Cox of the Travis Air Force Base in Calif.

U.S. officials estimated there were up to 750 Cubans on the island, but about 600 already have been captured, leaving up to 150 still at large.

Reporters staying on the island for the night were cautioned that the military could only guarantee their safety at the Point Salines airport at the southwestern tip, St. Georges and at the Pearls airport on the east coast.

Search Launched For Men Who Raped Midway Teen

Authorities were searching today for five men who gang raped an 18-year-old Midway woman behind a school Saturday night.

The woman told Seminole County sheriff's investigators that she was walking along Jitway Avenue near the Midway Elementary School at about 8:30 p.m. when she noticed a group of five men following her.

The woman said the men grabbed her arms, struck her with their hands, took her behind the school and all five sexually assaulted her, the report said.

A sheriff's spokesman today said no arrests have been made in the case.

In searching the neighborhood, police found that the Tusawilla Collection office had been broken into and keys to many model homes in the subdivision had been stolen. The suspects used the keys to enter seven unoccupied model homes, police say.

At 5:44 a.m., Casselberry police arrested two men who were walking at the intersection of State Road 436 and Hibiscus Road and who were also allegedly involved in the burglaries.

All three men were charged with seven counts of breaking and entering an unoccupied dwelling, seven counts of criminal mischief, seven counts of theft and one count of trespassing in an unoccupied dwelling.

The man arrested in the Plymouth Duster was identified as Robert M. Wasserman, 19, of 807 Chickapee Trail. The two arrested later were identified as David Mark Smith, 19, of 8535 Weeping Willow Way, Orlando, and William Allen Lescallotte, 19, of 2827 Banchory Road, Winter Park.

The three were released from the Seminole County jail after paying $1,500 bond each.

PAYMENT ORDERED

The Florida Department of Agriculture has ordered a Sanford produce dealer to pay $1,023 to a Dunellon, Fla. producer in a dispute over watermelons.

Eastern Growers and Shippers, Inc. of Sanford was ordered to make payment to GG Farms of Dunellon, a department spokesman said.

Eastern agreed in June 1982 to purchase watermelons from GG Farms but later Eastern failed to pay GG Farms $1,023 of the agreed purchase price, the spokesman said. Eastern deducted the money from its payment, claiming that GG Farms owed Eastern a sum of money from a previous business deal between the two firms, the spokesman said.

However, a hearing officer of the Division of Administrative Hearings decided that Eastern could not deduct payment from the watermelon deal to compensate for the previous transaction, the spokesman said.

BURGLARY SUSPECTS NABBED

The alertness of a Winter Springs police officer led to the arrest of three burglary suspects who police say broke into seven homes early Wednesday.

A police report gave this account of the incident:

While on patrol at 12:42 a.m. Wednesday, officer Mike Kubus noticed an unoccupied 1972 Plymouth Duster illegally parked on Sleeping Rock Court in the Tusawilla Collection subdivision in Winter Springs.

Kubus found numerous house keys on the front seat of the car as well as some small pieces of furniture, candle holders and bottles of liquor.

Kubus summoned back-up units and a police dog to the scene. Officers heard the sound of glass breaking and started searching the area.

A short time later, Kubus noticed that a back-up light on the Plymouth was turned on and officers converged on the car and arrested the driver who had entered the car after officers left the area.

The suspect told officers that two other men had come to the area with him and police broadcast their

WORLD IN BRIEF

Earthquake Death Toll Revised Upward To 813

ANKARA, Turkey (UPI) — A powerful earthquake that rocked villages in the mountains of eastern Turkey killed more than 800 people, provincial officials said today.

Rescue workers continued to search tons of rubble for survivors, although provincial officials feared the death toll would climb to more than 1,000 once the rubble is cleared away.

Some 24 hours after the quake struck, officials in Erzurum, provincial capital of the mountainous eastern province, revised the death toll from 509 dead to 813 dead.

The Seismographic Institute in Istanbul said the five-second earthquake registered 6.0 on the Richter scale, but the U.S. Geological Survey in Golden, Colo., measured it at an even more devastating 7.1.

The tremor struck Erzurum, 345 miles east of Ankara, and Kars, 30 miles from the Soviet frontier, at 7:15 a.m. local time (12:15 a.m. EDT) Sunday.

Thatcher Assails Invasion

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher leveled her harshest criticism at the United States over the invasion of Grenada, saying Western nations cannot march into countries when politics do not shape up exactly as they wish.

Mrs. Thatcher said Sunday that if U.S. troops go into every country where "communism reigns against the will of the people... then we are going to have really terrible wars in the world."

The British leader made her remarks in an unprecedented worldwide phone-in broadcast on the BBC World Service radio. An estimated 25 million listeners heard her remarks, officials said.

Mrs. Thatcher made her comments — the harshest the British government has made since the U.S. invasion last Tuesday — just one day before a parliamentary debate on the deployment of U.S. cruise missiles in Britain.

Peronists Defeated

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (UPI) — Raul Alfonsín, vowing to restore human rights and send ruling military officers back to the barracks, roared to victory today, defeating the Peronist Party in one of the biggest upsets in Argentina's election history.

It was the first time in the 38-year history of the Peronist Party that it suffered a defeat in national elections.

With 80 percent of the vote counted, the Radical Party leader took a commanding 52 percent of the vote and left the Peronist candidate Italo Argentino Luder far behind with 40 percent of the vote.

Alfonsín told thousands of cheering supporters early today he would lead Argentina to a "long period of peace and prosperity" and called on the Peronists to help rebuild democracy.

2 Bahamians Arrested On Cocaine Charges

MIAMI (UPI) — A Bahamian political activist who scoffed at allegations of drug-related corruption in his country was jailed along with a Bahamian immigration officer and charged with conspiring to sell protection to cocaine smugglers.

A bond hearing is scheduled today for Samuel Leroy Miller, chairman of the National Progressive Committee, and John Jonathan Rolle, a senior supervisor for the Bahamas immigration department. Rolle also owns Rose Roy Investments Ltd., a Nassau financial firm.

Rolle, 41, and Miller, 46, both Nassau residents, were jailed in lieu of $1 million bond.

Miller and Rolle were arrested Saturday as they left a southwest Miami business with $88,000 in cash allegedly demanded as a payoff, said Francis Mullen Jr., spokesman for the Drug Enforcement Administration.

Both allegedly negotiated with undercover agents to provide safe haven and facilities in the Bahamas for 800 pounds of cocaine flown in from South America, Mullen said. No actual shipment of cocaine was handled.

'Miss Lillian' Dead Of Cancer At 85

AMERICUS, Ga. (UPI) — "Miss Lillian" Carter, the independent southern matriarch whose son left the family peanut farm to become president, died of bone cancer with family members at her side. She was 85.

Former President Jimmy Carter, his wife Rosalyn and other family members were present at the Americus-Sumter County Hospital when Mrs. Carter died about 5:05 p.m. Sunday.

"The family was all there when she died, and when she did go she knew they were there," said her doctor, Paul C. Broun.

Mrs. Carter, described as a "liberated woman before it was popular," had entered the hospital Tuesday. She suffered from breast cancer, for which she had a mastectomy in 1981, and pancreatic cancer — the disease that killed her second youngest child, Ruth Carter Stapleton, in September.

A spokesman said the former president had not issued a statement on the death of his mother.

"Miss Lillian," who became almost as well known as her son, helped inspire him to become president.

"She had a tremendous influence on (Carter) in the way he did a lot of things," said former White House counselor Robert Lipshutz of Atlanta. "She had a very strong sense of decency and strength that she passed on to others."

Graveside services will be held Tuesday at Lebanon Cemetery in Plains.

Jimmy Carter, Rosalyn and Mrs. Carter's other children — Billy Carter of Waycross, Ga., and Gloria Spann of Plains, Ga. — had visited Mrs. Carter often during the week before her death.

Lebanese Peace Talks Underway

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI) — Leaders of Lebanon's feuding religious and political factions assembled on neutral Swiss soil today for national reconciliation talks aimed at ending years of bloodshed.

The talks, chaired by Lebanese President Amin Gemayel, began late in the day at the heavily guarded Hotel Intercontinental in Geneva.

Johnny Abdo, Lebanon's ambassador to Switzerland, said the talks were expected to last between four and seven days.

Abdo, acting as official conference spokesman, said Gemayel would leave after one or two days but was prepared to remain longer if necessary.

Gemayel, a Maronite Christian, asked Switzerland to provide facilities for the talks because suspicions among rival Christian, Moslem, right-wing and left-wing factions prevented the talks from being held in Lebanon.

"I believe all parties came to the conference with an open mind," Lebanese Foreign Minister Elie Salem said in Bern, Switzerland. "I believe we will make progress."

The conference centered on possible constitutional reforms to reorganize the sharing of power in Lebanon and to gain the withdrawal of all foreign forces.

House, Senate Prepare For Upcoming Session

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Senate committees will begin meeting this week in preparation for next year's regular session, studying issues ranging from the sentencing of criminals to the preservation of the Everglades.

House panels will also meet, as they have once a month for the past three months.

The regular session is scheduled to begin April 3 and run for 60 days.

The Senate corrections, probation and parole committee plans to review two controversial subjects Tuesday — new sentencing guidelines and the impact of acquired immune deficiency syndrome (AIDS) on the Florida prison system.

Also on Tuesday an advisory panel of the Senate natural resources and conservation committee will consider the need for wetlands protection and the Senate agriculture committee will review the contamination of water supplies by the pesticides Temik and EDB.

The full Senate natural resources panel will discuss Gov. Bob Graham's "Save Our Everglades" program on Wednesday and the Senate education committee will examine the results of last session's educational reforms.

The Senate finance and tax committee meets Wednesday to take testimony from opponents of the unitary corporate profits tax passed by the Legislature in a special session this summer.

It will be the first time a legislative committee has taken a look at possibly repealing the controversial tax, which big business groups claim has destroyed Florida's reputation as the number one state for business investment.

In the House, a judiciary subcommittee on open government on Tuesday will continue its review of the hundreds of exemptions to the Sunshine laws on the books.

The House community affairs panel will resume its investigation Tuesday of groundwater contamination by EDB and the House natural resources panel will receive an update on the Kissimmee River restoration project.

Crying All The Way To The Bank

Jokes about laughing all the way to the bank are quite common.

However, small businesses, which are required to make withholding deposits to the Internal Revenue Service from four to eight times a month, don't find it a laughing matter. More likely, operators of small firms would feel like crying.

An effort to ease this load of unnecessary paperwork has been made in Congress by Sen. Bill Armstrong, R-Colo. He has introduced a bill that would allow employers with less than $5,000 in monthly withholdings to make the deposit only once a month. At present, only firms with less than $3,000 in withholdings are allowed to make the once-monthly deposits.

Under the present system, many small companies find the required frequency of deposits restricts their cash flow, starving them of capital that is critical to keep them in business, Armstrong points out.

In this era of relatively high interest rates, cash flow is viewed as one of the most serious problems facing small businesses. The National Federation of Independent Business has endorsed the proposal and the issue has become one of the highest legislative priorities of many small business groups.

The Armstrong bill also includes a provision that would prohibit the IRS from accelerating withholding deposits to assist the federal government to spend more tax dollars faster. Supporters of the bill point out that the IRS increased the deposits from four to eight per month on its own authority without a single act of Congress.

Small businesses as a whole pack a wallop. They employ more workers than the federal government and the Fortune 500 companies combined. A study by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology found that 66 percent of new jobs are created by firms with 20 or fewer employees.

It's time to give full credit and strong support to small business. Early passage of the Armstrong bill would provide not only a big helping hand but also serve as congressional recognition of the fine job small companies are doing throughout the nation.

Acid Rain Hassle

We can't be proud about the way our country is handling Canadian complaints about acid rain.

There doesn't seem to be much doubt about the source of the acid rain that is poisoning lakes and killing trees in New York and New England in the United States and in Quebec and Ontario and the Maritime Provinces in Canada.

The source is the tall smokestacks of the power plants in the Ohio River Valley and throughout the Midwest, burning high-sulfur coal from mines in Appalachia and the Midwest.

Start with this premise. In all the world, we do not have a friendlier or more important ally than the Dominion of Canada. The 25 million people of Canada are good neighbors. But are we good neighbors?

The U.S. government has dragged its feet about doing something to solve the acid rain problem. Instead of reducing emissions, as we promised to do in 1980, the Reagan administration has allowed revisions of state air plans raising the limits on sulfur dioxide emissions. There has been a tendency to try to study the problem to death. There has been a lack of the political will necessary to solve the problem. There has been a fear of the cost.

Now that William D. Ruckelshaus has taken over as administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, we expect some action. And so do our Canadian friends. Canada's foreign minister made an urgent appeal for action when he recently met with Secretary of State George Shultz in Halifax.

Sure, the Ohio Valley is a depressed region. The regional economy can't stand the burden of cleaning up its own aerial waste. But this is a problem that is bigger than the Ohio valley. If it takes some help from the rest of the country to pay the cost, so be it.

BERRY'S WORLD

"This one's dedicated to the small businessman and his burden of government paperwork."

Lake Mary High School Guidance Counselor Connie Mandeville recently packed up 10 of her students in a van and took them to Kissimmee to meet with officials from the University of Miami.

The discussions were fruitful as all 10 recently learned they have been awarded academic scholarships to attend Miami.

Emery Berger, Jeff Chamberlain, Brian Belton, Phillip Halle, Michael Dempsey Elaine McDonagh, Gretchen Jarand, Michelle Mather and Suzanne Watson will each receive $20,000 scholarships. Seana Sousa will receive an $8,000 scholarship.

The students were selected for their high school course work, grades, extracurricular activities and SAT scores.

They have been invited to enroll in Miami's Honors College and several of the students recently visited the Miami campus for the school's awards weekend.

School Superintendent Robert Hughes said he is delighted that so many students have already received recognition for excellence in academics and predicts that many more Seminole students will be chosen by other major colleges and universities to receive academic scholarships.

Speaking of Hughes, the superintendent is anxiously awaiting the day when people will be able to tell computers what to do verbally rather than by programming.

Hughes is uncomfortable with his lack of knowledge about computers and was consoled when Gary Becker, the district's expert on computers, said verbal programming could become a reality within three years.

He wasn't even swayed when Becker told him that the computer would be able to respond as well.

"That's OK," he said. "In my job I'm used to people talking back to me."

County Commissioner Robert Sturm has been making the most of a recent dispute between a homeowner and a businessman in the Winter Springs area. Sturm acquired the nickname Ranger Bob from the incident in which the businessman cleared trees from a 3.5 acre site in violation of the county's arbor ordinance.

Sturm isn't entirely happy with the situation or the nickname but he's maintained his sense of humor. Recently, "Ranger Bob" laughingly told other county officials that he "knows where they can get some scrub oaks."

VIEWPOINT Ten-Year Energy Crisis

By Edward J. Walsh

(Editor's Note: Edward J. Walsh is a staff writer for the USBC Writer's Group. His column is published in a variety of newspapers throughout the United States.)

October 17, 1973 probably doesn't stand out in the memories of many Americans. But no one of voting age can be ignorant of the profound changes in American life that began that day, when the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries shut off the flow of their crude oil to the United States.

The OPEC embargo lasted about five months, but the consequences of it have been permanent.

The legacy of the energy "crisis" has been economic and philosophical: economic because the official response to it was to implement economically destructive policies to "conserve" energy, and philosophical because Americans, at least many Americans, learned the bitter lesson that government management of commodities — whether energy or widgets — leads only to scarcity.

The ineffectiveness of government in allocating goods was graphically demonstrated during the embargo. Net reductions in gasoline supplies never exceeded 5 percent, a shortfall that would have gone unnoticed if oil prices had not been held down by federal controls.

Instead, motorists lined up for hours to get gas distributed by a government agency for which politics, not economic efficiency, was the first priority. The Federal Energy Office directed U.S. refineries to emphasize production of home heating oil over gasoline, lest the Nixon administration be accused of ignoring the poor during winter. By February 1974, supplies of heating oil were 38 percent above previous years' levels, while gas was sold under a mind-boggling variety of restrictions.

Even worse, the U.S. treasury declined to face the real consequences of higher oil prices. The money supply was allowed to expand rapidly, in an attempt to cushion the impact of the oil price hike, even as the nation endured in 1974-1975 what was then the worst economic slowdown since World War II. The inflation rate soared from 6.2 percent in 1973 to 11 percent the following year.

Of course, politicians have a big stake in economic hardship. Jimmy Carter's 1977 National Energy Plan proposed to solve our energy dilemma by raising taxes. It never occurred to him that we had become addicted to foreign oil because U.S. oil prices were controlled below the level people were willing to pay. Eventually, other Americans understood this basic truism, and voted him out of office.

Ronald Reagan's election has often been called a political revolution, but it was also an economic revolt. Thus, a week after taking office, Mr. Reagan took the first major step towards ending the energy crisis by decontrolling U.S. oil prices.

There were things he could not do, such as shield Americans from the consequences of the misbegotten fiscal and monetary policies that characterized the Seventies.

DeLorean's Entrapment Claim May Stick

WASHINGTON — Despite video tapes that show him clearly handling a satchel full of cocaine, auto wizard John DeLorean's contention that the government entrapped him into the illicit drug deal may still hold in court.

The reason is that crucial conversations in the early stages of the bizarre incident were not recorded. So the government's claim that DeLorean initiated the narcotics deal cannot be proven by electronic evidence.

Neither, of course, can DeLorean's insistence that it was a government informant who first suggested a cocaine transaction as the way to bail the flamboyant automaker out of his financial difficulties. He then went along with the deal, he told his staff, because of threats against his family.

The government's case isn't as airtight as the attorneys have been claiming in pretrial motions over the months. For example, one motion states that "the conspiracy is vividly depicted and preserved on a series of audio and video tapes."

But court documents and internal government memos studied by my associates Indy Badwar and Tony Capaccio show no conclusive evidence

The Right Stuff

JEFFREY HART

The New Reagan Team

In replacing James Watt at Interior with his long-time friend and damage control expert, the president completed a political process that has been underway for around 18 months. Most of the flamboyant personalities of the early Reagan team are now gone. There will be no surprises from within the administration as we move into the 1984 election year.

I do not mean to suggest that this process has been a conscious plan, and I do not interpret it as a "conservative defeat," as many are doing. But, on a case-by-case basis, it no doubt reflects the president's political instincts as the serious business of re-election approaches.

The attrition of major political stars within the administration has been spectacular.

Al Haig, vivid, choleric and unpredictable, has given way to the low-profile George Shultz. Richard Allen, the hard-liner who was Reagan's first national security advisor, and who had the habit of speaking his mind in public, got into trouble over Japanese trinkets and was replaced by the infinitely discreet Clark.

James Watt's now famous minority quota joke was not his first flap. He has now been replaced by the same Clark.

The post of national security advisor has gone not to the feisty Jeane Kirkpatrick, our U.N. Ambassador, but to the almost faceless team-player Robert "Bud" McFarlane, formerly Clark's deputy.

The new team is not going to focus attention away from the president or the issues by creating headlines about personality or discretion. Bill Clark is not going to tell any ethnic jokes. George Shultz is not going to appear on the cover of Time magazine with the glove at his feet proclaiming himself the "vicar" of American foreign policy. Robert McFarlane has no highly visible foreign policy views of his own, and will be an implementer of Reagan's foreign policy.

To the extent that you can guard against in-house surprises as the campaign develops, Reagan has now done so.

U.N. Ambassador Kirkpatrick wanted the national security advisor post, and her academic and intellectual qualifications outdistanced anything McFarlane can show. But the criteria for her rejection are clear. She is too vivid and independent for this phase of Reagan's politics. Her advocacy of Argentina during the Falklands war, useful at the time to keep channels open, is no longer an asset as the focus shifts to Europe and the Pershing II deployment. Kirkpatrick would undoubtedly have engaged in a power struggle with Shultz, and just might go public with a disagreement. Therefore, McFarlane.

Mrs. Kirkpatrick's qualifications are so impressive that it will be a pity if she leaves the administration. Reagan admires her mind and values her advice, and perhaps he will offer her another post and use his famous charm to keep her aboard.

As Bill Clark moves to Interior, to pull things together after Watt, Burford and the others, he has to be viewed as one of the most interesting political figures since FDR's friend Harry Hopkins, who, though only an advisor, was the most powerful man in the government after Roosevelt himself.

Throughout Reagan's political career, Bill Clark has been his Mr. Damage Control.

Shortly after Reagan won the California governorship by a million votes in 1966, a homosexual scandal broke out on his staff and morale plummeted. Reagan called in Clark to take over as chief of staff and pull things back together. Clark did so effectively, and may even have saved Reagan's governorship. Reagan showed his appreciation by naming Clark to the California Supreme Court, where he again did a good job.

Once in the White House, Reagan sensed that he had a potential problem with the volatile secretary of state, Al Haig. He installed Clark at State to keep an eye on Haig.

When national security advisor Richard Allen got into trouble, Reagan again called upon Clark — and the rolling waters calmed.

In immediate political terms, Clark at Interior solves any potential problems with Reagan's Far West political base, for whom James Watt was a hero. Clark, as Reagan put it, is a Westerner and a God-fearing rancher, and he is popular out under the Big Sky.

ROBERT WAGMAN How Dems Exploit Cattle Calls

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (NEA) — Although the first primary is still months away, one thing has become a fixture of this campaign: the candidate forum, or "cattle call," in which most or all the Democratic hopefuls appear at the same time and place.

Some of these forums are wide open; others are limited to a single topic — such as the most recent one here at Harvard's Kennedy School of Government, which focused on arms control. In some sessions, the candidates answer questions from a press panel in a rather controlled environment, while in others they're questioned by the audience. And in New York City — in what was probably the campaign's most entertaining confrontation thus far — the candidates asked pointed questions of each other, making it as much a free-for-all debate as a forum can be.

According to the polls, many voters feel that all or most of the Democratic candidates have similar views on most major issues. Therefore, each candidate's chief concern during these forums is to show that his positions differ significantly from those of his rivals. The candidates make these points even if it means giving answers that don't quite answer — or even resemble — the questions they've been asked.

In the forums, front runner Walter Mondale and his chief rival, John Glenn, tend to ignore the other candidates and concentrate on scoring points off each other. At the same time, the "also rans" try to show that they deserve the same consideration given Mondale and Glenn.

The nationally televised forum at Harvard was typical: Each candidate was eager to show the how his positions on arms control and the spread of nuclear weapons differed from those of the other hopefuls. At times this was difficult, since all of the candidates except former Florida Gov. Rubin Askew support a nuclear weapons freeze, and most are against the deployment of new multi-warhead missile systems, the B-1 bomber and the MX missile.

As always, Mondale and Glenn went at each other as if there weren't five other candidates on the platform. As the front runner, Mondale was quick to give facts and figures that would demonstrate his mastery of the issues.

Mondale also felt that Glenn was vulnerable in this forum since, in 1979, Glenn opposed the second round of strategic arms limitation talks (SALT II), and he struck out at Glenn for taking that position.

Glenn fired back that he opposed SALT II in 1979 "because I saw that it could not be monitored," and then focused on Mondale's role as part of the Carter administration — a theme that has become central in Glenn's campaign appearances.

Mondale responded that, as vice president, he was forced to publicly back the policies of the administration he was a part of, but that he "opposed in private" a number of the major arms decisions of the Carter years, including the deployment of the MX. "My voice was heard in the private councils of the administration," he said.

to prove the government's claim that "DeLorean initiated his participation in a narcotics transaction," and that "narcotics were discussed openly from July through the date of his arrest" in October 1982. The vital conversations simply weren't recorded.

According to an internal Drug Enforcement Administration report, U.S. Attorney James Walsh decided to open an investigation on July 16, 1982. His decision was based largely on a 10-minute conversation with the DEA agent who handled James Timothy Hoffman, the informant DeLorean swears set him up.

The DEA report admits that Hoffman made the first call to DeLorean. The report says Hoffman called "on a personal matter" in late June — with no further elaboration.

In this first conversation, which was unrecorded, Hoffman said DeLorean disclosed his auto company's deep money troubles and asked Hoffman if he knew any investors who might help save the company. As Hoffman recounted the conversation to the DEA, he said no. DeLorean then said he "wanted to meet and discuss an important matter and could not do so over the phone." An eight-minute follow-up call the next day was also unrecorded.

The two men met in Newport Beach, Calif., on July 11, 1982. Hoffman reported to his DEA agent that he "was asked by DeLorean if he had connections in the Orient for white powder and also the connections to transport and market the product in the U.S."

The DEA report concluded that DeLorean wanted "to finance the importation of white heroin into the U.S.A. by private aircraft from the Far East." But the Hoffman-DeLorean meeting was not recorded, nor were three other calls between them that same day.

The government contends that DeLorean "characterized the narcotics deal as a 'godsend' in his first recorded conversation with an undercover agent." Actually, that conversation was with a banker-undercover agent whom Hoffman had given as a financial reference — and the word "godsend" was not uttered.

The next day, however, DeLorean called Hoffman. The conversation was also recorded, and a DEA report describes it this way: "DeLorean stated that he had discussed with the banker the possibility of obtaining a loan for 'floor planning' his cars." It was this loan that DeLorean referred to as a "godsend."

In the taped conversation with Hoffman, DeLorean said he wanted to "go ahead with our proposition." The government says he meant the narcotics deal. DeLorean says he was talking about a legitimate investment package.

In fact, in a recent pretrial hearing, prosecutor Walsh was forced to concede that there was no mention of narcotics in that crucial early conversation between DeLorean and the government informant.

BLUNDER OF THE WEEK: Shortly after announcing its support for former Vice President Walter Mondale, the National Education Association mailed out several thousand embarrassing packets, containing six separate, multicolored reports on an NEA conference last February.

The colorful pamphlets were bound in a glossy folder, which was contained in a mailing envelope. Each pamphlet, folder and envelope was emblazoned with the slogan "Teaching the 'Right Stuff'" My sources say the NEA was aghast at this unwitting plug for the new movie about Sen. John Glenn's exploits as an astronaut.

Defense Forces 7 Turnovers, But Steelers Prevail

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — For six days leading up to Sunday's game, Pittsburgh coaches warned the Steelers not to be misled by the Tampa Bay Buccaneers' 0-8 record.

"We talked all week about how physical this football team is and how we had to be ready, but talking doesn't do much good," Steelers head coach Chuck Noll said.

But the reality of a 12-0 fourth-quarter deficit managed to get Noll's message across, prompting the Steelers offense to shake off both the fierce Tampa Bay defense and 45 minutes of ineptitude to rally for a 17-12 fourth-quarter victory.

"We didn't play very good football all through three quarters, but our defense hung in there," Noll said. "Then our offense was able to come alive in the fourth quarter and... well, whatever it takes!"

What it took for the Steelers to ruin an NFL record-setting performance of 42 rushes (for 126 yards) by Tampa Bay running back James Wilder, seven forced turnovers by the Buccaneer defense and four field goals by Bill Capesto included:

— An 11-yard touchdown reception by Steelers' rookie Wayne Capers — his first as a pro — with 8:42 to go;

— A 57-yard punt return by another Pittsburgh rookie, Paul Skansi, which set up Gary Anderson's 42-yard field goal with 5:49 to play, and — A 2-yard burst for the game-winning touchdown by Frank Pollard with 31 seconds left. That play capped a 68-yard, 10-play drive highlighted by a 12-yard scramble by quarterback Cliff Stoudt; a 21-yard pass from Stoudt to Skansi, and a 13-yard scamper by Pollard just before his TD plunge.

The "whatever it takes" win by Pittsburgh left Tampa Bay Coach John McKay angered and nearly incapable of speech.

He kept his back to reporters for a few seconds, composing himself by biting off the tip of a cigar. Then he turned and spat out a concise concession:

"We did not play well enough to win. We lost our ninth straight game, and that is that."

And, with that, McKay walked into the coaches' dressing room and slammed the door, leaving his frustrated players to do the explaining.

"The coaches worked hard all week and put in a good defensive game plan," Tampa Bay defensive end Lee Roy Selmon said as he shook his head sadly and stared at the locker room floor. "We just wanted to go out and play hard."

"It's hard to believe it happened, but it did. You've got to believe it and just go from here. We don't sit around and wait for something (bad) to happen. I don't know what it is."

What "it" was Sunday was a Tampa Bay offense that was just as inefficient and inept as Pittsburgh's, only for four quarters rather than three.

Despite the fine running by Wilder, who broke the previous NFL record of 41 rushes set by Steeler Franco Harris, and the numerous opportunities provided by Pittsburgh's seven turnovers, Tampa Bay could not manage to score a touchdown.

Although Tampa Bay had tried just three field goals through its first eight games, all 12 points scored Sunday were by the leg of Capesto, who kicked field goals of 26, 49, 27 and 28 yards. He also missed a 47-yarder in the first half.

The Buccaneers managed just 13 first downs and 236 yards in total offense.

"We played so well, but we just didn't get over the hump when we needed to," Tampa Bay quarterback Jack Thompson said. "We can't continue to settle for three points against Pittsburgh because you know they are going to score."

The Steelers said they also knew they would eventually cross the goal line.

"For a young team that's having its troubles offensively, we seem to come together in the fourth quarter and claw and scratch for everything," Stoudt said.

No Guts Or Glory For Conservative Fighting Seminoles

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

No guts, no glory. Four simple words which can decide the fate of any prep football team which goes into overtime in Florida. The tiebreaker system is, indeed, like playing Russian Roulette. And after the third pull of the trigger Friday night, Sanford's conservative Fighting Seminoles were shot dead by the DeLand Bulldogs.

DeLand didn't show any guts either, but the Bulldogs did have the advantage or disadvantage (depending on your coaching philosophy) of going first.

In the tiebreaker system, both teams get four plays to score from the 10-yard line. If you score in one, that's all you need, then the other team gets its opportunity.

Most coaches like to go second because then you know what you have to beat or tie. If a team doesn't score on its possession, then you can trot out your field goal kicker on first down and win by three. If your opponent scores a TD and runs in a two-point conversion, then you need eight to stay in the game. Also, if a team scores a TD and kicks the PAT, a score and two-point conversion wins the game.

That's where the guts and glory part comes in. DeLand went first in Friday's game. The Bulldogs needed just two plays to score and Mike Studley booted the point after for a 34-27 edge.

Seminole came right back when it took three downs to score as fullback Tim Lawrence burst over from the 1. Rob Cohen kicked the PAT for a 34-24 tie.

Before Cohen's kick, however, DeLand was penalized for offsides. Seminole now had the ball on the one and one-half yard line, which is just three steps for Tim Lawrence's powerful legs from the game-winning two-point conversion.

It was guts and glory time for coach Jerry Posey. He decided on conservatism. He sent Cohen in to kick the PAT to tie the ball game. Did he consider running or passing the ball for two points and the win? "No," Posey said. "We decided to go with the percentages."

And the percentages worked for two breiftimes. But in the third, Cohen, no doubt under immense pressure, sliced his point-after kick just wide of the right upright and DeLand escaped with a 48-47 victory.

High school kickers have come a long way in the past 10 years in Florida. It's not uncommon to see a young man kick a 50-yard field goal. But should a prep kicker be subjected to the pressure of a do-or-die situation like Cohen and Studley were Friday? I don't think so.

Granted, pressure is part of the game and handling that pressure is an important thing for a young man to learn. But when a team needs just a yard and one half to win, it's time for guts and glory.

No one likes to lose, but I would rather lose aggressively than to put that much pressure on an inexperienced senior who is kicking extra points on a consistent basis for the first time in his life.

If you send Lawrence after the yard and one-half and he doesn't make it, at least you're going for the win and not the tie. By putting all the hope on a kicker, snapper and holder, you're not playing to win, you're playing to tie.

Prep football coaches, for the most part, are a conservative breed. They don't like to pass the ball and they don't take chances.

But if you want to play percentages, I would say it would be a lot better percentage to hand Tim Lawrence or Dexter Jones the football and say, "Get me two yards," than to ask a scared senior to play for a tie.

Lyman's Greyhounds moved into position for defense of their Five Star Conference and District 4A-9 titles Friday with a 21-13 victory at Lake Howell.

Lyman, 4-1 in the Five Star, takes on 6-0 Apopka Friday at Apopka. Coach Bill Scott's Greyhounds need to whip the sixth-ranked Blue Darters, then polish off Mainland and DeLand.

An Apopka victory will give the Blue Darters their first twin titles since joining the conference. Apopka closes with Lake Howell, but if it beats Lyman, it will win the conference since the other teams with two losses — Lyman and Lake Brantley — both have lost to the Blue Darters this fall.

Knights Claim 1st I-AA Victim

CLARKSVILLE, Tenn. — Finally, after eight attempts, the University of Central Florida Knights have claimed their first Division I-AA victim.

And, they did the hard way — on the road.

With freshman Elgin Davis motoring for a record 149 yards on 31 carries and a revamped UCF defense giving up just 242 total yards, the Knights held off Austin Peay 10-7 Saturday afternoon.

First-year coach Lou Saban and athletic director Bill Peterson considered beating a I-AA foe a must for UCF's aspiring program. The Knights, 4-3 and a Division II school, has petitioned to move up to I-AA status next year, so a few victories over that level of competition is highly coveted.

Davis and a strong defensive effort by a couple of converted offensive players made Saturday's win possible. Davis danced in from 10 yards out for UCF's first score after the Knights had picked up a fumble at the Austin Peay 12. Senior kicker Scott Ryerson boomed a 50-yard field goal for the deciding points.

College Football

And the defense, led by former offensive guard Charlie Miller, running back turned safety Paul Kelly and linebacker Darrell Rudd was perfect until the last six minutes of the game.

Austin Peay, 4-4, was held to just 86 yards rushing and 156 through the air for the ball game. The Governors definitely felt the loss of quarterback Rob Christophel as they never did get much of a threat going until the final period.

Sophomore QB Rickey Rice finally found wide receiver Rob Sent with a 25-yard TD pass with just 4:11 to play. It capped a 70-yard drive which was fueled by the hard running of reserve back Vince Allen.

UCF then took over the ball and moved it long enough (almost three minutes) to keep the Governors at bay. When Austin Peay did get the ball, 85 yards away with just 1:24 to play, Rudd picked off a Rice pass on third down to seal the Governors' fate.

"The five changes we made last week really helped," said Saban about the defensive maneuvering. "Defensively, we improved 30 to 40 percent. Across the board, it was the best defensive game we've had all year. And thank God for it, because we didn't play very well offensively."

Saban considered the win a big one for two reasons. "We showed we're keeping pace with the other I-AA schools," said the 62-year-old veteran. "It was as tough as a game as we played all year. They wanted it as badly as we did."

UCF travels to Jefferson City, Tenn. on Saturday for a 1:30 p.m. game with Carson Newman.

Doubles Tournament Qualifying Is Underway

The Miller High Life Doubles Tournament qualifying has started at Bowl America. This is for amateur bowlers only and the grand prize is $50,000.

The rules and handicap are so well conceived that anyone — yes, you — can win the big prize. Last year Sherri and Ed Walters, who bowled at Bowl America Winter Park, won the $50,000. They each earned a 141 average and were just one doubles team out of thousands throughout the USA who said, "Why not? It will be good experience."

So, for a fee of $14, they qualified at Winter Park, then for an additional fee won the Central Florida Regionals and the State Finals where they received $500 and an all-expense paid trip to Las Vegas, where they won the big money in the National Finals. This has to be the best and most lucrative bowling tournament available for amateur bowlers, and the entry fee is very reasonable. Only $14 per team, and you stand to win it all. One out of every six teams at Sanford will qualify for the regionals at Deltona Lanes. Anytime two teams of doubles want to bowl, and we have lanes available, you can qualify between now and Sunday Nov. 27. Don't miss this one. Last year proved it can be won locally and you don't need a high average. The handicap is 80 percent of 210 for men and 90 percent of 210 for the ladies. Lots of luck. We surely would love to see a Bowl America Sanford winner.

Same goes for our CFBPA No-Tap Tournament qualifiers. These top nine No-Tappers journey to Melody Lanes this weekend for the finals. Top qualifier was Anne Slocum with an 806 — followed by Jeff Chestnut, Dennis Dolgner, Ray Wilson, Rhonda Robinson, W.D. Richard, Joe Johnson, Les Buddenhagen and Bob Richmond. Good luck to all of you and bring that $200 first prize plus a bunch more bucks back to Sanford.

Scores this week from many of the leagues were very good. Congratulations to all — keep knocking them down. Central Florida Regional Hospital League had several notable scores. Tony Monteleone 185/528, Bill Griffith 217/593, Brenda Nicholson 177/512, Scott

Page 175/511, Debbie Russell 217, Jay Williams 213/535, Steve Page 224, and Red Roland 181/528. The high series reported for the week was Jim Morace, TGIF League, 244/240/192/684. He was followed by Julio Ceballos of the City League with a 257/608. Other good scores for the men were Bernard Hudley 244/599 and Joel Waugh 217/595. A Bowling of the Unprofessionals had a 229. The Educator's League had several fine scores: Alex Dickison 224, Bud Flance 215/582 and Molly Nell 207. Rolling on the Scratch On Thursday League, Bud Corbett, with a 156 average, rolled 180/185/229/594. Congratulations everyone. — Roger Quirk

NBA, Refs To Meet

NEW YORK (UPI) — The NBA, in an effort to settle the labor dispute with its referees, Sunday night called for a joint meeting in New York Tuesday of its Labor Relations Committee and negotiating team.

The L.R.C. is made up of owners from various clubs while the negotiating team is led by Russell Grant.

Marino Strikes Again As Dolphins Trip Rams

United Press International
Don Shula has nothing personal against Eric Dickerson. Shula just didn't want to see the Rams rookie ride roughshod over Miami Sunday like he had against his first eight NFL opponents.

"Coach Shula said last week he didn't want to hear about Eric Dickerson doing this and doing that," Miami running back David Overstreet said. "He wanted to hear about us doing some things."

The Dolphins gave Shula an earful in their 30-14 rout of Los Angeles. Dickerson added 101 yards to his NFL-leading rushing total, but only 8 came in the second half when Miami snapped a 14-14 tie. Dickerson has 1,096 yards for the season, but the Rams have their first two-game losing streak — thanks to two touchdown passes by Dolphins rookie Dan Marino and 163 yards rushing by Miami.

"It's all relatively simple," first-year Rams Coach John Robinson said. "We just didn't play very well in all aspects. It was a team defeat. The Dolphins lost two in a row earlier this season. Everybody in this league has a down streak. We'll just have to come back."

Marino's 2-yard rollout in the first quarter and his 46-yard bomb to Mark Duper in the second gave the Dolphins a 14-14 tie at the half. Then, while the Miami defense was holding off the Rams after intermission, Uwe von Schamann kicked a 32-yard field goal. Tony Nathan romped 18 yards through a brief rainstorm for another score and Overstreet caught a 3-yard TD pass from Marino.

Seahawks 34, Raiders 21

Dave Krieg passed for one touchdown and the man he replaced as starting quarterback, Jim Zorn, fired another on a fake field goal play to power Seattle to its second victory over the Raiders in three weeks.

Broncos 27, Chiefs 24

Steve DeBerg shredded the NFL's leading pass defense for 350 yards and one TD and Nathan Poole ran for two more scores to lead Denver, which pulled into a first-place tie with the Raiders in the AFC West.

Colts 22, Eagles 11

Rookie Raul Allegre kicked his fifth field goal of the game — a 30-yarder with 2:07 left — to lift Baltimore, which drove to its winning field goal after rookie Steve Parker recovered a fumbled pitch-out by Perry Harrington at the Philadelphia 41.

Cowboys 38, Giants 20

Danny White fired a career-high five

NFL Roundup

TD passes and the Cowboys' defense forced six turnovers to extend the Giants' winless streak to five games and sink New York into the NFC East basement. White capped long first-half drives with TD passes of 21 yards to Tony Hill and 14 yards to Tony Dorsett.

Jets 27, 49ers 13

Richard Todd threw a 28-yard scoring pass. Scott Dierking ran a yard for another score and Pat Leahy kicked two long field goals, helping the Jets snap a three-game losing streak. Joe Montana threw a 6-yard scoring pass to Roger Craig and Ray Wersching hit field goals of 45 and 24 yards for San Francisco.

Lions 38, Bears 17

Eric Hipple threw a 21-yard TD pass to Jeff Chadwick and Vince Thompson dove in from a yard out, both after first-quarter interceptions of Vince Evans' passes, to open Detroit's rout.

Browns 25, Oilers 19

Rookie Boyce Green ran 21 yards for a TD with 8:26 left in overtime to lift Cleveland. The Browns, who led only briefly early in the game on the first of Matt Bahr's four field goals, tied the score at 19-19 with 53 seconds left in regulation on Bahr's 30-yard field goal. Green carried 13 times for 108 yards.

Cardinals 41, Vikings 31

Nell Lomax passed for three TDs and Otis Anderson ran for a season-high 136 yards and another score to help St. Louis snap a three-game Minnesota winning streak.

Falcons 24, Patriots 13

Steve Bartkowski completed 22-of-33 passes for 252 yards and TD and rookie linebacker John Rade scored on a 16-yard fumble return on the final play of the first half to lead Atlanta to its first two-game winning streak of the season.

Bills 27, Saints 21

Joe Ferguson threw four TD passes, including two to backup Mike Mosley, to lead Buffalo. New Orleans' Dave Wilson threw for three TDs and moved the Saints to within 39 yards of the winning score when time ran out.

Bengals 34, Packers 14

Turk Schonert passed for two TDs and ran for another, while Pete Johnson rushed for 112 yards and two TDs to pace Cincinnati. Schonert, a four-year veteran who had not thrown an NFL touchdown pass until Sunday, fired a 10-yard scoring pass to Steve Kreider and tossed a 2-yard TD to Cris Collinsworth.

Despite 5 TD Passes, White Wasn't At Best

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (UPI) — No one was putting down Danny White. They weren't lifting him up on their shoulders either over his accomplishment. He knew better than anyone it really wasn't that much.

What's more, he said so himself. That's Danny White for you. He isn't one for taking credit when he doesn't feel it's due him. He didn't want anyone getting the wrong idea about the kind of day he had against the New York Giants Sunday.

He didn't think it was that good, and he was right. Even though he threw five touchdown passes.

By doing so, the Dallas Cowboys' eighth-year quarterback broke his individual single game record and equaled an all-time team mark in guiding the Cowboys to a 38-20 win over the Giants. It was the Cowboys' eighth victory in nine starts. White wasn't being overly modest in declining to take any bows for his performance. He simply was telling the truth. At best, his showing could be described as fair.

That's life. Here's a guy like Danny White, who has led the Cowboys to the NFC championship game three straight times. More than that, his figures put him right up there with the NFL's all-time leading passers. Now he goes out and throws five touchdown passes in one game and what does it do to enhance his stature. Little, if anything.

Part of that has to do with the lingering conviction among those who think his understudy, Gary Hogeboom, could be the more effective quarterback for the Cowboys. Hogeboom got his big chance last January when White was knocked unconscious in the Cowboys' conference title game with Washington and gave a spectacular account of himself even though the Redskins won the game. Some people immediately began saying Hogeboom should be the Cowboys' No. 1 quarterback, not White. Some people still say that, although not as many as did before.

Hogeboom, in his fourth year with the Cowboys, is busting to play regularly. White knows the feeling well. He had to cool his heels for four years behind Roger Staubach.

The best White ever could do before Sunday was four touchdown passes in one game. He did it twice in his career, the last time being in last year's opener with Pittsburgh. By connecting for those five TD aerials against the Giants' Swiss cheese-like secondary, he tied a club record set originally by Eddie LeBaron in 1962 and since then by Dandy Don Meredith three different times and and Craig Morton twice.

Sports Parade

By MILTON RICHMAN

Without being unfair to White, his showing was the type which looks a lot better on paper than it actually was on the field.

He netted 304 yards in the air. That doesn't sound bad, but he failed to complete even half his passes, hitting on only 15-of-33, and had two of them picked off. By contrast, his counterpart with the Giants, Jeff Rutledge, promoted to No. 1 quarterback only last week, showed a better completion ratio and gained more yards than White did, with 14 out of 29 for 325 yards and two touchdowns. But he was intercepted three times in addition to being sacked six times and lost three fumbles while trying to pass.

White could've passed for two more touchdowns had his receivers held on to the ball. That still wouldn't have altered the fact that he has had better days. "I was a little bit inconsistent," he said. "I'm still not making good decisions all the time. That still bothers me. I made some throws I shouldn't have made. I was fortunate enough to have some guys in the open. It doesn't take any great quarterback to hit a receiver who's in the open. But I made some bad decisions. I overthrew Tony Hill early in the game when he was wide open."

Sometimes White tends to give himself the worst of it. Maybe because he tries so hard to be a perfectionist. He really wasn't THAT bad against the Giants. It's just that he wasn't that good.

"He made the plays when he had to but we have all seen Danny White sharper," offered Drew Pearson. "I'm sure Danny would agree. He may have tied the record, but he didn't have an especially good day."

At first, Tom Landry said he thought White had "a great day." Upon thinking about it a little longer, the Cowboys coach qualified his statement by saying, "he made some great throws and some not so good. He had an up and down day, but his passes offset the minuses."

White threw two of his touchdown passes to Hill and the others to Tony Dorsett, Doug Cosbie and Pearson. It was Pearson, not White, who wound up with the game ball.

"I'll give it to my mother," said the Cowboys' veteran wide receiver.

Politowicz Cruises To P.R., Lady Saints 2nd To Lopez

Trinity Prep sophomore Adrienne Politowicz cruised to a personal best time of 11:27 Saturday to claim the individual title at the Saints Invitational at Trinity Preparatory School. The Lady Saints finished second to Daytona Beach Father Lopez in the meet.

Politowicz shaved six seconds off her previous best Seminole County top time of 11:33. Trinity Prep freshman Katie Sams also ran a personal best Saturday as she finished third with a time of 12:28.

Lilley Leads Trinity Win

David Lilley scored a pair of touchdowns and Chris Lassiter added another Saturday to lift Trinity Prep's Saints to a 20-17 victory over Vero Beach St. Edwards.

St. Edwards took a 7-0 lead on the first play of the game as Chuck Steven returned the opening kickoff 92-yards for a touchdown and Stevens also kicked the extra point.

Trinity tied it up at 7-7 in the second quarter as Lilley bulled in from the one. St. Edwards got a 27-yard field goal from Stevens and added a touchdown late in the second quarter to take a 17-7 halftime lead.

Lassiter cut St. Edwards' lead to 17-13 as he broke loose for a 49-yard TD run in the third quarter. Lilley scored the winning touchdown from one-yard out in the fourth quarter and the extra point made it 20-17.

Schlichter Hopes To Return

COLUMBUS (UPI) — Former Ohio State and Baltimore Colts quarterback Art Schlichter, while declining to be specific, said Sunday the upcoming winter "will be interesting, no matter what I do."

Schlichter, who was suspended last spring by NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle after he admitted owing gambling debts of some $389,000 to Baltimore bookmakers and additional debts in Columbus, still hopes to get back into football but also plans to continue his education somewhere.

"I'm just going to take it easy and see what happens," Schlichter said in a telephone conversation from his farm home near Bloomingburg, Ohio. "It's going to be an interesting winter, no matter what I do. You never know what's going to happen."

Asked to elaborate, Schlichter said, "I can't get specific about it. Just take it for what it's worth."

Rogers Captures Late Model — Porter Wins Points Crown

NEW SMYRNA BEACH — Three New Smyrna Speedway season-long track championship battles went right down to the wire. The late-model, thundercar and four cylinder titles were decided on Saturday night, the last points night of the 1982-83 season, which ran from Nov. 1, 1982 to Oct. 31, 1983, as per the speedway policy of presenting stock car racing programs every Saturday night, 52 weeks a year.

End of the Month Championships for all divisions were also on tap, and all participants were awarded double points. The 50-lapper for the late models went to David Rogers and his Wayne Densch Budweiser team, with runner-up LeRoy Porter taking the points crown over consistent independent driver/owner Joe Middleton.

Although "Polish Lightning" Joe Coupas was impaired by severe mechanical problems and could not do any better than eighth at the finish of the thunder car feature, that position was just enough to give him the track title by the slim margin of 22 points over "Bad Barry" Ownby who supports his racing habit with a paper route.

Bruce Lawrence, who has not been a regular competitor at the high-banked half-mile of pavement this year, qualified fastest and led every lap, besting Ownby. Jerry Fitch, Mike Fitch and John King at the stripe.

Lawrence, along with Coupas, Ownby and Chuckie Lee, four drivers who have consistently qualified under 20 seconds in recent months, have been notified by speedway officials that starting this Saturday night, first night of the new-points season, they automatically graduate to the late model division and will no longer be allowed to compete in the thundercar division.

Even though street stocker Rick Clouser crashed and did not finish the race, his points total was high enough to allow him to win the season championship by a few hundred ducaats, while his neighbor Doug Young won the End of the Month Championship for that division and finished third in points behind runnerup Doug Howard.

With the New Smyrna Speedway rules stipulating that the points go with the car instead of the driver, young Stan Eads, sporting W.G. Watts' number on his door won the race and the point chase for Watts' team.

Labonte Uses Caution Flag, New Tires To Win American

ROCKINGHAM, N.C. (UPI) — A caution flag and a new set of tires were Terry Labonte's keys to victory in an American 500 that resembled a demolition derby more than a stock car race with half of the top 10 drivers in NASCAR's Grand National point standings wrecking.

In the race's closing stages Sunday at North Carolina Motor Speedway, Labonte had a tire tear up on his Chevrolet. But when Jerry Bowman, driving in relief for Rick Baldwin, spun his Chrysler in turn two to bring out the 10th caution flag, the top three — Labonte, Ricky Rudd, and Tim Richmond — ducked into the pits.

Rudd's Chevrolet received only gasoline, while Richmond's Pontiac and Labonte's car took on four new tires and gas. On the restart, Labonte shot past Richmond and Rudd and built up a two-second advantage with about 10 laps remaining.

Richmond began closing, but fell short — finishing .68 seconds behind Labonte.

"The car worked awfully good on new tires," Labonte said after his second career win earned him $25,505. "We kept blistering the left rear tire. Used tires didn't work as good for us as new tires. On the last pit stop, we made a chassis adjustment and put on new tires."

"It was just an excellent set of tires. There was nothing special about them," said the 26-year-old Corpus Christi, Texas, native who averaged 119.324 mph around the 1.017-mile track in the 492-lap race that was slowed by 10 caution flags for a total of 64 laps. Labonte, whose last win was the 1980 Southern 500 at Darlington, S.C., said when he passed Richmond after the final caution flag he knew his car was running better than Richmond's.

Richmond agreed. "We were just as fast in the last 20 or so laps as we were all day, but Terry got a lot faster," Richmond said. "My car was starting to come in again right near the end. I could see that I was closing on him but we just ran out of time."

Rudd finished third, one lap down. Neil Bonnett took fourth, two laps back. Fifth went to Darrell Waltrip who was three laps off the pace. All three drove Chevrolets.

Waltrip's top five finish allowed him to gain 40 points on Bobby Allison in the battle for the national driving title. With two races remaining, Allison holds a slim 27 point lead.

Allison suffered a devastating blow in his effort to win his first championship in his 22-year career while leading Sunday's race. On lap 113, Allison's Buick crashed into the wall, damaging the car's oil and fuel lines. He returned to the race 40 laps down and finished 16th, 55 laps off.

"The right front wheel broke and the next thing I knew I was in the wall," Allison said. "The impact broke the seat loose and I had to drive most of the race with one hand on the wheel and the other braced against the seat."

The race had 36 lead changes among 10 drivers with Labonte leading 11 times for 127 laps. His victory made him the 11th different winner on the circuit this year, setting a record for the number of different winners in a single season.

Two incidents in the race's first 11 laps hinted at the type of race that lay ahead.

During the parade laps, pole-winner Bonnett had the linkage come off the car's shifter.

Cale Yarborough was eliminated from the event on lap 11. He and Waltrip were battling for the lead going into turn one when the left rear of his Chevrolet collided with the right front of Waltrip's car, sending the two cars spinning. Yarborough's car crashed into the second turn wall while Waltrip's car did at least two loops before being hit by Kyle Petty's Pontiac.

McCumber Birdies Final 3 Holes To Win Pensacola

PENSACOLA (UPI) — Mark McCumber, ending the 1983 PGA tour with straight birdies on the last three holes to win the $250,000 Pensacola Open with a final-round 6-under-par 65, almost wished for another chance at victory.

"I have mixed feelings," McCumber said after his triumph Sunday. "In one respect, I'm glad the year is over, but then again the way I'm playing, I wish there was more."

Although he arrived just before play began Thursday, McCumber put together a four-day total of 18-under-par 266 on the par-71, 7,093-yard Perdido Bay Country Club course. He collected $45,000 for the winning score on the last shot of the tour.

He shot a 65 Saturday when he made it to the course 30 minutes before teeing off.

"I was eating breakfast (Sunday) and had one hour and 15 minutes to get here," he said. "Usually I would be rushing to get to the course but I didn't want to ruin a good thing. I sat in the clubhouse until 30 minutes before tee off."

A 40-foot putt he sank on the par-4 No. 14 was his key shot for the day.

"I was just going for a two-putt. When it went in I figured, here we go," McCumber said.

McCumber, also winner of the Western Open, hit his first birdie on the par-3 fourth hole and made four more on Nos. 6, 9, 10 and 14 before the trio of birdies on the 16th, 17th and 18th holes. He bogeyed on two par-4 holes, Nos. 7 and 12.

Mark Lye, leader for the first two rounds, shot a 65 and Lon Hinkle a 68 to tie for second with 14-under 270.

"It's over," said Hinkle, who did not win a tournament in 1983. "If you told me I would have made what I did earlier this week, I would have been happy. But there's so much more that happens when you win."

Defending champion Calvin Peete took fourth place with a final-round 67 for a total of 13-under-par 271, missing by two strokes the 65 he needed to win the Vardon Trophy given the PGA player with the best annual scoring average.

Auburn Fights Off Gators, 28-21; Controversy Swirls Around Fumble

AUBURN, Ala. (UPI) — Fifth-ranked Auburn preserved its hopes of a Southeastern Conference championship Saturday with a 28-21 win over fourth-ranked Florida, but a controversy remained over whether the Gators were robbed of a touchdown by the officials.

Florida was trailing the Tigers 21-7 in the third quarter when tailback Neal Anderson ran into the end zone from the Auburn 7. The officials said he was stripped of the ball before crossing the goal line and the Tigers gained possession.

The Gators, 6-1-1, were later able to score two fourth quarter touchdowns and recover an on-side kick with less than three minutes on the clock, but the Auburn defense dashed their hopes of victory by holding them to four plays.

"I'm not sure if it was a touchdown or not," said Anderson. "I felt in my mind I was in, but I wasn't sure. I was looking at the guy coming at me and when he hit me, that's when I dropped it."

Wide receiver Bee Lang said he was sure Anderson scored because "he had his whole body across. I was on the other side of the field looking at it. I never saw the ball come out, but obviously it did at some point. I know I saw him cross the goal line with the ball."

Auburn cornerback Jimmie Warren, who hit Anderson on the run, said he was in the end zone when he saw the tailback heading toward the goal line.

"When he got to the one, I took my best shot," Warren said. "I didn't see where the ball went. All I know is that he went one way and I went the other. He was just getting to the goal line when I hit him. The next thing I knew, the official was saying it was our ball."

Florida Coach Charley Pell said he thought Anderson had scored and he blamed Auburn coaches and players of manipulating pre-game publicity to influence the officials.

"I came in thinking the officials were prejudiced," he said. "It seems like the negative press can influence the officials on borderline calls. Borderline calls should go 50-50, not all the same way. In my opinion, the negative press from the coaches and players was a definite plan to get the borderline decisions to go their way."

Pell also said "this is not just a one day question. I'm talking about two years ago, too, when we had a touchdown stolen from us. When you get it two years in a row at Auburn, that is enough. We will go through the proper proceedings with the conference office so it won't happen again."

On Pell's Sunday morning television show, however, he said the official's call on the controversial fumble was correct. He also said he would continue to pursue the other borderline calls through the SEC office.

Auburn Coach Pat Dye had a different opinion, claiming Pell is the only coach who "plays that game" of talking about officials.

"He can do all the mouthing he wants, but we're the least penalized team in America. I think, because our coaching staff does a good job of teaching our players," Dye said. "I am truly sorry about the controversy because I didn't have anything to do with it last year or this year."

"I don't believe in playing all the psychological bull to win football games," he said.

Immediately after the controversial turnover, Auburn halfback Bo Jackson took a handoff from quarterback Randy Campbell and scored on an 80-yard run to give the Tigers their final points of the day.

Auburn's other scores came on a 55-yard run by Jackson, a 4-yard run by Campbell and a 17-yard run by halfback Lionel James.

Peace contributed to Florida's total with a 41-yard scoring pass to wide receiver Ricky Nattiel and a 12-yard toss to Dwayne Dixon. The other Gator touchdown was made on a 1-yard run by fullback John L. Williams.

Auburn remains unbeaten in the SEC race and will have to face unbeaten and sixth-ranked Georgia in two weeks. Florida, which was looking for its first conference title ever, will host the Bulldogs on Saturday.

TEMPE, Ariz. — The Florida State Seminoles pulled off another miracle win Saturday night, saving their chances for a bowl appearance this winter.

With their entire starting backfield on the bench with injuries, FSU took the ball on their own 18-yard line, trailing 26-22 with 1:28 left in the game and no time outs.

Junior quarterback Bob Davis, who had thrown only 11 passes this year as a backup to injured Kelly Lowrey, completed five throws on the 10-play drive. He finished it off with a 10-yard scoring pass to Jesse Hester with six seconds remaining to give Florida State the 29-26 win.

Scouts from five bowls were on hand to watch the Sun Devils, but they came away thinking about the Seminoles, who stand at 5-3 for the season.

In other games Saturday, Miami (8-1) moved into the major bowl picture with a 20-3 victory over West Virginia, and Florida's dreams of a first Southeastern Conference championship were all but dashed in a 28-21 loss at Auburn.

Coach Lou Saban's Central Florida Knights moved over the .500 mark at 4-3 with a 10-7 victory at Austin Peay. Alcorn State defeated Florida A&M (4-4) 43-30 and Bethune Cookman improved to 3-3 by defeating North Carolina A&T 38-3 at Daytona Beach.

Next week, Florida State plays South Carolina at home, Miami plays East Carolina in the Orange Bowl and Florida (6-1-1) meets Georgia in Jacksonville's Gator Bowl, a game that could revive the Gators' SEC title hopes.

Florida A&M plays at North Carolina A&T, Central Florida is at Carson Newman and Bethune-Cookman is at South Carolina State.

MIAMI (UPI) — What may have been the most important victory ever for the Miami Hurricanes also was costly.

Nose guard Tony Fitzpatrick was lost for the remainder of the regular season with a torn bicep suffered in Saturday's 20-3 victory over West Virginia. He will undergo surgery Monday, but if the

Wayne Peace... looks for a receiver

Hurricanes go to a January bowl there is an outside chance he could play. Coach Howard Schnellenberger said Sunday.

That is not the case for fullback Robert "Speedy" Neal. He is out for the duration with a shoulder separation.

"Speedy has taken an awful lot of criticism his junior and senior years, but he has graded out over 90 percent in all his games this year," Schnellenberger said. "It's a very, very serious loss."

With representatives of six bowls, including the Orange and Sugar, looking on, the Hurricanes took West Virginia apart. Miami, now a prime candidate for the Orange Bowl, went into the game ranked seventh in the nation and are sure to move up.

"They have nicked their own destiny," said Nick Crane, who heads the Orange Bowl selection committee. "If they win the rest of the way, I think they will have their choice of bowls."

Illinois Takes Giant Step Toward 'Roses'

United Press International
Everything appears to be coming up roses for Illinois after 20 years as a wallflower.

The ninth-ranked Fighting Illini took a giant step toward their first Rose Bowl appearance since Jan. 1, 1964, Saturday by whipping eighth-ranked Michigan, 16-6, in a key Big Ten Conference game. The victory was the seventh in a row for Illinois after a season opening loss to Missouri. It left the Illini with a perfect 6-0 mark in the Big Ten and in a strong position to win the conference crown.

"What we wanted to do when we came here was build a team of national respect. This game today reflects that," said Illinois Coach Mike White. "It was a day of the defense again. A lot of people didn't believe in our defense at the beginning of the season, but we showed them today."

White will get no argument from Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler.

"They deserved to win. I don't think we played well, but they did deserve to win. We didn't move the ball, we didn't block well and their defense is good," said Schembechler.

Illinois' defense held Michigan to only 135 yards on the ground. The Wolverines are 6-2 overall and 5-1 in the Big Ten.

Jack Trudeau threw two touchdown passes, including a 46-yarder to David Williams, to lead Illinois to its first victory over the Wolverines since 1966 and its first home victory over Michigan since 1957.

Trudeau's 271 yards passing came against a Wolverines team ranked first in the Big Ten in defending against the pass.

A record Memorial Stadium crowd of 76,127 watched the Illini seal the victory when Joe Miles tackled Michigan's Evan Cooper in the end zone for a safety after Cooper tried to run back an Illinois punt.

In other games involving top-10 teams, No. 1 Nebraska routed Kansas State 51-25, No. 2 Texas stopped Texas Tech 20-3, No. 10 Maryland upended No. 3 North Carolina 28-26, No. 5 Auburn defeated No. 4 Florida 28-21, No. 6 Georgia beat Temple 31-14 and No. 7 Miami (Fla.) downed No. 13 West Virginia 20-3.

At Manhattan, Kan., Mike Rozier rushed for a season-high 227 yards and three touchdowns to help the Cornhuskers extend their winning streak to 19 games. Rozier scored on runs of 4, 5 and 22 yards en route to his eighth consecutive 100-yard rushing game of the season. Rozier, who increased his scoring total to 120 points, became only the 16th player in NCAA history to top 4,000 career rushing yards with 4,078.

At Austin, Texas, quarterback Todd Dodge led the Longhorns from a shocking 3-0 halftime deficit and overcame a 126-yard performance by Raiders running back Robert Lewis. Dodge, who replaced starter Rob Moerschell late in the first half, completed six of 10 passes for 118 yards and ran 12 yards for a touchdown to keep the Longhorns' unbeaten record at 7-0 and put them alone atop the Southwest Conference standings.

"FLORIDA" ARRIVE ALIVE
SUNSHINE STATE

Sunvold Rallies SuperSonics Past Kings In Homecoming

By United Press International
Jon Sunvold appreciated the homecoming — even though he didn't know where he was most of the time.

Playing in front of several hundred fans from his hometown of Blue Springs, Mo., a Kansas City suburb, Sunvold scored 12 of his 15 points in the final 3 1/2 minutes to help rally the Seattle SuperSonics to a 121-116 victory Sunday over the Kansas City Kings.

"It was special for me and special for my family," said Sunvold, who also had seven assists. "It was good to have all that support but once you start playing and sweating, you really don't think where you're playing."

Sunvold and Gus Williams sparked Seattle as the Sonics erased a nine-point deficit in the final 8 1/2 minutes. Williams had 14 of his 31 points and seven of his 10 assists in the final quarter, although critics had told Seattle Coach Lenny Wilkens that he couldn't play the 6-foot-3 Sunvold and 6-2 Williams in the backcourt at the same time.

"A writer in St. Louis called me a nerd for thinking I could play them together," laughed Wilkens. "I know we can't do that all the time. I'm not that stupid to think that."

"But there are some times when Gus can handle the big guard defensively and Sunvold can take some of the pressure off Gus with his ball-handling. If we play good inside defense like we did today, we can take that gamble."

NBA

"We just started running our offense and getting the ball to the guys who were shooting well," Sunvold said. "The key, however, was our rebounding. When you get the ball out to Gus in the open court, you've got a better than average chance to score."

Kansas City led 102-95 with 8 1/2 minutes to go when Sunvold scored four points to ignite the Sonics' rally. Sunvold had four baskets and three assists and Williams seven points and five assists in the final six minutes, including a basket apiece after the Kings had forged a 114-114 tie with 2:07 left.

It was the second loss in two starts for the Kings despite a career-high 40 points by Eddie Johnson.

"Losing our first two games at home is tough but there are 80 games left and we've got lots of time to straighten things out," said Johnson.

In another NBA game, San Antonio downed Dallas 123-101.

NHL

Denis Potvin. "We were forechecking well and moving the puck out of our own zone the best of the year. The Flyers lost but not through lack of effort."

Philadelphia's Tim Kerr made it 4-2 at 3:07 on an unassisted goal but the Islanders scored twice a minute apart in the third period (Brent Sutter and Bob Nystrom) to put it away.

"The Islanders are a pretty good hockey club," said Philadelphia's Bobby Clarke. "It's the same team that won the Stanley Cup last year. I know we got a ways to go to improve and catch them."

In other games, it was: Pittsburgh 5, New Jersey 3; Edmonton 5, New York Rangers 4 in overtime; Buffalo 5, Montreal 4; Calgary 4, Vancouver 3; Chicago 6, Hartford 1; and Washington 7, Winnipeg 3.

Penguins 5, Devils 3
At East Rutherford, N.J., Rick Kehoe scored the 299th goal of his career and assisted on two others as Pittsburgh sent New Jersey to its eighth straight loss. Kehoe scored the game-winner 53 seconds into the third period on a 15-footer.

Oilers 5, Rangers 4 (ot)
At New York, Pat Hughes' second goal of the game 78 seconds into sudden death won it for Edmonton, extending the Rangers' losing streak to three games. Hughes, set up by ex-Ranger Pat Conacher, beat goalie Steve Weeks from 25 feet.

Working hard. Together.

You're responding to our energy-saving conservation programs. To date, you've:

- Used our cash incentive programs to help pay for 70,409 energy-saving ceiling insulation, cooling & heating, water heating and window treatment installations.
- Requested 72,509 pool pump timer adjustments to save energy.
- Bought 50,206 high-efficiency Select & Save appliances.
- Added 65,086 energy-saving certified new Watt-Wise™ homes to our community.
- Requested 181,761 energy audits to find ways to save energy.
- Made 98,002 calls to our Watt-Wise Line™ to receive energy-saving information.

In total, helped save 785,000 barrels of expensive oil annually—oil no one has to pay for. And also helped us postpone the costly construction of additional power plants.

We're conserving, too, by operating efficiently, by continuing to do everything we can to be the kind of power company you want. We've:

- Saved $600 million by bringing our St. Lucie II nuclear generating unit into production in six years instead of the usual nine. And compared to oil-powered generation, St. Lucie II will save customers $180 million annually.
- Achieved high standards for operating efficiency. On a list of the 100 best performers, our fossil fuel generating system has ranked in the top ten nationally for the past five years. And the twin nuclear units at Turkey Point are rated as the least costly to operate and maintain of any in the country.
- Introduced economical coal-by-wire and added many technological advances to improve efficiency and fight rising costs.
- Increased our manpower efficiency by serving more customers per employee.

Achieved a power supply performance rating of 99%, ranking sixth out of more than 100 systems in the entire Eastern half of the nation. (Operating Committee Report of the North American Electric Reliability Council.)

Together, we've achieved a lot and we'll achieve a lot more in the future. Look at these results:

- The average electric bill was lower this past summer than it was two years ago. And it was one of the hottest summers on record.
- Average residential electric use actually has decreased this year.
- The amount of oil used to generate electricity was reduced 27% last year.
- Our working together has helped keep FPL rates in the lower half of rates nationally—lower than New York City, San Diego, Chicago, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Detroit, Phoenix and many other cities. (Source: Jacksonville Electric Authority Survey, September 1983.)
- Results. They show that being Watt-Wise works. That working hard works. But we can't stop now. There are major challenges ahead,

- with many factors beyond our control. FPL must:
- Maintain and replace equipment to assure continued good service to customers.
- Add the facilities required to keep pace with Florida's growing electric needs, for expanding neighborhoods, jobs and classrooms.
- Continue the fight against the dominance of oil (oil prices are rising again, up 17% in the past few months).
- Meet Florida's strict environmental standards.

- Keep up with rising costs related to the day-to-day activities, like meter reading, postage, telephone, rent.
- Borrow money when necessary to get the job done.
- The challenges continue. And working hard, together, we can meet them.

We're working hard at being the kind of power company you want.

Paid for by the more than 50,000 shareholders of FPL.

16 County High School Seniors Entries In Junior Miss Contest

Sixteen Seminole County high school senior girls from Lyman, Lake Branley, Lake Mary, Oviedo and Seminole high schools are the entries in the 1983 Seminole County Junior Miss Competition.

Representing Lyman is Donna Cox and from Oviedo is Sonia Morgan. Seminole High has nine candidates: Bonnie Clark, Jill Bedenbaugh, Sheri Duddles, Debbie Dudley, Susana Humann, Alison McCall, Genevieve Stallworth, Tisha Tipton and Britney Tyre. Lake Mary is represented by Amy Dorniny and Cindy Maggio and from Lake Branley we have Angie Curtis, Shana Fruman and Velvet Jackson.

These Junior Miss hopefuls will participate in the local scholarship program to be held on Saturday, Nov. 12, at 8:00 p.m. in the auditorium of Lake Mary High School.

The public is invited to attend the program featuring the youth fitness, creative talent, and poise and appearance competitions. The cost is $5 per person. The admission includes a souvenir program of the evening and hair care products.

The 1983 Junior Miss Program committee of the Altamonte South Seminole Women Jaycees announced that the master of ceremonies will be Rick Saylor, The Morning Man of WHLY-Y106 radio. The official program photographer is Dennis Keeler of Sanford. Flowers will be provided by Hat-taway's Floral Studio. The Junior Misses are currently in rehearsal at Showtime Dance Studio under the direction of choreographers Donna Coombs and Lisa Muzzo.

A make-up demonstration will be held for the contestants courtesy of Jordan Marsh at the Altamonte Mall.

Be-Witching is The Word

Jack-o'-lanterns, funny faces and angelic-like characters all go together on Halloween. These All Souls School second graders in Robin Fisher's class dressed in the costume to fit their whims and enacted a play to herald the spooky Halloween festivities. All ready to celebrate in their own way tonight are, from left, Kara Racine, 8, ballerina; Maril Kramer, 7, witch; DeeDee Michels, 7, witch; and Kim Crenshaw, 7, Cinderella.

DeMolay Honors Members

Seminole Chapter Order of DeMolay, Sanford, has awarded seven of its members with the Representative DeMolay award. The seven honors included the first father and son to be awarded at the same time. Also, the first 50-year senior DeMolay was honored. Receiving the awards are, front row, from left, the Rev. Fritz Mock, Paul Mock and George Francis; back row, from left, Buster Faucher, Kleth Ralston, Sonny Osborne and Scott Larsson. DeMolay is a fraternal organization sponsored by a group of Free and Accepted Masons for young men, 13-21.

GARDEN CIRCLE

CAMELLIA CIRCLE

Camellia Circle of the Garden Club of Sanford held its October meeting at the home of Pat Sentell. Eleven members and one guest, Mrs. Cele Hegg, were present.

President Chal Horrel conducted the business meeting. She announced that the annual azalea sale will be March 3 and 4.

The general meeting of the club was Oct. 20. Jim Jernigan, director of parks and recreation, gave an informative talk on the beautification of Sanford.

Who's Cooking?

The Herald welcomes suggestions for cooks of the week. Do you know someone you would like to see featured in this spot. The Cook of the Week column is published every Wednesday.

Novice cooks and ethnic cooks, as well as experienced cooks and master chefs add a different dimension to dining. Who is your choice? Maybe it's your mother, father, brother, sister or friend.

Submit your suggestions to Cook of the Week columnist Lou Childers, 349-5790, Geneva, or Doris Dietrich, The Herald PEOPLE editor, 322-2611.

Treat The Kids With Safety On Halloween

DEAR READERS: It's Halloween again and time to remind you that ...

Somebody's child will be seriously injured or killed in a Halloween-related traffic accident.

Somebody's child will be badly maimed or fatally burned due to a flammable costume.

Somebody's child will become violently ill or die after eating poisoned candy or an apple containing a razor blade.

Somebody's child will be coaxed into an automobile or lured into a secluded area and sexually assaulted.

To make sure that child isn't yours, here are some tips to ensure the safety of your children:

— Use flameproof costumes only. If costumes are made at home, treat the fabric with a flame-resistant solution.

— Because masks, floppy hats, wigs and veils often interfere with a child's vision, use makeup instead.

— Accessories such as swords, broomsticks, hatchets, wands, etc., should be made of cardboard rather than plastic, metal or wood. Sharp items are dangerous.

— Provide youngsters with flashlights to prevent falls on sidewalks or porch steps. (Positively no lighted candles should be carried!)

— Decorate your child's costume and trick-or-treat bag with reflective tape to make them highly visible to motorists.

— Remind children that they should never enter the home of a stranger or accept rides.

— Adults can help by keeping their yards well-lighted.

— Parents should check all "treats" before allowing children to eat them.

— Very young children should never be out after dark unless accompanied by an adult.

So, make it a safe Halloween, and come Thanksgiving, you'll have more to be thankful for.

DEAR ABBY: A junior high school girl sought your advice after having told her gym teacher that she "loved" her and asked her to be her "special friend." The teacher told her she felt "uncomfortable" being loved so much by a student, and she urged the girl to get over it.

You were right to advise the girl not to pursue a special friendship with this teacher.

Abby, as a representative for the National Education Association, I have seen my share of unsavory student/teacher liaisons gone public, and I can only commend this teacher for seeing the danger in the situation.

Dear Abby

Every day in every school, some student is falling in love with some teacher. Some of these gestures are reciprocated and, if made public, the teacher stands to lose a career or worse. School boards and the courts do not look kindly on teachers who violate the sacred trust of a student/teacher relationship.

Teaching is a more difficult job than most of the public realizes, and this letter illustrates just one of the occupational hazards. The gym teacher was correct and proper, even expressing her feeling of being "uncomfortable" with being "loved." I applaud this teacher's sound judgment.

S.L., WICHITA, KAN.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell people to quit digging the morticians. After all, they are the last people in the world to let you down. O-Lay!

FRANK BARNHILL IN HOUSTON

DEAR ABBY: I am 17 and have been married a year and two months to a wonderful man. (He's 22 and we are in the military.)

We are very happy, but we have problems making love. I seem to hold back, and much as I want to, I can't seem to let myself go. My husband has been very patient with me, but I know he can't enjoy himself because of the way I am.

We've discussed the problem together and think maybe I should seek professional help. Where should I go?

UPTIGHT IN CHICAGO

P.S. Don't tell me maybe it's because I married young. I've had a lot of trouble in my life. I've been raped twice — the first time by my father.

DEAR UPTIGHT: First you should be examined by a gynecologist to determine whether there is some kind of physical problem. If there is none, there's a strong possibility that you are uptight because of your rape experience. Go to your nearest rape crisis center. It doesn't matter how long ago the rape occurred. If it hasn't been dealt with and resolved, it needs to be.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Premarin Does Not Cause Hair Loss

DEAR DR. LAMB — A year ago I had a complete hysterectomy. Although I feel fine, my hair is falling out. I am taking Premarin and wonder if this could be causing my problem. My doctor said it was not unusual for a woman to lose her hair after a hysterectomy and I am lucky to be on Premarin or else I would probably lose it all.

Luckily I have always had a thick head of hair but I'm afraid if it doesn't stop soon I'll end up bald. I don't know if it matters or not but I am about 40 pounds overweight and I've noticed that rats don't heal as quickly as they used to heal.

The only other time I lost a lot of my hair was when I had low thyroid problems. My doctor doesn't seem very concerned about my loss of hair and doesn't think any tests are necessary. But I'm very concerned about it and would like your opinion.

DEAR READER — I can't tell you for certain why you are losing hair but I do agree it is not from the Premarin. Premarin is estrogen and may even help prevent hair loss if a person is deficient in estrogen for any reason.

And people do lose hair after surgery in some cases, but if that happens it is usually within a few months after surgery, not a year later.

Your comment about hair loss and low thyroid before, plus being overweight, suggests some tests are indeed in order. It is important to find out if you have a low thyroid function again and need thyroid replacement.

I would suggest you see a dermatologist and let him examine the hair loss and see if there is an underlying reason for it. If you happen to be losing hair from a low thyroid problem, a little medicine could solve the hair loss and improve your health.

Meanwhile I am sending you The Health Letter 12-6, Hair Care, which explains factors in hair loss.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Two months ago I was experiencing headaches, a swollen neck and fatigue. I was diagnosed as having infectious mononucleosis. I was told the only treatment was rest. Normally I am very active and would like to get back into my exercise routine.

After two months of no exercise, I still tire after normal daily activity. Will exercise slow my recovery time or cause the condition to worsen? How do I know when I'm completely over it?

DEAR READER — Infectious mononucleosis is a viral disease. The virus lives in the tissues in the nose and throat and may be transported by lymphocytes to the rest of the body.

Most people recover from the major manifestations within two to four weeks. A few take several months to recover. Prednisone is sometimes used in severe cases. Otherwise the treatment is symptomatic, including rest. A few people have enlarged spleens and liver changes. You should not engage in lifting or vigorous exercise until your doctor has told you your spleen is not enlarged and it is OK to do so.

At that point exercise in mild amounts will help you regain your strength and stamina. You may be ready to do more gradually each day by now.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY NOVEMBER 1, 1983

This coming year you might meet a very unique individual who doesn't welcome many into his or her inner circle, but who will seek you out as a special friend.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) A friend who always seems to forget her wallet when the check comes due might try to use that play again today to stick you with the bill. Scorpio predictions for the year ahead are now ready. Romance, career, luck, earnings, travel and much more are discussed. Send $1 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Send an additional $2 for the NEW Astro-Graph Matchmaker wheel and booklet. Reveals romantic compatibilities for all signs. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Lack of accomplishment today could be due to two factors: One is a shortage of initiative; the other, poorly defined goals.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Even though you are basically tenacious and determined, negative imaginings today could cause you to throw in the towel before you begin.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be wary of ulterior motives today if someone who never pays too much attention to you begins to lavishly praise you. He or she may want something.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) In critical matters to day, don't allow others to do all of the thinking. Use your own judgment where decisions are called for.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Even though you are inventive and adventurous, it would be wise today not to tackle tasks which you lack the experience to handle. Let the experts do it.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Steer a distant course today from the complex financial problems into which a friend may try to draw you. You both could go down with the ship.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Indecisiveness could cause you complications today when dealing with others. Try to take a firm stand and hold to your position.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Much valuable time may be wasted today daydreaming or rationalizing. Strive to be realistic and practical when sizing up important matters.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your judgment in financial and commercial areas might not be up to par again today, so tread cautiously in these fields.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Disappointment is likely today if you expect others to drop what they are doing in order to cater to your whims. Be independent. Feud for yourself.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Insincerity will be readily discerned by the recipients today, so do not employ flattery in hopes of achieving your purposes.

sensitive plays and handled one slam magnificently."

Jim: "We won the match by a big margin so that our gain, when the other South went down, was just icing on the cake. How did he bid and play his hand?"

Oswald: "His four-spade bid invited the slam. Since we were bidding simply, I Blackwooded to six after suggesting seven by a five no-trump call. He won the spade lead, led a low trump and ducked in dummy after West had played the eight. East won with the 10 and forced dummy with a spade. Jeff cashed my ace of trumps and started on diamonds. Since the suit broke 4-2, he got to set up the fifth diamond for a discard of his last spade."

By Oswald Jacoby and James Jacoby

Jim: "Now that you have played two short Swiss matches as his partner, do you think Jeff Meckstroth deserves his reputation as one of the world's top 20 players?"

Oswald: "I certainly do. He made no mistakes in 14 hands. Came up with two or three brilliant de-

Jim: "Against us, South ruffed a spade immediately, cashed North's ace of trumps, came to his hand with the diamond king, ruffed the last spade, cashed the top clubs and tried to ruff a club. Clubs broke 5-2 and West over-ruffed to leave East's queen of hearts to set the contract."
