

Clay County Demos Prepare Platform Asking Debt Cut

GREEN COVE SPRINGS— (FNS) Startling evidence of the public frame of mind and present day grass roots thinking is evidenced in the platform adopted last week by the Clay County Democrat Executive Committee.

Unfortunately, space does not permit publication of the full text, every word of which is thought-provoking and constructive.

It calls for a return of the Party to the fundamental philosophy of Thomas Jefferson, pledges its support to the opposition to deficit spending and ever mounting taxation.

Calls for reduction of the national debt and the exercise of economy and efficiency in government, both national and state.

Goes on record as vigorously opposing not only the Communism of Russia, but every form of socialist ideology whether it be termed Communism, Socialism, Fascism, Planned Economy or the Welfare State, since they all have the same goal—the destruction of the liberties, rights and freedoms of the individual and lead to the rule of totalitarian dictatorship.

It calls for the purge of the dishonest and disloyal persons in government on all levels, elective or appointive. It deplores the lust for power in the executive, judicial and legislative branches of government, which is weakening public moral and is driving the nation down the road to Socialism, has exposed us to the horrors of war, weakened the national defense.

It solemnly declares that we have reached a fateful hour in our national history and that every citizen faces the choice of liberty or despotism, foreign or domestic and aligns the Democratic Party of Clay County on the side of liberty.

It views with alarm the infiltration of educational, religious, labor and other organizations by subversive groups which are undermining the confidence of our people in the traditional American system of free enterprise.

It encourages the youth of the nation to take an active interest in government, in defense of their heritage, and calls on the people as a whole to unite in opposition to the encroachment of centralization of government, defends states rights, and commends the press and radio for its efforts to arouse and awaken the people to the danger that confronts us.

It pledges its devoted and vigorous action against the invasion of federal or state government of the basic rights, privileges and immunities of the individual and expresses deep concern over the destruction by judicial interpretation and usurpation of our Constitution. Holds that public office is a public trust and abhors alliances between officials and racketeers, gamblers and law violators.

It calls upon the Florida Legislature to enact appropriate laws for referendum and recall of state and local officials who fail to perform the duties of their offices or fall in the public trust.

One state, Hohenzollern, was the home of the World War I Kaiser. Capital is expected to be Stuttgart. Prior to World War II the area was governed as two states, but the Allies divided it into three to fit occupation zone boundaries. A constitution must be drawn up.

Plenty Of Cash In The Country, But Few Want To Lend

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK—Seldom before has there been so much money around. And yet it's going to cost you more to get loans from your bank.

Interest rates are rising, bankers say, because "money is tight." This paradox may seem doubly strange to the layman at this time. The national income is at a peak. Money in circulation is at a seasonal pre-Christmas high. Almost everything that is expressed in terms of money is at a record high: Sales totals of business, wages and salaries, dividend payments, bank deposits and tax collections.

How then can money be scarce? Bankers say that money isn't scarce, but that money for lending purposes is.

The pace of business has a lot to do with it, bankers explain. They point to the fact that their loans to business are now at all-time highs. And the demands of business for still more money to finance its record expansion of plant and equipment are making it hard for banks to find the money to lend.

The defense program also calls for more money to be lent by the banks—to finance factories tooling up, to take care of the purchase of raw materials, to carry payrolls for growing defense employment, to help business meet overhead costs while it waits for months to produce the arms and collect for them from the U. S. Treasury.

The Treasury itself is seeking money in less than six months it has spent eight billion dollars more than it has taken in. To keep its cash box operating, the Treasury has been selling notes to banks and selling tax-anticipation notes to corporations—all of this mopping up part of the money supply and making it scarce.

Money is particularly tight just now. Seasonally it should ease next month—stores will be paying back their loans out of the money they took in during the Christmas season, and corporations who have been borrowing from the banks to meet their December tax installments will be paying back out of their sales receipts. The Treasury deficit, too, will ease as the tax payments roll in.

But the banks think that the January easing in the money supply for lending purposes won't be as great as usual. They foresee increased demands for ready money as defense production is stepped up steadily.

And so they've raised their interest rates again. Rates on loans to borrowers with the highest credit rating went to three per cent here today—the highest it has been since shortly after the bank holidays in 1933. Rates on other business loans are expected to follow suit.

In time, this increase will work through most interest structures. The interest that the Treasury must pay now for the money it borrows periodically has gone up. The price of many corporate bonds has gone down, meaning increased. Corporations floating

MADE SEVERAL MONTHS AGO, the photo at top shows Walter Wanger, his wife, Joan Bennett and agent Jennings Lang at a New York night club. Seated next to Lang (right) is Barbara Bennett, Joan's sister. Now, Wanger is charged with shooting Lang with intent to commit murder. The latter is in a Hollywood hospital where surgeons performed a delicate operation to remove a bullet from his groin. At bottom, left, Wanger is pictured after being released in $5,000 bail, returnable Dec. 20. At right, Joan Bennett talks to reporters at her Beverly Hills, Calif., home. The actress said there will be no divorce proceedings and hoped that her husband "will not be blamed too much" for shooting Lang. (International Soundphotos)

It marks another stride away from the "easy money" days that started in the Depression and were continued, at U. S. Treasury insistence, until last March.

At that time the Federal reserve Board stopped holding up the price of U. S. securities—the chief way of holding down interest rates. The price of federal securities fell, and this meant that the yield you can get on money you invest in U. S. securities rose.

Interest rates at the bank soon went higher, too. The interest that the Treasury must pay now for the money it borrows periodically has gone up. The price of many corporate bonds has gone down, meaning increased. Corporations floating new securities have had to offer higher interest rates than a year ago. The trend toward dearer money has been slow but steady since March.

And all of that time there has been more and more money around—more received, more spent, more borrowed.

Some economists hold that this rising interest rate will help curb inflation because it makes borrowing harder and in time will contract the money supply. But others say that the lending of money to business is not necessarily inflationary. The banks lend corporations money so they can do business, produce more goods, build up more capacity.

The true inflation, they hold, comes from the government printing presses—from Treasury borrowing to finance greater government spending.

Plantation Estates
By BESS PATTERSON

We, the more than 400 people of Plantation Estates, are most thankful for our beautiful club rooms in the old DeBary Mansions. A committee of men and women spent last Friday afternoon decorating them and they are very festive and cheerful for the many parties being held in them this year.

We have just installed a gas heating system which keeps them very comfortable in all weather. This is the biggest installed improvement we have made as a community although the different clubs have provided equipment such as kitchen sink, gas stove, electric-urn etc.

Anyone who owns property on Plantation Estates and belongs to the Property Owner's Association is permitted to request the use of any of our facilities and such requests are granted on a first come first served basis whenever possible. The first party of the season was held on Wednesday night by the Golf Club, with an attendance of about 120 people.

The program consisted of Christmas carols sung by the club as a whole with Miriam Whitaker leading, Mae Leonard at the piano and Dr. Gertrude Walton playing the descants of a number of the selections on the violin.

A solo, "White Christmas," was sung by Roy Miller and a sextet, consisting of Nellie Payne, Irene Schlipf, Miriam Whitaker, Erwin Rothbarth, Everett Swift and Dr. Harry Whitaker sang an old French Carol, "Angels We Have Heard on High."

Delicious refreshments of Christmas cakes and coffee were served by the committee. Nellie Payne, Margery Huck, Annette Genoy and Mae Leonard. The cakes were baked by Veronica Keilner.

The next party will be the Saturday Night Dance Club Party and then the big Community Club party on Christmas Eve, Our Little Nursery School, which is held at the home of Mrs. Vincent Gurechari, had their party on the closing day of the season.

A surprise birthday party was given Al Michaels at his home last Thursday night with 17 guests attending.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Haggenbuckle, who moved into their new home on Fifth Street a few weeks ago are going to be made very happy by the arrival of their son and daughter-in-law, Walter York and Mary Jane. The young people are seniors at Williams and Mary College in Virginia. Walter Jr. helped his father pick out their home here in Plantation Estate last June and is anxious to get here to see the finished product. The Haggenbuckles have a daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Fiero of Bronxville, N. Y. who are expecting a blessed event in early January and Mrs. Haggenbuckle will return to be with her daughter during that time.

Among the other college people returning to their parents for the holidays is Dick Malone from the University of Syracuse to Dr. and Mrs. Francis Malone and Jim Patterson from the University of Florida. These two boys are just six days apart in age and we predict that although they have not met they will enjoy each other during this vacation.

Mrs. Ernestine Pugh of Lake Monroe has a childhood friend Mrs. Dorothy Mather, with her for the holidays.

Rev. and Mrs. W. Powell Kemper had their son Jackson with them three days, and they enjoy each other during this vacation.

The food sale, held at the Rectory of the All Saints Episcopal Church on Tuesday was a huge success. There was an attendance of over 30 people and the Committee, which consisted of Flo Gould and Marie Reinert of Plantation told me they sold out every crumb and realized a nice little sum for their heating fund. We are very fortunate in having the very Rev. Putnam for our pastor as a person full of making each person feel that the affair would not have been a success without their presence.

The Saturday Night Dance Club again met again last meeting after the dancing and refreshments. Freda Proetchev was hostess for the evening, the refreshments were dainty sandwiches and coffee. Louis Ritter showed a colored picture of California and New York. There was an attendance of 27. As usual it was an evening of complete relaxation and fun.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Sule have arrived to stay with us at the Mansion for the holiday season.

Get Glamorized For Yuletide Spirit

By BETTY CLARKE
AP Newfeatures Beauty Editor

You can get in the Yuletide mood by developing a holiday look.

Start with your topnot and get it to the easy grooming stage—either with a new permanent or a new coiffure or both. There are lots of perky hairdos, whether you are in the uptown or long hair camp. And for something really new in coiffures, the short angel or pompadour is charming. It is the ideal hairdo for girls with naturally curly hair.

Every good woman deserves at least one rala dress a year. This year it could be one of the below-the-neck beauties worn with a ruffled collar. Best seems to be the most popular color in gowns featured for holiday wear.

If you are blonde, the full skirt can be flattering, providing you have a slim waist and bustline. If you choose black or another dark shade, mix some glitter into your dress for extra brilliancy. This is the season for brilliant, so comb your jewel box for pretty baubles.

Take the attitude that a good makeup is hard to find, and when you've found the perfect composition for your own looks, stick to it. Often you will notice a friend's perfectly creamy or a particular night. Everybody tells her so and she admits that it is a shade of makeup she just discovered. The next time you see her chances are she will be wearing an entirely different shade.

If you feel you need improvement in respect to your makeup, it might be that more careful application will help. Or sometimes the texture of the makeup is not right for your skin. Oily skin needs drier makeup than do normal or dry skins. But instead of makeup shades go, once you've hit the right combination stick to it. Some girls can wear two or three shades of makeup and find them all becoming. But usually it is true, even with these girls, that plainness more than anything else, one makeup enhances the complexion. Keep in mind, also, that your fingernail lacquer and face makeup should be compatible. If you favor a rosy shade over a flower-should match, and your foundation cream and face powder should complement it.

Rural Common Sense
By SPUDS JOHNSON

As tens of thousands of motor vehicles, driven by visitors from other states and by Florida people, will traverse them during the next few months, rural highways of first importance where care and precaution are necessary to prevent tragedy.

To prevent accidents on rural highways, the Florida Agricultural Extension Service is urging all farm people to be especially careful while driving or walking on them and urging visitors and others to drive with care and observe the rules of the road.

According to the Florida Highway Patrol, high speed in rural areas is the major cause of accidents in Florida. With lighter traffic than in the cities and without the restriction of traffic lights, the natural tendency of many motorists is to speed up when they get out on rural highways. The idea of making better time on the more open highway is logical and certainly is all right, provided the driver does not overdo it, provided he observes highway regulations and provided he does not jeopardize himself and others.

Generally, farm people must travel rural highways more than city folks. They must go to town most farm people make regular trips to the city two or three times a week. Then, of course, there are the youngsters who must travel the highways five days a week to attend school. So, it is especially important for farm people to be careful for their own good and the good of others.

Driving at moderate speed, observing all traffic regulations, keeping the vehicle in good condition, and avoiding chance taking and risk of any kind are ways in which traffic accidents

Xmas Tree Placed In Public Library

Through the courtesy of the Sanford Garden Club the Public Library presents a holiday appearance and the children entering the juvenile room are enjoying the lighted Christmas tree. Wreaths are hung inside the outer door, and greenery has been placed over the fireplace in both the adult and juvenile reading rooms. Pictures in color of the Nativity scene have been placed on the bulletin board at the entrance to the juvenile room, as this expresses the primary meaning of Christmas. Mrs. E. J. Moughtin, librarian, pointed out Santa Claus has not been forgotten, however, and a cheery little figure of him appears on the mantle, with pictures of his activities underneath. The library, said Mrs. Moughtin, recently received a substantial gift in the form of a check from a lady who stated that she had derived much enjoyment from the library. The more than 200 new books for boys and girls, recently added, are having a brisk circulation. Mrs. Moughtin declared. Demand by boys is heavy for new books about space and rocket ships. Girls are reading the career books to decide on future occupations.

Christmas Music Planned At Mayfair

The festive winter resort atmosphere of the Mayfair Inn will give way Sunday night, Dec. 22 to the more serious spirit of the season when at 8:00 o'clock the Chancel choir of the First Presbyterian Church will give a program of Christmas music. It was announced today by Charles Marlan, manager.

The Mayfair Inn has become increasingly popular each year that the New York Giants organization has had it, and this year the reservations for this time of year are at the peak, Mr. Marlan said. It has been his policy, he added, to include in the many activities for the guests some music that is in keeping with the Yuletide season and the Presbyterian choir will provide the worshipful element of the season's observance.

The group is under the direction of Mrs. George Touhy, Minister of Music, and includes Mrs. Harria Folds, Mrs. A. C. Fort, Mrs. Roy Mann, Mrs. Rayburn Miller, Mrs. Rudy Sloan, Mrs. Leon Walker, Mrs. J. A. Hittling, Mrs. William Cortright, Mrs. E. M. Galloway, Mrs. Clara Ginn, Mrs. Charles Wilke, Mrs. Frank Woodruff III, Miss Eileen Hutchison, Miss Maud Wilson.

Wash fresh broccoli by plunging the heads up and down in cold water; then soak in cold water to which a little salt has been added for about half an hour. Drain and peel off the woody outside covering of the stalks before cooking.

Cranberry juice is now bottled; serve ice-cold as an appetizer.

BEGONIAS AND HOW TO GROW THEM (Part II)
Since most horticultural varieties of begonias are derived from plants of moist, hot forests, a greenhouse that approximates these conditions is needed to make the best growth and produce the finest foliage. Many begonias will tolerate a reasonably warm, and preferably moist, living room. Especially adapted to the home are many forms of Rex begonia, these varieties derived from B. rex, B. maculata, and most of the fibrous-rooted kinds of red flowers and red foliage.

Growing Conditions. In home or greenhouse most begonias dislike full exposure to the sun except during the very middle of winter. Moist, clean air is important. Use of gas for heating or cooking may prove a handicap. Avoid exposing begonias to drafts and violent fluctuations of temperature. 60 to 65 degrees F. at night is ideal. When planting outdoors select a spot sheltered from strong winds. Some of the fibrous-rooted varieties used for bedding produce deep red flowers and reddish bronze foliage when grown in the full sun.

Soil Mixtures. Begonias will thrive in a wide variety of soils if they are light, porous, and have a high percentage of organic matter. Of the many suggested soil mixtures try, as a starter, the following: 2 parts sandy loam, 1 part fine washed sand, 1/2 part old leaf mold, 1/2 part well rotted cow manure. Be sure that the ingredients are well mixed before using.

Drainage. A soil mixture must be firm enough to hold plants upright; must be light loose or than for the general run of pot plants; Must be well drained. Success with begonias depends as much on good drainage as on the soil. Bits of broken pots or small stones should be placed in the bottom of the pot. that is very light and high in humus. Use care and patience to spread the seed very thinly. Do not cover with soil, or press in the seed. Cover the seed pot with glass or a sheet of newspaper, and water by dipping the seed pot into a pan of water.

When taking cuttings select only the basal shoots with vegetative growths showing in the leaf. The number of copies printed by axis. Terminal cuttings, with axillary flowers, scion branch or make compact, bushy plants. Troubles: Begonias are sub-

BOYNTON BEACH (CP)—Navy fliers spotted the blaze at the Boynton Beach pavilion before daylight and roused the neighborhood by constantly flashing a light from the blimp.

The fire damaged part of the room and a side of the pavilion before it was extinguished by the Boynton Beach fire department. There was no immediate estimate of the damage.

Behenkl said he believed the room and a side of the pavilion with high picklers left burning last night.

The dockmaster said the fire was started and the alarm given by Ens. Joseph Spring, captain of the blimp which was on a routine training cruise from the naval station just north of Key West.

Also aboard the blimp were Lt. Jack Kennedy, the pilot, and Lt. J. G. Hall Bunnell, another pilot.

Boynton Beach is about 15 miles south of Palm Beach.

Tax Fraud Probe

Finally the committee permitted Grunewald to read the statement which Maloney had prepared.

The statement said Grunewald was just out of the hospital and "a very sick man."

"In his counsel I here and now publicly advise and direct him not to answer any questions which may be asked of him today by this committee or its counsel."

The statement went on to characterize the proceedings as "a public trial" in which "names have been bandied about with wanton disregard of fundamental rights guaranteed to all citizens by the Constitution."

"The proceedings followed by this present inquiry have gone far astray from any legitimate purpose for power possessed by the Constitution of the United States."

Grunewald's name popped up all along the line in earlier digging by subcommittee into the sensational "shakedown" story told by Abraham Teitelbaum, Chicago lawyer, and sometimes counsel for the late gangster Al Capone.

Teitelbaum said Frank Nathan, Pittsburgh promoter, and Bert K. Naster, Florida businessman, sought a half million dollars from him under threat he would have "bad tax troubles" if he didn't come through with it.

Teitelbaum also said he got a telephone call from a man who identified himself as "Mr. Watson" and advised him in a guttural voice with German accent that he had better "play along" with Nathan and Naster.

The committee got testimony that when T. Lamar Caudle, assistant attorney general since fired from his job, first heard of the Teitelbaum story last August he commented that the guttural voice "might" have been Grunewald's.

Caudle, in the witness chair, said he just "surmised" it might have been Grunewald and did not know "The Dutchman," a somewhat mysterious man about Washington.

It was Grunewald's third appearance before the subcommittee.

It first sought answers from him in a hospital here Dec. 12. He refused to talk.

Then he was cajoled with members in closed session an hour and a half Thursday but did not answer a single question. Committeemen conceded he was not even sworn in.

Maloney did the talking inside and outside the committee room Thursday.

The staff officers are working on the problem of how to supervise an armistice. They were called in by the subcommittee late Thursday in an attempt to break a deadlock before the provisional cease-fire line agreement expires next Thursday—only six days away.

The staff officers scheduled another session in Panmunjom for Saturday. Both subcommittees on supervising the truce and exchanging prisoners also will meet.

Gen. Ridgway appealed by radio to North Korean Gen. Kim Il Sung and Chinese Gen. Peng Teh-Huai to allow Red Cross representatives to visit Red prison camps.

"With no other considerations in mind than the welfare of these men and the distress of their families," Ridgway said, "I earnestly request that you secure immediate authorization for the entrance of fully accredited representatives of the International Committee of the Red Cross who now are standing by ready to provide you with their assistance."

Two Red Cross representatives, Dr. Otto Lehner and Dr. Frederick Hiert, are in Tokyo awaiting permission to enter North Korea. Six other delegates are due from Geneva Christmas Day.

Red Cross officials in Tokyo said 11,000 food parcels are stored in a Yokohama warehouse ready to be flown to prisoners. Some of the packages contain special foods for men suffering from malnutrition. Medical kits containing all drugs which might be needed by the prisoners also are ready for distribution.

The Red Cross is freely inspecting U. N. prison camps.

Both Ridgway's appeal for Red Cross inspection and the U. N. Command note were designed to look after the safety of troops captured by the Communists.

AIRLINER CRASHES

NEWHALL, Calif. (AP)—The Newhall sheriff's office reported today that a DC-6 airliner had crashed on Frasier Mountain in the rugged Tehachapis which divide Southern California and the San Joaquin Valley.

There were no immediate reports of casualties or other details. Earlier, the military had checked out a report that an Air Force plane, en route from Bakersfield to Albuquerque, N. M., was in trouble in the area. It said the plane was safe and on its schedule.

The sheriff's office here sent a ground crew toward the scene of the reported crash, and planes were ordered out from the Aero Squadron in Los Angeles.

Blizzards Buffet South Dakota In Worst Snowstorm

By HAROLD S. MILNER
PIERRE, S. D. (AP)—Gov. Sigurd Anderson said today he may call for federal aid if the snowbound situation in South Dakota becomes more critical.

The state has been buffeted for more than two weeks by blizzards which have closed roads and isolated many ranches and small communities behind drifts as deep as 15 feet.

Total snowfall has been 26 inches. Hardest hit are the villages of Keyhapa, Milboro and Clearfield in Tripp County near the Nebraska border. These communities with a total population of 100 were isolated for two weeks because of blocked roads.

None has railroad service. A bulldozer pulled a truckload of groceries into Keyhapa Wednesday, the first vehicle to reach the community since Dec. 5. The three villages are about 100 miles southeast of Pierre, the state capital. Private flying services here and at Winner, only 20 miles from the three marooned communities, reported they are far behind with mercy flights. High winds and swirling snow have made takeoffs impossible.

Gov. Anderson said he is writing the Community Facilities Service of the Federal Security Agency to ask the condition of the Disaster Emergency Fund. Such monies were made available for distress cases in the roaring blizzards which lashed South Dakota in January and February of 1940.

Anderson said current reports show the situation is now as critical as it was at that time. He said that it is aggravated by each succeeding storm, which has come with regularly since Dec. 5. Hardly a day of that period has passed without high wind and fresh snow.

Train service has not, however, been crippled for long periods as it was two years ago. Trains are getting through, but seldom on schedule. A Chicago and North Western passenger train reached Pierre from Huron late Thursday, 12 hours late for the trip of about 100 miles. It was pulled by two steam locomotives and pushed by a diesel unit.

Main highways have been open only periodically. Swirling snow whipped by brisk winds blew them in soon after plows have passed. Isolated ranches and the remote villages have been most seriously affected because county road equipment is inadequate to clear the wind-hardened drifts from side roads.

"It's putting the people back into the horse and buggy days," said one Pierre implement dealer. "We're selling boxcoiled faster than at any time since trucks became common. They move out as quick as we can unload 'em."

A boxcoiled is a horse-drawn farm wagon on which sled runners have been substituted for wheels. The box consists of demountable panels, normally used for hauling grain. Trucks largely have replaced this convertible piece of equipment.

Stock sales pavilion operators report an unusually heavy demand for horses, largely missing from the South Dakota scene since farms and ranches were mechanized.

Despite howling snowstorms and severe temperatures for the past 12 days, no deaths attributed to the weather have been reported. State officials say also the loss of livestock has been surprisingly low.

SEARCH CONTINUES FOR MISSING PLANES

Planes from the Naval Air Station at Jacksonville are conducting an extensive search for two single-seater fighter planes from the carrier, Leyte which were due to arrive shortly before noon yesterday at the Sanford Naval Auxiliary Air Station.

The P4U Corsairs took off from the carrier yesterday morning and were last sighted over Georgetown, S. C. at 8:45 A. M.

The Naval Air Station at Jacksonville this morning announced that it had 28 single-engine carrier planes searching land areas, and three patrol plane were searching the sea. It said that two blimps from Glynn, naval air facility near Brunswick, were aiding in the search.

CORPORAL IS KILLED TESTING HIS SENTRY

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP)—A corporal sought to test the efficiency of a sentry at Osterbro Army Barracks early today. The sentry, a champion marksman, killed the corporal with a shot fired at 60 yards in the dark.

The army gave this report: Capt. H. Christensen, a Danish cavalry instructor, was testing the sentry, who tried to escape by running away in a zig-zag course among the trees. The sentry, following regulations, challenged loudly twice, fired a warning shot and when the corporal continued to run aimed to hit.

Weather Favors Florida But Not California Crops

ORLANDO (AP)—Florida and Texas, vegetable crops had favorable growing weather the first half of December, but heavy rains and killing frosts slowed growth and delayed harvests in California.

A report by the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the Florida Agricultural Experiment Stations said light frosts in Florida caused only slight damage to snap beans, cucumbers and squash.

The report for Florida truck crops:

Fall snap beans: Harvesting at peak in Everglades; light in Dade. Winter lima beans: Light volume from Fort Myers.

Fall pole beans: Manatee-Ruskin area well over peak harvest. Winter cabbage: Light volume, mostly from Everglades and Sanford; some from Hastings and West Coast areas.

Winter cauliflower: Harvesting expected fairly active early in January.

Winter celery: Increased harvesting in Zellwood; light in Everglades.

Fall sweet corn: Everglades mostly harvested; light in Fort Myers and Dade.

Fall cucumbers: Late fall harvest reduced considerably by cold; Wauchula and Manatee - Ruskin harvesting practically finished.

Fall eggplant: Harvesting gradually increasing, mostly from Fort Myers and Pompano.

Winter escarole: Recent warm weather and fog caused some damage; volume increasing from Everglades, Zellwood - Sanford - Ovidio and Manatee - Ruskin.

Winter lettuce: Light in Everglades and Central Florida.

Fall peppers: Light in Fort Myers and Pompano; very light in Wauchula and Manatee.

Winter potatoes: The Everglades crop will probably be dug in January; oldest Dade plantings are reportedly about a foot high.

Fall squash: Good supply from Pompano, Dade and Fort Myers-Immokalee.

Winter strawberries: Maturity generally delayed; light harvesting.

Fall tomatoes: Manatee - Ruskin crops damaged by cold winds and fog; light in Dade; harvesting practically completed in Fort Myers and Immokalee.

Blues In The News

By BOB ANTHONY

There can be no doubt that Christmas is in the air from the time you enter the main gate of the station and see the signs reading "Merry Xmas" until the time you leave the main gate reading the sign "Happy 1932". Many thanks to the Public Works department for their fine work in decorating the base in true Christmas style. The pine tree in front of the Chapel is a little out of shape and isn't too beautiful during the day but it is a very pleasant sight at night with its Christmas lights burning brightly. Hugh Richard is the man responsible for stringing the lights.

The men in the Transportation Department had a Christmas party Wednesday night after they had finished decorating their Christmas tree. CLIMATE: Roy Lamons, Johnny Aldwick, Roy Lamons, Al Laviolette, John Lawd, Bob Melvin, Russell Truette, Brona Tusing, Ed Durr and the married men's wives were all on hand to receive gifts from Santa Claus who brought Christmas cake, sandwiches and coffee were served and the atmosphere was that of one big, happy family. Thanks is given to Al Laviolette for his excellent assistance in painting "Merry Christmas" on the front window.

The beginning of this week Ken Beckelmeyer used his precious lunch hour time and now there is a beautifully decorated Christmas tree sitting on the corner of the Daburine Office. John Wheeler, Bob Watkins, Van Thame, Ralph Toring, Bertha Howarth and Virginia Will all appreciate Ken's diligence in bringing some of the holiday spirit into their office.

The people of Sanford in cooperation with the Chamber of Commerce have made it possible for the Navy Center to stage a gala party and dance on Christmas Eve. The dance will be held at the Navy Center and final arrangements are now being made by Mrs. E. Lane, chairman, Mrs. S. C. Graham and Mrs. Roumillat, co-chairman along with all the members of their committee. Dancing will get underway at 8:30 in the melodious strains of the Melody Five. Refreshments will be served and there will be a "prize dance" with Santa Claus in person presenting the lucky couple with their prize.

The hostess of the Navy Center have worked hard with decorations and plans to make this Christmas Eve a pleasant one for you so let's all turn out and make it a real success. Bring your wife, your girlfriend or come stag but be sure to be at the Navy Center on Christmas Eve, Dec. 24 to enjoy an eventful evening you will long remember.

STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK (AP)—With trading in a quiet pre-holiday mood, the stock market today moved along a mixed course.

The tendency was slightly to the downside, but there wasn't any selling pressure behind the decline.

Chemicals were off more than any other major group with the biggest fall between one and two points.

Rubbers were the upside favorites with U. S. Rubber up between two and three points at times on top of its gain of 4 1/2 points made Thursday.

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—A two-tunnel, 10-bridge project to relieve traffic congestion in Fort Lauderdale and vicinity was given final approval Thursday by the State Road Department.

The road board asked the State Improvement Commission to proceed with necessary action for issuance of 15 million dollars in bonds which, with a two million dollar contribution of state funds, will finance the project.

FRESH SNOW

By The Associated Press

Fresh snow and new frigid temperatures struck the Plains states today and headed eastward.

The new blow from the weather climaxed a week of alternate heavy snows and numbing cold, and provided fresh strains on transportation facilities.

The weather brought distress to South Dakota, where many ranches and small communities were snow-bound behind drifts as deep as 15 feet. Gov. Sigurd Anderson said today he may call for federal aid if the situation becomes more critical.

Safety Council Stresses Danger In Over-Doing Christmas Party

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—Watch that Christmas party! The professional and moral hazards of the traditional office or factory party have long been celebrated in story and cartoon. But this year many business firms are stressing in deep earnestness, the very real peril to life and limb.

Some time between now and Christmas, the National Safety Council fears that the automobile will kill its one millionth victim in the United States. And this victim could be some one trying to drive home after a too hilarious office party.

Business firms, with this millionth man or woman in mind, are adding this grim warning to their employees—from top executives to office boys. "If you drink, don't drive."

The office party is becoming a tradition in many communities. In New York alone it is estimated that three million persons will take part in the season's festive activities, at least four and a half million dollars.

One leading industrial firm mailed a special warning to the home of each of its employees living in the New York area. The warning went far beyond just the office party. The company urged its workers to "leave your car at home as much as possible" during all the holiday party season.

Another company, most of whose employees drive to the factory, is poling the company rule against drinking at the plant. The company says it's only at Christmas time it has any trouble this way.

The Association of Casualty and Surety Companies—which has good sound business reasons as well as humanitarian ones for wanting to cut the traffic toll—has queried some of the nation's leading industrial firms on the subject of accident prevention during the holidays.

About 30 per cent of the companies replying said they have a holiday highway safety program under way. About one fourth more of those replying said they plan to draft a program to warn employees of the hazards that lurk in Yuletide parties. The questionnaire stressed that during the three-day Christmas holiday week-end last year 550 persons were killed in automobile accidents.

One large industrial firm is urging extra care at Christmas time "so that we may all be present and all in one piece to start the New Year." Its placard reads: "Leave your car home as much as possible. You may not be the cause of an accident but you could easily be the victim of a crash caused by someone else. If you drink, don't drive, and vice versa. And be extra careful all times while on the highway."

Business firms were asked by the Los Angeles police department to adopt the "no alcohol" rule at office parties. The department hopes to repeat its success of last year, when an anti-accident campaign is credited with holding auto fatalities to three over the Christmas week-end. Three deaths, the police said, "are normal for a week-end in Los Angeles."

Part of the success of the drive, the police said, came from repeated warnings earlier that drunken drivers would be jailed "without exception." And 171 were arrested in three over the Christmas week-end.

At first, the Los Angeles police also established road blocks and inspected drivers and their cars to see if either was in poor driving condition. But the right of the police to do this was challenged.

Joy Of Christmas In Many Homes Is Saddened By Korea

By The Associated Press
Carolers will sing and tinsel will glisten on Christmas next Tuesday as in years past, but in thousands of American homes the season's traditional joy will be lacking.

They cavander in the windows of many a dwelling—will obscure the fact that the family inside is thinking of a son or husband risking death in distant Korea.

The uncertainty turned to thank with word that a missing loved one was reported alive—in an enemy prison camp, but alive.

But in an even greater number, the name of a loved one overseas remained on the list of missing.

Thus the season emphasized, perhaps to a greater degree than usual, family ties and the homes.

President Truman intends to follow his custom of flying to his family home in Independence, Mo., on Monday to have Christmas dinner there with his wife and daughter, Margaret.

From Independence, the President will press a button Christmas Eve to light a tree on the lawn of the White House in Washington. He will broadcast a Christmas message at the same time.

Across the nation, travelers headed for home wherever it was.

A substantial segment of the travelers were in uniform, on leave from training camps in the United States. They didn't know when they would spend another Christmas with their families.

The scene was the same, in varying degrees, from coast to coast—trains, buses, airplanes filled to capacity.

In New York, the Pennsylvania Railroad said it was running 150 extra trains over the holiday week-end.

The Greyhound Bus Line sent 122 buses to Washington and other Southern points Thursday compared with a normal 33.

Churches across the country will have their usual Christmas services.

The Rt. Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill, presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church and president of the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the United States of America, called in his annual message for "fellowship in church" for a true Christmas.

Midnight mass at St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York will be given to reporters by Mrs. Daniel W. Hoan, Democratic national committee woman for Wisconsin, after she and her husband, former mayor of Milwaukee, had talked with the President at the White House.

Mr. Truman, the Hoans said, agreed with them that defeat of McCarthy would be in the national interest.

In welcoming the President to the slumber party in Wisconsin, McCarthy received no challenge.

McCarthy Invites President Truman To Oppose Him

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican Sen. McCarthy, who is bidding for reelection next year, today challenged President Truman to campaign against him in Wisconsin.

Commenting on Mr. Truman's reported assertion that McCarthy must be defeated and that the Democrats have a good chance of unseating him, McCarthy told newsmen:

"All I can suggest is that if the President or some of his friends want to come into Wisconsin and campaign against me, there is very good mink hunting there I would welcome them in the state."

McCarthy's mention of mink hunting was an allusion to mink coats spotlighted by congressional inquiries into tax scandals and operations of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Testimony showed they were bought for officials' wives.

Mr. Truman was quoted Wednesday as having said McCarthy had to be defeated. The account was given to reporters by Mrs. Daniel W. Hoan, Democratic national committee woman for Wisconsin, after she and her husband, former mayor of Milwaukee, had talked with the President at the White House.

Mr. Truman, the Hoans said, agreed with them that defeat of McCarthy would be in the national interest.

In welcoming the President to the slumber party in Wisconsin, McCarthy received no challenge.

lenged Mr. Truman last August to a showdown at the polls in 1952 on the issue of McCarthy's Communist-in-government charges.

McCarthy said today:

"I'm still willing to let the people decide at the polls. The overriding issue of the 1952 campaign will be the administration's Kremlin-shaped foreign policy and the widespread evil effects of it."

On another front, McCarthy said he still hasn't decided whom he will back for the Republican presidential nomination.

Organized Republicans supporting Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for the party's nomination announced, meanwhile, that a Washington campaign office will be opened formally Saturday.

Sen. Lodge (R-Mass.), campaign manager for the group, said selection of a staff has not been completed but that the capital headquarters is being opened any way.

"Some work can begin at once to coordinate nationwide Republican activities for Dwight Eisenhower for President."

Eisenhower has not said publicly whether he will be a candidate, but Republican supporters of the general are convinced he will be available.

MINE EXPLODED
SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Navy demolition experts removed a ton of TNT from a floating mine and prepared today to detonate approximately 1,500 pounds remaining in the mine.

The mine was found beached about three miles south of here Thursday. Navy officials said it probably came from a World War II mine field planted to protect the Golden Gate entrance to San Francisco Bay.

PAID FOR HIS MEAL
PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A shabbily clothed man ordered and ate one of the most expensive meals on the menu in a midtown restaurant Thursday night. Then, Cashier Ellen Penko told police, instead of paying for the dinner he quietly drew a pistol, robbed her of $40, and sped away. Miss Penko said none of some 50 other persons in the restaurant knew what had happened.

in the courts, on civil rights grounds, and the blockade plan probably won't be used this year.

The Association of Casualty and Surety Companies reports that while most of the companies replying to its questionnaire are stressing safety measures at Christmas time in appeals to their employees, a sizable number are planning no special steps, believing that safety groups and newspapers are emphasizing the peril sufficiently.

But all of them hope their employees will remember: Watch that Christmas party or you may be attending your last one.

Boyle Sees Xmas As Time When People's Hearts Ring Like Bells

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—What is Christmas?
It is the time when people's hearts ring like bells. And legend says that oxen kneel in their stalls at midnight in memory.

Christmas is the anniversary of one kind of faith and selflessness. It is the natal date of a lonely Jewish carpenter who in 33 short years of breath stamped an unending consciousness on this world and promised all men life everlasting through belief.

He died a radical upon a cross for what he taught, bleeding slowly to death from the agony of nail and spear wounds. Few listened to his message in his day. He died a minor gaffly to a Roman world.

One of many martyrs to many faiths, time has raised Jesus Christ to a gigantic stature, so that today more than 600 million people one fourth of all mankind, celebrate His memory. More men follow Him than any man who ever lived in the 1,951 years since His birth. He has become the greatest religious figure in his time.

What is Christmas?
It is His spirit and His philosophy that "It is more blessed to give than to receive."

Today the celebration of His birth as is His death is crossed with old pagan ceremonies. But His spirit and His example in flame the day.

Sometimes religious leaders get across with Santa Claus and say the honors that belong to Jesus. But no one who has read the life of Christ could ever think of Him as being jealous Santa is just Him with a beard on.

Perhaps if Santa Claus pressed his 365 days a year, as Jesus did he might, even in these enlightened days, risk a similar persecution.

What is Christmas?
It is the time of letting go of judgment prejudices and having the courage to be sentimental and good. It is the time when men take down a cold unfeeling star from the sky and make it a warm and stirring beacon on a tree.

Man's the groupings say, "Christmas is for the kids." But they themselves enjoy it most, although often they are oddly ashamed to acknowledge it. In December their first of foolish sophistication—the crust they grow to protect themselves from disappointment wears thin. They light a silent candle to an old belief that most men really do wish each other well but don't know quite what to do about it.

What is Christmas?
It is a season when they can cast away their mutual doubts and really do something for one another.

The Jews, who regard Jesus as only a prophet, have their own festival, this time of year. It is called Chanukah, the Festival of Lights. It lasts eight days. On each day they light another candle, give another gift.

The other day a Jewish friend

Grand Jury's Report Allowed To Stand

WEST PALM BEACH (AP)—Circuit Judge Joseph S. White has denied a motion to expunge portions of a Palm Beach County grand jury report criticizing the Riviera Beach Town Council's handling of a water system expansion program.

"The report brought in question here shows that the grand jury's investigation disclosed conduct of town officials concerning which the citizens of the town were entitled to be fully informed," Judge White said Thursday.

"To expunge the same from the report now is to say that it was then the duty of the grand jury to suppress the information such a stand is in direct opposition to the principles of which the grand jury system was founded."

The motion to expunge portions of the report was filed by Riviera Beach Councilmen Fred L. Jones, John A. Flaherty and William Savacool. Their attorneys contended at a hearing Monday that the grand jury had exceeded its authority.

The grand jury report set criticized the Riviera Beach Council in connection with the floating of a revenue bond issue to expand the town's water system.

Judge White said "The State of Florida recognizes the power of a grand jury to investigate every offense that affects the morals, health, sanitation and general welfare of the county."

Volcano Victims

MANILA (AP)—A government official today recommended permanent evacuation of 40 per cent of the 40,000 population of volcanic devastated Camiguin Island in the Southern Philippines.

Arthro A. Leaza, Philippines Weather Bureau geophysicist, said Hibok Hibok Volcano is "continually emitting smoke and occasionally discharging incandescent materials" 17 days after an explosive eruption buried Southern Camiguin under a blanket of hot ash and lava.

Alcarras predicted another major eruption of Hibok Hibok within the volcanic wastes.

The known death toll has reached 478 and hundreds of other bodies still are believed buried in nine months.

Adams Lashes Out Against Warren's Lavish Spending

TAMPA (AP)—Alto Adams says he will not tolerate the squandering, extravagance, petty graft and deliberate profiteering that go on in Tallahassee today.

A candidate for governor, Adams spoke before the Junior Chamber of Commerce here Thursday night. He criticized excessive governmental spending and the "inefficiency and petty finagling at every level of government."

He said there are too many boards in state government and too many big agencies which spend lots of money are answerable only to the governor.

He advocated giving the Cabinet more say-so over administrative powers and taking the "balance of power" in administration away from the governor.

The governor, said Adams, cannot himself, but the Cabinet members "must look the electorate in the eye every four years."

Adams declared "We have allowed the administration of the state to slip off the firm bedrock of constitutional government and into a quagmire of politically minded boards, bureaus and commissions." Most of these boards are not responsible to voters who pay the bills, he added.

Questions were showered at him after the speech. He answered one question by saying that on the basis of information at hand he does not believe that the East Coast Turnpike "but would oppose it."

On the home rule question he gave this stand: "If it is shown to me that the (county officials) are not enforcing the law I would remove them. However, they will be dealt with according to the law. They will be given a trial and if guilty will be removed."

Another questioner asked whether he thought the current state sales tax including the three per cent sales tax would be adequate to run the state. His answer: "Emphatically yes."

Several peppered him with queries about the Adams Cattle Company of which Candidate J. Bradley Odham says Candidate Adams owns a big share.

"I kind of think you are wrong," he was asked to give specific

Blond Art Teacher Testifies Against Member Of Board

FAIRMONT, W. VA. (AP)—Dr. Lucille H. Mundel, a small, blonde art teacher in her late 30s, took the stand again today in her $100,000 slander suit against a member of the State Board of Education.

She contends the board member, Mrs. Thelma B. Loudin of Fairmont, referred to her as an atheist and "poor security risk" to the extent that she was not rehired by the board as head of the art department at Fairmont State College.

Thursday she was cross-examined for nearly two hours by U. S. Sen. Matthew M. Neely, veteran Bible-quoting lawyer and politician who is serving as Mrs. Loudin's defense attorney. He appointed her to the post when he was governor.

Neely and Dr. Mundel were locked for 20 minutes on the definition of an atheist. Neely read a portion of an article dealing with the case in the weekly periodical "Commonwealth." In it, Dr. Mundel was quoted:

"I avoid doctrinaire and dogmatic theories such as 'atheism.' I have no proof of the non-existence of a supreme being. On the other hand I have no proof of the existence of a deity; and so I wish to withhold an opinion on the matter."

At the end of the brisk discussion, she summed it up this way: "I worship truth, I worship Christian ethics and the teachings of Christ, and I wish they'd be applied more often."

Dr. George H. Hend, Fairmont State president, testified that Mrs. Loudin did not deny referring to the instructor as a "poor security risk" but said she meant simply that Dr. Mundel was a poor teacher.

The college president said he had recommended to the State Board that Dr. Mundel be rehired at an increased salary, although he said she was "personally objectionable" to him.

Fairmont State is a teachers' college with an enrollment of about 700.

Fate Of 11 Persons Missing In Fire Still In Doubt

ASTORIA, Ore. (AP)—The fate of 11 persons, missing in a fire which swept a ship anchored in the mouth of the Columbia River, still was not determined today.

One hundred and three others, including 23 passengers and 80 crew members, were rescued by the Coast Guard shortly after flames whipped through the mid-section of the Danish vessel Erria early Thursday.

Crewmen said sparks from a shorted electric cable started the fire. A few minutes later a hold was burning.

Survivors said crew members ran from cabin to cabin pounding on doors and ordering passengers to lifeboat stations.

Four of the eight lifeboats were lowered, the first with women and children and the others with men. Three boats burned and one was not launched.

The Coast Guard station, only a mile away, rushed lugs to the scene to pick up the lifeboats.

One survivor, E. L. Blythe of Portland, said "There was no panic, but most of the passengers left their luggage behind. Some of them were in night clothing and overcoats."

The 462-foot ship, bound for Liverpool via New York, was towed late Thursday out of the channel. It was listing at a 25-degree angle. Coast Guardsmen who boarded the Erria briefly said there was no sign of life in the smoking red-hot midship section.

The missing were believed trapped there or drowned.

John Ray, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Ray of Vancouver, B. C., said he and a number of others were trapped in the ship's lounge by the flames.

The adults shoved him through a port hole but were unable to climb through themselves. He said he saw two of the men's hair

HOLLYWOOD By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Undismayed by the flop of her recent play, Ginger Rogers says she is willing to tackle Broadway again. But next time it'll be different.

The glamor girl has returned from New York after the failure of her first play in many years, "Love and Let Love." She isn't bitter about the experience, but she is about the play's author, Louis Verneuil. If the playwright's ears are burning, it's because Miss Rogers has been doing plenty of talking about him.

"I can't understand how any author would refuse to alter his work until a week before the New York opening, when it was too late," she declared. "It was apparent from the reviews out of town and from anyone who saw the show that it needed revisions. But he absolutely refused to touch it."

"Talk to anyone else in the cast and you'll find that they are bitter about it, too. After all, every playwright is expected to work on the play during the out-of-town openings. That's what the try-out period is for."

"Why, F. Hugh Herbert was re-writing constantly before 'The Moon Is Blue' went to New York. He even rewrote the third act in Boston a few weeks before Broadway debut. I would love to work for an author like that. I don't care how much work it would be."

Miss Rogers said she wouldn't be adverse to doing another Broadway show. "But next time," she added, "I would have some legal assurance that the author would do whatever rewriting was necessary."

"After all, it's the same sort of thing we have in the movie business. We have a remake department, which shoots additional scenes if there appear to be dull spots in the finished picture."

Miss Rogers got back her original investment of $25,000 before the producer decided to close the play. Although hoodled by the critics, the show might have turned out to be a healthy advance sale, largely because of the star's personal draw.

"But we lost the advance by coming into New York three weeks late," she explained. "We stayed longer on the road in hopes of getting the show in shape." She commented that she encountered the worst audiences in Washington, D. C., and the best in Boston.

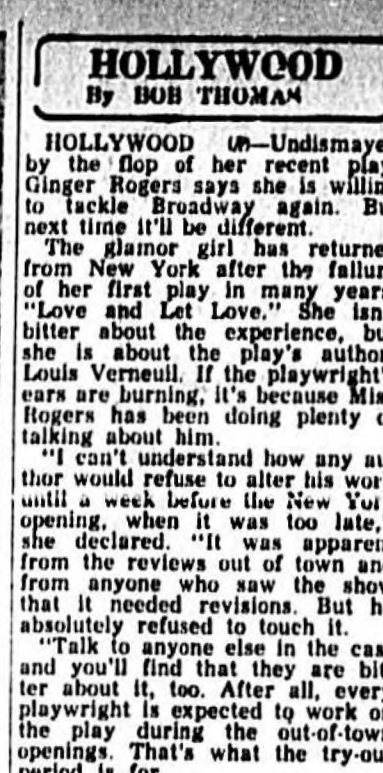

"I learned one important thing," she remarked, musing over the experience. "When somebody comes to me and says, 'I've got a play, I'll tell him, 'You ain't got a play. Buster, until you've put it on a stage and found out how it goes with an audience.'"

Miss Rogers' return to the movies (in "We're Not Married") will be a brief one. As she said: "Before, never could settle down to one career and devote all my time to it because I didn't know whether I was going to stick to the movies or try the stage. Now I know where I'm going—in television!"

She soon will start her fabulous contract with CBS.

Man Is Buried Ten Minutes And Lives

IDAHO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Kenneth Averill was buried for 10 minutes by a snow slide Thursday night but escaped death because of an alert truck driver.

Averill, 28, had stopped to put chains on his panel truck while driving over Berthoud Pass when the slide hit.

"I didn't see it. I didn't hear it. I was standing there and suddenly something hit me," Averill said.

"All I knew was that it was black and I was rolling. I couldn't imagine why the truck wasn't on top of me."

Witnesses told the State Patrol the slide spun the truck around and pushed it and the driver, side by side, off the road and 30 feet down a slope.

An unidentified truck driver who witnessed the slide, started hunting immediately in the 40-foot-wide path of the slide. It took him 10 minutes to spot Averill's arm.

The truck driver started digging through the two to three feet of snow covering Averill.

Averill said he had a hard time breathing and couldn't move anything but the one arm.

"My only thought was: This is it. I didn't know what I had done to deserve it, but I knew this is it. Later when I was told I was under for 10 minutes, I told them it seemed like a year, and it did."

Christmas Party Fire Takes Toll Of Over 41 Lives

By TED MCKENNA
TIJUANA, Mexico. (AP)—Screams of dying children and women left the city reeling today in the horror of a Christmas party fire that took a toll officially estimated at 41 or more lives.
Burned and broken remains were still being examined in an effort to complete an accurate count. There were unofficial estimates (by Chamber of Commerce President Jorge D. Solar, for one) ranging up to 90 or more.
Dist. Atty. Francisco Gastanon Jr., who announced the official estimate, said he believed it was the highest toll of deaths in a single fire in the history of Mexico.
Eighty-eight who escaped from the burning, three-story building downstairs to a single doorway, were treated for burns at the Miguel Aleman Hospital. Officials said the only fire escape was not only locked but boarded up.
Thirty-three were still in the hospital, five or six on the verge of death, doctors said.
Among the 41 were 19 children. Officials said this probably indicates the ratio of little ones among the dead.
The annual party for needy children was in full swing when its joy was turned to terror at 11:15 o'clock Saturday night.
There were different accounts of how the fire started. Tijuana Fire Chief Gill Chides declared that that someone was criminally responsible. He did not elaborate. Everyone agreed the flames spread with terrific speed from near the location of a Christmas tree.
As panic took hold among the 300 or 400 people in the third floor hall of the old Coliseum Building, three blocks from Tijuana's gay main street, the lights went out. "Then all was madness," said Luis Alarid, 34, radio station announcer. "A lot of people were trampled to death before they were burned."
Many of the bodies were found in two rest rooms into which the victims apparently had been pushed by the crowds surging toward the exits.
Others piled up and died on the stairway.
The confusion was increased by frantic mothers and fathers trying to get into the building to save children. Firemen arrived (aided later by fighters from California) but there was no pressure in the water mains.
People leaped from the concrete and wood building to the street and crawled away injured. A woman ran among them with flaming hair.
U. S. Navy men in Tijuana for a Saturday night of recreation smashed windows and helped pull children out.

Santa Claus was on hand Friday afternoon to give a cheery welcome to children of Naval personnel at the Ships Service Theater at the Sanford Naval Air Station. Santa gave away stockings filled with candy and small trinkets including whistles. Several motion pictures were shown.

17th Victim Is Brought Out Of Mine Disaster

Officials Fear That 12 To 13 More Still Remaining In Shaft
WEST FRANKFORT, Ill. (AP)—Rescue workers today recovered the body of the 17th victim of a coal mine explosion. Mine officials said there still may be 12 or 13 bodies in the mine.
A mimeograph list distributed at the temporary morgue in the junior high school gymnasium named 119 miners as dead or missing. It did not include the name of one miner who was injured in Friday night's blast and died later in the hospital.
Officials said rescue workers still had not reached a passage-way in the 550 feet mine where they feared they would find "at least a dozen" more bodies.
This passage in the dark catacomb is only a quarter of a mile south of a tunnel where 22 bodies were found.
If the number of dead reaches the total on the morgue list of dead and missing it will be worse than the toll of 111 in the mine disaster at Centralia, Ill., five years ago.
Earlier today, Walter Eadie, Illinois mine director, predicted the search for the bodies would be over "in a matter of hours."
The exact number of dead and missing was indefinite because some miners who were in the blast hastened back into the mine to aid in the rescue work.
A 12-man federal team, headed by Secretary of Interior Oscar Chapman, Sunday started an investigation into the blast.
Chapman planned to go to Springfield, Ill., to talk with Gov. Adlai Stevenson before flying back to Washington today.
Most officials agreed methane gas, often found in coal mines, touched off the blast. But Omar Lingo, a county mine inspector, said he believed coal dust explosions helped spread the destruction.
Lingo, from Jefferson County, just north of here, said the explosion covered too large an area to have been just gas.
He said the mine apparently had not been rock-dusted properly.
Lingo explained that rock dust, made of powdered limestone, is spread in mines to keep down coal dust. Coal dust when mixed with air is explosive.
John L. Lewis, president of the Independent United Mine Workers, accompanied Chapman on the trip from Washington. He entered the mine briefly and watched the workers removing the bodies, but made no comment.
Three other miners, injured in the explosion, were reported improved in the United Mine Workers hospital here. Two rescue workers were taken to the hospital suffering from gas and exhaustion.
Accumulations of gas slowed the underground rescue operations throughout Saturday and Sunday. (The teams had to rebuild air duct partitions, knocked out by the blast, as they went along the three miles from the elevator shaft to the explosion-site.)
They had a two-mile trek back to the nearest mine rail line with the bodies.
Late Sunday night another passageway was ventilated, giving

Christmas Party Is Given By Elks For 150 Children

More than 150 children, who might not have had as merry a Christmas had it not been for the generosity of the Elks and other local organizations, were on hand with presents to receive toys and other gifts from Santa Claus at the Christmas party given by Elks Lodge 1211 Saturday afternoon.
Morris Moses had charge of the Christmas party for the 25th time and directed his committee and Santa Claus in the handing out of presents. The party took place on the front porch of the Lodge.
Each child, as his or her name was called, received a mesh bag filled with fruit, nuts and candy, and a toy. Soon the youngsters were all over the lawn inspecting "the red" toy automobiles, trains, dolls, games and other toys.
Serving on the Elk committee with Mr. Moses were Harry Koenig, Ralph Goodspeed, Phil Goodman, Jack Menendez, Leo Hutner and John Cameron.
Many of the toys were contributed by the Sanford Post #73, the American Legion, the Pilot Club, the Brewster Club, the First Presbyterian Church and Touchette.
In addition to the local party for underprivileged children, the Arts and Crafts Circle of Elks sent gifts to 49 children at the Home for Cripple Children at Unadilla.
Mr. Moses stated today that he wished to thank the members of those organizations whose generosity contributed so much to the success of the party and made so many children happy.

Hungarian Court Finds U. S. Fliers Guilty Of Spying

All Four Sentenced To $30,000 Fines, Or 3 Months In Jail
By ANDRE MARTON
BUDAPEST, Hungary. (AP)—Hungary has ruled the four American fliers forced down in their C-47 plane by Soviet fighters Nov. 19 must pay fines of 300,000 forints (about $30,000) each or spend three months in jail.
The government, in announcing that Sunday said they confessed to violating the Hungarian border and announced in the verdict against them in military court.
Their plane got lost while en route from Germany to Yugoslavia in a cargo for the U. S. embassy in Belgrade. American authorities announced after they disappeared. (Hungary and Russia later disclosed they were being held and their plane was impounded.)
The four were accused by the Russians at the United Nations assembly last week of being "spies and saboteurs." The U. S. accused the Russians of "spy mania."
The four were: Capt. John J. Swift of Glen Falls, N. Y.; Capt. Dave H. Henderson of Sawnee, Okla.; T-Sgt. Jess A. Duff of Spokane, Wash., and Sgt. James A. Egan of Kingsland, Ark.
Officials of the American legation here were trying to contact the Hungarian foreign ministry today to find out who is supposed to pay the fines, where the money has to be paid, and how.
This is an official holiday in Hungary so workers will have three days off around Christmas. Banks and government offices were closed.
(Reports telephoned from the Budapest American legation to U. S. authorities in Vienna said it was doubtful whether the four could be bailed out before Christmas.)
(George Abbott, U. S. charge d'affaires at Budapest, said efforts to reach Communist officials to learn the conditions for their release were fruitless. He said the fliers apparently were celebrating the holidays and the banks will not reopen until Dec. 27.)
(The legation apparently did not have $120,000 or its equivalent in forints in its vault. Abbott said he was waiting for instructions from Washington on whether the legation would pay the fines. Late Sunday he said the legation had not been officially notified of the trial or the verdict.)
American efforts to communicate with the fliers failed. And U. S. Minister Christian Ravndal said their trial and conviction came as a complete surprise to him.
The military court said the C-47 and all its equipment had been confiscated and that the equipment proved the airmen meant to help spies and diversions in Communist Hungary. The Soviet fliers that forced it to land are stationed in Hungary under peace treaty terms.

President Sees New Spirit In World Arising From Sacrifice

By ED CRAIGH
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman told the nation in a Christmas message today there has arisen in the world a new spirit of hope that a true and lasting peace may come from the sacrifice of free men arming and fighting together.
"In the words of the Bible, the day is not yet here when the bow shall be broken, and the lance cut off, and the chariot burned," the President said. "But we have faith that that day may come."
Mr. Truman's message was prepared for broadcasting from his fireside at Independence, Mo., just before he pressed a telegraph key and set the nation's Christmas tree aglow with colored lights at the White House here.
In what could be the last Christmas address he will deliver as President, Mr. Truman harked back to the dark days of Christmas 1914 when this nation found itself fighting for survival in the most terrible of world wars.
"The world is still in danger tonight," he said, "but a great change has come about. A new spirit has been born and has

Reds Veto U.N. Appeal To Open Prisoner Camps

Commies Post Office Plan Is Accepted Quickly By Allies

By GEORGE A. MCARTHUR
MUNSAN, Korea (AP)—Gen. Matthew H. Ridgway's appeal to open the gates of North Korean prison camps to representatives of the International Red Cross was rejected today, a Communist correspondent at Pannunjom said. However, the Reds proposed, and the U. N. quickly agreed, to establish a postoffice in neutral Pannunjom so prisoners of both sides could send and receive mail. Details will be worked out later. With only three days remaining until the provisional cease-fire line agreement expires, there appeared slim chance that negotiators would be able to agree on a Korean armistice before the deadline.

Along the quiet, watery battle front Allied troops beat back a series of minor Red probing attacks. But for the most part soldiers attended religious services and put the finishing touches on preparations for Christmas celebrations. There was little air action except for strikes against Communist railroads and supply facilities.

A hand written letter from Maj. Gen. William F. Dean to his wife in Berkeley, Calif., was turned the Reds Monday in Pannunjom. The letter immediately was put aboard a plane for Japan. It will be forwarded to Mrs. Dean from Tokyo.

The letter was delivered soon after a Communist correspondent

General Dean Is Reported By Red Correspondent As Alive And Well

PANNUNJOM, Korea (AP)—Maj. Gen. William F. Dean, long-missing commander of the U. S. 24th Division, told a Communist correspondent he saved his last bullet to kill himself rather than be captured — but that the Reds caught him through a ruse. The correspondent, Wilfred Burchett, 40, of the Paris newspaper Ce Soir, said he interviewed Dean three days ago in a prison camp near Pannunjom, Korean Red capital. Pictures of Dean, given AP correspondent Robert B. Tuckman by Burchett, were identified positively by Mrs. Dean at her Berkeley, Calif., home. Radioed to the United States, the pictures were moved on the AP Wirephoto network. "That's my husband, all right," said Mrs. Dean, crying happily. "There's no doubt about it. It's just wonderful to see him. Anyone who ever loves faith must remember this situation about General Dean."

"What he came through shows what human endurance can stand," Dean, a Congressional Medal of Honor winner, was listed as missing for 17 months before his name appeared on the Communist war prisoner list. Burchett gave this account of his interview with Dean: Dean was fighting alongside his men at Taejon, July 20, 1950, when Russian-equipped North Korean tank columns were sweeping into

South Korea. The husky general, then 51, battled his way out of a road block in flaming Taejon, after ordering his men not to surrender. He helped carry wounded men to safety. Then Burchett said, Dean wandered for a month in the hills—without food for 20 days. Injured and sick, he lost 60 pounds. Dean was surrounded six times, but each time eluded the Reds. During those agonizing days, he saved and carefully polished his last 12 bullets. Burchett quoted him: "I was absolutely determined never to become a prisoner of war. I was determined to kill 11 North Koreans. The 12th bullet was for me."

But near Chinnan, some 30 miles from Taejon, Dean was sheltered and fed by two Koreans. They betrayed him when North Korean soldiers closed in. Dean drew his gun, but one of his "friends" grabbed his arm before he could shoot. Dean's left shoulder had been broken in a fall while he was trying to elude the Reds. He suffered from dysentery or an acute stomach ailment and finally malaria for three hours in a two-room cell. Burchett said Dean regained his health last September and now weighed about 180 pounds. The correspondent said he and Dean talked for three hours in a two-room cell in which the general is imprisoned.

told of interviewing the former 24th Division commander at a prison camp near Pannunjom only three days ago.

The prisoner of war subcommittee continued its haggling over lists of prisoners exchanged last Tuesday. The subcommittee working on the problem of how to police a truce reported no progress.

Both groups scheduled meetings for Tuesday, Christmas Day, at 11 a. m. (9 p. m. EST Monday) in a last-minute attempt to reach agreement.

North Korean Maj. Gen. Lee Sang Jo struck a hopeful note. "We hope we are trying to reach an agreement before the 27th of December," Lee said. "Of course we will give priority to (exchanging) the sick and wounded (prisoners). The 27th is not far away, we don't know why there is such a hurry."

Lee's statement was made after Rear Adm. R. E. Libby asked him whether the Reds had changed their mind about an allied request for an immediate exchange of sick and wounded prisoners.

"I have no idea what he (Lee) had in mind," said Brig. Gen. William P. Nickols, official U. N. spokesman, when asked whether he attached any importance to Lee's reference to Dec. 27.

Red negotiators delivered a letter presumably containing the answer to General Ridgway's inspection appeal to U. N. delegates at Pannunjom Monday. Its contents were not officially disclosed. But Alan Winnington, correspondent for the Communist London Daily Worker, told U. N. newsmen the appeal was rejected.

Winnington said the Red high command deemed Red Cross inspection of prison camps "unnecessary in view of the humanitarian treatment" given prisoners by the Communists.

He said the Communists did agree, however, to permit visits after the armistice is signed if North Korean and Chinese Red Cross representatives are included in the inspection teams.

Winnington said these groups "would assist in transporting and handling over" Allied prisoners of war.

U. N. negotiators promptly rejected a re-worded Communist plan for supervising an armistice. The new plan, described by the Reds as "fair and reasonable" and "a major concession" made no changes in the Communist position on airfield construction and troop rotation.

Xmas Spirit Hits Korean Front But Battling Goes On

Cardinal Spellman Conducts Mass At Front For Troops

By SAM SUMMERLIN
SEOUL, Korea (AP)—Allied soldiers today prayed for peace but fought scattered skirmishes on the frosty Korean battle front. There was plenty of Christmas spirit along the 145-mile front. United Nations troops had religious services, wrapped gifts for Korean orphans, gathered around trees decorated with home-made bangles and opened packages from home.

Francis Cardinal Spellman, archbishop of New York, celebrated his first wartime mass in Korea this morning with 600 soldiers. The white-haired cardinal, dressed in Army winter clothing, was on a flying tour of front line units.

But for many a soldier, the day before Christmas meant "business as usual." With the mercury around the freezing level, U. N. forces repulsed a series of small Communist probing attacks early today.

The heaviest action of the 24-hour period ending at midnight Sunday was a stiff two-hour fight between an Allied tank infantry raiding party and Chinese Reds southwest of Churwon in West-Central Korea.

The Allied armored column rumbled about 2,000 yards into Red territory, looking for targets. The Reds opened with a hail of small arms fire. When they added mortar and artillery fire, the raiding party withdrew.

In the air, Allied pilots flew 269 sorties by noon today — mostly in blistering attacks on Red rail lines and supply facilities.

Jet fliers cut rail lines in nearly 40 places on the important rail link between Sinanju and Poyangyang, North Korean capital.

Other jets exploded 200 gasoline drums and knocked out three anti-aircraft positions near an undesignated F-80 Sabre base reamed up and down MIG Alley for half an hour this morning, but failed to see any of the Russian-made jets.

Add a variety of vegetables to a beef, veal, or lamb stew. Good choices are snap beans, turnips, peas, carrots along with potatoes.

Over 100 Slated To Participate In Singing Xmas Carols Tonight

More than 100 men from throughout Seminole County are expected to participate in the singing of Christmas carols tonight at 8:00 o'clock in a program broadcast over Station WTRR, and Floyd Palmer, program chairman, today predicted that a large proportion of radio listeners in this area will be tuned in on the program.

Naval personnel and many college men home for the holidays are expected to join the chorus which will be led by Dr. H. W. Rucker with Harry Kudell accompanying.

Many of the singers will be from local church choirs.

Lieut. Ira N. Bowman, personnel officer at the Naval Air Station stated that personnel still on duty there will co-operate fully and that many radio sets will be tuned in on the program.

A featured soloist on the program will be Evans McCoy who will sing "White Christmas" with Roger Harris accompanying.

The group will sing "Joy To The World," "O Little Town of Bethlehem," "Hark, The Herald Angels Sing," "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear" and "Silent Night."

Local ministers have stated their willingness to make the program a success, and the Rev. A. G. McInnis, Presbyterian minister, has offered the use of his church where microphone connections are available, should the group be too large to be accommodated at WTRR.

Supt. Charles Thompson at the Florida Methodist Home at Enterprise, announced that radio there will be tuned in on the program.

Anyone wishing to join the chorus at Station WTRR may do so by contacting Mr. Palmer or Maria Harmon at the Station.

This evidence of the manifestation of the Christmas spirit here is attracting wide attention, said Mr. Palmer, and he added that it is his hope that the plan will be such a success, that it will lead to groups of a thousand or more singing each Christmas Eve in the future.

Program Is Given By Vets-On-Farm

Members of the Veterans-On-Farm Training Class enjoyed a turkey supper and program at the High School Farm building Thursday night.

Stanley Bransley led in the singing of Christmas carols and sang "White Christmas."

Dr. W. P. Brooks, Jr. of the First Baptist Church, gave the Christmas message. He was introduced by R. E. Cooper.

George H. Danby, area supervisor of veterans training, presented certificates to veterans finishing the course.

Guests were extended to the veterans' homes by Supt. P. W. Lawton and H. E. Morris, high school principal. John Pearson presided. K. M. Eaddy, local supervisor of veterans training and advisor to the Future Farm Chapter was introduced, together with F. J. V. Cooper.

Mr. and Mrs. George Jacobs were mentioned on their recent absence event.

Or send the potatoes and cook and wash them separately; serve the skin over them.

There are several fruits you can chop with the cranberries: Oranges, apples, or lemons, leaving the peel on all of these. Or add canned crushed pineapple (drained) to the chopped cranberries and honey.

Quick company dessert: arrange orange sections and bananas in serving dishes; sprinkle with a mixture of lemon juice and wine; top with coconut and garnish with maraschino cherries.

Seminole Players Are Named In Final Poll Of Conference Coaches

By RENT CHETLAIN
Six Sanford Seminoles Coledy football players were honored in the final results of the first annual Herald Coaches' Poll to determine the All-East Florida Conference teams. Pile Driving fullback Ed Gordon was named as the only Celery Fed on the first team.

End Ken Gano, tackle Walter Routh and Mike Wheelchel gained places on the starting second team while guard Bob Graham and center Terry Cordell were given honorable mention.

St. Augustine's Ketterlinus high school started four starting berths on the first team with Palatka securing two and one each going to Sanford, Seabreeze of Daytona, New Smyrna, DeLand and Starke. Sanford shared high honors with Ketterlinus by having three players, each named to the second Herald All-Conference squad. Seabreeze and Starke two a place with Palatka craining one.

Douglas Miller, Palatka's galloping left-half, polled a first place vote from every one of the seven coaches who submitted votes in the Herald's poll. Miller received all 21 points out of a possible 21 to lead the entire poll.

By virtue of Miller's unanimous choice, he gained the distinction of being the year's most valuable player in the East Florida Conference for 1951.

Quarterback Eddie Mathews, Miller's teammate, garnered the second highest vote on the first team by polling 16. Sanford's tackle Routh shared with quarterback Benner of Seabreeze the highest vote for the second team nomination with 9 each.

In all 46 players representing all eight schools in the EC Conference were selected by the seven participating coaches. Only one coach failed to submit a ballot, that was the DeLand coach.

Wetherington Is Top Cage Scorer For U-F Quintet

GADESVILLE (Special)—The Florida Gator basketball team wound up their pre-Christmas play Wednesday evening with a 58 to 47 victory over Tennessee, giving Coach John Mauer's youngsters a 5-9 record for the young season.

Speaking of his youngsters after their upset win over the previously unbeaten Vols, Mauer said, "We have reached a high peak, substituting hustle and fight for experience and height. However, we still have a long way to go with some outstanding teams on our schedule but if we keep playing as we have played in these first five games we'll give all our opponents a tough battle. I'm tremendously pleased with their showing."

The Gators have taken a few days off for the Christmas holidays and will gather again in Jacksonville on December 20th for the Gator Bowl basketball tournament which sends them against Clemson, Georgia and Florida State University the following three nights.

Florida opened the season with a 76-52 win over Wofford, then clipped Stetson (63-55), Miami (69-65), and Florida Southern (70-61). The game with Tennessee was the Gators' only Southeastern Conference scrap to date.

Miami Gridders Start Afternoon Sessions For Gator Bowl Contest

CORAL GABLES (Special)—University of Miami football squad has launched a practice program starting at 2 P. M. daily for the remaining days before the club tackles the Gator Bowl in Jacksonville New Years afternoon.

Coach Andy Gustafson figured that since the game starts at 2, his squad had best get accustomed to playing at that time of the day, an hour which has not been too happy for the Hurricanes this fall.

Two of their three defeats were suffered in afternoon encounters.

After Monday's drill, just seven practice days remain before the New Years afternoon clash and two of the drills will be away from home. The squad will leave Sunday for the Ponte Vedra Beach headquarters, but will stop off in St. Augustine for a 4:30 P. M. workout at Ketterlinus field in St. Augustine.

The team should be considerably stronger in some positions than it was during the regular season, especially on the line. The extra time available to make preparations for the Gator Bowl game has given the coaches a chance to work with some of the new

Strong Bid To Be Made For Women Voters In 1952 Presidential Race

By SIGRID ARNE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

WASHINGTON—Women will be more than "helpers" in the 1952 presidential campaign. For one thing, more women than men can vote in this country now. In 1950 there were 49,419,000 men eligible to vote and only 47,499,000 men.

So both the Republican and Democratic National Committees have thumping programs to educate women voters. Both women's divisions report that more women are taking active parts in local politics. They report larger numbers of younger women are active. And Republican headquarters finds that they are collecting more women in business and the professions.

Both Republican and Democratic women leaders have been busy through 1951. For several years the Democratic women have worked on the slogan "Campaigns are won between elections." On that slogan they have kept party workers together fighting for local issues right through the four years that intervene between presidential anniversaries.

Now the Republican women are hard at work on a campaign they call "Work and Win."

Both women's divisions have emphasized educational programs to help the voters understand issues and their effect on their civil homes. The women have turned out such readable letters and pamphlets that now the major part of their outfit goes to both men and women county leaders for distribution to voters.

The Democratic women have turned out a "Guide Book." The Republican women are sending out a "Workers' Manual." Both detail how to get acquainted with voters in the precinct, how to explain the issues, what to do in the last month of the campaign and on election day.

The Republican manual is more detailed. For example, it shows the precinct worker just how to make out cards on every voter in the area, whether Republican, Democrat or "Fair Deal Democrat."

The card asks that the precinct captain find out whether the voter is registered, whether he needs transportation on election day, whether the family will need a baby sitter and whether members of the family will need absentee ballots mailed to them.

This coming year women precinct workers will be calling from door-to-door. Both parties are polishing up whirlwind campaigns for next October.

Women will man the motor pool on election day, do the baby sitting, man the telephones to check which of the registered voters have failed to show up at the polls.

Both parties have handsome, forceful women as the directors of their women's divisions.

India Edwards, a former Chicago newspaper woman, is the Democrat's firebrand. She has never let down since the 1918 elections. Just recently she flew back and forth to Washington, California, twice in one week just to make speeches.

Through 1951 she has had top ranking Democratic women on the road making speeches, including the wives of the secretaries of Agriculture and Interior—Mrs. Charles F. Hannan, and Mrs. Oscar Chapman—and two government office holders, Nathan Taylor Ross, director of the mint, and U. S. Georgia Nease Clark, the U. S. treasurer.

Christmas Customs Vary, But Spirit Is Much The Same

By CHARLES LYONS
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Although Christmas customs vary in many lands all have the same motivation of rejoicing at the birth of the Christ child.

In France the children put their shoes by the fireside when they go to bed Christmas Eve. The parents go to midnight church services and afterwards comes the grand feast, known as "le reveillon," in which guests are served with wine. Christmas is mostly for the children, a holy day and a day of feasting. The great adult feast is New Year's.

In Belgium and the Netherlands 24 Christmas Eves, Dec. 6, is celebrated with the significance of our Dec. 25. On that day in the Netherlands "Sint Nicolaas," the gift-bringer, is believed to call on one-time secretaries of Labor Frances Perkins and on two diplomats, Mrs. Marie Perle, minister to Luxembourg, and Mrs. Eugenie Anderson, ambassador to Denmark.

Mrs. Edwards right now is particularly happy over the numbers of women who have signed up as Democratic party workers, who were once workers in non-partisan organizations such as the League of Women Voters.

Republican women are led by Mrs. Clifford Mayes of Idaho. She came up the hard way. In the past, with 20 years of work behind her, starting with ringing door bells in the precincts. Her small headquarters crew in Washington is tied in with 5,000 local women's Republican clubs.

Her staff started "political school" two years ago to educate precinct voters on the issues and on how to approach voters. Those schools will be held all over the country this next year. Eight precinct workers just how to make out cards on every voter in the area, whether Republican, Democrat or "Fair Deal Democrat."

The card asks that the precinct captain find out whether the voter is registered, whether he needs transportation on election day, whether the family will need a baby sitter and whether members of the family will need absentee ballots mailed to them.

This coming year women precinct workers will be calling from door-to-door. Both parties are polishing up whirlwind campaigns for next October.

Women will man the motor pool on election day, do the baby sitting, man the telephones to check which of the registered voters have failed to show up at the polls.

Both parties have handsome, forceful women as the directors of their women's divisions.

India Edwards, a former Chicago newspaper woman, is the Democrat's firebrand. She has never let down since the 1918 elections. Just recently she flew back and forth to Washington, California, twice in one week just to make speeches.

Through 1951 she has had top ranking Democratic women on the road making speeches, including the wives of the secretaries of Agriculture and Interior—Mrs. Charles F. Hannan, and Mrs. Oscar Chapman—and two government office holders, Nathan Taylor Ross, director of the mint, and U. S. Georgia Nease Clark, the U. S. treasurer.

Kiddies Should Be Taught The Spirit Of Xmas Giving

By DAVID LAWSON
AP Newsfeatures Writer

It is a good idea to teach children the spirit of giving at Christmas. Parents should encourage their children to give to those in need. This can be done by having children make cards or small gifts for the poor. It is important to teach children that giving is a part of the Christmas spirit.

Dawson Finds Outlook Good In Business For Next Three Months

By DAVID LAWSON

Business outlook for the next three months is generally good, according to a report by the National Industrial Conference Board. The report indicates that industrial production is expected to remain steady, and that the economy is showing signs of recovery. However, there are still some concerns about inflation and interest rates.

World's Biggest Santa Claus Gets Stuck In Chimney

By RUSSEL RAYMOND VOORHEES
Central Press Correspondent

CANTON, O. — Santa Claus in neighboring Minerva, O., finds it quite impossible to squeeze into a chimney. In fact, he once got stuck in a bathtub.

But this Santa—his real name is Raymond Fry, 47, a Minerva furniture dealer—doesn't worry about his 465-pound bulk. He claims he is the world's biggest Santa Claus, and he's a jolly man when Christmas comes around.

For five years now, Fry has been playing St. Nick for children's parties and other gatherings. He scorns pillows in favor of his honest-to-goodness paunch, but on one occasion he regretted that.

It was in Chicago, says Fry, and he was playing Santa for a "bunch of tough kids."

"They punched and pulled at me," he says. "When I took my suit off, after that appearance, I was black and blue all over."

Not at all averse to talking about his weight, Fry says, "I don't need anything unusual in the way of furniture to support my weight, but I do have an extra long bath tub."

"I got stuck once this summer in the tub because I had put too much soap in and couldn't get enough traction to lift myself up."

So he emptied the tub, then refilled it with clear water.

For breakfast, this Santa enjoys six eggs, bacon, toast, coffee and jelly (it used to be a dozen eggs).

Then, in mid-morning, a cereal, followed by a big lunch, a big supper, and occasionally a snack before bedtime.

East German Xmas
Will Be Very Grim
For Red Army Men

By GEORGE BOULTWOOD
DUESSELDORF, Germany (AP)

What will it be like in the Soviet army in East Germany this Christmas?

Grim. Very grim. And dry. This information comes from Nikolai Ivanovich Shulov, lately a sergeant in Stalin's frontier guards along the Iron Curtain, and now a political refugee in West Germany. He got fed up with the Soviet army.

Here's how he pictures the holiday for his comrades in the East Zone.

Christmas itself will be ignored. It will be the usual dawn-to-dark grind of training and duty, with the last meal of the day at 9 p. m.

Even if the feeble attempts of the dominated East Germans look inviting to him, the Soviet soldier will have to stay away. Troops are not allowed out of the barracks alone. All they see beyond the barbed wire of the barracks is the streets they use to march to and from their duty areas. If an officer goes out, he must record in a log where he went and when he will be back, and why. Absence of two hours is a court martial offense for enlisted men and non-coms.

The Russian New Year celebration comes Jan. 13. It won't be hilarious. The men are confined to camp. The outstanding event will probably be a series of lectures by officers on Marxism, the Bolshevik version of history.

Liquor is absolutely forbidden. Even the beer the troops were

Samuel's Reward For Faith

By RUSSEL RAYMOND VOORHEES

THERE WERE LOTS of things that were different in Bethlehem. Everybody did not notice them, but Samuel, one of the stable men at the inn, did.

There was a serenity about the coolness of the evenings that he had never noticed before. The oranges seemed bigger than usual this year. And they were brighter. The lemons, too, were a more brilliant hue and glistened in the noon day sun.

The vines had mostly been pruned but this year's pruning had not seemed to destroy their beauty as in other years. Even the asses that Samuel tended seemed to be much more gentle than ever.

For all the many, many years that Samuel had been one of the stable men at the inn in Bethlehem he had never noticed so many little things that were different. It made him wonder and as he wondered he hoped. He had always hoped that it would happen in his lifetime, a hope that he sometimes felt was selfish.

"But I am not selfish," he would say to himself when these thoughts came to bother him. "It is not that I am selfish that I want it to happen in my lifetime, it is just that I believe."

The days and nights wore on in Bethlehem. It seemed as if everywhere that Samuel looked he saw new indications that things were different. Sometimes as he lay in his corner in the stable he was sure he could hear a soft voice saying to him:

"You shall see and be exceedingly glad."

But he was never sure whether he had heard a voice saying this to him or whether it had been just a dream. But regardless he kept his faith and kept hoping.

No More Rooms

It had been a hard day at the inn. Guests had seemed to come from everywhere so that there were no more rooms available. Samuel had been busy all day and into the evening caring for the asses and other animals of the guests who had arrived.

He hadn't minded it because his club foot had not hurt him at all that day. That was another thing that he had noticed of late. His foot had hurt him less than it used to hurt. He even wondered, sometimes, if he could walk without his cane. He even tried but found that this, too, was just a hope and a wish.

Tired but happy, Samuel, went to his little place in the stable for a well earned night of sleep. He had hardly lain down when the master of the inn was at his side awakening him.

"Arise, Samuel, arise," the master of the inn said to him. "There are more guests and we must care for them. The woman is with child."

Samuel quickly arose and began to prepare the stall for the late arriving guests, a man and his wife. Samuel first made them comfortable in the stall and then he took their ass and cared for it.

When this extra work was finished Samuel found a nook in the stable and tried to sleep. But he wasn't sleepy. He wasn't even tired, although a short time before he had been ready to sleep.

As he lay in his little nook trying to sleep with unwilling eyes he sensed something of which he knew not. For several days there had been lots of things that Samuel had noticed as different. And tonight there was something in the cool night air itself that was different.

"It has happened."

It was a soft voice that spoke to Samuel. Yes, he had fallen asleep. He plainly heard the voice as he awoke. He listened. People seemed to be moving about. There was excitement in the air.

"It has happened," the voice said again.

Samuel arose and took his cane. "It has happened."

Gifts to the Stable

Samuel looked out. He saw people hurrying to the other end of the stable. In their hands many carried boxes that looked like gifts of spices and other things. Not sure that his hope had been fulfilled but hoping that it had, Samuel hobbled out with his cane as a help.

He walked over to one of the orange trees in the yard of the inn and picked off some large, colorful oranges. They seemed larger than any he had ever seen on the trees. They shone brightly in the moonlight.

Slowly he hobbled over to the other end of the stable. There were people there, some coming and some going, all bringing gifts of one sort or another. Slowly Samuel started to enter.

"It has happened."

It was the same voice again.

"Samuel stooped and looked down. His club foot was no more."

Samuel hobbled in and saw in the stable the man and wife who had arrived late. But now there were three. A little babe lay in the stable with his mother, nestling close to her after the fashion of babes.

With bowed head Samuel humbly hobbled in and laid the gift at the feet of the little Jesus, for Jesus was the name of the little babe.

Others were coming in with their gifts, too, so Samuel turned and went out of the stable.

A Mother's Smile

"The mother looked at me and smiled," Samuel mused to himself as he turned his way to the end of the stable where he had found a corner in which to rest.

He walked up a few steps. "And the babe smiled at me, too," Samuel said half to himself. He went on a few steps more.

"My cane, my cane," he suddenly exclaimed half to himself. For the first time he had noticed that he had dropped it when he had looked down at the babe in his mother's arms and had walked out of the stable without it.

Samuel stooped and looked down. His club foot was no more. It was like his other foot. He took another step. He could walk. His foot didn't hurt. He could walk again without a cane. He could walk like other men.

In gratefulness he sank to his knees there in the yard of the inn before the stable to thank God for the miracle that he had worked. As tears of happiness ran in rivulets down his cheeks he heard the soft voice again.

"It has been done." Samuel listened with a prayer in his heart.

"It has been done. You believed."

Remove the toothpicks and the carrot curls are ready for garnish use.

Traditional Dominates Design Of 1951 Christmas Card Crop

By Central Press
CHRISTMAS CARD color schemes are richer, warmer, Christmas verses are friendlier, more informal—and the designs are featuring traditional scenes that tell a cheerful Yuletide story.

That's the general consensus of the National Association of Greeting Card Publishers, following a recent survey of the 1951 Christmas cards.

Moreover, those frosty holiday customs that may be traced back for many centuries, through many lands, are providing the most popular design motifs on the new Christmas greetings.

Decorating the Christmas tree, for example, is a favorite subject. Martin Luther is credited with having brought the first Christmas tree indoors some 400 odd years ago. Luther used candles, symbolizing the star-lit skies of Christmas Eve, to decorate his tree, thus founding a tradition that has grown steadily ever since.

Ringling familiar Christmas carols is another. The oldest known of these is "Adeste Fideles" or "Oh, Come All Ye Faithful." Actually a hymn, it was written by Bonaventura, bishop of Albany, born in 1221 in Tuscany, Italy. Wandering minstrels popularized the singing of Christmas carols in Morris England during the Middle Ages.

Legend, historical fact, and some curious superstitions have blended delightfully into stories of the origin of many other popular Christmas customs which have been illustrated by greeting card designers.

Mistletoe was the sacred plant of the ancient Druids, who peopled Britain and Gaul before the time of Christ. The symbol of purity and love it was cut from giant oaks with a golden sickle during elaborate religious ceremonies. Mistletoe, they believed, was a protection against witches when hung over the doorway.

SANTA CLAUS is known only in America. Early Dutch settlers brought the legend of Saint Nicholas with them, changing his name to Santa Nikolaus and then to Santa Klaus. Washington Irving in 1809 gave Santa his reindeer, drawn sleigh, and cartoonist Thomas Nast (who created the G. O. P. elephant and the Democratic donkey) added Santa's red, ermine-trimmed coat.

BELLS. An ancient legend says that when Christ was born, the devil died and all the bells on earth rang in celebration, just as they will ring again on Christmas morning.

These cards show the influence of some of the Christmas stories that have come down through the ages since the birth of Christ.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS began with the gold frankincense, and myrrh presented to the infant Jesus by the Three Wise Men, but in some countries today the custom of gift-giving is not observed on Dec. 25. Spanish children believing that the Three Wise Men return to Bethlehem each year on the Eve of Epiphany (January 6th), fill their shoes with straw for the Magi's horses and retire early. In the morning, the straw is gone and the shoes are covered with presents.

THE CHRISTMAS CRECHIE—a reproduction of the stable at Bethlehem, with the infant Jesus in his crib, surrounded by Mary and Joseph, the cattle, shepherds, and the Three Wise Men, is one of the most popular religious designs on the 1951 Christmas cards. The custom of recreating the Nativity scene was begun in 1223 in the little village of Greccio, Italy, by St. Francis.

POINSETTIA. Our most popular Yuletide flowering plant, it was named after Ambassador Joel Poinsett, who brought a poinsettia back with him from Mexico in 1829.

ANIMALS. In the German Alps, it is believed that on Christmas Eve all animals can speak. In Sweden, she is given to the cattle on Christmas Eve in honor of their presence at the manger in Bethlehem.

CANDLES are burned in church as a symbol of enlightenment. Also it is an old Irish custom to place a lighted candle in the window on Christmas Eve to guide the Christ Child on his long journey from heaven.

Christmas cards developed from the English school papers of 250 years ago. Written as expressions of good will at Christmas, they were actually lessons in penmanship for school children. The first Christmas card was designed in 1842 by William May Eglby, a 16-year-old engineer's apprentice.

Christmas cards did not become popular in England until the 1860's, and Louis Prang of Boston produced the first line of American Christmas cards in 1875. Today, Christmas cards have become the nation's most popular method of expressing Christmas cheer and good will to friends and loved ones. And their colorful designs help keep many of the old Christmas customs alive.

Claus Clan Has Phone Troubles Every Yuletide

LORAIN O'NEIL, The Claus clan of Lorain generally cringes when Christmas time rolls around. "Reason," little children call them by telephone and ask for "Santa," saying, "I want this" and "I want that."

Being good-hearted people, the three Claus brothers, Robert, William and Woodrow, all sons of Mrs. J. A. O'Neil and Lou Lyle, have had a home city fireman on sweet the telephone and say "all right" to the request.

"The call, however, has had so far that it is the only time Woodrow Claus explained that what until about a dozen days before Christmas the phone will be jumping off the leads."

"Last year I remember we got a call about a year ago from the same child," she said. "I guess he was a little older, but Santa got his order."

"The call, however, was a good one. Both my children were home sick and they were a kick out of answering the Santa Claus calls."

Town Sweetheart Is Paralyzed And Blind Little Girl

By RICHARD CONNOLLY
Of The Portsmouth Herald
PORTSMOUTH, N. H. (AP)—A cheerful youngster of seven who may be doomed to a life of complete blindness and paralysis has become Portsmouth's "Christmas sweetheart."

She is Carolyn Lee Pante, partially blind since birth and almost totally paralyzed from a recent attack of polio.

Carolyn lives in a Portsmouth nursing home so she can be near the rehabilitation center where she is carried each day for treatment.

Her father is dead and her mother, totally blind, lives in Rochester with Carolyn's brother, sister and grandmother.

She has been through a lot of suffering since last Christmas. In the past eight months she contracted polio, her eyesight grew worse, she had acute appendicitis, her tonsils had to be taken out and she got the measles.

She wears thick glasses and can read only big print. Her muscles are so weak that she can barely touch the tips of her fingers together.

A few days ago The Portsmouth Herald published a story describing the child's plight. The paper pointed out that Carolyn in view of her handicaps, should be given extra special attention by Santa Claus when he makes his visit Christmas Eve.

Carolyn was unable to write her own letter to Santa Claus so The Herald printed a list of gifts she said she'd like.

Even before Santa could read the list, Portsmouth residents deluged the youngster with a flood of gifts in a post-room housed of affection.

She's received such a large number of presents that she hardly any need for Santa to visit her this year.

That is, as the old proverb says, she can bring one gift to Carolyn, the courage to keep smiling through a life filled with continuous hardship.

TEEN TALK By VIVIAN BROWN

AP Newsfeatures
Are you a "brush-off" gift giver? Or do you give time and thought to what your friend would like in the Yule stocking? The way things go normally, bookworms wind up with pogo sticks and ice skates; guys and dolls who wouldn't be found at a fire-side with a hurricane raging get the reading matter and the knitting needles.

Take into consideration the hobbies and interests of your playmates if you want to make your Christmas gift count. Make a list quite a while in advance and you can spot bargains as you go along. If you wait until the last minute you'll pay more than your budget permits and settle for second-rate merchandise.

Here are some ideas you might use as memory refreshers when selecting a gift for Jack or Jill: Nature Lovers: "North With the Spring" by Edwin Way Teale (Doubleday). A naturalist's record of a 17,000-mile journey which will make any American boy or girl proud of his country. Historical sites, our wars of trees, birds and animals are not neglected. The author is an excellent photographer and he has chosen subjects in most delightful and interesting poses.

Mystery: "20 Great Tales of Murder" by experts of the Mystery Writers of America (Random House). A lively evening is promised to the recipient of this delightful collection of dum-dums by some of our best mystery writers.

Biography: "Peter Zenger" by Tom Gial (Thomas F. Crowell Co.) An exciting biography of Zenger, who fought for American freedom of the press early in the 18th century. The book will be particularly interesting to journalism students.

Western: "The Cowboy and His Horse" by Sydney E. Fletcher (Grosset and Dunlap). Lots of details to please the horse lover—such as saddles, harness, brands, branding, spurs and other equipment and a big list of rodeo roundups by states and dates, cowboy terms and a couple of songs with their tunes.

Career: "Our FBI" by John J. Floherly (J. P. Lippincott Co.). One can always count on Mr. Floherly to supply a good story for career-minded young men. His previous books include a roundup of fire, police, coast guard, aviation and radio careers (Random House); "The Bible Illustrated" (Pillsbury) illustrated with more than 100 Dore engravings. This master of religious art is issued in one great collection, a particularly appropriate gift for anyone's library at Christmas time. Students of the fine arts will appreciate this compact bound volume.

Party Book: "22 Sure-Fire Ways of Having Fun" by Fred Menaker and Franklin Polson (Sentinel) an ideal book for the partygiver. Full of jokes, games and amusing illustrations, there is everything complete for a teen-age hen-party or mixed-crowd shindig.

Strictly for Cooks... Edith Barber's "Party Sampler" and "Spice Sampler" (Sterling, N. Y.) which gives wonderful hints for everything from strictly informal tea parties and buffets to fancy dinner parties. Ideas for hors d'oeuvres and punch in the party book will be welcomed by teenagers.

Ft. Eustis Trains Army Men For Duty In Sea Transport

AP Newsfeatures
FORT EUSTIS, Va.—This Army post is turning GI's into gobs. "And they show an astounding aptitude for nautical duty," says Maj. Ulisses P. Hedrick, of Geneva, N. Y., commanding officer of the 449th Harbor Craft and Marine Maintenance Battalion. "In 90 days they like the water better than the land. They'll probably be sailors the rest of their lives."

Hedrick said a Minnesota farm boy drafted in March likes his new job so well he has filed an application with an oil company for a berth on a tanker after his Army discharge.

All Army Ships
The Army Transportation Corps, which is up to its neck in the rail and truck transportation business, is now devoting a sizeable area of this sprawling center to the training of soldiers for its water transportation system. It is the only unit of its kind in the United States.

Here on the James river, officer and enlisted personnel learn to operate the Army's freight and supply ships, tugs, landing craft, fireboats, barges, floating machine shops and T-boats, which haul personnel and package freight. Some men are trained to be divers, others to operate marine railways. Many are trained to be stevedores.

Soldiers who come to Fort Eustis for specialized training in land or water transportation have had their basic training elsewhere.

Sea Dogs Among Them
Many of Hedrick's trainees are former Navy men or Merchant Mariners. He says about 40 per cent have served in the Merchant Marine and 15 per cent in the Navy. Many have been stevedores, each serving a deckhand in six weeks. Training of deck personnel requires six months and includes instruction in subjects ranging from elementary piloting to celestial navigation. A man learns to be a small boat skipper in 90 days.

The Transportation Corps sends ships to New York, New Orleans, Philadelphia and the Great Lakes for the training of organized regiments in ship handling and in stevedoring.

The waterfront training area at Fort Eustis is designated "The Third Port." It boasts some 50 self-propelled vessels, which include such dance melodies as "Move for Sale" and "Just One of Those Things." Kern's "All the Things You Are" and an old favorite, "You're the Cream in My Coffee," are included are four choices. Latin-American specialties including the "Cuban Mambo" (Columbia).

Something for the Girls: Crocheted evening gloves (buy plain gloves and embroider with colored wool or gold or silver metallic thread); a colorful stole (make it of a strip of red, blue, green jersey trim it with tassels of black wool); a group of etchings or good prints (for her room); a collection of wine vinegars or spices (for the career girl); wool-jeans pantslettes (for the outdoor girl); crocheted slippers of metallic thread (for the indoor girl); shoes or tolieries (for the traveler); matched makeup eyelash curler, nailpolish (for the glamor girl).

The new trading game will find just as enthusiastic addicts among parents as among children, fitting the skills of both age groups. The board game used in the same shows which dramatizes the dizzy whirl of property values during inflation and depression as contrasted with normal times.

Globe trotting by airplane, boat, train and bus are illustrated with careful attention to relative costs and time of travel by different modes of transportation in a new game with a polarized map. School room playing, stock trading, oil prospecting, crime detection and many other "real life" situations inspire varied forms of new parlor competition.

The Wild West craze is reflected in a variety of board and target games utilizing cowboy and Indian heroes.

A new twist to horse racing games is offered by Pony Ponies which offers race horses powered by Mexican jumping beans strapped under each saddle.

"Rook," the classic card game, is featured in a deluxe party kit with four different colored packs and a gala set of scoring slits. Another old timer in new dress is Jackstraws, now featured with an electric angle. Players grope for straws through a perforated metal box top. Jack straws must be obtained without touching the metal; when fingers fumble, the electricity makes a loud buzz.

New version of chess and checkers are among the season's new offerings. Monopoly, the real estate trading game, continues to be a top favorite. Pin the tail on the donkey has a twist, off-shoot on the nose on Rudolph, the Red Nosed Reindeer is the objective.

A new thrill in hobbies is a tile kit designed to help junior and his sister make useful coasters and plaques for the family. There's a big increase in kits for making costumes jewelry from beads and shells. Junior dress-makers have their own sequin kits. New plastic materials make belt weaving easier for small fry. Eleetris woodburning kits include paints and instructions for

Advice Is Given On How To Entertain

By GENE BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Staff Editor
The time of entertaining young folks during the holidays? They remember a few hints that help when the party gets going.

1. Plan to have a small present for each child who will enjoy playing with at the party and then can take home. Inexpensive scrap books for reasoning are a good example of the kind of favor.

2. Keep party fare simple. Asking the children for lunch or supper is a good idea. For the main dish, you might serve chicken timbales made from ground chicken, cream sauce, soft bread crumbs, and a little minced parsley for seasoning; with buttered snap beans cut in 1 1/2-inch pieces for easy eating, and a small bread and butter sandwich. A few crisp carrot sticks will add pretty color to the plates. For dessert, serve ice cream in little paper cups with tiny sugar cookies.

Youngsters love place cards on the party table. One suggestion is to make Chocolate Candy Balls and wrap each in colored cellophane; then attach a name-card for each guest. Here's a recipe:

CHOCOLATE CANDY BALLS
Ingredients: 4 cups puffed rice, 1/2 cup chopped nuts, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 cup corn syrup, 1/2 cup water, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2 squares (2 ounces) unsweetened chocolate, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla, 1 tablespoon butter.
Method: Heat puffed rice in shallow pan in moderate (350F.) oven for 10 minutes. Put into large greased bowl. Add nuts and mix well. Combine sugar, syrup, water, and salt; bring to a boil. Add chocolate and continue cooking until a few drops in cold water form a soft ball (234 F.). Add vanilla and butter; stir. Pour syrup over puffed rice and mix quickly. Press into balls 2 1/2 inches in diameter. Let harden on wire rack. Makes 9 balls.

making varied types of smartly styled plaques. For collectors there is a wide variety of old-fashioned car models.

SANTA'S ADDED FASCINATING NEW TOYS TO HIS BIG BAG

By JEROME DREYER
Central Press Correspondent

IF JUNIOR, without prodding from Pop, washes the car and cleans the basement, and Sister straightens her room without being told by Mom, there's a good reason—Christmas is very near.

So, kids, to help you select what you'd like to find under the Christmas tree, here's the tremendous packful of wonderful surprises that Santa has lined up.

Of course, the lead item on Sister's list will be a doll. Well, Santa has them big and small, laughing and crying. But he also has something startlingly new, a doll that sings and prays—in Spanish or French!

And he has another beauty when a "personality" can be changed by tinting its hair red, blond or black with safe, easy-to-wash-off colors. Style also is highlighted, as evidenced by a group of dolls whose glamorous costumes are the work of well-known French dressmakers.

More utilitarian and aimed at developing aptitudes are the "how-to-make" kits, among which is a miniature baking outfit containing all the pots, pans and ingredients necessary to make a fluffy angel food cake. And when she finishes with her baking, there's another small but complete cleaning kit that will leave her utensils sparkling clean.

Another New One

A toy that will give her a chance for purposeful accomplishment is a miniature telephone switchboard, complete with plugs and buzzer.

Also on the realistic side are a kit for boys and girls that shows the peaceful application of atomic energy and includes a real Geiger counter, and a game that spotlights inflation and demonstrates economic cycle problems for both the school age set and their elders. Games with city planning and farm management as themes are in the same category.

The cowboy continues to hold the top spot as juvenile hero with several million girls and boys who are "hankerin' for a taste of the Wild West." Now those children who have two-wheelers, by adding a rifle, holster and saddle bags, have a reasonable facsimile of "Old Paint."

Mentioning bicycles and cowboy outfits, parents have been taken into consideration in the economic picture. A bicycle being offered for the first time has an expandable frame which adds more inches than previously and thus allows the child to use the bike for more years than was formerly possible.

The new cowboy outfit can truly be described as "convertible." In the past, when a game of "Cowboys and Indians" was in progress, two separate outfits were required. No more, though. The new garb is a cowboy suit on one side and Indian on the reverse side.

A switchboard (top) complete with plugs and buzzer, will delight the aspiring young PBX operator, while the musically inclined might like a set of miniature bagpipes (lower left). Something new in dolls (lower right) is one whose hair can be tinted various colors at will.

One small item that will bring gladness to the hearts of many parents is a newly developed crayon with which the Junior Rembrandt can express his artistic talents on home walls without parental gnawing of teeth. When he is finished with his masterpiece, a wipe of the cloth leaves the wall clean.

Space does not allow full descriptions of the new products of the Toy Manufacturers association. But among them are a waterproof picture book for bathtub fun, a new style song book that has a music box in its binding, a small kit combining a truck and mechanics outfit that teaches the rudiments of auto repairing, and a new road building toy that realistically levels and dumps.

Musically, there's a variety which includes miniature bagpipe reportedly easy to learn, an eight-key organ worked by pedals, a small but playable zither and a child-size clarinet.

Juvenile enthusiasm for circus scenes has inspired a number of puppets, marionettes and a kit to provide youngsters with all the make-up and accessories required to achieve a good clown disguise.

So far as Junior is concerned, only one sad note might mar an otherwise wonderful Christmas: Electric train manufacturers have cut down on some items so as to insure national distribution of the rolling stock they are able to produce with what steel is available.

Plenty Of Space Is Reported Left In U.S. Cemeteries

By SAMUEL H. HARRIS
AP Newswriter, Wichita

The year 1951 had its bright moments.

The American Cemetery Association announced there is enough cemetery space in the United States to last 200 years. A survey at Hammond, Ind., showed 194,322 people in cemeteries; average ground, population 87,501.

A medical survey of the United States concluded that married people have fewer headaches than single people. That did not console.

A San Diego woman, who sued for divorce because her husband set fire to the papers she was reading.

James Gibson of Fort Wayne, Ind., whose driving soaked his wife, suddenly threw the car keys out the window. Gibson jammed on the brakes and three cars were smashed up. He was charged with reckless driving.

The second driver was charged with driving without a license, a third driver with improper registration.

As always, humankind in 1951 displayed its shining talents for being helpful, kind, courteous and romantic.

In Quincy, Mass., 10 runners in a 10-mile race jogged up to an intersection where two small boys kindly told them to go right, not left. The runners wound up on a dead-end street and the race was cancelled.

E. Good of Bedford, England, voted for his opponent and lost the election as alderman by one vote.

In San Pedro, Calif., a plumber connected the gas pipe to the water outlet and the water pipe to the gas outlet.

"The State Senator from Maine" who addressed the Ohio legislature turned out to be an escaped patient from a mental hospital. An investigation of 1951 disclosed that a single Veterans Administration contract with a GI training school had to be signed or initialed 1,500 times by the same person.

Of course, some people were moved to drastic action by the little irritating things of life.

A cop in South Bend, Ind., arrested a woman for driving with out lights or a license and saw off the end of his right thumb.

In Indianapolis, a woman named "So hot after shopping," she tripped, tumbled into a public toilet, got 10 days in the cooler. A Franklin, Ind., man arrested a woman for driving with out lights and a license, she said she was so hot after shopping that the treatment might have a bit of hot sex bit and broke the dentist's finger.

A woman in Wichita, Kan., sued a clothing company for $100,000. She charged it had not received a male friend to heat her.

A Pearl River, N. Y., hunter shot at a crow and blew up a small building of a town clerk, but the crow escaped.

In Wellington, Kan., a father charged a child with a rubber bridge over a creek, started the automatic signal system, which did up 17 trains for two hours.

A woman arrested in Oakland, Calif., for impersonating a W. V. officer, wore colonel's eagle on her shoulder and a general's star on the other.

Two men broke into the Shaw-Corson, Ill., city jail and robbed a prisoner of $100.

A man applying for citizenship in El Paso changed his name from Ng Wah Yee to Oum Yee Ng.

Easy Street, manager of the New York Yankees, played in three World Series for the Giants and batted .398 during those post-season games.

Charlie Trapp of the Chicago Cardinals is baseball coach at the U. of Georgia during the off-season.

Sophomore Rick Casares led the Florida Gators grid squad in yard gained running and punting.

Christmas Trees Should Be Made Symbol Of Safety

Your Christmas tree is a symbol of the Christmas spirit of sharing. Make it a symbol of safety, too, urges Mrs. Bonnie J. Carter, home improvement specialist with the State Home Demonstration Office.

Here are her safety suggestions:

Select a tree only as large as you need. The larger your tree, the greater the fire hazard.

Wait to buy your tree until just before you put it up. A dry tree burns with almost explosive violence.

Place it in a stand filled with water, making a slanted cut across the base of the trunk just before you place it in the water-filled stand to help it absorb the water. This method is as good a fire-resistant measure as you can have. Be sure to keep the water level above the top of the cut.

Place your tree away from sources of heat, such as heaters, television sets, fireplaces. Put it where it will not block an entrance or exit even if it should fall.

Use nonflammable decorations. Decorations made of metal or glass are nonflammable. Never use cotton, paper, and other flammable decorations either on the tree or around the base of it. Do not use light sets that have frayed cords, faulty, ill-fitting sockets, or loose connections. Do not use candles on the tree.

When no one is going to be in the room for any length of time, turn off your Christmas tree lights.

When you trim or dismantle the tree, use a step stool or ladder to reach the upper branches. If children are going to help you trim the tree, let them decorate the lower branches. Do not smoke while trimming the tree or taking it down.

California's Wildlife Conservation Board will receive $1,000,000 annually for the next three fiscal years from State Horse Racing revenue as provided in the terms of a new legislative act.

In 1951 the New York Giants led the National League in total earned run average with a mark of 3.48.

The Community Bowling League in Wyoming, Ill., has a couple of bowlers who can take opposite sides of any question. They are Howard Vesa and Clarence Non.

De Bary Doings
By KAY HENNINGER

Christmas in De Bary
Once again the season of Peace on Earth is here and once again the world is torn apart by wars, great and small, if a war can ever be said to be small. Many of us have relatives and all of us have friends who at this very time are in far distant places serving the United States on land or sea or in the air. A number of these are our neighbors and our thoughts and best wishes go out to them wherever they may be at this time.

Our community celebrations started with a Christmas outdoor performance sponsored by the De Bary Civic Association, Inc. on Friday, Dec. 14. A series of tableaux called "Through the Year" was arranged and coached by Dorothy Henninger and approximately 50 men, women and children took an active part in the production. More than 200 attended the performance and over $100 were added to the building fund for the proposed community house. A big surprise was the appearance just before curtain time of Santa Claus with boxes of candy for the children and we certainly thank our friends in Sanford for telling him about our gathering so that he knew where to find us.

On Monday, Dec. 17, Mr. and Mrs. William Boyer, their children, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Miller and grand children, Callie and Stanley (Butch to us), cooked and served a pre-Christmas baked ham dinner in their home on Highway 17. Sixty people attended and were well fed the proceeds going to the Parsonage Fund of the Barnett Memorial Church of Enterprise. A splendid Christmas present from this family to their church, say we.

The De Bary Kindergarten children started their doings at the Friday performance where they distributed one number, and were the "hit" of the show. On Tuesday they gave a party for the Nursery Department of the Methodist Children's Home in Enterprise at which they distributed gifts which they had made for the children. There were wooden toys for the boys and strings of wooden beads for the little girls. They had also made some very nice muslin screen books with pretty colored pictures pasted in them. On Dec. 20, we were invited to the Christmas party for their mothers and again they distributed gifts they had made for their parents. We were greatly impressed by the fact that up to this time they had done all the giving. When they were told that there were some presents for them, their faces became radiant with joy and surprise.

Oh yes, they are learning much more than just kindergarten work. Before eating their lunch, they said a little prayer, and one told said to her teacher, "I said an extra thanks for Christmas." Do you get as much fun out of children as we do? If you do, you will bear with us while we tell you one more anecdote about these young hopefuls.

They acted out a play about the Nativity and the littlest girl was the baby Jesus. During the performance, she sat in a bassinet sucking her thumb, with one leg draped in the most abandoned fashion over the side of the basket. The gifts proffered by the shepherds and the three kings were given with as much gravity as they would have been, had her position been more dignified.

As usual, when we write about the youngsters, we go on and on. However, the adults are just as busy with their own Christmas plans. Of the private parties, we shall say nothing more than that there are many planned for both home and public restaurants. Friends will get together at different times all Christmas Day from breakfast right on, to exchange gifts and wish each other Merry Christmas. The various clubs have had or will have parties. On Wednesday evening the Glee Club, which has had a most successful season, had a big party at the Mansion.

Not least among the preparations for the big day are the decorations. Business people and home owners are doing their best to make De Bary glow with its red, green, blue and white lights, its stars and candles and Santa Claus and best of all, its abundance of handsome red and white poinsettias which the good weather men has not frozen this year. On Christmas Eve a committee will attempt to select the most attractive homes and small prizes will be given by the Civic Association. We are also to be visited by a committee from Volusia county and share in the awards they give if we are good enough.

We are grateful for the Christmas Spirit and to all of you we say a very Merry Christmas.

Canned asparagus when served hot take to a topping of fine dry bread crumbs that have been mixed with melted butter or margarine.

Sliced corned beef, thinly shredded green cabbage, and Russian dressing make a flavorful filling for a rye bread sandwich to pack into a lunchbox.

Xmas Season Is Time To Enjoy Your Children

By DAVID TAYLOR MARKE
AP Newsfeature Writer

With the approach of Christmas your children will be home from school and, together, you will try to find something that truly belongs to this festive time.

"A happy holiday is only limited by the amount of ingenuity and imagination of the whole family," says Mrs. Rowena Shoemaker, Assistant Director, Play Schools Association. "You will have the fun of making gift lists with the children. You will want to provide a variety of social experiences which will stimulate self-expression, self-direction and responsibility of each child in your family circle. Why not make this a time for re-evaluating the activities within the home?"

For example, points out Mrs. Shoemaker, "Have your children being exposed to the joys of music?"

Why not get out records which the children may have forgotten and spend an afternoon with the records? There's a favorite Christmas poem "The Night Before Christmas" as told by Milton Cross. On the other side there is a delightful "Jingle Bells" fantasy. Another favorite with young children is the "Magic Record"—play it once, ten play it again and get an entirely different version of the song you just heard. There is a secret here, of course; the secret depends on where you place the needle.

Pop Likes To Play With Electric Trains

AP Newsfeature

It's a safe bet that Pop is going to be the first one playing with that new electric train on Christmas morning.

There's something about a train, say toy salesmen, that has an irresistible appeal for practically all males, especially grown-up ones. That's why so many fathers rush out to buy an elaborate electric train for Junior along with his first rattles.

This year's trains hold more thrills than ever for railroad fans young and old, say salesmen of one of the big electric train companies.

The toy trains are copied from blueprints of real ones, and will do just about everything a full-scale train will do. Latest models puff real smoke, have locomotive whistles and diesel sirens, couple and uncouple automatically.

Among new gadgets to add to the system is an automatic gate-man, to warn motorists of approaching trains, a new transformer that operates up to four train sets simultaneously on different tracks, derricks, milk cars and even a new station that announces trains.

So it looks like a merry Christmas for all living room engineers, young and old.

To greet our friends, old and new we wish luck and happiness to last them all year through!

Negro Killed In Bomb Blast At Mims Home

Wife Of State Secretary Of National Negro Group Hurt, Brought To Sanford

MIMS — A bomb explosion Tuesday night killed a Negro prominent in national affairs of his race. He was Harry T. Moore, 46, state secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Color People.

His wife, Harriet, who teaches school at Lake Park near West Palm Beach, was hurt.

The bomb exploded beneath the bedroom of their small, frame house about a mile from here on State Highway 40. It was reported since last June and aroused citizens 40 miles south of Daytona Beach. The home is virtually hidden from the road by an orange grove.

Moore's mother, who teaches school in Jacksonville, and his daughter, Annie, who teaches in Ocala, were also in the house but they were not hurt.

A series of attacks which have had Jews, Catholics and Negroes as targets in Florida this winter. Most incidents have occurred in the Greater Miami area. Ten dynamite attempts have been reported since last June and aroused citizens have offered rewards totaling $9,000 for the arrest and conviction of the persons responsible.

A police guard armed with a machine gun broke up an apparent attempt to bomb the Hialeah Miami Springs Jewish Center Christmas morning.

Two days earlier, a home made dynamite bomb was found on the steps of St. Peter and Paul Catholic Church.

Previous dynamite blasts broke windows in a Jewish synagogue and caused damage estimated at $22,000 to Carver Village, a Negro housing project. In other instances dynamite was found in Jewish homes.

Reds Account For 726 More U. S. Prisoners

Communists Admit 571 Of These Have Died, 152 Have Escaped, And 3 Were Released

MUNSAN, Korea — The Communists today accounted for 726 more Allied prisoners, but said 571 of them had died. The others escaped or were released, they said.

Almost all were Americans. None of the 726 was named in a prisoner list submitted by the Reds last week.

The Communists said 152 of the previously unaccounted for troops escaped and three were released.

Not one of the 152 returned to America to date, a U. N. command spokesman reported.

An official communique called the Communist statement "a shocking disclosure."

It was the first Red reply to a U. N. demand for an accounting of 1,043 missing non-Korean troops who have been listed by various Communist sources as prisoners.

The Communists said they are still checking to see what happened to the 332 others.

Incidentally they blamed Allied warplanes and artillery for many of the 31 deaths they died. The Reds said, at air attack, artillery fire and disease.

The Reds made their report in a note it was delivered during an attempt to break up a Red camp at Panmunjom Wednesday during the closing hours of a 30-day Korean truce trial period.

At the same session the Communists delivered the first bundle of mail from Allied prisoners in North Korea to their families. The number of letters was not reported. But the packages are being brought to hold several hundred letters.

A U. N. command communique said the Reds reported on the fate of 66 of 110 U. N. prisoners reported to the International Red Cross last summer but had listed last Wednesday in a trade of prisoners' rosters with the Allies.

All but one "have escaped," the Communist director, descended in a report reported. "The 66th soldier is listed by them as dead."

The communique reported no progress was made by the U. N. in its quest for the 110 prisoners.

U. S. Government Is Expected To Turn Down Offers Of Citizens To Pay Fines

WASHINGTON — The U. S. Government has informed Hungary that it will pay the $120,000 in fines imposed on four U. S. citizens provided they are released promptly. At the time of the announcement, the Department was without any information as to whether or when the citizens would be released.

Boy Injured In Holiday Flurry Of Auto Mishaps

Fourteen year old Verner Nelson of Lake Mary received two broken legs, and nine cars damaged in a series of local accidents over the holiday.

Young Nelson was hit shortly after 8:00 o'clock last night on the Lake Mary Road, while pushing his motor bike, by a 1948 Plymouth sedan driven by Ellis M. Chester of Lake Mary. Sheriff P. A. Mero and deputies who went to the scene of the accident reported that the motor bike was without tail or head lights and that no charges were filed. The boy was taken by ambulance to Sanford hospital and from there to Orange Memorial in Orlando.

Progress Noted In World Crisis By Secretary Lie

OSLO, Norway — U. N. Secretary General Trygve Lie said today that there has been a "slight improvement" in East-West relations and no worsening of the general world situation since the General Assembly opened in Paris Nov. 5.

In a Christmas-time broadcast to Scandinavians over the Danish, Norwegian and Swedish radio systems, Lie said the line of speeches in the U. N. this year had been more moderate than usual.

Lie's text dealt in general terms. It did not mention Russia's charges in Paris that the United States is supporting saboteur-spies against the Soviet bloc or American delegation characterization of the charges as Russian "spy man" and of Foreign Minister Vishinsky as "an old gnat."

Lie, a Norwegian, is here for Christmas vacation. The Assembly resumes in Paris after the holidays.

"This year," Lie said, "discussion has been less propagandistic and more sober and objective. The Soviet bloc has defended, and very often the differences in question have been sharp and disparate. But in spite of this I do feel that there has not been any further deterioration or sharpening of the world crisis during the present General Assembly."

Investigation Is Begun Into Worst U. S. Mine Disaster

WEST FRANKFORT, Ill. — An investigation of the worst U. S. mine disaster in 23 years began today deep in the wrecked workings of Orient Mine No. 2.

The federal investigators headed by John L. Lewis, United Mine Workers' president, Jack Forbes, head of the U. S. Bureau of Mines, and Walter L. Gode, Illinois Mine Department director, descended in the mine at 9:20 a. m. (EST).

Lewis would not confirm or deny speculation the nation's tinest mine stage a work stoppage as a memorial to the 119 miners who died in the explosion Friday night.

Today's investigation was conducted jointly by union, federal and company officials. The investigators planned to remain underground for possibly eight hours, walking through the debris strewn workings which extend for miles some 500 to 600 feet below the surface.

Rioting Breaks Out In Egypt As King Turns West

By FRED ZUNY

CAIRO — A clear indication that King Farouk has turned his back on the West is being given by rioting and anti-Western demonstrations today. The King appears to be worried about burgeoning Communist activity and to want alignment with the West in the cold war with Soviet Russia.

In Alexandria police used tear gas to break up a student demonstration against the appointment by the King of Dr. Fawzi Abu Pascha, from pro-Western, as chief of the Royal Cabinet and advisor to Farouk on foreign and domestic affairs. Seven police were reported injured here by missiles thrown by the demonstrators.

In Cairo police dispersed a chanting crowd of Faculty University students and were ordered on a state of alert against further outbreaks.

The police reported a state of emergency was in effect in the city.

The leftist and Communist inspired section of the press stepped up its clamor for firmer government action against the British, using the term "traitor" to describe any Egyptian advocating a settlement with the British.

This section of the press has openly advocated Egypt's alignment with the Communist bloc of nations, a step the new chief of the Royal Cabinet would oppose.

The appointment by Farouk of Afifi and another pro-Westerner to places in the Royal Cabinet is interpreted to mean the King wants a settlement with the West based upon recognition of Egypt's national demands. The Egyptians seek (Continued On Page Six)

Tallulah's Maid Says She Feared Getting Whipped

NEW YORK — Tallulah Bankhead's former maid secretary testified at her check book trial today that she was afraid of beatings by the actress.

The defense has claimed that the ex-maid, Mrs. Evelyn Cronin, shunned Miss Bankhead for money for fear of arousing her ire and therefore hid the checks to pay "incidental expenses."

The trial of Mrs. Cronin, accused of forgery and grand larceny, resumed after Christmas recess.

Prosecution objections cut short the testimony about alleged beatings which came as Mrs. Cronin was concluding her testimony.

She repeated her testimony that she had bought one more item from her own salary for Miss Bankhead and had turned the check to her mistress.

There was a possibility that Mrs. Bankhead may be recalled to the stand to answer the accusations.

Assistant District Attorney Jerome Kadler said he had not made up his mind about it as yet.

One question put by Defense Attorney Fred G. Moffit was whether Mrs. Cronin was afraid of being beaten by Miss Bankhead.

"I certainly was," she said.

Previously the 27-year-old Mrs. Cronin had testified that she was beaten once when she sought to discuss financial affairs with the actress and 40 thereafter never discussed them again.

Mrs. Cronin denied she had anything for herself out of the proceeds of the raised checks. The state alleges she stole about $1000 by using the sums of checks Mrs. Bankhead wrote and turned over to her.
